Clancy allows $17,000 cut in new budget

Union County Superintendent of Schools James Clancy has allowed the Mountainside Board of Education to cut a controversial $17,000 in educational salaries and services from the 1979-80 school budget, board President Dr. Arthur Williams disclosed this week.

The cuts had been the subject of several months of disagreement between the county superintendent and the borough school board and administration.

The only condition of acceptance that was imposed by Clancy, Williams said, was that the school system had 60 days to correct technical errors in student reports and study programs. He explained that the errors were mainly missing signatures and typographical mistakes that could be rectified easily.

Aug. 8 during which Clancy had made his announcement. Williams commented, "The board felt that there might have been some vindictiveness in his original decision, but he has shown himself to be doing a very good job."

The board has announced that Beechwood School will begin Sept. 5 with a 1 p.m. closing, and full classes starting the next day. James Johnson is the new principal.

Deerfield School has a Sept. 5 starting day and a 1 p.m. dismissal. Allan Shapiro is the new principal.

Our Lady of Lourdes School will open its doors to students on Sept. 6, and will end school on the first day at 1 p.m. The school also plans to introduce an arts and crafts program and an after-school enrichment program to the students.

Just a peaceful day -- until the winds began

Sgt. Edward Hafeken had been supervising a peaceful dispatcher's desk last Friday for only 30 minutes when the first winds began to blow at 4 p.m. Soon, calls began pouring into the Mountainside police station, jamming telephone lines and lighting up every bulb on the switchboard.

"Yes, ma'am, there's been a power blackout. I don't know for how long. Hello, yes, I've tried to contact PSE&G about that downed wire, but they're not answering their phones. No, sir, it's not just you, everybody lost power...Hello, yes, where did that tree fall?"

"Yes, ma'am, a downed wire...uh-huh, a tree fell...don't know when they'll be there...sure, I'll do my best to get someone there...uh-huh..."

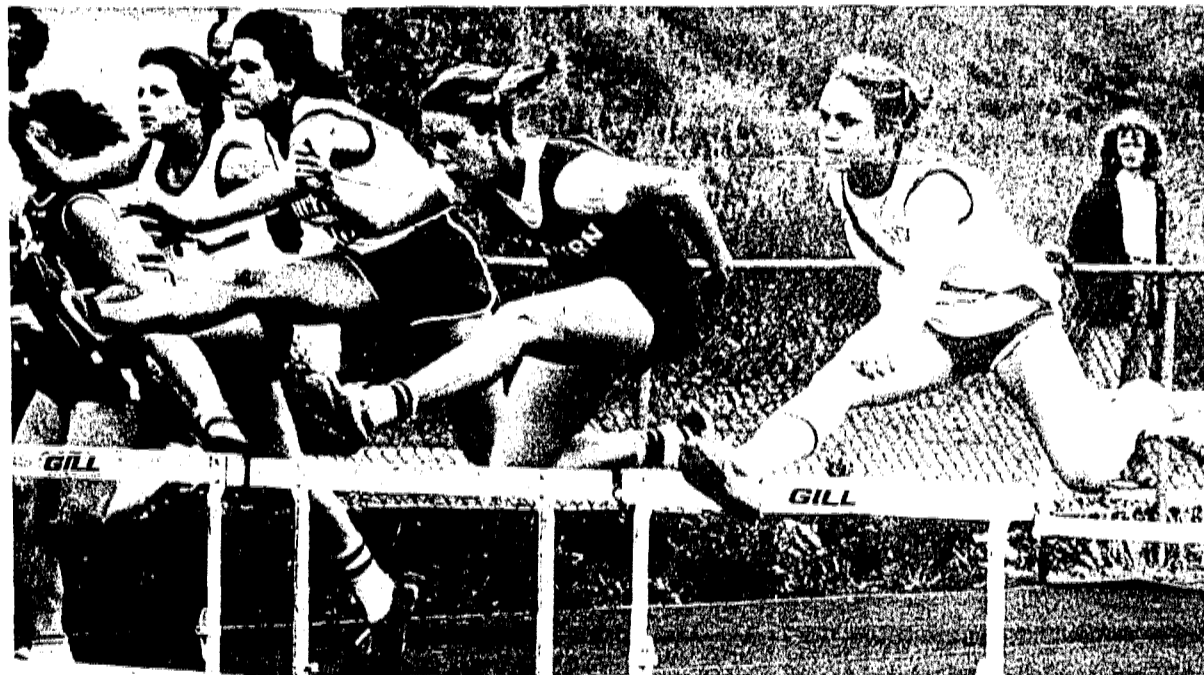

The winds and driving rains that took Sgt. Hafeken by surprise also caught hundreds of thousands of East Coast residents unprepared as the storm from eastern Pennsylvania churned through the northern and central New Jersey area, racing as far north as Massachusetts.

No serious injuries occurred in Mountainside as a result of the violent weather, but nearly every home experienced a power lapse or suffered damage from falling tree limbs. The worst damage to a dwelling occurred on Rolling Rock road when several heavy branches toppled onto the roof of a house, partially crushing an upper section.

Power outages caused the most frustration for local homeowners. More than 18,000 customers in Mountainside, Westfield, Watchung and Springfield were in the dark Friday for periods ranging from several seconds to a few hours when approximately 15 electric lines were downed by falling tree limbs or the force of the wind, police and PSE&G officials reported.

A second blackout Sunday cut power to 3,000 to 4,000 customers in these towns but, according to public utility officials, the power was restored quickly.

athlete of Jonathan Dayton Regional High last spring, she believes growing numbers of young women share her view that competitiveness in sports is just as feminine as more traditional standards of behavior.

Club urges reclamation of memorial

The Mountainside Women's Club has announced it is seeking a national civic improvement grant from Sears, Roebuck & Co. Emily Hoffarth heads the committee for the project.

According to Frances Frank, co-chairman:

"High on our list for action by the State of New Jersey is improvement to Chapel Island on Rt. 22. Once a beautiful Chapel stood on this island. Its grounds were impeccably maintained.

"In 1946, the New Jersey State Garden Club and the State Highway Commission requested and were granted permission from the Chapel to landscape the grounds. Shrubs and trees, pine and white dogwood, were planted to beautify Chapel Island, developing it in conjunction with Blue Star Drive, in commemoration of the (Continued on page 2)

Kickers finish first in soccer

The Mountainside Kickers won first place in a soccer tournament Aug. 5 at the Swim and Sports Club in Flanders.

The Kickers—7-to-9-year-olds who train at Farcher's Grove, Union—won the trophy by defeating the Bridgewater Dragons, 2-0, tying the Clinton Town Kicks, 1-1, and then winning the playoff game against Bridgewater, 3-2.

The team members who led in the day's scoring were: Steve Schmid of Edison with three goals; James Woods of Cranford, with two goals and an assist, and Andy Michel of Westfield, with one goal other assists were by Mark Ambruster of Union, Toni Welch of New Providence and Peter Dorninger of Cranford. The rest of the team members are Eric Kusziner and Jayson Brown of Union, Brian Whitelock and Chris Galiszewski of Cranford, Fritz Muehlbauer of Edison and Zane Bell and Drew Parkhurst of Westfield.

The Kickers are coached by Fritz Dorninger of Cranford and assistant coaches Matt Welch of New Providence and Warren Ambruster of Union.

Glass collection slated Saturday

The Jonathan Dayton Regional High School Key Club will hold its monthly glass-in Saturday. All residents of the area have been urged to bring glass bottles, sorted by color, and newspapers, tied in bundles.

The glass-in will be held in the high school front parking lot from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Femininity presents no hurdle to success for scholar-athlete

By HELEN REYNOLDS

When Carol Wingard was born 18 years ago, her own parents would have scoffed if anybody had predicted that their daughter would try out for a track team someday at Princeton University.

In fact, they would have been surprised-by the thought that their daughter would even become a freshman at Princeton—on or off the track team. In 1961, Princeton's all-male tradition was more than two centuries old.

"Attitudes about girls and women—and what they should or shouldn't do—have changed enormously during my lifetime, and I'm only in my teens," Wingard points out. "But public attitudes still lag a little behind what the girls are really doing..."

"When girls were first admitted to Princeton, people probably asked them how they could go to a men's college and still retain their femininity. I don't hear that question now. If people know I'm going to Princeton this fall, they just say, 'Good for you; it's a fine university.'"

"When people ask me how a girl can compete in sports and still retain her femininity, I think the question reflects another attitude that will change. There's no conflict between femininity and athletics, in my opinion. I think the question assumes a false dilemma."

Wingard, who lives in Mountainside and attended high school in Springfield, shakes her head in obvious amazement at an earlier generation's concept of femininity.

CAROL WINGARD

Wingard, graduated this year from "To pretend you can't do things you can do—to me, that seems unnatural," she declares emphatically.

Jonathan Dayton Regional High School, was never ashamed of displaying competence—in the classroom, on the track or in the gymnasium.

She earned an almost perfect grade, average of 3.85 on a 4.0 scale. She was co-captain for two years of both the outdoor track team, which won the state sectional championship for 1979, and the indoor team. She was conference champion, and state

Weinstein 'studying' on Maine laboratory

BAR HARBOR, Maine—Ellen Weinstein, 16, of Mountainside, N.J., has spent the summer learning about scientific research—without setting foot in a classroom.

The Jonathan Dayton Regional High School senior has been at work in a laboratory, carrying out a research project alongside a scientist at the world-renowned Jackson Laboratory here.

Along with 10 other high school students from around the country, selected from more than 100 applicants, Ellen has been getting the "feel" of science while contributing to ongoing studies at the world's largest center of mammalian genetics research.

Working with Dr. Henry Outzen of the Jackson Laboratory's staff, Ellen has done an intensive 10-week project in the field of immunology.

Using some of the special mice maintained at the Jackson Laboratory, Ellen has been comparing the production of antibodies by groups of mice with impaired immune systems and ones with immunity intact. Rather than having a simple relationship to disease immunity, it may be that low levels of immunity may be more effective than high levels, she says.

Ellen is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Morton Weinstein of Charles street, Mountainside. In addition to her interest in science, she is interested in fine arts and has been editor of the Dayton paper.

Training students for the world of science is one of the missions of the Jackson Laboratory, a 50-year-old private research institution. Forty scientists backed by a workforce of 450 investigate a wide range of genetic and medical questions. The 10 precollege and 12 college students in the summer program have access to the research facilities at the laboratory, and a stock of 700,000 specially-bred laboratory mice that serve as animal models of human diseases and conditions.

SUMMER OF RESEARCH—Ellen Weinstein, 16, of Mountainside has been involved in an intensive 10-week research project in immunology as part of a special summer training program for select students at the Jackson Laboratory, Bar Harbor, Maine, the world's largest center of mammalian genetics research.

She thinks young women are also learning that they needn't tear each other down to build themselves up with men. The Springfield-Mountain side area is a good training ground for the new attitudes, according to Wingard

"The girls are still breaking the ice in sports at Dayton, and they're not on a totally equal basis yet," she says. "For example, it's hard to understand why girls' cross-country doesn't have varsity status... Last year was the first time Dayton girls competed as a team in cross-country. They were limited in inter-scholastic competition, and they couldn't even letter, because they didn't have varsity status.

"Nevertheless, they brought home some honors for Dayton, and the coach went all out to try to get varsity status for them. But next year, they still won't have varsity cross-country... I think it would be a winning team, but even if it wouldn't be, so what?"

"The boys' football team hasn't had a winning season in years, and it still gets lavished with equipment and coaches. I'm not saying that's wrong. Sports outlets shouldn't depend on the number of victories or the number of tickets sold... I'm just saying it hurts when you don't get equal treatment."

"But, overall, I think Mountain side and Springfield have a relatively good record in providing athletic outlets for girls—good when compared with the records of other communities, if not when compared with what is available for local boys."

Wingard believes that sports have played a significant role in her own youth—exciting her competitive spirit at an age, 13, when girls of another generation were tempted to suppress it. (Friends describe her as a pretty-girl type—5 feet 4, slender, blonde, graceful—who might have glided along on looks, rather than effort.)

"I was about 13 when I saw Olga Korbut (the Russian gymnast) on TV, and I wanted to be like her. So did most adolescent girls I knew. Nothing could be more feminine or graceful than what she was doing... Well, I joined the gymnastics team at Dayton, and then I was joining teams in every varsity sport they offered for girls..."

Wingard will be attending Princeton on a work scholarship, not an athletic scholarship, but she is sure that her background in athletics "helped me get in... It was an added plus, and one that counted."

She intends to remain active in at least one sport—probably running—at Princeton.

"Boys' coaches have always said that sports teach you to handle aggressiveness in a positive way, and I think it's just as true for girls..."

In Assembly

Donald T. DiFrancesco

One of my constituents said to me the other day, "You know, I'm getting so tired of hearing bad news. I see on TV about rising prices, murders, gas lines, horrible accidents, and kids not learning anything in school. Then I go through the check-out line at the grocery store, and I'm really depressed."

My friend continued, "Even the President tells us we are suffering a 'crisis of confidence,' and that things aren't about to get better soon and that it's all our fault anyway. Are things really so bad?"

I wanted to say to this man—a man I know as a hard worker, a good husband and father, a man who was nearly bursting with pride when he became an American citizen—"No, things aren't really so bad." But as we talked, I realized that I, too, have been dwelling on the many problems our rapidly changing society faces. I, too, found that cheery words were in short supply.

Over the next few days, I tried to think about our blessings rather than our problems, our successes rather than our failures. Let me share some of these thoughts with you.

No matter how bad things seem, Americans have the ability to make things better. With our ingenuity, our work ethic, our free elections, our system of checks and balances, our free marketplace—we have the means to influence our lives and our government. Like no other country on earth, America is free and great, in spite of our problems.

We have faced hard times before. Our parents remember The Great Depression and two world wars. The confusion and turmoil of the '60s left many of us wondering what had happened to our society. We weathered a disastrous Vietnam war that nearly tore our nation apart; our system worked when a President resigned in disgrace.

The American people can take credit for a strength of will and character that has seen us through dark days and will triumph in the days ahead. We do not give up. We are smart and quick and unafraid. Although American streets are not paved with gold, the hearts of the people are.

We continue to be a land that opens doors of opportunity for those less fortunate than we are. The promise that greeted my father upon his arrival in America is still there, however hard it may be for us to see. As we struggle to provide a better world for our children, we sometimes lose sight of the fact that our democracy offers us, always, the hope of a brighter tomorrow.

I called my constituent friend to see what he thought of my new-found optimism. He said, "You're right, I had forgotten the good part."

If August finds you with the additional worries of paying for a family vacation or getting gas to go to a favorite retreat, or if you work in a 78-degree office where the windows don't open, you may have forgotten the good part, too.

Remember. We are strong and our system is strong. Together we will always be able to find the way.

A. James Baldwin; safety engineer, 80

Funeral services were held Tuesday in Westfield for A. James Baldwin, 80, of Mountain side, who died last Thursday in Overlook Hospital, Summit.

He was a 1922 graduate of Iowa State University with a bachelor's degree in mechanical engineering.

Mr. Baldwin was past president of the Gnosis of Westfield and a member of the Old Guard of Westfield.

He is survived by his wife, Clyda; a daughter, Caroline Cordts; two granddaughters and a grandson.

Chapel Island

men and women who served in World War II.

"The Chapel has relocated off Central avenue in Mountain side. The site, however, has let the island go to shambles: weeds, gravel and sand left uncovered, trash littering the parking lot, and big machinery left seemingly for storage during the year. The Mountain side Women's Club feels that the state has an obligation both to the Borough of Mountain side and the memory of our World War II men and women.

"What the state fails to realize is this is a desecration of a memorial. Added to this, Chapel Island is also a safety hazard. Anyone making the U turn by Chapel Island knows the impaired visibility.

"I hope this will give the State of New Jersey the boost it needs to clean up Chapel Island and keep it maintained."

Changes Detailed

Some senior citizens are still trying to figure out changes in their social security payments, no easy task.

The Social Security Administration's newest definition of a quarter of coverage was included in the Social Security Amendments of 1977. The change actually took effect about one year ago.

Under the old law, an employee earned one quarter of coverage for each calendar quarter (three months) in which he or she earned $50 or more. There was a different measurement for self-employed persons.

Under the new law, in 1979 both self-employed persons and regular employees earn one quarter of coverage for every $260 they earn, up to a total of four quarters. (In 1978, it was $250.) Consideration of a calendar quarter was eliminated. As soon as you've earned $1,040 in 1979, you've earned maximum coverage for the year. It doesn't matter if you earn it all at once, or spread it out over the year.

Lure of surf, sun is a draw at Runaway

The ever-changing ocean waves take on a special appeal as warm weather comes to the Jersey Shore area, bringing home seekers and vacation planners to oceanfront towns along the Garden State's 127 miles of beachfront.

Runaway Beach, a beachfront condominium in Sea Bright, northern Monmouth County, adds another element to the oceanfront home—easy commuting from an excellent location that serves both as year-round home and summer resort home priced from $38,000 to $59,000.

condominium apartments, with extra closets and kitchen large enough to be used as dinette or country kitchen arrangement.

In addition to the homes, Runaway Beach includes full Olympic sized swimming pool with lounging areas, decks and private boardwalk along the ocean beach. There also is an exercise room with sauna, and a grassy outdoor barbeque area. The parking is on the landward side of the complex, allowing the full beachclub atmosphere to prevail between homes and beach during the warm weather season.

With more than half the homes of Runaway Beach sold out, sales manager Rosemarie Sarro reports that owners are evenly divided between residents who enjoy their beachfront homes all year and those who use them for warm weather vacation homes and rent them during the balance of the year.

The Runaway Beach model home and sales office is open seven days a week, at 1201 Ocean Ave. (Rt. 35), in Sea Bright, which is approximately halfway between Sandy Hook State Park to the north and Long Branch to the south. The condominium is easily reached via Garden State Parkway exits 106 or 117, and Rt. 35. From exit 117, Rt. 35 loops near the Highlands and a fine waterfront restaurant area. From exit 106, Rt. 35 goes directly past Monmouth Mall and the Monmouth Park Racetrack, one of the many resort offerings of the Monmouth County shore area.

Among this latter group are investors, who have recognized the value of oceanfront land used properly with well-designed and well-built homes that will withstand the oceanfront elements. The homes of Runaway Beach are more spacious than most offerings in

NEW RANCH INTRODUCED—The Montauk, a three-bedroom contemporary ranch, has been added to the model home offerings at Mystic Islands near historic Tuckerton on the Great Bay.

Mystic Islands add 3-bedroom Montauk

A new contemporary ranch named the Montauk has been added to the model home offerings at Mystic Island. It was announced by Sanford Miller, president of Mystic Development Corporation, developers of the unique community near historic Tuckerton, on the Great Bay. It is one of the largest and most complete family-oriented communities in the East.

Miller stated, "The Montauk was added to expand the Mystic line of homes, based on consumer demand for contemporary style and living; since its introduction, public acceptance has been gratifying and sales have been brisk."

Rugged texture III siding in a choice of stains enhances the individuality of the Montauk, and the home has energy-saving features including fully insulated ceilings and sidewalls, thermal insulated glass windows and deck doors and individual room controlled electric baseboard heating.

A variety of home sites is available for the Montauk in this bay shore community, including waterfront at Mystic Point, wooded lots at Mystic Heights and Mystic Woods.

Because of its Jersey Shore location, Mystic Island offers a great lifestyle for all ages. Home owners can swim, fish, boat and enjoy with their children a myriad of land and water activities.

Qualified buyers, and homes at Mystic Islands are protected by HOW, the homebuilding industry's 10-year homebuyers' protection plan.

The community has long-established mini-shopping malls which supply residents with everyday conveniences, services and banking facilities.

Anyone wishing an occasional visit to big city stores and giant shopping malls can head south 24 miles to Pleasantville and Atlantic City, west to Camden and Philadelphia, or north 30 miles to Toms River. There is hourly bus services on Rt. 9 south to Atlantic City and north to Lakewood and New York City.

To visit Mystic Islands and its historical landmarks, a variety of model homes and its beautiful shoreline, take Garden State Parkway south to Exit 58 (Tuckerton). Follow signs to Mystic Islands, just a short drive (six or seven miles from the Parkway).

The Montauk, on a waterfront site, is priced at $53,000; other sites are available at lower prices. The home with garage is entered through a foyer with double closets into large family living room. This opens via thermal insulated glass doors to rear deck. The kitchen with sturdy wood cabinets adjoins dining area with double windows overlooking rear garden or waterfront area.

There is a large rear bedroom and two other bedrooms all with closets and the "L" end of the home. The bath and powder rooms are convenient to all areas of the home, and there is also a laundry area. This is a most convenient family home for those who desire a one level indoor-outdoor lifestyle.

Secluded yet convenient, Mystic Islands is an established community with 4,000 homes and room for 2,000 more. Sixty percent of the homes are on waterways with their own docking facilities. It is just a 15-minute boat ride across Great Bay to the Atlantic Ocean and Atlantic City, or a 30-minute drive south via Rt. 9 and the Parkway to Atlantic City—or Long Beach Island north.

Other home styles available at Mystic Islands include two to four bedroom contemporary two-story, Dutch Colonial and ranchers. All homes have central sewer and water systems. Low Down payment and long term financing is available to

Many benefits at Clearwater in Spotswood

For most people, the gas shortage has meant giving up most weekend social activities. Kenneth and Carol Schultz couldn't have cared less. They are one of almost 200 couples who live in Clearwater Village, a community of manufactured homes in Spotswood with a wealth of recreation opportunities on the property and a spirit of community neighborliness that is hard to beat.

Almost every day, and especially on weekends, residents of Clearwater Village can be found in the community clubhouse—a magnificent structure complete with lounge, hobby and game areas, extensive meeting rooms and kitchen facilities. A large outdoor swimming pool for the use of residents and their guests is adjacent to the clubhouse and, for those who like more strenuous activity, there are bicycle paths.

part is our home. It has everything we wanted."

The homes at Clearwater Village meet the great need in the New York-New Jersey area for affordable housing. These manufactured homes are offered in 14 and 24 foot widths. Square footage varies from 765 to 1307. All are two or three bedroom ranch-style homes and come complete with raised wood deck, carpeting, drapes, panelling, refrigerator, stove, storm windows and screens, plus ultra-modern kitchens and deluxe baths. Some homes have built-in furniture. Prices range from $18,990 to $32,990.

According to Patricia Murphy, sales manager for Clearwater Village, sales during 1979 have been phenomenal. "With the average cost of site-built home now exceeding $60,000 in the New York metropolitan area, the value in our homes becomes more apparent with each passing day."

Clearwater Village is located in the historic town of Spotswood, in Middlesex County. Away from the traffic, noise and pollution of the industrialized cities, it is nevertheless close to everything a family needs and wants.

Close by are a half dozen shopping centers including the famous Brunswick Square, as well as many department stores, discount stores and food markets. Churches and synagogues are within a three-mile radius. For the young-at-heart of all ages, the area abounds in all kinds of educational opportunities.

Clearwater Village can be reached by taking the New Jersey Turnpike to Exit 9, then Rt. 18 east for five miles to sign for Main Street—Amboys Spotswood. Turn right and go two miles, bearing left at monument. Continue for one mile to Clearwater Village entrance.

Spurred by the gasoline shortage one recent weekend, the residents decided to have a community get-together, with food and refreshments brought by each of the participants and music played by some of the more talented Clearwater Villagers. A visitor to that get-together couldn't help but be impressed with the friendly spirit that prevailed. Everyone was having a very good time.

"With friends and neighbors and facilities like this," exclaimed Carol, "who needs gas?"

The Schultzes moved to Clearwater Village from Fords about a year ago. "When we bought our home here," says Ken Schultz, "we were troubled about moving away from our long-time friends. But, in the year we've been here, we've made literally hundreds of new friends. With all the recreation facilities, it's a wonderful community to live in. Of course, the best

The three agencies are among 50 already associated with Realty World in New Jersey and over 1,500 nationally, pooling resources and know-how in order to service better buyers and sellers of homes in New Jersey. GOING UP—A second section of colonial ranch homes is being built at Forest Park in Livingston.

Forest Park still growing

With its first section of colonial ranch homes completed and occupied, Pouliot Frieland, real estate developers, have completed the road through the second section of Forest Park, a planned community in Livingston. Located just 40 minutes from mid-Manhattan, Forest Park has been designed for families who would like suburban living in a wooded, rustic setting, yet want to be close at hand to prestige department stores, shopping malls and entertainment.

As in the first section, the newly-opened second section of Forest Park will offer three, four and five bedroom colonial homes and has introduced contemporary ranch homes with up to 2800 square feet of living space.

All are designed with a special "Energy Package," central air conditioning unit as well as a paneled family room, fireplace, full basement and a two-car garage plus many other features.

Forest Park is in Livingston, off Rt. 280 and close to all major highways. Models are open for inspection 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday through Friday, and weekends noon to 5 p.m. The telephone is 992-7180.

Top firms moving in

Thomas Kates, senior vice-president, and Georgia Valvano, assistant vice-president of the Archie Schwartz Company's office brokerage department, announced a number of office space completions in the Union-Middlesex County area during the current 30-day period, the most Union-Middlesex activity since the inception of the Office Brokerage Division.

Several major firms such as Western Electric Corporation, Millburn Fidelco Associates, Saxon Business Products, Standard Register, North American Life Insurance Company, Leukemia Society, etc. have negotiated long-term leases in the area, representing either expansion or relocation moves.

Kates called "this upsurge representative of major firms moving into New Jersey. More and more we are seeing companies moving their corporate headquarters out of the city and into the suburban areas." "Our Office Brokerage division, which services the entire state, including Essex, West Essex, Morris County, Bergen County, etc., is noting a demand for prestigious office facilities where firms will house their sales and managerial offices. It seems that New Jersey is the perfect location to serve the purpose."

Western Electric Corporation was one firm to open a new office in the area; it took a large portion of space in a modern building located at Sheffield street, Mountaineer, for regional sales offices. William McGrillis of the real estate division of Western Electric was available for site selection, and handled the negotiations on behalf of the new tenant. Charles Lanyard was the broker in the transaction.

They've decided to live a beautiful life at a beautiful place. Instead of engaging in an energy "war," they're at peace with themselves and at peace with the country. They enjoy a fine marina, great commuting and other amenities from a spacious comfortable home. They'll be doing more than their part for the national effort—without suffering one bit. Now isn't that smart?"

A lot of people are agreeing with Barry Rosengarten in this assessment. To see Bayside Villa, take a bus, train or car to the center of Perth Amboy.

Counting unit at college gets extensive use

Earth and planetary environment students at Kean College of New Jersey use equipment that no other colleges or universities in the state possess, according to spokesmen in the department.

James Krajewski of North Plainfield, a program assistant in the department, who is in charge of a $30,000 particle counting unit, said the department encourages its students to use the equipment. He called it a "hands on" policy and said that at times there is a rush hour sign up for its use. With an average of 100 undergraduates in the department, the machine is kept busy.

Krajewski, however, is the one most frequently using the Coulter Counter to monitor particles from the floor of the Newark Bay for a study by two department professors.

Dr. Donald Krall, department chairman, said the machine is used for research by professors, students aiding in the research projects and classes doing their own work. He said other teaching institutions frequently limit the use of very expensive equipment to staff members and special students.

According to Krajewski, the unit cuts research time from 18 hours to about 30 seconds and can count particles as small as half a micron. It takes 2,000 microns to measure two millimeters, he explained.

LIGHT ON ENERGY SAVING—The energy-saving potential of a new breed of electric light bulb attracts the interest of Rep. Matthew J. Rinaldo (R-12), right, at a demonstration provided by the General Electric for members of Congress. The company says the bulb, with a built-in computer system, lasts four times longer than an ordinary one and uses only one-third as much electricity. Rinaldo, discussing it with GE marketing manager Michael Finn, urged GE to reduce the projected $10 retail cost to encourage use of the invention.

College to offer training in medical emergencies

An emergency medical technician training course will be held on Saturdays at Union College beginning in early September, it was announced by Dr. Frank Dee, dean of the division of continuing education.

The course, which meets from 8:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m., begins with registration Aug. 31 at 7 p.m. The introductory class will be held from 7 to 10 p.m. Friday, Sept. 7. After that, all classes meet on Saturdays. The sessions end on Oct. 27.

Instruction covers the proper handling of a wide variety of emergency situations, including pulmonary arrest, bleeding, wounds, fractures, resuscitation methods, heart attacks, childbirth and extraction from automobiles. It is open to members of police and fire departments, emergency rescue squads, members of medical and nursing associations and similar organizations, as well as to Union College students.

The official U.S. Department of Transportation course for emergency care of the sick and injured, it is part of a nationwide effort to upgrade and standardize the treatment of accident victims, Dee said.

The nine-week course may be taken for three college credits or credit-free. It will be conducted on the college's Cranford campus.

Registration also may be conducted prior to the Aug. 31 registration date, Monday through Thursday from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. in the Continuing Education Department. Further information is available from the Union College admissions office, 276-2600, extension 262.

Postmaster Anthony F. Sarzillo has announced an expansion of service hours for the philatelic unit at the Cranford Post Office. In addition to the regularly scheduled hours of 9 a.m. to 10:30 a.m., and 11:30 a.m. to 3 p.m. on Tuesdays, the unit is open at the same hours on Thursdays.

Also, because many people work during the week and cannot presently get to the post office during these hours, a trial program for Saturday hours is being implemented. On Saturday, Aug. 11, the philatelic window will be open from 8:30 a.m. to noon. Sarzillo anticipates the service to be provided one Saturday per month.

Course on technology, change will be taught at two schools

A fall semester course-by-newspaper, "Historical Connections: Technology and Change," will be taught in three sections by Donald N. Anderson Ph.D., of Union College and Lisa Books of Union County Technical Institute, Scotch Plains.

The newspaper course is offered in cooperation with seven Union County newspapers beginning in September and October. A three-credit course, it combines classroom work with the reading of regularly scheduled newspaper articles on the subject. This semester, it will be supplemented by 10 50-minute television programs produced by BBC-Time-Life. In addition, the student will use a reader, a study guide and a TV viewer's guide.

Anderson, associate professor of history and urban studies at Union College, will teach two sections of the course at Union College's Cranford campus. They will meet on alternate Monday mornings from 10 to 11:50 a.m. starting Oct. 1, and on alternate Tuesday evenings from 6 to 7:50 p.m. starting Oct. 2.

Anderson, who is coordinator of the college's urban studies program, joined the full-time faculty in 1970 following a 35-year career in sales and management positions with Pan American World Airways, Burlington Industries, and Paragon Woolen Co. He earned a bachelor of science degree in commerce from New York University and master of arts and doctor of philosophy degrees from NYU's Graduate School of Arts and Sciences, combining his studies of history and sociology.

Anderson did additional graduate work at Oxford University and completed a one-year study, financed by the National Science Foundation, on the impact of civil engineering projects on the environment. He has also served as chairman of Union College's department of economics, government and history.

The course at Union County Technical Institute will be taught by Mrs. Books, an instructor of humanities there. A former elementary and high school teacher, Mrs. Books has taught English, reading, composition, mathematics, history and Latin. She received a bachelor of arts degree from Colgate University and a master of arts from Fairleigh Dickinson University in Teaneck.

The Institute course will meet on alternate Tuesdays from 8 to 9:45 a.m., starting Sept. 18 and concluding Dec. 11.

The course will explore the controversies involving science, technology, and society by examining the nature of technological development in an historical context. The program, which will relate the history of technological development to contemporary problems, will utilize selected technological innovations to show how each has affected individuals and societies.

Funded by the National Endowment for the Humanities, the newspaper program has involved colleges and universities throughout the United States, as well as more than 1,100 newspapers.

Further information is available on the Union College admissions hot line at 272-8580 or 272-8581.

Class to cover literature-arts relationships

The English Department of Union College, Cranford, will offer a course in the fall semester designed for students who wish to enhance their understanding and appreciation of literature and its relationship to the other fine arts, according to Dr. Leonard T. Kreisman, vice-president for academic affairs.

The course, entitled Literature and the Arts, is structured so the student will learn about aesthetic process partly by studying the life and styles of both real and fictional artists in the fields of music, painting, poetry, ballet, and the novel.

Course material will be complemented by field trips, through which the student can experience the particular area being studied, according to Dr. Timothy McCracken, associate professor of English and the man who originated the course five years ago.

"The first half of the course will be devoted to the five basic areas of fine arts: music, painting, ballet, poetry and the novel. The second half is concerned with the historical development of the styles of literature and the other arts. Students will be better prepared to appreciate ballet, for example, through seeing demonstrations of what to look for and what it means before going to the ballet," Dr. McCracken said.

The three-credit course is part of the weekend-weekend college program and will meet on Mondays from 6:30 to 9:10 p.m. Registration and other information can be obtained by calling the college's admissions hot line at 272-8580.

Helpers sought by Red Cross

The sudden illness of a child, a lost allotment check and a depleted family budget or an injury to a husband or father stationed far from home are typical of emergencies that Red Cross becomes involved in.

U.S. servicemen, veterans, and their families seek help every day at Red Cross offices in Elizabeth and Cranford and wherever U.S. armed forces are stationed in this country and around the world.

Volunteers are always needed to assist in many of the programs for servicemen and veterans, according to a Red Cross spokesman. Area residents interested in donating even a few hours a week are urged to contact the eastern Union County chapter in Elizabeth at 353-2500 or the Cranford area office at 276-3060.

Students signing up at Watchung Stable

Registration is now being accepted for the 10-week fall semester of the Watchung Mounted Troop, one of the largest horseback riding programs in the country. Prospective students can sign-up for lessons at the Watchung Stable, Glenside avenue, Summit, through Saturday, Aug. 25. On that day, applications will be accepted from 9:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. and from 1:30 p.m. to 3:30 p.m.

The stable, owned and operated by the Union County Department of Parks and Recreation, has been the home of the Watchung Troops for more than 40 years. Managed by Robert Luhn, the school encourages troop members to develop confidence and skill.

"When troop members control their mounts through position and use of their legs, weight, hands and voice, they've reached our goal which is to have each rider at ease on a horse," Luhn explained.

Youngsters, 9 years of age and older, learn to ride English style in the Watchung Troop. Each member is interviewed and sometimes tested to determine riding ability and placement into beginner, novice, intermediate and advanced squads of the Junior Troop. Experienced riders, at least 13 years old, are assigned to the Senior Troop only after passing a riding test.

Students in each 10-member squad are grouped according to age and skill. Horse assignments vary with each class which is taught by a different instructor each week. Although most instruction is given in the three riding rings adjacent to the stable, advanced riders learn to conduct their mounts over miles of bridle path meandering through the reservation.

Tuition for the semester differs, depending on the young rider's classification. Cost for registration in the Watchung Junior Troop is $66, while cost for membership in the Watchung Senior Troop is $70.

Applications and further information are available by visiting the Watchung Stable, located in the northern section of the Watchung Reservation, or by calling 273-5547.

Mailing Cheeses

Most dairy products can't be mailed because they are highly perishable and require refrigeration. But hard cheese and hot pack cheese spreads are exceptions. Aged hard cheeses such as cheddar, swiss and processed are those you can safely mail. Make sure these cheeses are sealed in wax or air-tight vacuum wraps to prevent mold contamination from the air and surface spoilage.

For teenagers, the YMCA will offer karate, skateboarding, archery, the Leaders' Club, and basketball.

Membership is required for participation in the programs and classes. Further information is available from Frank C. DelGuercio, program director at 688-9622.

Colorfully costumed dancers of the Bayern Verein, their children's group and several other clubs from New Jersey and New York will dance Bavarian schuhplattler. The Bayern Verein Newark adult dancers have taken part in a biannual dance competition called the "Gaufest," which took place in Los Angeles, where they took third place.

Elizabeth General does eye transplant

A surgical procedure rarely performed in Union County, a corneal transplant was recently performed at Elizabeth General Hospital, one of few facilities in the area with the capability of handling this delicate procedure.

According to Roy E. Scannapiego, MD, president of the medical staff and Laurence C. Grossman, MD, chief of the division of ophthalmology.

The 11-hour operation was performed by a cornea specialist, Dr. Scannapiego, MD, and his assistant, Warren Klomp, MD, an 19-year-old Jeffrey Winkler of South Plainfield. The operation was a bloodless procedure which allowed the use of a microscope to view the eye.

The recent acquisition of specialized equipment made it possible to perform the corneal transplant. The procedure had been performed in the Union County Hospital, but more recently moved to Elizabeth General Hospital in Elizabeth City for the operation.

spokesman said. The cornea, Scannapiego explained, is the front clear part of the eye covering the iris and the pupil and acts as a protective shield. If it becomes cloudy or scarred, a loss of vision occurs, as in the case of Winkler.

A computer major at Middlesex County College, Edison, Winkler plans to donate his entire body for transplant or scientific research when he dies. "I just hope I can help someone like I was helped," he said. "I appreciate my new sight and the generosity of the donor."

The corneal equipment explained Scannapiego, includes special instruments for handling the ultra-thin tissue used in the surgery. The sutures, which can be seen only under a microscope, are just 21 microns thick or about the size of seven red blood cells.

A special, special contact lens is used to hold the eye open during the surgery. The patient is put to sleep with a general anesthetic. The donor's eye is kept in a special solution until it is brought to the hospital. The donor's eye is kept in a special solution until it is brought to the hospital. The donor's eye is kept in a special solution until it is brought to the hospital.

The most crucial factor in corneal surgery is time, according to Scannapiego, since eyes must be removed from the donor within six hours of death and then transplanted within 72 hours.

However, the doctor recommends that the faster the cornea is used, the better the results. He added, "I've never waited more than 24 hours."

The corneas used in surgery are obtained from state eye banks who receive them upon a donor's bequest or with permission from the deceased's next of kin.

Since time is of the essence, Scannapiego suggests that people who wish to donate their eyes carry donor cards alerting authorities of their intention so that the eye may be removed promptly.

The prospective patient is alerted as soon as the availability of the eyes is known.

In choosing who will receive donated eyes, the Eye Bank works from a priority list according to the surgeon's name. Need is considered along with a first-come, first-served policy in determining priority.

Compatibility by age is the only other consideration, explained Scannapiego. He said, "Eyes, like other body organs, go through serial change. It would be unfair to give an 18-year-old a 40-year-old eye because by the time he was 40 it would be a 60-year-old eye."

Last year the New Jersey Eye Bank received more than 300 eyes enabling doctors to perform 126 transplants. The rest of the eyes were used for research and teaching purposes and for eye repair surgery of the sclera tissue the white part of the eye.

Scannapiego thinks that, "Many potential donors think that if their sight is poor, their eyes are of no value. But he assured, "It doesn't matter what kind of eyesight the donor had as long as there is no disease process of the cornea or infectious disease such as hepatitis present in the body."

The Class of 1954 of St. James High School, Newark, is planning to hold a class reunion. Class members may get information from Viola Abraham Carbone (743-7360) or Rae Imposimato (Luriella 082 1958).

Home centers to open 2nd Woodbridge unit

Channel Home Centers will open its second home center in Woodbridge Township next Thursday according to a spokesman for the firm.

Located in Woodbridge at Rt. 1 and Gil Lane, it will be staffed predominantly by local residents, the spokesman said.

This is the chain's 39th New Jersey outlet and is Channel's 73rd home center in a seven-state market.

Like Channel's other home centers, the newest addition is "planned" for easy shopping. Planogramming assigns each item its own slot on the sales floor and insures that stock is maintained on a continuous basis.

Channel offers shoppers a choice of over 50,000 products in its lumber, building materials, paint, plumbing, hardware, electrical, and lawn and garden departments. A Channel Home Center is, in effect, a supermarket for do-it-yourselfers, the spokesman said.

The Woodbridge home center will also offer the complete "Dr. Wally" program, featuring Wally Barnett, the Channel "Home Doctor." A special "800" phone number (800-572-1077) enables customers to call Dr. Wally toll-free for instant advice on everything from repairing a leaky roof to installing a burglar alarm. Forty-nine free booklets on common home improvement projects are also available at this and all Channel Home Centers.

Diaper-clad racers: potty stop not legal

The 42nd annual Diaper Derby, billed as the world's champion crawling race, will be held at noon Sept. 7 at the opening of New Jersey State Fair, along Route 33, Hamilton Township, near Trenton.

Parents of babies still in the crawling stage who want to enter their infants in the derby are asked to write for free entry blanks to: Diaper Derby Director, New Jersey State Fair, P.O. Box 8174, Trenton, N.J. 08650.

The event, described as the "Olympics of the infant set," has been covered annually by national TV, newspapers and magazines, and has been featured in books and motion pictures.

There will be a starting gate, a finish line, a winner's circle, and parents' and grandparents' cheering section at the derby. Any baby who gets up and walks during the race will be disqualified.

Babies will compete in heats from the starting gate on a 60-foot course in front of the Grandstand at the fair, with the winner of each "heat" competing in the final race. They will be coaxed across the finish line by their mothers or fathers with the aid of toys, bottles, and other attention-getting paraphernalia. The grand winner will be awarded various prizes, including a U.S. savings bond, as well as becoming the focus of local TV stations and newspapers.

Jewish arts fest accents innovation

Innovation is the key word for the seventh annual presentation of the Jewish Festival of the Arts to be held at the Garden State Arts Center in Holmdel, 3 p.m. and 8 p.m., Sept. 9. For the first time in the highly successful series, there will be two performances on the same day instead of the usual two-day schedule.

Donald Myers of Roselle, general chairman of the event, explained, "Because of the unusually heavy demand for our Sunday performance, and with the cooperation of the co-sponsoring New Jersey Highway Authority and all the performing artists, we have decided to reschedule the second performance (originally scheduled for Sept. 10) so that both shows will take place on the one day.

"Tickets already issued and distributed for Monday night will be good for the Sunday evening performance. Refunds will be made to those who purchased Monday night tickets but cannot attend the Sunday night show.

Information on the fund is available by calling 201-442-8600, extension 221, weekdays from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

UC 'aid' class set evenings

A three-credit emergency medical training course will be offered at Union College in the evening for the first time in the fall semester, which opens Sept. 4.

The course, which has been offered at the college for many years as an official U.S. Department of Transportation course, will be conducted Tuesday and Thursday evenings to attract those whose schedules previously prevented them from attending. The course focuses on emergency care and transportation of the sick and injured. Students completing it will be accredited by the New Jersey State Department of Health as an ambulance emergency medical technician.

The course, prepared by the Committee on Emergency Medical Services of the National Academy of Sciences, consists of classroom work and hospital clinical training.

The course is generally a requirement for all ambulance personnel and is important to individuals administering emergency medical care.

The classes will be held from 7:55 to 10:35. Information is available by calling college admissions hot line, 272-8580 or 272-8581.

$75,000 grant aids study

A study of the structure and function of cell membranes that may give more exact information about disease processes will be made by Dr. Richard Mendelsohn of the Rutgers Newark chemistry department with a $75,000 grant from the National Science Foundation.

The project is aimed at learning more about the basic mechanisms by which lipids and proteins, the cell's two prime components, interact or how they recognize and affect each other. Knowledge of cell structure and interaction is fundamental to understanding all cellular processes in human life, including disease, Dr. Mendelsohn said.

The approach to be used in the study is unusual, Dr. Mendelsohn believes, because it will be based on a sensitive form of laser spectroscopy, as an analytical tool, to extract molecular information.

"Through molecular spectroscopy, we will analyze the effect of electromagnetic radiation on these complex molecules," Dr. Mendelsohn said. "Motions of the lipid and protein components may then be detected, enabling us to deduce facts about their structure as they interact."

The study will have medical and other biological applications, especially in the field of membrane transport, or how substances necessary for cell growth enter the cell and how unwanted material is excreted from it.
