Speth on busing pupils: board can't alter policy

By PATRICIA GARRISON
Mountainside Board of Education's transportation chairman, Charles Speth, said last week there is little the board can do to alter its present school busing policy, despite complaints from irate parents who say it endangers the lives of their children.

Several parents last week told the Borough Council that they would not permit their children to walk down busy streets, especially Summit and New Providence roads, even if the board does not grant the children bus passes.

The busing policy provides passes for kindergarten students who live one-half mile from school; first and second graders at three-fourths of a mile; third, fourth and fifth graders at one mile, and sixth, seventh and eighth grade students at 1.2 miles.

Speth said he has rechecked the mileage from the parents' homes to the appropriate schools and has found them to be correct. He added that the board cannot make safety a factor in its busing policy.

"The state specifies" that any child two miles or more from school must be bused," said Speth. "The state specifies only distance for bus policies."

While the parents have charged that the policy is "arbitrary" Speth said that it is "more lenient this year than last year." He said the board was able to reduce the mileage for middle school students from 1.4 to 1.2 by cutting back the number of buses used from five to four.

"We are busing more kids than previously and we've made the mileage more lenient," said Speth. "We're doing more with fewer buses."

Vivian Coddington of Summit road

said she will continue to fight the board's decision, although Speth has said there will be no bus passes granted "for special cases."

"I'll give them exactly one week," said Mrs. Coddington, "and then I'm going to get my attorney on it. They know the situation is dangerous, but they don't want to do anything about it."

Speth said that while the board agrees that the traffic flow on some borough streets makes for a "hazardous situation," he insisted that "the board is bending over backwards in order to provide buses for safety." He added, however, that "we can't accommodate everybody."

"If the board were to open up and allow a sixth grader to ride the bus at one mile," he said, "then we'd have to do it for everybody or be subject to a law suit for discrimination."

Speth said the Borough Council could possibly solve the problem by employing school crossing guards at the troublesome areas.

Borough attorney John Post said the borough now has crossing guards at New Providence and Wood Valley roads, at Central Avenue near Deerfield School and at Beechwood School.

Speth suggested that the council could station police at certain corners "so a child could get across the street."

Healthy home-industry mix cited for favorable borough tax rate

Mountainside's actual tax burden is lower than other demographically similar communities in Union County, according to county figures released this week.

The borough's actual, or comparative, tax rate is $2.64 per $100 current market value, or $1,340 yearly on a house with a current market value of $50,000. The comparative tax rate is the official tax rate figure of $3.33 per $100 of assessed valuation, multiplied by the county's equalization figure—the ratio of assessed home value to the true, or market, property value.

Mountainside's county equalization is $79.49, per $100 of assessed value.

In a comparison with eight similar communities in the county—Berkeley Heights, Clark, Fanwood, New Providence, Scotch Plains, Springfield, Summit and Westfield—Mountainside's rate was second lowest, above only Berkeley Heights, which is $2.37.

The highest comparative tax rates were for New Providence, at $3.09 and Fanwood, at $3.07. The remaining communities registered rates ranging from $3.00 for Scotch Plains to $2.67 for Summit.

Mountainside Mayor Thomas Ricciardi attributed the borough's favorable showing to the community's industrial-residential balance. He said industry was the primary reason for the low tax rate.

"We do well because of the amount of ratables of the office-industrial type," said Ricciardi.

The mayor pointed to the expert planning of previous borough officials, who, he said, encouraged Rt. 22 commercial development and simultaneously avoided business congestion along the highway.

"We have dealt with the problem of Rt. 22 intelligently," he said.

Ricciardi criticized the misuse of Rt. 22 land in Union Township and other eastern portions of the highway, calling those areas "a mess."

He said the building styles in Mountainside, including such establishments as bowling alleys and restaurants, complement the general aura of the community.

Mountainside businesses are valued at more than $42 million, while residential property is valued at about $121 million.

Mountainside to hire liaison for the elderly

The Mountainside Borough Council last week approved a resolution to provide a municipal senior citizen coordinator to serve the needs of the community's elderly.

The individual, who will work in the borough 23 hours per week, will be paid through the Union County Advisory Board on Aging with $4,200 in funds from the federal Comprehensive Employment and Training Act (CETA).

The coordinator will serve as a county liaison for the senior citizens, according to advisory council chairperson Evelyn Frank, and will provide information and referrals.

"The person will bring back information from the county level," said Frank, "and will help the senior citizens."

Frank added that borough projects will be organized and supervised by the coordinator, but said all project costs except the coordinator's pay must be financed by the borough.

The community, said Frank, is responsible for all costs, including any travel expenses incurred by the coordinator, and must also provide office space and a telephone.

Mountainside Mayor Thomas Ricciardi noted that "the senior citizens want this program," but added that it would be abolished "should CETA funds dry up."

"If there are no funds, Mountainside would not provide them," he said.

The Borough Council members said the governing body would have the final decision on any projects supervised by the coordinator.

Licenses lifted, 2 drivers fined

Two motorists were found guilty last Wednesday night of driving while their licenses were suspended by Mountainside Municipal Court Judge Robert Ruggiero.

Glen Button of Bridgewater was fined $200 and $15 in court costs stemming from his arrest on Rt. 22 May 9. A fine of $250 was lodged against Glen Holcombe of North Plainfield for the same offense. Holcombe was fined an additional $10 and $10 in costs for passing on the shoulder of Rt. 22.

Antique dealer changes plea in county court

A Mountainside antique dealer pleaded guilty last week in Union County Court on charges of masterminding a burglary ring that preyed on the elderly in Mountainside and other communities.

Vito Gregorio, 51, of New Providence road, pleaded guilty before Judge Joseph Barbieri minutes before his jury trial was set to begin. He was charged on two counts of conspiracy, three robberies and three break ins.

Gregorio entered the plea after the judge ruled that taped conversations between the defendant and codefendant, confiscated from Gregorio's home, would be submitted as evidence in the trial.

Gregorio and six others were arrested last January.

Authorities have said that Gregorio learned the location of the victims' valuables after visiting the homeowners under the guise of appraising their antiques. He gained appointments with the victims by advertising his appraisal service in newspapers.

Youth drowns in county park

A 15-year-old Newark boy drowned Saturday afternoon while swimming in the lower lake at Echo Lake Park in Mountainside, police reported.

Union County Park Police said William K. Laster began wading in the water with five companions at about 3:45 p.m. Swimming in the lake is prohibited.

He then swam towards the center of the lake away from the others, according to police, but began yelling for help. Two companions swam to assist, but returned to shore when their attempts failed.

Police said the boy's body was found in 12 feet of water 35 feet from shore.

Stevens alumni select Flynn

The Alumni Association of Stevens Institute of Technology in Hoboken has installed its officers and decade representatives for terms beginning July 1, 1978. Paul H. Flynn of Mountainside will serve a one-year term as second vice-president.

Flynn was graduated with the Class of 1939 and is a retired vice-president of Inco Limited. He has served the Alumni Association as a Decade Representative, as chairman of its finance committee, and as a Stevens Fund class agent. Flynn holds membership in the American Society for Metals, the American Foundrymen's Society and the American Management Association.

Motorist is arrested, wanted by Plainfield

Four persons were arrested last week by Mountainside police in two separate incidents involving drugs and an assault with a deadly weapon.

Charles McKeithan, 19, of Plainfield was charged with assault with a deadly weapon after he was arrested by Patrolman Herman Hafeken on Rt. 22 Saturday.

The suspect was being sought by Plainfield police on the assault charge after his car allegedly was leaving the scene of a shooting on W. 5th street.

Hafeken reportedly noticed the vehicle, a 1971 Cadillac, travelling east on the highway at about 9:30 Saturday night. He caught up with the car near Drewette's Nursery.

McKeithan's passenger, Craig Mitchell, 19, of Plainfield, was released from police custody pending further investigation. McKeithan, charged by Mountainside police with driving a vehicle with a suspended license, was turned over to Plainfield authorities.

Samuel E. Gaffney of Irvington and Dennis Quincy Parker of Plainfield were charged with possession of marijuana with intent to distribute following an arrest Saturday at the corner near the Mountainside Rescue Squad building.

Hafeken reportedly spotted the suspects' vehicle at about 11 p.m., and a search of the car allegedly uncovered two plastic bags containing rolled marijuana cigarettes.

Police said 94 cigarettes were found in the car. Hafeken said the marijuana is valued from $140 to $300.

Gaffney and Parker were released on $500 bail each.

Four Westfield residents were also arrested last week on charges of trespassing on private property.

Police said Brian A. Raney, 22, James H. Spinder, 21, Barbara Metro, 19 and Ann A. Heagler, 19, allegedly were found swimming in the Mindwaskin Pool on S. Springfield Avenue Saturday night after they had reportedly been warned to stay off the premises.

The suspects were released on $50 bail each.

Glassware on exhibit at Newark Museum

A new exhibition opening Saturday in the Newark Museum Ballantine House gallery will feature glassware from the museum's Decorative Arts collection. The exhibit will highlight 45 examples of blown, molded, and cut American and European glass, selected from the over 250 pieces added to the collection since 1973.

The glass on view ranges from 18th Century German enamelled beakers, inkwells, tea bowls and saucers to French acid-cut vases from the 1930s. Also represented are examples of the 18th Century output of the Sandwich factory in Boston and the Dorflinger factory in White Mills, Pa., as well as a flask and salt dish by Massachusetts glassmaker Nicholas Lutz.

CPAs offering three seminars

The New Jersey Society of Certified Public Accountants will offer three professional development seminars in August as part of its Continuing Professional Education Program.

The August program will get under way with an all-day session on "Basic Concepts in Estate Planning" Monday, Aug. 7, at the Ramada Inn, East Brunswick.

On Thursday and Friday, Aug. 17 and 18, the Sheraton Poste Inn, Cherry Hill, will be the site of a seminar on "Estate and Gift Taxation—Advanced."

Completing the August program will be a session on "How to Help Your Client Evaluate His EDP Needs," scheduled for Friday, Aug. 25, at the Coachman Inn, Cranford.

CARPPOOLING SAVES

According to the Federal Highway Administration, carpooling can save commuters at least $281 annually if you're sharing your sub-compact with one person on a 10 mile home-to-work trip five days a week. Approximately $1,400 in auto expenses can be cut each year if you're sharing a standard-sized car on a 25 mile commute.

grouping of rare Jersey City pressed salt dishes and pieces of Durand art glass from the Vineland factory.

The exhibition will remain on view through November. The Newark Museum Ballantine House restoration is a series of five first floor rooms in a turn-of-the-century mansion which were restored to the public during the Bicentennial year.

The museum and the Ballantine House are located at 49 Washington St. in downtown Newark. Parking is available in the adjacent lot at the corner of University and Central avenues. The museum is open every day from noon to 5 p.m.

Students taking design projects

Student and professional designers, working in a special program for interior design students at Kean College, are accepting designer assignments from non-profit organizations.

Since the special program's inception in the fall of 1977, selected interior design students working with professional designer faculty from Kean's fine arts department have worked on projects at the Complex for Exceptional Young People in Morganville, the Rosehill Cemetery and Crematory in Linden and four facilities on the Kean campus. Among the projects in progress at Kean College are the Florence Dwyer Memorial Room and the New Jersey Room—both rooms house rare and historical documents and are located at the college's library.

In 1973, Kean College became the first institute of higher education in New Jersey to offer an interior design major. According to the coordinator, Prof. Bernard Lipscomb, "The current designer program at Kean College provides students with invaluable on-the-job experience from concept to installation."

Further information about the program can be obtained by calling Professor Lipscomb at 527-2695.

Remembrance of things patented

History society gets invention models

Twenty-six inventions, a century or more old and all made by New Jerseyans, have been acquired in model form by The New Jersey Historical Society.

The models were part of a huge collection built up by the U.S. Patent Office which eventually found their way into the hands of private collectors. The models include such items as an 1869 refrigerator, a burglar-proof shutter arrangement for windows and an ingenious ventilator that airs a room without opening a window.

"All of the patent models are in working order," said Howard W.

Wiseman, curator of the society's museum. Most relate to some activity or product still with us today."

Wiseman said the inventors, most of whom were manufacturers or machinists, represent 14 towns or cities in New Jersey from as far south as Vineland and as far north as Tenafly.

The models date from a period during the 18th and 19th centuries when every invention submitted to the U.S. Patent Office required a working miniature. The practice was discontinued in 1880, except for flying and perpetual motion machines, when the storage space required became impractical.

The historical society's acquisitions, purchased in auction from a Garrison, N.Y., couple who themselves acquired the entire collection in 1941, are currently being prepared for exhibition in the fall at the society's Newark headquarters.

The refrigerator was made by George A. Fountain of Newark, and the window-ventilator by Ferdinand Maul, also a Newarker. Russel G. Dudley of Jersey City invented the burglar-proof shutters in 1880.

Other patents include two oil can tops by Fenn Wilcox of Newark from the 1870s which placed the nozzle to one side of the can so it could be emptied without turning it completely upside down. An elaborate device for cooling and "removing foul air" from railroad cars containing meat and vegetables was submitted by Charles J. Everett of Tenafly in 1876.

Patrick Clark of Rahway invented a paper-making machine in 1857 that saved waste pulp and allowed reuse of water. Frank W. Oldeld of Newark submitted a kind of 19th-century thermostat for gas machines in 1876.

VA aid ending for education

James R. Purdy, director of the Newark Veterans Administration Regional Office this week reminded Veterans' spouses entitled to educational benefits that time is running out.

Purdy said the eligibility of a spouse ends on Nov. 30 or ten years from the time the veteran was permanently disabled or the date of death, whichever is latest. He said that children eligible under the same law have until their 26th birthday to complete training, unless eligibility is extended under certain conditions.

About 70,000 widows, wives of totally and permanently disabled veterans and their children are currently enrolled for training.

The V.A. provides up to 45 months of schooling to eligible spouses and to children between the ages of 18 and 26. Nearly 375,000 have been trained under the program.

The director said anyone interested in these programs should contact the V.A.'s regional office at 20 Washington pl., Newark.

Museum offers song and dance

The Newark Museum will provide an outdoor setting for two concerts in the Sculpture Garden during the second week of August. Madrigal singers from the New Jersey Shakespeare Festival will perform at 12:30 p.m. on Tuesday, Aug. 8, and the Neo Kyma Greek Band will play on Thursday, Aug. 10. Admission to the museum and to the concerts is free.

Dressed in costumes of the period, the Madrigal Singers will perform Elizabethan songs. They are part of Drew University's annual Shakespeare Festival.

The Neo Kyma Band plays both popular and traditional Greek folk music, making use of the Greek string instrument known as a "bouzouki." Greek dancing will be performed in the Sculpture Garden.

Guideline listed on prescriptions

New Jersey pharmacists may fill prescriptions written by out-of-state physicians if they know the consumers with whom they are dealing and if the prescriptions are valid in the state of origin, according to Adam K. Levin, director of the New Jersey Division of Consumer Affairs.

"Consumers from out-of-state who vacation in New Jersey during the summer often run into problems when they try to get prescriptions filled," Levin said.

The Board of Pharmacy, one of the 19 professional and occupational boards in the Division of Consumer Affairs, recently adopted a policy statement on the matter after receiving numerous inquiries from pharmacists, Levin noted.

"The board has always maintained the position that it is a New Jersey pharmacist's professional responsibility to refuse to fill a prescription should there be any cause for suspicion," Levin said.

"However, if the identity of the consumer is known to the pharmacist and the prescription could be properly honored in the state in which it was written, the pharmacist may fill the prescription."

"Of course, many pharmacist will not be personally familiar with vacationers or others who ask them to fill out-of-state prescriptions. In those cases, if the prescription appears valid and is for a drug that is not designated a Controlled Dangerous Substance (CDS) and is not a drug of potential abuse, the pharmacist may fill the prescription," Levin said.

Club members urged to submit data for paper

The Mountainside Woman's Club chairman of yearbook and printing, Alice Strohmeier, has asked that all department and committee chairmen and officers submit their news items and announcements for the club year between Aug. 14-21, so that she may issue the "Pink Dogwood Echo" to club members by Labor Day.
Mrs. Strohmeier is also chairman of the club's evening dinner meeting and Chinese auction in March. The sale will feature an "International Table" which will include members' vacation mementos.
Members are asked to remember the auction feature while traveling this summer.

FRIDAY DEADLINE
All items other than spot news should be in our office by noon on Friday.

Teen Talk

Young workers should obtain a Social Security card as soon as you enter the labor force. You need a Social Security number if your work is covered by the Social Security law—and most work is! Show your card to your employer when you start to work or when you change jobs. This insures that your wages will be properly credited to your Social Security earnings record.
Your Social Security number is also used for income tax purposes. You may be asked to give your Social Security number to anyone who pays you dividends, interest or other income that must be reported to the Internal Revenue Service.
If you don't already have a Social Security number, get one from your nearest Social Security office. Try to apply for your card at least four weeks before you'll need it.
You'll only need one number during your lifetime. If you change your name, or if you lose your card, any Social Security representative will help you get a new card or one showing your new name.

Decrease in effect

Carroll Aslaksen, vice-president of consumer affairs for Jersey Central Power & Light Company, this week announced a decrease in the company's energy adjustment charge from 6.748 mills per kilowatt-hour (KWH) to 5.500 mills per KWH.

The decrease, authorized by the Board of Public Utilities, will take effect with the August billing cycle. A residential customer using 600 KWH per month will see a decrease of 85 cents.

The JCP&L executive attributed the lower charge to a decrease in the cost of fuel used in the production of electricity. He said that the lower fuel cost was due, in part, to the continued operation of JCP&L's nuclear generating plants using nuclear fuel in place of more expensive fuel oil or purchased power.
The energy adjustment charge is expected to remain in effect until later this year when the company expects its rate application to be completed and a decision by the Board of Public Utilities.

Matthew Rinaldo

12th District

The decision of the new state commissioner of transportation to reconsider a plan to end subsidies on several bus routes in Union County as a result of public protests by bus riders and public officials is an encouraging reaffirmation of the importance of bus service in New Jersey's mass transit planning.

I was among those who submitted testimony at a public hearing on the proposed cutbacks conducted in Elizabeth by the State Commuter Operating Agency. I opposed the state plan to eliminate subsidies on the numbers 8 and 26 lines serving Elizabeth, Union, and Springfield; the number 36 in Rahway; numbers 62 and 134, which connect eastern Union County to jobs and shopping areas in Newark and Woodbridge, and the Watchung Mountain route serving industrial plants in Summit, Berkeley Heights, Scotch Plains and New Providence.

The resulting loss of vital bus services would make it impossible for many low-income workers to reach their jobs. The curtailment of bus service to Elizabeth and Rahway would hinder their economic development plans and make it more difficult for Union County to meet federal air pollution standards due to an increase in auto traffic.

As I said at the hearings, buses are significant energy savers, proportionately using half the energy required for each rail passenger and one-seventh of the energy consumed by a single occupancy auto. The fuel conservation program enacted by the House mandates that the states develop energy savings plans, with a reliance on public transportation. That means more bus and rail service, not less.

Currently, about eight per cent of the residents of Union County commute to jobs, schools, hospitals, and shopping centers by bus, compared to almost six per cent using commuter trains. This year bus riders in New Jersey received a $43 million federal subsidy to hold down fares and to sustain service on money losing lines.

A few bus companies have failed effectively to utilize the subsidy program with the result that service has deteriorated. These companies should not be rewarded with higher payments for poor service. In cases where there is evidence of payroll padding and fraud, the state attorney general should seek indictments against the companies and individuals responsible.

Better management of the state rail and bus subsidy program can save millions of dollars annually that could be used to keep essential bus service operating. The cost of subsidizing the number eight bus line, for instance, would be a few thousand dollars. It is an important bus line for students attending Kean College, and others who commute to jobs, hospitals, health clinics and shopping areas in Elizabeth, Union and Springfield.

Following the Elizabeth hearing, I met with Louis Gambaccini, the new state commissioner of transportation.

We discussed a list of recommendations I offered to coordinate bus and commuter rail service in Union County. As a result of our meeting in Washington, Commissioner Gambaccini expressed interest in my proposal for a test project in Union County for a single monthly fare system. For a monthly fee, the public would be allowed to ride any bus or rail service within a 25-mile radius.

The idea is to coordinate rail and bus service and to increase use of mass transportation. The program has proven to be popular and financially successful in Hamburg, Germany.

Unless ridership is increased through some innovative steps to promote public use of mass transit facilities in urban-suburban areas, federal and state subsidies to maintain New Jersey's outmoded system of public transportation will continue to increase by tens of millions of dollars annually, while fares go up and ridership declines.

In addition to the experiment in Union County, which would be the first of its kind in the nation, the new transportation commissioner expressed support for my proposal to have the state Department of Transportation work with county planning agencies in studying new routes. Inter-city bus loops must be coordinated with train schedules and business and industrial working hours in order to become economically viable.

I was encouraged by Commissioner Gambaccini's determination that the rehabilitation of the Jersey Central Railroad, now under CONRAIL, is the number one priority of the DOT. The first phase of the plan to replace old equipment and to rebuild miles of old CNJ trackbed will be submitted shortly to the Urban Mass Transportation Administration, which is providing the $480 million appropriated by Congress.

Also in the works is the electrification of the Erie-Lackawanna, serving the western end of Union County. Commissioner Gambaccini expressed optimism that this project would meet the target completion date of 1981.

As I informed the new commissioner, New Jersey must have a modern, coordinated mass transit system operating by the mid-1980s, when the energy crunch will make it necessary for many motorists to switch to mass transit because of the scarcity and costs of fuel. As many more people ride the trains and buses, the financial problems of our public transportation system should be eased considerably.

Worthington Pump awarded federal job

The award of a $1.7 million federal contract to a Mountainside firm for the manufacture of pump systems for submarines was announced today by Rep. Matthew J. Rinaldo, R-12th Dist.

The congressman said the Navy Department contract had been awarded to the Worthington Pump Corporation of 270 Sheffield St., Mountainside. The pumps are for use in three nuclear powered submarines.

The State We're In

N.J. Conservation Foundation

Two of the best environmental bills to pass our state legislature now await the signature of Governor Brendan Byrne, who may have signed them by the time you read this.

Also by the time you read this, I will have departed for a six-week stint in Europe, surveying the environmental scene there. But more on that later. First, the two bills:

Both are energy-related and will help keep New Jersey abreast of sophisticated environmental practices. One, the Solar Easements Act, gives legal standing to solar easements. If you obtain a solar easement from a neighbor, the latter will in no way henceforth be able to cast a shadow across your solar energy collectors at any time of the year.

In other words, no one else's trees or buildings will be permissible between the sun and your home or business solar energy system. At last, "a place in the sun" has more than poetic meaning! The other bill is the "Life-Cycle Cost Analysis Act." While it has a complicated title, it is simple and brings an astonishing new perspective to the humdrum business of constructing or renovating large publicly-owned structures.

It requires that planning for construction or renovation of any major publicly owned facility undergo analysis of its "life-cycle costs." What's that? It's the total cost of a building. Not just the initial construction cost, but also the cost of all the energy it will consume during its usable lifetime, plus operation and maintenance costs.

That's worth a moment's reflection. One can see that the implications for saving energy (and money, accordingly) are enormous. That kind of analysis will clarify the logic of spending more now for extra insulation to save on fuel in the future.

And it surely will bring solar energy use into a more advantageous perspective, especially in view of the fact that the bill calls for comparison of three or more energy-system alternatives. A major publicly owned facility is defined in the bill as having at least 25,000 square-feet of usable floor space.

While the legislation is only for publicly owned buildings, its logic is so overwhelming to me that I would expect that kind of analysis to become standard practice for us all.

His visionary and innovative approach to energy embodied in these two bills has earned Assemblyman Donald DiFrancesco of Union and Morris counties the thanks of environmentalists throughout the state.

Covered Bridge vow--no increase in price

At least until the last 20 per cent of the homes at Covered Bridge's residential-recreational community for adults in Manalapan are sold. Buyers will not have to wait to enjoy a leisure life at its fullest, to make new relationships in a community of friends or even, as a result of the current offer of guaranteed prices for those who want to move in any time up to the end of the year, until one member of the household is 52, the requirement for residency.

"As long as one household member will turn 52 before title is taken, adults can save thousands of dollars by making the decision now to move to Covered Bridge before the end of 1978," states Kevork S. Hovnanian, president of Hovnanian Enterprises, the premier developer of adult environments in New Jersey, Florida, Georgia and Texas.

Since the recent announcement of the guaranteed price offer, an additional five per cent of the Covered Bridge homes have been sold, bring the number of sold homes to 80 per cent.

Hovnanian explains that the later delivery price is guaranteed to those who contract to purchase in 1978. The savings for them, it has been estimated, could be as much as $3,000 on a typical Covered Bridge home.

"In effect, we are offering a double guarantee," Hovnanian states. "It is first a guarantee that the buyer will not have to pay more than the lower, current prices. And it is also a guarantee that there will be a Covered Bridge home waiting for them when they are ready to make their move."

Prices on all homes, Hovnanian stated throughout the nation will

Scott officials call Crestwood N.J. 'best buy'

Crestwood Village, an adult community in Whiting, has been selected by the r. e. Scott co. as "best buy" in a full-service adult community for retirees who wish to remain in New Jersey.

"After careful investigation of the leading adult communities, we concluded that Crestwood, one of the pioneers in this field and now in its second decade of development, had the most to offer," according to Loretta Herman, vice president of r. e. Scott co.

"A fully mature town of 9,000 residents, the cluster of Crestwood Communities has its own municipal-type sewer water and road maintenance systems; five clubhouses; its own large shopping center and a medical center with 20 general practitioners and specialists," Herman continued.

"Crestwood management takes care of all exterior home and grounds maintenance for the property owners. Taxes are low and stable. Community-service charges are negotiated by the residents themselves and have withstood inflation remarkably well.

The r. e. Scott co., long associated with the Union County area, is a member of the Eastern Union County and Westfield Multiple Listing Services, the Home to Home Real Estate Network statewide, have been purchased at the site managed by the Countrywide Development Corp. For a limited time, 'early bird' buyers are being offered savings on the second section of homes.

SERENE SCENE—This quiet-looking residential street is typical of the Holly Oaks development of single-family homes off Rt. 70 in Manchester Township. More than 100 homes priced from $45,900

continue to rise during the period before Covered Bridge is sold out, reflecting constant increases in building material and construction costs. Therefore, buyers who contract now will also be taking delivery of a home that has already increased in value.

And no matter what recreational activity, hobby, entertainment or social interest an adult has, it waits at Covered Bridge. Tennis can be enjoyed at any hour because the courts are illuminated at night. Swimming, in appropriate season, takes place at the community's olympic-size pool. Golf is as close as the adjacent public 18-hole course. There are a total of more than 60 clubs offering their respective programs to all who want to participate.

To reach Covered Bridge from northern New Jersey, take the New Jersey Turnpike (Exit 11) or Garden State Parkway (Exit 123), then south on Rt. 9. Follow signs to Covered Bridge.

MOVIES THE THEATER OTHER ENTERTAINMENT

IN COMEDY SCENE—Glenda Jackson has her toes examined by her doctor, played by Walter Matthau, in 'House Calls,' offered on double bill with 'Last Remake of Beau Geste' at Park Theater, Roselle Park.

'Velvet' shown

"International Velvet," a film sequel to "National Velvet" (which starred a youthful Elizabeth Taylor), is the latest film offering at the Maplewood Theater, Maplewood.

"International Velvet" stars Tatum O'Neal, Nanette Newman, and Christopher Plummer. The picture is about Velvet, now 30 years older, raising an orphaned niece, who longs to ride on Britain's Olympic team. Bryan Forbes directed the movie, which was made in color.

IN SECOND WEEK—Peter Sellers, as Chief Inspector Clouseau, scolds houseboy Cato (Burt Kwouk) in film comedy, 'Revenge of the Pink Panther,' continuing its run at the Bellevue Theater, Upper Montclair.

Mystery in Union

"Dear Inspector" (former title, "Dear Detective"), French film, will be shown at the Lost Picture Show, Union, this week.

The mystery-comedy concerns a professor of Greek, accidentally renewing an acquaintance with a former classmate, now a woman police inspector, who is trying to solve some murders. Annie Girardot and Philippe Noiret are starred, and Philippe de Broca serves as director.
