Rt. 22 collision ends Saturday night chase

A Newark man's apparent attempts to avoid Watchung police officers ended in a four-car accident at the Rt. 22 Lawrence avenue intersection Saturday night, Mountainside police reported.

William Lowery was charged with eluding police, reckless driving and several motor vehicle violations after his car collided with the auto of John Donovan of Cranford who was stopped in the eastbound lane at a traffic light.

Time capsule will be sealed

Mountainside residents have a chance to make history. The borough's Historical Site Preservation Committee is asking residents to prepare personal reports to be placed in the 100 year time capsule to be sealed Monday.

The committee said each report should include "your name, date and place of birth, children's names, birthdays and places of birth, the year you moved to Mountainside and principal activities, within the community or outside the borough."

Reports should be typed and brought to 335 Longview dr. no later than Saturday. Further information can be obtained by calling Jean Powers at 232-4929 or Shirley Horner at 232-2804.

Nursery class sign-ups begin

The Community Presbyterian Nursery School of Mountainside is accepting registration for both its 3 and 4-year-old classes for the 1978-79 school year. The school, located in the Community Presbyterian Church on Meeting House lane is fully accredited by the state. The program, geared to each child's age level and abilities, includes coordination and muscle development, physical activity (indoor and outdoor), music, art, literature appreciation and science.

Registration information is available from Mrs. Gregory Meissner, 273-8755, or Mrs. Charles Hoefig, 233-6743, director of the school.

Club announces monthly Glass-In

The Jonathan Dayton Regional High School Key Club will hold its monthly Glass-In Saturday. Residents of the area have been urged to bring glass bottles, sorted by color, and newspapers, tied in bundles.

Council leaves school budget untouched despite voters' 'no'

The Mountainside Borough Council Tuesday night decided to make no cuts in the Board of Education's $2.1 million 1978-79 budget, despite comments from the 14-member audience that called for a substantial budget decrease.

Councilman Nicholas Bradshaw said the budget's 2.8 percent increase did not warrant a cut, although he noted that his stand might elicit borough criticism.

"The message I get from the community is that we want to bring down the cost of education in Mountainside," he said. "But a 2.8 percent increase in an inflationary environment of six percent suggests very strongly that funds expended for education in Mountainside have, in fact, decreased. We have, in this budget, brought down the education costs in Mountainside."

The other councilman present, including Donald Halbsgut, who submitted a letter proposing a status quo budget figure in his absence, agreed with Bradshaw, saying that any substantial cut would probably cut into basic education.

"The 2.8 percent increase is well below inflation," said Councilman Timothy Bentford. "I can't see $100,000 coming out of it."

Bentford noted that a budget deficit of two votes was not enough to warrant a large cut.

"If a good portion of the people turned this budget down," he said, "we'd have no problem with this decision."

Councilman Abraham Suckno and Borough Council President Bruce Geiger admitted the Board of Education must begin dealing with the borough's declining school enrollment and, according to Suckno, "must make some hard and real decisions about the future of education in this town."

Geiger said the size of school staffs would have to be studied and would probably make the difference in whether future budgets would show decreases.

Students polled, call area boring 'There's nowhere to go, nothing to do'

By PATRICIA GARRISON

Many sociologists have labeled today's young people "the silent generation," similar to the quiet, complacent teenagers of the 1950s and a world apart from the outspoken youngsters of the late 1960s.

While Jonathan Dayton Regional High School students seemed uninterested in world affairs, they did have quite a bit to say about their school, homes, families and social lives in interviews with freshman and senior journalism classes last week.

Although the three-year gap between the two classes was underscored by several replies, a common thread of cynicism connected the two. Almost all the 26 students expressed dissatisfaction with the Springfield-Mountainside area and emphasized a desire to "leave and try something new."

"It's boring," said one freshman girl whose opinions were echoed by her classmates. "There's nowhere to go and nothing to do. You have to go to other towns, and then you have to ask your parents to take you."

One freshman noted that while the area surroundings were "nice," a movie theater or youth center might solve the boredom problem without hurting the ambience of the communities.

"A movie house wouldn't make the area urban," she said.

Some students said they'd rather live in a large city, particularly New York, but others said they were proud of the physical condition of their towns.

"It's a nice town," said one Mountainside girl, "a beautiful town."

The seniors agreed with their younger counterparts, complaining of a lack of student activities. They said a typical weekend starts with a party at someone's house, an event which some seniors said they had outgrown, with Saturdays consisting of part-time work and an evening movie.

"Only a very small percentage of the students get involved in school activities," said one senior. "Most of the students are so removed from school events."

The seniors said school attempts to provide weekend activities have been unsuccessful, and they blamed student "apathy" as one reason for a lack of entertainment.

"The kids aren't used to having school activities," said one senior. "They don't come because they don't think anyone else will. They don't want to be the only one."

Major similarities between freshman and senior responses end here, with many freshmen confident they would adopt a future lifestyle similar to that of their parents. Older students hoped to explore a variety of diverse lifestyles before "settling down."

Almost all the freshmen questioned said they want to get married, many of them expressing a desire to do so at a comparatively young age.

"People should be able to get married whenever they want," said one girl. While one boy said, "You shouldn't get married right out of high school," a majority seemed to think it was fine as "long as you have the money to back it up."

Living together before marriage met with strong approval from both classes, and most students said they would not be thwarted by parental disapproval.

"You have to do what you want," said one freshman, "and hope your parents don't condemn you."

"You're not living your life for your parents," said one male senior. "Growing up is breaking away. You

Gospel chapel will show film

Mountainside Gospel Chapel, located off Rt. 22 and Central avenue on 1180 Spruce dr., will show the film "The Power of the Resurrection" on Sunday night at 7. Admission is free.

The film stars Richard Kiley. This is a dramatic motion picture portraying the fundamentals of faith. The story deals with the life of the apostle Peter and how the power of the resurrection had a dynamic impact on his life.

should live together as long as it doesn't conflict with your personal morals."

The senior group noted that blatant high school student stereotypes give parents and other adults a distorted view of student morals, but they admitted to widespread acceptance of sexual intercourse between young people who are "going steady."

"But it's still very easy to get a bad reputation," said one girl. "It's still hot gossip, but not such a taboo, you're not injured for life if people find out."

One male said the sex situation among high school students is "not as bad as elders think," and the seniors said the same holds true for drug use.

"Drugs are so blown up out of proportion," said a senior. "Drinking is really more popular."

But the freshmen disagreed with the seniors' view, saying more than half of all Dayton students use marijuana regularly. One female freshman added that other drugs are somewhat popular with students, but the interest is primarily with marijuana.

Almost all students felt authority figures "didn't give us a chance" including school administrators, teachers and, for the seniors, parents.

She's seen changes From Bucks, stops here

When William Parkhurst of Mountainside married Helen Tomlinson of Bucks County, Pa., in the late 1920s, his father Aaron's gift was land on which to build a house. The site was on Mill lane in Mountainside where Mrs. Parkhurst still lives. Her stories and recollections entertained members of the Mountainside Historical Sites Preservation Committee last Wednesday night.

Although she moved to the area in 1928 and settled in Mountainside in 1931, Mrs. Parkhurst became a member of one of the borough's founding families. Her husband's father, Aaron, was Mountainside's third mayor (1903-1906), and he ran a successful pulp mill business in Echo Lake Park.

"The mill is no longer there," said Mrs. Parkhurst. "There's a flower bed and some original mill stones left."

Her in-laws had lived in a hamlet of about 150 people. The Parkhursts were instrumental in petitioning the Union County Board of Freeholders to permit Mountainside to secede from Westfield. Her father-in-law was elected mayor at a polling place located behind Mountainside's only commercial building, a blacksmith's shop positioned at the site of J and M Cleaners on Mountain avenue.

Although her childhood was spent in Pennsylvania, Mrs. Parkhurst soon learned of her husband's roots.

"He went to a small schoolhouse in Springfield," she said. "A pink house is there now."

She also recalls stories of the Branch Mills chapel in Springfield, where her father-in-law was an influential member.

"The church was built with stones the members had collected," said Mrs. Parkhurst.

She noted that it is still in use, although it has changed denominations several times since construction.

Although Mountainside has developed since Aaron Parkhurst resided here, Mrs. Parkhurst said the borough's growth has really taken place in the last 40 years.

"Mountainside was farm country when I moved here," she said. She described the Rt. 22 of the 1930s (then Rt. 29) as a two-lane highway with no buildings in sight. Mrs. Parkhurst is the only member of the historical family still residing in town. Her husband died in 1969, but her sons have remained in the area, living in Westfield and Cranford.

"I'm what they used to call a matriarch," she said.

Board cuts Adventure school trip

Great Adventure amusement park will not be the site of Mountainside's 1978 eighth-grade field trip.

Despite sharp criticism from about 100 students and parents, the Board of Education Tuesday night voted 4-3 to scrap the Great Adventure plan, which has been in effect for about three years, citing legal problems.

Board Attorney Raymond O'Brian said recent court rulings make it illegal for parents to be charged the price of a curriculum-related school trip. He added that since the Board of Education is now legally bound to pay for a trip taken on school time, the field day activities must be subject-related.

Board President Scott Schmedel noted that the children would probably be disappointed in the board's ruling, but he added that it could not stretch the law.

"To say that the board is going to breed hostility in the children, I think is a bit much," he said in response to one citizen's comment, "and I hope the children come to realize why we did what we did."

Vice-president Arthur Williams said the Great Adventure trip could not be termed "educational" and he said board money could be put to better use through a play, concert or museum.

"I don't think Great Adventure is the kind of thing I want board money going to," he said. The cost of the trip would have been $1,430.

In past years, the children have raised a portion of the $30 fee through paper collecting while the remaining portion was paid by the parents.

Borough attorney O'Brian said a parent group could sponsor a trip to Great Adventure, but he said it could not be taken on a school day.

"If they want to go on a Saturday," he said, "that's fine."

Immediately following the vote, board member Anthony Mazzucca proposed the formation of a committee, composed of administrators, teachers, students and parents, to propose a

Tax collector Gibadlo quits

Ruth Gibadlo, Mountainside's tax collector and treasurer, has resigned. Although she did not immediately comment on her decision to leave the post, she said she will release a statement citing her reasons.

Borough business administrator Lee Voorhees said the borough is advertising for a treasurer-bookkeeper to replace Gibadlo, who had served in the post for five years.

"We're looking for someone with a 'hands-on' approach to the position," said Voorhees. He said the new appointee will be expected to handle policy decisions and paperwork.

Voorhees said the borough hopes to fill the spot during the next three weeks. The Borough Council must approve the appointee and set the individual's salary.

In other court cases, Robert Powell of Piscataway was fined $200 plus $15 in court costs for driving under the influence of alcohol Jan. 6. His license was also revoked for two months.

Salvatore Caudo of Roselle Park was fined $200 and $15 in costs for reckless driving on Rt. 22 last October. He was also fined an additional $100 plus $15 in costs for leaving the scene of an accident after he hit a Union police car in the same incident.

Students

(Continued from page 1) "they just pick on you," said one girl. The freshmen said that unless the teacher or administrator "likes you," a student would have a difficult time proving innocence in a disciplinary situation. Seniors agreed that there is an "air of distrust" between the students and their superiors. "Our parents and teachers categorize us and generalize about us," said one senior. "They don't understand that we have ideas—that students can really think, and we have opinions."

Local schools

Board member Linda Esemplare also made a motion for discussion on the board's field trip policy to avoid any similar problems with future eighth-grade classes, and Charles Speth advised the parents or "some other organization" to volunteer undertaking the Great Adventure project.

Budget

(Continued from page 1) budget is people," said Geiger. "Until the school board is ready to address itself to the size of the staff, I don't think anything can be done to the budget." Suckno noted that the school board admitted to not having a contingency plan should the enrollment continue to decrease, and he said "they [the school board members] have to give up being shy and must address themselves to these real, real problems." The 1978-79 school budget increase will mean a $10 tax levy for a home assessed at $50,000.

Cheap life insurance Detectors avert tragedy

A home is on fire and anguished parents inform firefighters that their children are trapped in the place. A neighbor implores firemen to save the lives of a family unable to get out of a burning home on time. Such a discovery is frustrating to firefighters, according to Mountainside Deputy Fire Chief Ronald Huter. He said a smoke detector could make the danger of death or less potential tragedy in a home fire.

"The second most frustrating thing to a fireman," said Huter, "is the person who, by some miracle, has been spared and survives a fire, and knows about smoke detectors. He just never got around to doing anything about installing one." Huter said detectors can be purchased for $20 to $40, depending on type and manufacturer. He recommends the lower-priced battery-powered detectors for people who want to avoid electrical wiring. He said battery detectors are more reliable in case of power failure, but he added that the owner must remember to replace the batteries once a year. A detector using house current can be installed and forgotten, but some electrical knowledge is needed to hook it up effectively and correctly. According to the Fire Chief, a homeowner need not worry about reliability when deciding on a photo-electric or ionization detector, since both allow the three-minute evacuation time prescribed by the National Fire Protection and Control Office. Photo-electric detectors will be set off by smoke earlier than ionization, which is more sensitive to flame. Huter also recommends families draw up a floor plan and practice fire drills regularly. A session should be held to instruct all family members on life-saving procedures during a fire.

Police arrest pair on marijuana charge

UC students to vote next week on ban on smoking in cafeteria

To smoke or not to smoke is the question Union College students will decide Tuesday and Wednesday when possibly the first referendum to ban smoking on a New Jersey college campus will be held.

Students will vote on a referendum to prohibit smoking in the college cafeteria according to Irene Taylor of Cranford, a part-time student and member of the Ad Hoc Committee for Smoke-Free Air.

"Patrons of the college cafeteria should be able to eat in a smoke-free facility," she said. "Many people become ill from cigarette smoke when they are eating."

"We do not want to deny the rights of smokers, but we do affirm our right to an environment that meets the needs of everyone. At present, the needs of non-smokers are not being met."

Union College has three eating facilities, the main cafeteria which seats 175, a snack bar, which accommodates 100, and a faculty lounge, accommodating 50. At present, smoking is permitted in all three. The Committee for Smoke-Free Air proposes a smoking ban in the cafeteria only.

However, it is also urging improved ventilation in all halls, stricter enforcement of existing prohibitions against smoking in classrooms and in the college theater, and instruction in the harmful effects of smoking in biology courses.

"We would like to see an end to noxious fumes in public places," Mrs. Taylor explains.

Concern for smokers is expressed in the added proposal that a clinic be conducted for those who want to stop smoking. The American Cancer Society, according to Mrs. Taylor, will train counselors and provide materials for the clinic.

The committee is supported by members of the faculty and administration. J. Harrison Morson, dean of student affairs, Prof. Lillian Prehn of the Biology Department and Dr. Edward Golda, member of the Modern Languages Department, have been particularly supportive. Mrs. Taylor notes.

No survey of the number of students who smoke has been taken, but Michael Villano of Linden, director of student activities, states that he would not be surprised if up to one-third of the students smoke.

While this doesn't constitute a majority, he believes that the referendum will fail.

"Comments I hear in the halls lead me to believe that the smokers will actively fight passage of the referendum," he said.

The cafeteria is open from 7 a.m. to 8:30 p.m., the snack bar from 9 a.m. to 2:30 p.m., according to Nick Billias, who operates both facilities. The snack bar menu, he notes, is much more limited than that in the cafeteria. Both facilities are also used as informal lounges where students may sit, study, talk and smoke between classes.

Billias has no idea what effect a smoke-free cafeteria would have on business, but says he would welcome it.

"Then I'd have to quit smoking myself," he said.

The two-day election will be conducted with a voting machine provided by the Union County Board of Elections.

State playoff winners to square off tonight

By Craig Clickenger

The quarter-finals of the Springfield State League playoffs and six district games were played last week. With Oklahoma, California, Kansas and Utah as national contenders, Alabama, Florida, Texas and Florida were eliminated.

The winners of the semifinals played their quarter-finals and Kansas defeated Utah in the State League championship game tonight at 78 in the Gaudineer boys' gym.

Paul Centamore led Texas with six points in the contest. Rich Polcastro connected for three points while Eric Zera, Eric Wolf and Brett Walsh each knocked in two. Mike Nicholson helped off the boards for the losers.

In what looked like an easy Utah victory an outstanding fourth quarter came-from-behind effort from Florida really gave Utah a run for its money. Going into the fourth quarter Utah had possessed an impressive 20-9 lead over their opponents. Florida never gave up, however, and fought back to put the deficit at three. Time ran out for Florida's playoff hopes and Utah went on to win 20-21. Mike Graziano poured in 11 points while Schlager tallied nine. The Utah teammates also did most of the rebounding, collecting a total of 14 between them. Mitch Menner, 3, also scored for the winners. John Woland and Paul Gaffrey were defensive standouts while Barry Shuplosky and Gary Lalavee led the offense.

Florida was paced by "south paw" guard John Baber. Baber grabbed three steals and poured in 15 points. Jon Begleiter led the rebounders with nine boards and scored three points. Stephen Littenberg, 2, and Gary Binstock, 1, were other Florida point-makers. Jared Fleischer exhibited a nose for the ball as he snatched six steals and gathered in four loose balls. Brian Speer and John Zucker helped out on defense.

The other State League contest was far from exciting. Oklahoma romped a helpess Alabama squad, 24-6. The Alabama team never got off the ground and were trailing 9-2 before they knew it. From there on it was Oklahoma's game. Top scorer for the Okies was Mike Boland, 11, who had his best game this season. Pete Petino added five points to the Okie cause while Jay Siegel, David Cole, Tim Trivett, and Joe Graziano each tallied two points for Oklahoma. Dirk Schobel and Scott Prager contributed solid floor games to the attack.

Alabama was led by Neal Keselica's four points and nine rebounds. Anthony Romano and Pablo Gutierrez, 2, also scored for the losers. Joe Blanda and Frank Romano were strong ball handlers and Thomas Ellenberger played good defense.

Town Ivy League contenders play for championship tonight

Brown, Princeton, Columbia and Pennsylvania lived up to their pregame reputations last Saturday to advance to the semi-finals of the Springfield Ivy League basketball program. Yale, Dartmouth, Harvard and Cornell were eliminated in the quarter-finals.

Winners of the Brown-Princeton and Columbia-Pennsylvania games played after press deadline face each other at 8:30 tonight at the Gaudineer School boys' gym in the battle for the league championship.

Columbia destroyed Harvard's playoff hopes, 56-50, in the closest contest of the quarter-finals. The big men were the deciding factor in the game. For Columbia, Robert Steir and Richard Hinkley were the big point-makers with 18 and 14 tallies respectively. They combined for a total of 22 rebounds as well. Dave Johnson controlled the offense, netting 12 points and feeding off six assists. Roger Nevius (6), Drew Johns (4), and Louis Jenkins (2) all scored for Columbia; Danny Spotts helped out with a solid floor game.

The Harvard squad was topped by John Sivotella's 25 points and 17 rebounds. Michael Berliner directed the offense and scored nine. David Kadish netted eight points and played good basketball. Other scorers for Harvard were Lenzy Glassman (5), Steve Stuckler (2) and Greg Lalavee (1). Brian Lerner and Dan Schlager played tough defense and added good ball handling.

Princeton defeated Dartmouth, 58-47, but not before being scared in the first quarter. Dartmouth, the underdog, jumped to a quick lead, 12-2, before Princeton could get going. The Princeton squad regrouped, however, and took the lead permanently, largely through the efforts of Courtney Bachus and Thomas Ard. Ard led the way with 24 points and eight assists. Bachus hit the chords for 18 points and ripped down 20 rebounds. Thomas Daniels played very well and notched 11 tallies. Steve Srednick was the other Princeton scorer with two. Wendell Joyner and Mike Lehner were defensive standouts for the victors.

Jon Karp led the Dartmouth team with 15 points and 17 rebounds. Marion Jackson helped out on the boards and scored 14. Directing the offense was Kenny Palazzi with 12 points and 5 assists. Rusty Grimaldi scored six points to round out the scoring. Benji Ford, Ben Rubin and Gary Prince also aided the Dartmouth cause.

In another playoff clash, Brown rolled over Yale, 77-47. The game was no contest as the Brown squad played its best basketball of the year. Peter Ard led his teammates with 25 points and 21 rebounds. Mark Yoss had his best effort of the season and scored 12 points for Brown. John Apicella was another Brown standout with 16 points and six assists. Scott Newman (5), Rich

Solazzi places 2nd in Region 3, going on to finals, Pashaian 3rd

By Kirk Kuback

Four members of the Jonathan Dayton Regional High School varsity wrestling team, survivors of district competition, vied in the Region 3 meet held at Union High School last Friday and Saturday.

Advancing to the state level for the Bulldogs was senior Dan Solazzi via a second place finish. Dayton's other three all runners were eliminated but show bright hopes for the team's future.

Wrestling at 101 pounds, district champ Don Calabrese opened strongly, downing his Whippany Park opponent 5-0. In the next round he was defeated by Greg Schmidt of Westfield, who had earlier beaten Calabrese in the finals of the Union County tournament. Although failing to win in the consolation, Don ended the season with an 18.5 overall record, including an undefeated dual meet season.

Dean Pashaian, competing at 108, finished third overall. In the first round he defeated an Irvington wrestler but was unsuccessful in the next round as he was downed by an opponent he had earlier beaten in dual meet competition, leaving him to triumph in the consolation. Pashaian was also undefeated in dual meets and finished the season at 23.0.

At 115, Dayton's other district champ Pat Picciotto was knocked out in the first round of competition, 2-0, by Jay Sheldon of Parsippany Hills. Picciotto wound up at 17.6 for the year.

Solazzi at 156 came through for the team as he was runnerup in his weight class. In the opening round Dan scored an upset as he dethroned the first seed, Mike Rothman of Seton Hall, 5-4. In the semifinals he also triumphed, this time over a Montvale rival. In the finals Dan bowed out to Arthur Spencer of Union, who had also dethroned him in the district finals.

With a 19-0 record, Solazzi was scheduled to wrestle last night in the opening round of the state tournament at Princeton. Quarterfinal, semifinal and championship competition will be held Friday and Saturday.

Raiders, Billikens squeak by opponents

The Raiders, Billikens, Lakers and Pistons were all victors last week in the first round of the 1978 Springfield Small Fry League playoffs. The Celtics, Rockets, Bullets and Jets were all eliminated.

The semifinals match-up the Raiders-Lakers and Billikens-Pistons. The winners will play the championship game tonight at 6:30 in the Gaudineer boys' gym.

The first game on Saturday was the most exciting as the Raiders squeaked by the Celtics, 13-12. The Raiders had jumped to a 3-0 lead in the first quarter largely from the efforts of guard Robert Fusco. The Celtics, however, exploded for eight points in the second quarter to take an 8-6 lead. Both teams matched spots throughout the second half until late in the fourth quarter when Fusco went to the line and hit a free throw which kept the Raider's playoff hopes alive and eliminated the Celtics. Fusco finished as top scorer with eight points. Tom Kisch and Don Dilanno each contributed a basket, and Mark Gross scored a foul shot to complete the point-making for the Raiders. Ken Gargulo and Mike Bongavoni led the winners on defense.

The Celtics were headed by Allen Gross' eight points. Todd Wasserman pulled down nine rebounds and netted four points in the contest. Paul Madzon and Gilon Rubeneko led the Celtics off the floor and David Rockman and Paul Teja played scrappy defense.

The Elizabeth SC Lancer senior teams gave a good account of themselves at the Paterson Indoor Tournament as the 'A' team took third place in its division, and the 'B' team went on to take first place in the standings of its division but lost in the finals of the playoffs a week later.

The Union Lancer midgets played against Elizabeth City last Monday evening at the Elizabeth Armory and came away a 6-0 winner as John Dziadzio, the youngest player on the squad, hammered in three goals for a hat trick. Andy Woods, John Kempner and Karl Schellscheidt added one apiece.

Manny Schellscheidt recently appeared in an interview with Dave Wertheim of Suburban Cablevision TV-3, on the Time In program.

George Weischo receives the credit for the fine camera work. He was interviewed because he is coach of the New Jersey Americans of the ASL, but he mentioned the Union midgets many times during the interview, and before the TV crew left they were in agreement that they want to tape the Union youngsters during a practice and a game. The midgets were to be part of the last interview, but a gym or hall in town could not be found for the taping.

The midgets are well known in soccer circles in quite a few states now, and when they hit the national scene some day, I hope their own area will give them some credit.

Just a reminder that the Elizabeth SC St. Patrick's Day Schilachtfest will be held Saturday at Farcher's Grove. The dinner will be served at 6:30 p.m. and there will be dancing from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. Tickets are $7.50 in advance and $8 at the door.

The Cosmos will hold their second annual open house Saturday at the Meadowlands stadium. Admission for the event is free.

Volleyball plans: no regular teams

The emphasis will be on relaxation and enjoyment, rather than team competition, at a women's volleyball program slated for Tuesdays from 8 to 10 p.m. at the Thelma Sandmeter School. Games will be open to beginners, intermediates or advanced players.

There will be no permanent teams. The goal is to have fun while exercising, according to a Recreation Department spokesman.

PSEG gets OK to stall delivery of power plants

Public Service Electric and Gas Co. has announced it will not build a new power plant in the next three years, a decision that has pleased the state's environmentalists.

The company's decision was announced in a report filed with the state's Public Utility Board. PSEG said it would not build a new power plant in the next three years because of the high cost of financing and the uncertainty of the market for electricity.

MINA BERN, a cancer patient, is one of the many patients in the state with medications, sick room supplies and rehabilitation services costing more than $12 million according to the Division's 1977 annual report.

Cancer Society finds cost of drugs soaring

The New Jersey Division of the American Cancer Society last year assisted 13,260 cancer patients in the state with medications, sick room supplies and rehabilitation services costing more than $12 million according to the Division's 1977 annual report.

The soaring cost of new medications that are proving increasingly effective in arresting or curing cancer contributed heavily to this expenditure. Norman Hayman, president of the New Jersey Division, said in a preface to the report.

efforts are being directed to advance chemotherapy. In 1977, the division provided 40,000 medical practitioners in the state with educational materials.

The report notes that the recovery rate in leukemia and Hodgkin's Disease has advanced in the last 15 years from 10 percent to more than 50 percent when the symptoms are discovered early. Special fund allocations enable the New Jersey Division to provide assistance to acute leukemia patients and youths suffering from cancer.
