Board puts off taking vote on grouping plan

By KAREN ZAUTYK

Mountainside parents who have long awaited a Board of Education decision on achievement grouping in local schools will have to wait a little longer at least until next week before a policy is approved.

At the monthly school board meeting Tuesday night in the Deerfield School, Dr. Levin B. Hanigan, superintendent of schools, presented a policy which would have eliminated such grouping in grades 1, 2 and 3. However, after lengthy discussion by board members and parents, the vote was put off until a special meeting Monday at 8 p.m., also at Deerfield.

Also at this week's session, the board approved its revised 1977-78 budget, meeting the Borough Council's mandate for a $20,000 reduction through an $8,000 decrease in money for contracted maintenance services and a $12,000 increase in funds to be appropriated from surplus.

The achievement grouping plan, tried on an experimental basis in the lower grades this year, would have been done away with under the policy read by Dr. Hanigan. However, it did not preclude supplemental small group instruction for youngsters in grades 1 through 5 who do not function well in regular classroom groups.

Board member Scott Schmedel criticized the wording of the policy as being unclear in giving the specific intent of the board, and urged rewriting before a vote was taken. Board president William Biunno commented the plan "obviously needs more work" before the board could make its final decision and requested the special session on Monday. He noted also that board policy usually is not approved on first reading, as would have been the case this week. The grouping plan will be the only item on the agenda for the special meeting.

The budget revision was approved on a 5-2 vote, with Patricia Knodel and Charles Speth opposed. Following the budget defeat at the polls in the school election, the Borough Council voted the $20,000 reduction in the local tax levy. The board's action to take $12,000 from surplus leaves approximately $51,000 in that account, board secretary John McDonough reported. The $8,000 line item reduction includes a cut of $3,000 in allocations for upkeep of grounds and $5,000 for repair of buildings.

In other action at the session, the board voted to renew its contract with the Birne Bus Co. of Dunellen for 1977-78 student transportation, at a cost of $49,950 for five buses.

Raymond D. O'Brien was reappointed board attorney for the period from July 1, 1977, to June 30, 1978, at a fee of $5,500, and Suplee, Clooney & Co. were named board auditors for the same period, at a fee of $2,000.

The board also voted 5-2 to award a $14,980 contract to the Keating Roofing Co. of Summit for repairs to the roof of the gym and library at the Deerfield complex. Dissenting votes were cast by Speth and Mrs. Knodel. Speth had requested that the board investigate the legality of splitting the contract, since another firm, although offering a higher total bid, gave a lower estimate on the library work.

A $433 contract was given to Western

Termite and Pest Control, Mountainside, for termite extermination in two rooms at the Beechwood School. A $458 contract was awarded to the Davey Tree Expert Co for the spraying of trees at Deerfield and Beechwood to eliminate inch worms and gypsy moths.

The board voted to apply for federal subsidies in the National School Lunch Program, which would fund approximately 50 percent of the costs. Under new state law, a lunch program is mandated in the school district next year.

Board member Dr. Arthur Williams noted that a bill providing that lunch programs be voluntary has been passed in the State Assembly and is pending in the Senate. He urged local residents to contact Sen. Stephen Wylie to indicate support of the bill. Biunno noted that if the law is changed, the board will reevaluate its position and make a

Twins, Mets post two victories; poor weather hits Little League

By PAUL REITER

The Mountainside Little League completed play in a third week marked by poor weather. The Major League saw the heaviest action last week with two teams winning twice.

The Twins scored impressive victories, topping the Vikings, 9-3, and the Blue Stars, 14-9. Against the Vikes, Glen Delaney went the distance on the mound, striking out eight, and allowing only two hits. Both Delaney and M.J.

Castelo supplied strong hitting and Henry Largey of the Vikes struck out five Twins in a game called after five innings for darkness. Twins' outfielder Mike Iorio and catcher Billy Carthy turned in strong fielding performances. In the second game, the Blue Stars kept it close, scoring eight runs in one inning. Twins' batters Danny Leon, John Agey, and Delaney provided key hits for the Twins. In the bottom of the fifth, the Twins held a tight 10-9 edge, but Leon's triple with one man on, and a home run by Delaney helped to ice the victory.

The Mets and Orioles met twice, with the Mets overpowering the Orioles, 15-3, and then 7-3. Strong batting at the plate was exhibited by Darren Iaione, David Gibadlo, Alex Caola and Mike Ruggieri and David Baron. Gibadlo collected the victory on the mound.

Caola took over the pitching in the next outing, and Mike Kane contributed his bat to the continued strong hitting. For the Orioles, Mark Dougherty provided the pitching and also some strong hitting.

Behind the effective pitching of Jim Cleveland and Greg Van Name, the Braves defeated the Dodgers, 10-1.

In other Major League action, the Cubs defeated the Chiefs, 5-2, behind the pitching of Pete Klaskin.

Pony League action saw the Mavericks top the Pintos, 6-4. Allan Wilde went the distance and also contributed strong hitting along with David Isenborn and Eric Gold.

At Springfield, the Broncos defeated a strong Colt team, 9-2. For the Broncos, Mike Baumgartner drove in two runs with a long triple, and supplied strong pitching, allowing four hits and two runs in four innings. Keith Hanigan chipped in a single and double for three RBI. John Gerndt played well defensively at shortstop. For the Colts, Hach, Donald Garretson, John Crilly and Frankie Gagliano hit safely.

In American League action, the Royals put down the Angels, 3-0. Brian

A second rebellion is surfacing in America

And, significantly, the cause is almost the same

Two hundred years ago, when the Continental Congress declared America's independence from the British Crown, Jefferson said of King George III: "He has erected a multitude of new offices, and sent hither swarms of officers to harass our people and eat out their substance."

Today Americans are echoing these sentiments, but directing them this time at an American army of bureaucratic regulators.

No wonder! Battalions of busybody bureaucrats—faceless and nameless civil servants—are shackling

COUNTY "CAP" SLOWS RISE IN PROPERTY TAX LEVIES

Property tax levies of New Jersey's 21 counties increased $39.7 million to a total of $731.9 million in 1977, the first year in which the 1976 local budget limitation law has been in effect. The 5.7 percent growth over 1976 matches 1973 with the lowest percentage increase in county tax levies since 1955, reports the New Jersey Taxpayers Association.

Unlike the municipal limitation or "cap" measured from authorized spending (appropriations) in 1976, the county limit is measured from the 1976 county property tax levy. Although the allowable increase is limited to five percent, exclusion of certain budget items from the base on which the five percent is calculated, such as debt service, newly enacted state or federally mandated expenditures, and revenue generated by the increase in property valuations of new construction or improvements in the county, causes the actual permissible increase in tax levy to differ widely from five percent. Actual permissible variation among the counties in 1977 ranged from a low of 3.8 percent in Salem County to a high of 17.6 percent in Sussex County. Cape May County had the largest actual percentage increase in tax levy—10.7 percent, while Atlantic County recorded the smallest—2.7 percent.

Statewide, NJTA says, full utilization of the authorized county levy increase would have resulted in a total increase of $50.9 million or 7.4 percent. Notwithstanding complaints about the restrictiveness of the cap, the state's counties had an aggregate $11.2 million in unbudgeted increases in tax levies permissible under the cap.

Counties experienced varying degrees of difficulty in staying within their limitations, depending on the amount of increase actually allowed, availability of non-property tax revenues, and ability to restrict spending. Two counties, Morris and Union, budgeted their full authorized increase, while three others, Camden, Hudson and Warren, came within one percent of full utilization. Three counties, Passaic, Somerset, and Sussex, budgeted less than one-half their allowable increase in tax levy.

SCHIZOPHRENIA: LOOKING FOR CAUSES AND TREATMENT

Research on the causes and treatment of schizophrenia is described in a new leaflet issued by the National Institute of Mental Health. "Treatment of Schizophrenia" is an interview with Dr. Loren R. Mosher, Chief of NIMH's Center for Studies of Schizophrenia.

Dr. Mosher believes it is premature to say that schizophrenia is a specific disease with a specific cause. Rather, he leans toward the idea that—like congestive heart failure—it may have a number of different causes.

What we do know, says the scientist, is that it is a disorder of the whole person and that behavior, thinking, and biochemistry are involved. He believes it is triggered by stress, as are other psychiatric problems. He notes that schizophrenic patients are distinguishable by thought disorder, strange behavior, withdrawal, inability to experience pleasure, and hallucinations and delusions.

Recent studies seem to show a genetic component in schizophrenia; however, the hereditary factor is "less in magnitude" than mental health researchers used to think.

"Indeed," said Dr. Mosher, "it is likely there is a small genetic component in all functional psychiatric illnesses."

The NIMH scientist points out that therapeutic drugs have proven to be an inexpensive, effective way to relieve schizophrenia; that they have been extremely useful in reducing the number of schizophrenics hospitalized; and that they make it possible for community-oriented treatment programs to be

The State We're In

N. J. Conservation Foundation

It has been suggested that Governor Brendan T. Byrne act to deauthorize unbuilt but planned segments of Interstates Routes 95 and 287 and to spend money thus freed for urgently needed mass transit and local highway improvements in this state we're in. He has rejected the idea.

Had the suggestion come from me, no one would be surprised. Actually, it was made by State Transportation Commissioner Alan Sagner, somebody with whom I've taken issue on other occasions. But not this time!

Now I see that the Citizens' Conservation Council of Ocean County, Inc., has written to the governor in support of the Sagner suggestion. The council lists many logical reasons.

For one thing, such action would create more jobs more quickly, with contracts to improve, repair and maintain existing roads. This would also improve safety, ease traffic congestion and, by building extra lanes for buses in many places, would be a great boon for mass transit.

The letter cites an authoritative article in the magazine Science, which says that mass transit construction would demand 61 percent less energy and create three percent more jobs than building new superhighways. A timely point.

Also, new highways encourage more auto use, which is no way to save energy. They also encourage more air pollution and the spread of urban sprawl on "virgin" lands, which in turn is costliest of any kind of development in terms of money as well as energy.

New highway construction of itself is environmentally destructive because it demands extravagant use of open space for its rights-of-way.

It happens that the governor earlier had made a contrasting decision, against construction of an extension of the New Jersey Turnpike to Toms River. The Ocean County group asked him to use its arguments to reinforce his stance against the Turnpike extension.

The Ocean County letter reminds the governor that New Jersey citizens have already delivered to him the same message, three times by voting down highway-oriented bond issues. Although the public speaks the same message repeatedly, its government "of the people, by the people and for the people" refuses to listen. How come? "This does not sound like a government that is responsive to the great majority of voters. We wonder to whom it is responsive," the letter concludes. That's a very good question, about which we've all wondered.

The Citizens' Conservation Council of Ocean County represents over 30 organizations, with combined memberships of over 7,000. That's just one county, but I'll wager that the ascending concern about energy waste, as well as needed intelligent development to preserve all kinds of natural resources and a decent quality of life, could easily round up similar support in every other county.

Age not barrier in SSI benefits

Children who are severely disabled or blind can receive monthly Supplemental Security Income checks, according to Robert E. Willwerth, manager of the Elizabeth, New Jersey Social Security Office. Supplemental Security Income (SSI) pays people with limited resources and little or no income. In the case of a child, the parents' income and resources are also taken into consideration.

"Many people do not realize that a child under 18 is eligible for SSI payments," Willwerth said. "The fact is that there is no minimum age. A child with a disability that would be severe enough to prevent him from working if he were an adult could receive SSI if he has limited income and resources."

"Children who receive SSI payments also receive Medicaid coverage," he added. "Medicaid pays for medical expenses, including doctor bills, hospitals, prescription drugs, eyeglasses and hearing aids. SSI payments also qualify a child for Social Services."

The Supplemental Security Income program is administered by Social Security. Information may be obtained from the Union County Social Security Office at 342 Westminster ave., Elizabeth, phone 654-4200.

High school juniors and seniors who plan to take Scholastic Aptitude Tests next fall will have an opportunity to prepare for them at Union College this summer.

Teen Talk

THIS WEEK'S LETTER: I like this boy very much. My friends have talked to him and say he likes me and wants very much to go out with me. But so far he hasn't shown me or done anything to prove this. He comes over to my house quite often. He is very nice and my father approves. Dad thinks the guy is very well-behaved. Please, how do I get him to go out with me? I feel he likes me because he's always following me in school. Thank you.

OUR REPLY: It's so simple we all tend to overlook the answer to your question. We've pointed out again and again in this column how to approach similar situations. Figure out something you like to do—take a walk, go to a movie, play tennis... whatever. Then, do a little "spying" and determine which event your friend would like to do, too. Finally, calmly ask him to participate with you. The communication is your responsibility. Make certain you're clear on what you want to do and who you want to do it with—and it will happen. Simple but true.

Persistence needed by students to get jobs

"There has never been a time when I did not have a job listed that needed to be filled," stated Barbara Ullom, job placement coordinator of the Union County Regional High School District.

With more than 300 regional district students and recent graduates placed so far this year, Mrs. Ullom has been contacting prospective employers and counseling students on ways to obtain summer employment.

"The time to start looking for a summer job is now," she emphasized. While there has been a constant flow of jobs through her office this school year, Mrs. Ullom states that youngsters are going to have to demonstrate imagination, initiative and persistence in order to obtain a job.

Each age group must overcome a particular set of problems in job hunting. "You must be at least 16 years of age to run a power mower," explained Mrs. Ullom. She suggests that youngsters in the 14-16 age group consider opening their own businesses in such areas as babysitting and car-washing and waxing. There is also a demand for domestic work and housekeeping.

"Some public libraries and small businesses often have a need for youngsters under 16," offered Mrs. Ullom. Swim clubs with day care centers are another possible source of jobs.

The competition for jobs gets tougher for students in the 16-18 age bracket. "These people are usually looking for regular jobs in entry level positions," she continued. "Unfortunately, people in this age category are often the last to be hired."

For these teenagers, Mrs. Ullom suggests looking into seasonal employment in such areas as restaurant and fast food work and landscaping. "Students will just have to cold canvas the area and not get frustrated," advised Mrs. Ullom.

Students who know they'll be on a work study program in September should remind prospective employers that they'll be available beyond the summer months.

Regional district students are strongly urged to make an appointment with Mrs. Ullom. She has lists of possible job openings along with invaluable information regarding the most effective strategy for a successful job search campaign.

Employers were reminded that they can save themselves both time and effort by calling on Mrs. Ullom at 382-0910 who has a pool of youngsters available to fill a variety of job needs. She can also draw upon people 18 years of age and older from the regional district's adult learning center.

Controversy here stopped

The Echo henceforth will publish no letters in the dispute over this year's defeat of the Mountainside Board of Education budget for the coming school year.

The Echo last week stated that the controversy would no longer be an issue in the letters column, with one exception: Scott Schmedel, board member who was criticized in a letter last week, would have an opportunity to reply.

Schmedel did submit a response, but it is not being printed because he declined to agree with several deletions suggested by the editor for the purpose of terminating the controversy.

Letters

Letters to the editor must be received no later than noon on Monday of the week they are to appear. They should not exceed 350 words and should be typed with double spacing between all lines (not all in capital letters, please). All letters must include a written signature, a complete address and a phone number (for verification purposes only). The writer's name will be withheld only in most unusual circumstances, and at the editor's discretion. This newspaper reserves the right to edit or reject any letter.

Quicksilvers, Atoms win in floor ball competition

The Quicksilvers (3-0) surged to the top of the Daily Intramural Program Physical Education Recreation (DIPPER) floor ball league standings by coming from behind to post a convincing 7-3 victory over the Cosmos (1-2) in the third round of play in the early morning program held in the Dayton Regional boys' gym last week.

The Rowdies (2-0-1) dropped to second place after rallying to tie the surprising Earthquakes (1-1-1) by a 3-3 score. The Atoms (2-1) secured third place by exploding to an 8-3 triumph over the Aztecs (1-2). The Lancers eked out a 7-5 victory over the winless Tornados (0-3) to stay in seventh place.

Mike Jacobs scored a hat trick to give the Cosmos an early lead but the Quicksilvers came back quickly to slam in seven goals—hat tricks—by Frank Coelho and Bryant Burke and a solo score by Brian Kukon with fine support by Dave Lauhoff, Tim Harrigan, John Irwin, Ed McCain and Randy Wissel.

Rob Schneider, Jeff Lubash, Alan Haimowitz, Mike French and Bruce Davison sparked for the Cosmos.

The Rowdies had to struggle until the last minute as Rich Kaplan kicked in the third and tying goal to avert their first loss as the Earthquakes rocked them for a 3-3 tie. Jim Christoudoulo and Alan Layton scored the other two goals while Joe Gelwarg, Sid Kaufman, Stu Manoff, Jim Hancock and Kevin Lamb provided good assistance. Fernando Munoz struck with lighting efficiency as he tallied all three Earthquakes goals on line drive kicks. Joe Sangregorio, Paul Matysek, Mark

Ackerman and Paul Abend played well for the Earthquakes.

The Atoms' 8-3 victory was highlighted by three goals from Steven Geltman with two goals each by Steve Shindler and John Frieri plus a solo shot by Mitch Feuer. Van Vitale and Joe Sangregorio were credited with assists. The Aztecs' goals came off the toes of Joe Dominic Torrisi and Mike Lemmerman (2) with fine assists by Bill Munley, Paul Kanengiser, Mike Kane and Mark Ackerman.

Tony Sangregorio's hat trick propelled the Lancers to a 7-5 conquest of the Tornados with Jeff Vargas, Randy Bain, Al Arnold and John LaMotta chipping in with single scores. Tornado scorers included Tom Ragno (2), Dave Weinberg 1, Tom Hubert 1, and Tom Huelbig 1.

The first annual DIPPER faculty ping-pong championship singles tournament got under way last week with the following results: Tony Falzone over Jim Skobo, 21-12, 21-13; Tom Baker ousted Frank Clancy; 21-13, 21-9; Rick Iacono over Bill Byrne, 21-13, 21-15; Art Krupp over Tom Kaptor, 21-11, 21-19; Bob Cardwell over Joe Trinity, 21-18, 21-17; John Koveslesky over Ed Broderick 13-21, 21-17; Rollie Marioni over Bob Kozub, 15-21, 21-10 and 21-13; Ray Yanchus over Ed Jasinski 21-5, 21-4.

Second round play is scheduled for this week with final play for the trophies starting the following week. Doubles and mixed doubles will take the spotlight after the singles.

Rosenberg titlist in loss to Farmers

By MIKE MEIXNER

The Jonathan Dayton Regional High School golf team plummeted to a 5-8 record by losing to Union, Millburn, and West Orange. These losses were terribly disappointing," said hard-working coach Raymond Yanchus, whose determined squad will face Madison today.

Dayton lost to Union, 10-8. Since it was a non-conference match, a different method of scoring was used. Surprisingly, Dayton finished with fewer total strokes than the Farmers.

The bright spot in the competition was Mike Rosenberg's earning titlist honors (the first by a Dayton shooter in 1977) by shooting a blazing 38. Rosenberg's round was played on the Suburban Golf Club Course, which represents a difficult terrain. Two more performers reached peaks in the match. Neil Tepper and Phil Fantozzi each shooting a 46. Skip Ligouri added a 48.

The Millburn contest, played at the Canoe Brook Country club in Summit was marred by rain and Millburn won by 28 strokes. In the balanced attack, Ligouri recorded a 45. Fantozzi a 46 and Dave Gechlik and Rosenberg had 48, in the nine-hole endeavor.

At Baltusrol Country Club, lightning rattled the skies during Dayton's 283-292 loss to West Orange. Gechlik impressed his foes by shooting a 41. Fantozzi showed good club control while finishing with a 45. Dayton's Rosenberg had a 46. Ligouri 47 and steady Marty Swanson birdied his way to a 48.

Bulldog netters subdue Verona for 5-5 record

By MIKE MEIXNER

The Jonathan Dayton Regional High School tennis team improved its 1977 record to 5-5 by defeating Verona, 4-1. The surging young Bulldogs, who now sport a 2-3 conference log, will meet Summit tomorrow.

Playing without Donna Lies, Dayton received stalwart play from Danny Schlessinger at first singles. Danny coasted to victory in two sets.

Peter Hess sustained the lone Dayton defeat. Neil Meisel swept his match, and the doubles pairs of Rich Simon and Art Salmon and Mick Gottlieb and Eric Strulowitz recorded impressive victories.

Trish is MVP in county meet

By MICHAEL PETRO

The Jonathan Dayton Regional High School girls' track team, competing in the Union County girls championships last week, put on a very impressive performance with Trish Taylor of Dayton voted the outstanding athlete in the meet by the county coaches.

Taylor won the quarter-mile race and the 220 and anchored the 440-yard relay team to a fifth-place finish. Cindy White, Carol Wingard and Susan Clark also were on the relay team.

In the 100-yard dash, Cindy finished fifth. In the 220, White came in fourth and Wingard fifth.

Rinaldo earns group's praise for ethics law

Rep. Matthew J. Rinaldo (R-12) this week was commended for his "continued efforts in support of governmental reform" by the district steering committee of Common Cause.

Rinaldo co-sponsored the major congressional code of ethics, supported by Common Cause and recently enacted into law, which sharply limits outside earned income of senators and congressmen and requires full financial disclosure by all senior officials of the executive and judicial branches, members of Congress and their staff, and candidates for president and vice-president.

Rinaldo and the Common Cause committee agreed that urgent remaining business includes legislation to provide public financing of House and Senate elections.

The committee also stressed the need to pass a strengthened lobby disclosure bill. Legislation passed both houses in the last Congress but died in conference committee at adjournment.

Candidate proposes limit on salary hikes

Executives of Union County government should have pay raises limited to the percentage increase given to other county employees, according to Walter M. McCann Jr., a freeholder candidate in the Democratic primary election.

Sargent: use smaller cars

Lester A. Sargent Jr. of Cranford, the Republican organization candidate for Union County sheriff, this week proposed purchasing or leasing compact cars for use by process servers. This would result in a "considerable saving" to the county, he said.

Sargent also called the fee schedule which is being used by the sheriff's office "completely outmoded."

To bring it into line with present-day costs, he urged the State Legislature to take action to establish new fees. "Once elected, I will work hard to move the State Legislature on this point," he said.

Tots make waves at Y with new swim class

Boys and girls aged three-five can learn to swim at the Summit Area YMCA in a special instruction class offered two times a week for five weeks beginning on Sunday.

The program, called Tadpoles, was designed for this age group by local YMCA director Marjorie M. Murphy, who also wrote a book on the subject, "Teaching the Very Young to Swim" (Association Press). The book is used by YMCAs and colleges internationally and is in its third printing.

The program consists of adjustment to the water in gradual steps that stress a positive but gentle approach. Mrs. Murphy, who has had over 20 years' experience in swim instruction, commented "A child must first learn to love the water, get to know it's not to be feared, but at the same time gain respect for it and get to know his limitations. Parents play an important role in developing the child's attitude toward swimming, and information about this is available to them. The child should begin at this early age to develop an activity that can provide enjoyment and help him stay physically fit for a lifetime.

"Children must learn how to swim early, as they are exposed to water much younger and much more readily today. Three years old is the age established by the Pediatric Society, the American Medical Association, and the Council for National Cooperation in Aquatics (CNCA)." Mrs. Murphy has been a pre-school swimming committee member for six years of the CNCA.
Mrs. Murphy added:
"The Tadpole program uses swimming instruction devices to aid in the child's adjustment, as well as giving him a positive self image, while developing strength and skill. Flotation devices allow him to propel himself without being supported by the teacher, which helps him gain self confidence.

"Because he can use the entire pool he does not develop a fear of deep water and he can swim or kick laps of the pool, thereby strengthening his muscles and heart, and developing skill. It is not uncommon to see a three-year-old swimming laps of the pool in his second or third lesson.

"As soon as his muscles and technique have developed, he may try swimming without aid for part of each lesson until he is strong enough to swim on his own. By this time he has learned many skills and is at home in the water with a healthy attitude towards swimming."

Jacobson urges cut in 'windfall' revenues

Joel R. Jacobson, president of the N.J. Public Utilities Commission, has given his support to legislation which would reduce "windfall" revenues for communities where electric generation and gas production facilities are located.

Jacobson complained that small communities receive windfall revenues "only comparable to the oil-rich sheikdoms of the Middle East."

Lower Alloway Township in Salem County, for example, received $6.2 million last year, or $4,465 for every one of the 1,400 persons living in the community. He contrasted this with the $36 per capita for Newark.

In Linden, where Public Service Electric & Gas operates a generating station and a synthetic natural gas production plant, the per capita income under the gross receipts and franchise tax on utilities was about $130 on revenues of $6.5 million.

Two bills are being considered by the legislature to modify the "windfall" revenues. The assembly version would take five percent of the revenues away from the municipalities where facilities are located. The senate version would set a municipal revenue limit based on funds received in 1973-74 and allocate 25 percent of the difference between that time period and now to the state. In both cases, the state funds would be redistributed to senior citizens and/or poverty level consumers based on a needs formula.

Jacobson stressed that by either formula, communities now receiving the multi-million dollar gross receipts taxes would suffer only minor financial discomfort.

"The growth of these taxes since 1973 indicates that in actual dollar amounts the communities would be suffering little if any revenue loss if these percentages were applied," said Jacobson.

On a statewide basis, the utilities taxes raised $184 million in 1973, $215 million in 1974, $300 million in 1975 and $315 million in 1976.

"It is my hope that the legislature will support the proposal to create a state subsidy pool from the gross receipts and franchise tax which could be used to ease the burdens of higher utility bills for senior citizens and other low-income citizens." He predicted that $15.4 million could be used to help low-income consumers meet their utility bills under the 5 percent formula in the bill being considered by the assembly.

The program, "Past, Present and Future," focused on the impact of current and future societal changes on the Girl Scout organization. Guest panelists were: Carol Reynolds of Roselle, Mrs. Hecht and Jack Daly of Westfield.

On a statewide basis, the utilities taxes raised $184 million in 1973, $215 million in 1974, $300 million in 1975 and $315 million in 1976.

Sales at Holiday City set record in '76-77

Holiday City at Berkeley Township has reported that for its fiscal year ending February 1977 it registered more than 500 contracts signed for homes in the adult community.

Hirair Hovnanian, president of Hovsons Inc., developers of the 5,000-home recreation-oriented community in Ocean County, said the record-smashing sales performance is not only pleasing, but proof that personalized management pays off.

"Many major adult communities have an absentee management," explained the veteran New Jersey real estate developer. "When they lack the personal touch, the hands-on management, they lose control. Unfortunately, too often this results in neglected properties, neglected residents. Happily, I can say that at Holiday City we are all involved in every stage of the development, from ground clearing and foundation work to maintenance work and recreational improvements."

Holiday City records show that 75 percent of its residents who moved in last year did so on the recommendation of existing residents.

Hovsons completed 1,600 homes in nearby Holiday City in Toms River, where more adults bought more homes in less time than at any other community in New Jersey. A majority of the home buyers there also were referred by residents.

That same pattern has emerged at Holiday City at Berkeley, where 3,000 homes have been built and another 300 are under construction. Plans have been completed for an additional 1,600 single-family homes.

"The only way to survive in this business is to take an active role in it," admits Hovnanian. He's been involved in all phases of development at the two Holiday City complexes. And he still drives out to new sites to check drainage, underground utility line installation, garage foundations and the like.

Buyers of homes in the complex, designed for people 52 and over, find bright, centrally oil-heated homes, which are all single-family and detached. Each buyer owns the home and lot. It's not a condominium or a cooperative. It's an outright sale. And buyers have nine models from which to choose. They get monthly maintenance for $14 to $16—which entitles them to full club membership, lawn mowing, snow removal and private bus service.

If you'd like to see Holiday City, take the Garden State Parkway to Exit 82A (Lakehurst and Camden) and then Rt. 37 west about one mile to the entrance on left.

DRAMATICALLY bold and tall, Channel Club Tower stands high above the Atlantic Ocean beaches and Shrewsbury River marinas, both just steps away from this luxury condominium community in Monmouth Beach. The residents' balconies wrap around the building for thrilling views in all directions. For those used to the best in life and residence, Channel Club Tower is the ideal home choice, with its individual apartments, spacious and distinctive, and its social and recreational opportunities complete both within the community and the surrounding area.

Channel Club offers a haven to commuters

Channel Club Tower at Monmouth Beach and the twin towers of the World Trade Center have two things in common.

They both provide sweeping views of the Atlantic Ocean, and they are occupied by some of the same people—executives and professional people who commute between the two. There, the similarity stops, although it is only little more than an hour from the congestion of lower Manhattan on the Hudson River to the 17-story Channel Club Tower on the banks of the Shrewsbury River.

When the train stops at Penn Station in Newark shortly before 9 a.m., several persons who boarded at Monmouth Beach wave goodbye to those continuing on to Manhattan. Among them is Duncan MacFarlan, executive vice-president of the Prudential Insurance Co. of America.

"I can't think of any place in the state, or for that matter the country, that offers more in the way of good living than does the Monmouth-Ocean Counties area," said MacFarlan, a resident of Channel Club Tower.

Your Want Ad Is Easy To Place . . . Just Phone 686-7700

Commuting can sometimes be a problem, but it's a minor inconvenience when compared to all the pleasures of living here," he added. MacFarlan is an ardent sportsman who enjoys hunting, fishing, boating, tennis and swimming. Channel Club Tower has its own resort-sized, heated swimming pool, saunas and two tennis courts for exclusive use of residents and their guests.

There are many marinas nearby, fishing (even through the ice in winter), and duck and deer hunting in season. There are 20 championship golf courses within a 30-minute drive and of course, the white sand beaches of the Jersey shore are also nearby. The apartments have eight basic floor plans ranging in price from $43,300 to $89,700. One, Model D, which offers more than 1,600 square feet of living space, is situated at each end of the building and has views on three sides. Each is composed of two bedrooms, two baths, a formal dining room, 27-by-14 ft. living room and two balconies.

Wall-to-wall carpeting, pre-wiring for telephones and television, appliances, ample closet and storage space, and solar-tinted windows are some of the features.

Privacy is assured with round-the-clock doorman service (guests are announced through an intercom system). There is covered parking for residents and a parking area for guests, along with valet parking service.

Residents share in all the benefits of home ownership. They enjoy the tax advantages, plus growing equity in the property, while all ser-

Kaufman gets new sales post

The A-S Development Corp. has named Jerry Kaufman director of marketing and sales for Channel Club Towers, the 17-story condominium community in Monmouth Beach.

Kaufman had been director of marketing for Primrose Farmers, a 1,400-unit residential community in Somers, N.Y.

Channel Club Towers offers views of the ocean and the Shrewsbury River from the condo balconies. Private recreational facilities include tennis courts and swimming pool, health club and social areas, as well as membership in the Channel Club, which is situated directly across from the Towers.

Directly across from the high-rise community's doors are marinas for the mooring of residents' boats and sailing vessels. The surrounding area offers golf and country clubs.

Security is important at Channel Club Towers, with all guests announced via a closed-circuit television system. Valet parking is provided.

Services, such as maintenance of lawns, snow removal and garbage collection, are taken care of by professionals.

Barrymor company opens medical center

Lakewood's newest medical center, constructed and managed by IMF Associates, a subsidiary of the Barrymor Enterprises construction firm, was officially dedicated recently. The two-story medical facility is located opposite Paul Kimball Hospital on Rt. 9 in Lakewood.

Present at the grand opening were Lakewood Mayor H. George Buckwald, many Ocean County Freeholders, business people and area physicians.

According to the mayor, Barrymor Enterprises plays a vital role in the continuing development of the community. "The new medical center represents Lakewood's added ability to provide its residents with much needed increased medical services," he said.

Fifty percent of the building's 17,000 square feet is leased. Among the specialists relocating to the center are a neurosurgeon, a neurologist, ophthalmologists and a dentist. Negotiating for space are two internists, a cardiologist, an allergist, and a mental health association.

The lower level of the center is reserved for medical related businesses. Located there now are a pharmacy and a hospital surgical supply distributor.

Murray Weshnak, president of Barrymor Enterprises, stated that integration of various medical specialists with related businesses creates a strong network of services convenient for patients. Weshnak added, "The medical center is surrounded by three large nursing homes, totaling over 600 beds, three home communities representing over 3,000 families, and, of course, Paul Kimball Hospital."

Special features such as barrier-free entrances and exits, minimum incline ramps and assist bars have been installed for disabled patients.

The medical facility is designed for comfort. "Each area leased," stated Weshnak, "has its own water" heater, temperature control thermostat, rest room, built-in air-conditioning unit and heavy insulation." Space, ranging from 600 to 4,200 square feet, is offered for lease to each tenant. Heat is supplied to the upper level at no cost to the physician. Special improvements necessary to a physician's specialty are to be installed at the builders cost. Also provided are lighting and maintenance of common areas, exterior building and grounds maintenance, lighted outdoor and indoor sign directories and landscaped grounds.

Originally, the site was designated for an office building. "As the need in northern Ocean County for more doctors became critical, we redesigned the building's plans for medical specialist use. Hopefully, news of the center will attract more doctors and thereby ease the tremendous burden on medical people here now," Weshnak explained.

Prior to the medical center's opening, Mayor Buckwald dedicated an original, full-color painting donated to the Lakewood community by Weshnak on behalf of Barrymor Enterprises. The painting by Tom's River artist James Muraglia depicts the social and economic growth of Lakewood.

The medical facility is designed for comfort. "Each area leased," stated Weshnak, "has its own water" heater, temperature control thermostat, rest room, built-in air-conditioning unit and heavy insulation." Space,

Residents of Fawn Lakes have many advantages which are not immediately visible, but nevertheless are important to an adult community, according to Frederick Duffy, manager of the manci-owned development on Rt. 72 in Manahawkin.

"When you purchase a home, it isn't likely that you'll give too much attention to such things as the location of the hospital, firehouse, or the first aid center," he said. "Yet in any community, particularly an adult community, these are things which must be taken into consideration."

He added, "Fawn Lakes is only two miles, or a few minutes from Southern Ocean County Hospital.

Marc Heights section has high sales mark

The recent opening of the final section of Marc Heights has been matching the earlier sales success recorded at the single-family home community, located in Hazlet off Exit 117 of the Garden State Parkway. The earlier sections of Marc Heights, built by the Howard Siegel Companies, were completely sold out in months.

"New visitors to the area, referrals from the builder's other communities and old-time area residents recognize the Marc Heights property as the last available pastoral land in this strategically-located area of the state. For commutation, proximity to beaches and the opportunity to live in a bucolic setting, the location is the last of its type in this part of New Jersey," a spokesman said.

The Howard Siegel Companies of Monmouth County offers six models of ranch and two-story homes, priced from $45,990 to $52,990.

As a result of the demands for residence at Marc Heights even before the official grand opening, a number of homes in the new section have already been sold. The first section of Marc Heights was sold out entirely just six months after the initial public viewing.

One home model that has been popular at Marc Heights is the Twain Marc IV, priced at $52,990. It features large living and dining rooms, a 180-square-foot family room with French door access to a patio, kitchen, utility room, powder room and garage on the ground floor. The four bedrooms and two full-sized bathrooms are on the second floor.

Marc Heights is only minutes away from the southern shore resorts, yet has access to New York City by the Parkway, N.J. Turnpike and the Hazlet station of the Pennsylvania Railroad.

Beaches at Keansburg are only 10 minutes away; the Garden State Arts Center just one mile down the parkway; state, county and local parts are in the surrounding area.

Schools, shopping centers and recreational facilities in the neighborhood. For those who have boats, there are marinas nearby with inlet passages to the sea. Such swimming, boating and fishing sports as Sandy Hook, Sea Bright and Long Branch are just 30 minutes away.

The Twain Marc IV and five other models of ranch

Scarborough puts emphasis on insulation

A seminar was held recently at the Hilton Inn Hotel, Tinton Falls, on a money-saving, easy-to-maintain, optional, energy-saving system to be used in the single family home developments of Weatherly and Fox Hollow in Ocean County.

New Jersey representatives from York, Dow, and separate consulting engineering firms, together with print, bill-board and radio representatives, heard Bob Scarborough, the director of the corporation, and Greg DiSabbatino, North Jersey manager, describe the system, which saves up to 41 percent in annual fuel costs.

When this electric and totally transistorized system is installed in a Scarborough home, it not only saves energy, but also is easily maintained and serviced.

DiSabbatino noted the system features pump, insulation sheathing, polyethylene vapor interior barrier, attic insulation, thermostatically controlled attic fan and thermal break windows.

"Based on the existing models, the price for this system ranges from $1,500 to $1,800, giving the home owner complete year-round comfort, while costing less than central air conditioning for the same existing models."

A display showing the system itself and its energy saving components will be on view at both Fox Hollow, in Manchester, and Weatherly, in Pleasant Plains.

Mark Kupperman of Maplewood has been named vice-president of Cherson, Carroll & Holzer Inc., a national advertising-marketing-public relations firm headquartered in Livingston, it was announced by Lee Cherson, president.

Kupperman joined the agency in 1974 as creative director and has directed the firm's campaigns for clients engaged in community development, banking, real estate brokerage, retailing and other industries. He has won awards for copywriting and annual report design.

Formerly director of advertising and public relations for Warner Publishing, a Manhattan-based division of Warner Communications, Kupperman also was in the corporate public relations staff of Cowles Communications. 2 managers at Clearwater

Allen Weingarten, president of Clearwater Village, Spotswood, has retained the services of Dominick LaBarber as Clearwater's first resident manager.

LaBarber will be on 24-hour call to handle emergency and normal maintenance problems. He brings 28 years of building trades experience to the job and has served in a similar capacity for the last four years at Monmouth Mobile Home Estates in Monmouth Junction.

Weingarten stated that as the expansion of the mobile home park proceeds men will be hired to work under LaBarber so that every village in the park will have a maintenance man responsible for its upkeep.

Clearwater Village also has named Kenneth Watson to head overall development of the mobile home park.

With deliveries running at better than two units per week, Weingarten decided to retain an experienced construction man to oversee all future phases of the park.

Watson has been involved in general contracting and construction work since 1948. Before taking over as project manager at Clearwater, he was a vice-president in the Reidson Construction Co. of Paramus.

SHOPPING CENTER — Artist's rendering shows the 100,000-square foot Galaxy Mall, nearing completion at the Galaxy apartment complex in Guttenberg. A movie theater, restaurant—discotheque and a variety of shops will be included in the two-level mall and promenade.

Galaxy Mall complex will include a cinema

A modern 600-seat movie theater serving the metropolitan New York area will open this summer at the Galaxy Mall, now nearing completion atop the Palisades in Guttenberg.

The theater, part of a 100,000-square-foot dual-level shopping mall and promenade, is under construction within the $75 million Galaxy apartment complex at 7000 Boulevard East.

When completed, Galaxy Mall will house a variety of shops, as well as a restaurant and discotheque, Kippy's Place.

Norman Belfer announced the consummation of a long-term leasing transaction for 13,000-square-feet of mall space with B.S. Moss Enterprises, a theater development company.

Belfer, of the joint venture partnership between Belfer & Partners and the Prudential Insurance Company of America, said he expected "Galaxy Cinema" to be ready for opening in late June.

Part of the chain of first-run motion picture theaters owned and operated by New York-based Moss concern, the two-level theater will have elevator and escalator service, free enclosed parking facilities, and the latest advances in seating, sound and projection, including a specially designed "floating screen."

According to Charles Moss Jr., vice-president of the theater company, the Galaxy Cinema's first presentation will be the new Liza Minelli-Robert DeNiro rerelease "New York, New York." The Moss firm operates six theaters in Manhattan and cinemas in New Jersey, Long Island and California.

Cushman & Wakefield Inc. is renting for the Galaxy Mall, which is situated directly across from Manhattan's 79th street marina.

In addition to shopping, health and recreation facilities, Galaxy offers an array of one, two and three-bedroom apartments, duplexes and penthouses, with rentals starting at $485 monthly. The Galaxy renting office is open seven days a week—from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. on weekdays and from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. on weekends.

NATALIE COLE

Epic seen at Elmora

"Voyage of the Damned," featuring an international all-star cast, opened yesterday at the Elmora Theater. Elizabeth, on a double bill with "Minnie and Moskowitz," starring Gena Rowlands and Seymour Cassel.

Set in 1939, "Voyage of the Damned," is a true-life epic of 937 German-Jewish refugees trapped on the high seas, unwanted by the world.

Stuart Rosenberg directed the film, which was written by Steve Shagan and David Butler from the book by Gordon Thomas and Max Morgan-Witts.

The performers include Faye Dunaway, Oskar Werner, Max von Sydow, Malcolm McDowell, Orson Welles, James Mason, Julie Harris, Ben Gazzara, Fernando Rey, Lee Grant, Sam Wanamaker, Lynne Frederick, Luther Adler, Wendy Hiller, Paul Koslo, Nehemiah Persoff, Maria Schell, Katharine Ross, Brian Gilbert, Georgina Hale, Michael Constantine, Jose Ferrer, Helmut Griem, Victor Spinetti, Janet Suzman, Frederick Jaeger.

Sellers films at Five Points

A double "Pink Panther" movie bill is being offered by the Five Points Cinema, Union, this week.

Peter Sellers plays the bumbling Inspector Clouseau in both film comedies, "The Return of the Pink Panther" and "The Pink Panther Strikes Again." Herbert Lom co-stars in the pictures.

"The Pink Panther also will be shown on Saturday and Sunday matinees at 1:30.

'Road' staged

The Garden State Theater Company's production of Jack Kirkland's adaptation of Erskine Caldwell's novel, "Tobacco Road," will be staged June 3 and 4 at the Whippany School Building, at 8:30 p.m. Tickets are on sale at the Morristown-Morris Township Library (358-6161) and at the Madison Library (377-0722).

Pick Of The LP's: UNPREDICTABLE by Natalie Cole (CAPITOL, SO 11600).

In less than two years, Natalie Cole has not only become the Princess of Soul, but also one of the leading ladies of the music world. She made her debut entrance in 1975 (after being a pre-med student) with her best-selling Gold "Inseparable" LP which was a Top 20 pop hit and Top 5 R&B-soul smash. It contained two big hit singles — "This Will Be" and the title tune. She won two Grammys in 1975 including "New Artist Of The Year." With that success, she quickly stepped from beneath the shadow cast by her legendary father, Nat King Cole.

On this, her third Gold album, Natalie includes songs, which include two she wrote alone: "Peaceful Living," "Your Eyes," range from the disco, uptempo "This Heart" to the warm and slow "Still In Love." The danceable "Party Lights" was written by one of the musicians on the record, keyboardist Tennyson Stephens. "I'm Catching Hell" is more than six minutes long and contains a spoken intro telling women to hang onto their men.

Additional numbers include: "Unpredictable You," "Be Mine Tonight," and "I Can't Breakaway."

TV study of disease

Along with thousands of other physicians at 500 hospitals throughout the United States, physicians in Saint Barnabas Medical Center, Livingston, are taking part in a major postgraduate educational effort — using television.

Physicians are being given current clinical information on the early identification and management of chronic complications of maturity-onset diabetes. These complications include diabetic retinopathy, diabetic nephropathy, and diabetic neuropathy.

The 50-minute videocassette program is entitled "Chronic Complications of Adult-Onset Diabetes: A Management Workshop." It was produced by the Network for Continuing Medical Education (NCME), an independent educational television service linking hospitals and medical schools throughout the nation, with the support of Pfizer Laboratories Division, Pfizer, Inc.

Interested physicians may contact Mrs. Robert Connor, director of the medical library, (201) 533-5051, at the Medical Center.

He makes a bee line to danger

When they swarm, police call Oberle

By KAREN ZAUTYK

It was Conrad Oberle to the rescue again last week, this time in Jersey City.

Oberle, of Indiana street, Union, is a professional beekeeper, and police departments throughout northern New Jersey have learned to call upon him when a problem with bee swarms occurs in their communities. On May 2, the Jersey City Emergency Squad summoned him to that Hudson County municipality where a colony of approximately 60,000 of the insects had produced a near-panic situation.

Someone had shaken a tree where a nest was located, and the colony swarmed into the street, landing on the tire of a parked car. "When I got there, there were three ambulances, the emergency squad, a fire truck, paramedics and about 50 policemen. There also were about 500 onlookers, and a lot of the people were scared. The movie 'Killer Bees' had been on television the night before, and somebody said that these were that kind of bee," Oberle related.

Neither Oberle nor his assistant, 20-year-old Barbara Lever of Linden, had any special gear with them, so they gathered the bees with their hands.

"When Barbara scooped up the first handful from the tire, a couple of people fainted," Oberle said. He used a broom to sweep the remainder into a pile, and then dumped them in a basket and drove them home in his auto.

The Jersey City bees have now taken up residence in a barrel on the roof of the Union County Extension Service building in Westfield, where Oberle teaches a 4-H course in beekeeping and organic gardening.

Oberle, 55, began beekeeping as a hobby when he was 13 and now maintains hives both at his home and at a friend's farm in Morris County. How many does he own? "You couldn't even count them with a calculator," he laughed. "There are approximately 180,000 in each colony, and I have five colonies at home." The 60,000-bee estimate from last week's rescue was made by weight. "There are about 10,000 bees to the pound, and we brought back six pounds," he explained.

Oberle said he has often been stung by his "pets" but he has no allergic reaction and no fear. Many times, he uses no protective gear when handling the insects. "I do use it at certain times, when I can sense I'll need it. By now, I know their habits and how they're going to react."

But Oberle has dealt with potentially dangerous situations. He recalled an incident several years ago in Livingston, when a colony of yellow-jackets had eaten their way through the wall of a home one night. Attracted by a night-light in a bedroom, they swarmed all over a sleeping teenager "covering her from head to foot."

"Luckily," Oberle said, "the girl's mother did not panic and did not awaken her," but instead called the police, who notified Oberle. All the lights in the home were put out, giving most of the insects the opportunity to fly off, then Oberle and a police officer awakened the girl, and the beekeeper got the remaining yellow-jackets off her. A doctor examined her, but she had not been stung.

However, after the police and the doctor had left, the girl's mother spotted one yellow-jacket on a window. She tried to hit it and it stung her in the forehead, sending her almost immediately into a coma. "I didn't even have time to call an ambulance," he said. He drove the woman to a hospital himself. She required two injections of adrenalin and emergency heart treatment "but she came out of it," Oberle said. "One doctor told me if we had arrived 10 minutes later, she would have died."

Oberle is careful to make the distinction between the carnivorous yellow-jackets and the honey bees he raises. "Our economy could not survive without honey bees' pollination," he stated. "If you are not allergic to bee stings, beekeeping is a wonderful hobby. You have something to do, but it does not take too much time. All you have to do is check the hives about twice a month." His Union County beekeeping course is aimed primarily at senior citizens, but all age groups are welcome, he said.

For persons who fear the insects, Oberle's advice is simply "don't panic." "When you become frightened and jump around, the adrenalin starts flowing and the bees can sense your fear. If one flies in your car, stop, be quiet. You could use a piece of paper to squeeze it against the windshield." The best immediate treatment for a sting, provided there is no allergic reaction (which requires an immediate injection) is to apply water, which neutralizes the venom, he said.

Last week's emergency call to Jersey City was a return visit for Oberle. Two weeks earlier he was called by the FBI to the postal complex there.

In case you didn't know, bees are shipped through the mail—but this time some of them escaped from their "cage." He and Barbara got them back inside and another trailer-load of honey bees was on its way.

For Oberle, it's a honey of a way to make a living.

St. Benedict's cites expansion

Abbot Melvin J. Valvano, O.S.B., president of St. Benedict's Preparatory School, has announced that the school will soon begin construction of a new recreational facility on an acre and one-third of urban renewal land behind the present school buildings. The monks of the Newark Abbey who run St. Benedict's have already contracted to purchase the land from the Newark Redevelopment and Housing Authority.

The new facilities will include a sizable playing field, with room for a competition board-track, a multi-purpose court area including tennis and handball courts, a plaza for exhibitions and performances, and a small parking area for school and monastery cars.

Abbot Melvin noted that the new construction is a visible expression of the monks' commitment to remain in Newark and continue St. Benedict's.

Mrs. Richman honored by Kean conference fund

A fund establishing a series of conferences focusing on the problems of the aging has been instituted at Kean College, Union, in honor of Sadie Richman, who is retiring this spring as assistant to the dean of graduate studies.

Mrs. Richman, a former Roselle resident, started work on her bachelor's degree in elementary education in 1957 after the death of her husband Harry, a former principal of School 15 in Elizabeth. She earned her undergraduate degree in 1961 and received a master's in behavioral sciences from Kean the following year.

Mrs. Richman taught in Elizabeth for two years before joining the Kean College staff in 1964 as assistant to the dean of graduate studies.

While attending Kean she helped to organize the Renata Club (from the Latin "to be reborn"), an organization for students over 25 years of age. Several times since its founding, the club has won the President's Cup, an award given to the Kean student group with the highest grade-point average for the academic year.

Mrs. Richman, who lives in Elizabeth, is studying for a doctorate in gerontology at Union Graduate School, Yellow Springs, Ohio. Her daughter, Joan, is doing graduate work in gerontology at the University of Southern California.

The fund for the conference series will be started with $1,000. The Graduate Student Association contributed $500, which was matched by the college.

New Jersey has been selected by the federal government to participate in a nation-wide program aimed at reducing the numbers of disabled veterans still out of work.

U.S. Secretary of Labor Ray Marshall pointed out that the N.J. State Employment Service has begun hiring 71 disabled Vietnam era veterans as part of the Disabled Veterans Outreach Program.

The newly hired staff will serve as entry level para-professionals in temporary federally funded jobs (18 months) seeking out eligible disabled veterans assisting local public employment service staffs in improving services to which the disabled veterans are entitled.
