1976 headlines: municipal building, Rt. 78

Two long-standing concerns in Mountainside—plans for a new municipal building and controversy over the alignment of Rt. 78 through, around, or under the Watchung Reservation—continued to lead the news in 1976. The former question was eventually settled when an agreement between the Borough Council and Board of Education paved the way for conversion of the old Echobrook School into a new Borough Hall; the latter remains a subject of speculation. Following are highlights of those stories and other items which made news in the borough during the past year:

school. Dean and two other youngsters visited the facility to give the high schoolers a chance to observe the tots' play activities and the manner in which they related to each other.

Pre-schoolers visit Dayton as 'aides' in home ec course

The home economics room at Jonathan Dayton Regional High School was transformed into a nursery school recently when the personal and family living class, led by Eleanor Billig, observed the activities of preschoolers as part of the course's preparing-for-parenthood section. "Some of the students may have babysat," stated Mrs. Billig, "but that doesn't mean they understand children. In this portion of the course, we teach our students that children are not little adults or mini-big people." Three preschoolers, Dean Spriano, Twan Davis and Anthony Tortorello, were observed by students over a two-day period as the youngsters engaged in various play activities. The Dayton students also paid close attention to the manner in which the children related to each other and to the older people in the classroom. Before the children came to the class, Mrs.

Billig explained to her students that the preschoolers' activities might not make sense now, but that when the students have their own children, similar traits will most likely appear in their youngsters. Personal and family living student Diana Kluever termed the program "great" and stated that the course was "very educational." Mrs. Billig added that the entire course prepares students to be better homemakers and parents. "In order to be a good parent, there's a lot you have to know," she said. "Exposure to children in this type of situation will help our students become better parents." In addition to this activity with preschoolers, the two-semester course includes a number of consumer-related topics. The course is project-oriented, as students conduct research and gain firsthand experience in the decision-making process that they will become more fully involved with as adults.

District lists plan for announcement of school closings

The Union County Regional High School District this week announced its plans for the closing of school because of inclement weather. The procedure will affect students attending Jonathan Dayton, David Brearley, Arthur L. Johnson and Gov. Livingston Regional High Schools. The decision to close school will be made no later than 5:30 a.m. Radio stations WOR, WABC, WNEW, WNBC and WVNJ will announce school closings after 6 a.m. Students and parents were reminded that the closing of one of the district's schools does not automatically mean that all four schools will be closed. Moreover, the closing of a community's elementary or parochial schools does not automatically mean that the Regional high school will be closed. Students and parents were urged to listen to the school closing report until their schools are announced. School closings are ordered only if conditions dictate a predicted hazardous journey to school. On all other days, students should be prepared to attend school, a spokesman added.

From N.J. Taxpayers Association

New Jersey's per capita personal income rose $480 in calendar 1975 to $6,722. This enabled the state to maintain its rank of fifth among the 50 states for the second consecutive year, according to information released by the U.S. Department of Commerce. Revised data for 1974 shifted the state's per capita personal income rank to fifth rather than fourth as reported a year earlier. This state's per capita personal income was nearly 14 percent above the national average of $5,902 in 1975.

Ranked ahead of New Jersey in 1975 and placing first and second for the third consecutive year, were Alaska ($9,448) and Connecticut ($6,973), while Illinois ($6,789) and Delaware ($6,748) placed third and fourth, trading places from 1974. In addition, Alaska ranked first among the states in percentage increase in per capita personal income with 34.3 percent. The Garden State's increase of 7.7 percent was slightly above the national average of 7.6 percent and ranked it 25th among the states in growth percentage.

Review of the ten states with highest per capita income in each year from 1966 to 1975 by the New Jersey Taxpayers Association shows that New Jersey has ranked below fifth only once in the past decade—in 1973 when it dropped to seventh after ranking second in 1971 and 1972. Recessionary effects of declining manufacturing and construction payrolls contributed to the drop. In contrast, Alaska in 1973 broke Connecticut's 10-year hold on the

Report from Washington

By Rep. Matthew J. Rinaldo

How will the incoming 95th Congress affect our lives? What kind of legislation is likely, and what bills or programs can be expected to fall by the wayside?

Indications as the new Congress prepares to convene on Jan. 4—and as the transition to a Democratic Administration moves into its final stages—are that there will be an early and strong accent on moves to spur the economy and reduce unemployment.

Tax rebates, as part of a program to stimulate the economy, are an immediate prospect, but Congress can be expected to shy away from major tax reform.

Action to combat air and water pollution and to strengthen consumer protection can be expected. On the other hand, persisting conflicts are expected to hinder proposals for much vaunted "sunset" legislation under which federal programs would have to justify their continued existence. And the high cost of a comprehensive national health insurance program is likely to keep such a far-reaching policy on ice.

A new national housing policy stands a good chance of receiving favorable attention in Congress. So, too, does a reform of the welfare structure with an accent on preventing abuses and cracking down on misuse of the food stamp program.

In contrast, proposals for tighter control of congressional lobbying and for major changes in the nation's criminal code appear in danger of becoming bogged down in prolonged

New Jersey's per capita personal income rose $480 in calendar 1975 to $6,722. This enabled the state to maintain its rank of fifth among the 50 states for the second consecutive year, according to information released by the U.S. Department of Commerce. Revised data for 1974 shifted the state's per capita personal income rank to fifth rather than fourth as reported a year earlier. This state's per capita personal income was nearly 14 percent above the national average of $5,902 in 1975.

Ranked ahead of New Jersey in 1975 and placing first and second for the third consecutive year, were Alaska ($9,448) and Connecticut ($6,973), while Illinois ($6,789) and Delaware ($6,748) placed third and fourth, trading places from 1974. In addition, Alaska ranked first among the states in percentage increase in per capita personal income with 34.3 percent. The Garden State's increase of 7.7 percent was slightly above the national average of 7.6 percent and ranked it 25th among the states in growth percentage.

Review of the ten states with highest per capita income in each year from 1966 to 1975 by the New Jersey Taxpayers Association shows that New Jersey has ranked below fifth only once in the past decade—in 1973 when it dropped to seventh after ranking second in 1971 and 1972. Recessionary effects of declining manufacturing and construction payrolls contributed to the drop. In contrast, Alaska in 1973 broke Connecticut's 10-year hold on the

Report from Washington

By Rep. Matthew J. Rinaldo

How will the incoming 95th Congress affect our lives? What kind of legislation is likely, and what bills or programs can be expected to fall by the wayside?

Indications as the new Congress prepares to convene on Jan. 4—and as the transition to a Democratic Administration moves into its final stages—are that there will be an early and strong accent on moves to spur the economy and reduce unemployment.

Tax rebates, as part of a program to stimulate the economy, are an immediate prospect, but Congress can be expected to shy away from major tax reform.

Action to combat air and water pollution and to strengthen consumer protection can be expected. On the other hand, persisting conflicts are expected to hinder proposals for much vaunted "sunset" legislation under which federal programs would have to justify their continued existence. And the high cost of a comprehensive national health insurance program is likely to keep such a far-reaching policy on ice.

A new national housing policy stands a good chance of receiving favorable attention in Congress. So, too, does a reform of the welfare structure with an accent on preventing abuses and cracking down on misuse of the food stamp program.

In contrast, proposals for tighter control of congressional lobbying and for major changes in the nation's criminal code appear in danger of becoming bogged down in prolonged

Dayton wrestlers face Bayley-Ellard School

By MICHAEL PETRO
The Jonathan Dayton Regional High School wrestling team will face Bayley-Ellard High School this Tuesday at 8 p.m. in Morristown. The Tuesday match will be the team's first dual competition of the season. The first two matches were the Gov. Livingston and county tournaments. The Dayton Bulldogs were very impressive in the Gov. Livingston tournament, scoring more points than they had ever gotten in the team's history. Two of the main reasons for the team's fine performance were Dan Solozzi and Ken Bell. Solozzi, a junior, captured first place in the 148-pound weight class, defeating a number of highly ranked wrestlers along the way. The muscular second year performer has risen to the top of his weight class and was expected to be one of the top hopes for Dayton in the county tournament this week. Bell, only a sophomore, is in his first year of varsity wrestling. His second place finish in the 170-pound class came against wrestlers with one and two more years of experience. Dean Pashian at 101 pounds, Pat Picciatto at 108 pounds, David Gochlik at 129 pounds and Alan Layton at 135 pounds are all expected to be a major force in Dayton's campaign this year. Layton, a senior and a runner up in District 14 last year, is one of the most skillful wrestlers on the team and will be counted on to provide the most consistent attack on the team. Head Coach Richard Iacono said the team is young but can be expected to do very well this year, especially in dual meets. He added that as the year goes on and experience is gained, the team will become more formidable in the Suburban Conference.

Unbeaten Junior Minutemen coast to sixth in row, 52-36

By CRAIG CLICKENGER
The undefeated Junior Minutemen finished the year last Wednesday with a convincing basketball victory over a team of Westfield seventh graders for their sixth victory in a row. Robert Steir led the Juniors to the 52-36 triumph with strong rebounding and accurate shooting. Steir dominated the backboards by pulling down 13 rebounds and he led both teams in scoring with 14 points. Danny Circelli and Larry Maier controlled the floor game for the Minutemen. Larry led his team with four assists while Danny led with four steals. Both boys finished the game with six points. Peter

Ard (five rebounds) and John Sivolella (four) were strong off both backboards. The other Minutemen exhibited the strength of the Junior bench. Strong floor games and good shooting were turned in by Kenny Palazzi, Ronnie Fusco and Thomas Ard. Ard and Fusco each had six points while Palazzi added four. Ard also had five rebounds. Kyle Hudgins, a sixth grader, was impressive with six points, five rebounds and three assists, second only to Maier. Kyle should prove to be a very promising player for next year's Junior team.

STP-5 and Wings triumph in DIPPER basketball action

The STP-5 and Lead Bullets hooked up in a terrific shooting contest with each team making four consecutive field goals before missing a shot in the feature game of the Daily Intramural Program Physical Education Recreation (DIPPER) basketball games in the Dayton boys' gym last week. The STP-5 (3-1) edged the Bullets (3-1) by a 37-32 margin with each team making over 70 percent of its shots from the floor and no bonus fouls being shot until the final minutes of play. Superb shooting, ball control and defense by Tony Falzone (11 points), Ron Nash (10), Rollie Marioni (8), Bob Kozub (4) and Lou Spirito (4), enabled the STP-5 to hand the Bullets their first defeat of the season. Bullets scorers included Jim Stadler (10), Carmine Apicciella (6), and four points each by Andy Herkalo, Jay Liss, Dan Pepe, and Peter Episcopo. The Black Wings (2-2) posted a 45-33 victory over the Red Tigers (0-4) hoopers with top point getters for the Wings: Rich Minster (10), Joe Montesanto (10), Gino Circello (9), Mike Lemmerman (8), Tom Brennan (4), and Harvey Kaish (4), while the Tigers' offense came from Paul Kanengizer (10), Bill Munley

(8), Mike Kane (7), Robert Blabolil (3), Doug Grant (3) and Larry Grant (2). The fourth week of DIPPER league play concluded with the STP-Eagles making a gallant debut against the Green Hornets and losing by a 3-2 margin in floor hockey action. Randy Bain, Tom Chodoba and Ray Rapuano scored the three Hornets goals in the opening minutes of play. Hornets' goalie Scott Worswick turned away all goals but two before posting his first win of the season. Jeff Schnee and Tom Poulos scored the Eagles goals with fine play by goalie Joe Sangregorio, Alan Haimowitz, Peter Rosamondo, Harvey Kaish, Dan Gerber and Marc Kesselhuber, Alan Arnold, Ken Todd, John Haws, John Alexy, Scott Cosentino and Don Zahn excelled for the Hornets. DIPPER Director John Swedish announced that the weekly DIPPER faculty ping pong top 10 ratings underwent another change last week as Tony Falzone climbed to the first place spot, followed by Tom Baker, John Kovelsky, Art Krupp, Don Wayne, Jim Skobo, Tom Kaptor, Bob Cardwell, Bill Byrne and Joseph Trinity.

Varsity quintet defeats alumni in annual game

By MIKE MEIXNER
The Jonathan Dayton Regional High School varsity basketball team outscored an alumni five, 55-45, last week at the Dayton gym. The Bulldogs will launch their Suburban Conference competition Tuesday afternoon at Summit. Coach Ray Yanchus last week announced winners of the regular team awards. Kevin Doty was cited as top defensive player of the week, and Steve Pepe was named substitute of the week. This year's Bulldogs opened an early lead against the alumni athletes and held it throughout the game. The halftime score was 26-19. Doty led the varsity with 15 points and an outstanding defensive effort. Pepe chalked up 12 points with consistent shooting throughout the game. Junior center Kevin Walker added 11 points and led the Bulldogs in rebounding. Other scorers for the varsity were Willie Wilburn with eight, Ted Parker with three, Skip Liguori and Brian McNany with two apiece. McNany was also a standout on defense. Bob Hydock led the alumni squad with eight points as he directed the graduates' attack. Ted Johnson, star of last year's team, finished with seven points as he led a final-period rally. Larry Burns tallied six points. Steve Brummer, Mark Hollander, Gavin Widom and John Lester added four apiece, and Bruce Garlin and Joe Pepe each had three. Kevin Mercer had two points. Tom Wisniewski also played well, even though he did not score.

Minutemen jarred by taller, stronger Westfield seniors

By CRAIG CLICKENGER
A strong Westfield basketball team overpowered the Springfield Senior Minutemen last Wednesday, 72-40. The Seniors are now 4-2. The Minutemen had kept the game close throughout the first half, trailing by only three points at intermission, but Westfield opened up in the third quarter, outscoring the Minutemen, 24-10. From then on, the larger and more powerful Westfield team remained in control. Roy Zitomer led his team in a losing cause with 12 points while Alan Berliner added 11. Jerry Blabolil exhibited a strong floor game at both ends of the court. Jerry led all players with five assists and six steals. Jerry also added a bucket. Donald Meixner had six rebounds and Billy Chesley three, although dominated by the much taller Westfield players. Donald had three points and Billy added a basket. Billy Condon (four), Jack Chin (two), Steve Altman (two) and Jeff Cohen (two) were the other scorers. # THE STATE WE'RE IN

By DAVID F. MOORE, Executive Director, North Jersey Conservation Foundation

Just when we thought we'd recognized all the possible threats posed to New Jersey by offshore oil and gas drilling in the Atlantic Ocean, along comes a new one!

The newspapers now report that test drilling in the ocean bottom, a prelude to actual drilling for oil and gas, has led to the discovery of fresh water beneath the ocean. That is, the rock formations under the Atlantic contain freshwater aquifers such as are found beneath dry land. Fresh water was found beneath the ocean bottom seven miles off Barnegat, and water which is barely salty was encountered 60 miles at sea!

Aside from being an interesting geological discovery, this raises some serious questions about impacts of offshore oil drilling on a magnificent and largely untapped water reserves which underlie much of southern New Jersey.

My first suspicion as an interested layman is that it's very likely that an aquifer seven miles off the coast, east of Barnegat, is really a continuation of the water-bearing formations beneath the Pine Barrens. The same goes for the only slightly salty water under the ocean 60 miles offshore.

If that should prove to be the case, what will result from drilling into the fresh-water formations from the ocean floor? Will fresh water escape, to be replaced by salt water?

Might not salt water begin to intrude in the aquifer beneath southern New Jersey, ruining existing wells and obliterating the precious water reserves now being depended on for future use by New Jersey residents?

What about crude oil from a faulty well seeping into the aquifer and also reaching the mainland water-bearing formations?

These are new questions and I think they cast a new light on offshore drilling. It's possible that no harm can result this way, but I for one believe that some top-level non-partisan experts had better be consulted before drilling is allowed to proceed.

It's ironic that news of the undersea fresh-water formations should arrive on the heels of a comprehensive two-year study by the federal Office of Technology Assessment into the

Doubles play requires organized partnership

By ED COLLINS
Even though you're told to keep both eyes on the ball, in the game of doubles you frequently find one on the ball and one on your partner. Is he going up to net or staying back at the baseline? Inexperienced doubles teams too often are confused as to where they belong. Sometimes you'll see one player charge the net, leaving his unwitting partner in the backcourt: upon reaching the net he realizes his partner didn't join him, so he back-pedals past his stampeding partner, who's trying desperately to catch up.

The funny thing about this unorganized teamwork is that it sometimes works. The distracted opponents can't concentrate on the ball with all the foot stomping going on. Experienced doubles teams play side by side. They rush together and retreat together.

The situation causing the most confusion is when your partner is serving. If he is reluctant to come in, your team is split in the one-up, one-back formation. When your opponents rush net you're left up there as a sacrifice. Better have a talk with your partner; tell him you're lonely. If he insists on staying back on his serve, go back and join him. If he wants to come to net, but doesn't think his serve is strong enough to follow, then try this tactic: lob the net player and come in together. If, when you get there, they return your lob with another lob, switch sides and retreat to the baseline—together.

In order to effectively come to net in doubles you and your partner must be able to hit an "approach shot." This requires an ability to play the ball on the rise, with underspin.

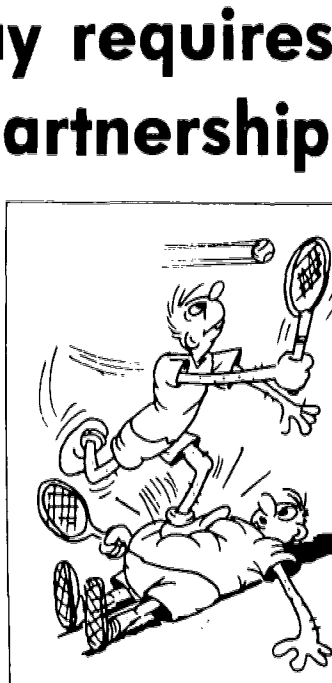

This technique involves tilting the face of the racket back and taking a short backswing. At first attempt you may expect the ball to go long, and it will, if you take a big swing. Again, the secret is in blocking the ball as it rises. This enables you to play it early after the bounce, which puts you closer to the net after the shot. Once you've learned the approach shot you can take advantage of your opponent's weak second serve, and come in. Also, if you're still shy about following your serve to net, you can come in on the return. All you need is an approach shot and a few serious conversations with your partner.

impacts of opening an offshore oil field. It seems reasonable at this point to have OTA reopen its study, to probe the unpleasant questions I have raised.

As I said, experts may agree that offshore oil and gas drilling will not harm the southern New Jersey aquifer, or that there are technical modifications that will overcome potential problems. But if they don't agree, or else agree that it may really be a threat, our federal government will have to make an important decision.

Uncle Sam will have to decide whether oil and potable water will mix. It shouldn't be too hard.

Women's meeting to hear address by archeologist

Professor Robert J. Bull, archeologist, will speak at a joint meeting of Westfield Hadassah and the Sisterhood of Temple Emanu-El on Monday, Jan. 10, at 12:30 p.m. Refreshments will be served prior to the meeting, which will be held at the temple in Westfield.

Arrangements for the program were made by Anita Weininger of Mountside for Hadassah and by Joan Weiss and Phyllis Reiss for the Sisterhood.

Dr. Bull, director of the Drew University Institute for Archeological Research, will share some of his experiences during his digs in Cesarea, Israel. He has spent six summers at the excavation site, and, along with teams of geologists, chemists, and archeological students, has unearthed a Roman city that housed perhaps a half-million people.

The city included a Coliseum larger than Rome's own, a little theater and a harbor to accommodate most of the Roman fleet. The engineering including a water system of aqueducts that ran for 12 miles to Upper Sumeria, bring fresh water to the Romans, while a sewerage system took away waste.

The Federal Energy Administration suggests that cold water be used for as many household cleaning chores as possible. You'll save the energy needed to heat the water you would have used.

When the oven does the cleaning, keep it hot

The Federal Energy Administration suggests that self-cleaning ovens be cleaned while they're still warm from cooking. The ovens will need less heat to reach the required cleaning temperature—and energy will be saved.

The growing of crabs

Crabs grow by shedding their hard shells about 15 times during their lifetime. When the crab sheds off its old shell, it immediately inflates itself. Thus, a crab 3 1/2 inches across may in minutes become 4 1/2 inches wide. It then buries itself in the mud, sometimes behind its empty shell for protection, and doesn't emerge to eat until a new shell has grown two or three days later.

Uruguay is the playground of South America. Argentinians and Brazilians flock to its beaches. Motevideo, its capital, is a clean, modern city with a population of more than 700,000 and is situated in the heart of the resort section. Uruguay is also one of the least expensive countries in South America for North Americans. You can live at a luxurious beach hotel for relatively little, and bring presents home for a fraction of their cost in the United States. The Riviera of the south is located in Uruguay, so why not take your own quiet walk down its sandy beaches?

Consult the experienced counselors at SPRINGFIELD TRAVEL SERVICE, 250 Mountain Avenue... If it's done right, planning your South American vacation can be almost as much fun as going. ### Atlantic City 'hotlines' getting warm response

With casino gambling on its way, Atlantic City's toll-free tourist information hotline phone numbers are jumping.

Ever since voters okayed the casino gambling question at the ballot box in November, telephone inquiries from investors, construction firms and job seekers have been pouring in.

The toll-free lines were installed last summer as part of the city's promotion campaign to draw tourists to the resort's beaches, boardwalk and convention facilities.

Charles Lipka, assistant engineer in the city's Communications Bureau, says the use of the two lines has exceeded all expectations.

"Thousands of people called during the summer vacation season to find out everything about Atlantic City, from the availability of tennis courts to how well the fish were biting," he said.

"And, now that the convention season is in full swing and gambling is on its way, we expect to do better than ever." The phone service provides information on weather and tide conditions, hotel accommodations and vacation or convention activities, but recent callers have been asking about casino gambling.

"A land surveyor called a few weeks ago," said Pam Boger, a secretary in the Communications Bureau. "He wanted to find land site jobs for some new hotels expected to be built here soon. So, I made a few phone calls to find out who could help him the most and referred him to the city's planning board."

"Callers expect a tape recorded message," she added, "and have been surprised to find a real person on the line who's willing to go out of the way to get the information they need."

Lipka said Atlantic City's toll-free lines will continue to be manned 24 hours a day, seven days a week. Out-of-state residents may call 800-257-8666. New Jerseyans should dial 800-582-7070.

SUBURBAN REAL ESTATE MART

GREETINGS FROM GREENBRIAR — Marjorie and Herman Schmier, formerly of New Rochelle, N.Y., have become the 2,000th and 2,001st residents of Greenbriar in Brick Town, an adult community built by the U.S. Home Corporation of New Jersey.

Low taxes a plus at Shadow Oaks

"Shadow Oaks sales are booming," says spokesman S.M. Bernard, "because the buying public is taking advantage of one of the lowest tax rates in New Jersey to make their home-owning dreams come true." "In fact," he continued, "the rock-bottom tax rate means anyone can own a $60,000 prestige home for about the same monthly cost as a $45,000 home elsewhere."

Shadow Oaks homes in Hunterdon County are built on spacious, minimum one acre lots within a scenic terrain which remains unspoiled. Bernard stated that Shadow Oaks will continue to feature "early American architecture with distinctive design for the style-conscious home buying public."

The builder features the Canterbury model two-story colonial with four bedrooms, 2½ baths, and a 17-foot kitchen-breakfast area which includes built-in deluxe dishwasher and range with ductless hood. Another innovation is a step-saving laundry room located on the second floor for the convenience of the busy contemporary home-maker.

Prospective home buyers driving to Shadow Oaks will find it easily accessible from Rt. 78 west to Pattenburg exit. Follow signs to Pattenburg. Go ¼ mile south to Little York Inn and turn left. Bear right at fork and find Shadow Oaks ¼-mile up the road. The model house is open all week and the builder is available to discuss any design innovations or changes that the prospective home owner may wish.

Morris railroad donates easement for Patriots' Path

The Morristown-Erie Railroad Company has donated a seven-mile easement to the New Jersey Conservation Foundation for use in Patriots' Path, its linear greenbelt park along the Whippany River.

The donated easement includes the railroad property from the intersection of the Morristown-Erie Railroad and the Erie Lackawanna Railroad in Morristown in the Morristown-Erie Railroad grade crossing at Ridgedale avenue in East Hanover Township. It will provide for the establishment of bicycle trails and footpaths for public recreational use as long as such use does not interfere with the railroad's operations.

Patriots' Path is a partially completed park which will eventually extend 27 miles through six Morris County municipalities. Upon completion, it will help to preserve the river's water quality and link existing parks, historic sites and community activity centers. A 10-year-old project of NJCF, a private nonprofit organization headquartered here, the park is supported by the six towns along its path, the Morris County Park Commission and the Friends of Patriots' Path.

3 programs on art listed by museum

Instructors from the Montclair Art Museum's art classes will present three slide and discussion programs on art and artists beginning Jan. 13. The programs will provide an opportunity for those interested in the classes to meet the artists who teach in several of the many studio classes offered by the museum.

On Thursday, Jan. 13, at 1:30 p.m., Tom Vincent will give a slide presentation of "Evolution of an Artist." Vincent teaches two classes at the museum, a painting class on Thursday mornings and a figure class on Thursday afternoons.

He is a widely-known artist and teacher and is represented in the permanent collection of the Montclair Art Museum.

On Sunday afternoon, Jan. 16, at 2:30, Miriam Beerman will give a talk and slide presentation on "Collage and Painting." Miss Beerman teaches painting for beginning and advanced students on Thursday evenings. She has also taught collage and assemblage, and this class will be offered again if enrollment warrants.

Miss Beerman's work is represented in a number of important museum collections, including the Montclair Art Museum. She teaches art at Queensboro College of the City University of New York.

On Wednesday, Jan. 19, at 1:30 p.m., Paul Ortlip will give a painting demonstration. Ortlip joined the museum faculty in the fall, teaching a Wednesday afternoon painting class. He is art curator at Fairleigh Dickinson University.

His work is included in a number of public collections, including the Pentagon in Washington.

Admission to these three programs is free. Brochures describing all of the classes offered in the museum's art school will be available.

Events list for museum

A variety of concerts and children's theater programs, a planetarium "visit" to Venus, free movies that include "Singin' in the Rain" and "Willy Wonka and the Chocolate Factory," and exhibitions of paintings, sculpture, weavings and photographs are some of the events scheduled at the New Jersey State Museum, West State street, Trenton, during January and February.

A complete calendar of museum activities for the two-month period is available free by phoning (609) 292-6308 or addressing a request to: Calendar, N.J. State Museum, 205 W. State st., Trenton 08625.

The museum, a division of the New Jersey Department of Education, is open from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday and from 1 to 5 p.m. weekends and most holidays. There is no charge for admission.

WORTH REPEATING

The mother while out shopping decided to buy her college son a present. The clerk at the men's counter tried to be helpful.

"What about a tie, madame?" he suggested.

"No, he has a beard."

"A pullover sweater, then?"

"No, it's a long beard."

"I see, madame," the salesman said. "Do you think a pair of shoelaces would show?"

Kite exhibition opens 150 at World Trade Center

"The Kite - A Fantasy in Flight," a holiday exhibition of some 150 kites from around the world — kites of all shapes, sizes, colors and types — opened recently at the World Trade Center. The month-long exhibition features commentary and films tracing the history and uses of kites through the ages, as well as noontime entertainment programs.

The kites hang in the 75-foot-high lobbies of both towers, with the special historical exhibits and films located on the Mezzanine of 1 World Trade Center. The exhibition is open daily through Jan 9 from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Admission is free.

Among the kites on display are the longest kite in the world — a whale with a 175-foot dragon-style tail; tetrahedron kites made by Alexander Graham Bell for scientific experiments, on loan for the first time from Canada; "flexikites" made by Francis Rogallo, also used for experimental purposes, and 12-foot Guatemalan kites used in "All Saints Day" ceremonies. There are hand painted kites by Teizo Hashimoto, the last known Japanese kite maker, and "fighter" kites from India and Thailand. A working reproduction of a smoke-breathing dragon kite used in medieval warfare is also on display.

In addition there are reproductions of Leonardo da Vinci's flying machine and a Benjamin Franklin kite, as well as winning kites from last October's third annual kite contest in Central Park.

Films shown at the exhibition include "The Kite," a 15 minute IBM film about a little boy who makes his own kite; "The Master Kite," a 12 minute Murray Murtz film about the meaning and significance of kite flying, featuring Dinesh Bahadur, shown through the courtesy of Barr Films, and "Icarus Montgolfier Wright," a 20 minute film about man's fascination with flight through the ages, shown through the courtesy of Pyramid Films.

Seton Hall to offer Judaeo-Christian graduate course

Seton Hall University's Institute of Judaeo-Christian Studies will offer a new graduate course, "The Modern Jewish World," during the spring semester, according to Magr. John M. Oesterreicher, director. To be offered on Wednesdays at 8:30 p.m., beginning Jan. 12, the course will discuss the reaction of European philosophers to emancipation, to the road from ghetto to general culture.

The offering will have a team teaching concept with Rabbi Charles A. Kroloff of Temple Emanu-El in Westfield and his wife Terry serving as co-instructors. Rabbi Kroloff studied at Hebrew University, Brandeis, Columbia and Temple Universities and received his degree from Hebrew Union College-Jewish Institute of Religion.

Magr. Oesterreicher said the program is open to all graduate and undergraduate students as well as "all those Jews and Christians who wish to take the course as part of the program in continuing education. Further information may be obtained by calling 762-9000 ext. 361 or 491.

YOU CAN BECOME A STATISTIC

If You Drink and Drive New Year's Eve

It's no accident that the highest percentage of road tragedies occur during the holidays. It's a fact. It's also a fact that drinking and driving can be a deadly combination. Why chance becoming another statistic on New Year's eve? Take a look at the facts. Think twice before you have that second drink. And have a safe, happy New Year.

Unusual career: tracing famous names from past

BY DON FREEMAN
HOLLYWOOD—As a kid, Richard Lamparski says he was always intrigued by the unfinished story. He remembers listening to his grandmother spin tales and he would say, "Yes, but then what happened to these people?"

This curiosity, Lamparski believes now, formed the wellspring for a project that has led to a series of books called "Lamparski's Whatever Became Of...?" The sixth of these volumes has just been released as a Bantam paperback and it is suggested to delight the nostalgia buff. Whatever became of Tony Dow from the cast of "Leave It To Beaver"? Tony lives in Los Angeles, he's in the contracting business and he says he is recognized about twice a day. Whatever became of Ken Osmond, who was the conniving Eddie Haskell on the same show? Now he is Officer Ken Osmond of the Los Angeles Police Department with two sons of his own.

Stiller seen in 'Ritz' film

Jerry Stiller recreates his Broadway role as the man out to kill his brother-in-law, in Warner Brothers' movie version of "The Ritz," current film at the Elmore Theater, Elizabeth.

The companion feature is "The Longest Yard," starring Burt Reynolds.

In addition to Stiller, there are six more members of the original stage cast of "The Ritz." They are Jack Weston, as a sanitation company owner who takes refuge from his murderous brother-in-law in a bathroom, which is more like a madhouse; Rita Moreno, who plays entertainer "Googie Gomez," a role in which she won an Antoinette Perry (Tony) Award on the stage; F. Murray Abraham and Paul B. Brigg, as two of the wildest Ritz patrons; and John Everson and Christopher J. Brown, as a pair of tank-shirted employees of the establishment.

Kaye Ballard also has a starring role in the cast. Terrence McNally wrote the screenplay, based on his stage vehicle, and Richard Lester served as director.

DISC 'N' DATA

A familiar face in millions of American homes is about to prove that real talent and popular appeal can't be held down to one field of entertainment; that personality and ability sound as captivating on record as they look on television. If anyone has established these facts once and for all, it's Donny Most.

Of course, it's only natural that Donny should turn his boundless energies to singing and recording. Ralph Malph, Donny's engaging character on the TV series "Happy Days," reveals only a part of this performer's talent. Long before his face was being seen on TV, in commercials, daytime soaps and prime time dramas; long before his red hair, freckles and engaging smile became a part of the lighthearted smash, "Happy Days," before he even thought of acting, Donny Most sang, and sang well.

Even as a young boy, Donny was a seasoned trouper, working the hotel circuit of the Catskill Mountains, singing in resorts to appreciative audiences, developing the sincere and intimate style that is such a part of his acting and his vocalizing. With the help and encouragement of his manager Selma Rubin, Donny moved to Hollywood, where he began to seriously pursue acting as his career. His success encouraged him to return to singing and he began making singing appearances on the Mike Douglas, Merv Griffin and Dinah shows.

Now it's possible to hear Donny Most at his finest. His debut album for United Artists features songs with a full range of feeling and a completely captivating style. It can certainly be said in this case that Most is best.

'Stream' runs another week

The Fox Theater, Woodbridge, is holding over its movie comedy, "Silver Stream." The 20th Century-Fox action on wheels film, stars Gene Wilder, Richard Pryor and Jill Clayburgh.

Arthur Hiller directed "Silver Stream," which is about a publisher who becomes involved in murder and adventure on a train trip.

Consumer prices stable after 30-month increase

After 30 consecutive months of increase, the Consumer Price Index for the New York-Northeastern New Jersey area remained unchanged in November 1976, it was reported this week by Herbert Bienstock, Regional Commissioner of the U.S. Department of Labor's Bureau of Labor Statistics. Since November 1975, the index rose 4.4 percent, the first time the area's annual inflation rate has fallen below the 5 percent mark since early 1973.

Grocery prices dropped 0.8 percent over the month. This decline was offset by increases for a variety of other goods and services. Bienstock indicated the health and recreation index rose 0.5 percent in November, largely reflecting a 1.5 percent increase in the medical care component. Apparel and upkeep prices were up 0.5 percent. The housing index inched up 0.1 percent for the month as increases for household furnishings and operations, up 0.6 percent and fuel oil, up 2.1 percent, were largely offset by declines in electricity and home financing charges.

On a seasonally adjusted basis, the index also remained unchanged in November, following eight consecutive months of increase, according to Bienstock. In February of this year, there was a seasonally adjusted dip of 0.1 percent in the index, since then it has risen 3.2 percent.

With the index at 179.0 (1967 equals 100), Bienstock pointed out that the area consumer had to spend $17.90 in November 1976 to buy what $10.00 could in the 1967 base period. The purchasing power of the dollar was 55.9 cents in 1967 dollars and 46.9 cents in 1957-59 dollars.

The overall food index, usually stable in November, dropped 0.5 percent over the month. A 0.8 percent decline in grocery prices, the food at home component, was partially offset by a 0.4 percent increase in restaurant meals, Bienstock said.

Falco Dance Company will appear at YMHA

The Louis Falco Dance Company, described by one major New York critic as "the most exciting new modern dance company to emerge during the last decade," will appear at the YM YWA of Metropolitan New Jersey, 760 Northfield Ave., West Orange, Jan. 21 at 8 p.m.

The Louis Falco Dance Company was created in 1968, and since then has toured the United States, Canada, Mexico and Europe. All of the dancers in the company have modern and ballet backgrounds, and have performed as principals with major dance companies throughout the world.

Jump in earnings listed for PSEG first 11 months

Public Service Electric and Gas Company reported this week that earnings for the 11 months ended Nov. 30 were $141.9 million ($2.44 a share), compared with $108.3 million, ($1.00 a share) a year ago.

Robert I. Smith, president, attributed the earnings increases to higher electric and gas sales, rate increases granted in 1975 and 1976, and more effective recovery of higher gas costs. Kilowatt-hour sales increased 3.3 percent from the comparable 1975 period.

Therm sales of gas rose 1.5 percent for the year to date, helped by the abnormally cold weather in October and November. Heating degree days in November reached 745, the highest total for that month since area temperature records were started in 1931. Normal for the month is 555.

Smith said that PSE & G expects to meet the gas requirements of all its firm customers during the 1976-77 heating season despite higher curtailments of pipeline supplies. Average curtailments of natural gas this year are projected at 31 percent of total contract volume compared with a daily average of 27 percent for 1975 and 23 percent in 1974.

Award to Hughes by Carrier Clinic

Supreme Court Justice Richard J. Hughes has been named recipient of the Carrier Foundation award of the Carrier Clinic in Belle Mead, New Jersey's largest private psychiatric hospital.

In presenting the award, Carrier president, Dr. Robert S. Garber cited Hughes' "long record of concern for the problems of the mentally ill during his years as governor and as a juvenile court judge, but particularly for his rulings as Chief Justice." These rulings insure due process to Jerseyites facing commitment to mental institutions and to previously committed patients. All must now be seen before a review judge and be represented by counsel.

Justice Hughes now is revising the procedures for criminal and for juvenile commitments and has appointed a Task Force on Mental Commitment.

Contest open to students on energy conservation

New Jersey elementary, junior high and high school students with original poster or project ideas about energy conservation can turn their thoughts into dollars and recognition in the State Energy Office's Energy Conservation Contest.

The contest will be divided into categories based on the student's age; prizes will be awarded in elementary (kindergarten, through sixth grade), junior high seventh through ninth, and high school (10th through 12th) levels. Three winners will be selected from each category; $25 savings bonds will be awarded to the elementary level winners, $50 bonds to the junior high school winners and $100 bonds to the high school winners. A $100 bond will be awarded as a grand prize for the best entry among the nine winners. The winning posters and exhibits will be displayed at the second annual Energy Exposition and Fair in Cherry Hill next March, and at shopping centers throughout the state.

State sends out new tax tables to employers

State Tax Director Sidney Glaser announced this week that employers' instructions for withholding the New Jersey gross income tax are in the mail to 175,000 employers, reflecting the lower withholding rates which go into effect Jan. 1.

The instructions include withholding tables for the lower rates, and tables for employers to use the percentage method of withholding.

The tables are for use by employers on and after Jan. 1, and should be used to determine the amount of tax to be withheld on wages, tips, fees, commissions and other income for services rendered.

The amount to be withheld after Jan. 1 will be reduced by one third since it is no longer necessary to withhold for the two months between the effective date (July 1) and the start of collections (Sept. 1).

The tables have been compiled at rates estimated to yield an amount intended to approximate an individual's tax liability.

Employers must report withholdings by the 15th day of the month following the month for which the tax was withheld. The new tables will be used for the first time in reporting the withholdings for the month of January. The first reporting form and payment of the tax withheld for January will be due on Feb. 15.

Glaser pointed out that certain employers may file quarterly reports. This would be allowed in instances where the aggregate amount required to be withheld by an employer is less than $25 in a calendar month, and the aggregate for the quarterly period ending on Mar. 31, June 30, Sept. 30 or Dec. 31 can reasonably be expected to be less than $75. In such cases, the employer's report and payment of the withheld taxes for this period may be made on a quarterly basis on or before the 15th day of the month following the close of the calendar quarter.

Pre-punched and pre-addressed withholding returns (Form NJ 500) will be mailed periodically to all employers prior to the filing date. At such time, employers should use the envelopes and pre-addressed forms furnished for this purpose.

Employers not receiving the tables should communicate with the Forms Section, New Jersey Division of Taxation, West State and Willow streets, Trenton 08625.

Students on the elementary school level are invited to submit posters on energy conservation topics. The posters can be up to 24 by 36 inches using pencil, crayon, water color, oil paint or any other material available through the art department at school.

Junior high school and high school students can submit posters or other media-oriented items, such as films, tapes, or exhibits. They may also submit "action oriented" projects, such as solar, wind, or water powered energy systems; community waste recycling or energy conservation projects; or studies of energy use at home or in school.

A panel of government, industry, and civic leaders will judge the entries, which must be submitted by March 1, 1977. Several energy and environmental groups around the state have agreed to act as sponsors and district judges in the contest, and will forward local winners to the state-wide judges.

Further details on the contest can be obtained by writing to the New Jersey State Energy Office, 1100 Raymond Blvd., Newark, 07102, or by calling 648-3290.

Drinking is factor in half of fatalities

Ideally, if you drink over the holiday season you shouldn't drive, and if you drive, you shouldn't drink.

Realistically, according to the New Jersey State Safety Council, some people will drink and drive and this combination is a key factor in many holiday highway tragedies.

A recent report issued by the New Jersey State Police indicates that alcohol was found in more than 50 percent of highway fatalities tested.

Safety on the roads during the holiday season, the council said, will hinge largely on how much drivers respect the one-for-one rule. The one-for-one rule means that a driver should wait at least one hour for every drink he takes before he gets behind the wheel of a car.

This rule is based on the fact that it takes about an hour for the body to get rid of the one-ounce alcohol contained in an average drink.

The council urges motorists who choose to drink, to drink responsibly, and suggests that the party-goer who plans to drink heavily arrange for someone else to do the driving or go home by public transportation.

The council also reminds holiday hosts that they can help prevent tragedies by not forcing liquor on guests who are going to drive, instead offer coffee, juice, soft drinks and nibble food.

Employment in 1985

Total employment in the United States is expected to reach 103.4 million by 1985, a jump of 20 percent, according to the "Occupational Outlook Handbook in Brief," published by the U.S. Labor Department; white-collar and service occupations are expected to grow rapidly in the next decade, but blue-collar and farm jobs will have slower-than-usual growth or decline.

Consumer TV program begins season Jan. 19

Is the American consumer an endangered species? Will he win his battle against shady deals, unfair practices and just plain rip-offs?

As it begins a new season on New Jersey Public Television, "Consumer Survival Kit" offers the weary American consumer a workable package of solutions to seemingly insurmountable consumer problems.

C.W. McCall, of "Convoy" fame, makes an appearance on the first new season program Sunday, Jan. 9, at 6 p.m. on Channels 50 and 58. "Family Medical Care" will discuss doctors and hospitals, insurance and health maintenance plans.

Selma Diamond, Florence Henderson, and Robert Conrad are just a few of the well-known personalities who appear in the program's lighthearted skits. Tony Randall, Joan Rivers, Buddy Hackett, George Goben and Robert Morse have also highlighted buying problems and solutions, for token payment. Staff regulars are Bob Smith, Fran Johanson, Rhea Felkin and host Larry Lewman.

What else does Consumer Survival Kit have to offer this season? Features on tax law changes, losing pounds—not dollars—for physical fitness, the driving cost of auto repair, selecting a good lawyer, and a special episode on complaint power entitled "How to Complain."

The series' combination of hard facts and competent reference material with an entertainment format has brought it numerous awards, including the American Health Care Association's Better Life Award for Public Affairs and a citation for its outstanding contributions to the public from the U.S. Department of Treasury-Internal Revenue Service.
