WILL THE REAL ... - In the Sept. 15th Issue of the Echo in a feature article about Mrs. Emily Hoffarth, Mountainside's first full-time librarian, the 1952 picture above asked readers if they could identify themselves or friends. So far, six students have been recognized. From left, standing next to Mrs. Hoffarth, is Tommy Tunninello; Lois Frankenfield is kneeling with a book on her lap and Linda Hambacher, whose parents are still in town, is sitting on the end of the bench in front. Three students named on the rear bench were Barbara Buck, the light blond, whose mother is a secretary at Deerfield; Maureen Britton is on Barbara's right (her mother is also still in town) and Peggy Raymond on Barbara's left.

Council ordinance would combine public safety, administrator posts

The Mountainside Borough Council last week introduced an ordinance that would establish a combined position of director of public safety and business administrator within the borough.

The individual, to be named by the council and Mayor Thomas Ricciardi, would have authority over the police department and would serve as a liaison between the department members, other borough governing bodies and the community. The ordinance, introduced by Councilman Abe Suckno, states that the director of public safety would have complete authority over the police department including hiring and firing. organization, scheduling, and overall management.

Along with general supervisory duties, the position's responsibilities also call for him or her to serve as a buffer between the townspeople and the police, acting on any complaints concerning the police from the community and responding to orders handed down from the borough council or the mayor. In a prepared statement, Mayor Ricciardi said the council felt the position was necessary to improve communications between the police department and the community. 'Police-community relations are becoming more complicated," stated Ricciardi, and he added that the public safety director would deal with public relations and community information. The person assigned to the job reportedly would also act as a business administrator, taking up the duties of Helena Dunne, current administrator and borough clerk, who will be resigning the beginning of next year. Councilman Suckno has declined to say whether the job creation is connected to Dunne's resignation. He said only that the council has seen a need for the position as a way of improving police performance and communication.

The council said it has not decided what the salary for the new position will be. Suckno said the governing body will begin interviewing for the position following the vote on the ordinance Dec. 20, assuming it is passed by the council.

Regional board votes for $15 million budget

The Union County Regional High School District board Tuesday adopted a tentative budget totaling $14,988,587 for the 1978-79 fiscal year, including $13,844,059 for current expenses, $269,495 for capital projects and $875,033 for repayment of bond debts. The school board, scheduling a public hearing on the tentative budget for Jan 17, said it would represent less than a 3 percent increase in both current expenses and the total including capital outlay and debt service. The budget will go before the voters in the six constituent towns on Feb. 7.

John O'Hara, school board secretary and fiscal officer for the district, said a state-ordered "cap" would freeze spending for current expenses at about the $13,844,059 level, but would allow flexibility on capital outlay. The tentative plan does not include an estimated $100,000 to light courts for night tennis at the district's four campuses: Jonathan Dayton in Springfield, David Brearley in Kenilworth, Gov. Livingston in Berkeley Heights and Arthur Johnson in Clark.

A Springfield citizens' group, headed by Marvin Strauss, has been lobbying for installation of tennis lights at Dayton and had asked the Springfield Township Committee to finance the project if the school board does not.

Charles Vitale Jr., board president, said he believes "it is the consensus of the board" that district voters would defeat a tennis-court lighting measure as a separate ballot item, and would react unfavorably to its inclusion in the total budget

But Natalie Waldt, senior board member from Springfield, made it clear that plans for capital spending are still tentative, and night-tennis advocates are welcome to attend the

Jan. 17 budget hearing. Vitale said the board was not closing the door on the possibility of in-dependent tennis-light financing by a township that wants them on a local high school campus. He indicated letters will go out to each town where a campus is located. Meanwhile, board member Virginia Muskus of Berkeley Heights asked the assistant superintendent for buildings and grounds, Lewis Fredericks, to get firmer estimates of what it would cost the district to operate the lights if installed. The Jan. 17 budget hearing will be held at 8 p.m. at the Arthur Johnson campus on Westfield avenue in Clark. The tentative budget calls for $540,060

Women's rights gain Houston solidarity noted

By PATRICIA GARRISON The International Woman's Year Convention just held in Houston was not restricted to feminists, according to homemaker and full-time feminist activist Myra Terry-Meisner of Mountainside. She said about 20 percent of the delegates were opposed to equal rights for women, gay rights and abortion. But the 33-year-old delegate said the groups "against women" were not strong enough to dampen the feelings of "solidarity and sisterhood" that helped pass the convention's

She admitted that her topic remained in the shadow as others deemed more urgent took the spotlight. But she said the fact that it is now being discussed as a vital area of concern has helped push this project of the women's movement further along.

"Just bringing it out in the open was important," she said. "The President, Congress and the country as a whole have to realize that homemakers are an

Concert series offers program by Pingry units

The Community Presbyterian Church of Mountainside will present the third program of this year's community concert series Sunday at 7 p.m. Seven small ensembles from the Pingry School of Hillside will perform many styles and periods of music.

The Recorder Consort, Chamber Players and Flute Ensemble, under the direction of Mrs. Lee Kogan, will play music by Rennaisance and Baroque composers, including Purcell, Bach, di Lasso and Gibbons.

The Women's Sextet is a studentfounded group, now in its second year. Its members are drawn from the Balladeers, a small mixed chorus directed by Ronald Thayer. Both these groups have a varied repertoire, from spirituals and folk songs to more serious sacred motets and anthems.

The Buttondowns, a men's ensemble consisting of 21 members, perform under student directors, but are trained by Antoine duBourg and James Little. Like the other vocal ensembles, they will sing both serious and light works,

The budget also forecasts a drop from $169,139 to $88,229 in special projects, such as compensatory education, totally financed by state or federal aid, but O'Hara noted that further special grants might be obtained. Other projections include $157,400 for adult education, down from $168,277; $60,850 for summer school, a slight increase from $59,050, and $19,300 for vocational evening courses, up from $10,000.

master plan by an overwhelming majority.

"There were many more people in favor of the convention plan than against it," said Terry-Meisner. "Women became aware at the convention_that_feminism_is_a_good_thing and it's desirable to be a feminist.

Terry-Meisner was one of 40 New Jersey delegates who took their causes to Houston to draw up basic proposals on the status of women which will be sent to Washington. She said the activists now face the job of making sure the women's plan is not dropped in a file and forgotten.

"We've got to insure that legislation is implemented in keeping with the national plan of action that was voted by the majority in Houston," said Terry-Meisner.

oppressed group." -0-0-TERRY-MEISNER cited Social Security payments, divorce and money problems as the three main areas where homemakers are either ignored or not given an equal share.

"Right now, she said, a widow does not get full Social Security benefits because she didn't work all those years. No value is put on the woman's work as a homemaker." The feminist said a homemaker would be worth more than $25,000 a year if she were paid for her services. But she said "woman's work" has always been considered unimportant and women have not yet learned how to protect themselves.

"Being a homemaker is like playing Russian Roulette," said Terry-Meisner. "She gives up a career, has a family and then finds she's unfulfilled. But she has no job skills and is not given credit for bringing up the next generation."

She explained that women who no longer have men to support them, because of death, divorce or beatings, usually find themselves "displaced homemakers." Terry-Meisner explained that these women are unable to support themselves and generally have to go on welfare.

"Women are afraid of the women's movement," sl.e said, "and they are uncomfortable hearing that they are being exploited."

But Terry-Meisner said they have to be made more aware of what can happen if they do not consider their futures. She said her numerous speaking engagements as a spokeswoman for the National Organization for Women attempt to inform women as to their rights and the realities of being dependent on their husbands

She said she is in favor of alimony, "because women deserve that money. It is back pay for the years they worked as homemakers."

She added solutions to the problems confronting homemakers include 'divorce insurance" and salary for their services. But, said Terry-Meisner, it will be about 10 years before homemakers' rights are recognized.

"That's how long it took for people to agree to 'equal pay for equal work'," she said. "We are now into the second decade.'

Dayton tops arch-rival in holiday battle, 24-8

By KIRK KUBACH

The Jonathan Dayton Regional High School Football team took home a victory Thanksgiving Day, as it downed arch-rival West Orange, 24-8, for the Bulldogs' first victory of the season.

Finally finding the necessary experience they have been looking for this season, the players successfully put it all together and came out on top.

Junior quarterback Albert Preziosi led the Bulldogs as he completed six out of 14 passes and rushed for 60 yards on nine carries. Offensive end Nick Caricalo also had a spectacular day as he scored with a 25-yard reception from Preziosi. The tandem backfield of Bob Bohrod and Bave Flood, along with tailback Anthony Circelli, all scored.

Linemen Bill Young, Pete Rosomendo, Skep Liguori, and Greg Shomo also used their strengths to open holes for their team that totaled 214 yards on the ground.

A different kind of used car from a different kind of dealer.

The used cars listed here aren't ordinary used cars. Because they don't come from an ordinary dealership.

At Pace, a customer is respected as the owner of a fine automobile, not dismissed as a troublesome accessory to it.

Because of our service, we're selling more and more new Buicks. And taking in more and more fine used cars as trade-ins. The cars listed here are the best of them.

Before we put a used car up for sale, we inspect it inside and out. We fix what needs fixing—and if we can't we simply don't sell the car to you.

Then, we protect every used car we sell with Pace Buick's own double warranty: 3 months or 3,000 miles, whichever comes first, on the entire car plus 6 months/6.000 miles (whichever comes first) limited to the engine and drive train.

Best of all, when you buy a used car from Pace, you receive the same attentive service that's winning us more and more new-car customers.

So, if you're tired of looking at the same old kind of used cars, come to Pace. You'll find the kind of used car you can trust—because you can also trust the dealership they come from.

Crash blamed on 'slick road'

What one driver described as "a slick road" resulted in a three-car accident at the corner of Mill road and Cardinal drive in Mountainside last Wednesday.

Police reported the cars of Barbara Levy, 22, of Bradley Beach and John Aagaard, 21, of Cranford were stopped at the traffic light when Aagaard's auto was hit from the rear by a car driven by James Boyle, 53, of Westfield. The impact of the crash caused Aagaard's car to smash into the car driven by Levy. Police said Boyle told them he tried to stop at the intersection, but as unable to because of slick road conditions

All cars were driven from the scene, but Aagaard suffered head injuries and was treated and released at Overlook Hospital.

"Family members should know what to do and what not to do if someone swallows something harmful or potentially fatal," he said. "Our free poster contains the latest first aid information on poisoning from the National Academy of Sciences-National Research Council," Hill explained. "It can be posted on the medicine cabinet, in the kitchen or near a telephone." The poster also has space for inclusion of telephone numbers of the Poison Control Center and rescue squad.

Hill noted that the latest medical findings from the Academy indicate that vomiting should be induced in a person who has swallowed poison, unless the Poison Centrol Center or a physician advises. The Red Cross poster cautions against relying on first aid advice found on container labels. Such advice be incorrect. Hill added that advice should be sought from the Poison Control Center or a physician.

The poster also offers first aid for both conscious and unconscious victims of poisoning, together with procedures for handling convulsions and for giving first aid in isolated areas such as campsites.

"The best course of action for anyone is to take a Red Cross first aid course, Hill said. "Until that time, however, the public-especially families with small children-should obtain a copy of this poster as soon as possible '

The telephone number to call to obtain a Red Cross first aid for poisoning poster is 232-7090. Or, interested persons may send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to: "Poison Westfield-Mountainside Poster,' Chapter, 321 Elm st, Westfield.

2 autos collide at Echo Lanes; 4 persons hurt

Three accidents were reported in Mountainside during the Thanksgiving weekend, with one resulting in injuries to both drivers and two passengers.

Mountainside police said they are still investigating a two car collision on Rt. 22 last Saturday that occured when the car driven by Brian Sheehan, 28, of Plainfield skidded into the auto of Lawrence Tagle, 23, of North Plainfield as both drivers were heading west on the highway. Sheehan reportedly left the scene of the accident and was found by police at his home.

There was a two-car crash last Friday at the exit of the Echo Lanes Bowling Alley on Rt. 22 when a car driven by Pamela Lavigne 24, of Piscataway pulled out of the driveway and collided with the auto of James Bottomley of Berkeley Heights. Police reported Bottomley was taken to Overlook Hospital with pains in his lower arm; the two passengers in his car also were treated for head injuries. Police said Lavigne was treated by her own doctor for head injuries.

A similar accident occurred Saturday when Stephen Bender, 17, of Westfield drove out of a driveway onto Springfield avenue, colliding with a car driven by Christoph Fraites, 19, of Watchung. Fraites' vehicle was passing Bender's auto when the cars collided.

New bicycle law requirements cited by borough Woman's Club

Mrs. Peter Steiner, the Mountainside Woman's Club safety chairwoman, this week reminded everyone that, with the holidays approaching, there will be many new bicycles in operation on the roadways.

"The New Jersey Office of Highway Safety," she said, "has a law on bicycles, which would be wise for bicycle operators to acquaint themselves with.'

Some of the requirements in the law, which was effective as of last May 27, are

-Lights on bicycles for night use; ~Front, rear and pedal reflectors; -Audible signaling device, such as a horn or bell. No sirens or whistles are permitted which are only used for emergency véhicles:

-Brakes in good working condition; -No hitching onto another vehicle;

ARTS, CRAFTS FAIR—Connie Muirhead, displays her hollday decorations, which will be on sale at the AAUW arts and crafts fair at the Deerfield Middle School cafeteria Saturday from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. The fair will benefit the Mitzl Salmini Scholarship Fund.

-Only one passenger on a one-seat bicycle; -Both hands must be on handlebars and feet on pedals while in operation. No trick or fancy riding is permitted on roadways;

-Persons riding on roadways must ride in single file;

-Any person operating a bicycle must ride as near to the right side of the roadway as practical. Although pedestrian law instructs persons walking where there are no sidewalks to face traffic, bicycles are considered part of the traffic flow and riders should proceed in the same direction as vehicular traffic. Stopping at a busy intersection and walking the bicycle across is strongly suggested.

If a bicycle operator is 17 years old or older and in violation of the law, a police officer can issue a summons to appear in traffic court. If 16 years old or younger, a summons returnable before juvenile authorities can be issued by a police officer. All bicycles must obey traffic signs and signals, said Mrs Steiner.

"Since so many of our bicycle riders are adults," she said, "let us be adults and set the safety example for our children to follow.

'SPECIAL INTERESTS'

Whatever is Gov. Byrne waiting for? Five months ago the N.J. legislature passed overwhelmingly a bill requiring that all lobbying expenditures over $750 a year be reported to the Election Law Enforcement Commission. The governor himself promised to sign this bill into law after its passage, but he has not done so, and time is running out

The mysterious delay suggests that special interests are hard at work as usual behind the scenes, doing their best to keep things that way. It is high time for the governor to keep his promise and sign this vitally important

A proposed team-teaching course in social studies and English at Dayton drew much board attention. Siegel said it would serve above-average students. -The board ordered a framed resolution praising state-champion soccer players and their coach at Gov. Other board members called for some study of how the district honors statecompetition winners in academic subjects, as well as athletics.

Social security should be part of family plans

Noting that this is the time of year when many people take stock of their own situation by evaluating the protection they and their families have, Robert E. Willwerth, social security district manager in Union County, suggested this week that families should include social security when the evaluation is made.

There are aspects to social security that people tend to overlook when they think of the protection they have under social security, Willwerth said, adding that most people seem to think social security is a retirement program.

A very important part of social security protection is provided to disabled workers and their families and to the survivors of deceased workers. In fact, about 85 million men, women and children under 62 get social security checks every month. About one-third of all social security benefit dollars goes to them, according to Willwerth.

Willwerth also gave an example of how social security survivor benefits could help a family. "Consider a young worker who dies at age 29, leaving a wife and two young children, ages 4 and 6," he said. "Say this worker had

High Tar No Longer Essential To Taste.

Tests prove low tar MERIT delivers flavor of higher tar cigarettes.

For years, it seemed the only way to get real taste from a cigarette was to smoke a high tar brand.

High tar cigarettes had an "exclusive" on taste.

Today, all the standards are changing because of a new taste breakthrough called 'Enriched Flavor' tobacco. MERIT is packed with 'Enriched Flavor' tobacco. Tobacco fortified with certain key flavor-rich ingredients isolated in cigarette smoke and proven to deliver flavor way out of proportion to tar.

Trade unit to, implement new auto warranty law

Implementing the state's new warranty reform law will be the primary goal of the New Jersey Automobile Dealers Association in the coming year.

Leading the effort is the statewide dealer group's newly-elected president, Richard V. Crosta, an American Motors dealer in Union. The law, signed last May by Gov. Brendan T. Byrne, is designed to assure that car dealers and their customers are treated fairly by new car manufacturers for repair work done under warranty.

"Warranty practices established by manufacturers have caused serious problems in New Jersey," said Crosta. CARPENTERS, ATTENTIONI Sell yourself to 30,000 families with a low cost Want Ad. Call 686-7700.

"Factories are reimbursing dealers at unrealistic rates, well below competitive market levels.

"This causes all customers to suffer," Crosta asserted. "Because dealers make negligible profit or lose money from warranty business, they have to charge higher prices to retail customers.

"In effect, the cash-paying customer has to make up the losses incurred when dealers repair cars still under manufacturers' warranties," Crosta explained. "But in New Jersey, this needn't be the case. Our new lawhailed by consumer and financial experts across the nation-says that manufacturers must reimburse dealers at prevailing retail rates for warranty repairs.

Grant awarded to aid minority firms in state

A statewide management and technical aid service to minorit; -owned construction companies in New Jersey has been established with a $200,000 grant to the Business Development Center of the Graduate School of Business Administration at Rutgers University in Newark.

The grant, from the New Jersey Department of Labor and Industry, was announced at a news conference in Newark by Prof. Richard B. Tyler, director of the Business Development Center.

Its purpose is to aid minority firms to efficiently carry out their contracts with 219 New Jersey municipalities that will receive $217 million in federal Public Works funds. This assistance will be given by a new Contractors and Construction Trade Association Division in the Business Development Center. The division has set up field offices at the State University campuses in Newark, New Brunswick and Camden.

The federal local Public Works Act of 1977 requires that 10 percent of construction work in Federally financed projects be contracted with minority companies.

The Construction Trade and Management Assistance Division will help insure that the firms have, or acquire, the needed management skills to participate in local Public-Works projects

The division's three field offices, in North, Central and South Jersey, will be staffed by estimators and accountants from the Rutgers Business Development Center in Newark.

Each September as he returns to school, Peter Klein has a somewhat unusual answer when asked; "How did you spend your summer vacation?'

Dr. Klein, chairman of the department of philosophy at Rutgers University's Livingston College, and his wife Dana, who works for the schoolage parents program of the New Brunswick Public Schools, have spent 16 summer "vacations" as a fire lookout and firefighter for the National Forest Service.

He calls it the ideal way to combine the time needed for academic research with an enjoyable summer job in a glass-enclosed room atop 35-foot stilts, 90 miles from civilization in the middle of a national forest.

"English professors need libraries, scientists need labs for their research. But a philosopher needs only five or 10 books and a lot of peace and quiet," Dr. Klein said.

'The scenery is so gorgeous that it's really like apaid vacation. 'Our' tower is nestled between two mountain ranges with 10,000 foot peaks. Wildlife comes up to the base of the tower.

And, he added, the forest fire season happens to coincide perfectly with the academic calendar with its threemonth summer vacation

For several years the forest service used husband and wife teams as fire lookouts, living together in a 14-by-14foot cabin-on-a-tower and watching for the wisps of smoke that could signal the beginning of a forest fire.

It was in just such a tower, in 1961, that college students Dana and Peter Klein spent their honeymoon in sheer isolation. Later, Peter said, the same tower provided the perfect atmosphere for the completion of his Ph.D. thesis.

But 1969, Dr. Klein recalled, was a bad fire year in Flathead National Forest in Montana, where they were located. It provided him the opportunity to go from lookout to firefighter.

"The Forest Service asked if Dana would stay in the tower and if I would help out at the ranger station as a dispatcher and assistant fire control officer."

And so began a unique second career for a college professor. "A nice change from academia, with maybe a little of the immediate job gratification you can't find in teaching. When you fight a forest fire, you can tell if you are succeeding by the height of the flames...you know immediately Interested candidates for the opera auditions may contact the New Jersey State Opera offices at 50 Park pl. Newark, for detailed information.

"My experience is in a particular whether or not you are doing your job region and I couldn't see endangering "In addition, I can move in one day from supervising five or 10 people to myself or people in my command by working in an area with unfamiliar terrain, wind patterns and fire behavior," he said.

That refusal, though, could also be based in an affection he and Dana have apparently developed for Flathead They recently bought some land there and are spending whatever spare time they have building a summer homelarger than the fire-tower cabin but with all those other advantages so ideal to the philosopher-firefighter.

only marginal use. For the past few years the building has housed mostly support services for Martland, such as its volunteers, social services and engineering offices.

Relocation of these and the few remaining outpatient health care services is already underway.

Demolition of the building will be accomplished relatively unob-trusively-no wrecking ball or dynamite will be used-in stages that will take about a year. Special dust control measures and other precautions will be taken to minimize impact on the local community.

As of Dec. 15, Fairmount avenue, between 12th avenue and Cabinet street, will be closed to all traffic. Since the rear entrance to Martland, through the old building, will be closed, a temporary entrance will be open to the public at 12th avenue, near the emergency room entrance. The main entrance on Bergen street will remain open.

Eventually, nearly all personnel and services will be moved to CMDNJ's new College Hospital, which is due to be completed in late 1978 as part of the college's $200-million Newark campus complex. Meanwhile, to accommodate those who are located in the soon-to-be demolished building, a temporary relocation effort has begun.

Most of the services that are now relocating are outpatient, and hospital officials have launched a campaign to keep patients informed of the new locations. Included in the campaign is an emergency hot-line to the hospital's public affairs office. The number is 643-

Flying squirrels are 'on the air Radio transmitters used for tracking

Somewhere in the hills of Mount Kisco, N.Y. nine flying squirrels, their necks collared with radio transmitters, are sending out signals in the dead of night to an Upsala College woman professor as part of an unusual scientific study

Twice a week Dr. Jacalyn Giacalone Madden, a biology professor, goes on a noctutnal hunting expedition, tracking down the souirrels via a flashlight and her portable receiver in the valleys and on the ridges of Mount Kisco. It is all part of a seven-year study of the social system of the flying squirrels which are slightly larger than mice and glide through the air from tree to tree. Madden trapped the squirrels with peanut butter and sunflower seed ("They can't resist the smell of peanut butter") and then placed a radio transmitter collar around each squirrel's neck. At first it didn't work out because the squirrels chewed off the transmitters. The scientist found a solution this past spring, however, when she placed red pepper on the collars. That turned off the biting squirrels completely and the communicatioons system was saved.

Usually with a friend, Madden struggles through the underbrush of Mount Kisco late in the afternoon and they tune in their squirrel frequencies, following two squirrels from their nests through three of four hours of night activities. The beep signals keep the scientists in touch.

"They only come out at night and they're so quick we couldn't possibly keep up with them."

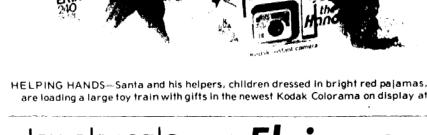

SO FAR IN HER STUDY Prof Madden has determined that the female is the dominant factor in the flying squirrel family, taking possession of a territoty and excluding other adult females from use of the same parcel of habitat. The males, however, live in communal groups of two to six plus an occasional unestablished young female. This situation, in contrast to most vertebrate social systems, is leading her to question why female flying squirrels should have evolved to be the larger. more aggressive territotial sex.

Property values up, says home developer

Patsy Aversa, president of Quality Builders, developers of Briarwood and Mariner Estates in Toms River, forecasts a continuation of real estate appreciation through the

"Several factors are considered in Aversa's judgement. The increasing population of past II children now reaching their 30s which constitute the primary market for single family homes is most indicative of what the future holds," Aversa said.
