Deerfield basketball team ends the season with a 14-0 record

The Deerfield School basketball team has completed an undefeated season with a record of 14-0. The Indians' 14th victory was over Kenilworth, 71-30.

Mountainside amassed the 14 viclories with a tough defense which featured a 2-2-1 full court press as well as zone and man-to-man defenses. A strong offensive effort yielded an average of 60 points per game while holding the opponents to 35 points per game. Many seventh graders were able to gain considerable playing time, a definite asset for next season

Panel calls for hikes in 1979 pool charges

Mountainside Recreation Commission has recommended to the mayor and council an increase in pool membership fees for the 1979 season. The increase, $10 for families and $5 for singles, represents the only fee change in the past three years.

If adopted, the membership fee for resident families would be $130, and $65 for resident singles. Fees for nonresident members also would increase by the same amount. Non-resident singles would be charged $75 and families $150 plus $5 per child. New memberships are charged a $20 initiation fee. The senior citizen fee of state, according to a spokesman. In $20 per person would remain 1978, more than 385 children unchanged under the plan.

In proposing the change, members of the Recreation Commission noted that have increased.

Non-resident memberships increase slightly as a total of 64 families and 15 singles joined the pool. The Mountainside Community Pool is one of the more attractive municipal pools in New Jersey, and is recognized as one of the top diving facilities in the participated in swim and diving lessons, with an additional 115 youngsters involved in the swimming the hard work the students displayed. You don't start in November and have a 14-0 record," comments Coach John Theis. He noted that in addition to faith-Jul practice daily and every Saturday, a core of the starters had practiced together the entire summer. Delaney, Esemplare and Grett scrimmaged three days a week all summer under the direction of Theis at a basketball camp.

"These boys have a lot of ability, but the record indicates their great attitudes and their willingness to work," says the coach. "They depended on teamwork, and over and over again we saw totally unselfish play from all of the team members. Superior Court panel denies Chatam appeal

By BARBARA WALCOFF

Three judges from the Appellate Division of the Superior Court have upheld the Mountainside Borough Council's denial of a variance for the Chatam Realty Company to construct a condominium townhouse complex.

The appellate panel upheld a decision by Superior Court Judge Milton Feller

The Chatam Realty Company went to court after it was denied a variance to construct the condominium complex on Rt. 22 near the corner of New Providence road, a section which was zoned for single-family homes. The area has since been rezoned for office buildings.

John N. Post, borough attorney, said "The findings set forth in the Council resolution which denied this variance were reasonable: that Chatam Realty had not demonstrated a special reason; that Chatam Realty had not demonstrated that its proposed project would promote the general welfare; and that Chatam Realty failed to demonstrate that the grant of the variance would not impair the intent and purpose of our zoning ordinance as it then existed."

The appellate panel said: "After a careful review of the record, we are convinced that the finding of the governing body that plaintiff failed to demonstrate special reasons was not

Boys, faculty meet in benefit

The twelfth annual Deerfield School varsity faculty basketball game is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. Friday, March 2, at the Jonathan Dayton Regional High School in Springfield.

Each year the hotly contested rivalry between students and teachers is sponsored by the Mountainside Teachers Association to raise funds for a scholarship awarded to a Mountainside student going on for higher education. The student is selected by a panel of judges at the high school level.

Traditionally, the game is played at Jonathan Dayton to ensure comfortable seating for the large crowd attracted by this event. This year, public interest should be even higher as the Deerfield student team is undefeated in regular season play.

Tickets will be sold at the gymnasium door from 7 p.m. or may be obtained in advance next week from any Mountainside teacher. Students also can purchase tickets at Deerfield School during the lunch hours. Ticket costs are $2 for adults and $1 for students.

A special half-time show is being planned as an added attraction.

Mountainside is accident-free

Mountainside police reported no accidents within the borough on Monday despite the 12 inches of snow which covered the area.

"The only explanation is that there weren't many cars on the road and everyone who was out was extra cautious," Lt. Joseph Mazur said. "The holiday played an important part in this Borough Engineer Robert Koser said 10 plows were out from 6 a.m. to 8 p.m., clearing all local roads. The roads also were salted, he added. The state and county roads which run through the borough were cleared by late afternoon by the proper agencies, Koser reported.

arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable.

Post reported on the appellate verdict, handed down last month, during a meeting of the Borough Council on Tuesday In other business, the Borough Council extended the deadline to approve the annual municipal budget beyond the Feb. 10 cutoff date required by New Jersey state law. The governing body will try to meet with a representative from Supplee Clooney and Company, the borough auditing firm, some time next week

"I know for a fact that all the work has been done. It's just a matter of sitting down with the auditor," Mayor Thomas Ricciardi said.

Nicholas Bradshaw, chairman of the finance committee, said that a joint discussion is essential because the auditor gets input from county government as well as from the regional and local boards of education.

"If they (council members) have all the facts before them, they have a better chance to get the total overall picture," he said. "It's the first time in five years that we have been forced to come in late."

An increase in pool fees for the upcoming season was intoduced by the council. The new rates, according to Councilman Robert Vigilante, would raise the fee $10 for a family and $5 for a single membership. The new rate schedule would price a family membership for residents at $130; single resident membership, $65; family membership for nonrecidents, $150 plus

$5 per child to a maximum of $170; single nonresident membership, $75, and senior citizen membership, resident and nonresident, $20. New memberships have a $20 initiation fee, but this fee is waived for senior citizens.

The council also extended the privilege until February, 1981, for outside families to secure membership in the Mountainside community pool. In the past, Vigilante reported, approximately 70 families, supplying $10,270 in extra revenue, secured membership at the pool. All outside persons must be recommended by a Mountainside resident before the application will be considered, Vigilante added.

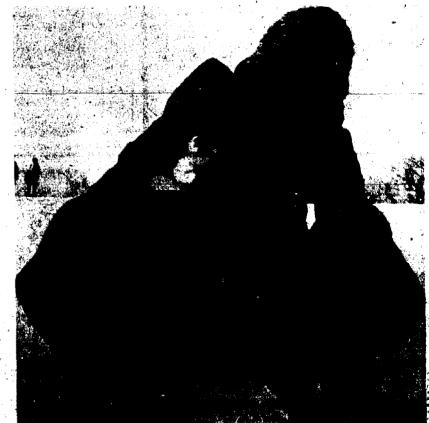

At the request of the state, final approval on a sanitary sewer for High Point drive was tabled. For the first time, Post said, Trenton is taking the position that the project will not be cleared until the borough's capital budget is submitted. Lee Voorhees, deputy borough clerk, said the approval to issue bonds for the work is ready to be given by Trenton, but cannot be issued until the municipal budget is submitted. Councilmen expect to take up this matter at the next regular monthly meeting.

In other business, the week of March 11 through 17 has been declared FISH week, in honor of an organization dedicated to aiding families in time of sickness, transporting crippled and blind persons and organizing blood drives. Council also authorized the advertising of bids for computer services and electrical inspection services.

CLEARING THE WAY - A caravan of state snowplows was already in motion on Rt. 22 at noon on Monday, clearing away the unexpected amount of snow that had already fallen. With snow still-coming down until early afternoon, plows had to make a final late afternoon run down the highway to ensure safe passage for Pick Of The LP's..BACK TO EARTH: by Cat Stevens (A&M SP-4735).

Cat, whose real name is Stephen Demetri Georgiou, lived above his parents' restaurant, "The Moulin Rouge", with his brother, David, and sister, Anita. His mother is Swedish, his father, Cypriot. His youthful dream was to become a painter, and he spent most of his time drawing cartoons (When he was 10 he heard Laurie London's version of "He's Got The Whole World In His Hands," and decided that music was his destiny.

At 15, his nights were spent knocking around Soho, exploring clubs and backstreet bars. His father helped him buy his first guitar.

At 16, he left school and enrolled at Hammersmith Art School. He became intrigued with folk music, and spent his days practicing Leadbelly licks. Dismissed by the art school a year later, he haunted publishing houses and agents, and met Mike Hurst, who fronted his first single, "I Love My An immediate stage Dog," musical based on success in the U.K., the song made him an overnight sensation.

Tragedy struck: he style. (Numbers on the LP include: "Just Another Night," "Daytime," "Bad Breaks," "Randy," "The Artist," "Last Love Song," "Nascimento."

Calcium bags reported stolen

A supply of 100-pound bags of calcium was stolen from the storage building at the center isle church building on Rt. 22, Mountainside police reported.

The New Jersey Highway Department, which stores calcium and some small equipment in the building, reported the loss sometime between 2 p.m. Feb. 14 and 9 a.m. last Thursday, police said. The department said the number of bags taken and the estimated value of the loss had not yet been determined.

Police reports indicated that unknown persons forced open a door located on the west side of the storage house and moved the bags into a vehicle parked near the building.

In another incident, Thomas M. Spring, an employee of Xerox Corp., told police that someone had broken into his van which was parked in the employee lot on Sheffield street. A 23channel CB radio, valued at $40, was taken, police said, between 10 a.m. and 1 p.m. on Thursday.

Lutz said, "The money that is raised by the crusade goes for the service and education of people in Union County. The Union County Unit provides loan closet items and dressings for cancer patients as well as rehabilitative and counseling services for them and their families. Speakers, films and literature on cancer prevention and detection are also available to Union County residents at no charge."

The total goal for this year's Crusade is $260,000. While no residential goal has been set, last year $85,000 was raised in the residential Crusade.

The Crusade is kicked off by the Cancer Society's daffodil days. The Union County Unit has 10,000 daffodils which it will distribute for donations to the American Cancer Society. pledge so the hospital could have what some medical experts have called the most revolutionary innovation in radiology since discovery of X-rays: the so-called CAT Scanor, or computerized axial tomography.

This diagnostic device scans the entire body, revealing abnormalities anywhere without the pain or potential risk sometimes suffered with other methods of detecting disease and often while the disorders are still so slight they can be dealt with far more simply and effectively than later on.

Announcing completion of the $400,000 commitment, the president of the auxiliary, Betty Weisse, expressed special appreciation for the fundraising efforts of some 1,500 Twig members. These women, organized into more than 100 local-area groups, work on Overlook's behalf in several communities including Westfield-Mountainside and Springfield.

"The Twigs have done fabulous work," Mrs. Weisse said. "Last year alone, they raised over $35,000 for the CAT Scan.'

Larger amounts were raised by the additional 700 auxilians who gave time and energy at Overlook by working in the hospital's coffee shop, gift shop, TV service, annual musical review and other activities.

Having successfully completed their commitment to the CAT Scan, the auxiliary directors decided to turn toward an even larger financial promise made a few months ago-a $500,000 pledged to Overlook Hospital Foundation to help launch the $7.5 million campaign for the Center for Community Health, which is to begin rising within the hospital "compound area" later this year. This three-story center will accommodate a range of professional facilities focusing on preserving health, reducing citizens' needs for hospitalization and thereby cutting the cost of health care.

Included in the 106,000-square-foot center will be facilities for outpatient radiology and same-day surgery, a primary care center combining the family practice unit and the hospital's outpatient clinics, and facilities for both public and professional health education.

Since the auxiliary was organized in 1916, women have earned and contributed well in excess of $3 million.

Local families get 386 hours of counseling.

Twenty-two Mountainside Families, requesting assistance from the Youth and Family Counseling Service in Westfield, were helped during 1978.

Milton Faith, executive director of this United Fund member agency, noted that this represents 386 service hours to Mountainside residents.

The independent, non profit organization helped a total of 595 families in eight communities and involved professional staff in 7,726 service hours for the year. In addition to Mountainside, YFCS serves residents of Berkeley Heights, Clark, Cranford, Garwood, Rahway, Scotch Plains, and Westfield.

In the YFCS annual report, Faith noted that people with problems, ranging from marital, parent-child, adolescent conflicts, and adult personality problems, either called the agency themselves or were referred to YFCS by schools, doctors, clergy, relatives, and social agencies.

Knodel lobbies for resolutions

Pat Knodel, representing the Mountainside Board of Education at the New Jersey School Boards Association Delegates meeting reported that she lobbied for and helped get the two Mountainside resolutions passed.

The two resolutions were sponsored originally by Knodel. One takes a stand against the decriminalization of marijuana, and the other supports legislation which would raise the drinking age to 21. Knodel said that an amendment lowering the age limit to 19 was rejected because the feelings of the sponsoring board was that the age should be 21, not 19.

Knodel said that of the 24 recommendations made, 18 were approved.

SOCCER PROGRAM

As a supervisor of the Recreation Department's indoor soccer program, I am concerned about the lack of participation in this weekly event. The soccer activity is open for co-eds from 9 through 12 grades.

Jonathan Dayton fields many soccer players from our community. I cannot understand their absence from this exciting and instructional program.

The problem of non-attendance, coupled with the total neglect of the sport during the off-season, mirrors the school's poor performance in varsity soccer in recent years.

Usually the athletes blame the coaching staff for the team's failure. I, however, am seeing a trend where the player's love, motivation and dedication for the game is in question.

Indoor soccer instills such skills as trapping, dribbling, passing, shooting. These skills are necessary if one is to excel in the game.

It saddens me that an athletic activity in a congenial setting, supervised by an experienced coach, should go begging for participants. It ir ks me that we do not have the kind of soccer players who would want to "dedicate" two hours per week to the garne. Unless this attitude changes. I see the following on the high school soccer scene: Gov. Livingston will keep its supremacy with the help of Mountainside talent who "paid their dues" to the game, Jonathan Dayton on the other hand will keep looking to "next year" by early October.

White-collar crime, the invisible crime that rips off the public at large, is responsible for losses of at least $44 billion annually or 11 times the amount lost by victims of burglaries, robberies, arson and similar street crimes.

This is the opinion of Dr. Richard F. Sparks, professor at the School of Criminal Justice at Rutgers-Newark, who testified at recent hearings of the Subcommittee on Crime of the U.S. House of Representatives held at the Newark school.

Sparks has served as a consultant to various state and national groups concerned with crime and law enforcement and, four years ago, wrote a report on white-collar crime for the United Nations.

White-collar crime, or crime as business, as he calls it, includes electoral fraud, tax evasion, price-fixing, unfair labor practices, industrial pollution and general corporate fraud

"It's difficult to set an exact figure," Sparks said, describing the $44-billion estimate for the United States as conservative "because there are no hard statistics available."

This is because of the invisibility of white-collar crime and its accompanying lack of individual victims,

"We are all victims," he said. "White-collar crime in the public sector results in higher taxes and lowered levels of public service, but in the private sector the public also pays in terms of higher prices, polluted environment, dangerous products and defrauded shareholders.'

He cited two examples of crime in the public sector-Watergate in the 1970s and the corruption in Newark municipal government during the 1960s that resulted in the conviction of former Mayor Hugh A. Addonizio.

"When things go wrong in the public sector," he said, "They are usually well-aired in the press. This is not so true in the private sector."

He pointed to the Equity Funding case of the 1960s, which he described as "the biggest fraud in history" but which, he indicated, received considerably less public notoriety than it deserved.

The case involved the loss of hundreds of millions of dollars when phony insurance policies were issued in order to drive up the price of an insurance company's stock.

As a first step toward remedying the present laissez-faire attitude toward white-collar crime, Sparks recommends more detailed research into the situations that foster it.

Hard facts about white-collar crimes can best be collected by concentrating on particular industries or groups of industries, he suggests, then proceeding on a case-by-case basis to understand the situations that give rise to illegal behavior by business people and, finally, examining possible remedies in light of the actual situations.

"Funding for this type of research might come from the Department of Justice or from the Department of Health, Education and Welfare or, perhaps, from the Securities and Exchange Commission," he said.

One of the big problems in surveying white-collar crime, according to Sparks, is that criminologists are not business people and do not have the business background necessary for that type of investigation. He, therefore, suggests the use of interdisciplinary teams including bankers, insurance people, accountants and representatives of various industries such as the drug and automotive industries.

He believes that such teams could do a more thorough job of surveying crimes than criminologists alone could. International bribery is one whiteyears was so thoroughly investigated that a new federal law was passed to prohibit U.S. business firms from engaging in it.

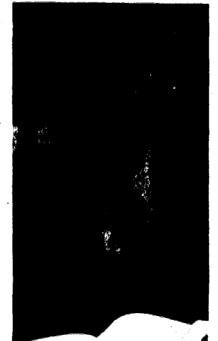

When the Lockheed Aircraft Corp. paid Japanese officials under the table in return for aircraft contracts, the story was widely covered in the press and resulted in the 1978 prohibition of such payments.

"Although the new law makes it clearly illegal to pay an official of a foreign country in order to obtain a contract, the enforcement of the law needs to be studied," Sparks said. "It is a natural tendency for businesamen to want to make a profit. Does this law work a hardship on business? Does the law, in effect, make a criminal out of the victim? Perhaps it is the corporation which is being victimized by foreign officials rather than the other way around. The entire matter needs

A big problem in tracking down white-collar crime in the United States is that the laws covering it are not found in any one place, Sparks continued.

"They are scattered throughout regulations covering taxes, pollution, labor, price-fixing, antitrust and so forth," he said. "We have one statute on the law of murder, but, to find laws on white-collar crime, we must chase through literally thousands of pieces of legislation.'

He suggested, also, that law enforcement people often become so fascinated with details of one big case that they forget the overall picture. They tend to become experts in one particular type of fraud and forget about all the other kinds.

CRIME DOESN'T PAY?-Dr. Richard F. Sparks, a professor in the School of Criminal Justice at Rutgers University in Newark, says white-collar crime has ripped off the public for staggering sums annually.

In wood, there is folk art such as 19th century, hand-carved fish, and early American whirligigs from the objects, furniture and household objects which Rocky collected from old New England farmhouses during his senior year at Dartmouth College.

Employment up by 91,000 jobs in metro area

Payroll employment in the 18 county New York-Northeastern New Jersey area rose by 91,000 between December 1977 and December 1978, to 6,540,000, it was reported by Herbert Bienstock, regional commissioner of labor statistics who directs the Bureau of Labor Statistics' Middle Atlantic Region. The jobless rate for the area at the close of 1978 was 6.8 percent, down from 8.1 percent in the prior year.

The December 1978 over the year rise of 91,000 in areawide employment compared with an increase of 122,000 in the preceding year. Between December 1975 and December 1976 the increase had been 16,000, reversing a three-year decline that had seen the area job total drop by 384,000.

More than a fourth of the December 1977 to December 1978 areawide rise was in New York City where payroll employment was up by 25,000 to 3,227,000. Bienstock said that the December 1978 over the year rise for the city followed no change a year earlier and declines totaling 641,000 in the preceding seven years. In the rest of the area outside the city, the job total rose for the third consecutive year. Bienstock pointed out, however, that the 66,000 December 1977 to December 1978 rise was sharply below a 122,000 rise for the prior year.

The number of unemployed New York-Northeastern New Jersey residents dropped below the 500,000 mark in December 1978, falling 1,000 over the year to 495,000. Bie stock pointed out that most of the December 1977 to December 1978 decline in the number of unemployed occurred in New York City. The number of jobless city residents dropped by 65,000 to 239,000 and the jobless rate declined 2 percentage points from 10.0 percent to 8.0 percent.

Bienstock pointed out that the unadjusted national jobless rate went from 5.5 percent to 5.6 between November and December. After adjustment for seasonal patterns, the national unemployment rate went from 5.8 percent to 5.9 percent. Seasonally adjusted data are not currently available on a local basis.

Thursday, February 22, 1979 Westinghouse grant supports NJIT program

New Jersey Institute of Technology has received a $10,000 grant from Westinghouse Educational Foundation in support of an educational expansion program titled "The Introduction of Microprocessors into the Engineering Curriculum."

Presentation of the grant was made to Dr. Saul K. Fenster, president of the institute, by Edward P. Gregory, district manager, power systems, Westinghouse Electric Corp., Hillside.

The sponsored program will be conducted under the guidance of Dr. Joseph J. Strano, chairman of NJIT's electrical engineering department, during the 1978-79 and 1979-80 academic years.

The institute will use a large number of its engineering faculty to determine appropriate hardware-software capabilities as a critical part of incorporating microprocessor applications into its engineering curriculums.

A spokesman said, "Microprocessing is a relatively new advance in computer-related activity. microprocessor device is basically a reduction of an entire digital computer onto one integrated circuit chip. The small size and low cost has opened up the use of these instruments in many new areas. When combined with support hardware, memory and other facilities, the microprocessor becomes a microcomputer, making the package an ideal means of small-scale, realtime monitoring as well as providing control applications.'

The largest exposition of its kind in the area, the 13th annual Flower and Garden Show will pay its traditional salute to spring beginning Saturday, March 3, through March 11 at the Morristown Armory.

According to I. K. Christensen of Wood-Ridge, president of the show, this year's show promises to be most exciting and inspiring ever, with many exhibitors interpreting the many diverse avenues from which home gardeners can choose.

'This year's show will demonstrate how amateur and professional enthusiasis can create a garden to reflect and complement their own particular lifestyle," he explained.

"The home gardener will find a multitude of ideas to adapt to his own backyard whether he lives in a country home, a suburban townhouse or an urban condominium.

"Because the show is held early in March, the visitor can get an early jump on the season, sort out his ideas and plans before its actually time to turn the first spade."

Christensen sees this show as more spectacular than even "with more magnificent garden displays and more
