County 'stands firm' on order to board

By BARBARA WALCOFF

The office of the Union County superintendent of education this week reiterated its strong opposition to a reduction of special services to children in the Mountainside schools, as proposed by the local Board of Education in its 1978-79 budget, which will go before the voters on Tuesday.

The criticism came in the form of a letter received at the board offices on Wednesday. Scott Schmedel, board president, refused to discuss the letter, or to reveal its contents, until the board can meet next week to discuss its recommendations.

The text of the letter was released later in the day by Dr. Elena J. Scambio, first program coordinator for James J. Clancy, county superintendent. She acted at the direction of Dr. Ralph Lataille, state deputy commissioner of education.

The letter, which was signed by Scambio, said that the county office "finds no supportive data for a curtailment of special services in your district."

It noted that a recent report by a special consultant to the local board had called for: "a refinement of the identification process; an increase in parental communications; greater efficiency in the identification, evaluation, classification and placement of handicapped children."

The county letter continued, "Predicted upon these identified needs, there is a clear indication for the development of a management mechanism which translates into an effective and efficient service delivery system. The establishment and implementation of such requires a short and long-range planning process. At this time, any limitation or reduction in services would, undoubtedly, negate your efforts in this regard."

"Therefore, in light of our findings, as shared with you...our order stands firm." That order directs the Mountainside board to restore $17,000 to the child study team appropriations.

"I can't see scheduling a meeting this week. We've got two board members out of town. Whatever the letter says, it has no effect on the budget to be voted Tuesday," Schmedel said. A private session of the local board is set for Monday and a public work meeting is scheduled for Tuesday.

After receiving two letters from the county office, one requesting a revaluation of $40,000 in budget cuts and one ordering the restoration of funds to the child study team budget, the Mountainside board provided Scambio with a copy of Dr. Rita Fass' report on the child study team. This report, board members said, helped to give guidance and justification for the cuts which were termed personnel changes, not cuts in service.

Library Week programs listed; residents are urged to explore

Noting that April 1 through 7, is National Library Week, the Free Public Library of Mountainside has invited all local residents to explore its services, including framed art reproductions, a music lounge and pre-school story hours. The library's newest service is a circulating collection of cassettes and cassette players featuring "Books on Tape," full-length recordings of current book selections.

Two travelogues will be shown Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. in the Emma Weber meeting room. "Africa: the New Day" explores the land and people of that continent. "Dublin" tells the history of the city including the Easter Rising and the story of Molly Malone.

The children's department is having a "drop-in" craft program during Library Week every weekday afternoon from 3 to 5:30. Supplies will be available for the children to create their own "thumb-print art." The children's department now also has available a bibliography of books of interest to 2 and 3 year-olds and their parents.

MEMORIAL AND gift books will be on display at the Free Public Library of Mountainside from today through next Thursday, April 5.

Seven gift books have been donated by the Mountainside Woman's Club for 1978. "Dress and Society 1560-1970" by Geoffrey Squire is a study devoted to art, costume and history. The Culinary Arts Institute offers "Parties, for All Seasons."

"Masterpieces of Primitive Art" by Douglas Newton helps the reader share Nelson A. Rockefeller's collection, while Udo Kullermann's revised and updated edition of "The New Painting" explores the reality of contemporary culture.

With almost 500 color photographs, "Stained Glass" by Lawrence Lee and others, is the first comprehensive guide to the world's finest windows.

The "Best Years Catalogue" by Leonard Biegel is a basic source book that blends entertainment and information about the problems, pleasures and potential of growing older. Jeff Greenfield's "Television: The First Fifty Years" recalls early TV days without neglecting today's hit shows and stars.

The American Home Department of the Mountainside Woman's Club has presented Anita Prichard's "Complete Candy Cookbook" to the library, which uses old family recipes adapted for the modern kitchen.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Suski have placed two books in the library in memory of Mrs. Frances Halle. "Flower Painting" by Robin Gibson contains 48 color plates. Gibson is concise and informative in his essay and notes to the plates. "Decorating with Plants" by Oliver E. Allen will help the reader brighten his home, both indoors and out. The book also contains an encyclopedia of decorative plant materials.

The American Association of University Women has given "TV Guide: The First 25 Years," Jay Harris, editor, in memory of Bruce Fraser Draper, son of AAUW member Cynthia C. Blair.

Dayton juniors learn life-saving techniques

Jonathan Dayton Regional High School students are being given an opportunity to receive Heart Saver and Basic Rescuer certification by the Union County Chapter of the American Heart Association. These students, in their junior year, are participating in a 12-hour course in cardiopulmonary resuscitation (CPR), offered for the first time in the Regional High School District.

Gerald Rettenberg, health teacher at Jonathan Dayton Regional High School, initiated the program last May and Charles Berchen, director of health, physical education, driver education and athletics, gathered interested health teachers at the high school to participate in a 20-hour course in CPR instruction, given by the Union County Chapter of the American Heart Association. Rettenberg, along with Jonathan Dayton teachers Christine Comercl and Gail Wedemeyer, completed the course in January. They are now teaching these important skills to 24 high school juniors.

The course seeks to prepare students in basic life support for cardiac arrest, poisoning, drowning, suffocation, choking and electrocution victims. Basic life support involves learning techniques in clearing obstructed airways, giving mouth-to-mouth resuscitation and cardiac compression in conscious and unconscious victims. Students will also become familiar with the anatomy of the cardio-vascular and respiratory systems, methods in prevention of heart attacks and cardio-vascular disease and infant rescue techniques.

Student response to the course has been positive and enthusiastic, a spokesman said. Jonathan Dayton student Stuart Gelwag feels, "The

Curtain rises at Dayton for 'Music Man'

Tonight at 7:30, Saturday at 8 and Sunday at 3 p.m. Jonathan Dayton High School will present Meredith Willson's "The Music Man."

Three teachers are advising and directing the show—Albert Dorhout, Carol Forsman and Linda Duke. All acting was directed by Mrs. Forsman who was assisted by her husband Dale Forsman. Mrs. Forsman also has choreographed the show with a student, Gail Hettenbach. Dorhout, the conductor, has rehearsed and instructed the cast on the musical numbers. His musical direction is shared with a member of the cast, Hillary Watter.

Three others who have pulled the show together are Duke, Barbara Bongiovanni and Eric Harvitt. Duke has organized all committees, costumes and is advising on the stage during rehearsals and performances about sets, props and other technical aspects. Bongiovanni has been a general assistant around the show. She arranges rehearsal schedules, advises committees and anything that no one else has done. Harvitt has constructed and directed the building of scenery and sets in the musical.

The chorus has two or three rehearsals each week for approximately three hours each. The leads have four or five rehearsals each week of the same length. Together, there are about 70 students working on production in the cast, doing make-up, constructing sets, painting sets, selling tickets, publicity, or drawing up the program. Tickets are available at the door for $3.

Letters to the Editor

'STRONG EXCEPTION'
As an Italo-American, I want to take very strong exception to the description of a "sought gunman" on page 3 of the Mountainside Echo-issue of March 22.

Part of the description stated the sought gunman may be Italian. If the Mountainside police can say the gunman sought could possibly be Italian, from the picture in your paper, I think the Mountainside police ought to refrain from giving descriptions of suspects.

I've known many Italians and if I were to describe the man in the picture, I would say he could be of almost any origin, except Oriental.

I trust the comment wasn't meant indirectly to stir Italians and will give the department the benefit of dispensing a poor description.

AVERAGE EDUCATION
Our family moved to Mountainside primarily to assure our children of a superior public school education.

Over the past several years, we have campaigned for school board candidates who we believed shared our concerns and goals, only to find them voting against the very programs we support so enthusiastically and often ignoring the voices of the voters who elected them.

Let us all carefully choose our school board members and be sure they are working on behalf of the children and the voters—not in opposition to them. We find it difficult to comprehend that a saving of less than $12 on our yearly taxes is more important to the people than the benefits our children are being deprived of.

Our Board of Education can be satisfied with "average educational guidelines," but can the voters who elected them settle for this?

TIME FOR A CHANGE
I was delighted to see Carl Marinelli's name entered as a candidate for this year's school board. I know Carl to be a concerned parent who cares about the quality of education in Mountainside schools.

Currently involved in long-range planning and development in the business world, this former teacher is a person who knows the importance of maintaining a high standard of education, while keeping an eye on expenses. He is a bright, articulate person whose open mindedness and common sense approach would be a welcomed change.

We need a person like Carl Marinelli someone who will work with us and for our kids.

If you are as frustrated with the current board as I am, you'll have an opportunity to change things now by voting position 4 on the ballot Tuesday.

I really believe Carl cares about Mountainside and it's schools.

Mr. Thompson; was executive

Robert Wallace Thompson, 66, of Mountainside died Sunday in Overlook Hospital, Summit. Interment in New Sharon, Me., was private.

Born in Rahway; Mr. Thompson resided in Westfield for 21 years before moving to Mountainside 13 years ago. He was an executive for Steel and Alloy Tank Co., Newark, for the past 36 years. Mr. Thompson was graduated from Newark College of Engineering. He was a member of Our Lady of Lourdes Roman Catholic Church, Mountainside.

Surviving are his wife, Cecelia Margaret Thompson of New Sharon; two daughters, Mrs. Judd Kinley of Scottsdale, Ariz. and Mrs. Richard Ellis of Columbus, Md.; and 15 grandchildren.

Mullin also said that no dog, licensed or not, is permitted to leave the owner's property unless securely held by a leash.

Marinelli finds board actions lacking reason

Carl Marinelli, candidate for the Mountainside school board, continued his campaign with four additional get-togethers this past week. Marinelli said, "Recent decisions on the part of the board appear to be arbitrary and capricious. The elimination of the midwinter vacation, more importantly the reasons for its elimination, has potentially set teacher-board relations back. The decision is irresponsible and shows a total disregard for the needs of parents, children, and teachers. As a matter of fact, the decision depicts a lack of awareness for the needs of the children."

Marinelli added, "Our board's budgetary policies in light of rampant inflation and decreasing caps are fiscally unsound. We are being led to the point where there will be no choice left in attaining our educational objectives."

"The board's inability to communicate with the community has led to a total loss of confidence in the Board of Education. Cuts are being made and no supportive information is provided to the community to justify them. The board must accept the fact that people have the right to be heard. People want answers to questions."

Marinelli continued to urge local residents to participate in this year's election to be held at Deerfield School on Tuesday.

IN CONGRESS

Matthew Rinaldo

12th District

President Carter's promise of "bold, new steps" to deal with the energy shortage comes none too soon for most Americans. The energy conservation program that the administration had counted on to reduce oil imports is not working.

In New Jersey, for instance, gasoline consumption increased by 44 million gallons last year. It has gone up one per cent for three consecutive years.

Out of 1,725 solar energy grants available to New Jersey homeowners last year, only 400 have been used. Only Florida has been able to distribute all its grants to install solar energy units. Other sunbelt states have lagged far behind expectations.

The Department of Energy recently reported that U.S. demand for oil surpassed 21 million barrels a day for the first time ever. Inventories have fallen by 1.6 million barrels a day since the beginning of the year.

A special committee reported to the President two weeks ago that it still has not resolved the problems of safe nuclear waste disposal. But three years earlier, the Joint Committee on Atomic Energy was assured that it is scientifically and technically feasible to manage commercial radioactive wastes in a safe manner.

The lack of progress in nuclear waste disposal is particularly distressing. It makes it virtually certain that 30 nuclear units planned for addition in the next three years will not be available on schedule. They have the potential to generate enough energy to replace all the Iranian crude oil the United States was purchasing.

Moreover, the action by the Nuclear Regulatory Commission (NRC) in shutting down five nuclear generating plants in the East because of a computer error in predicting the effects of an earthquake on their piping systems means that the U.S. must increase its oil imports by another 100,000 barrels a day.

The President's promise to reach a decision on deregulating oil prices will not answer the underlying problem of developing alternate sources of energy. In fact, the immediate end of oil price controls on June 1 would cost consumers upwards of $14 billion more, according to a study by the House Energy and Power subcommittee.

Shortly before the President announced his energy summit meeting at Camp David—which oddly enough did not include representatives of the private sector who control our energy production—I submitted an eight-point list of recommendations to the President. It followed my sponsorship of a House resolution urging the President to produce an emergency energy program within 90 days.

Nothing short of strong and sustained presidential leadership will inspire the federal agencies and the energy-producing companies to work together, I told the President.

DiFrancesco receives GOP endorsement

Assemblyman Donald T. DiFrancesco, a 34-year-old Scotch Plains attorney, received the endorsement of a GOP "mini-convention," held Saturday in Springfield, to carry the Republican party organization's backing in the June primary for the vacated state senate seat in the 22nd District.

Peter McDonough of Plainfield, a Republican, quit the senate seat last winter to avoid conflict of interest after he purchased a public-relations firm. McDonough's unexpired term ends in January of 1981.

The delegates at Saturday's gathering backed DiFrancesco, 240-124, over Assemblyman William Maguire, 62, of Clark. Maguire will seek reelection to his seat with running mate Robert Franks, 27, of Berkeley Heights, who was selected for the other assembly position after three ballots.

Most of DiFrancesco's support at the "mini-convention" came from his home town, Berkeley Heights, Springfield, Mountainside, Kenilworth and Chatham. Maguire's backing appeared strongest in Clark and Rahway, with both candidates running neck and neck in Plainfield and Fanwood.

Delegates from 10 district municipalities—nine in Union County and Chatham in Morris County—met at the Forge II restaurant in Springfield after a suggestion from Union County GOP chairman Alfonso Pisano.

DiFrancesco's probable Democratic opposition in the general election will be Livio Mancino, Kenilworth's mayor, or Freeholder Joanne Rajoppi of Springfield, who will face each other in the June primary. Rajoppi already has been endorsed by the Democratic screening committee.

PROPOSED ORDINANCE NO. 546-77 AMENDING ORDINANCE NO. 546-77 FIXING SALARIES FOR THE MEMBERS OF THE POLICE DEPARTMENT OF THE BOROUGH OF MOUNTAINSIDE.

County 'stands firm' on order to board

Following last Thursday night's emergency session between board members and three representatives from the county superintendent's office, said that she would review the report and get back to the board. "Upon a review of the Fass report, we will make a determination on whether the plan in the report appears to be adequate. Had we possessed the report, our decision may have been different."

The second letter, dated March 21, was sent out on instructions from Ralph Laballe, the state deputy commissioner of education.

It read, "Predicated upon a review of our records, relative to Thorough and Efficient monitoring, the county office has serious concerns about your ability to provide adequate services for handicapped children in your district. Therefore, the office of the county superintendent is ordering you to restore $17,000 for child study team services which have been cut, inclusive of speech correction and that amount is to be taken either from free appropriation balances or by re-allocating resources within your proposed 1979-80 spending plan. In no way shall this be construed as permission to increase your proposed tax levy."

The county superintendent, who must approve all budgets adopted by local school boards for compliance with the T and E education law, had approved an earlier budget but refused certification after the board cut $60,000.

Scambio appeared before an overflow crowd of at least 50 parents, teachers and interested citizens who attended the emergency board meeting. During this "informational session," Scambio outlined the basis for the superintendent's order and board members explained the reasons for the budget cuts.

Scambio said that after the initial letter of March 15, the county superintendent's office received many phone calls from citizens and from this newspaper, but got no response from the board. After a review of documents in the county office, she said that they found that a backlog existed and that 34 child study team evaluations were due—dating back two months.

During November, records indicated that nine youngsters had been evaluated by the child study team, she said.

Based on present staffing and a projection that no new referrals are forthcoming, as well as state regulations, Scambio concluded, "A reduction in the child study team services would hinder the services being given to handicapped children in this district." At a rate of nine evaluations per month, the team would just be able to finish the necessary work by the end of the year, Scambio said, provided no new referrals are added.

The cuts, as reflected on paper, show a reduction in the speech therapist position, psychologist position and the psychiatric consultant, while the learning disabilities teacher would go from part time to full time.

"This does not represent any loss in time," board member Pat Knodel said. "It is just a change in personnel."

The school psychologist, now employed part time as a psychologist and part time as the director of the child study team, is a full-time employee. Gwendolyn McCarthy, now in that position, is leaving the Mountainside school system at the end of this academic year.

The parttime position of psychologist will remain a three-day-a-week job and will be filled by a person with less seniority than McCarthy, which will result in a lower salary. The administrative duties held by McCarthy would probably be given to Kay Fracher now employed by the board as a parttime learning disabilities instructor. Fracher would then be a full-time employee—three days per week as a learning disabilities teacher and two days each week allowed for the administrative duties of the director of school personnel services. This would account for the reduction in funds for the school psychologist and the increase in learning disabilities.

"It is a transfer of administrative responsibilities to the learning disabilities consultant," Schmedel, said. "The two jobs do remain the same."

These decisions were made, board members said, on the basis of a report done by Dr. Fass—a report which the board has accepted but has not yet made public.

Dr. Arthur Williams added, "There are two factors. It will bring us into closer alignment with what is actually spent and it is also based on a declining enrollment."

Regarding a projected reduction in library services, Scambio said, "We used the New Jersey Blueprint for Media which sets a minimum of one librarian for every 500 students. We did not direct you, but recommended that you reconsider your decision."

The audience responded with applause and cheers when Lewis Mishkin said, "This board is always looking for 'how can we get away the minimum?' I have never heard what is the best we can do for the kids."

Another parent, Tom Knierim was applauded by the standing-room-only crowd when he asked the board to maintain the high quality present in the system when he moved into the borough 17 years ago. "We were advised that this was one of the finest school systems. We've been very happy with the system. I would like to see us provide a proper education for not only my children, but for all other children in the state."

Steven Rose said, "We've concerned about a decrease in services. We may have this drastic decline because Mountainside no longer attracts people who are looking for a Class One education."

Scambio, quoting from the second letter, said that the county superintendent has asked for a re-allocation of resources, not an increase in the tax levy. One way is to come up with a program plan that will not cost a penny more. "The extra money to be restored to the budget will either come from the so-called surplus funds or from other line items within the budget. The surplus funds are free appropriation balances (savings accounts) which the board may use for any unforeseen need. The total in this account is estimated to stand at $176,942 in June. The board expects this total to drop to $76,942 in June, 1980.

Schmedel said, "We cannot juggle amounts around. It would be unwise to take more from our surplus. I think that if we should spend more money, then we should raise more money."

Raymond O'Brian, board attorney, said that this would have no effect on the budget vote and no effect on the elections of board members on Tuesday.

Scambio said that the election will proceed as usual. In case a disagreement still exists, there are several challenges that can be made:

The county superintendent can challenge the amount appropriated in the budget, or any citizen may petition the state commissioner of education or the State Board of Education. If dissatisfied, a petitioner can take the appeal to court.

The Board of Education can also choose to challenge the county superintendent's decision.

If the budget is defeated at the polls, John Post, borough attorney, said, the Borough Council can legally increase the amount appropriated by the board of education for the budget. They also may leave the amount the same or decrease the figure. Post said that he knows of no time that a council has increased a board of education budget.

The last budget approved by voters was in 1976 when the 1976-77 budget was voted in. The last time the budget amount dropped was for the 1977-78 budget which was $1,659,175 as compared to 1976-77's $1,685,357.

Barre assails board budget: 'embarrassing'

"It is a shame that the Mountainside Board of Education has placed itself and the whole borough of Mountainside in the present embarrassing position in regard to our school budget," Bart A. Barre, a candidate for the Mountainside School board said this week.

"By cutting the tentative 1979-80 school budget further without providing and communicating justification, backup documentation, or plans for implementation of programs affected by these cuts, the Board of Education has forced the county superintendent of Schools to become directly involved in our local school system."

"I am a strong advocate of local control. We should know best how to operate our local affairs—but to retain local control, we must demonstrate competence and fiscal responsibility in matters affecting the children. While the board may have acted with good intentions, some members have apparently lost sight of the difference between what they would like to do and what they have the authority and responsibility to do as Board of Education members."

"If creating the present type of difficult and embarrassing situation is indicative of the experience and ability quoted by present board members as candidates for re-election, then it is time for a change, for new people on the Board—before our school system suffers. If the Mountainside citizens want improved management of the school system and their tax dollars, and are interested in effective accurate communications between the Board of Education and every resident of Mountainside, they must vote April 3 to elect new people to the Board."

insight to trends, issues and needs of the people in town," he said.

Hart was recently invited by the commissioner to attend the Executive Academy, a three-day workshop with State Education Commissioner Fred Burke and his staff about current educational concerns, general structure and function of the State Department of Education, and the rules governing "thorough and efficient" education in the state.

"An issue we must live with is state-mandated limitation on spending known as budget caps. The fact that the present budget has been prepared below cap limitations, in a period of high inflation, yet continues the strong educational program, is a compliment to both board and administration. I urge all voters to support this budget."

Hart pointed out some of the problems facing the high school in the next few years including minimum graduation requirements, declining enrollments, fewer school parents, loss of staff and programs, and balancing the budget while maintaining stable real estate values. Careful planning will be required and vital so balance in program, resources and personnel is maintained in a school system which enjoys a quality program for its students.

Community activities Hart has been involved in include service with the Little League, Boy Scouts, Kiwanis, Recreation Commission, Jonathan Dayton Choral Parents' Society, local and high school PTAs, and Mountainside Music Association.

Each of his children graduated from the Regional system—two from Gov. Livingston and one from Jonathan Dayton. Michael is married and a third year dental student at Columbia University. Ellen graduated from Ohio Wesleyan University and is in management training near Columbus. Alison is an English major at Gettysburg College. His wife, Marilyn, a college professor at Kean and Rutgers, holds a doctorate in urban anthropology. She is finishing her term as Mountainside representative to the Regional school board.

Joy Jartman had a strong motive for taking the course. A tragic swimming accident where a young girl died while friends stood by helpless to save her, caused Joy to say, "I want to be prepared. The course is so worthwhile, I think everyone should have to take it." Battenberg responded, that eventually the course will be required for all juniors.

The regional district has made plans in its 1979-1980 proposed budget to purchase CPR equipment for the regional high schools in Berkeley Heights, Clark and Kentworth. A CPR course currently is offered through the Union County Regional Adult Schools in Springfield and Clark.

Elizabethtown gets increase

The New Jersey Board of Public Utilities at a public meeting held last Thursday granted Elizabethtown Gas interim rate relief of $5 million to meet increased operating costs. The company had originally requested an interim increase of $6.1 million.

The interim relief is part of an overall request for a $16.6 million increase filed last Sept. 1, on which hearings are still underway, Elizabethtown said.

Joseph P. Coughlin, treasurer of Elizabethtown Gas, said that more than half of the $5 million increase would go to pay various federal, state and municipal taxes.

The effective date of the increase and how it is to be allocated will be determined by the BPU. "Until we receive the board's official order we do not know what the impact will be on our different customer categories," Coughlin said.

Rinaldo will choose senior citizen intern

WASHINGTON, D.C.—Senior citizens in Union County are being given an opportunity to be considered for a two-week volunteer internship on the Washington staff of Congressman Matthew J. Rinaldo (R-N.J.).

Rinaldo said this week that the Washington experience is being offered through a senior citizen intern program in which his office will participate from May 7 to May 18. This is the third successive year that Rinaldo's office has participated in the program. The intern chosen last year was Mrs. Veronica Kane of Elizabeth.

Rinaldo said a committee representing senior citizen organizations in the 12th Congressional District will review applications and select the senior citizen to take part in the program. The Union County Congressman, who is a member of the House Select Committee on Aging, said anyone aged 65 and over who lives in the 12th District can apply. The 12th District comprises all of Union County, except Hillside, Linden and Winfield.

Applications should be in the form of a one-page letter to the Rinaldo Senior Citizen Intern Program, 1961 Morris ave. Union 07083. The letter should include brief background information about the applicant and living expenses. Applicants will participate in congressional briefings, attend congressional committee hearings, review legislation affecting elderly Americans, and work with Rinaldo's staff on matters relating to senior citizens.

For the Birds

By Ferris Swackhammer

When man first began to write, when he first fought from horseback and when the bow was his weapon, a falcon first rode on his wrist. Excavation of the fabulous palace of Sargon II, who ruled Assyria from 722 to 705 B.C., uncovered evidence of early falconry. No doubt the bird depicted on the ruins was a subspecies, Falco peregrinus babylonicus, in the same family that is getting a new life in the United States.

The female peregrine is properly called the falcon. The male, one third smaller than his mate, is the tiercel. If the hawk is taken from the nest when fully fledged but still flightless, it's known as an eyas. After they're captured and until they're ready to be trained, eyases are said to be "at hack." While being hacked the birds are fed on fresh meat tied to a board or block, always in the same place.

In late August, 1965, Joseph J. Hickey of the University of Wisconsin in Madison hosted a world wide conference on the peregrine falcon. He commented, "During the years 1950 to 1965, a population crash of nesting peregrine falcons occurred in parts of Europe and North America on a scale that made it one of the most remarkable events in environmental biology." During the conference a number of reasons were advanced for the decline. However, the principle cause appeared to be the widespread presence of chlorinated hydrocarbon insecticides in the falcon's prey.

When the use of these chemicals was restricted, the time seemed ripe to attempt to reintroduce peregrine falcons into areas where they once bred. In 1970, Cornell's "The Peregrine Fund," under the direction of Tom J. Cade, began a long term program of research to learn how to propagate peregrines and other rare falcons in captivity.

From 1974 through 1978, 154 peregrines have been introduced into the east by hacking. Last year alone, Jack Barclay supervised the release of 53 young peregrines at 11 sites in six eastern states.

The most exciting news concerning this project comes from the coastal salt marsh tower on Sedge Island. This site is less than five miles from Seaside Park and Barnegat Light. Here one of the released tierrels has been in residence since 1975.

During a storm last spring, Barclay and his assistants brought a new brood of five nestling falcons to the hacking box. The tiercel almost immediately began providing some food for them. For 10 days, until their release, Barclay's people had to supply only half their needed sustenance. Some time later a female that had been released at Sedge Island in 1977 arrived on the scene. The two adults gradually developed a pair bond and were seen displaying in the hack-box site and established a new territory.

Star gazer computer to guide observatory

A mini-computer will soon point the way to the stars at Union College's Sperry Observatory.

A project of Amateur Astronomers, Inc., the new microprocessor will control the pointings of the large telescopes housed in the observatory's twin domes. AAI jointly operates Sperry Observatory with the college.

George Chaplenko of Edison, AAI president, says the new computational system will perform several operations to help the observatory keep pace with the times. It will compute sidereal time—the position of the earth with respect to the vernal equinox (the position of the sun on the first day of spring). It also will identify the position of asteroids, planets and comets from orbital elements, compute the position of the moon or the sun, and allow astronomers to reduce observations into a standard form which will be useful to other observatories.

The nine members of the group, working together on the project, are nearing completion of the system that will bring a new sophistication to their telescopic viewing. To date, they have built a typewriter terminal to be used in conjunction with the large computer at Rutgers University. Through this connection, which utilizes telephone lines, they receive information on problems that require much mathematical processing.

The microprocessor, also built but not yet attached to the telescopes, will prevent excessive requests for assistance from the Rutgers computer by calculating many of the less complicated geometrical problems at the Union College observatory. A few memory discs already have been fed into the microprocessor and have performed correctly.

Within the coming year, AAI plans to attach optical sensors to the telescopes and also apply appropriate motor drives to actually turn the telescopes. In the meantime, numerous names and coordinates of various celestial objects will be typed into the terminal. When fully operational, the microprocessor will compute sidereal time, the typewriter list terminal will tell where the objects are at that time, and the microprocessor will compute where to point the telescopes, which then will automatically turn to that point. The device, Chaplenko says, is not intended to replace the human operator, but will serve as an aid to make his work easier and more effective.

To Publicity Chairmen: Would you like some help in preparing newspaper releases? Write to this newspaper and ask for our "Tips on Submitting News Releases."

2-act play at college

The Union College Drama Society will present "5th of July," a two-act play written by Lanford Wilson, in a one-week run beginning Saturday, at 8 p.m. in the College's Little Theater, Studio 32, in the MacKay Library on the Cranford campus.

Prof. Donald Julian, director, said the play, written in 1978, is about the disintegration of the dreams of the 1960's flower children—their disillusionment and difficulties in adjusting to society. A wide range of ages and types is represented in the play, including a set of parents, a lover, a teenage daughter, a 67-year-old aunt and three friends from the 60's.

The play was first produced by the Circle Repertory Company in New York City in April 1978.

The play is scheduled to run through April 7. Tickets, available to students at $1 and to the public at $2, may be purchased at the door. All performances begin at 8 p.m. Reservations may be made by calling 276-2600, Ext. 305 or 306.

Sales reported brisk by Barclay Woods

The great horned owls of Brielle, birds rarely found elsewhere in the Jersey shore area, will soon have new neighbors as a result of the extraordinary grand opening week and the earlier pre-preview sales successes at Barclay Woods, the country home community being created off Old Bridge road just south of the intersection of Rts. 34, 35 and 70, where four home models are priced from $73,900.

Disturbing the ecosystem as little as possible is a primary concern of the community's creator, Countrywide Development Corp. (CDC), a spokesman said. The owls are one of 70 bird species found in the adjacent area known as Owl Woods, which also is home to about 200 types of plants and numerous amphibians, fish and such mammals as red fox and weasel.

Bill Steinfield, CDC vice-president for sales and marketing, reports the high sales record during the grand opening followed in home purchases even before the models were constructed. He sees the consumer response as being as natural as the community's environment.

"Way ahead of schedule, the first section of Barclay Woods, which is the first condominium community in Brielle, is expected to be ready for occupancy late this spring," Steinfield stated. "The Barclay Woods property is one of the most beautiful areas in this peaceful municipality. We will attempt to keep most of the property in a natural state."

Steinfeld credited four factors for the immediate appeal of Barclay Woods—the value of the custom-style homes, the reputation that CDC has quickly earned for quality construction, the attractiveness of Brielle and the ample financing provided through a subsidiary of Carteret Savings and Loan, the largest state-chartered savings and loan in New Jersey.

The homes feature such

RUSTIC SETTING—A woodland setting graces the attached Magnolia and Laurel model country homes at Barclay Woods, the new Countrywide Development Corp. community in Brielle. Located off Old Bridge Road, south of the junction of Rts. 34, 35 and 70, Barclay Woods offers four home models priced from $73,900 to $84,900; complete with wood-burning fireplace, air-conditioning and garage.

standard features as natural oak hardwood flooring in the living rooms, dining rooms and halls, wall-to-wall carpeting in the bedrooms and dens, fireplaces in the living room or den, full basements, garages, central air-conditioning, oil forced hot-air heat, ceramic tile baths, double-glazed windows, french doors and energy-saving package. Also at no extra cost, a deluxe appliance package including the GE Americana oven, refrigerator-freezer, under-counter dishwasher and a garbage disposal unit. The available options include greenhouse windows and microwave ovens.

A still small and intimate coastal community, Brielle combines pleasures of land and sea. Charter fishing boats leave from the community, go out the Manasquan Inlet and head for the ocean. The Manasquan River Golf Course also is adjacent to Barclay Woods, and there are several historic sites, all within five minutes of the Manasquan train station for rail service to Newark and New York City.

Other recreational facilities are within Barclay Woods. The community has its own plush clubhouse with meeting and entertainment areas, a fireplace in the "Great Room," twin saunas and other features. Outside are illuminated tennis courts, a heated swimming pool and other sports areas.

The condominium structure of community life results in more freedom for the residents. The residents' association will oversee services such as security, snow and leaf removal, lawn care and exterior home maintenance.

Carteret Service Corp. is providing the land development financing and ample mortgage financing for qualified buyers.

Barclay Woods is the third New Jersey community to be created by CDC. The first, Holly Oaks, was a successful family community in Manchester Township. The second was Meadow's Edge in Manalapan.

Covered Bridge has 6000 Series added

Covered Bridge in Manalapan, the adult community with the young life-style, is entering "the last lap before closing out" with three new models and a policy designed to sell them rapidly.

The final sections of the popular community, which is more than 80 percent sold, will feature "the fabulous 6000 Series, perhaps the most attractive of all," says Kevork S. Hovnanian, president of Hovnanian Enterprises, Inc., developer of adult environments in New Jersey, Florida, Georgia and Texas.

"We didn't save the best until last on purpose," Hovnanian points out. "The 6000 Series is the result of a natural evolution, of learning what residents want in a home—and then providing it."

There is a one-bedroom, one bath 6100 model with an extra-large living room, separate dining area and covered patio priced at $34,990; the two-bedroom, two-bath 6200 whose master bedroom has a private bath and walk-in closet, while the second bath has a convenient alcove for clothes washer and dryer, priced at $36,990, and the two-bedroom, two-bath 6201, a ranch-style model priced at $44,990.

All models include wall-to-wall carpeting, a smoke alarm system, prewired TV and telephone outlets, insulated glass in all windows and sliding doors, plumbing, wiring and venting for washer and dryer, steel entrance doors, electrical baseboard radiation heat with separate controls in every room and many other energy-saving devices and amenities.

All kitchens, equipped with ranges, have dining alcoves—the one-bedroom home, in fact, has a gourmet kitchen with enough dining space for a large party! Plenty of closet and storage space and all models are designed to save steps, while offering spaciousness with comfort. The ranch model has a covered front porch as well as private covered patio.

While beautifully designed and built, the homes are only a small part of Covered Bridge's attractions. Three of the chief attractions may be summed up in a few words: recreation, friendly neighbors and location.

There is a clubhouse for meetings, cards, billiards, workouts in the gym, saunas, weekly dances or parties, entertainment; Olympic-sized swimming pool and sun decks; illuminated tennis and shuffleboard courts; and for a nominal fee, the 18-hole championship Covered Bridge Golf Club adjacent to the property.

Nearby are Freehold Race Track for standardbred racing, Monmouth Park for thoroughbreda, the Garden State Arts Center and some of the finest hunting and fishing preserves in the East. Also in the immediate area are shopping malls—and bus service to them, provided by the residents' association.

A survey by Hovnanian showed that more than 60 percent of the residents are still working at regular jobs, many of them in New York City and northern New Jersey. An express bus takes them from Covered Bridge to Manhattan in 55 minutes.

"We designed and developed Covered Bridge so that adults could enjoy full-time living," Hovnanian points out. "The residents, in turn, have made it a great place in which to live. Warm, friendly, helpful to their neighbors, they have given Covered Bridge a wonderful atmosphere, the kind no developer can build."

To see the 6000 Series and other models of Covered Bridge, take the right after entering New Jersey Turnpike (exit 11) or Garden State Parkway (exit 123) and continue south on Route 9, following signs to Covered Bridge. The entrance—a covered bridge—is on the right after entering Manalapan.

Millburn firm begins project

A new office-retail building with a glass-enclosed arcade with an adjoining "vest pocket" park is to be created in Millburn following the demolition of a group of contiguous buildings on the corner of Main and Taylor streets. The announcement was made by A. Silverstein Association of Millburn, the developer of the family-operated company which has owned the property for many years. The award-winning architect enlisted for the project is Lawrence Stern, AIA. Representative of the association, Toby Silverstein Norman, stated that the new building will be an example of "private revitalization" of the downtown community area.

When completed, the new building will have 40,000 square feet of space. The first floor masonry walls will be set back to provide space for a glass-protected pedestrian mall. The upper floors will overhang the glass arcade. The exterior of the building will be finished in bronze and beige tones.

"Meadow's Edge has the best homes, location, prices and terms in New Jersey. That's why we moved here."

"We just moved into our new home at Meadow's Edge. And we love it here. Sure, we looked at a number of other homes and communities. But Meadow's Edge just had more going for it.

Take our home, the Foxcroft model, for instance. It's not at all the typical three-bedroom. It's so different. So spacious and luxurious. And so well laid out. It offers a lot more value for the money, to our way of thinking.

Features? Our home has more of them than most builders are giving. All we had to do was move our furniture in, and start living. The carpeting was on the floors. The refrigerator-freezer, dishwasher, range and vent hood were in the kitchen. We just drove our cars into our 2-car garage, put our storage goods in our basement, and began to enjoy our new home.

Frankly, another reason we bought here was the location. I work in Northern New Jersey and the commute is really easy to live with. We're close to Route 9, Route 18, the Turnpike, and the Parkway. So great shopping's all around us. Yet it still feels like we're in the country. And that's a nice feeling.

Where can you find the best luxury housing buy in New Jersey? That's easy to answer. Start by checking out prices and mortgage interest rates around the State. Then compare floorplans. Features. And locations.

If you consider everything, like we did, you'll probably become our neighbors at Meadow's Edge. It comes out ahead, on every score. Take it from us, you couldn't make a smarter home buying decision today.

To reach Meadow's Edge, take the Garden State Parkway south to Exit 123. Then go south on Route 9 for about 12 miles to Symmes Road (Steinbach's). Turn right to the sales center and furnished models. Meadow's Edge is open 10-5 on weekdays, 10-6 weekends. The sales office phone is (201) 780-4747."

DOT will establish carpool lane for Rts. 95 and 4 near bridge

The Department of Transportation has announced that a special carpool will be established to bypass morning rush hour congestion in the George Washington Bridge toll plaza area.

"The high occupancy vehicle (HOV) lane will save motorists 10 minutes at the height of the rush hour," according to Richard L. Hollinger, chief of the NJDOT's Bureau of Operations Research.

"Motorists now spend up to 12 minutes travelling the last mile before reaching the toll booths from 7:30 to 8:30 a.m.," he said. "When the HOV lane is operational, carpools will be able to reach the toll plaza in two minutes."

The tentative date for completion of the HOV lane is the fall of 1980. The eight-tenths of a mile lane will cost $343,000 to install, and it is anticipated that the Federal Highway Administration will pay 75 percent of the cost. It is estimated that 3,500 carpools in 1,000 cars now use the bridge during morning rush hours.

The HOV lane will be in operation from 7 to 9:30 a.m. Weekdays and will accommodate vehicles with three or more riders from Routes 95 and 4. Carpool vehicles will be funneled into the existing bus lane and then proceed into a newly marked lane that extends four-tenths of a mile to the toll plaza.

"The bus lane at present serves 120 buses, including 10 from local streets, during a two-hour peak period in the morning and can accommodate 1,900 additional vehicles without causing congestion," Hollinger said.

Recent traffic counts show that 12,340 vehicles travel to the upper toll plaza and 11,437 to the lower toll plaza in New Jersey between 6 and 10 a.m. each weekday. The average daily total in both directions is 215,000 vehicles.

Installation of pavement markings and signs and a promotional campaign are planned prior to the opening of the HOV lane. The Port Authority Police, who enforce regulations on the bus lane, will assume responsibility on the carpool lane.

No plans for a HOV lane are being considered for evening rush hour traffic returning to New Jersey because no tolls are collected from westbound motorists.

The George Washington Bridge toll plaza HOV lane is the second carpool project announced by NJDOT this year. In February, the department said it would reserve the fourth lanes, now under construction, on the state-owned portion of the Garden State Parkway in Union and Middlesex Counties for carpool and vanpool vehicles and buses.

The performance in the Maurice Levin Theater of the Y, 760 Northfield Ave., West Orange, is one of the Y's modern dance series, which is funded by a grant from the New Jersey State Council on the Arts in cooperation with the National Endowment for the Arts, a federal agency in Washington, D.C.

Investors is now 4th

Investors Savings and Loan Association has jumped into fourth position among New Jersey's largest savings and loans in terms of deposit size. With deposits of $472.5 million, Investors' deposits have increased 19.45 percent or $76.6 million in 1978, up from $395.9 in 1977, according to a spokesman.

This ranking was revealed in the annual listing of the largest savings and loan associations in the country prepared by the American Banker, the daily newspaper of the banking industry. Nationwide, Investors has moved ahead nine places to 149th out of more than 6,000 savings and loan associations in the United States.

During the year, the association introduced a new eight-year savings certificate which offers a rate of 8 percent with an effective annual yield of 8.45 percent on a minimum deposit of $1,000 with interest compounded continuously. A six-month money market certificate also was made available.

"Fuel is the biggest part of your electric bill. 35%! I'm in a group that works hard every day to get the lowest cost for the oil and coal we burn in our generating stations. It's not easy. Oil's price has skyrocketed from about $2 to over $16 a barrel in the last ten years. Coal has jumped from $8 to $45 a ton. This has been the major cause of higher electric bills."

"Naturally, I also pay utility bills so I want to be sure we're buying fuel at the lowest cost just as much as you do. Right now, I'm planning a new, long-range strategy for buying coal for the next 20 or 30 years. I have to find out what we'll need, where it'll be available, what kind of contract will be required, and what regulations government might impose on the types of fuel we can use."

"Buying fuel for New Jersey is expensive because we can only burn low-sulfur coal and oil. These fuels help reduce pollution. All of our oil is imported. It's expensive, and vulnerable to international affairs. Supplies of the required oil are limited in the U.S. so we have no choice. Yes, it's a challenge. But you can be sure we'll continue to buy fuel as cheaply as possible. Don't forget, we pay utility bills, too."

Rockwell exhibit in Trenton

"Scouting Through the Eyes of Norman Rockwell," an exhibition of 29 original paintings, will open at the New Jersey State Museum on Saturday. It will continue through May 27. Rockwell, who died in 1978, was active in the Boy Scout movement for many years. He was a familiar figure at both local meetings and national jamborees, and he encouraged his own sons to participate in all phases of the Scouting program. This interest is reflected with warm affection in the 47 Scouting-oriented Rockwells in the Boy Scouts of America Collection.

Most of the 29 paintings in the State Museum exhibition, which is being presented in cooperation with the Boy Scouts' local George Washington Council, were created by the artist over half a century to illustrate Scout calendars. Because of their time span, they provide viewers with dramatic insight into the gradual development of Rockwell's unique style that made him so well known to so many people.

Though his work appeared in almost every major national magazine, he is perhaps best remembered for his 318 "Saturday Evening Post" covers—most of them illustrating poignant scenes familiar to nearly everybody.

Because Rockwell's paintings depicted so clearly the changes in American styles and temperament, some people were prompted to call him a historian; but he rejected this image, declaring that he enjoyed "humor and good-natured sort of subjects" and painted "life like I would like it to be."

The State Museum, a division of the New Jersey Department of Education, is open from 9 a.m. to 4:45 p.m., Monday through Friday and from 1 to 5 p.m. weekends and most holidays (including Good Friday). Admission is free.

Arts Musica offers concert

The Newark Museum's Sunday afternoon concert will present a vocal and instrumental ensemble, "Ars Musica Antiqua," at 3:30 p.m. on April 8. Founded by conductor Walter Canter, who merged the Plainfield Chorale and The Renaissance Players, "Ars Musica Antiqua" performs sacred and secular music from the Medieval, Renaissance and Baroque periods. This season's repertoire includes works by Scheidt, Buxtehude, de Lalande, B. Marcello and Charpentier.

Price Index jumped 1.1 pct. in February

The New York-Northeastern New Jersey Consumer Price Index was up sharply by 1.1 percent between January and February 1979, it was reported by Herbert Bienstock, Regional Commissioner of Labor Statistics. Bienstock, who directs the Bureau of Labor Statistics' Middle Atlantic Region, noted that food price increases were particularly sharp for meats, as well as increases in the housing and transportation sectors were largely responsible for the steep February index rise.

A 7.5 percent rise over the year in consumer prices was more than one and a half times the 4.8 percent increase in the previous year and the largest since July 1975. Bienstock said that much of the upward pressure was due to acceleration in food price increases as well as in housing and transportation.

Seasonally adjusted, the CPI was up 0.8 percent in February following a 1.1 percent jump in January. These rises compared unfavorably with increases of 0.3 percent in December and November. In October the index was up 0.8 percent.

With the February 1979 New York-Northeastern New Jersey CPI for all urban consumers at 205.2 (1967 equals 100), $20.52 was required to purchase what $10.00 could buy in the 1967 base period.

2 ramps closing

The Department of Transportation has announced that the Broadway and Kearny ramps on the General Pulaski Memorial Skyway in Jersey City, Hudson County, will be closed to motorists from this week until the middle of August for total resurfacing and repairs.

One lane on the Skyway also will be closed in both directions on Monday, March 19, and the speed limit will be reduced to 25 mph.

A detour will be established for motorists using the Kearny ramp. It is suggested that they use the Lockwood street ramp to Raymond boulevard and then Route 1-9 (truck) into South Kearny.

The $10.5 million project extends 3.5-miles from Jersey City and Kearny, Hudson County, to Newark, Essex County, and includes installation of barrier curbing in addition to resurfacing and joint repairs.

Motorists are urged to use extra caution while

Museum to go 'solar' for 70th anniversary

"Soft Energy Expo-79," an exploration of alternative energy resources, will open at the Newark Museum on April 29, the official date of the museum's 70th anniversary. Dennis Hayes, senior researcher at Worldwatch Institute, will officiate at opening ceremonies and the lighting of a solar-powered sign, to take place in the museum garden from 2 to 3 p.m.

A solar energy proponent, Hayes initiated the Sun Day observances in 1978. The opening of "Soft Energy Expo-79" will launch Sun Year, devoted to informing the public about the necessity of energy conservation and the use of alternative energy technologies.

Together with the museum director, Samuel C. Miller, Hayes will press a switch lighting a sign announcing the "Soft Energy Expo" and also the museum's 70th birthday. Electricity for the sign will be collected directly from the sun through an array of solar, or photo-voltaic, cells installed in the museum sculpture garden.

The "Soft Energy Expo" exhibition will emphasize low-scale solar technology and "do-it-yourself" energy conservation techniques adaptable to home and office buildings. Information will be provided about completed, functioning community-wide conservation projects and alternative energy systems. The Expo also will explore the investment of national and international resources in energy conservation, research-level projects and exotic forms of solar conversion.

The "Soft Energy Expo" has been planned with the participation of New Jersey conservation groups, schools and individuals, whose projects will be represented on a rotating basis in a central exhibition space.

Organizer of the Expo is energy consultant Jack Greenspan. Design architect is Joseph Clinton, professor at Kean College. Funding has been provided by the Victoria Foundation, Inc., the Florence and John Schumann Foundation and the Geraldine R. Dodge Foundation, Inc.

"Soft Energy Expo-79" will be on view at the Newark Museum through November 30. The museum is located at 49 Washington street in downtown Newark. It is open every day from noon to 5 p.m.

Lung unit gives award to editor

Jane Ann Cunningham, former editor and publisher of the Cape May County Herald newspaper, has been selected the winner of the American Lung Association of New Jersey's 1978 Christmas Seal award contest by the Public Relations Advisory Committee for her Dec. 28, column entitled, "New Year's Resolution! Save a Life-Your Own!," according to Ann Robison, chairwoman of the selection committee.

Said Robison, "Our purpose is to encourage the highest standards of reporting by New Jersey media on the prevention, control and treatment of lung disease which affects 47 million men, women and children, nationally. Since lung diseases such as emphysema are irreversible and develop over a long period, prevention is crucial. It is essential that New Jersey residents be as aware and informed on the various lung hazards as possible and much of this education funnels through our press, radio and television."

Museum offers talk

Robert J. Koenig, associate director of the Montclair Art Museum, will give a gallery talk at the museum on Sunday at 3 p.m. on the newly-opened exhibition, Collage: American Masters, Part I.

The two-part exhibit presents three works from each of a group of 23 noted American artists whose work is devoted in large measure to collage. Those artists represented in the first segment are: Romare Bearden, Varujan Boghosian, Fritz Bultman, Joseph Cornell, Arthur B. Dove, Budd Hopkins, Robert Motherwell, Louise Nevelson, Ad Reinhardt, Anne Ryan and Joseph Stella.

The gallery talk is open to the public. Admission is free. The first part of the exhibition remains on view through May 6. Museum hours are Tuesday through Saturday 10-5; Sunday 2-5. The museum will be open on Saturday for its Heirloom Appraisal Day event only. The galleries will be closed for the day.
