Borough OKs funding for flood relief project

The Mountainside Borough Council Tuesday night approved the controversial $824,000 Brar Hills circle-Charles street flood project after months of debate with homeowners objecting to resultant property damage, noise and neighborhood disruption. The borough is negotiating for the necessary construction easements and will go to court if it must.

Approximately 1,400 ft of gravity pipe will be constructed underground beginning at Linda drive and leading down through Charles street and Rolling Rock road from a retention basin to be constructed at Baltusrol Golf Club in Springfield. Half the project cost will be shared with Springfield and the county will reimburse 30 percent of the total construction costs when the project is completed. County reimbursement, however, does not include fees for engineers, property acquisition or lawyers.

Controversy developed when it was determined that the route would involve construction easements through several private backyards. Councilman Bruce Gieger, chairman of the public works committee, said the property owners opposing the project are not directly affected by flooding.

Mayor Thomas Richard noted that "the whole town will benefit" from the construction. "We've had Charles street blocked up for five to six hours at a time because of flooding," he said. Two homes on Linda Drive will be easement sites, along with one on Old Grove road and two on Rolling Rock.

Borough Attorney John Post told the audience at the Tuesday night meeting that they would have legal recourse should problems result from the construction. Several homeowners expressed fears of foundation settling and future loss of trees after construction is completed.

"There is a gamut of potential risks involved with a project such as this," said Post, "but there are legal remedies to handle the problems."

Post said homeowners would be able to sue the borough should property damage occur. Richard Jeske, consulting engineer for the project, said the contractor would also be liable for damages and would be forced to carry insurance by state law. He noted that trees and shrubbery will be restored or their monetary value replaced.

Borough engineer Robert Koser said the route "is the most practical and inexpensive," noting that "the need for the project is the most important reason for completing it."

"We have 15 properties that get their feet wet when it rains," said Koser. "The waters from this area go down to"

School doesn't end with diploma

80 pct. opt to continue their education

By PATRICIA GARRISON

Despite a troublesome job market and a glut of job seekers with degrees, 80 percent of this year's seniors at Jonathan Dayton Regional High School are opting for some form of higher education after graduation, according to Charlotte Singer, director of guidance.

Although the figure has occasionally dipped to 75 percent, Singer said, the percentage of students "who go on to some kind of higher education" has remained stable through the last 10 years.

Most students choose a four-year college or university, two-year college, technical or business school, said Singer. And it appears that the job crunch, especially for some liberal-arts college graduates, has not affected the seniors' thoughts on their futures.

Singer said she has seen no leaning toward more lucrative fields, but noted that most students delay making definite career decisions until they are in college.

"Things can be different in four years," she said, "and most students have to make some major decisions in college." She added that most colleges give a student two years to decide on a major.

While most students at Dayton plan to attend a higher education institution, Singer said the other 20 percent also receive guidance and advice on fulfilling their career goals. A full-time district-wide job coordinator is on hand to direct and place them in suitable positions.

Some employment-bound students participate in a "job situation" program, she said, where they are offered technical courses not given at the high school. Singer said these students can take such classes as electricity, refrigeration and carpentry at nearby technical schools and also work at a part-time business job.

"We try to help them in every way we can," she said. "With these programs the students are pretty much set job-wise and they have some kind of employment for the time being."

Singer said guidance counselors have become more aware of the "options open to a person who does not want to go to college." She said reference material and career brochures now include opportunities for non-professionals instead of listing only

Cardoni named head of professional board

HORACE CARDONI

Horace R. Cardoni of Mountainside has been named president of the State Board of Professional Engineers and Land Surveyors, it was announced by Adam K. Levin, director of the New Jersey Division of Consumer Affairs.

Cardoni's selection as president of the board marks the first time that the six-member Board of Professional Engineers and Land Surveyors has elevated its public member to the leadership position. The board is one of 19 professional and occupational boards in the Division of Consumer Affairs.

All state professional and occupational boards have a public member, a representative of the public at large who is not a member of the profession which is licensed by the board. In addition, each board has a government member, a representative of the executive branch of state government who also is not a member of the regulated profession.

"I'm pleased to see that, once again, a professional board has recognized the positive contributions of its public member by elevating him to a position of leadership," Levin said.

According to Levin, there are only two other professional boards which have named their public members to serve as president. They are the State Board of Optometrists and the State Board of Architects.

Levin noted that the membership of each professional board is currently being expanded to include a second public member.

"I hope that the presence of a public member and the outlook of a public-member has caused the board to reconsider many of its ways of doing things to the extent that it is now more sensitive to the needs of the general public," Cardoni said.

Cardoni, a Mountainside resident for 21 years, is assistant secretary of Schlumberger Limited, New York, a firm that produces electronics and provides services to the oil exploration industry. He holds a bachelor's degree from the University of Scranton and a law degree from the University of Pennsylvania. He is a member of both the Pennsylvania Bar Association and the American Bar Association.

DOT will offer Rt. 78 reports

Progress reports on the status of the uncompleted section of Rt. 78 will be made at public meetings and information centers over the next few months, according to the Department of Transportation.

Representatives of communities affected by the planned extension of Rt. 78 from Watchung through Berkeley Heights, New Providence and Summit to Springfield will be invited to a meeting in Trenton this month to discuss the final design of the project.

After the meeting, public information centers will be set up in the affected municipalities to provide data on the progress of the final Environmental Impact Statement for the project. Information is available from the area coordinator, Lawrence McLaughlin, at 609-292-6802.

Blood pressure to be screened

The Mountainside Board of Health will hold another hypertension screening clinic on Tuesday, June 6, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the Borough Hall on Rt. 22.

A spokesman said, "It only takes a minute to have your blood pressure checked so plan on stopping by."

"We are working on plans to have a hypertension screening clinic once a month so everyone can plan on a regular checkup for high blood pressure. Remember, this clinic is not only for senior citizens. High blood pressure is found in all age groups. We encourage everyone to take advantage of this service."

School board holds planning meeting

The Mountainside Board of Education will hold the second in a series of long-range planning meetings at the Deerfield School Tuesday at 8 p.m.

The board will discuss the effects of enrollment decline and population factors on school instruction including foreign languages, compensatory education, home economics and shop, audio-visual equipment, library services, music and art.

Dayton band will hold its yearly affair

The Jonathan Dayton Concert Band will present its annual awards concert tonight at 7:30 in Halsey Hall, Jonathan Dayton High School.

The program will include selections from 19th and 20th century composers. Among the pieces are: "Second Suite in F for Military Band," by Gustav Holst; Franz Schubert's "Unfinished Symphony," "Tone Poem for Trumpet," by Jeffrey E. Anderson, band director at Jonathan Dayton, and Rossini's "William Tell Overture."

Many solos will highlight the program, including a clarinet sextet: Bob Batic, Linda Frost, Tom Hobbitt, Ellen Goldstein, Erik Jaffe and Jill VanBenschoten, who will play a medley of tunes; a flute quartet including Jayu Schlesinger, Kerry Leist, Melanie Callahan and Carolyn Cupido, who will play "Divertimento for Flute Quartet" by Haydn, and "Scherzo—Grand Quartet" by Kohler. A trumpet duet by Estes Hoffman and Julius Asilo will highlight Antonio Vivaldi's 16th century piece "Concerto for Two Trumpets in B Flat" and Andrew Mantel will perform a trombone solo in Rachmaninoff's "Sonata for Cello and Piano in G Minor."

The entire band will continue the program with "23-Skidoo," "Solliloquy for Trumpet," Frank Mitsch, solo trumpet; "Have Horn Will Travel," Alan Bleznick, solo trumpet; "Bugler's Holiday," Martin Gruenberg, Alan Bleznick, Guy Stern, solo trumpets; "Disco Tech," "Feelings" and "Majorca." The concert will conclude with Peter Tchaikovsky's "Marche Slav."

Special awards include citizenship medal, national band director Marine Commandant Award, John Philip Sousa award and Marching Band varsity letters. All graduating seniors will receive a special award for service and dedication to the band from the Band Parent Organization.

MSGR. RAYMOND POLLARD

Rev. Msgr. Raymond J. Pollard was formally installed as pastor of Our Lady of Lourdes Church, Mountainside, last Sunday with Bishop Dominic Marconi, vicar of Union County, presiding.

The ceremony was also attended by Rev. Robert Lennon, pastor of Holy Trinity Church, Westfield, dean of Deanery 22 and a classmate of Msgr. Pollard, and Rev. Gerard J. McGarry, pastor emeritus of Our Lady of Lourdes.

Prior to his new assignment, the Monsignor was director of hospitals for the Archdiocese of Newark. He is a native of Elizabeth where he attended St. Patrick elementary and high schools before entering Seton Hall University and the Immaculate Conception Seminary in Darrington. Msgr. Pollard was ordained a priest in June 1950. His early assignments as a parish priest were at St. John's Church in Jersey City from 1950 to 1958 and at St. Francis Church in Ridgefield Park from 1958 to 1964.

Msgr. Pollard is a member of the boards of 14 institutions and agencies in the health field, both on the state and national levels. He is the past chairman of the board of trustees of the Catholic Hospital Association of the United States and currently serves as the speaker of the house of delegates of that body. He is the former chairman of the board of the New Jersey Hospital Association and was recently presented with the 11th annual achievement award by that group. It was the first time this honor was presented to a member of the Catholic Health Apostolate.

By appointment of the governor of New Jersey, the Monsignor has served as a member of the Health Care Administration board for the past seven years. He serves in various capacities on the boards of trustees of St. Francis Community Health Center, Jersey City; St. James Hospital, Newark; St. Mary's Hospital, Hoboken; St. Mary's Hospital, Orange; St. Michael's Medical Center, Newark, and St. Vincent's Hospital, Montclair. BREAK A LEG, KID—And students in a Beechwood School second-reading group did just that, in a dramatic sense, of course. Acrobats Amy Rose, left, and Andrea Wood performed in one of several talent acts staged by the students for their parents. The acts included dancing, comic skills and exercise routines. After reading stories about famous people, the students decided they could demonstrate some of the same talents.

MEMORIAL DAY
THOUGHTS FROM A VETERAN
 Why Memorial Day? What is its true purpose? Why do I stand with a wreath in my hand at the graves of those who died in May? Stand with a wreath in my hand and a hat on my head, and I feel a sense of obligation to my fellow Americans. Why do I stand with a wreath in my hand and a hat on my head, and I feel a sense of obligation to my fellow Americans. Why do I stand with a wreath in my hand and a hat on my head, and I feel a sense of obligation to my fellow Americans.

CLOSE-MINDED BOARD
 As the news of the recent and coming changes in the Board of Education of this county, and the lack of youth and their parents' support, seems obvious that the Board is closed-minded. The Board's actions seem to be aimed at the protection of their own interests rather than the interests of the students and the community. The Board's actions seem to be aimed at the protection of their own interests rather than the interests of the students and the community.

FAIR VOLUNTEERS THANKED
 I would like to thank all the many people who helped to make this year's Fair so successful. The Parents-Teacher Association, the Board of Education, the teachers, and the students all did a fantastic job. Their hard work and dedication made the fair a great success.

Borough's sign hit by car; teen gets two tickets

The new illuminated Mountainside Borough sign suffered a quick demise after a car driven by a Mountainside teenager careened off New Providence road Friday night, hit the sign and destroyed it.

Mountainside police said James Hurling, 17, told them he did not realize the traffic light at the New Providence R-22 intersection was red, and he jammed on his brakes and skidded off the road in an attempt to stop.

Hurling was charged with careless driving and operating an uninspected vehicle.

The five-foot-by-three-foot plastic sign is valued at $80, but borough business administrator Lee Voorhees said insurance will cover the sign cost. He said the borough will probably purchase a new sign.

Springfield road in Mountainside causing erosion.

Kiser said the construction will alleviate a flooding problem at Deerfield School caused by an overflowed watershed near Summit road. The new pipe will capture this water and put it in the retention basin. It will reduce the amount of water going to the watershed.

The engineer told the audience that the project will also have a positive effect on property values.

When properties are in a flooded area, he said, there is a negative effect on property value. The construction will provide convenience and freedom of access to all citizens.

The Borough Council also approved a resolution to request additional money from the county, which has guaranteed the borough $12,000 reimbursement.

Chairman Gieger said, however, that construction costs have escalated since the project was proposed in 1974.

Mountainside fair is for all of you and should be run by all of you.

The well-thought-out "haunted house" and the ingenious "guess your weight" booths were the hits of the day.

Next year we hope to involve more students. Please feel free to come up with some more great ideas to ensure the future success of our fair.

Again, thanks to all the fifth and sixth graders who volunteered to work in so many areas and who did so enthusiastically. I hope you enjoyed the day as much as I enjoyed planning it for you. Have a good year and I look forward to seeing you at our next fair.

options requiring a college education. "The material we have tries to touch all the bases," she said. "It's all a matter of how you can make a good life for yourself, and it can be done in many different ways."

District job coordinator Barbara Ullum said she always knows of some full-time job opening for a Dayton student, probably because of the small number of students who seek such jobs after graduation. But she added that jobs "running the gamut from babysitters to truck drivers" are also available to college-bound students who need a summer or part-time job.

"I don't get such a big demand from students going into full-time jobs after graduation," she said.

But there is a variety of jobs to choose from for the student who decides against college, said Ullum, adding that opportunities for advancement are not foreign to the business student.

"There are situations when an employer will offer to send an employee on to college," she said, "and in some cases the company will pay up to 80 percent of the tuition."

Ullum conceded that a college education is still important despite the shaky economy, but she noted that, in many cases, "it's not the 'be-all and end-all' to job fulfillment."

"A lot of students get out of college and find out that it wasn't a miracle worker," she said, "but you have to experience college to find that out."

She doubts the necessity of business school training, noting that it may be a waste of time and money for many business students. "If a high school student takes advantage of the business courses," she said, "he or she can develop skills equivalent to those of a business school graduate. With the proper attitude and motivation he or she can be a very good stenographer or typist."

But she said that the view of higher education as a "status symbol" still prevails among students who feel that a business school "is the equivalent of going to college."

"A number of people take college and business courses in high school," she said. "In this case, they might feel the necessity to go on to college."

Although Ullum feels that a degree is not the ticket to success, she believes there are some "subtle" merits to a college education that might go unnoticed by the student.

"College may give you something so subtle that you're not aware of it," she said.

"It may be a broadening factor a maturing factor."

And she said that employers' attitudes sometimes limit promotion of those without college education.

"You have the potential to move up with a college degree," she said.

said he will introduce himself to both parties together, but added that developments could lead to separate meetings with either side.

He declined to comment on where the talks would take place and Mountainside Patrolmen's Benevolent Association president Officer James Debbie confirmed that "we haven't heard anything on a meeting time from our lawyer yet."

The Borough Council has appointed Gerald Dorf of Rahway as its attorney in the dispute, and Lawrence Whipple of Newark will serve as the police lawyer.

Mountainside police have never worked under a contract before and this marks the first time they have demanded one. Neither attorney could be reached for comment after repeated telephone calls and the Borough Council and the police have refused to comment specifically on issues involved in the dispute.

10 will receive degrees at UC

Ten Mountainside residents will be among 371 candidates for graduation from Union College at commencement exercises to be conducted June 1 at 6:15 p.m. it was announced by Dr. Saul Orkin, president.

Heller will receive B.A. from Fairfield

Richard A. Heller of Meeting House lane, Mountainside, will be awarded a bachelor of arts degree Saturday at Fairfield (Conn.) University's 28th annual commencement exercises.

Playwright Arthur Miller will be awarded an honorary degree at the commencement.

Be an angel.

Avoid these air conditioning sins.

WRONG SIZE.
 One of the biggest mistakes is buying a unit that is too big for the room. The wrong size unit will cool the room too fast, making the thermostat cycle on and off frequently. This causes unnecessary wear and tear on the unit and increases energy costs.

UNWISE USAGE.
 There are many ways to use your air conditioner wisely. First, make sure you are using the fan setting. This helps to circulate the air and keeps the room cool. Second, use the dehumidifier setting. This helps to remove moisture from the air, making the room feel cooler. Third, use the timer setting. This allows you to set the unit to turn on and off at specific times, saving energy.

INEFFICIENCY.
 Another common mistake is not checking the unit's performance regularly. The unit's performance can be checked by looking at the EER (Energy Efficiency Ratio) and SEER (Seasonal Energy Efficiency Ratio) ratings. The higher the rating, the more efficient the unit. It's also important to check the unit's filters regularly. Dirty filters can reduce the unit's efficiency and increase energy costs.

POOR INSTALLATION AND MAINTENANCE.
 Improper installation and maintenance are other common mistakes. The unit should be installed in a shaded area, away from direct sunlight. The condenser coils should be cleaned regularly to improve efficiency. The unit should also be serviced regularly to ensure it is running properly.

Terrorism seminar scheduled for June 7

A seminar on aircraft hijacking, bomb and terrorism threats will be sponsored June 7 by the New Jersey Department of Transportation and the Federal Aviation Administration. The program, to provide information on such threats and current responses to them, has been arranged by the Department's Division of Aeronautics and the FAA's Eastern Region Air Transportation Security Division. It will be held at the New Jersey Department of Defense Army Aviation Facility at the Mercer County Airport, West Trenton.

Russ Miller, FAA Air Transportation security officer at Philadelphia International Airport, will speak and will be the moderator of the seminar. Representatives of the New Jersey State Police and the Federal Bureau of Investigation also are expected to participate.

Airport managers in New Jersey and law enforcement officials concerned with these types of security problems have been invited to attend.

Weekend trip? Safety Council has some hints

If you're planning a trip over Memorial Day weekend, the New Jersey State Safety Council urged this week that you consider these suggestions.

Observe the 55 mph speed limit. It's a big saver in gasoline, injuries and lives. Have a mechanic inspect lights, brakes and steering to be sure they work properly; don't forget tires, look for worn tread, cracks and bulges.

Allow plenty of time for driving, if you start out late - plan to arrive late.

Before leaving home, have all passengers buckle their safety belts. If that is impossible, place the person who can't wear a belt in the back seat - it is the least dangerous spot in the event of a collision. The council says the value of safety belts has been documented and that if all motorists on the nation's highways were to wear belts this weekend at least 75 lives could be saved and thousands of injuries prevented.

The council has also proposed a novel way to avoid tailgating mishaps. Basically, all you have to do is allow yourself two-seconds worth of space by following these steps:

1. Watch to see when the car ahead of you passes a handy landmark such as a utility pole, expansion joint in the pavement, roadside sign or other marker.
2. As the car ahead passes the marker, start counting, "One-thousand and one, one-thousand and two."
3. If your car reaches the marker before you've finished counting off the two seconds, you're too close to the car ahead. Lengthen the cushion of space between you and the vehicle you are following.

Public support is urged for meat packaging bill

New Jersey consumers were urged this week to speak out in support of a United States Department of Agriculture (USDA) proposed regulation that would require the net weight labels of pre-packaged meat and other products to accurately reflect the contents of the package.

Adam K. Levin, director of the New Jersey Division of Consumer Affairs, said the net weight standard being considered by the USDA is "essential if the states are to be allowed to enforce rules designed to insure that consumers actually get the amount of meat which labels indicate packages contain."

The USDA proposed rule would require the packages actually contain the represented net weight at the time they are sold to the consumer. Currently, federal regulations allow the retail sale of pre-packaged food which has net weight labels that were accurate when the food was packed. Pre-packaged meat products and other pre-packaged food generally lose net weight between the time they are packaged and the time they are sold at retail, due primarily to moisture loss.

The U.S. Supreme Court ruled last year that state regulations concerning net weight at retail sale were preempted by the federal standards.

In the wake of that decision, agriculture officials, state attorneys general, weights and measures officials and consumer officials of more than 40 states joined in a petition, by California, asking the USDA for a regulation with a strict net weight standard.

Levin noted that the USDA proposed such a standard and that the period for accepting public comment on the regulation ends June 2.

They'll never catch the Rabbit.

Let a Jersey Pro tell you why.

They can't catch the Rabbit's engine.

Only the real Rabbit uses regular gasoline. Because only the real Rabbit has fuel injection, it's a system Volkswagen pioneered and improved to deliver economy and performance. And they can't match the most economical car engine in America, because they haven't been able to copy the Rabbit's Diesel engine that delivers 53 mpg highway, 40 mpg city.

They can't catch the Rabbit's handling.

But man does not live by mileage alone. There has to be a joy in driving. And the real Rabbit remembers that: it is by far the best handling car of them all. We've kept the sure, firm, European handling package intact. We believe you can love driving without getting mushy about it.

They can't catch the Rabbit's safety.

Only the real Rabbit has the kind of passive-restraint seatbelt system that the U.S. Department of Transportation says every car will have to have by 1984. Just another of the important touches that make the Rabbit a big improvement over the others.

They can't match the Rabbit's reputation.

You just can't copy experience. The others will always have to be a few years behind the real Rabbit in that. They can't imitate Volkswagen's reputation of reliability, durability and economy that comes from decades of building cars with quality and integrity—not from building cars to fit a price tag.

*Based on 1977 EPA estimates. Actual mileage may vary depending on weight and driving conditions. Includes standard and optional equipment.

Let a Rabbit show you why.

A different kind of used car from a different kind of dealer.

The used cars listed here aren't ordinary used cars. Because they don't come from an ordinary dealership. At Pace, a customer is respected as the owner of a fine automobile, not dismissed as a troublesome accessory to it.

Because of our service, we're selling more and more new Buicks. And taking in more and more fine used cars as trade-ins. The cars listed here are the best of them.

Before we put a used car up for sale, we inspect it inside and out. We fix what needs fixing—and if we can't we simply don't sell the car to you.

Then, we protect every used car we sell with Pace Buick's own double warranty: 3 months or 3,000 miles, whichever comes first, on the entire car plus 6 months/6,000 miles (whichever comes first) limited to the engine and drive train.

Best of all, when you buy a used car from Pace, you receive the same attentive service that's winning us more and more new-car customers.

So, if you're tired of looking at the same old kind of used cars, come to Pace. You'll find the kind of used car you can trust—because you can also trust the dealership they come from.

Kennedy offers card for mortgage deals

Thomas Martin, president of Kennedy Mortgage Co., one of New Jersey's largest mortgage organizations, has announced the introduction of the AnyHome Card, a unique mortgage pre-qualification program.

The AnyHome Card is a qualification card for prospective homebuyers in which they are prescreened and assured that the house they will select is comfortably within their financial means.

The procedure for this program requires several minutes' time and the card can usually be issued within 24 to 48 hours.

Kennedy president Martin said, "The AnyHome Card program removes one of the greatest resistance factors in home buying that is the apprehension that a homebuyer's mortgage application will be rejected. With the AnyHome Card, both buyer and seller know that the buyer is qualified for a certain mortgage amount within his means. We expect in the not so distant future the majority of home purchases will be made using a prequalification system such as Kennedy's innovative AnyHome Card.

There is no additional cost to the mortgage applicant for the AnyHome Card. Service and applications are available through selected real estate brokers or directly through Kennedy Mortgage. Application can be made in person or even by telephone to Kennedy Mortgage.

The AnyHome Card is issued not as a mortgage commitment but rather as an expression of Kennedy Mortgage's confidence in the commitment of the applicant would warrant.

Upon taking of a continuing application, written verification of information on the appliant, verification of the applicant's previous credit history and an acceptable appraisal of the home to be purchased, Kennedy then processes the loan request through FHA/VA or a conventional loan source and upon the approval issues a firm commitment.

Martin continued that for the past year Kennedy has originated over $10 million in mortgages and has taken the lead in the introduction of new and innovative mortgage programs. He cited Kennedy's pioneering efforts in the HUD 241 Graduated Payment Mortgage program as well as efforts utilizing the N.J. Mortgage Finance Agency's Neighborhood Loan Program, NLP, in which Kennedy took one of the largest commitments under the NLP, $200,000.

and has made the first mortgage under the program in several cities throughout the state.

Martin concluded, "The AnyHome Card program is another step for Kennedy exemplifying our innovative approach to service in the mortgage marketplace.

Give the world a little gift today. Blood.

The American Red Cross. The Good Neighbor.

If you've been dreaming of ocean front homes on the Jersey Shore, here comes your rude awakening.

They're almost all gone. And there probably won't be any more for a long time.

Got your attention? Here's the problem: When New Jersey passed an environmental law to protect its coastlines, they made the law so tough it effectively prohibited the kind of beach development everyone's been building. So the building stopped. So what you see now is all you're going to get.

Now here's the opportunity: Right now, at an established community called the Towers of Monmouth Beach, we've got the only ocean-front luxury highrise condominiums on the entire North Jersey Shore you can move in tomorrow.

One last golden opportunity.

But there's a catch. We now have less than 50 homes available. On April 1 we had over 90. And we expect to be completely sold out by Memorial Day. So you don't have time to dream any longer. If you're going to buy, you're going to have to get in line today.

Worth every penny.

Fortunately, the last homes you can buy are also just about the best. Because The Towers is a true luxury community.

For example, right on the ocean we've built the only private boardwalk north of Atlantic City. It encloses a huge sundeck and plaza, the outdoor pool, the shuffle board courts and the cabanas. Just off the deck is the indoor pool, the health spa, the coffee shop, the card room, the game room, and the atrium lobby. Where you'll find nice little touches like 24-hour reception/answering service, valet garage parking and uniformed doormen. As well as a resident manager and service staff. There's even a private putting green and lighted outdoor tennis court.

Realistically priced.

Because we offer extensive customizing, our prices vary greatly. Generally, however, the range is from the low $50's to the upper $180's. If you're already familiar with today's oceanfront prices, you'll be pleasantly surprised.

But remember, these homes are just about the last of their kind. So we strongly suggest you drive out and see them today. Because people are already buying them like there's no tomorrow.

Just over an hour from Manhattan.

What amazes most people is that they can live this kind of lifestyle only an hour's drive from Manhattan. But what's even nicer is the commuter service: a daily seaplane shuttle between Monmouth Beach and Wall Street. Ah, the good life.

By the way, if you've never been to Monmouth Beach, you're in for a treat. It's one of those genteel, turn-of-the-century seaside resorts everyone loves, with old Victorian homes, yachting clubs, and charming restaurants.

Auto Service Tips

Timing is important in the operation of your automobile engine. The distributor, shown at lower right in drawing, regulates timing of spark plug in each cylinder. The distributor can be adjusted to advance or retard timing of each spark at precisely the right moment.

Parkway chief: 'Check your car before traveling'

New Jersey motorists should practice preventive maintenance on their vehicles before traveling on the Garden State Parkway during the Memorial Day weekend, New Jersey Highway Authority Chairman William F. Smith said this week.

Motorists should check tire belts, hoses, battery, tires and oil, and of course, gas and water, Smith said. It is also a good idea to bring along an extra container of water for the radiator, overheating is a particular problem during the summer months, and motorists should guard against it by stop-and-go traffic by turning off their air conditioning, a move which would also help in the conservation of energy, he continued.

Security is discreet at adult community

Security at prestigious Shadow Lake Village is so discreet that only the residents know how effective it is. Visitors get just a glimpse of how privacy is maintained here—the tip of the iceberg, so to speak—when they arrive at the entrance to the adult community off Dwight Road in Middletown.

Visitors are stopped at a charming gatehouse which is manned 24 hours a day. They are asked whom they are visiting, the license number of their car is noted, the bar across the roadway is lifted electronically, and they are waved on with a friendly smile—provided the resident has left the guest's name in advance, the usual procedure.

Once in a while visitors who tell the guard they want to see a model home don't go directly to the sales offices, but drive around the community. That's fine, but if they park and start to walk around, they'll be met by a man who politely asks them if they've lost their way. The gatehouse is advised, you see, if a visitor fails to show at his announced destination.

Very few people resent this, Hovnanian adds. Usually they congratulate us on our system.

Mental Health

WHAT IS DEPRESSION?
Friends and family members can do a great deal to relieve sufferers of the more moderate forms of depression.

Keeping the depressed person busy and active often helps. Depression tends to feed on itself. A moderately depressed person becomes apathetic and inactive and, as a result of the inactivity, becomes more depressed, more withdrawn, even more inactive, and the vicious circle grows.

Operatic event set

The Friends of the New Jersey State Opera will present the fourth annual June festival of the New Jersey State Opera Company Monday, June 5, at 8 p.m. at the Paper Mill Playhouse, Milburn.

Highlighting the evening will be the presentation of the Puccini Foundation Award by Madame Lucia Albanese, who will sing several arias.

Statewide audition winners will receive awards, and a preview of next season's repertoire will be presented. The winners will render operatic selections. Through the courtesy of the American Federation of the Musicians Performance Trust Fund, the singers will be accompanied by the New Jersey State Opera Orchestra, under the baton of artistic director and conductor Alfredo Silipigni. Admission will be free.

Sales group to hear Young

United Nations Ambassador Andrew Young and former United States Steel president Roger Blough head the list to speak June 1 at the 30th Annual Business Conference sponsored by the Sales Executives Club of New Jersey and Rutgers University Graduate School of Business Administration. Other speakers at the day-long conference on the Rutgers campus include Frank Lee, president of Foster Wheeler, and Robert Baldwin, president of Morgan Stanley.

DOT will computerize traffic control system

A computerized traffic guidance system to alert motorists to accidents and other incidents that impede travel and to suggest alternate routes is being developed for the eight northeast counties of New Jersey, the Department of Transportation has announced.

between the George Washington Bridge and Route 17. Routes 1, 9 and 19, Garden State Parkway, and New Jersey Turnpike between the Raritan River area and Interstate Route 28.

Work also is continuing on a similar type of sophisticated traffic control and surveillance system for the Newark Airport Interchange, one of the most complex highway interchanges in the world. A building to house the electronic equipment for both traffic guidance and control systems is to be constructed at the Airport interchange.

Interstate Route 96 and Route 46 between the New Jersey side of the George Washington Bridge and the northern terminus of the New Jersey Turnpike.

When the Route Guidance System described as the ultimate in traffic system management is in operation, motorists will be advised to use alternate highways in the event of congestion on a particular route, explained D. W. Gwynn, chief engineer of Transportation Operations and Local Aid.

Route 96 and the Parkway, across the Raritan River, between Parkway interchanges 123 and 129.

By keeping traffic moving just along Routes 4, 46 and 30 instead of permitting backups, a marked improvement in air quality is anticipated, including a reduction in emissions of nearly one-third hydrocarbons and 40 percent in carbon monoxide, he explained. It would save time for motorists and reduce vehicle running costs and secondary accidents.

To control traffic within the Newark Airport interchange, electronic sensors will be placed in the pavement of all interchange ramps and diversion signs erected. This system, developed by the Department with the New Jersey State Police, will enable emergency vehicles to reach the scene of a breakdown or accident faster by directing traffic on certain lanes. It also will alert motorists to delays ahead and permit them to use alternate ramps.

The ultimate cost of the project, which could be in operation by the end of 1981, is estimated at $174 million, the federal government would provide 70 percent.

Development of this system has been completed and construction of a $100,000 building to house the electronic equipment has been authorized.

Rapid growth of traffic in these counties, Gwynn said, has resulted in increases in collisions, mechanical failures, flat tires and spilled loads from trucks. These, in turn, have resulted in costly traffic delays and secondary accidents.

The diversion routes envisaged for the various corridors in the project: Routes 4, 46 and Interstate Route

Consumer advocate Ralph Nader will deliver the principal address at Kean College's 123rd commencement exercises to be held on the school's Union campus at 10 a.m. June 8. He is expected to speak on issues related to his public advocacy and the current outlook for consumer issues.

Nader to speak at 123rd Kean commencement

The college will recognize the academic achievements of 1,300 undergraduate and graduate candidates, including some who completed degree requirements at the end of the fall semester, and others who are expected to meet those requirements by the end of the summer session.

The New Jersey Symphony Orchestra has announced its concert schedule for the summer, including 13 concerts throughout the state in three weeks from July 1 through July 15. It is estimated that more than 100,000 people will attend. The orchestra will use its new mobile sound stage, the second largest in America.

James McManus, music director, said the program of 13 concerts will include symphonies by Beethoven, Brahms, Mahler, and Strauss. Other composers featured are Tchaikovsky and Debussy. The concerts will appear July 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15. The mobile sound stage will be transported to various venues throughout the state.

The mobile sound stage is a 24-foot wide, 12-foot high, 12-foot deep structure that can be transported by truck or train. It is the largest mobile sound stage in the world.

The speaker system is a 100-watt, 100-ohm, 100-foot travel and carries a height of over 100 feet and is capable of projecting music to an audience in the tens of thousands with maximum fidelity. Library degree

Kean College in Union has announced a new undergraduate program, beginning in September, to train and certify students in teaching and administering a library media center for an elementary or secondary school.

A new certification, which meets the requirements of the Thorough and Efficient Education Act is called the library media specialist program.

All public schools are required to have a library media center in the school building, to contain print and non-print learning materials such as films, tapes, records, and cassettes as well as books, magazines, and newspapers. The media specialist is trained as a teacher, librarian and audio-visual expert with a major responsibility for teaching students how to find information through the center's resources. Graduates of the Kean College program will receive an elementary or secondary school teaching certificate and a K-12 library-media specialist certificate.

Those interested in the program may call the department of communication sciences at Kean College, 527-2070.

Basie concert at Westfield

Count Basie and his Orchestra will appear in concert Wednesday, June 28, at 8 p.m. at the Westfield High School auditorium.

Count Basie recently received a Grammy as the best big band of the year for his album, "Prime Time." Tickets are available at the Westfield Community Center, 558 W. Broad St., or by calling 232-4759.

Rider College to honor three

Rider College, Lawrenceville, will honor Dr. Ernest L. Boyer, U.S. commissioner of education, composer Roger Sessions and New Jersey Public Advocate Stanley C. Van Ness at its 113th commencement Sunday, June 4.

The three will receive honorary degrees during outdoor ceremonies beginning at 4 p.m. on the college's Academic Quadrangle.

LFO has been doing things right in floor covering for over 50 years. LFO buys right, LFO sells at a fair price. Most important, LFO stands behind what it sells.

Dial 'N Pay bills by phone

That's right! With a simple phone call to Dial 'N Pay, toll-free from anywhere in New Jersey, you can pay utilities, department stores, credit cards, mortgages, loans and more — just by telling us who and how much to pay! You can even transfer funds between your Howard Scotfree Checking and Regular 5¼% Passbook Savings Accounts by phone!

Here's how it works

All you need is a Scotfree Checking Account and Regular Savings Account to sign up for Dial 'N Pay. You select who you want to pay and complete a simple form. We then send you your own individually coded list of those you can pay. Then, just call Dial 'N Pay and tell us which bills to pay and how much — we mail out your payments. Your monthly Scotfree Checking Statement shows these payments along with any checks you write. And the cost is only 10¢ for each transaction.

Dial 'N Pay the easy Howard powered way

Just think. Instead of all the nuisance of writing checks, finding envelopes, licking stamps or running to the bank, you can just talk to Dial 'N Pay. It's so easy, it makes paying bills almost fun!

Find out about all the conveniences Dial 'N Pay offers. It's America's fastest growing and most successful system for paying bills by phone and it's only at the Howard. Stop at any Howard office — or send in the coupon — or phone (201) 456-5900 for full details and a sign-up kit. No obligation, of course. Why put it off?

Just a few of the bills you can pay by phone

Public Service Electric & Gas, Bamberger's, VISA, Exxon, Sears, American Express, Stern's, Bloomingdale's, Shell, Hahne's, B. Altman's, Gulf, Sunoco, Mobil, J. C. Penney, Lord & Taylor, Texaco, Korvette's, Master Charge, plus hundreds of others.

Dial 'N Pay sounds great!
