Board labels bus damages 'exaggerated'

By PATRICIA GARRISON
Mountainside Board of Education President Scott Schmedel said reports that Deerfield School students had extensively damaged buses transporting them to Washington, D.C., on an eighth grade trip were "grossly exaggerated."

He labeled reports that the students had committed $1,200 in damages to the buses as "rumors" and said that while some buses may have suffered damage, "I have no reason to believe that any damage was close to that amount."

Three Somerset buses were rented to take about 100 eighth-graders on the one-day graduation trip. Board member Charles Speth acted as a supervisor along with five teachers and four parents.

"We had information from some of the adults who went on the trip," said Schmedel, "and we have nothing to believe that anything like that happened."

Speth said the trip was "more successful than I had expected" and said the students behaved like "any kids on a holiday and responded well to instructions."

The board member added, however, that the buses should be inspected for damages before the trip begins.

Speth noted that the return trip was marred by a bus breakdown, forcing the students to crowd onto two buses. He said the breakdown and some delays resulted in student "restlessness."

The Somerset Bus Co. has not issued a claim for damage reimbursement from the board, according to Schmedel, who added that the "bus man may have made some comments about the trip that he may now regret he made."

"I'm not calling anybody a liar," said Schmedel, "but what some people might call damages are not damages to someone else."

Somerset Bus owner Frank Noll, during an earlier telephone interview, refused to comment on the trip matter.

IN OTHER BUSINESS, the board voted to prohibit the use of alcoholic beverages on school grounds or in the building at any time.

The action stems from board member complaints of beer-drinking during after-school hours at unorganized adult softball games on the Deerfield School field.

Board member Patricia Knodel said the drinking "sets a bad example" for the children who are in the area while the games are in progress, "especially when we have a time of an extreme rate of teenage alcoholism."

State statute already forbids drinking on school property while school is in session.

Board member Knodel blasted the board on the selection process for a school community relations consultant, adding that school superintendent Dr. Levin Hanigan "is spending entirely too much time on this."

Hanigan said he had interviewed 35

Swim team wins its season opener

The Mountainside Community Pool Swim Team launched its season by defeating the Willow Grove Swim Team of Scotch Plains. The victory marks the 12th-straight-triumph-for-the team since it joined the Westfield Outdoor Swim League in 1976.

Outstanding divers and swimmers included Beth Post, Maureen Barlonek, Shane Connel, Jack Ribbeck, Dana Zonneville, Gina Malocci, Ted McLaughlan, Renee Buanjorno and Mike Wellish, according to team coach Peter Harley.

Mountainside will take on the Highland Swim Club Saturday.

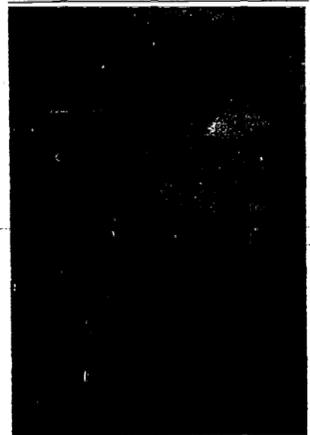

McCarthy gets eagle honors at ceremonies

John F. McCarthy, son of Mr. and Mrs. John F. McCarthy of Long Meadow, Mountainside, was recently awarded the eagle badge at a ceremony conducted at the Mountainside Community Presbyterian Church.

John joined Cub Scout Pack 177 in 1969 and, after achieving his Webelos rank, joined Boy Scout 177 where he concentrated his interests on camping and hiking. He earned the Historic Trails Award, the Jockey Hollow Trails Medal and the Valley Forge Medal.

John attended Union Catholic High School where he was active in sports and student social activities. He is a member of the German National Honor Society and was the student chairman of the annual Christmas tree sale. John also managed a girls' softball team. In September, he will major in hotel management.

The eagle badge ceremony was conducted by Richard Miske, scoutmaster, and Erich Wolz, senior patrol leader. Steven Berkman, district scout executive representing the Watchung Area Council, delivered the eagle charge.

SUSAN ZIOBRO

Woman's Club grant to Ziobro

The Mountainside Woman's Club has awarded a scholarship to Susan Ziobro of Mountainside. Miss Ziobro will attend the University of Pennsylvania's Wharton School of Business, where she will be a Benjamin Franklin Scholar. She must maintain a 3.5 average to retain this designation.

At Jonathan Dayton Regional High School, Miss Ziobro was active in the Chorale and was the student director of the school musical during her junior year. She was a member of the French Club, the French National Honor Society and the National Honor Society. A first-class Girl Scout, Susan tied two other students for highest mathematics average and received a National Merit Scholarship Commendation for PSAT scores. She graduated third in her class.

Dayton Boosters still protesting appointment of phys ed teacher

The Jonathan Dayton Booster Club has renewed its complaints about hiring "policy and methods employed by the administration" with "sanctioning by the Board of Education" in the Union County Regional High School District.

The club, which reacted angrily in May when 27-year-old Angelo Senese was hired as head football coach at Dayton, aimed its new protest at circumstances surrounding the employment of a physical education teacher, Edward Tranchina, who also will serve as Senese's football assistant.

In a letter read at the Board of Education's meeting last week, the Booster Club accused the school district administration of going "to extreme measures" to offer a teaching job to Tranchina, a one-time college teammate of Senese. Coaching is just a part-time position in the Regional District. A coach draws his main salary as a teacher. Senese, for example, will be an English teacher.)

The letter was signed by Sandy Irene of Mountainside as 1978-79 president of the Booster Club and by George Doty of Springfield as 1977-78 president.

Later, Irene elaborated on the letter, which, he said, was strictly a protest against hiring practices, not against Senese or Tranchina personally—"We don't have any bones to pick with them; they aren't responsible for the policy inconsistencies."

Many Booster Club members had favored Don Carpenter, a Springfield resident and assistant football coach at New Providence High School, for the job to which Senese was appointed at Dayton. The Boosters argued that preference should have been given to someone familiar with the local area and respected by local citizens. Senese came from out of state: Stonington High School in Connecticut.

Regional District officials "told us it was their policy to advertise as widely as possible to get good people . . ." said Irene. "So what happened to that so-called 'policy' when they wanted to hire Mr. Senese's assistant as a p. e. teacher? As far as we can determine, there was little or no advertising for the job. They just hired who they wanted to, without any concern about policy or the lack of it."

At the board meeting last week, Dr. Donald Merachnik, district superintendent, was instructed to look into the club's latest complaint and report back to the board.

Merachnik said Tranchina was hired to fill a vacancy created when a woman phys ed teacher took a maternity leave at Dayton. Tranchina taught last year at East Rockaway (N.Y.) High School. Like Senese, he is an alumnus of Central Connecticut State College, where he was an offensive tackle picked by United Press International as an All-New-England football player. He received a master's degree from Adelphi University in Garden City, L.I.

"He was highly recommended," said Merachnik.

Raccoons orphaned Firemen to the rescue

Occasionally, fire departments are involved in rescue operations outside the scope of fire safety and prevention. This was the case on June 23 when Chief Robert Wyckoff of the Mountainside Fire Department was called to rescue two baby raccoons stranded in a tree.

Earlier that week, the mother raccoon was apparently killed at the corner of New Providence and Orchard roads in the vicinity of the tree. While one baby was found at the base of the tree, the characteristic shrill cry of other raccoons could be heard from their perch some 40 feet above the roadway.

The cries attracted local residents including Scoutmaster Dick Miske, his sons Brian and Glen, daughter Susan and Mrs. Ruth Goense. Miske and Mrs. Goense, realizing that the two-week-old orphans required food and water, called the fire department.

As a crowd gathered near the tree, a ladder was placed in position and fireman Bob Farley ascended to the top. He plucked out two hungry raccoons and returned the creatures to children waiting below.

Following a brief stay at Ruth Goense's nursery, the raccoons were returned to a habitat in the Watchung Reservation.

MCP offering bridge facilities

The Mountainside Community Pool now provides bridge tables, chairs and cards for its members.

The tables and chairs are available in the sun deck office—where they may be used either in the sun or under cover and away from the wet, noisy crowd. Cards may be borrowed from the manager's office downstairs.

Setting up and returning the cards, tables and chairs will be the responsibility of the players.

Indians to keep Torborg on job

Jeff Torborg of Mountainside will manage the Cleveland Indians for at least one more season.

The team's general manager, Phil Seghi, last week announced that Torborg's contract had been extended through the 1979 season.

The announcement ends weeks of speculation of a possible change in team leadership brought on by the Indians' poor season performance. The team ranks sixth in the American League East, 16½ games behind Boston.

Torborg was hired as the Indians' manager in June 1977 after Frank Robinson was fired. Torborg's contract was due to expire at the end of this season.

Cosmo tickets are available

Tickets are available for the Cosmos-Tampa Bay soccer trip to Giant Stadium sponsored by the Mountainside Recreation Commission. The game is scheduled for Sunday evening, July 30.

The registration fee is $7.50 per person and includes lower tier seating and bus transportation. The bus will leave Deerfield School at 6 p.m. and return after the game. Children under 12 must be accompanied by adults.

Registrations also are being accepted for the men's and women's doubles tennis tournaments, the third and fourth sessions of tennis lessons and the Mets' baseball trip.

The recreation office is open weekdays from 9 to 11 a.m. and 2 to 4 p.m. Readers may call 232-0015 for additional information.

Midget football begins sign-up

Mountainside Midget Football registration for the 1978 fall program is open. Boys who will reach age 9 by Sept. 1 and have not entered 9th grade may register. Heavyweight candidates must register by July 25.

A meeting of the Booster Club will be announced in the near future to enlist help from and to clarify any phase of the program. Uniform purchase, new or used, will also be discussed. The clinic will again be available to boys age 7 by Sept. 1 and 8 years old. A $7 deposit is required at registration. Checks should be made payable to Mountainside Midget Football Booster Club. Further information can be obtained from George Fischer, 233-5199, or Joe Sefack, 232-8578.

Rescue Squad notes 45 calls

The Mountainside Rescue Squad responded to 45 calls in June. The calls included five for transportation, 26 for emergencies, six for accidents, and eight for heart oxygen. Total mileage was 583, and total man-hours were 120 according to Robert Vigilanti, captain.

Pole is measuring up Pupils calculate height

A big rain cloud temporarily halted the efforts of some fourth graders in Mountainside's Deerfield School trying to measure the height of the school's flagpole.

But the cloud soon passed, and using the pole's shadow, along with some sticks, the students were able to accurately estimate the size of the pole.

Peggy Moser, whose daughter, Cindy, is a fourth grader at the school, visited the classes of Trudi Rockett recently to show the students some games they can play with their math skills.

"The students could use the shadow of the pole, along with a stick that they had already measured, to determine the size of the pole," Moser explained.

"The cloud came over just as the whole class was ready to measure," Moser said. "But luckily it later passed over and the students were able to finish the measuring."

Moser also showed the pupils how to perform calculations with their fingers using a method called "Chisanbop."

"Chisanbop is a method where the children use their fingers as you might use an abacus," she explained.

Moser has visited the class several times sharing some of her math skills with the students.

Four injured in car mishaps during holiday

Four persons were injured in three separate traffic accidents during the long fourth of July weekend, Mountainside police reported.

Police said Joseph M. Lynch of North Plainfield suffered lower leg injuries when his auto collided with a car driven by Piotr Z. Glowacki of Irvington on Rt. 22 last Sunday.

Lynch was reportedly attempting to get into the left lane of the highway when his car collided with Glowacki's, also in the left lane.

Deborah Kratz, a passenger in Lynch's car, sustained neck injuries from the crash.

Frank Barney of East Orange was charged with driving under the influence of alcohol after his auto collided with a car driven by Lydia V. Larkin of Westfield on Rt. 22 East last Tuesday.

Police said the crash occurred as Larkin was turning left onto a highway exit ramp and Barney attempted to pass Larkin on the left.

Barney suffered neck injuries and reportedly told police he would see his own doctor.

James Kaplan of Mountainside sustained moderate face injuries after his auto struck the rear of a vehicle driven by James Enard of Westfield on New Providence road last Tuesday night, according to police.

Police said Enard's car was stopped at a traffic light when the mishap occurred. Kaplan was charged with careless driving.

Two residents gain degrees

LEWISBURG, Pa.—Two Mountainside, N.J., residents received bachelor's degrees during the recent 128 commencement exercises of Bucknell University.

Devon Faith English, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard English of Hillside avenue, received a B.A. degree in music and German. A 1974 graduate of Governor Livingston Regional High School, she was a violinist for four years in the Susquehanna Valley Symphony Orchestra and the Bucknell Symphony Orchestra.

Elizabeth Ann Nelson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold E. Nelson of Ridge drive, was awarded a B.S. degree in mathematics. She is a 1974 graduate of St. Mary's Academy and served as business manager of the yearbook, was a member of Phi Beta Phi sorority and was active in volunteer service program of "Concern and Action."

Car hits pole; driver injured

A Mountainside man was injured after his car went out of control on Summit road Friday night, Mountainside police reported.

Craig R. Kemper reportedly told police he was travelling north on the road when he lost control of his vehicle and crashed into a pole.

He was taken by the Mountainside Rescue Squad to Overlook Hospital where he was treated for face injuries.

Degree with honors awarded by MSC

Corinne Frances Clarke of New Providence road, Mountainside, was graduated with honors from Montclair State College at recent commencement exercises.

Clarke completed requirements for her bachelor of arts degree in January.

Two on honors list

Two students from Mountainside—Elaine R. Emslie of Knollwood road and William B. Riffel of Poplar avenue—have been named to the academic honors list for the spring semester at Montclair State College.

He will join Air Products Chemicals Inc. in Allentown, Pa., after a summer vacation.

Drivers flee crash scenes

Mountainside police are investigating two recent Rt. 22 hit-and-run accidents from which both victims escaped without injuries.

Police reported a car, going east, driven by Betty L. Presser of Mountainside, collided with a vehicle driving across the highway from a U-turn last Tuesday.

Jeffrey Hartman of South Plainfield reportedly told police a collision occurred as he attempted to pass an unknown driver in the left lane of Rt. 22 east Friday night.

Fire destroys car on Rt. 22

A car driven by a Summit woman caught fire on Rt. 22 Monday morning and was totally destroyed, Mountainside police reported.

Police said Catherine Carson pulled her auto into the L'Affaire 22 restaurant parking lot after the motor of her 1972 Volkswagen station wagon began to burn.

The car then burst into flames, police reported.

In Assembly DONALD T. DIFRANCESCO

The no-fault insurance study commission, on which I have served for over a year, has just released a report on the automobile insurance problem in New Jersey.

The report deals specifically with two pending bills A-1120, A-1121 introduced by the Byrne administration. A major provision of this proposed legislation would establish a "reinsurance facility" to take partial responsibility for insuring certain high-risk drivers.

We on the study commission do not support the reinsurance facility concept, and have proposed a more efficient, less costly alternative.

It is our recommendation that New Jersey adopt a Joint Underwriting Association (JUA) similar to that in Florida. A JUA would accomplish the same objectives as the facility, that is, "guarantee that automobile insurance be available to New Jersey motorists through normal market outlets at standard market rates," but the JUA system would save taxpayers and responsible drivers millions of dollars.

Study of the facility concept shows gross inefficiencies not found in the JUA. For instance, under Assembly Bill 1121, all insurance carriers in the state would have to insure any driver, regardless of driving violation record.

Although the facility would assume some responsibility for very high-risk drivers, the staffs of all 400 insurance carriers operating in New Jersey would be required to service the facility, duplicating costs and paperwork to the tune of millions of dollars.

Under a joint underwriting association, the insurance commissioner would ask for 14 carriers to volunteer service as "designated agents." These 14 companies would handle the high-risk drivers.

Although costs would be borne equally by all New Jersey carriers, these costs would be reduced greatly because of the vastly more efficient system. In addition, considerable savings of tax dollars would be realized, since the insurance commissioner would have to monitor only 14 companies rather than 400 separate carriers.

Under a JUA, the average middle-income citizen saves dollars in two ways—through taxes that would have gone to pay for government administration of the facility and through resignation of E. Edward Shiley, popular vocal-music teacher at Dayton before he took an unpaid leave-of-absence last year to study for a master's degree. Shiley said he had accepted employment elsewhere and will not return to Dayton.

Natalie Waldt, senior board member from Springfield, said the clock in the Dayton tower should be repaired. It is not keeping time again, she noted.

The board approved district participation in the New Jersey Adult High School Project administered by the state Department of Education and financed with federal funds under the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act (CETA).

The project allows adults and young high school dropouts to earn regular high school diplomas by passing academic exams or by combining old school records with credit for on-the-job training, military training or independent study.

The Regional District's Adult Learning Center will become a satellite office for the project coordinated in a 10-county area, including Union County, by the Parsippany Adult High School.

The board approved a special summer workshop to train Gov. Livingston faculty in integrating hearing-handicapped students into regular classes.

The board voted to pay $7,860 in 1977-78 student-activity debts, primarily for school newspapers and musicales, at the four Regional District campuses. The figure included $1,440 for the school newspaper and $788 for the musicale at Dayton. Board member Roland Hecker objected to having the newspaper debts called "deficits." He said the board agreed in advance to subsidize the papers, up to $1,500 per school, to assure regular publication.

Hospital fund-raiser is retiring-in a way

Madeleine Naething is officially leaving Children's Specialized Hospital in Mountainside—but she will be back.

After almost 34 years working in the fund raising office at Children's Specialized Hospital, the grandmother of nine and great-grandmother of five is retiring.

A 60-year resident of Westfield, where she reared three children, Mrs. Naething took a job as a typist in the fund raising office after answering an ad in a local newspaper.

"That was back in 1945 and I have been working as supervisor in the same office ever since," she said. "I don't regret a minute of it. The hospital has grown immensely. It is a remarkable place. The staff treat the handicapped children like their own family. That's what makes it really special to me."

When Mrs. Naething came to Children's Specialized Hospital, she said 90 percent of its patients suffered from polio. The bone crippling disease taxed the then-small hospital's capacity and its facilities were soon restricted to polio patients from infancy to 12 years of age.

"Polio has been wiped out but there are so many other illnesses that affect children—besides the crippling after-effects of accidents—and I have seen this wonderful hospital meet those needs," Mrs. Naething said. "When I came here the hospital was housed in the old Thomas Drew Farmstead, the center portion of which is now the administration building. Now we have a brand new hospital wing."

"In the old days we had 12 women going through phone books, listing names and hand-addressing fund appeal envelopes and putting postage on by hand. As more sophisticated programs came along, changes were made, and now we are beginning to mechanize the whole operation," she added.

Mrs. Naething may be leaving her job, but she won't say a final goodbye to the hospital. After a planned month-long visit to family in her native England, she plans to come back and do volunteer work at the hospital when she can.

people for the part-time post and was considering meeting with an additional 15.

"The superintendent should be interviewing teachers instead of a public relations consultant," said Knodel. "We've never interviewed 50 teachers for a job since I've been here."

Acting on a request from Knodel, the board voted to meet with some of the top candidates for the position before a final decision is made.

"I do not object to the superintendent interviewing these people initially," said Knodel. "but the board should have an opportunity to see some of the candidates."

Sussko, Ruggiero, Knodel graduated

James Knodel, Charles Ruggiero and Roger Sussko, all of Mountainside, recently received diplomas from Oratory Prep School, Summit. The Most Rev. John J. Dougherty, Auxiliary Bishop of Newark, conferred diplomas on the 43 seniors; all have been accepted at college.

Ruggiero, who will attend Penn State in September, was the recipient of the General Excellence, the New Jersey Foreign Language Teachers Association Award. He also was called upon to deliver the class farewell.

Volunteers seen key to visiting nurse aid

Volunteers, who contributed 4,557 hours of work and about 75,000 visits to homes, were a major factor in the growth of the Visiting Nurse and Health Services, according to the agency's 1977 annual report.

The agency, which provides services to homes, schools, child health conferences and clinics, employs a full-time staff of registered nurses, home health aides and support personnel. But, according to Rosemary Cuccaro, executive director of the agency,

"volunteer work takes the burden from our staff, and this in turn increases our professional productivity. Thanks to volunteer efforts, we are able to utilize our staff personnel in their individual areas of expertise, thus cutting down on wasted effort and time spent on extraneous projects."

She also pointed out that the volunteer efforts represent a considerable financial savings. She suggested that if volunteer workers were paid the minimum wage of $2.65 an hour, it would mean an additional salary load of $12,076 in 1977, not including fringe benefits.

Most of the VNHS volunteer work is done at the agency's Elizabeth headquarters at 354 Union ave. and includes folding towels and aprons for nurses' use in patient care services, collating patient's records, sorting computer sheets, correcting management information system materials from the N.J. Health Department, typing manuals and manuscripts, addressing agency mail and serving on health fairs throughout the service area.

"Actually," said Cuccaro, "the list is almost endless, since new requirements crop up every month. This is one challenge we don't mind though, because we can count on our selfless and dedicated volunteers. These men and women perform no less a service to the communities in our purview than our registered nurses, and we're proud of them as we are of our entire professional staff."

Obstacles cited in solid waste energy plan

New Jersey faces four major obstacles in attempting to develop resource recovery facilities which would produce energy, the District Solid Waste Advisory Council of Union County was told recently.

Gary Brian Liss, assistant director of the Office of Alternative Technologies in the state Department of Energy, said these obstacles are:

- The need for large, stable markets for solid waste as an energy resource.
- A guaranteed daily flow of waste materials to resource recovery facilities.
- Restructuring landfill disposal rates to reflect the costs of environmental improvements, thus increasing the economic incentives for the development of resource recovery facilities.

— The need for both public and private financing to achieve solid waste planning goals.

Liss told the county group that the state has established a goal of having 20 percent of the municipal solid waste stream removed through source separation programs, such as voluntary recycling centers and curbside collections.

The Solid Waste Advisory Council, which is studying waste disposal programs, meets in the County Administration Building at 300 North ave., east, Westfield, at 8 p.m. on the fourth Wednesday of each month. Gregory Sgroi of Cranford, chairman, said the meetings are open to the public.

Blood program seeking donors

Vera S. Maier, volunteer chairman for the American Red Cross Blood Program of Eastern Union County this week urged area residents to "give a pint." She called the summer months "critical" due to the decline in donations while the need for a continuous supply remains.

"Every summer we are faced with the same problem," Mrs. Maier commented. "The only solution to the shortage, of course, is donors. When the supply of blood runs out there is no substitute."

The Red Cross Blood Program is seeking healthy volunteer donors between the ages of 18 and 65 (17-year-olds must have parental consent). The chapter, located at 203 W. Jersey st., Elizabeth, holds a drawing the second and fourth Friday of each month from 12:30 to 5:30 p.m. All donors will receive blood coverage for themselves and their families whenever needed, Mrs. Maier said. She said donors should call 353-2500 for an appointment.

The State We're In

N. J. Conservation Foundation

Sewage sludge is nasty stuff and doesn't lend itself to light reading like this. But I can report that the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) has come up with a plan for coping with the sewage sludge problem, and it deserves our attention.

The trouble with sludge (what's left over after sewage undergoes treatment in a municipal plant or in a septic tank) is that it often contains all manner of dangerous things like heavy metals and toxic or cancer-causing chemicals. Seacoast states traditionally dump sludge into the ocean, but EPA and state agencies like the New Jersey Department of Environmental Protection (DEP) are working to end that bad habit. Instead, they want to find suitable land-based modes of disposal. Conversion to compost for agricultural use is a favorite idea.

But if those dangerous substances remain in the sludge, they may be absorbed by vegetables treated with the compost, or else get into grass and hence into milk from cows which graze on it. Furthermore, municipal sewage laced with such industrial by-products can harm the bacteria which treats the sewage in the treatment plant, sending noxious pollution out the other end instead of purified water.

Such "impurities" must be removed from industrial effluents.

EPA therefore has announced that it is going to require industries across the nation to pre-treat their wastes before they are allowed to discharge wastes into sewers. Also, EPA will require pretreatment of incoming sewage by larger public systems, as a second chance to rid sewage of dangerous substances before it begins undergoing purification.

The idea is expensive and certainly will trigger anguished cries from affected industries. But EPA appears adamant, and as far as I can see, this is a real answer to the problem. We here at the New Jersey Conservation Foundation have spoken out in the past in favor of pretreatment of industrial wastes.

Some industries are already pretreating their wastes, under provisions of the 1972 legislation upon which EPA has drawn for its new directive. Those industries are the ones draining wastes directly into water-courses instead of into sewers.

If this sort of regulation had been enforced earlier, the Hudson River would not be dosed with polychlorinated biphenyls (PCB's) which make it unsafe to eat fish from that majestic waterway. And Chesapeake Bay would not be full of dangerous pesticides which make survival of that fishery doubtful. The same problem applies to Lake Erie.

Those are extreme examples of the problem of untreated industrial wastes getting into the environment. More serious, but sneakier, are the countless small sources of poisons which surround us. They come from chemical plants, petroleum refineries, electroplating shops and many other sources.

Human or animal wastes, if free of industrial additives, are an ideal addition to the land which feeds us. Application of wastes to the land is a worldwide type of recycling reaching back through the pages of time. What people have been doing this way is to encourage the carbon cycle, in which nutrients and building blocks of life repeatedly sustain living things.

But that's only applicable when the waste is applied to the land. If large amounts are put into the water, they create pollution and conditions which inhibit marine life. That, plus getting dangerous materials into the fish we eat, is the reason why ocean dumping of sludge has to be phased out.

STATE AID EASES CLIMB IN COUNTY SUPPORT OF COLLEGES

County budgets in the 17 New Jersey counties providing two-year community college education authorize total spending of $44.2 million to operate the schools during calendar year 1978, according to the New Jersey Taxpayers Association. That amount represents a statewide net increase of less than $1 million, about two percent, over 1977 expenditures. The increase, substantially less than in past years, reflects a $100 increase in state aid per equated full-time student. The additional aid, combined with a slowdown in enrollment growth, has somewhat eased demands on county freeholders for financing constant growth of the community colleges.

In 1973 county appropriations for community colleges increased 17.5 percent; in 1974 and 1975, 20.8 percent; in 1976, 12.0 percent; in 1977, 4.7 percent.

County budgets include only that portion of the total county college budget to be financed from the property tax (or other county general revenues) after allowing for state and federal aid and other college income, including tuition. Counties also are providing nearly $2.8 million in 1978 to help pay tuition for resident students attending another county's college. This amount is a decrease of approximately $0.3 million from 1977 tuition expenditures.

Largest percentage increases in county budget requirements for the college were Salem County's 57.9 percent; Hudson's 44 percent, and Passaic's 43.1 percent. Four counties, Gloucester, Somerset, Cumberland and Monmouth, are providing less for their community colleges than they did in 1977.

In 1966, when the New Jersey community college system began operation, the state's portion of the community college operating costs was the lesser of one-half of actual costs, or $600 per equated full-time student, plus one-half of state approved capital costs—land, buildings and equipment. A law enacted last year increased the state contribution to $700 per full-time student beginning in July 1977.

The fiscal 1979 State Appropriations bill provides about $50.6 million total aid to county colleges, an increase of about $7 million over the Fiscal 1978 authorization.

The State Board of Higher Education recently appointed a Commission to Study the Mission, Financing and Governance of the County Colleges. The Commission has begun its work and will be meeting throughout the summer.

Union County appropriated $1,900,000 for its county college in 1978. This is an increase of $198,607 or 11.7 percent over 1977 expenditures.

Essex County appropriated $6,299,737 for its county college in 1978. This is an increase of $599,737 or 10.5 percent over 1977 expenditures.

Within the teepee, scouts carved "Gee Haw Whimpy Diddies," a handmade toy, whose origins can be traced back to Colonial times and Indian culture of the era.

The whimpy diddle is a stick, a quarter-inch square and seven inches with seven notches carved at various intervals. A small movable propeller is affixed to the end of the stick. Another stick is used to rub back and forth across the notches to create vibrations which make the propeller spin. The propeller can be made to spin in either direction merely by reciting the words "gee" of "haw," according to the scouts.

Participants were invited to test their skills, and those spinning the propeller were allowed to keep the toy. About 300 were given away.

Outside the teepee, scout Phillip Krichilsky supervised the cooking of "Shawnee cakes," a cornmeal pancake made by the Shawnee Indians and consisting of a batter of cornmeal and hot water or milk. The batter is fried and the cake is topped with fruit, syrup or sugar. American Colonists called them "Johnny cakes" or "journey cakes" owing to their ability to remain fresh for long periods of time.

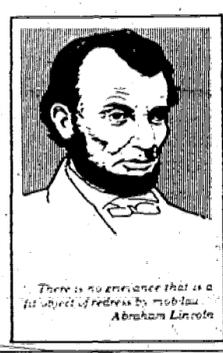

Scoutmaster R.M. Miske said that this council "was probably the most exciting campout the boys have had this year." Troop 177 will head for Camp Wathing later this month and the Sandy Hook encampment in September. Three scouts, Scott Connolly, David Iselborn and Erick Wolz, will attend the Philmont Scout Ranch in New Mexico this summer where they will embark on a long-term backpacking expedition which will include the use of burros as they explore, fish and pan for gold in the wilderness.

Red Cross unit to collect blood

A blood bank sponsored by the Westfield-Mountainside Chapter of the American Red Cross will be held at the Presbyterian Parish House, 140 Mountain ave., Westfield, on Tuesday, July 18, from 1:30 to 6:30 p.m.
Mrs. Edward W. Love, blood program chairman, said there has been a marked increase each year in the number of units collected statewide.
She said that from 1975 to 1977, 113,840 collections were received and that 99.2 percent of these were returned to New Jersey hospitals.

Mystic Shores lures over 52 homebuyer

The completed recreation complex at Mystic Shores adult community in Tuckerton, attracts home buyers, according to Ruth Whitfield, sales manager. Extensive research into the lifestyles and desires of "over 52ers" was undertaken prior to building Mystic Shores, and it has proven "justified," Whitfield says.

"Our research indicated an important aspect of adults' later years was the desire for creative endeavors, sporting activities and leisuretime partying," Whitfield explained. "We went all-out to provide indoor and outdoor facilities to cater to these desires."

The giant recreation building at Mystic Shores is an attractive structure with fieldstone exterior and an interior which is bright and cheerful with large picture windows. It provides a variety of activity rooms, including an enormous auditorium for theatrical productions, special events, banquets, dances, card parties, fashion shows, and other activities requiring a large area. There is a completely equipped kitchen for private and community parties, a library, gift shop, and lounge, which opens onto a rear patio and outdoor swimming pool. Adjacent are woodland picnic areas, bicycling and hiking trails and a shuffleboard area.

The complex has a hobby room, including a ceramic studio with kiln and an art room equipped with easels and other needs for experienced and budding artists. The billiard room also has indoor shuffleboard courts.

Not only does Mystic Shores have all this on-site recreation, but it is less than a mile to Great Bay, which connects with the Atlantic Ocean providing a myriad of fishing, boating and swimming opportunities. It is also less than a mile to country clubs and golf courses.

Mystic Shores, located in the heart of South Jersey's vacationland, is 20 miles north of Atlantic City and south of Long Beach Island. It offers a new way of life for people over 52.

Mystic Shores is two miles south of the center of Tuckerton and one mile east of Rt. 9. Seven model homes are on display

Minieri Florida home captures casual spirit

Since 1959, builder-developer Carl Minieri has constructed literally thousands of homes in communities along Florida's desirable Gulf Coast.

One of the fundamental reasons for Minieri's continued success through the years has been to interpret the wants and desires of Florida's growing population. Today increasing numbers of Americans have adopted a more casual and active daily lifestyle. They have done so not only in their work and social activity, but at home as well.

It is with this spirit of casual, carefree and functional living that Minieri Communities of Florida Inc. developed the Cambridge for its model offering at the distinctive West Coast community of Oakleaf Village.

This contemporary-style, three-bedroom, two-bath home incorporates a "central living area" design for convenient access to all rooms of the home. The Cambridge's spacious foyer entry leads to the living-dining and kitchen area, which comprises the heart of the home.

Here comfortable Florida living is enriched by the living-dining area's dramatic vaulted ceiling and expanse of sliding glass doors furnishing a view and direct entry to the yard. The modern all-electric kitchen is graced with crafted decorator cabinets, pantry, illuminated ceiling section, quality electric range, and is highlighted by a convenient pass-through bar for casual dining and entertaining.

The homes' design is carried through to the split bedroom floor plan, which affords added privacy to the master bedroom. The master bedroom is further enhanced with its own bath and sliding glass doors that open to the backyard. Closet space is also liberally provided with each of the bedrooms having its own walk-in closet.

As with all Minieri homes, the fine engineering and construction, standards to which the Cambridge is built are evidenced by protection against major structural complications for 10 years under the National Home Owners Warranty program (HOW).

Among the homes' quality construction features are energy-efficient insulated ceilings and exterior walls, genuine plastered lath and walls and ceilings throughout, and sturdy concrete block construction with full stucco exterior. At $29,900 complete with central heating and air conditioning, two-car garage, wall-to-wall carpeting, plus the cost of the lot of your choice, this luxury home is truly an attractive offering.

The Cambridge's attractive exterior is beautifully complemented by the rolling wooded site of Oakleaf Village. This well-planned West Coast community is conveniently nestled in the picturesque Tarpon Spring vicinity. Directly across from the development's ideal location is the famous Innisbrook Country Club and Resort, offering the finest in country club activities, and the contemporary Tarpon Springs Campus of St. Petersburg Junior College. Just minutes away are beaches, parks, schools and shopping, including the twin-level Countryside Mall in Clearwater, and Tampa International Airport.

Take advantage of Florida's favorably low taxes and year-round warm climate with a new Minieri home in Oakleaf Village.

For complete details on the Cambridge as well as other two, three and four-bedroom Minieri models at Oakleaf Village, write: Minieri Communities of Florida, 1125 U.S. 19 South, New Port Richey, Florida 33552, or call (813) 848-7412 or (813) 934-1746.

THE CAMBRIDGE—Comfortable Florida living is affordable at the West Coast community of Oakleaf Village. Auto Service Tips

Safe driving, good tire mileage, and responsive steering depend upon correct tire pressure. Check tires (and spare) at least once per month to assure recommended pressure is maintained. Invest in a good tire gauge and learn how to use it. If tire wears on edges, tires do not have enough pressure, wear in the center indicates too much pressure.

Author updates Jersey volume for 3rd edition

Rutgers University Press has announced publication of the third edition of "This Is New Jersey," by John T. Cunningham.

The diversity of New Jersey is captured in this revised and up-to-date edition. History, current problems and opportunities for the future are blended.

A new feature of this edition is a brief study of each county courthouse, the heart of county history and administration. Each of the 21 counties is introduced by a picture of its courthouse with a brief history of it. These are some of the nearly 200 photographs that enhance the text. There are also a new bibliography and an index.

Cunningham is a lifelong resident of New Jersey. He is the author of 18 other books and has published over 1500

Five times a winner of the award of merit from the American Association for State and Local History, Cunningham has served as chairman of the New Jersey Historical Commission, vice-chairman of the New Jersey Bicentennial Commission and president of the New Jersey Historical Society.

NJIT to repeat energy course for teachers

New Jersey Institute of Technology has announced it will again offer a special energy program for high school teachers during the 1978-1979 academic year. Announcement of the program continuation came from Dr. Howard Kimmel, a member of the NJIT faculty and director of the program.

Participation is limited to approximately 50 high school science and mathematics teachers who attend the NJIT offering without charge. Advanced credit is given. According to Dr. Kimmel, two or three openings are still available for the 1978-79 offering.

The purpose of this science program for high school teachers is to enable the teachers to have a meaningful understanding of the limited fuel resources we have at hand and to be able to interpret this information at the classroom level," Dr. Kimmel said.

Topics to be covered include the use of standard energy resources, such as fossil fuels; emerging sources being put into limited use, such as solar energy; and the potential of exploratory work that may develop as new sources for the future. The environmental effects that relate to different fuel sources are also an important consideration.

Teachers participating also have an opportunity for involvement in a practical design project, such as a residential solar system, that includes theory, design, economic considerations and construction detail.

Program details of the NJIT course are available from Dr. Howard Kimmel, New Jersey Institute of Technology, 323 High st., Newark, 07102 (telephone 645-5391).

N.J. RESEARCH GRANT—Dr. John B. Fuhrmann, New Jersey Division's medical delegate to the National American Cancer Society, presents check for $118,000 to Joseph H. Young, Chairman of the ACS board of directors, to fund a research project at the Rutgers Medical School. Standing beside Dr. Fuhrmann, a resident of Flemington, are Norma J. Hayman of Ridgewood, president of the N.J. Division, and Elliott Pachtman of Union, the Division's lay delegate to the National Board of Directors.

Cancer Society awards $118,000 research grant

A specially designated cancer research project at the Rutgers Medical School of the College of Medicine and Dentistry of New Jersey has been funded by contributions to the American Cancer Society's New Jersey Division. This is the first such specially funded grant in the New Jersey Division's 40-year history.

The grant was awarded to John A. Holowczak, Ph.D., of the Rutgers Medical School's Department of Microbiology to further his studies in the virology of immunotherapy. Dr. Holowczak's research is directed toward seeking to understand how the body's natural defenses work to identify and destroy cancerous cells and, when this system fails, how these defenses can be mobilized and turned on again to function effectively in destroying cancerous cells.

The grant of $118,000 was funded from the estate of J. Elwood Lee Jr. of Margate and a special fund-raising effort of the Winston Towers Research Group of Cliffside Park in Bergen County. The latter group was organized by Sonya Cohen, Ruth Kaplan and Doris Tucker, residents of Winston Towers with a special interest in furthering cancer research in New Jersey institutions.

The grant was processed through the standard American Cancer Society's screening procedure—whereby a national committee of peer experts pass on all cancer-research applications. They are judged on the basis of merit, qualifications and productivity of the investigator, relevance, and the probability of the project's eventual contribution to cancer control. A graduate of Manhattan College, Dr. Holowczak received his Ph.D. from Purdue University and pursued post-doctoral studies in immunology at Albert Einstein College of Medicine. During military service with the Air Force he was assigned to the Southwest Primate Colony in San Antonio where, in connection with the Space Program, he studied the effects of high altitude on resistance to infection.

While on the faculty of Rutgers

Medical School, Dr. Holowczak received a sabbatical assignment to the Scripps Clinic and Research Foundation in La Jolla, Calif., a leading center of studies in immunology. His research at Scripps was centered on techniques for isolating lymphocytes, the white blood cells that control the body's immunological system.

Drop reported in state jobless rate last month

The seasonally-adjusted unemployment rate for New Jersey was 7.3 percent in June 1978, compared to 7.8 percent in May and 7.4 percent in April, it was reported by Herbert Bienstock, regional commissioner of labor statistics, who directs the Bureau of Labor Statistics' Middle Atlantic Region. Bienstock reported that the June 1978 jobless rate was 1.7 percentage points below its year ago level of 9.0 percent.

Since June 1977, the number of unemployed state residents dropped 55,000 to 246,000. Along with improvement in the jobless picture, Bienstock indicated that the number of employed rose by 76,000 over the year to 3,128,000, the highest level for any June during this decade.

The statewide civilian labor force, persons 16 and older who are employed or seeking work, totaled 3,374,000 in June 1978. The labor force participation rate or the proportion of the working age civilian noninstitutional population in the labor force was 61.7 percent in June, little changed from a year ago.

Bienstock noted that the data is based on monthly responses from a panel of about 1,800 households in New Jersey which are included in the national Current Population Survey (CPS). New Jersey CPS estimates of labor force, employment, and unemployment were made available for the first time for January 1978 and are not strictly comparable with previously-published monthly data.

Leukemia post for First Lady

First Lady Rosalynn Carter is honorary chairperson of the Leukemia Society of America, Inc. for the next year. She will head more than a million volunteers who are active in the Society's 51 chapters throughout the country.

The society, a national health organization founded in 1949, is supporting 114 medical scientists at 57 accredited institutions in the control for leukemia and allied diseases.

Research commitments total $1,700,000 this year, according to Harvey H. Richer, Central New Jersey Chapter president. "We are sincerely grateful that the First Lady, has a special interest in our cause and feel that with her help we will have an opportunity to further expand our research program" he said.

The Central New Jersey Chapter is located at 1496 Morris ave., Union.

Waste Info Exchange is a material success

Response to the Industrial Waste Information Exchange program of the New Jersey State Chamber of Commerce has been "more than gratifying," according to Donald H. Scott, the organization's president.

Inaugurated June 30 with publication of the monthly listing of industrial waste materials available from or sought by manufacturing companies throughout New Jersey, the Exchange has already attracted some 70 materials listings.

"Our Exchange operates on the basis that what is one company's waste material may well be another's raw material. We are encouraging the recycling of such materials because manufacturers benefit both in connection with costs of the materials involved and through elimination of the sometimes heavy expenses associated with environmentally acceptable disposal methods," Scott noted.

Individual listings, Scott explained, are made under a code system which does not identify companies within the Exchange publication. Only the materials available or sought—the quantities involved and general location within the state are identified, and the Chamber forwards responses promptly to companies placing either kind of listing. Thereafter, it is up to the listed firm to respond; all subsequent arrangements are made solely between the companies.

Scott said that, in the initial Exchange bulletin, "materials available" listings exceed "materials wanted" listings by roughly five-to-one. He added, however, that the entire program was "too new for us to be predicting how that proportion may ultimately work out."

He stressed "two important facts: (a) that we are getting responses to both types of listings and (b) that our initial volume of listings is much higher than that experienced when similar exchanges were started in other parts of the country." Scott attributed part of this exceptional activity level to the fact that New Jersey is a major producer of chemical products; process wastes from chemicals manufacture present many reprocess opportunities and frequently entail exceptionally high disposal costs.

Counseled women seeking help

By PATRICIA GARRISON
Battered women are coming out of the closet. Their stories have made front page news, and community organizations and local municipalities are scrambling for ways to help them escape from their physical and emotional abuse.
Despite public outcry and concern, there is still only one battered women's shelter in Union County. The lack of space at the Elizabeth home, sponsored by the YWCA, leaves many women without a roof over their heads, as shelter workers reluctantly turn them away. The shelter can accommodate about 30 women, but the demand is beginning to outweigh the supply of beds, cots and couches.
"It's awful turning a woman away," said battered women's project counselor Nancy Bristol. "It feels like you're playing God. You never know when you may be jeopardizing the woman's life."
Once safely behind the walls of the women's project, the woman is permitted to remain there for 30 days at $16 per week. The center workers attempt, during this period, to help the woman get back on her feet. And Bristol said the shelter limitations and rents act to cultivate just those emotions and strengths a woman needs to survive.

"She has to learn how to be self-sufficient," said Bristol. The 30-day period is generally a satisfactory time in which to direct the woman into a lifestyle in which she can function and somehow provide for her children.
Bristol said very often a woman arrives at the shelter "with just the clothes on her back." Unskilled women are not readily accepted into the job market, and Bristol said even those who are employed refuse to return to their jobs to protect themselves.
"Many women can't go back to their jobs because their husbands know where they work," she said. "They are afraid they might be caught."
Trauma, confusion and the welcome relief of being out of danger are followed by speedy efforts by project staffers to obtain welfare and food stamps for the battered victims and their children. Volunteers work with the women to secure them the necessities of life, after which they are expected to hold their own with their restructured lifestyle.
"Our biggest headache is finding suitable, affordable, convenient places for the women to live," said Bristol. She said efforts to enlist the aid of landlords and homeowners to provide quarters for the women have been unsuccessful.

"We've gotten very little response from our requests for community help," said Bristol, adding that the owners' fears of housing "unstable women" are unwarranted. "We would never send them an unstable person," she said.
The lack of space and community recognition are among several problems the shelter faces, according to Bristol. There are child care problems, lack of domestic items such as bed linen, clothes and food—which the center does not provide—and finding women jobs easily accessible by public transportation.
"We're operating on a shoestring," she said. "It's a struggle and we can use donations of anything." The center has launched a volunteer campaign to boost the number of shelter volunteers and will initiate a training program for legal advocates who will help women deal with governmental agencies. A recently established hotline is in service to provide immediate information to women in trouble.
Although local community support may not be forthcoming, county officials are looking into ways to improve or add to the existing battered women's programs. Union County Freeholder

Council, board to talk on school bus policy

The Mountainside Borough Council Tuesday night promised several irate parents that it would confer with the Board of Education on its new bus mileage policy, which some parents say puts their children in danger.
In a reorganization of the school busing system, the board last month voted to drop one of its five buses and adopt a 1.2 mile policy for students in Deerfield School. Beechwood School students living one mile from school will continue to receive bus passes.
Mountainside Parent-Teacher Association President Peggy Wilson said there are "discrepancies" in the policy which, in some cases, grant bus privileges to some children in the same family while denying it to others.

Wilson added that while the school board has been lenient in granting bus passes in the past, it is "strictly enforcing" the bus policy this year due to a cutback in the number of buses used.
The parents cited safety as their chief complaint, with some stating that they would refuse to allow their children to walk on hazardous roads leading to and from school, including Summit and New Providence roads.
"I refuse to let my daughter walk down Summit road," said one father, while another parent noted that "there is only about one foot of walking space" between the street and residential property.

The parents noted that fruitless meetings with the school board led them to seek aid from the Borough Council. They added that the board had told them that the safety of the school children is the council's responsibility.
While council attorney John Post conceded that the council is responsible "for the safety and welfare" of the borough citizens, he added, "I don't know anything that says the governing body is responsible for getting kids to and from school."
The council members sympathized with the parents, but Mayor Thomas Ricciardi noted that the problem is primarily a school board responsibility.
Council President Bruce Geiger said the governing body "is aware of the problems on the school board," but added, "If they're not going to run the school system, I don't know who is."
School superintendent Dr. Levin Hanigan, not present at the council meeting, said later in the evening that the issues raised by the parents "are nothing new. This happens every year."
He said the board was willing to recheck mileage from a residence to the appropriate school and added, "If anybody does complain, we'll check the mileage. Anyone can make an error."
Hanigan noted that the state regulations prohibit incorporating a safety factor in a busing policy relying solely on the distance between home and school.
The superintendent added that "the

Dance to salute GOP chairmen

The Republican Committee of Union County will hold a dinner-dance to "Salute municipal Chairmen" Wednesday at 7 p.m., at the Town and Campus Restaurant, Union.
This event will honor Al Pisano, chairman of the county committee, the Union County Republican Committee executive staff and all Republican municipal chairmen in the county.
Among those to be honored is Edward Gibadlo, Republican municipal chairman from Mountainside.
Funds raised from this event will be used to support Union County Republican candidates running for election this November.

$7,359 due here in revenue sharing

A federal revenue-sharing check of $7,359 is on its way to Mountainside, according to Rep. Matthew Rinaldo. He said this raises the total to $177,615 received by the community in the seven-year-old program.
Countywide, the new quarterly distribution amounts to more than $2 million for local communities and county government, Rinaldo added. This is part of a $49.7 million total returned to local government in Union County since the revenue-sharing program began, according to the congressman.

Senese tells parents of 'positive upswing'

By PATRICIA GARRISON
Jonathan Dayton Regional High School's new football coach has pledged to involve parents in team activities and has guaranteed that each football player will realize his athletic potential.
Angelo Senese stopped short of predicting this season's won-lost outcome, but he told parents and players at an introductory meeting at Dayton last week that the team is on a "positive upswing."
"The kids are excited," said Senese. "Whatever happened in the past is just that—in the past. It's a brand new football team."
And the Dayton football team's past is one that most people, including Senese, would like to forget. The new coach is faced with the task of breaking the team's consistent losing streak, which culminated in last year's 1-8 record.
Senese, who is from Connecticut, has been the focal point of a recent controversy, with members of the Dayton

Booster Club objecting to the coaching position going to an outsider. While the club said it did not object to Senese or his new assistant coach, Edward Tranchina, also from Connecticut, it took issue with the Board of Education's hiring policies.
But neither the audience, coaches or Senese mentioned the Booster Club complaints, and parents at the meeting seemed enthusiastic about Senese's plans and coaching approach.
About 80 students have joined the freshman, junior varsity and varsity teams, and Senese said workouts with present Dayton students have made him optimistic about the fall season.
The students seem dedicated, said Senese, and, unlike former team members, are sincere in their desire to improve the Dayton record. He urged parents to attend any of the three-nights-per-week training sessions to view "this new player attitude" firsthand.
"The novelty of a new coach and a new system has a lot to do with the change in attitude," said Senese.
Senese's program to "turn the football program around" include increased family involvement and stricter discipline with players.

Young Dems tell club of need for involvement

Two young Union County Democrats spoke to the Mountainside Democratic Club at a meeting last week about the importance of young people serving in public office and becoming involved in community affairs.
Joseph Suliga, 20, a member of the Linden Board of Education, told the club that "only by becoming a part of your community and having a voice in the direction you want to see your community go in can you truly appreciate the democratic process." He also said that more young people should become involved in the political process.
Frank Capece, 26, a member of the Roselle Park Borough Council and assistant to Donald Lan, New Jersey Secretary of State, not only stressed political involvement but indicated that a community must stress long-range planning.
Earlier last week, the Mountainside Democratic Municipal Committee endorsed Bill Bradley, the Democratic candidate for the U.S. Senate, calling him "extremely capable and efficient."

In case of strike
In the event of a postal strike, all material for this office should be delivered by hand directly to the Mountainside Echo, 2 New Providence rd., Mountainside, or to Suburban Publishing Co., 1291 Stuyvesant ave., Union.

Borough pool party planned for Aug. 5

The Mountainside Community Pool will be open to members and their guests for an adult pool party, Saturday, Aug. 5 at 8 p.m.
Further details will be announced at the pool.

County's battered women seeking help

Joanne Rajoppi, who heads the governing body's social service committee and is a member of its task force on battered spouses, said the freeholders "have recognized the battered women's shelter in Elizabeth," adding that she supports the program "100 percent."

Rajoppi said the task force will decide whether to expand the existing women's programs or obtain funding for additional shelters. The task force study will be turned over to the freeholders in December.

County counseling and service organizations also strive to help the abused women, although they may not have specific programs established and may refer their cases to the Elizabeth shelter.

"We generally refer our women to the shelter," said Milton Faith, director of Youth and Family Counseling in Westfield. "If it is filled up, we then call a YWCA hotline in Jersey City or refer her to her clergy."

The handful of nearby referrals and services is "frustrating" to Faith, who said, "I didn't know what to do when the county shelter was filled."

Like other counselors, Faith will not order a woman to leave her husband, despite the severity of the beatings. But, according to Bristol of the women's shelter, it's that "last vestige of pride" that forces a woman to flee from the torment.

"Self-preservation outweighs the fear," said Bristol.

Barbara Brande, the director of Union County's Catholic Community Charities, said she would never tell a woman outright to leave her home, but would instead "show the client her strengths so she realizes she can live apart from her husband."

Such counseling procedures sometimes conflict with the counselors' first reaction to "protect the women and get her out of the situation," according to Brande. "But if you tell her this the first time, she may not come back to see you," she said. "It's such a scary concept."

Brande, like the other counselors questioned, noted that a breaking point generally "tips the scales" and a woman's ability to tolerate the brutality is outweighed by her need to protect herself from harm.

It is these women, said Bristol, "that realize their self-worth" and are filling the center to capacity.

Brande, who is also a member of the county domestic task force, said that while the unit is considering the needs of battered women in the county, she is sure "that there is a need for more shelters—someplace where women can go to be protected."

Assemblyman visits home for abused women

Assemblyman William J. Maguire (R-22nd Dist.) visited the Battered Women Shelter in Elizabeth recently to find out first hand what was being done to help abused women and their children.

"I had the opportunity to speak with the director, Jean Knight-Kyner, and project director Paula Ferrence," Maguire said, "and was shocked to find out the enormous problems these poor women face, and that the law doesn't protect them more. Ms. Knight-Kyner and Ms. Ferrence are doing a fine job in helping these women to know what their alternatives are and what resources are available," said Maguire.

The shelter has been open since March 1 and there is an average of 10 calls a day for help, Knight-Kyner explained. "The main problem is housing," she said. "We can only accommodate up to 10 women and 15 children and we service both Union and Essex counties, so you can see our needs are far greater than what we're being funded for, with the average stay of 30 days."

Maguire said, "More women should be made aware of the fact that there is a 24-hour hotline to call for help, and in Elizabeth it's 355-HELP." Donations for the Battered Women Project can be mailed to the YMCA, 1131 East Jersey st., Elizabeth.

2 are injured in auto accident

A Plainfield driver and his passenger were injured early Monday morning when the car in which they were riding went out of control at Rt. 22 and Central avenue in Mountainside, police reported.

Maurice T. Hall reportedly told police he swerved his auto to avoid a wire on the wet roadway, but police said a check of the highway turned up no wires.

Police said Hall lost control of his vehicle, which struck a utility pole, fire hydrant and street sign. Hall sustained injuries to his lower arm and his passenger, Marie Lerma, suffered back injuries. Both were taken by the Mountainside Rescue Squad to Overlook Hospital. Hall was charged with operating a vehicle without auto registration in his possession.

Police nab man at end of chase

A Roseland man was charged Thursday with eluding police and reckless driving after he took Mountainside P.D. Jack Yerich on a three-mile chase that ended in Westfield.

Anthony Zecchino, 27, was being sought by Westfield authorities after allegedly leaving the scene of a break, entry and larceny in the township in a white Pontiac.

Mountainside police said Yerich spotted a car fitting the description on Rt. 22 and proceeded to follow it.

Zecchino reportedly then drove off the highway into Westfield in an attempt to avoid police. Police said he was caught after he abandoned his vehicle and tried to escape the officer on foot.

Zecchino was turned over to Westfield authorities.

view the game films and discuss the program.

Senese said that while all football programs "have losers" he would incorporate a tough discipline plan to "eliminate them." Alluding to previous difficulties with player conduct, Senese said all team members would be subject to a pre-game "bedcheck," adding that he would stick by his 9:30 p.m. curfew.

"The Friday night huddle session is part of the discipline," said Senese. "The parents will then take the athletes home."

"If we can eliminate the losers," he said, "then we can hope that the winners' approach will rub off on everyone else. If that happens," he continued, "we're going to be winners."

Academics should not take a back seat to football, said Senese, and he noted that freshmen football practice will be delayed until the school year has begun.

"We'll wait until they get acclimated in the school academically," he said. He added that he will keep abreast of each student's academic performance throughout the season because "they don't play football forever. Each athlete has to set goals, athletically and academically."

Senese said the long-awaited press box, to be built on the field bleachers, will aid in facilitating team publicity and will allow the football film cameraman to get a better view of the field action.

The proposal to construct the press box has been approved by Union County authorities, according to athletic director Charles Bercher, but he said he did not know just when construction would begin.

Britton reelected to Lafayette board

Robert H. Britton of Mountainside has been re-elected to the board of trustees of Lafayette College in Easton, Pa.

Britton, a 1941 graduate of the college, is retired vice-chairman of Briggs, Schaeffle & Co. His new term began this month.

Mr. Fochesato; can firm retiree

Funeral services were held Monday for Attilio Fochesato, 85, of Mountainside, who died Friday in Overlook Hospital, Summit.

Mr. Fochesato was a machine maintenance man for Continental Can Co., Newark, for 27 years, retiring 20 years ago. Born in Italy, he lived in Newark before moving to Mountainside seven years ago.

Surviving are three sons, John, Aldo and George; a daughter, Mrs. Livia Vaccari; a brother, Joseph; three sisters, Mrs. Agnes Schiavo, Mrs. Ermina Carliato and Mrs. Elisa Carliato; 16 grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

The funeral was held from the Kiernan Funeral Home, 101 Union ave., Belleville.

Son being held in jewelry theft

Jeffrey Dutton of Mountainside is being held in the Union County Jail on $500 bail stemming from his arrest July 1 on a charge of larceny.

Dutton, 20, is charged with stealing $3,000 in jewelry from his parents' Mountainside home.

In a related incident, three Kenilworth men are charged with receiving the stolen jewelry and have been released on bail pending a court appearance.

Mountainside Det. Sgt. Steve Semancik said Dutton may have intended to sell the valuables to Gordon Murphy, Gary Werner and Richard Kising, but he said they allegedly stole the jewelry from Dutton without payment.

Semancik said some of the property was recovered in Kenilworth, adding that the four men may face additional charges.

IN CONGRESS Matthew Rinaldo

12th District
 Every summer since I have been in Congress, I have taken an inventory of the most pressing needs of the people in the 12th Congressional District. It is based on a number of indicators—the thousands of letters I receive each month, local public hearings, comments from elected officials and citizen organizations, newspaper reports and personal meetings with hundreds of people in the district.
 Admittedly, no list can be considered complete. It runs the risk of excluding problems that have not yet been brought to public attention, such as the current proposal of the New Jersey Commuter Operating Agency to cut subsidies for bus services in Union County.

This year's list includes:
 Inflation—Rising costs, particularly of food, have caused widespread concern and inflation now is approaching double-digit levels. Among the most important solutions is fighting excess government spending—a course I have long advocated. This year alone I have voted against billions in federal expenditures, including agricultural subsidies, pork-barrel construction projects and pay increases for members of Congress.

Flood control—More progress has been made on flood control projects in Union County in the last five years than ever before. However, intense flash flooding of as much as seven inches of rainfall in a few hours could upset all previous flood control calculations. Three major flood control projects are under way or are being studied by the Army Corps of Engineers. They are the $23 million Elizabeth River project, which will be completed in 1982; the Rahway River project, which is scheduled to receive an authorization of $19 million by Congress after intense negotiations between myself and the White House, and the Green Brook Basin study, on which a public hearing will be held in September.

Mass Transit—With my active backing, Congress previously approved landmark legislation authorizing millions for mass transit improvements for states like New Jersey. But plans must be executed at the state level to make efficient use of the $480 million in federal funds that is available to New Jersey for mass transit. This should include a plan for a coordinated mass transit system in which rail and bus services are linked to park-and-ride facilities.

City aid—Extension of the CETA program, which I support, as well as uniform federal welfare standards and a federal takeover of costs, such as I have proposed, will help taxpayers in northern cities from bearing the brunt of the welfare burden. At the same time, the new Urban Action Development Grant program is available to cities like Elizabeth to vastly improve the quality of urban life.

Crime—This problem remains at the top of the priority list for many citizens. During my terms in Congress, I have successfully pressed for legislation to mandate the death penalty in accordance with the Supreme Court decision, and I have introduced legislation that would provide a mandatory, five-year prison sentence for individuals convicted of committing a felony with a firearm. I also have voted for increased funding for New Jersey under the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration.

Government Regulation—Small businessmen in particular have suffered from over-regulation. Through the Forum on Regulation, in which I am participating, a nationwide effort will be made to pinpoint those agencies and regulations which have had particularly harmful and negative impacts on business. At the same time, President Carter has mandated that all federal agencies, in issuing regulations, take into account the effect such regulations will have on the economy and inflation.

Tax Reform—Proposition 13 in California has become a symbol for many Americans of what can be done to reverse the trend of "more government, more taxes" at the state and local level. In Congress, I have sponsored legislation to roll back the maximum tax on capital gains, thus spurring investment in the economy. I have sponsored other measures to bolster the economy. Additionally, I will continue to push for a rollback in Social Security taxes before these increases take effect next January.

Little time remains in the 95th Congress to deal with every problem. But in each case—such as tax reform, the new urban strategy, and a national energy plan—the underlying concern will be holding down the national deficit to ease inflationary pressures.

New National Smoker Study:

Tar/Taste Gap Bridged.

Smokers rate taste of low tar MERIT equal to—or better than—leading high tar brands.

Low tar MERIT, with 'Enriched Flavor'™ tobacco, has shattered the myth of "low tar, low taste."

In a new national smoker study conducted with high tar smokers, MERIT was proven to deliver the flavor of leading high tar brands.

Results Endorse MERIT Breakthrough

Confirmed: Majority of high tar smokers rate MERIT taste equal to—or better than—leading high tar cigarettes tested! Cigarettes having up to twice the tar.

Confirmed: Majority of high tar smokers confirm taste satisfaction of low tar MERIT.

Detailed interviews were also conducted with current MERIT smokers.

Confirmed: 85% of MERIT smokers say it was an "easy switch" from high tar brands.

Confirmed: Overwhelming majority of MERIT smokers say their former high tar brands weren't missed!

Confirmed: 9 out of 10 MERIT smokers not considering other brands.

First Major Alternative To High Tar Smoking

MERIT has proven conclusively that it not only delivers the flavor of high tar brands—but continues to satisfy!

This ability to satisfy over long periods of time could be the most important evidence to date that MERIT is what it claims to be: The first major alternative to high tar smoking.

Graduate school shift: More study part-time

A national trend by college students — to continue graduate studies on a part-time basis — is significantly reflected on the Newark campus of Rutgers University, where the Graduate School is one of the fastest-growing units in the State University. Of 882 students enrolled in the fall 1977 semester, 80 percent were continuing part-time graduate studies, Dean Gilbert A. Panson noted in the school's 1976-77 annual report.

"This increase in part-time students can be attributed to several factors," Dean Panson said. Among these were: — A tuition increase without an increase in student aid that might enable students to study full time.

— The introduction of two new graduate programs: the master of science degree in nursing and the master of public administration degree.

These two programs, the dean added, amounted to a 23 percent increase in enrollment between September 1975 and September 1976.

The Rutgers Graduate School-Newark was established as an autonomous unit in 1975 by action of the State University's board of governors. Since 1945, graduate work at the M.A. and Ph.D. levels had been offered in Newark through cooperation with the Graduate School-New Brunswick.

Graduate courses are offered in chemistry, zoology, psychology, history, English, geology, economics and political science.

In addition, the graduate school works closely with the Newark-based professional schools, including the Graduate School of Business Administration and the School of Criminal Justice, in offering doctoral programs in business management (to start in September 1978) and criminal justice.

A geographical survey shows that 90 percent of the students come from New Jersey, with Essex, Union and Bergen counties accounting for approximately half this number. The remainder come from New York, Pennsylvania, Maryland, Massachusetts, Michigan, Missouri and Texas.

Douglas plans move to west

HOLLYWOOD—TV's Mike Douglas, who will move his entire show to California by the end of the summer, tells all in his book: "Mike Douglas: My Story." It's published by Putnam and inside sources say it tells of his honesty and his ability to win confidants and to get intimate details from celebrity guests and his willingness to participate in crazy and often dangerous stunts.

His book also is a tribute to his family and friends and to the famous guests who are responsible for his 17 years as host of the Mike Douglas Show.

Our entire menu is packaged immediately for take-out-or eat in one of our cozy dining rooms, so we can see the smile of satisfaction on your face.

Thyroid exam slated Saturday at Barnabas

The last of a statewide series of free thyroid examination screenings will be conducted at Saint Barnabas Medical Center, Livingston, on Saturday from 9 a.m. to noon.

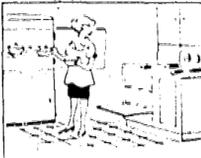

This screening, funded by an American Cancer Society grant and conducted jointly by the Saint Barnabas medical staff and section of Otolaryngology of the New Jersey Medical School, C.M.D.N.J., is designed to detect potentially dangerous cancer growths in the thyroid gland. It is particularly important for people who have had radium or x-ray treatments to the head and neck areas, a common procedure during the 1930s through 50s.

Since then, medical evidence suggests there is a higher incidence of cancer among people who underwent such treatments for enlarged adenoids, tonsils, middle ear diseases and skin ailments. The tests are also available to those who received radioactive iodine tests to their thyroid glands as children. The test consists of a short, simple external examination of the neck. If something abnormal is found, the person is advised to seek further testing. The vast majority of abnormalities do not indicate thyroid cancer.

Further information can be obtained at 533-5049.

CONSUMER GUIDELINES

The group is the third attraction in the 1978 Monday Night Specials series and has drawn standing ovations at the Festival each year since 1972.

MODEL HOME—Architect's drawing shows the New London model, priced at $85,900, at Oak Park in North Dover Township at Toms River. Styled like a French country manor house, it has more than 2,500 square feet of living space, including four bedrooms and 2½ baths. There are a two-car garage and full basement. The development may be reached by taking exit 88 of the Garden State Parkway, turning right onto Rt. 70 West, turning left onto New Hampshire avenue and continuing about three miles, then turning left on Church road and continuing about two miles to Oak Park on the left.

Sun Day activities beginning to pay off

Sun Day activities last spring may now be generating light as well as heat among New Jersey educators, as evidenced by a recent workshop at Kean College, Union.

Elementary and high school teachers who attended the three-week summer training session were brought up to date on alternate energy methods—wind, bio-methane gas, solar, tidal, photovoltaic, geo-thermal and water power—in order to teach their own classes the growing importance of energy conservation.

At Kean the teachers-turned-students developed course study programs that use space and hot water heaters to demonstrate the practicality and cost effectiveness of these models in homes and small businesses.

Workshop professor Joseph D. Clinton of Hillside, instructor in the industrial studies department at Kean, told his class to expect a gradual transition from non-renewable to renewable energy sources. Clinton believes that too easy a shift in energy sources will result in a decrease in conservation efforts. According to Clinton, "Americans are wasters, consuming more energy per capita than any other nation in the world. We need a change of attitudes in our throwaway society. Educating teachers could be the first step in re-educating the nation."

Adults know score at Mystic community

Mystic Shores in Tuckerton recognizes that adult home buyers have an established lifestyle and know what they want.

"To cater to these desires," said Ruth Whitfield, sales manager, "Mystic Shores has a home style to appeal to everyone. There is The Ardmore, a four-unit cluster-style townhouse. The Yorktown duplex and five individual detached homes. Each has special attributes and all over a comfortable, up-to-date home for adults 52 and over."

The duplex became popular in urban areas, said Whitfield, where property was at a premium. It made possible home ownership costing less than maintaining separate properties. It also provided source of income for people who rented the other half, which paid mortgage costs, cut down on fuel expenses and provided tax advantages.

The four-unit townhouse cluster-style has been popular since Colonial days. Whitfield noted, especially in Philadelphia where it has been known for generations as the "row house."

The Ardmore townhouse at Mystic Shores maximizes usage of the building lot, and common walls cut down the cost of construction. Whitfield said it curtails heating costs in winter and provides cooler summer living.

Another advantage to townhouse cluster building, the sales manager said, is exterior maintenance. There are fewer exterior walls to maintain and less roof, yet the home includes all the space and amenities for comfortable living. It also provides a feeling of security for singles, said Whitfield, who knows a neighbor is "just on the other side of the wall."

The Ardmore has a covered front porch with a large storage area, private rear patio, two bedrooms, ceramic tile bath, living and dining rooms and a "country-style" kitchen cabinets and a separate enclosed laundry area.

The center home of the township complex costs $27,000 and the corner homes, $29,000.

Between Great Bay and the Mullica River off Mathistown road in Tuckerton, Mystic Shores has its own private indoor-outdoor recreation complex with pool and patio, craft rooms, shuffleboard courts and auditorium.

Located a mile east of Rt. 9, Mystic Shores also is within a reasonable drive from North and South Jersey, New York and Pennsylvania.

The area has many points of interest, including Bass River State Forest, Brigantine National Wildlife Preserve, Wharton State Forest and the historic Towne of Smithville and Batsto.

A person may reach Mystic Shores by taking the Garden State Parkway to the Tuckerton exit and follow the signs to the community. Models are open daily.
