Teachers voice frustration over talks

MTA tells board of 'runaround'

$1,270 is added
to 79-80 budget

By BARBARA WALCOFF

A group of Mountainside teachers told the Board of Education that they were frustrated because the second half of the academic year is beginning and they are still without a contract. Approximately 34 teachers, present at the Board of Education's meeting Tuesday night, came ready to talk with "the entire board to try to open negotiations" but Board President Scott Schmedel said that the board could not discuss in public aspects of the contract which are yet to be negotiated.

Bill Ortolfo, president of the Mountainside Teacher's Association (MTA) had requested through letters and mailgrams that the MTA be allowed to meet with the entire board before the next negotiating session, scheduled for Monday, with Samuel Ranhand, the Public Employment Relations Council (PERC) appointed fact finder. After an agreeable date was found, Jan. 8, Ortolfo said he was told the board team would meet with the MTA negotiators only and that "unless the teachers were ready to change their position, there was no sense in holding the meeting." No meeting took place and Schmedel told the audience that the board had never taken the position described by Ortolfo.

"This is the sort of runaround we have been getting in dealing with the board," Ortolfo said. "The teachers' morale has reached a point where you (the board) should be affected."

Referring to comments by Gov. Brendan Byrne in his State of the State address about going ahead with implementing a portion of the T and E program concerning job analysis and teacher evaluation, Ortolfo told the board, before walking out of the meeting, "I for one am not going to do a thing until we get a contract." Most of the teachers left the meeting with Ortolfo.

The 34 teachers, out of 64 MTA members, attended the meeting because they were "interested in finding out why a change in philosophy has been developed," Ortolfo said. "It's not the amount of money. It's a change in the guide. It is not only one of the highest in the county, but one of the highest in the state of New Jersey," he added.

Spokesmen for the teachers said the MTA is the last group in the state left without a contract. But when several teachers said that the problem was caused by the board's asking the MTA to change a "philosophy" concerning the salary guide, Schmedel stopped the discussion.

"When one side is asking for something the whole state considers unreasonable, then something is wrong on your side," teacher Bill Tetley said. "I hope you get the idea that we don't like to be the only district trying to

Burglary case complaint goes to county level

Francisco Rivas Cruz, one of the suspects in a rash of burglaries during October and November, faced three additional charges in Mountainside Municipal court last week but Judge Robert Ruggiero ruled that the local court would take no action and referred the complaint to the Union County prosecutor.

Cruz, alias Francisco Velazquez, was picked up on Dec. 8 by Detective Sergeant Walter Betyeman; he was charged with receiving a 1964 Ford van, knowing it to be stolen, contributing to the delinquency of two minors and possession of a device with intent to use it to commit a burglary. The Newark resident has been out on $1,000 bail for these charges.

In other court action, Richard J. Synger of Gillette was fined $31 for speeding 66 mph in a 50 mph zone and Russell K. Holt of Plainfield paid $30 for traveling 52 mph in a 40 mph zone. Ella S. Barlo of Piscataway was fined $30 for passing on the shoulder on Rt. 22.

John C. Baker of Stony Brook lane paid a $20 fine for making a U-turn at an intersection where the driver's view was obstructed, Frank C. McKenna of Union paid $30 for driving an unregistered vehicle.

Voorhees' residency reported to be 'legal'

The appointment of H. Lee Voorhees as the Mountainside deputy borough clerk and administrator is reportedly legal as no residency requirements are attached to either appointment. Mayor Thomas Ricciardi said that Voorhees' combined job, as well as others within the municipal employee ranks, has been merged to cut down on unnecessary costs to local taxpayers.

Voorhees, a resident of Long Valley, may be a non-resident as deputy clerk but under state law cannot take the title of borough clerk unless he moves to Mountainside. Starting his second year in the position, Voorhees stated that he wants to live within the borough, but it is not mandated by law—on the state, county or local level.

Ricciardi said: "We're running a small office. We're trying not to waste money. The job has to be done. It doesn't matter what his title is. We just want to make sure that all bases are covered."

Voorhees, appointed in January 1978, serves under the title of Deputy Borough Clerk while the position of Borough Clerk remains unfilled. Attorney John Post said both positions do not have to be filled. He said, "It's like having an assistant."

County Clerk Walter Halpin said, "under the home law edict, it is up to the administrative code of the governing body" to determine whether a deputy borough clerk must be a local resident. He added that many towns have officials living beyond the its borders as there is no state statute or county law restricting appointed offices to residents. On the other hand, Halpin added, all elected officials must live within the town. As opposed to a township which elects the town clerk, boroughs, under state law, appoint a clerk.

Orientation set at Dayton High

The annual orientation program for eighth-grade students and their parents from Springfield and Mountainside will be held in Halsey Hall of Jonathan Dayton Regional High School at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday.

Anne Romano, a Mountainside resident and principal of the public high school in Springfield, said the orientation program will be divided into two periods: the first for discussion and the second for visitation.

During the first period, there will be a brief explanation of subjects available for freshmen, scheduling procedures and summer-school opportunities available to students who will complete eighth grade in 1979.

During the visitation period, students and parents will have the opportunity to meet and talk with coordinators and teachers and see the facilities of the campus.

"Because this will be an important and informative meeting, we sincerely hope that all eighth graders and their parents will be present," Principal Romano said.

The 'boobytraps' of Route 22

By JEFF FEINGOLD

If your car trembles with fear or loathing at the thought of having to take Rt. 22 to get anywhere, the New Jersey State Safety Council has some news for you: It's not the only vehicle in the state that feels that way.

The Safety Council discovered, in a survey of New Jersey's roads, that the highways are lined with potentially dangerous — even fatal — "boobytraps." Other participants in the survey, besides safety council members, were representatives of the Professional Insurance Agents of New Jersey, Independent Insurance Agents Association of New Jersey and the Insurance Brokers Association of New Jersey.

During the one-day examination, which was conducted late last year, the survey teams found more than 3,000 road hazards along some 2,500 miles of state, county and local roads throughout New Jersey's 21 counties.

And many of those "boobytraps" were found along the stretch of Rt. 22 between Hillside and Mountainside.

"The day the survey came out," according to James Hughes, director of the general education division of the safety council and one of the members of the team that surveyed Rt. 22, "we had calls from some television stations. And you know how television is. They wanted the most dramatic examples of the hazards for their two-minute broadcasts. So I took them to Union."

In Union, he said, the team saw guard rails with sharp rather than blunted ends, some of which are placed higher than the hood of an average car. The team also found dozens of utility poles that are placed too close to the road, guard rails that can lead drivers off the road rather than guide them along it and concrete bridge abutments unprotected by guard rails.

The tall, unprotected guard rails, Hughes said, were some of the worst hazards he saw. "If a car would strike one of those," he said, the guard rail would pierce the car. It was high enough for ours, and we were driving a four-year-old Cadillac which is a lot bigger than most cars today."

Utility poles also are another danger for drivers on Rt. 22. They are supposed to be placed at least 30 feet from the roadway, but many are just inches away. Some poles are placed in front of guard rails so what exists, in effect, are poles protecting drivers from crashing into guard rails.

The utility companies and the Public Utilities Commission have control over the poles that line the state's highways and streets. The problems caused by unprotected poles, Hughes said, could be easily remedied. "All they have to do is pick up the guard rail and rewrap it around the poles. Or at the very least they could put reflectors on the poles."

One of the reasons the utility companies and the state are unaware of the serious hazard posed by unprotected utility poles, according to Hughes, is that utility companies don't keep records of crashes into poles. "They just might not be aware of the collisions," he said.

The pole problem, Hughes said, "has something to do with road design. I would guess that about five or 10 years ago, nobody thought about the logic behind it."

The survey team started its journey in Hillside and traveled west to Mountainside. On the return trip, the team saw, according to Hughes, problems that made the two sides of the road look like "mirror images."

According to the Insurance Information Institute, if the hazards were eliminated auto insurance rates would decrease.

"I'm sure we missed some of the worst hazards," Hughes said. But what BAD—Along Rt. 22 a survey, conducted by members of the New Jersey State Safety Council, discovered dozens of 'boobytraps' lining the roadway. Among them were guard rails placed behind poles and signs, giving the guard rails little to protect motorists from.

... AND WORSE—Another problem found by survey team was utility poles standing only inches from roadway. The team also found guard rails with sharp ends and guard rails that can lead drivers off road rather than guide them along it. (PhotoGraphics)

we really wanted to do with the survey was make a major splash. If we can focus attention on the problems in some sort of dramatic way, we can highlight the problem to the attention of state and federal legislators."

The survey might not yet have made a splash, but its initial impact was at least a ripple. The state Department of Transportation has already told Hughes that it would make $2 million available for fixing minor problems.

The sum might not be a lot of money in the days of multi-billion dollar highway trust funds, but with $2 million,

"you can replace a lot of guard rail," according to Hughes.

The hazards on Rt. 22 are certainly not news to the motorists who use the highway regularly. Which is, Hughes said, one of the biggest difficulties.

"Very few people understand or remember that automobile crashes cost about $750 million a year in lost income, rehabilitation and costs of repairs," he said. About 131,000 people are injured every year in New Jersey automobile mishaps, he added, and another 1,000 are killed on the state's highways.

"It's the number one health problem in the country. But, like all kinds of problems that are with you forever, you just become sort of immune to them."

Although the problems on highways in New Jersey and the rest of the country can't be remedied overnight, one way the safety hazards on Rt. 22 can be eased, according to Hughes, is the completion of Rt. 78. "That should take some of the load off of 22," he said.

"Many of the problems are made worse with the concentration of truck traffic on that highway. The completion of the road would definitely be a relief for the municipalities that the highway goes through."

Borough police arrest youth

A 19-year-old Hillside man was arrested Saturday night by Mountainside police officer Herman Hafeken on suspicion of holdup and robbery. A street stickup occurred in Bloomfield earlier that day and the suspect was transported to and charged in Bloomfield, according to Lieutenant Brazinski of the city's Police Department.

Rodnei, Crutchfield, taken into custody by Hafeken around 10 p.m., is being held in the Essex County jail along with another suspect in the case, police said. Brazinski said that he is unsure if the small amount of cash recovered is the money taken during the robbery.

The arrest, which was made in Scotch Plains, came after Hafeken spotted a 1974 blue Maverick traveling along Rt. 22 west, reports said. Earlier in the evening, an alarm for vehicle of this type, involved in an armed robbery, was broadcast, according to police reports. Hafeken said that he followed the vehicle into Scotch Plains and, when joined by a Scotch Plains patrol car, signaled the car over and subsequently made the arrest.

Stolen car is found during routine stop

Mountainside police officer Herman Hafeken, doing a routine check on a disabled vehicle, discovered the car was stolen from New York City earlier that same day, Jan. 2.

The 1973 Ford, owned by Hugo Moreno of Mamaroneck, N.Y., was recovered at 8:10 p.m. on Rt. 22 west. The driver of the car could not be located and the car was towed to the Mountainside Exxon station.

Truck driver faces charges

Jean J. Delus of Hollis, N.Y., the driver of a tractor trailer truck which wrecked a Volkswagen while attempting to cross Rt. 22 at New Providence road, was charged with running a red light and having no insurance card in his possession, police said. Tedbaldo L. Fernandez of Birch Hill road, the driver of the Volkswagen, complained of pain in his neck, but told police that he would see his own doctor.

Traveling on New Providence road at 7:50 a.m. Jan. 4, Fernandez had passed a truck on the right which was completing the U-turn from Rt. 22 onto New Providence road, heading south, police said. Delus, who had just changed from the slow to the fast lane of Rt. 22 east, told police that he had seen Fernandez's car pass the truck on New Providence road.

Delus's truck hit the Volkswagen in the front with his right side. Several witnesses, in cars behind Fernandez, said the tractor trailer truck had gone through a red light.

Many young Americans face a vicious cycle when they're attempting to secure employment: Employers want experienced help. The problem is, few employers offer the opportunity for younger employees to get the needed training. How do you get a job when you have no experience?

Berliner claims there are no set formulas in the job hunting world. "But there are ways of avoiding some of the frustration by being aware of some of the games that are played," Berliner says.

A new book, published by AMACOM, might be of some assistance. It's titled "Want a Job? Get Some Experience? Get a Job." Author Don Berliner examines carefully the Catch-22 and shows how to get a job without having unreasonable demands for experience put upon job-seekers.

Berliner's book outlines avenues of approach for women and high school and college students who aren't quite sure what the first step is in finding employment.

The text includes unique advice regarding resume writing, lead developing and interviewing skills.

Kids' hospital accredited by special group

Children's Specialized Hospital on New Providence Road has been awarded the certificate of accreditation by the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Hospitals (JCAH), it was announced by Paul C. Bosland, president of the board of managers.

The two-year accreditation was achieved following a thorough survey of the hospital by a professional survey team, Bosland said. The rehabilitation facility for physically handicapped youngsters was evaluated on the basis of information gained from questionnaires and an on-site visit.

The accreditation program assists hospitals in pursuing a higher quality of health care through education, self-evaluation and consultation. The JCAH is a private, non-profit organization whose primary purpose is to promote high quality health care and related human services, he added.

Children's Specialized Hospital, founded in 1891, is planning a formal dedication of its new 60-bed patient wing and renovated facilities in the old building, which has allowed it to expand its pediatric rehabilitation services to inpatients and a growing number of outpatients, according to Bosland.

Deerfield boys score tournament victories

The boys basketball team at Deerfield School opened the 1978-79 season in spectacular fashion with an impressive first place finish and a championship trophy in the Stirling Basketball Tournament.

Eight eighth-grade teams commenced play Dec. 18 in the single elimination tournament. Deerfield opened the tournament with a 59-37 victory over Valley View of Warren. Trailing 22-20 at halftime, the Deerfield Indians, with a hot shooting second half, destroyed their opponents with a tough zone defense and aggressive floor play.

On Dec. 23 the Indians met the Knights of Columbus of Dunellen. Dunellen, featuring a good shooting and rebounding 6' 2" pivot man, was defeated 41-34 thanks to a tenacious box-and-one defense led by Charles Kachulis who dominated the Dunellen star center.

Stirling and Mountainside met on Dec. 29 for the tournament championship. Bothered by a 1-2-2 half court trapping press, the Indians trailed 14-6 at the end of the first quarter. Showing more offensive movement, Mountainside tied the score 20-20 at halftime. Stirling scored the first six points of the third quarter before Mountainside began to dominate with crisp passes and strong rebounding. Extremely aggressive play led by Patrick Esemplare, Glenn Delaney, Andrew Grett, Charles Kachulis and James Dascoli proved enough to lead to a 50-51 victory which had the crowd on its feet at the final buzzer.

A team trophy was presented as well as individual plaques to each of the 15 players. The tournament proved beneficial as a means of preparing the team for its 13-game schedule which commenced last Saturday at South Orange.

The roster includes Andrew Grett, Glenn Delaney, Patrick Esemplare, Charles Kachulis, Henry Largey, Robert Sokohl, Danny Connolly, James Dascoli, Chris Federico, Stephen Doten, Thomas Perrotta, Chris Martignetti, Drew Greeley, Michael Dalhauser and Peter Grett.

IN CONGRESS

The steady increase in employment in New Jersey to a record of 3,365,000 men, women and teenagers is one of the more encouraging economic trends. Unfortunately, the employment figures receive much less attention in the daily press than the gloomier forecasts of unemployment and recession.

The drop in unemployment in New Jersey for the third quarter to 5.4 percent of the adult work population 20 and over mirrors the national decline in joblessness. This comes at a time when the working population continues to increase with large numbers of women and teenagers joining the job market.

We have, in short, achieved a remarkable turnaround since the recession with more than 95 million Americans employed, the highest in our nation's history. Almost 60 per cent of the nation's working age population has a job. Most of these gains in the past two years have occurred in labor intensive service industries, rather than in manufacturing.

Help wanted advertisements, which are an indicator of a tightening labor market, also have been rising. Indeed, many employers complain they are unable to fill vacancies because food stamps, unemployment benefits, welfare and other forms of tax-free public assistance have made non-work more attractive for those at the bottom of the wage scale.

The tightness in the labor market will make it difficult for the Carter administration to keep wage rates from rising as fast, or faster, than they have over the last two years, let alone achieve the administration's stated goal of a lower rate of increase in wages.

Not long ago, economic analysts in private industry and government felt that a jobless rate of 4 per cent represented full employment, but the prevailing definition is pegged at an unemployment level of between 5 and 5.5 per cent. The upward revisions stem mainly from the brisk rate of growth of the nation's labor force plus structural changes that include a greater number of teenage workers and more women seeking jobs. There always are workers in the process of changing jobs, training for new positions or relocating from one area of the country to another. These workers are counted among the unemployed.

In addition, there has been a marked increase in the number of secondary wage earners in recent years. About 60 per cent of the nation's working husbands and 90 per cent of the working wives have their incomes supplemented by another family member who holds a job.

What all this should tell economists and the public is that the official unemployment figure, which has a political punch all its own, does not mean what most people think it means. One thing it does not mean is that 6 per cent of the labor force is unable to find work. The fact is that only about 2.5 per cent of the family breadwinners are unemployed today.

But the official government figures no longer focus on adult heads of household, who are now no more than two-fifths of our labor force. The other three fifths are dependents holding second jobs. The unemployment figures also include people who are officially retired but are available for part-time work; millions of teenagers not yet burdened with family responsibilities; unemployed people registered for "employment" in order to qualify for welfare and food stamps, and a sizeable number of fulltime students available for part time work only.

Dumping all these workers into the unemployment mix gives a distorted picture of real unemployment. This is not to say that dependents do not have to work. But our economists and the media should at least give us an accurate picture of the unemployment situation before Congress comes under pressure from various groups to again stimulate the economy.

To correct this situation, I have asked Labor Secretary Raymond Marshall to have the Bureau of Labor Statistics develop a more accurate formula for computing unemployment among U.S. citizens capable and willing to work a minimum of a 30-hour week. Aliens, both legal and illegal; Social Security recipients; chronic welfare cases who are judged unemployable; persons in school or job training programs, and seasonal workers who average less than a 30-hour week should not be lumped into the national unemployment rate. They are different from those who must work full-time in order to support themselves and their dependents.

Blood bank set next Tuesday

The Westfield-Mountainside Red Cross Chapter will hold a community blood bank Tuesday at the Presbyterian Church, 140 Mountain ave., Westfield, from 1:30 to 6:30 p.m.

Mrs. Edward Love, blood chairman, said: "Accidents over the holidays have led to a critical need for blood. Let us see and have new people contribute along with the ones who have been generous over the years. Anyone 17 to 65 years of age is eligible."

change a philosophy."

Schmedel said, "We won't negotiate in public," and closed the conversation. "If you got the idea that we would only meet if your position changed, that is not true."

"Negotiating a contract is two-sided. No one side makes the decision to settle or not to settle." The board represents the public, he added, while the MTA represents the teachers and each takes the point of view that best represents its constituents.

Orloff said that the discussion would "not be infringing on the negotiations. Mr. Schmedel just evades the issue."

Schmedel said that an attempt would be made to get the two sides together before next Monday's meeting with the fact finder. Responding to a question from the audience, the board president said that round-the-clock negotiating sessions had not been contemplated.

In other business, the board approved by a 5-2 vote an additional $1,270 in state aid in the total budget figure for 1979-80. This brings the total budget amount to $2,155,665. The two no votes were cast by Charles Speth and Pat Knoedel.

Speth called the budget "extravagant" and said that it "contained a number of items that could be moved if the budget is defeated. They're just a cushion," he added. Knoedel said that she had cast a no vote because "We are overstaffed."

This tentative budget is now being reviewed by Dr. James Clancy, county superintendent of schools. Clancy will have to approve the budget before any specifics are revealed to the public.

Schmedel said that the small increase from this year to next could be attributed to two factors—the declining enrollment and cuts made from areas where it would not harm the education or educational environment. The board president said that there are no reductions in any educational program and that during the academic year it may be possible to do some new things in a small way.

A public hearing on the budget will be held on March 6 at 8 p.m. in the Deerfield School cafeteria. The final budget is scheduled for adoption at the board's Mar. 13 meeting. The budget will then go before the voters in the annual school election set for Apr. 3. Last year's budget was defeated by two votes.

In a close 4-3 vote, an after school program during the winter months was approved by the board for second and third grade students. Dr. Levin Hanigan, superintendent of schools, said that the program would start out as a two-day program. A similar three-day program for fourth and fifth graders was approved unanimously. The sixth, seventh and eighth graders will have a two-day-per-week program which the board approved, 6-1. The games played at all levels are scheduled to be low organization games, and the program is limited because of space limitations in the schools.

Play is resumed

Duplicate Bridge play has resumed at the Westfield YWCA on Wednesdays at 12:15 p.m. and includes lunch. Mrs. Caroline Watson is the director.

The year-around game on Thursday night at 7:45 continues with Hans Enard as director. Both games are ACBL accredited, and the public is invited to attend.

For those who would like to play duplicate but feel the need for an introduction to the game, the YWCA is offering a mini-course on March 13 and 20. Chris Bentley will be the instructor.

100 years of service marked by hospital

Along with the noisemakers and cheers which heralded the arrival of 1979 came the beginning of Elizabeth General Hospital's year-long celebration of its 100 years of service to the Eastern Union County area.

The hospital's centennial celebration will officially get under way with a kickoff party for the hospital family and guests at Newark International Airport on Wednesday. The party will be held at Terminal A, Piedmont Satellite from 5 to 7 p.m. Cocktails, music and parking will be provided.

The celebration also will be marked with the hanging of the hospital's 36-foot centennial banner on the side of the building facing East Jersey street. The banner was designed by Sarah Robinson of Westfield, a member of the hospital's Community Mental Health Center staff and a freelance artist.

A variety of other educational, social and fundraising events are planned to highlight the centennial year, according to George F. Billington, president.

A non-profit voluntary institution, Elizabeth General is the oldest hospital in Eastern Union County. Incorporated in 1879, it began as a two-room, free surgical dispensary.

Today the seven-story building contains 373 beds and 50 bassinets and encompasses a school of nursing with a new building to be dedicated in May and a School of radiologic technology. Facilities and services include an outpatient department with 22 specialty clinics, a cancer program, an extensive community mental health center and a family centered maternity care program housed in a modern obstetrical unit. The hospital also serves as the pediatric center for the Elizabeth area.

Among the social events to which the public is invited is an anniversary party at the Landmark Inn, Woodbridge at 7:30 p.m. Saturday, Feb. 24. There will be music, dinner, dancing and cash bar. Admission is $10 per person.

On Saturday, May 5, the Centennial Fundraising Ball will be held at Shackamaxon Golf and Country Club, Scotch Plains. The affair includes a cocktail hour, open bar, dinner, dancing and entertainment by Herb Dell Orchestra. It will begin at 8 p.m., and tickets are $75 per person.

The annual Elizabeth General Auxiliary Fashion Show also will commemorate the centennial with "100 Years of Fashion" on Thursday, Nov. 1 at Chanticleer in Millburn. The event starts at 11:30 a.m., and admission is $10 per person.

Family events include the Centennial Antique Sale and Flea Market on Sat., May 12, in the hospital parking lot from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. A centennial carnival is scheduled at the same location in the late spring. The centennial Chinese auction will be held in the fall.

Families also can see the hospital's centennial float in area parades throughout the year.

The hospital will conduct several educational programs for the public, nursing and medical staffs during the centennial year.

More information about any of Elizabeth General Hospital's centennial activities is available by calling 289-8600, ext. 248.

Cancer society seeks helpers

The American Cancer Society has issued a call for volunteers to assist in the annual Residential Campaign, the organization's major crusade.

"This year, we need to get more people involved," said Al Vardalis, Union County residential campaign chairman, who noted that last year's drive brought in $85,000.

"We would very much like to improve

Home service offering course

The Visiting Homemaker Service of Central Union County is accepting applications from mature women who wish to become trained, certified home health aides. The Visiting Homemaker Service is a non-profit community agency established in 1952, affiliated with the state Department of Health.

Homemaker health aides provide care in homes where there is illness, for four to eight hours a day. The cost-free, two-week training course will begin Jan. 29. Training is under the sponsorship of the N.J. State Department of Health.

After completing the course and serving a paid three-month probation period, the aides will be certified by the agency and the state. This certification is valid in any county in New Jersey.

Further information and applications are available from, Rae Horwitz, training coordinator, Visiting Homemaker Service, 526 North Ave., East, Westfield, 233-3113.

on last year's figure, and the involvement of more volunteers is the key," he said. The campaign begins in April with each municipality having its own goal. Volunteers are needed to be residential chairmen, district, captains, block workers and envelope stuffers.

Business topic of UC seminar

A one-day seminar entitled, "How to Buy a Business - How to Sell a Business - What You Should Know About Franchises" will be held at Union College on Saturday, Jan. 20, from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Offered by Union College in cooperation with the U.S. Small Business Administration (SBA), the program is designed to show how to avoid costly mistakes that occur when buying or selling a small business.

Instructors will be William J. Chapman and Robert V. Cullen, operators of a business consulting firm in West Caldwell. Both have developed and administered small business educational programs for the SBA in recent years.

Tuition, which includes lunch, is $20 for Union County residents and $25 for out-of-county. Registration is being handled by the Department of Continuing Education, Union College, 1033 Springfield ave., Cranford, 07016; 276-290, ext. 206 or 238.

Dance to be held

A dance for Jewish singles between the ages of 21 and 39, sponsored by the Dunams of New Jersey, will be held on Jan. 21 at the Clinton Manor, Rt. 22 west, Union.

Volunteers key for nursing unit

Volunteers contributed approximately 5,000 hours of service last year to the Visiting Nurse and Health Services, according to the group's annual report, which credited the volunteer efforts to sizeable increases in home visits and peripheral community health services.

The voluntary, non-profit home health care agency provides services in homes, schools, child health conferences and clinics. It employs a full-time staff of registered nurses, home health aides and support personnel and contracts with professional physical and speech therapists.

Yet, according to the VNHS executive director, Rosemary Cuccaro, the job of effectively performing services for residents of 15 Union County communities would be next to impossible without the help of the dozens of volunteers.

For the Birds

By Farris Swackhammer

By Farris S. Swackhammer Professor, Union College

"The speck was a California condor, and it was coming our way... It was like a bomber, its flat-winged posture quite unlike the gliderherald of the turkey vulture. It was huge, black, pale-headed and, as it came over, the big white bands forward on its underwing showed it to be an adult... It had been worth seeing, actually, worth traveling 10,000 miles to see."

These were the words of James Fisher, a renowned British ornithologist, who had come to the United States and traveled there with Roger Tory Peterson for 30,000 miles in 100 days. The date was June 8, 1953. During his trip, Fisher added 401 new birds to his life list, almost doubling it.

At the time James Fisher spotted that California condor, there were somewhere between the 60 tallied in 1946-7 and the 42 counted in 1963. The annual condor survey conducted on Oct. 17 and 18, found only 16 of these enormous birds, the lowest muster ever.

Fossil remains of the California condor's ancestor have been found from California to north-eastern Mexico. The condor's present range is now virtually restricted to an 86-square-mile area northwest of Los Angeles. The oldest bones are estimated to be about 200,000 years old. Experts differ over whether today's endangered bird is a truly different species.

There are legends that tell of condors carrying off everything from men to whales in their talons. In truth, they couldn't carry off a mouse. They cannot grasp one. The only uses they can put their feet to is walking and holding down carrion while tearing at it with their beaks. Even the beak is not that of a bird of prey. Condors feed on dead animals, preferably deer or calves. Early ranchers, seeing them feeding, assumed the big birds had killed the animal and in turn condors were shot.

Condor killing ceremonies were carried out in primitive times by the southern California Indians. Indians gathered around their evening campfire and danced and sang until two or three in the morning. About that time the bird was brought in and dancers passed it from one to another. Finally the chief grasped the bird and it was killed without shedding blood. Spirits of the dead, especially those of children, were supposed to be able to mount to Indian heaven on the wings of these great fliers. Another legend tells that the birds were messengers from the living to the dead. The last recorded ceremony took place in 1926.

Many birds have been raised in captivity, and this has often been suggested as a way to save the California condor. Again and again, however, experts have thrown doubt on the outcome of such a project. Now it appears that it may be tried. A close cousin, the Andean condor, has been raised in captivity. At the Bronx Zoo in New York City, two mated pairs of the South American resident have produced four offspring.

Commenting on raising California condors in captivity, where they have live to an age of 50, Dr. Donald Bruning, curator of birds at the zoo, said: "Those who say birds shouldn't be taken out of the wild forget that, if left there, the condors are undoubtedly going to become extinct."

Folk dancing topic for Kurz

Amette Kurz of Hillside will hold special workshops at the Eastern Union County YM-YWHA, Greenlane Union, as part of an international folk dancing program. The Swedish Hambro will be taught on Wednesday, Jan. 17, and both the Bicycle Waltz and the Gusevskia Racenica will be taught on Wednesday, Feb. 7. Both workshops will begin at 7:30 p.m.

Admission for the workshops is $1.50 for members and $2 for non-members. International Folk Dancing is a Y sponsored group which meets every Tuesday and Wednesday night.

Mothers' club plans Wednesday meeting

The Suburban Mothers of Twins and Triplets will hold its monthly meeting Wednesday at 8:15 p.m. at the First National State Bank, Fourth avenue and Chestnut street, Roselle. The program will be a fathers' panel discussion.

Additional information may be obtained from Mrs. Alma Lauer, 642 Lehigh ave., Union.

County arson strike force beginning operations

By STEVEN J. HERZ
Arsonists beware: Union County's newly-formed arson strike force, under the direction of Assistant Union County Prosecutor Robert Woodruff, is now operational.

Woodruff released that news this week. The strike force is composed of 21 investigative, police and fire officials who have undergone extensive training, led by Dep. Chief Robert Horner of the Plainfield Fire Department. Training was conducted at Plainfield, dealing with such facets of arson as detection, building structure, interviews, interrogation and fire make-up.

The unit was conceived in November and became operational on Jan. 2. Members include Det. Vincent Kleba and Fire Inspectors Herman Hergert and William Konecny of Linden; Det. John Hynes, Dep. Fire Chief Charles Hoffman and Fire Prevention Bureau Chief Capt. Edward Hamill of Union; Fireman Anthony Wunderlich of Springfield, and Investigator Michael Breen of the county prosecutor's office, a Roselle Park volunteer fireman and explosives expert, as well as police and firemen from other communities in the county.

"Applications for this unit were sent to each community departments," Woodruff explained. "Aside from other criteria, we wanted a commitment from applicants, considering they will be on call 24 hours a day for seven days. This job goes above and beyond the normal duties these men perform."

Woodruff added, "What we have got is a group of professionals who don't necessarily think of the work day as from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m."

Although the unit currently is functioning, Woodruff said it would be about a month and a half before full-scale work is underway. The bulk of the grant money for the strike force was provided by the State Law Enforcement Planning Agency (SLEPA), according to Woodruff.

The assistant prosecutor emphasized the strike force still is awaiting arrival of its most important apparatus: a specially equipped arson van. The van will contain items essential to arson investigations in line with the staff's training, Woodruff noted.

Woodruff had said that his office was compiling statistics which showed that arson arrests accounted for only nine percent of the total known arson fires nationally, and the conviction rate was only two percent. The conviction rate in Union County, said Woodruff, was even lower.

Lt. Louis Taranto of the Statewide Arson Network System of the State Police had pointed out that the main problem in dealing with arson was a lack of valid statistics and the lack of a coordinated effort by various law enforcement agencies.

More than 57,000 fires were reported to his agency last year, Taranto said; of that number more than 2,800 were confirmed arson cases and more than 20,000 either were suspicious or of undetermined origin. Only 80 suspects were arrested.

"With the task force, we will strive for the maximum of cooperation from all communities," Woodruff said, "whether they have a full-time or volunteer fire department."

The unit will work with three-man teams and stay with a case until a suspect is charged or the fire deemed unsolvable, according to Woodruff.

Each community will be responsible for paying the salary of its personnel involved in an investigation, even though the fire may occur in a different town or city.

March of Dimes aids the Year of the Child

Describing prevention of birth defects as "our nation's most serious child health problem," Dr. Edward Goodkin of Union, chapter chairman of the Union County March of Dimes this week announced the chapter's support

Biunno named to banking post

William J. Biunno, president of Colonial Savings and Loan, has been named to the 1979 legislative committee of the U.S. League of Savings Associations, the trade group's president, Joseph Benedict, has announced.

The League's 4,400 savings and loan association members provide the bulk of home mortgages in the U.S.

The legislative committee considers proposed laws and amendments of older statutes to decide which merit S&L support as a means of improving the nation's home finance system. The committee will meet in Washington at the end of February.

of the International Year of the Child.

The United Nations has designated 1979 for worldwide observance of its 20th anniversary of the Declaration of the Rights of the Child. In endorsing these goals, the board of trustees of the National Foundation-March of Dimes has issued this statement:

"To honor our children is to celebrate the future.

"It is, therefore, with grateful rededication that the volunteers and staff of the National Foundation-March of Dimes join this worldwide observance of the Year of the Child.

"Our efforts to protect the health of all children span more than 40 years; we pledge ourselves to continue and further enrich this record of service. We welcome this unprecedented observance by the governments and peoples of the world as a means of emphasizing the changing needs of children and the urgent mobilization of resources required to meet those special needs.

"Our mission in the prevention of birth defects is to reduce the number and magnitude of the hazards potentially standing between every baby and a healthy start in life, to honor and safeguard our children from conception through the first weeks after birth. Thus our concerns also manifest themselves in unceasing efforts to improve maternal health, as inseparable from infant health.

"We act upon the conviction that the well-being and promise of any society can be measured by the health of its children. We pledge ourselves and our resources to this opportunity to reaffirm the right of all children to a healthy birth free of defect and diminishment. We will share our faith through continued action in this and years to come—for ours is a quest for quality of life at birth when promise and potential are unlimited."

Northeast rise in nonfarm pay below average

Wage and salary rates of private nonfarm workers in the Northeast rose 1.8 percent between June and September, it was reported by Herbert Bienstock, regional commissioner, Bureau of Labor Statistics. Bienstock said that the Northeast increase compared with rise of 2 percent or more in the South and West, 1.6 percent in the North Central region and 2.0 percent nationally. Over the year ending in September 1978, wages and salaries in the Northeast rose 6.8 percent. Bienstock reported an 8.8 percent increase in the South, 8.1 percent in the West, 7.8 percent in the North Central States and 8.0 percent nationally.

Bienstock indicated that wages and salaries in the Northeast have risen more slowly than in other regions since data first became available in September 1975. Over the past three years, wages and salaries of all private nonfarm workers in the nation have gone up 24.0 percent; in the Northeast they rose only 21.2 percent. In the other three regions, increases ranged from 26.4 percent in the West to 23.5 percent in the South.

Bienstock noted that wages and salaries of white collar workers were up 6.7 percent over the years in the Northeast compared to 7.8 percent nationally. For blue collar and service workers, the increase in this region was 7.0 percent compared to 8.2 percent nationwide.

In the manufacturing sector, a 7.1 percent over-the-year increase for the Northeast in September compared with a 7.4 percent advance nationwide. For nonmanufacturing, the Northeast's 6.7 percent increase was notably below the national rise of 8.3 percent.

Casino impact on blacks focus of TV documentary

The forces of change in Atlantic City are beginning to exert tremendous pressure upon the resort's black community, according to a documentary produced by New Jersey Public Television. Titled, "Atlantic City: Passin' the Buck," the program cites the black community's geographic location, casino gambling and the city's "traditional attitude of racism" as factors in bringing about the pressure and claims that promises of help to the poor and disadvantaged apparently are not going to be fulfilled.

The program, produced and directed by Ned White, is scheduled for showing Saturday at 6:30 p.m. It will be repeated Wednesday, Jan. 17, on the state network's UHF channels 23, 50, 52 and 58 at 9:30 p.m. The program focuses on housing, jobs, black businesses and leadership as seen by some members of the black community, from city commissioners to middle-class home owners and to displaced street people.

Black casino dealers are interviewed and asked about alleged racist attitudes of their employer, while the documentary itself reflects a common complaint of blacks in Atlantic City today—politicians and the white business community are reaping "fantastic profits" from the advent of the casino and are passing the buck when it comes to responsibility for the welfare of the people in the resort who supported and worked for casino gambling.

"Atlantic City: Passin' The Buck" was produced as part of a regular NJPTV series titled, "Focal Point and was edited by Arthur Christy.

Symposium set on scoliosis by hospital center

The Hospital Center at Orange, in conjunction with the College of Medicine and Dentistry of New Jersey-New Jersey Medical School, will sponsor a "Total Look Symposium: Scoliosis: Problems and Detection," Saturday, Jan. 20, from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. at its New Jersey Orthopaedic Hospital Unit, 188 South Essex ave., Orange.

The program, designed by Dr. Charles I. Nadel, Robert Weierman and Howard Lowell, members of the state's largest Scoliosis Treatment Center, was developed in an effort to assist New Jersey school districts in implementing Public Law 1978, Chapter 97, requiring all New Jersey school districts to provide annual scoliosis screening programs for children ages 10-18. This law, sponsored by Assemblyman Harold Martin, (D-Bergen), was enacted Aug. 14, 1978.

The day-long symposium for New Jersey educators, school nurses, allied health professionals and physicians will include lecture and slide program, an address by Assemblyman Martin and on-site demonstrations with local school youngsters and the New Jersey Orthopaedic Hospital Staff.

American families with small or grown children, as well as those with teenagers, are welcome to participate in this program.

ASSE is also seeking American students, age 16 and 17, who would like to spend a high school year with a Scandinavian family or participate in a five-week family stay in the summer of 1979.

Families who are interested may also participate by inviting a Scandinavian youngster for a five-week stay in New Jersey.

Persons interested in any of these programs should contact Mrs. Dreier.

GOLF VIEW COMMONS, located near the Woodlake Golf Course in Lakewood, are available for rent starting at $355 monthly. The townhouses offer two to three bedrooms, dens, tiled baths and individual laundry rooms. The project has been developed by Golf View Associates.

Golf View Commons now available to rent

Golf View Associates, these individual developers of Golf View Commons announced the twentieth occupant to move-in to the 71 luxury townhouse apartments under construction in Lakewood.

Situated in a residential location and overlooking the Woodlake Golf Club, these individual home-like townhouse rentals are being made available from just $355.00 monthly, which includes heating.

The occupants of these apartments are marveling over the completeness of these individual townhouses. Two and three bedrooms, an additional den, 1 1/2 and 2 1/2 tiled baths, exceptionally sized rooms, and your own laundry room within the individual apartment makes living in them a delight. The location, highly residential in character, offers the tranquility and privacy of owning your own home without the chores of outside maintenance," said a Golf View Associates spokesman.

Within this small enclave are five luxurious models—some units including balconies and carports. Additionally, refrigerator, dishwasher, parquet floors, individually controlled air conditioning, washer and dryer are just some of the many outstanding features included in the rentals. Golf View Commons can be reached via Garden State Parkway Exit 91 (Lakewood) to Rt. 526, and proceeding to Joe Parker road. Models and rental office, open from 11-5, are on the left. The office is closed Wednesdays.

Sayrebrook preview offers buyer a choice

The Kaplan Organization of Highland Park held a special preview of Sayrebrook, a broad-scale 1000 unit Planned Unit Development (PUD) which eventually will include single-family homes, deluxe townhomes, luxury rental apartments and a large shopping center. The new community on Washington road, near Ernoston road in Sayreville, accommodates "early bird" interest by making a sales counselor and literature available at the site.

The townhome section, which represents the first phase of the project, features eight models, in one and two-story versions. Included will be two and three-bedroom plans, up to 2 1/2 baths, central air conditioning, spacious kitchens, additional dens, formal dining areas, large walk-in closets, large living rooms with optional brick fireplaces, private enclosed patios and large full basements.

The recreational package boasts a "Riviera size" swim pool, tennis play and sunning areas. In addition, adjoining Kennedy Park is a municipal facility complete with lake and additional tennis facilities. The service package includes snow and garbage removal. Ownership is fee-simple with a homeowners association. Kaplan & Sons' previous communities in Sayreville include Oak Tree Village, Oak Tree West and Oak Tree North, considered some of the better single-family-home communities in the township. According to Morris Kaplan, spokesman for the firm, "We are happy to be building again in Sayreville. The Oak Tree section of town represents some of our finest work. We intend to continue that quality tradition at Sayrebrook. Interest in the new community has been intense. We can hardly keep people away from our temporary construction office, so we decided to open this information center a little earlier than planned. We can now show floorplans and take deposits on our first section of townhomes and single families."

The single-family homes, a limited edition of only 16 homes, will include the buyer's choice of virtually any home in the 22-home Kaplan line of designs. Exclusive sales agent is Jacobson, Goldfarb and Tanzman of Perth Amboy.

Much ado about film

It took more than 20 years to bring J.R.R. Tolkien's classic trilogy, "The Lord of the Rings" to the screen. The picture is being held over at the Bellevue Theater, Upper Montclair.

The film rights, held by Walt Disney for 10 years, eventually passed to United Artist in 1968. There, both Stanley Kubrick and John Boorman failed in their attempts to put together a workable screenplay. At that time, Ralph Bakshi, director, who was enjoying the success of his two films, X-rated animated movie, "Fritz the Cat," and the controversial "Heavy Traffic," made annual pilgrimages to United Artists to attempt to convince the company that "The Lord of the Rings" should be an animated film, and that he should be the one to make it.

"Tolkien," said Bakshi, "above all else, asks us to suspend our imagination, to accept the whole physical universe of Middle-earth, its history and its inhabitants."

In 1975, it was agreed that Bakshi should make the film, and he contacted Saul Zaentz, producer. The rest is history. The entire production was completed in less than three years. Oscar winner Leonard Rosenman wrote the original music for the picture.

John Travolta, Olivia Newton-John and Stockard Channing star in "Grease," film musical adapted from one of the longest Broadway musicals on record. The picture is being held over for another week at the Elmora Theater, Elizabeth.

The associate feature is "You Light Up My Life," starring Didi Conn, Joe Silver, Melanie Mayron and Michael Zaslow. The picture was produced, written and directed by Joseph Brooks.

Castle shows Pryor films
Two of Richard Pryor's motion picture hits are the latest attractions at the Castle Theater, Irvington Center. They are "Which Way Is Up?" and "Blue Collar."

"Which Way Is Up?" a film comedy, is a loose adaptation of Lina Wertmuller's "The Seduction of Mimi." Lonette McKee and Margaret Avery also star. Michael Schultz directed the picture.

The Ivy League of Springfield Recreation opened another season of basketball in the Gaudinier boy's gym with Brown, Pennsylvania, Cornell and Princeton victorious Saturday.

Brown beat a tough Columbia squad, 44-37. Columbia led by one at halftime but Brown's Ron Fusco tossed in 10 points in the third quarter and 11 in the fourth. A late fourth-quarter surge was squelched by a blocked shot by Jim Pabst. Ron ended the game with 23 points and five assists. Pabst controlled the boards for Brown with 12 rebounds and added six points. David Cole scored six points and was strong off the boards. Mike McNany played tenacious defense and scored two points. Andrew Karr, Robert Daniels and Peter Sommer each had two points while Bruce Lefkowitz threw in a foul shot. Danny Klein and Bill Cleri aided the team effort. Columbia exhibited a well-rounded scoring attack. Louis Jenkins was the top scorer (eight) and rebounder (10) for his team. Neal Keselica and Andy Rosenthal had seven points each. Michael Berliner had six. Brett Walsh, five and Steven Dietz four points. Brian Lerner and Berliner were

David Kadish, forced to play conservatively because of foul trouble, added three. Eric Eidsman, Dave Zonerach and Mark Baranek had good defensive games. Cornell took the measure of Dartmouth, 44-20, after taking a 20-2 lead, mostly on the efforts of David Johnson. David Gold and Mike Graziano. Johnson finished the game with 20 points, six steals and four assists. Gold chipped in with 12 points. Graziano turned in a super job on defense and scored 10 points. Eric Miguellino had two points and seven rebounds. Matt

Kuperstein and Eric Zara also played well. Victor Gutierrez, the Dartmouth center who played only one quarter, had seven points and 10 rebounds. Carlos Rivera led Dartmouth with nine points, three assists and three steals. Ross Melamed and Mike Nicholson each added two points. Pablo Gutierrez and Nick D'Archille helped out on defense. In a shoot-out between Princeton's Tommy Ard and Kyle Hudgins of Harvard—who had 25 points—Princeton outlasted Harvard, 43-31. Ard had 15 rebounds and a superior floor game. Steve Srednick and Ken Dietz each netted six points; Walter Clarke, Pat Durante and Paul Centamore had two apiece. Billy Markstein gave the Princeton attack a stable floor game. Hudgins had 17 rebounds, a pair of assists and four steals. Danny Spits was impressive at each end of the court and hit for four points; Scott Schneiderman had two. Pete Pelino and Danny Gigantino helped Hudgins off the boards; Anthony Romano had a 'good floor game.

All-stars shine over Dayton Regional faculty

The major league all-stars used a balanced scoring attack to defeat the Dayton Regional High School faculty in the Varsity Club benefit game Monday night.

Coach Jeff Torborg, a Mountainside resident and manager of the Cleveland Indians, led his team under the boards and fed ace performer Willie Wilson of the Kansas City Royals for four slam dunks in the 98-76 rout. Wilson finished with 28 points and blocked four shots. He was an all-sports star at Summit High School.

Paul Blair of the New York Yankees and former Yankee shortstop Gene Michael aided the stars with outside shooting and tough defense. Dell Alston of the Oakland A's and a former Yankee, put in 23 points and led the fast break. Glen Borgmann of the Minnesota Twins contributed 12 points and key rebounding.

The all-stars struck first and never trailed. They outshouted the somewhat fatigued faculty. At halftime the lead was 11 points.

Dayton was paced by sharpshooter Roland Marianni, who tallied 24 points. Angelo Senese led the rebounding for Dayton and bucketed 14 points. Dave Cowden directed the Dayton attack but failed to score. Dave Oliver and Jim Skobo hit key buckets for the faculty and were steady throughout. Rick Iacono came off the bench to contribute to the teachers' game.

The event was sponsored by the Varsity Club and its advisor, Marianni.

Regional's wrestlers subdue West Orange

By MIKE MEIXNER

The Dayton wrestling team eased by West Orange, 37-26, in a Suburban Conference duel after losing, 39-19, to a strong Roselle Park squad earlier in the week. The Bulldog wrestlers, directed by head coach Rick Iacono, Saturday will travel to Millburn to face a team which last year was ranked third in the state.

Don Calabrese again paced the wrestlers as he pinned both his 101-pound opponents to remain unbeaten and untied.

Matt Appicella, after missing weight against Roselle Park, came to earn a pin against West Orange. Dave Cushman, a sophomore, filled in for Appicella and showed promise despite losing.

Dean Pashaian sparked against West Orange, flattening his man in seconds. He also posted a victory at Roselle Park.

Pat Picciotto posted two impressive decision victories at 122 pounds. Ben Scatturro wrestled hard at 129 but failed to win.

Kirk Kubach notched his first pin for the season against West Orange and drew in his other match. Dave Gechlik earned two victories to remain unbeaten.

Although he tied one match and lost the other, sophomore Paul D'Andrea showed great strength. Chris Smith and Ken Bell were unable to gain points.

Rich Cederquist bounced back from a pin against Roselle Park to beat his West Orange foe in the second period at 170 pounds.

Heavyweight Ron Buttmann continues to struggle but will improve.
