'Show biz' veteran remembers at 80

By FRANCIS X. MURPHY

An engaging perspective on history is ignored in these days of special resource teachers, child study teams and educational television.

It is that provided by senior citizens. Carl Hector of Mountainside is a case point.

Hector, an 80-year-old retired employee of Public Service Electric and Gas, came to the United States in 1923 from northern Germany to show Americans how to operate "show business." Now Hector introduces—listeners to German culture with voluminous anecdotes and a collection of memorabilia.

"In Germany, what we called show business is different from what you have in this country," German show business until World War II was mostly a collection of town and regional fairs, according to Hector. These fairs were scheduled from one, two or three days for small towns up to several months for large fairs like those held in Hamburg.

Amusements at these fairs were provided on a contract basis. Hector's father was an amusement ride contractor and these contractors are what he refers to as "show business."

The Hector family owed its start in German show business to Czechoslovakia and other landlocked countries of central Europe, which paid both import and export duties if they had goods delivered by ship. Northern German free ports waived import duties when an importer rented free port warehouse space. The free ports became prosperous round-the-clock operations.

When he was a boy, Hector's family ran a 24-hour restaurant and hotel in Wilhelmshaven, a German free port. "Ships came and left the port at all hours and seamen were looking for a place to go at any time of the day or night." Carl's mother worked the day shift and father took over at night.

In the years preceding World War I, Carl's father heard of a new invention, moving pictures. An adventurous man (the senior Hector was a diver in the turn-of-the-century German Navy), he bought a projector and films to increase beer sales. Rather than charge admission the price of beer went up two cents during movies and young Carl was assigned to fill every beer mug in the cafe as often as possible. "When we saw a glass near empty we grabbed it and filled it. If a customer sat too long with one beer, we told him, 'Drink that up, you need a fresh one.'"

Once a week Carl's father took a train to Paris and bought three new films: one feature, one comedy and a newsreel. At the end of a year the Hectors had a stockpile of films most of their customers had already seen. To get greater use from the films the Hectors built a movie house on the other side of town.

The ever-increasing number of films precipitated the Hectors' entrance into show business. They hired an advance man and took their films on the road.

From the movie business the Hectors moved on to amusement rides in 1909 when the senior Hector designed and built a swing ride with interchangeable seats, slats for adults and carved horses for children. Shortly afterwards Carl's aunt married a man who inherited a merry-go-round and the family became solidly entrenched in show business.

The picturesque merry-go-round was driven by horses and Carl is in the process of making a slide collection from his many photographs of it and other amusement rides his family built and used in the years before and after World War I.

The family traveled with a wagon for living quarters and a wagon to carry its portable amusement rides. Some of the rides were larger than a house and all were assembled by a system of struts, metal sleeves and wedge pins.

In 1923 an American family bought one of the large swing rides Carl's father designed in 1909. The Americans sent a young son to Germany to learn how to assemble and operate the ride from the Hectors. "He got himself tied up with a pretty German girl and didn't learn much of anything." When the son returned he couldn't get the ride to work so the family requested the Hectors to send someone to the United States.

Carl's father saw this as a business opportunity and sent 23-year-old Carl to the United State to put the ride together and sound out future business. "I couldn't speak any English at the time." Carl directed workers with two phrases, "Put that here" and "Put that there."

Show business in the United States was not the same as in Germany and after traveling with a carnival for a while, Carl dropped out of it. He took a room on Monroe Avenue, Elizabeth, to be near a seabornd area he intended to return to Germany.

While in Elizabeth, Carl designed and built his last amusement ride. "The woman downstairs tried to build a seesaw for herself and her daughter with cinder blocks and a plank of wood." Carl says they looked so pitiful that he built the seesaw for them.

It revolved as well as going up and down. Also, the height was adjustable so both children and adults could use it. Impressed with the craftsmanship, the neighbors urged Carl to take out a patent. The patent cost Carl $250. "I never got a thing out of it," Carl laments good naturedly.

August bid date planned for flood control project

After seven years of squabbling between Mountainside and Union County, plans for flood control of the New Providence Road stream crossing are nearing completion.

Bids for the combined culvert and concrete channel will be solicited during August, according to Robert Koser, Mountainside director of public works.

The troublesome stream feeds into Echo Lake and crosses New Providence Road near Children's Specialized Hospital. New Providence Road is a county road but the land the stream flows through on either side of the road is privately-owned property.

The flood control project includes enlarging the culvert under the roadway and constructing a concrete channel from 1,000 feet upstream of the road to 100 feet downstream of the road. Union County will be responsible for the cost of enlarging the culvert and Mountainside will bear the cost of upstream and downstream improvements.

Mountainside instigated the project, reportedly because of repeated flood damage to upstream property owners. According to Bruce Geiger, Borough Council president, the present culvert's small size impedes runoff and causes flooding upstream of New Providence Road.

Geiger said the proposed concrete channel will act as a flume, accelerating upstream water flow and decelerating flow once the stream passes under New Providence Road. Also the channel is designed to prevent backflow and erosion of the culvert and roadway.

Mayor Thomas J. Ricciardi said Mountainside's nonacceptance of a county proposal to widen New Providence Road in conjunction with the flood control project is one reason action has been delayed for so many years. Geiger says acquiring both temporary and permanent egress to the channel sites causes additional delays.

Elson T. Killam Associates, the borough's engineer, estimates the cost of the project at $326,000. Koser reported the borough already has approved an ordinance for its share of the cost and, Geiger said, financing will be combined with other borough projects totalling $1 million.

The combined bidding of the New Providence Road flood control will be done through Union County, according to Koser. Koser and Geiger estimated the project's completion from six months to a year. New Providence Road is expected to be closed for several days at some point during construction.

Borough officials said they are pleased to see the project finally undertaken and feel the borough is getting a fair deal from the county.

Dayton tapping student talents

By LINDA CARLEU

Three high school juniors who have composed a rock opera, designed a solar collector and computerized the astronomy library of Union College have one thing in common.

They are students in Jonathan Dayton Regional High School's year-old gifted and talented program.

The program, one of the first gifted and talented programs at the high school level in the state, was designed for "the untapped talent (in Jonathan Dayton) that wasn't being developed," said Dennis Fox, program coordinator.

"We realized there are some very bright kids who aren't being challenged," he added.

Fox and the three other regional high school gifted and talented coordinators challenge the students by asking them to develop a project plan related to their special interests.

The projects ranged from developing a war game based on the current balance of power in Europe to a study of the changing representation of the male nude in art to the effect drinks such as Gatorade have on body chemistry and athletic performance.

"The thrust of the program is that they have an area they want to pursue," Fox said. After the project is chosen, he helps the students find mentors who are specialists in that area.

Peter Bisio, rock opera composer, had a mentor who was a former student at Dayton and a staff member of the Julliard School of Music.

Although Bisio was part of a five-piece rock band before entering the gifted and talented program, he had little knowledge of composition, Fox said. By the end of the year, he almost had completed a rock opera with parts for a five-piece band and strings, he said.

Next year, instead of becoming a senior at Jonathan Dayton, Bisio will enter the New School of Social Research as a freshman.

The students have one class at the end of the day for field trips and problem-solving exercises, but a lot of the individual project work is done after school and on weekends, Fox said.

One of the only changes in the program next year will be a group problem-solving project during that class time that the students will initiate and solve themselves, Fox said.

Community or school problems may be considered by the students, he said.

One problem the nation faces that student Larry Prager thought about was solar energy. He designed a solar collector for his gifted and talented project with the help of a mentor from the New Jersey Institute of Technology.

He could not build the project, however, because the program does not receive funding for individual projects, Fox noted. Costs for the projects must be donated or supplied by the student or parent, Fox said.

The solar collector would have cost more than $300 to build, according to Fox.

Michael Fink's project turned out to be a two-way affair. With the help of a mentor from Western Electric, he computerized the astronomy library of Union College. In return, he taught the staff computer language.

Once finished with that project, Fink developed a scouting program for the Dayton football coach.

Scouting for students to participate in the program is equitable, Fox said.

"Everyone has an equal opportunity to get into the program. We look at everyone," he said.

A committee of three teachers evaluates test scores and takes teacher and student recommendations.

The 12 students in last year's program represent the three or four percent of the student body that theoretically should be gifted and talented, according to Fox.

The students that are selected do not always finish the program, however. Last year, two dropped out because they could not find a project, Fox said. They continued to excel in their regular classes, he added.

Blood pressure, diabetes tests set

The Mountainside Board of Health will conduct its monthly blood pressure and diabetes screening clinic tomorrow from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. at the Mountainside Municipal Building.

A generous meal including toast, cereal and jam or jelly should be eaten by those taking the diabetes test 1 1/2 to 2 hours before the test, according to a spokesman for the clinic. There is no charge for the tests.

Residents to feel Rt. 78 impact

Mountainside and Springfield residents will feel the impact of Route 78, but appear to have adopted an attitude of resigned acceptance to completion of the highway.

"I'm a little sick about it but, there's not much they feel can be done," said Carol Dowser of Park Lane, Springfield, referring to residents.

The rear of Dowser's property borders the end of the completed part of Route 78, where it empties into Route 24 west.

"The house actually vibrates when trucks drive by," she said. "The highway is an alarm clock for us from 6:30 to 8 every morning and 4 to 7 every afternoon during commuter rush hour."

Accidents often have occurred often near the exit ramp since the highway opened in 1974. Dowser often is the first to report an accident or call for an ambulance.

Occasionally, she and her husband Don, a township policeman, have gone out on the highway with a flashlight in the early hours of the morning after a screech and crash signaled that a car had overturned.

She and about 25 other households on Park Lane that border the highway have learned to live with the traffic, noise and accidents.

"They're just accepting it," she said. Margaret Halpin of Bryant Avenue, Springfield, lives a block away from a completed overpass in the path of the preferred alignment for the Route 78 right-of-way.

Her neighborhood is quiet now, but she remembers the summer of 1972 when construction on the overpass was taking place.

Bulldozers flattened the land and trucks brought in fill, filling the air with dust and noise, she said.

She is unhappy that the highway could be completed near her house and that the Houdaille Quarry could be bought by the state to be used as a dumping ground, but she is resigned to what she believes is its inevitability.

"There's going to be a highway over there, 99 percent sure," she said.

"I feel for the reservation and the quarry is an added problem," she said. She noted that the quarry was used as a parking lot during the U.S. Open, causing a layer of dust in the air during most of the golf tournament.

"I haven't done anything to try and stop it, although I keep up with its progress through the grapevine," she said.

Halpin bought her house in 1970. She said that when she bought the house, she knew she could have a highway as a neighbor and now she is reluctant to protest the proposed right-of-way.

The quarry will pose additional problems, however. Although dormant for two years, when the Houdaille Corp. blasted for rock there, neighbors of the quarry said they suffered from noise and dust.

The vacant quarry probably will be bought by the state Department of Transportation (DOT) and used as a dumping site for excavated material if 5 1/2 miles of highway is completed through Springfield and the Watchung

Foundation formed for photojournalists

A Robert "Bob" Baxter Scholarship Foundation has been formed to provide scholarships for students of photography in a recognized college or technical school, trustees for the foundation announced this week.

The foundation was formed by a group of New Jersey press photographers to honor Baxter, a former photographer for this newspaper and its sister publications, who suffered spinal cord injuries in a swimming accident in August 1971. Now paralyzed, he is a patient at the U.S. Veterans Administration Center in East Orange. A Navy veteran, he operated Baxter Associates, a photo agency, in Union Township before his accident.

Since becoming a patient at the VA Center, he has written several books of poems and poetry as well as articles on the problems of the handicapped. The principal and use the interest for scholarships—for future photojournalists.

Reservation, according to federal highway administration officials.

Planning for the highway can be traced back as far as 1954 when highway planners tried to plan to relieve the heavy flow of traffic on Route 22.

The route remained tentative until 1957 when a rough draft was released that brought anguished howls from community leaders who claimed that the state was planning a new route without consulting them.

In 1970, the National Environmental Protection Act was passed, requiring an environmental impact statement for federal highway projects. Environmentalists protested that running the highway through the reservation would harm plant and animal life.

The protests are heard less frequently now.

"You can say your peace and there's no need to reiterate. They know our position," said Sarah Glenn, conservation chairman of the Watchung Nature Club.

"I will do anything to try and stop it, though," she added.

Little Leaguers take 2nd in tournament

The inaugural Mountainside Little League Invitational Tournament proved a success as the Mountaineers finished second in the eight-team field, losing only to perennial mid-Jersey champion West Orange.

Springfield placed third and Maplewood fourth in the tournament.

Matthew Miller, who led the tournament in RBIs, and Brian Dailey, who finished one behind Miller, were both named to the all-tournament nine.

In the opening round, Miller doubled and singled for three Mountainside runs, as Mountainside topped Watchung, 5-3. Miller thwarted a Watchung rally in relief to save the win for starter Todd Richter. Dailey, Mike Wood and Richter all hit well for Mountainside. Greg Torborg played a fine game in right field.

In their semi-final game, the Mountaineers exploded for six runs in the third inning to hold off Maplewood, 10-7. Miller drove in three runs with a triple off the center fence. Brian Dailey followed two batters later with a towering three-run homer. Myles Carter, Mark Walters and Steve Burton contributed timely hits and, Rob O'Neil's strong relief effort preserved the win for Walters.

In the tournament final, powerhouse West Orange proved too much and the Mountaineers came home with a 12-1 loss. Mountainside stayed close in the early innings on the hitting of Jimmy Rau and Mike Wood. Rau, Carter, Miller and Duane Connell all made fine defensive plays, but the potent bats and fine pitching of West Orange eventually proved decisive.

Weinstein is honored

The National Junior Science and Humanities Symposium (NJSHS) has honored Ellen Michele Weinstein of Mountainside for excellence in scientific research.

At the NJSHS 18th annual meeting, held at the University of South Carolina, Weinstein was awarded an all-expense-paid trip to the London International Youth Science Fortnight in England.

Weinstein, a graduate of Jonathan Dayton Regional High School, was one of six American students selected to attend the July 30 to Aug. 13 scientific festival at the University of London.

The NJSHS program is an annual event reaching more than 7,000 students at 37 universities, four academies and the Dependent School System of Europe. The NJSHS program is sponsored by the U.S. Army in cooperation with the Academy of Applied Science, Raleigh, N.C.

Maj. Gen. James H. Patterson, director of battlefield systems integration for the U. S. Army Material Development and Readiness Command, presented Weinstein with a certificate of achievement for her work on "Immunomodulation of Antibody Responses." Patterson also presented a U. S. Army research award to Dayton Regional for scientific excellence by a graduate.

Weinstein received an invitation to the NJSHS when her paper was selected as the outstanding work at the New Jersey regional symposium, held at Fairleigh Dickinson University under the direction of Dr. Malcolm Sturchio.

Weinstein plans to continue her education in the field of clinical research.

45 courses offered for UC part-timers

Forty-five sections of college credit courses—the most ever offered in Union College's weekday-weekend college program—will be available in the fall semester, beginning Sept. 2. The program offers once-a-week classes—mornings, afternoons and Saturdays.

The weekend program allows students to earn degree credits on Friday nights and Saturday mornings and afternoons.

The weekday-weekend student may take any combination of day, evening or weekend courses, which meet once a week for 2 1/2 hours.

Beginning with the fall semester, Union College will offer 37 courses, with several of the more popular subjects offered in several sections at different times and days. The courses—which range from an introduction to mathematics to abnormal psychology—include studies in business, arts, psychology and sociology, history, criminal justice and modern languages.

Courses offered weekdays are scheduled for after-work hours or daytime hours which do not interfere with home or child-caring obligations.

The 37 courses offered in the program carry full college credits and may be used for associate degree programs at the college.

Friday courses are scheduled from 6 to 8:45 p.m.; Saturday courses from 9 to 11:45 a.m. and 12:30 to 3:15 p.m. Students may register by mail or by calling the admissions hot line (272-8580 or 272-8581).

The board also will monitor reports of the County Superintendent of Schools and discuss the T and E annual plan. Residents of the district are invited to attend.

Temperature sets a 20-year record

July 21, afternoon temperature of 102 degrees is a record high in the 20 year history of the Cooperative Weather Station at Union College, according to Trish MacKay, director of public information. The previous high for the date was 101 degrees.

Business news NYC jobless rate is stable

JOAN H. FOSTER of Roselle, assistant branch manager of the Commercial Trust Co. of New Jersey, Stiles Street office in Linden, has been promoted to assistant treasurer. She has served in various capacities throughout Union County branches and was appointed assistant branch manager in 1977.

ings of $5 million, or 30 cents per share, in the second quarter of 1979. GAF stated that building industry-related product lines suffered significantly, and that after tax, non-cash foreign exchange translation losses were a major factor in the quarter.

JOANNE T. BUCKSHAW of Union was appointed assistant vice president for Capital Savings and Loan Association and SUSAN L. CZARNATOWICZ of Cranford was named assistant secretary and branch manager of the association's Linden-Roselle office. Buckshaw also will continue to serve as head teller.

The New York City unemployment rate averaged 8.5 percent in the first half of 1980, about the same as last year, according to Samuel M. Ehrenhalt, Bureau of Labor Statistics' regional commissioner. In contrast, the national rate rose from 5.9 percent to 7.0 percent, with increases for whites and blacks, adults and teenagers and men and women.

Most of the national labor market deterioration took place in the second quarter of 1980, Ehrenhalt said; on a seasonally-adjusted basis, he said, the national unemployment rate rose from 6.1 percent in the first quarter to 7.5 percent in the second.

In 1979, the second quarter rate was 8.8 percent; in 1980 it was 7.7 percent. The New York City rate was not significantly above the national rate in the second quarter of 1980; Ehrenhalt noted that the year before it had been 1 1/2 times the national rate.

He noted that improvement in the city's jobless situation, relative to the national, was evident for each of the major population groups studied although the unemployment rates for adult men and youths of both sexes remained sharply above comparable national averages. The city's adult male rate was 7.8 percent in the second quarter of 1980, compared to 6.0 percent nationally. The rate for the city's youth was 26.8 percent; the national rate was 18.3 percent.

Nationally, the rise in the unemployment rate between the second quarters of 1979 and 1980 was accompanied by a dip in the proportion of the working age population with jobs, from 59.9 percent to 59.2. In New York City, the unemployment-population rate changed little over the year but, at 51.0 percent, continued markedly below the national average.

Car seats can sizzle

The recent spell of hot weather has prompted the N.J. Safety Council to remind parents that the summer sun can overheat the metal hardware and vinyl coverings of children's car seats.

The council has issued the following safety guidelines: check the temperature of the seat before the child is allowed to sit there and place a blanket or towel over the seat if it is too hot; park in the shade to avoid direct sunlight on the seat, and if the car must be parked in the sun, cover the seat with a light-colored blanket or towel to prevent heat absorption.

Middletown Farms: affordable Colonials

A new single-family community is previewing this weekend off Route 35 in Middletown Township. Williamsburg Associates, the prestigious building and realty firm headquartered in Shrewsbury, is developing Middletown Farms, a community appealing to potential homebuyers at affordable prices.

Being built on the Old Voorhees Farm Estates which dates back to the early 1700s, the community will consist of 30 model homes. Offered to all qualified purchasers will be a 10 1/2 percent graduated mortgage plan. The quality construction and excellent craftsmanship represented by Williamsburg Associates is featured in the four Colonial-styled model

Citation to Klein

Yetta Klein has been named sales associate of the month, it was announced by Phil Albanese, assistant manager of the Berg Agency office at 1887 Morris Ave., Union.

Mrs. Klein, who has been associated with Berg since April 1978, resides in Union with her husband Louis.

The Berg Agency is the state's largest residential realtor with 22 offices. It is an operating part of Berg Enterprises Inc., the nation's second largest residential realtor with 120 offices coast to coast.

homes. Williamsburg Associates are the creators of the highly successful Woodlake Heights in Middletown. Williamsburg at Manalapan and Williamsburg at Colts Neck.

"When we built our homes, we never take any phase of craftsmanship for granted," states Dom Martelli, president of Williamsburg Associates. "Only high-quality materials are used and a great deal of effort and supervision combine to make the structural and aesthetic value of our homes second to none in this price range."

The Colonial-designed homes, priced from $75,990, will feature such standards as four-bedrooms, 2 1/2 baths, family room, R-13 wall and R-19 ceiling insulation, a Magic Chef appliance package, wall-to-wall carpeting, natural gas heat, wood kitchen cabinets, and garage. The thickly insulated walls, ceilings and floors make the home energy-efficient.

Located in an area surrounded by parks and recreational centers, Middletown Farms residents will find leisure-time activities unlimited. Beautiful beaches, deep-sea fishing, surf casting, boating, camping, hunting, clamming, swimming and just plain "having fun in the great outdoors" are all immediately at hand. There are also rivers, lakes, streams, local, county and state parks just minutes away. For those who create and those who appreciate, the Garden State Arts Center on Telegraph Hill Park in Holmdel will provide residents with all phases of the performing arts world.

Middletown Township offers an excellent educational system with both private and public primary and secondary schools. Monmouth College, Brookdale Community College, Princeton and Rutgers are also nearby. Churches of all denominations are represented along with convenient shopping, banking and local municipal facilities.

Middletown Farms is within easy reach of the East's metropolitan cities: only an hour north to New York, the commercial-entertainment capital of the world; and an hour south to Philadelphia and convenient to Boston and Washington. Ready transportation for commuters is offered by the railroad line, Conrail, and Route 35, Route 36 and the Garden State Parkway.

To reach the Middletown Farms community, take the Garden State Parkway to Exit 114 to Red Hill Road and follow to Kings Highway. Make a left on Kings Highway, cross Route 35 to the first traffic light and proceed straight approximately 1,500 feet. Then bear left onto Main Street and make a right at the blinking light and follow to Ravatt Road which will be on the left, which will lead you to the community.

Minieri helps freeze Florida home prices

The commitment of Northerners rushing to the pleasurable lifestyle of sunny Florida continues as increasing numbers seek relief from high energy costs and high taxes. However, the combination of high interest rates and the air of economic uncertainty, have hampered the efforts of many to sell their present homes before purchasing in Florida.

Undoubtedly, this has been a point of frustration to many eager purchasers who sit watching the price of Florida real estate and housing soar upward. But now relief is in sight as one builder, who has been dedicated to making the Florida dream of thousands come true for nearly a quarter century, introduces a program to help purchasers "freeze" the price of today and benefit from the expected lower interest rates of tomorrow. The builder is Suncoast developer, Carl Minieri, and the plan is called the Buyer Rescue Plan.

This attractive 18-month program works to allow buyers to purchase at today's price level with a low down payment and maintain their new home after completion with interim financing at a reasonable 9 1/2 percent. Briefly, the plan works as follows:

Step 1: Purchaser selects the home and places a down payment equaling 10 percent of the total purchase price. The purchaser pays no loan-closing costs.

Step 2: The home is constructed. Throughout the construction period, the purchaser pays no interest or finance payments.

Step 3: Upon completion of the home, purchaser takes possession. At this time, interest-only payments at an annual rate of 9 1/2 percent of any unpaid portion of the purchase price begins. Purchaser may keep the unpaid portion at the remaining 90 percent of the price or reduce the balance, thereby reducing interest payments. Interest-only payments may continue for the balance of an 18-month term which began on the date the purchase contract was signed, e.g., a 6-month construction term would leave a balance of 12 months. At any point after completion of the home, during the term outlined above, the purchaser may stop interest-only payments and exercise any of the following options when circumstances are most favorable to purchaser:

a. Pay off any unpaid balance of the price.

b. Assume an 80 percent mortgage (or less, if customer prefers) and "lock in" permanent 29-year financing at the then prevailing rate of interest.

c. Apply for permanent financing in excess of 80 percent of the purchase price.

Purchasers move into a new home with only 10 percent down now, guaranteeing today's price and at anytime, when interest rates appear most favorable, "lock in" the rate of long-term financing.

The program, which is being well received in the Tampa Bay vicinity, is attracting both buyers seeking a primary residence and investors wishing to take advantage of the plan's leverage to cash in on the popular Florida housing market. "Even prior to its public unveiling, potential purchasers were reserving lots when hearing about the new plan from our salespeople," said the Minieri Communities' executive vice president, John Hudson. "I firmly believe that this offering will help many homebuyers make the move they have wanted to, but have been unable to do at this time."

Introduction of the program coincides with Minieri's grand opening of Country Villas South, one of the three select Suncoast communities where the Buyer Rescue Plan is being made available. Located in the beautiful Suncoast locale of Clearwater, this prestigious community of single-family homes offers a country spirited atmosphere in a location which provides a contemporary lifestyle of total convenience. Within moments of Country Villas South are beaches, country clubs, fine restaurants, schools and an array of shopping centers including the giant two-level Countryside Mall which contains four major department stores, an indoor ice skating rink and over 100 fine specialty shops.

In addition to the many other services available in metropolitan Clearwater, the community's central Bay vicinity location provides residents with easy access to Tampa, the commercial and cultural hub of Florida's Suncoast region. Here, in this flourishing city convenient to Country Villas South are prosperous commerce centers, international travel through Tampa's ultra modern airport, an abundance of nightlife and a wide range of professional sporting events including the exciting NFL Tampa Bay Buccaneers and soccer's Tampa Rowdies.

Like all communities offering the Buyer Rescue Plan, Country Villas South offers homebuyers Minieri's Prestige Series collection of luxury homes. The selection features a choice of 2, 3 and 4 bedroom models which feature design that blends Florida's casual lifestyle with a touch of elegance. All models are constructed to the standards of quality which the reputation of Minieri has come to mean since 1959. Among the quality construction features are durable steel reinforced concrete construction, energy efficient insulated standards, central climate control with advanced heat pump engineering and quality General Electric appliances.

Typical of the collection of Prestige Series homes is the attractive Cameron II. This well-planned two bedroom, two bath home offers a contemporary exterior design which includes minimum maintenance aluminum soffit, covered quarry tiled entry and shingle roof consistent with the community's natural surroundings.

On the interior, the Cameron's design provides for separation of formal living-dining area, casual living center and bedroom area. Among the home's most dramatic design elements is the casual living center which blends the kitchen, dinette and family room into one spacious area. The fully modern kitchen a breakfast bar, crafted nice cabinets, luminous ceiling light, GE self-cleaning oven, dishwasher and disposal unit. Other attractive standards features include a two-car garage, three sets of tempered sliding glass doors opening to the home's backyard and a formal living-dining area, as well as wall to wall carpeting throughout.

The Cameron, like all Prestige Series model available at Country Villas South, has been awarded the Florida Power Energy Savings Home designation. This award is conferred upon homes that comply with exceptional energy-saving standards which together work to cut the home's energy costs to 35 percent.

This beautiful home of distinction is available at Country Villas South complete with fully sodded lot at $74,665. The Cameron is also available in a three bedroom, three bath version. Other complete home and site selections are available in Country Villas South from $65,865 to $88,165.

Carl Minieri has been building along Florida's Suncoast since 1959. During his climb to becoming one of Florida's most prominent builders, he has always worked to offer exceptional value in housing to the Sunshine state's continually increasing population. To date, he has been responsible for the building of thousands of homes in a list of successful Suncoast communities. Among the other communities Minieri Communities of Florida is presently building are Dove Hollow (Tarpon Springs), Orchid Lake Village (Port Richey), The Cove at Bayport Colony (Tampa) and the highly successful community of Regency Park, USA (Port Richey). The firm offers complete home and site packages from an incredible $23,990 to $90,000, depending upon the community and model.

For full details about the Buyer Rescue Plan, Country Villas South, or any of the other Minieri Communities, write to Minieri Communities of Florida, Inc., 276 Closter Dock Road, Closter, N.J. 07624 or call (813) 848-7412. 7 1/2-percent mortgage at 'Patterson'

Patterson Village, a luxury single-family home community in the Freehold area, has obtained a 7 1/2-percent mortgage plan for its buyers. The community, developed by Hovbilt Inc., revolves around a Colonial estate-like concept.

Offering many luxury standard features—such as air conditioning, fireplaces, four or five bedrooms, cathedral ceilings, gas heat and appliances, two-car garage, greenhouse windows, skylights, bay windows and extra-thick insulation in various models—prices start at $94,990 on lots from 1/2 to 1 1/2 acres.

"The 7 1/2-percent mortgage plan, with a minimum 10 percent down payment, makes Patterson Village the most affordable luxury community in Monmouth County," said Vahak S. Hovnanian, president of Hovbilt, a developer of more than 3,000 homes in Monmouth and Ocean counties.

"We have designed a home with an abundance of living space and all the luxury features at a price which outdoes our competitors by at least $10,000. In addition, the 7 1/2-percent financing plan allows our buyers to afford a home which otherwise would cost $25,000 more," added Richard J. Bellows, executive vice president.

The Patterson Village sales office is open daily from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Admission to the Newark Archdiocesan School of Liturgical Music will be processed through the worship office, 260 South Main St., Lodi (472-2500). It was announced that pre-registration may be accomplished by mail through Aug. 25. Classes are scheduled to begin Sept. 3.

Air quality booklet marks lung unit's anniversary

A booklet on air quality in New Jersey is a major accomplishment marking the 74th anniversary year of the American Lung Association of New Jersey, according to Charles R. Ream, M.D., president of the association. The booklet, "Air Pollution in New Jersey—Problems, Programs and Progress," the booklet is presented in four sections and provides information about all aspects of air pollution in the state, according to Ream. The sections are: What's in the air? What are we doing about it? Costs and benefits of cleaning up, and Where do we go from here? Ream also cited other accomplishments of the society in the past year as listed in the organization's annual report, including awarding of grants totaling $10,000 to support pulmonary disease training in the state.

DIAMOND APPRAISALS

Resorts' prize called near-worthless junk

By ADAM K. LEVIN, Director, Division of Consumer Affairs. Prizes being offered to New Jersey consumers in solicitations for certain vacation "time-sharing" plans are not worth the price of the gasoline you'll burn driving to pick up the prize.

Two firms promoting time sharing of resort hotel rooms in the Poconos have sent mass solicitations by mail to New Jersey residents. The so-called prize which has been received by some consumers who have complained to us is a near-worthless piece of junk jewelry promoted as a genuine one-quarter carat diamond necklace. The diamond is genuine—but it's only the lowest grade common industrial diamond that is worth, at best, less than $10.

The solicitation informs consumers that they have received one of several prizes, and that the consumer must travel to the resort to receive the prize. When the consumer arrives to pick up his prize, he then gets a prolonged and intense sales pitch for the vacation time-sharing plan.

Time-sharing plans typically involve contracts by which consumers become obligated to pay a substantial sum of money to acquire the right to use a room at a resort for a specified week (for example, the third week in September) every year for a term of years. In some of these contracts consumers get locked into a vacation plan for 10 years or more.

The consumers who have responded to the solicitations currently being distributed in New Jersey were not informed which of the prizes they had won until they arrived at the resort for the sales pitch. The enticing aspect of this promotion is that the one-quarter carat diamond—which itself sounds like a great prize—is sandwiched in a list of fabulous-sounding prizes, such as a color television set or $1,000 in cash.

The New Jersey Division of Consumer Affairs recommends these precautionary measures before signing a contract for a time-sharing resort vacation plan:

- Be suspicious of high pressure sales pitches.
- Tell the salesperson you will not sign anything until you have an attorney review all papers.
- Ask yourself if you really want to spend your vacation at the same resort every year.
- Carefully examine the finance terms.

Questions concerning promotions for time-sharing vacation plans should be directed to the Office of Consumer Protection, Room 405, 1100 Raymond Blvd., Newark, N.J. 07102.

Kean receives $1 million grant

Kean College in Union will receive a Title III grant from the U.S. Department of Education totalling nearly $1 million, enabling the college to study, design and evaluate improved college services programs.

"This is the first grant we've received which is strictly for the institution and for the training and development of our own people," said Dr. Richard Nichols, dean of graduate studies and coordinator of the grant proposal.

The Kean program was favorably received because it gave top consideration to planning, student data and evaluation systems which are planned for the next two years, according to Nichols.

In previous years, Title III grants have been given only to private and community colleges in New Jersey. With receipt of the $944,000 grant, Kean and Jersey City State are the only two New Jersey state colleges to receive Title III funds for strengthening developing institutions.

Nichols said that $170,000 would go to developing computer information systems to make it easier for Kean to conduct long-range planning. An additional $75,000 will go to the use of computers for developmental studies.

Strength development studies will receive $96,000 of the grant. This area will include programs dealing with student basic skills, such as the English as a second language program and writing courses.

"We must address the multi-cultural population which is attending Kean College in greater numbers," said Nichols.

Student life services, which is being allotted $60,000 from the grant, will include human relations training of staff who work directly with students.

"Our objectives are for self-assessment to see how well we respond to student concerns," said Nichols. "We'll look at current student activities and see what modifications we need to make to get all the different types of students involved."

Focus also will be placed on the consolidation of human resources, which will include the shifting of staff personnel to meet understaffing or overstaffing in certain areas of the college, according to Nichols.

The Kean program will be subject to quarterly progress audits by U.S. Department of Education Title III administrators as well as various college officials.

"We're just getting our feet off the ground," said Nichols.
