

Board approves budget, up 2.7 percent

The Mountainside Board of Education last week tentatively approved a 1978-79 school budget, which has been sent to the Union County superintendent of schools for approval. Mountainside Superintendent Dr. Levin Hanigan said he will meet with James Clancy, county superintendent, next week to discuss the board's budget which has been set at $2,139,662, a 2.7 percent increase over the previous year.

"I think the budget will be OK with the county superintendent," said Hanigan. "But I know he's going to raise some questions."

Hanigan said he will probably question the fact that the borough is not spending enough money—that it is operating below its state budget "cap."

The superintendent said problems sometimes arise with the state when budgets do not allow expenses that cover the "cap" set by the state. "There's always the chance they could lower our cap next year," said Hanigan. "They'll look at our budget and say, 'Well, you didn't spend the money you had coming to you last year.'"

Hanigan said he has seen increasing problems with the community regarding the school budget and he attributes recent budget defeats to apathy and economic conditions.

"There's an awful lot of pressure on Mountainside to increase its school spending," he said. "But people concerned with taxes panic when they see a budget increase."

He said he can understand the community's desire to keep taxes down, but he said the frequent defeats of the school budget (it has been turned down by the voters three times during the last five years) have become a major dilemma and the state is perplexed over the community's attitude concerning its school system.

"The state asks, 'What's happening to Mountainside?' and 'Don't they care about children's education?'" said Hanigan.

But the superintendent added that only 20 percent of the borough's population has school-aged children, and he sympathizes with those who do not.

"These people don't want to see their taxes go up," said Hanigan. "They're older and they want to live a little."

Hanigan added that the parents of children will fight for the budget's approval, and also complain that the borough should spend up to its "cap" in an effort to improve the quality of education in the school system.

Torborg: baseball is in my blood

Travel toughest, says Indians' pilot

By PATRICIA GARRISON
There's no getting away from baseball for one Mountainside resident. Jeff Torborg says the sport is "in my blood," and his lifelong love affair with baseball proves it.

Torborg, at 36, the youngest manager of a major league baseball team, was put in charge of the Cleveland Indians last season. He was a big league catcher for 10 years, playing with the Los Angeles Dodgers, the California Angels, the St. Louis Cardinals and the Boston Red Sox. He was a coach with the Indians for most of last year, and was named manager following the dismissal of Frank Robinson.

"I started playing professional ball as soon as I was graduated from Rutgers," said Torborg. "It's all I've ever known."

Torborg began reaping the rewards of a professional athlete's life in 1964, following his marriage to a former Miss New Jersey. Although he said he could never be happy doing anything else, he is quick to point out that his chosen field has brought him his share of problems.

"Traveling is the toughest part of the job," said Torborg. "Wives don't travel on the road with the players and the season is more than seven months long." He added that he saw his wife, Suzie only twice during the last baseball season.

"I regret not being able to see my sons play in Little League," said Torborg. He said his two oldest sons, Doug, 13 and Greg, 10 are sports enthusiasts and he encourages any interest his sons may show in athletics.

"I believe in athletics," said Torborg. "There should be a balance between sports and academics. I'm delighted to see that they like sports, because it's something I can help them with."

The father of three (son Dale, 6, is still too young to join his brothers on the baseball diamond) said that, while he puts a considerable amount of importance on sports, he would like his children to concentrate on their school books as well.

"They should pursue their education," he said. "I'm not pushing them." He added that he would not become annoyed if his children became uninterested in athletics.

The job of managing 24 players "comes easy" to Torborg but at least one facet of baseball irks him, although he acknowledges that there is little he can do to change it.

"Press people should not be allowed in the locker room," he said. "That room is the only private place the players have."

Torborg said he favors a special room, similar to the press arrangement during the World Series, where players could make themselves available to the sports writers.

He said the players, along with himself, resent the sportswriters traveling with the players and occupying the same airplanes.

"The press has all the benefits the team has while traveling, but they have the ability to tear players apart," he said.

Torborg said he dislikes the fact that the writers can print "whatever they like" and he added that "normal" flare-ups between teammates are sometimes exaggerated by the media.

"I know the press has a job to do," said Torborg, "but the team is a family, and the press traveling with the players hurts this family concept."

The manager also feels that female sportswriters should be barred from the locker room.

Troop to collect papers Sunday

Boy Scout Troop 177 will hold a newspaper collection on Sunday from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. at the Mountainside Presbyterian Church, on Deer Path and Meetinghouse Lane. Bundled newspapers and magazines will be accepted.

Persons requiring assistance for paper pickup may call Scout John F. McCarthy at 232-1020. Proceeds from the paper drive will be given to the Children's Specialized Hospital in Mountainside and will aid McCarthy's Eagle project.

"There's nothing wrong with woman sportswriters," he said. "but wives of the players wouldn't like the women being in the locker room while the men are undressing."

The Indians will undergo no major changes, according to Torborg, who said he plans to continue where Robinson left off. He said the team could be a pennant contender, and he is attending this week's winter meetings to work on improving the Cleveland offense.

"We had a poor year last season, and it should have been better," he said.

Hanigan explains staff cuts

The Mountainside school system last week reported that recent staff reductions have resulted in a "loss of flexibility" regarding class time for art, music, and physical education but it has assured parents that students will continue to receive a "quality education."

Dr. Levin Hanigan, Superintendent, in a bulletin sent to parents this week, stated that second and third grade students in Beechwood have lost one period of physical education a week, but he added that this cut now gives the third grade a second gym class.

The superintendent said parents of slower students had been complaining that their children were being singled out to an unnecessary degree but he said the recent staff reductions should alleviate some of these problems.

"Parents of 'small group' students get mad when their children are always separated from the average students," he said. "But with the changes, they will be mixed with the other students in music, art and physical education."

Hanigan explained that putting additional slower students in the average classes will not create a hardship on teachers because the number of classes has been expanded from three to four. The mainstreaming of small group students in vocal music classes at Beechwood has also produced a more desirable mix of students, Hanigan said.

Grades four and five at Deerfield will be losing one optional gym period, but they will continue to receive two periods of physical education a week.

Staff reductions have also cut back the number of days Deerfield's library will be in operation. Hanigan said grades four and five will still get two library periods a week, but the cutback will put a crimp in "open time" library instruction on the fifth day.

"This reduction does affect the flexibility of library operation and does limit to a degree individual and small group use of the facility," stated Hanigan. "However, the library continues to function well."

Art instruction at both schools will be restricted, according to Hanigan. No art periods have been lost at Beechwood, but art teacher time for bulletin preparation and cleanup has been reduced by three hours. Grade four at Deerfield has lost one art class.

Regarding state-mandated compensatory English classes in grades seven and eight, Hanigan said the mandate has reduced the number of special help classes in the subject from

Program for children at Deerfield Dec. 16

The Laffan Stock Company will present "The Great Stocking Theft," a children's theater program, in the Deerfield School gym Friday evening, Dec. 16, at 7:30. The Mountainside Music Association and the Recreation Commission are co-sponsoring the event.

The program is for kindergartners through eighth graders, and there is no admission charge. Parents were also invited to attend. The Laffan Stock Company, Somerset County's oldest professional traveling theatrical troupe, has appeared in Mountainside on two previous occasions.

Registrations are being accepted for two trips being sponsored by the Recreation Commission. A roller skating trip is planned for Wednesday, Dec. 28, and a ski trip to Jack Frost Mountain in the Poconos is set for Thursday, Dec. 29.

The fee for the roller skating is $2.50, and includes bus transportation, admission and skate rental. The bus will leave Deerfield School at 1:15 p.m. and return at 5:30. The trip is open to people in the third grade and older.

The ski trip is open to all levels of skiers, from beginners to experts. The bus will leave Deerfield School at 6:30 a.m. and return at 6:45 p.m. The registration fee is $13, which includes bus transportation and lift ticket. Rentals are available for an additional $6.50, and lessons, for $4.

There is a "first day on skis" package, which includes bus, lift ticket, rental and two lessons for $20.50.

Recreation Director Sue Winans noted that this package is an "exceptionally good bargain" for people who have never skied before. "Normally, the first day skier can expect to pay $27 for a lift ticket, two lessons and rentals during a holiday week."

The ski trip is open to adults and youth in the eighth grade and above. People in the seventh grade and younger may participate, but must be accompanied by adults. The registration fee for children 12 and

Band members will be in tune -- and in step

Jonathan Dayton Regional High School musicians will have to march in addition to playing their instruments, if they want to participate in school band activities next year.

The Union County Regional High School District Board of Education, meeting Tuesday at Dayton in Springfield, got that message from Principal Anne Romano. The marching band and the concert band will be reunited into a single organization next year, Miss Romano reported. She said an experiment allowing students to avoid the marching band, but still perform in the concert band, has thinned the ranks of musicians representing the school in parades, half-time shows and other band events.

Whether marching is voluntary or involuntary for band members, "some parents will complain," predicted Charles E. Vitale Jr. of Kenilworth, the board president. But he said Miss Romano is giving "ample notice" that the no-march, no-belong-to-band rule will be revived next year.

The board, which rotates its meeting site each month among the four regional campuses, was back at Dayton Tuesday for the first time in three months. Except for staff members, there was an audience of only five on a freezing night—in marked contrast to the standing-room crowd that came to Springfield, mostly from Clark, last August to protest reorganization of athletic programs.

As a result of that reorganization: (1) part-time athletic directorships were abolished; (2) former district-wide athletic director John Brown became local-campus chief of athletics, health, physical education and driver education at Gov. Livingston High in Berkeley Heights, and (3) the board said it would hire three full-time managers to be Brown's counterparts at the other three campuses.

Those hirings still have not occurred. Dayton High, David Brearley High at Kenilworth and Arthur Johnson High at Clark have been operating without athletic directors since school opened in September.

Apparently Dr. Donald Merachnik, the district superintendent, and the board are first developing detailed, written job descriptions for all staff members involved in athletics.

Stephen Marcinak of Clark, chairman of the board's athletics committee, Tuesday told Merachnik that he wants drafts reworded to emphasize the duty of athletic directors and head coaches to promote a community "feeder system" of future high school athletes.

THE TINY AUDIENCE Tuesday included Harry Nelson, representative of the Highlander Booster Club, praising Gov. Livingston's soccer coach, Gerald Benton, and players for winning the state Group II championship this year despite organizational problems in regional athletics.

Nelson was there to comment further on the booster club's written request for school district donations toward a community fund to honor the soccer champs with material rewards, such as jackets, in addition to words of praise.

Nelson said he agrees with board

Tickets on sale for Bestowers' benefit Sunday

Tickets are still available for the 17th annual Mountainside Bestowers Christmas party, to be held Sunday from 2 to 5 p.m. at the Mountainside Inn.

The Bestowers are described as a group of local residents "who share with others less fortunate." Over the past 17 years the Christmas parties have generated more than $50,000 and 4,000 gifts have been distributed to underprivileged children and senior citizens.

Past recipient groups have included Runnells Hospital Senior Citizens, Boystown of Kearny, Little Sisters of the Poor, Lift for Learning of Mountainside Public Assistance, Children's Specialized Hospital, St. Joseph's School for the Blind, Westfield Day Care Center, St. Peter's Orphanage, Bonnie Brae Farm for Boys, Janet Memorial Home, Beth Israel Medical Center, Jewish Family Service Agency, Overlook Hospital and the Kohler Day Care Center.

Local citizens have been invited to attend this year's party. Tickets may be obtained at the Mountainside Deli or by calling Ruth Spina (232-3658) or Millie Pastore (232-6600). The donation of $10 per couple includes hors d'oeuvres, cocktails and music by the Wayne Habsgut group.

INA GOLUB

Golub fiber art draws viewers at convention

Ina Golub of Mountainside, formerly of Union, fiber artist, designer and teacher, has returned from San Francisco, where she exhibited her handcrafted textiles at the combined biennial convention of the Union of American Hebrew Congregations and the National Federation of Temple Sisterhoods.
 A member of the UAHC's accredited list of synagogue artists, Mrs. Golub said, "the response to my fiber art was overwhelming. In four days, close to 3,500 delegates visited the exhibition."
 She has been commissioned by synagogues and art collectors throughout the United States to create tapestries with Judaic and secular content, ark curtains, Torah mantles, rabbis' vestments, wedding chuppot, stained glass windows and other Jewish ceremonial objects. Her art exemplifies the craft revival and recent trends to incorporate modern idioms of architecture and art into the design and ceremony of the synagogue.
 Some of Mrs. Golub's textiles can be seen at Temple Beth Ahm and Temple Sha'arey Shalom in Springfield and Temple Sinai in Summit.

Regional board hopefuls to file within 3 weeks

The deadline will be 4 p.m. Thursday, Dec. 29, to file nominating petitions for three seats on the nine person Board of Education to be filled in the Union County Regional High School District election Feb. 7.
 Terms are expiring for Charles E. Vitale Jr. of Kenilworth, Stephen Marcinak of Clark and William Keyes of Berkeley Heights. As of Tuesday, none of the incumbents had yet returned his nominating papers, but still had another 23 days to decide whether to do so.
 Gary Bobko, the district's assistant to the superintendent for public information, said New Jersey law lists these requirements for a candidate:
 (1) Candidate must be a citizen and resident of the territory contained in the Union County Regional High School District.
 (2) Candidate must have been a resident of the school district for at least two years immediately preceding his election to the Board of Education.
 (3) Candidate must be able to read and write.
 (4) Candidate must not be directly or indirectly interested in any contract with or claim against the board.
 (5) Candidate must be 18 years of age to qualify for office.
 Bobko said nominating petitions are available at the district office at 841 Mountain ave., Springfield.

Bills pre-filed by McDonough for state action

State Sen. Peter J. McDonough (R-22) elected assistant minority leader last week, announced he has prefiled several bills for consideration by the new legislature next year.
 "It was discouraging during the past session to have so much important legislation tied up in committee or simply bypassed because of the legislature's preoccupation with the income tax and school funding," the Plainfield lawmaker said. "Many of these bills are essential to the people of the 22nd District and the state, and I will press for their enactment next year."
 McDonough said he had prefiled a bill which would create a Green Brook Flood Control Authority and his "sunset" legislation that would review and terminate state agencies that could not periodically rejustify their existence.
 All told, McDonough prefiled 12 bills including his uniform bicycle registration bill, his "product liability" bill that would assist consumers by reducing manufacturing costs and overhead and his bill that would define medical malpractice and amend the tort law to reduce hospital and medical costs.
 "Now that the gubernatorial campaign is history, I expect that partisanship will not play such a crucial role in the flow of legislation," McDonough said. "These bills have merit and I expect bipartisan support for them in the next session."

Rupp assumes professor post

Leila Rupp, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter H. Rupp of Mountainside, has been appointed assistant professor of history at Ohio State University. She is also taking on a joint faculty position in the Office of Women's Studies at the university.
 Dr. Rupp received her bachelor's degree in 1972 from Bryn Mawr College and was awarded her doctorate from the college last year. A book expanding her dissertation will be published next March.

Mr. Petersen; lone policeman

Hans L. Petersen of Locust avenue, Mountainside, for years the borough's only police officer, died last week at home. He was 85.
 Mr. Petersen was born in Copenhagen and came to this country in 1912, residing in Mountainside for most of the time since then. He was retired from both the Police and Fire Departments in the borough and had been Mountainside's only policeman for many years. He was also retired from U. S. Gypsum, Clark, in 1959 after 15 years' employment. Mr. Petersen also operated a fish store in Springfield.
 He is survived by his wife, Inga Nielsen Petersen; a son, Richard H. of Mountainside; a brother, Charles Petersen Sr. of New York, and a sister, Hildur Nielsen of Denmark. Mr. Petersen was predeceased by a son, Francis, in March.

Hydrant is hit; driver not hurt

A nineteen-year-old Westfield woman walked away with no injuries, but her accident took its toll on a Rt. 22 fire hydrant.
 Mountainside police report Jill Festa was traveling west on the highway and lost control of her car when it went into a puddle of water.
 The car careened, knocking the hydrant out into the middle of the highway. As Festa tried to regain control of her auto, it spun around and hit a pole.
 Following Festa's accident, an unidentified driver's car struck the beleaguered hydrant and dragged it several hundred feet up the highway.

Police report break-in of car

Mountainside police reported a car owned by a resident of Brookside avenue was broken into last Monday, while parked in the owner's driveway.
 According to authorities, an undetermined number of thieves forced the door of the 1976 Cadillac open with a drill bit and tore the rubber molding surrounding the car window to gain entry to the automobile.
 Police said the owner found a citizen's band radio, car keys and 50 crowns of Swedish money valued at $10 stolen when she went out to her car the following morning.
 There was also a pair of gloves, apparently left behind by the suspects, police said. The drill bit was lying on the ground near the car.

Five students in 'Who's Who'

Four students from Springfield and one from Mountainside will be included in the 1977 edition of "Who's Who in Music."
 The five, all attending Jonathan Dayton Regional High School in Springfield, were selected as being among the country's most outstanding high school music students.
 The students include Andrew Mantel of Pineview court, Martin Bruenberg of Baltusrol way, Alan Bleznick of Garden oval and Guy Stern, all of Springfield, and Debbie Graham of Meeting House way, Mountainside.

members that "recognition of excellence is critically important in all areas, not just athletics." But he urged the district to come up with a material-reward plan quickly for both academic and athletic camps.
 "Recognition loses much of its effectiveness when it's delayed too long," said Nelson, urging adoption of a policy soon enough to include timely rewards for the Gov. Livingston soccer champs and the Brearley football team that reached the sectional finals. Dr. Merachnik is expected to make a recommendation at the board's next meeting.

Meanwhile, board members want their printed words of praise distributed to all boys on the champion soccer team. They asked Merachnik and the Gov. Livingston principal, Peter Festante, to deliver individual copies of the board resolution.
 In other action Tuesday:
 -The board approved payment of $96,090 toward a $140,790 contract with Valley Paving Co. of Ramsey to build a new tennis court and resurface three others at Gov. Livingston and to build four new courts at Dayton.
 The contractor has speeded up work at Dayton since the board sent out a formal "notice of warning" last month. Franz Skok, the board attorney, said partial payment on the contract would not prevent the district from taking legal action against Valley Paving if the courts are not completed when the tennis season opens next March and Dayton teams have to be bused elsewhere.
 -The board approved spring-semester courses in the Regional Adult School program, including 74 courses in Springfield. Topics of new courses in Springfield will be library service, music appreciation, "for singles only," parenting, backgammon, "Tai Chi Ch'uan, rapid reading, "health whys," basic jewelry, skiing and "weekend with ideas." In-person registration will be Feb. 27.
 -Romano said the Dayton girls' varsity team is getting equal billing with the boys' varsity in the basketball-season opener scheduled "tomorrow night at Arthur Johnson High in Clark. Girls will play their Johnson counterparts at 6:30 p.m., and the boys will play at 8. A junior-varsity boys' game will precede both varsity contests. Romano said this will be the first such "triple header." Girls previously have traveled and played on a separate schedule.

"Our coming in fifth place was mostly due to tremendous losses through injuries."

Torborg added that a major player problem has developed throughout the profession because of the team owners' desire to "buy a pennant."

"The players' salaries are completely out of line, and it's the owners' fault," said Torborg.
 He added that it is difficult to motivate a player to improve his game if he is signed to a million-dollar contract. He said the manager faces problems with the team performance if the high-paid player has a "no-cut" contract.
 But Torborg said the continual escalation of wages probably will not go on indefinitely.
 "The owners will learn to police themselves, establish a salary level and stick by it," he said.

Kean teachers plan action as 14 lose posts

The Kean College Local of the Federation of Teachers created an "emergency action" committee Tuesday to explore steps which the faculty might take in response to the Board of Trustees decision not to renew the contracts of 14 members of the staff.

The names of the 14, including some who would have been placed on tenure if they had been retained, were omitted from a list of about 90 appointments read off by the board at a stormy public meeting Monday. About 275 persons in the audience vehemently protested the action, which had been taken at the recommendation of Dr. Nathan Weiss, college president.

John R. Brown Jr., board chairman, told the crowd at the meeting that he could not disclose the reasons the 14 were not reappointed, since that would be an invasion of privacy. But the individuals affected could request the reasons in writing, he said.

At a meeting the following afternoon, the executive committee of the teachers' union created a committee headed by Robert Satalian.

Dr. Charles Kelly, president, said the group will look into "alternative" courses of action which might have the support of the faculty. Possible targets include work being done by the teachers on a volunteer basis, such as curriculum committees, and preparation for evaluations, Kelly said.

He pointed out that the existing contract prohibits "fiscal firings." It is not known whether any of the 14 are "programmatic firings," resulting from declining enrollment in particular programs, he added. But, he said, there is sufficient enrollment to retain the present staff in the two areas which he said have suffered most—early childhood education and economics.

Saying that the trustees reportedly held a private meeting after the public session on Monday, he called for a continued dialogue between the board and the faculty. But he expressed doubts that this will happen.

Social security pays benefits to survivors

Social Security is more than just a retirement program, according to Richard Willwerth, district manager in Union County.

Survivors benefits are paid to about eight and one-half million men, women and children under age 62 every month, he said. About one-third of all the social security benefit dollars go to survivors of deceased workers and disabled workers and their families.

Because of this, Willwerth continued, social security should play an important part in every family's financial planning for the future. Willwerth gave this example of how social security survivor benefits could help a family.

"Consider a young worker who dies at age 29, leaving a wife and two young children, ages 4 and 6. Say this worker had median earnings, about $8,800 a year.

"First, the widow would receive a one-time death payment of $255. The widow and children would receive monthly benefits totaling about $830 a month, $9,960 a year. Assuming all family members remained eligible, they would receive about $139,000 by the time the youngest child reached 18. And the children could continue receiving benefits until age 22 if they remained unmarried and were full-time students."

These figures are based on benefit rates in effect in 1977. It is expected that in years to come, the totals will be much higher, since social security benefits are automatically increased each year to take account of changes in the cost of living, Willwerth said.

"Suppose that instead of being killed, this father was disabled within the meaning of the law. The family would also get about $830 a month, which would continue as long as the father's disability kept him from working," Willwerth added.

"And benefits are payable under similar conditions when a working mother dies or becomes disabled."

Youth agency gets 1st office, names director

The New Jersey State Association of Youth Services, which was formally begun less than two years ago, this month announced the selection of its first executive director and the location of its first office.

John Clancy is president of the association, whose office is located at 614 Central ave., East Orange. The phone number is (201) 678-8833.

The executive director is Elizabeth Ghegan of Irvington, former project director of the Irvington Youth Resources Center. She is enrolled in a program in marriage and family therapy at Seton Hall University.

The association, which has grown to comprise more than 30 youth serving agencies located in 11 N.J. counties, is in the planning stages of a state-wide conference scheduled for March 1 and 2, centering on juvenile delinquency prevention and diversion.

The major concerns of the state association revolve around legislative concerns for youth, continuation of funding for the agencies and technical assistance for member agencies involving planning, evaluation and management techniques.

Christmas can hide pitfalls for asthmatics

Can Christmas trees produce a wheeze?

They can according to the Central New Jersey Lung Association. (the Christmas Seal people). For two million children under 17 who have asthma, the Christmas season harbors a number of allergens that can trigger an asthma attack.

First is the traditional Christmas tree. Mold often accumulates on the branches, especially if the tree has been cut several weeks before the holiday season. When the tree begins to dry out, the mold spores are released. The spores are an allergen for many people.

The Lung Association also noted that care should be taken when selecting gifts for the asthma sufferer. Pets are often poor gifts, since their skin flakes and scurf are highly allergenic. Stuffed toy animals can also produce asthma attacks. They retain dust and become a home for the house dust mite.

Colognes, perfumes, scented soap and other such products can produce an allergic reaction in the severe asthmatic. Asthma victims should also be careful what they eat during the holiday season, as many people are allergic to milk, eggs, nuts, wheat or artificial coloring.

If a member of a family suffers from asthma, the Lung Association advises a consultation with the family physician. He can

Justice system inequities topic of UC program

Punishment or reform, a jail sentence or parole, the inequities of court sentences—these are among the topics that will be discussed when Union College presents the final program in its current series on Crime and Justice in America Tuesday, Dec. 20, at 8 p.m. at the college in Cranford.

Andrew von Hirsch, author of "Doing Justice: The Choice of Punishments" and associate professor of criminal law in the Rutgers University Graduate School of Criminal Justice, and Christopher V. Dietz of Rahway, chairman of the New Jersey Parole Board, will be the principal speakers, bringing together the views of the scholar and pragmatist, according to Dr. Donald Schmeltekopf, coordinator of the public forum series.

A graduate of Harvard College and Harvard Law School, von Hirsch served as principal investigator and project director on a parole alternatives study funded by the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration of the U.S. Department of Justice. His book, "Doing Justice," is the report of the Committee for the Study of Incarceration in which he participated under grants from the Field Foundation and the New World Foundation.

Von Hirsch has written several articles on the subject of punishment including "Giving Criminals Their Just Deserts," published by the Civil Liberties Review.

He is also a member of the Twentieth Century Fund's Task Force on Criminal Sentencing, whose report was published by McGraw-Hill under the title, "Fair and Certain Punishment."

An attorney, Dietz has served in a number of government posts dealing with law enforcement issues. He is former chief of staff and deputy director of the New Jersey State Law Enforcement Planning Agency and served as assistant counsel to Governor Richard J. Hughes. He is founder of the New Jersey Criminal Justice Conferences and member of the Middle Atlantic States Conference of Correction.

A graduate of Georgetown University and Rutgers University School of Law, Dietz has participated in parole policy seminars sponsored by the National Parole Institutes and has attended a course on strategic management in correction conducted by the National Institute of Corrections at the Wharton School of the University of Pennsylvania.

Holiday songs to fill art center

The Madrigal Singers will present a concert of Christmas music at the Summit Art Center, 68 Elm street, Summit, on Sunday, at 4 p.m. The public has been invited. The program will include Renaissance, baroque and contemporary music interspersed with readings from the Bible and will close with audience participation in the singing of familiar carols.

The musical ensemble consists of 14 singers under the direction this year of Daniel Kautzman, retired chairman of the Summit High School music department.

Moral choices: a mini-course

A two-credit philosophy course, "Moral Choices in Contemporary Society," will be offered in a special two-week session to be conducted at Union College, Cranford, from Tuesday, Jan. 3, through Tuesday, Jan. 17.

The mini-semester course in applied ethics will offer students the opportunity for in-depth study in a specific area, without the distractions that occur in a traditional semester, according to Dr. Leonard Kreisman, vice president for academic affairs.

Classes meet daily from 9 to 11:45 a.m., he said, with sufficient time for discussion of the moral issues that are the crux of the course.

The intensive, short term format also allows students to take courses that do not fit into their regular schedule and to earn additional credit outside of the traditional academic year.

Many college students have a long winter vacation when part-time employment is not easily available, the vice president said. The mini-semester gives them the opportunity to use their time constructively.

Adults interested in returning to college may also find the investment of two weeks an easy way to determine if they really are ready to return to school and to ease their adjustment to a classroom situation.

The selection of the course is based on the relevance of the subject to all members of society, Dr. Donald Schmeltekopf, course instructor, stated.

"Many Americans," he said, "are perplexed and confused by rapid changes in the moral code and many are deeply concerned about the future of our society if decisions are to be based on these new definitions of right and wrong, good and evil."

The course will explore some of the major moral dilemmas faced today in the conduct of business, politics, science, justice and interpersonal relations. Among the topics are the nature of morality, morality and the dilemmas of sex, marriage and the family, abortion, aging and the aged, politics, law and morals, the morality of crime and punishment, the morality of business, racism and moral education.

Tuition is $20 a credit for Union County residents. Tuition and fees may be charged to Mastercard or VISA charge accounts.

Students may register for the course Monday through Friday from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. through Thursday, Dec. 22; Monday, January 2, from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. and Tuesday, January 3 from 8:30 to 8 a.m. Registration may also be initiated by calling the admissions office at 276-2600, extension 262.

Campaign goal not reached yet by United Way

The United Way of Eastern Union County has bettered 75 percent of its goal of $945,000, according to Richard Town, general campaign chairman. "It is essential that our goal for the United Way of Eastern Union County be obtained to meet the vital needs of Union County residents," Town said. "The cost of living it up 22 percent over the last three years. This is quite a difficult time for the agencies to meet their budgets as a result of the higher unemployment rate and the need for more services."

There are 34 human care agencies which provide services to one out of every three families in the 10 municipalities which comprise the Eastern Union County United Way. The towns are Clark, Elizabeth, Garwood, Hillside, Linden, Roselle, Roselle Park, Kenilworth, Springfield and Union.

"The United Way would not be possible without donated funds and volunteer workers," Town said. "Your gift to United Way can fill tomorrow with hope and joy—from the child in the infant stimulation program at a United Way agency, a Girl Scout or Boy Scout, a family in need of counseling, or to a senior citizen whose life is still productive. During this busy holiday season, let us pause a moment to remember that this is a time to share. Please make your contribution to the United Way now, if you haven't already done so."

A different kind of used car from a different kind of dealer.

The used cars listed here aren't ordinary used cars. Because they don't come from an ordinary dealership.

At Pace, a customer is respected as the owner of a fine automobile, not dismissed as a troublesome accessory to it.

Because of our service, we're selling more and more new Buicks. And taking in more and more fine used cars as trade-ins. The cars listed here are the best of them.

Before we put a used car up for sale, we inspect it inside and out. We fix what needs fixing—and if we can't we simply don't sell the car to you.

Then, we protect every used car we sell with Pace Buick's own double warranty: 3 months or 3,000 miles, whichever comes first, on the entire car plus 6 months/6,000 miles (whichever comes first) limited to the engine and drive train.

Best of all, when you buy a used car from Pace, you receive the same attentive service that's winning us more and more new-car customers.

So, if you're tired of looking at the same old kind of used cars, come to Pace. You'll find the kind of used car you can trust—because you can also trust the dealership they come from.

She gets Ph.D. at 71 Degree in gerontology

Dr. Sadie Richman of Elizabeth, formerly of Roselle, recently received a Ph.D. in gerontology from the Union Graduate School in Yellow Springs, Ohio. She is 71 years old and retired in April 1977 from her job as assistant to the dean of graduate studies at Kean College in Union.

Dr. Richman calls retirement "refinement."
"You can re-energize and go into other dimensions. One of the requisites for healthy retirement is a positive attitude and active involvement in everyday life," she said.

A believer in exercise and good nutrition, Dr. Richman added, "Don't make mountains out of molehills. Give attention to the family; don't sit around waiting for it." As to aches and pains, she said, "It's mind over matter: if you don't mind, it won't matter." And for general anxieties: "Anything that bothers you, look at it, face it and do something about it or forget it."

Her interest in gerontology began when she took a summer course at the University of Southern California while visiting two of her four children. Through a member of the faculty at Kean College, she learned of a "university without walls" way of earning a Ph.D. and spent four weeks attending a colloquium in Yellow Springs, Ohio, where the plan for her doctoral dissertation was accepted, and a committee set up to guide her along the way.

Dr. Richman, widowed at 51, went to college and earned her bachelor's degree at Kean when she was one of only a few students anywhere near her age. She helped to organize the Renata Club for students over 25.

Together with Dr. Dorothy Stauss, a faculty member at Kean College, Dr. Richman organized a course called "Aging in Contemporary Society" in the spring of 1975.

Student actors in performance

People with Good Intentions, the black student theater group at Kean College, will present its fourth annual production on Dec. 8, 9, and 10 at 8 p.m. in Room 118 of Vaughn Eames Hall on the Union campus.

The play, "Sam Carter Belongs Here," is directed by the playwright, Wade Hudson of East Orange. Hudson has written freelance articles for a number of publications and has written and moderated several television programs on Channel 47 in Boston. He is the author of a children's book, "Beebe's Lonely Saturday," and a children's play, "Freedom Star."

Two of his one-act plays, "A House Divided" and "A Black Love Story," and his full-length play, "Sam Carter Belongs Here," were produced in 1975 at the Ark Theatre by the Theater of Universal Images in Newark.

Warning on deer

Motorists should use extra caution at this time of the year to avoid hitting deer, the New Jersey Division of Fish, Game and Shellfisheries said this week.

Deer are now often on the move since it is their normal rutting period, human activity in the woods is high and dogs frequently disturb the deer.

The division advised motorists to reduce their speed on rural roads, watch for deer at all times and heed the warning of deer-area signs posted along roads.

Deer may bound from the woods, an open field or a road-side dieth with no warning, as if from nowhere.

Drivers must always be alert for more than one deer since they often travel in pairs or groups.

Sound gives doctors 'inside' patient story

It took World War II to develop sonography and, since that time, it has been put to constructive use. The same technique that was used to hunt and track enemy submarines has since pinpointed marine life, examined industrial machinery and probed the earth's core. In medical circles it has determined fetal position, presentation of the infant for delivery and detected abnormalities in abdominal areas.

Sonography, known as "retrosound" because its high frequency makes it inaudible, operates on the principle that sound transmission and reflection are related to the thickness of structures within the body and their orientation to the entering sound beam.

The newer gray-scale scanners detect all densities according to the sound and shape of their reflection and transmit them as different shades of gray on the screen. Since each organ is a different size and density it makes for accurate identification.

Dr. Frederick B. Cohen, director of medical oncology at Newark's Beth Israel Medical Center, said the new ultrasound scanner will become one of his most valuable pieces of diagnostic equipment. According to Dr. Cohen, the unit is not only accurate, "but there is no radiation, no discomfort, no invasion and no dyestuff. In some studies the patient is required to drink water before the procedure."

Although sonography has been used by obstetricians for a number of years, Dr. Paul Pedowitz, director of obstetrics and gynecology, feels that the Newark Medical Center unit is a forward step for the new OB-GYN department scheduled for completion in the six-story addition to the Medical Center's multi-million dollar patient care pavilion. According to Dr. Pedowitz, the advances in ultrasound have provided for a far greater ability of the equipment to separate objects within the uterus, in locating the placenta, in determining whether a birth will be multiple and to determine whether an ovarian tumor is malignant.

The console also has a character generator that records patient identification, the portion of the body being scanned and reference points such as the spine or the navel.

Doctors admit that medical science still has a long way to go in the development of ultrasound techniques, but the progress that has already been made is encouraging. Organs in the depths of the abdomen, the pancreas, kidney, lymph nodes, aorta, liver and spleen are now well within "sound-sight" with the aid of ultrasound. Sonar pictures of the heart, already are capable of telling more about heart disease than conventional X-rays. Other areas of interest include the brain, eye, thyroid and breast — giving the diagnostician a more well-rounded picture of the patient.

LET'S MAKE THIS PERFECTLY CLEAR—Donna Nichols of Nutley, an X-ray technician and ultrasound specialist at Newark Beth Israel Medical Center, performs a routine abdominal scan on Leonard Potter of Toms River. The ultrasound scanner allows doctors to keep a close watch on the patient's internal organ's without invading his body or causing him discomfort.

Women will hold rally in aid of Soviet Jews

Local Catholic and Protestant women's organizations will join again this year with Jewish women's groups in sponsoring the seventh annual "Women's Plea for Soviet Jews," a community-wide rally to voice their concern for the worsening plight of Jews in the Soviet Union.

Dr. Leon Jick will deliver the keynote address at the "Women's Plea" to be held at 7:45 p.m. on Monday at the Presbyterian Church of Livingston, 271 Northfield road, Livingston. Dr. Jick participated in public forums throughout the country and has written for many publications. Speakers will discuss the rights of Jews in the Soviet Union, the legal basis for emigration of Jews from the Soviet Union, the plight of the divided Soviet Jewish family and other affecting Jews in the Soviet Union.

Nutrition class offered nurses

A new course designed for registered nurses—"Food, Facts and Fallacies: A Nutrition Workshop" will be offered by the Kean College Center for Continuing Education beginning Monday, Jan. 30, from 7:40 to 10:10 p.m.

The 10-week course will be taught by Dr. Walter Andzel, assistant professor of physical education at Kean College and a nutrition specialist.

Students will analyze a number of myths surrounding the field of nutrition with the goal of discriminating between scientific fact and current fad. Such controversies as the relationship of nutrition to disease, mental illness and sexual potency will be discussed. Guest speakers and films will supplement the lecture-discussion format.

The course has been approved by the New Jersey State Nurses Association and granted 30 recognition points in continuing education. The fee is $45. Registration deadline is Jan. 23.

NJIT pilot program aids the handicapped

A new technical pilot program, especially designed to train the handicapped for useful work in the scientific world, is meeting success at New Jersey Institute of Technology (NJIT).

Under the direction of Dr. Ira Cochran, an associate professor of mechanical engineering, the pilot program has attracted seven blind students and 21 non-handicapped students. The students work in teams to modify standard and special scientific equipment to the needs of the blind.

Cochin, himself blind, is credited with the development of the Institute's Macro Lab, a barrier-free facility brought together to develop devices, educational aids and training models for handicapped students.

"The well-motivated handicapped student represents a valuable source of scientific manpower," Cochin said. "And there is therapeutic value for the handicapped in helping develop instruments in which they have a vested interest." I believe we have the makings for a highly productive educational program that can bring new hope and self-esteem for many handicapped.

At the institute Cochin has been working for several years to develop a preliminary group of educational models that can be used by the blind to conduct scientific experiments. In many instances the equipment has been converted through the temporary use of sensors that give sound signals to the user.

"We try to keep in mind that educational institutions and industries would not be able to afford full sets of equipment solely for the use of a blind technician," Cochin said. "Our direction has been toward developing simple attachments that can be put in place temporarily for the handicapped."

Among the accomplishments of Cochin and his student teams has been the development of about eight devices that enable the blind students to make scientific experiments and measurements. A spectrometer, normally used to examine the spectrum of various light sources, has been modified with an auxiliary mechanism to produce an audible tone that indicates the brightness of a projected light line. Braille graduations indicate the color in Angstrom units.

An electronic breadboard has been assembled with arrays of different electrical components and identified with Braille labels. Snap-on connections enable the user to examine a wide variety of circuits.

Other devices that Cochin has started adapting to handicapped use include a mechanical computer, a vibration demonstration, a pan balance that uses sound and Braille augmentation, an elementary automatic control system and raised line drawing conversions from standard printed diagrams.

Cochin believes that, given the opportunity, blind students who have mastered Braille, can be trained to become superior computer programmers. He attributes this possibility to the ability to function successfully under the demanding communication requirements of the Braille system. Since both computers and Braille rely on artificial language which allow for virtually no margin for interpretation or error, Cochin feels that the Braille student should perform particularly well.

"It is most important to emphasize that the Macro Lab workshop is a means of letting the blind student play an active role in the development and building of devices that aid in his own scientific education," Cochin said. "We are seeking additional professionals who, although blind, can contribute their scientific expertise to the construction of other apparatus."

Cochin holds a BS degree in mechanical engineering from City College of New York, a master's from NYU and a doctorate from The Cooper Union. He has worked in the field of electromechanical systems for 20 years and has been granted a number of patents and has written extensively on his professional area. His major publications include a book on gyroscopes dynamic systems, and another on inertial navigation. He has been a member of the NJIT faculty since 1963.

Youth program is proposed by Civil Service

A two-fold training program to aid youthful job seekers and help place qualified clerical workers in full-time government jobs has been proposed by the N.J. Department of Civil Service.

The proposal, submitted to the State Manpower Training Council, calls for $58,000 to be spent in the areas of readiness and clerical training. Both programs would be funded by the Youth Employment and Demonstration Projects Act of 1977.

"The readiness training proposal is designed to bridge the gap between citizens and government by helping people prepare for the civil service examination or interview," explained S. Howard Woodson, president of the State Civil Service Commission. If approved, the program would prepare 2,500 participants in youth projects with practical hints on finding a job.

Resume and application form preparation, self-awareness assessment, interviewing and tension-easing are included in the readiness training program, which would cost $20,000.

Woodson reported that the commission was extremely enthusiastic over the clerical training proposal "since it's proved to be 75 percent successful in the past, while other CETA projects have a 25 percent success rate."

The program is designed to prepare 40 clerical workers for full-time jobs in New Jersey government. Similar programs have resulted in employment for three out of four participants.

Seasonal job forms available

Applications for seasonal employment with Gateway National Recreation are available from the park headquarters, Floyd Bennett Field, Brooklyn. Seasonal employment during the summer months is available at the four units of the park — Sandy Hook, New Jersey; Staten Island, Breezy Point and Jamaica Bay, New York.

The National Park Service (NPS) is recruiting seasonal employees at Gateway for jobs as park aides, technicians, lifeguards, maintenance workers, laborer-leaders and laborers. NPS personnel at the park are available to assist anyone completing the seasonal employment application.

Unlike previous years, the NPS is partially centralizing its application procedure. All those applying for seasonal employment as park aides, technicians and laborers must complete a computerized application and mail it to the NPS at Box 25287, Denver, CO. 80225, before Jan. 15. Complete instructions are available from park headquarters.

Bell cuts energy

New Jersey Bell has reduced energy consumption this year by 4.3 percent but the company reports a 4 percent rise in energy costs despite the conservation results.

"The company is continuing to improve its energy conservation efforts to save energy and help offset the rising costs of heating oil, natural gas, electricity and gasoline," said plant staff supervisor

ANIMAL CARE
Since 1965, the animal health product market has increased at an 18 percent annual rate on average.

Joe Olivacz.

"Despite the past cold winter we have used 17 percent less heating fuel. This is partially attributed to thermostats being lowered to 65 degrees in late January as required by the state during last year's energy crisis plus efforts in all company locations to improve energy efficiency. Electricity usage was slightly up and gasoline consumption was slightly down."

Olivacz said New Jersey Bell will try to improve its conservation program through company surveys.

NJEA asks abolition of school budget caps

The last remaining sessions of the State Legislature for 1977 will hear from two continuing campaigns of the New Jersey Education Association, the NJEA announced this week. Bills NJEA is pressing for would make the income tax permanent, and abolish arbitrary limits on local school spending—the so-called budget "caps."

As part of its effort, NJEA is distributing a booklet tracing the history of school finance in New Jersey for the past 100 years, with emphasis on the last 10. The 21-page booklet, "Where We Are Today in New Jersey School Finance," is being distributed to members of the Legislature, the media and groups interested in the school finance situation.

"We must make sure that public schools in New Jersey continue to have a sound financial base," said the NJEA executive director, Dr. Frederick L. Hipp. "We will support fully efforts to repeal the self-destruct clause in the present tax program. When this is done, school boards can plan their budgets for next year with exact knowledge of how much revenue they will get from the state."

"The next legislature can modify and improve the current tax plan if it wishes," Hipp pointed out. "Our first concern is making the current plan permanent."

Hipp said NJEA supports bills to repeal the self-destruct provision such as Assembly Bill 3601 sponsored by William Hamilton (D-New Brunswick), Walter Rand (D-Camden) and Francis Gorman (D-Gloucester City), and a Senate bill introduced by Wayne Dumont (R-Phillipsburg). Gorman was originally an opponent of the income tax plan.

An equal priority, according to the NJEA, is the passage of legislation to abolish or modify budget caps, which have caused program cutbacks and labor unrest around the state. School caps will drop from an average 7.2 percent this year to 5.4 percent next year, Hipp noted, and some districts will have spending limits of less than 3 percent.

"Caps should have been killed outright," Hipp declares. "There is no way the legislature should be telling local school boards how much they can or cannot spend."

Because school boards now must pay higher insurance premiums, fuel costs and utility bills, caps cut into funds available for educational programs, Hipp says. "This means the big companies get their benefits but school programs are cut and the working teacher gets it in the neck when salary scales are computed."

NJEA's first preference among cap-related bills is A-3358, sponsored by Assemblyman J. Jack Gallagher (D-Cherry Hill). Gallagher did not run for reelection, so any move on this bill must come in the lame duck legislative session.

Another bill attracting some attention is A-3600, from Assembly Education Committee Chairman Daniel F. Newman (D-Brick Township). This bill would remove a 25 percent reduction factor in the budget-limit formula which greatly lowers caps.

However, Hipp emphasized that NJEA considers abolition of caps a must. "They should be killed outright," he declared. "Why tinker with a bad idea? Just drop it."

BARBARA L. FREDERICKS of Freehold has been named state winner in the 4H clothing program sponsored by Coats and Clark, which has a research plant in Union. Miss Fredericks, an Allentown High School sophomore, plans a career as a dental hygienist or lab technician.

Kean is chosen by national unit for law award

Kean College of New Jersey in Union is one of 10 institutions in the country selected to receive a curriculum outline from the National Association of Parliamentarians. According to Mrs. George F. Weinheimer Jr., past president of the New Jersey State Association of Parliamentarians, Kean was chosen because of its "enthusiasm for and involvement in the teaching of parliamentary law."

The outline is designed to facilitate the teaching and study of parliamentary law in colleges and universities. Mrs. Weinheimer said, "Parliamentary law provides a structure for communication in organizational and governmental proceedings. It helps in expediting business, maintaining order, ensuring justice and accomplishing goals."

Mrs. Joseph A. Wargo of Union, president of the Cranford Unit of Parliamentarians, presented the curriculum outline to Dr. Donald Lumsden, coordinator of the speech, theatre and media program at Kean College.

EARTHBOUND

By JOSEPH TOBIN Environmental consultant, New York Botanical Garden

I walked with my son to school one morning this year as fall days turned to winter and nature's cycles were duly effected.

"Do you think it'll snow for Christmas?" he asked. I was amused. I enjoyed his sense of value at 8:40 a.m. on a cold, grey Monday morning. My mind had been racing along, thinking of the tasks of the day and long work week ahead. I already could feel my daily load of tension building in the back of my neck.

"Will we have snow for Christmas?" I thought. Now that's something worth thinking about, and as my mind and body began to fill with thoughts and memories of my childhood in Massachusetts, some of the tension began to fade.

On some Christmas eves of good fortune, the snow would come down on the bay near our house, brought by the Northwest wind. The whiteness would advance all around and cover the hills and the valleys and marsh flats around the bay. The wind would whine through the night and the temperature would continue to fall right through to daybreak.

Upon arising I would look through excited eyes toward the water and I would see that I had been transformed overnight and was now held tightly in the grip of winter. Ice sealed the shallows around the marsh and I would wonder whether the fish had been able to escape to the warmer more insulated waters of the channel in time. Then I would turn to my stocking and presents.

So even here, half a block from Public School 41, quite a distance from heaven, in the midst of metropolitan New Jersey where miles of concrete, flashing product signs, honking automotive horns, early morning garbage trucks have replaced the country sounds of honking geese and ducks, the chatter of early rising nuthatches and chickadees, and the bluster of snow and winds—even here, there is still some romance in the mind of a boy when he thinks of a Christmas snowfall. Even a very light one.
