Dr. Bruce Evans officiated at the ceremony in First Presbyterian Church, Springfield. A reception followed at the home of the groom.

Lisa Cook served as maid of honor. Anna Marie Cook was a bridesmaid. Kevin Mahoney served as best man. Ushers were Edward Cook, Arthur Cook and William O'Donnell.

Auxiliary group plans to meet

Hahnes's Westfield will sponsor two meetings to recruit persons who can give some time and effort during the coming year to Spaulding for Children's Volunteer Auxiliary Sept. 16.

Both meetings will be at Hahnes's restaurant. The morning meeting will run from 9 to 10:30 a.m. and the evening meeting from 7:15 to 8:45 p.m.

Since preparations need to be arranged for refreshments, it would be appreciated if those interested would telephone the Spaulding office in Westfield at 233-2282 and designate which meeting they plan to attend.

Spaulding for Children is a non-profit, free adoption agency which places special needs children of all races and is certified by New Jersey. It has an active volunteer auxiliary which believes that children should have a permanent home and family. Its members come from Springfield, Kenilworth and Mountainside.

The auxiliary is an active arm of the agency and serves on varied levels including skilled office help, recruiting, public relations and fund raising.

John Boyne, executive director, will briefly sketch the present adoption picture and the agency's activities and purposes at the morning and evening meetings.

Prospective volunteer members will have an opportunity to meet and chat with auxiliary members and ask questions about Spaulding to define their potential roles as new members.

Blood drives this weekend

The Red Cross of Greater Union County, in cooperation with the New Jersey Blood Services, will conduct two blood drives during Labor Day weekend to prevent a serious blood shortage.

The Evangel Church, 656 N. Broad St., Elizabeth, will welcome area residents wishing to donate blood Friday from 4 to 9 p.m. A long-time supporter of Red Cross Blood Services, the church annually hosts a drive when blood inventories are low.

The Greater Union County Red Cross, located at 203 W. Jersey St., Elizabeth, will open its doors to donors Saturday from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.

New Jersey Blood Services, a division of the Greater New York Blood Program, operates with participating Red Cross chapters throughout central and northern New Jersey, supplying 65 hospitals with approximately the 300 units of blood needed daily. Industrial shut-downs, lay-offs and vacations cause such a decrease in collections that shortages occur, while patient needs remain constant.

Information on donating blood is available from the Red Cross at 353-2500 or the New Jersey Blood Services at 828-9101. Information on blood drives also is available.

Dance groups stress aerobic

Registration is under way for three aerobic dancing classes to be offered twice weekly for 12 weeks this fall in Springfield. A free demonstration is scheduled for Wednesday at 9:30 a.m. at Temple Beth Ahm on Temple Drive, Springfield. The classes, this year titled "Hallelujah," will start on Sept. 8.

Jacki Sorensen, national originator of aerobic dancing, emphasizes easy-to-learn dances to maintain a trim figure. Aerobic dancing is a cardiovascular fitness program that can take the place of jogging.

Registration details and a schedule of classes can be obtained by calling 379-2300.

Mrs. Schneiderman 25-year resident

Born in Newark, Mrs. Schneiderman moved to Springfield 25 years ago. She was a member of Hadassah and the Flo Okin Cancer Society, both of Springfield.

She is survived by a daughter, Bernice Edelcreek of Springfield; a son, Marvin Schneiderman of Madison; four brothers, Carl Berger of Miami Beach, Fla., Martin Berger of Millburn, Leon Berger of Springfield and Ralph Berger of Union; a sister, Marge Berger of Miami Beach; a daughter-in-law, Barbara Schneiderman; and five grandchildren.

DAR presents history awards

The Westfield Chapter of The Daughters of the American Revolution gave awards to two Mountainside students chosen by their teachers for excellence in American History. This award is given to an eighth grade student who has shown special interest and excellence in American History.

The winner from Deerfield Middle School was Walter Richard Kempner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Kempner of New Providence Road.

Chosen from Our Lady of Lourdes was Colleen Hurley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Hurley of Route 22, Mountainside.

GOP trio raps idea on parks

Union County Republican Freeholder candidates Frank H. Lehr of Summit, Virginia McKenney of Roselle Park and Peter Okrasinski of Union have criticized a suggestion that inmates from Union County Jail be given work detail in the county parks.

While those who propose the idea are well-meaning, Okrasinski said, he would not even consider such a proposal until its worth had been proven in experimental programs in other counties.

McKenney, Roselle Park mayor, said that from her talks with fellow citizens she has found strong opposition to the idea of prisoners in the parks.

"Many people use the parks and it is important that they feel confident of park safety," she said.

Schools in jeopardy, prof says

The road to the current public school crime wave was paved with well-intentioned laws and policies, says Rutgers University sociologist Jackson Toby.

According to the state university professor, the compulsory education law, the advocacy of children's rights, lenient courts and the growth of large impersonal schools have worked together to undermine the authority of teachers and principals. That erosion of authority created conditions ripe for anarchy and lawlessness, Toby said.

A hasty repeal of such laws and policies isn't the answer, he cautioned. "But you can't find remedies to combat the lawlessness unless you first understand the complexities of the problem," he said.

"One consequence of keeping students in school much longer than we did 25 years ago is that some students—who don't want to be in school, who hate school and who are not learning—feel that they are prisoners, and they become very serious misbehavior problems," he said.

Toby recently has turned his attention to the highly publicized yet little examined social phenomenon of school crime. Early this year, the sociologist published a research paper in "The Public Interest," a quarterly journal on national affairs. The paper, "Crime in American Public Schools," analyzed the causes of school crime, based on the findings of the National Institute of Education's, groundbreaking study, "Violent Schools—Safe Schools."

The study concluded that schools on a nationwide scale were plagued with an increase in misbehavior that was far more serious than juvenile mischief. Many of the inner city schools were becoming holding tanks for youthful and violent offenders, the report said. A minority of students was responsible and most law breaking occurred in junior high schools. More than 600 schools—urban, suburban and rural—were surveyed.

The scope of the crimes ranged from marijuana smoking to petty thievery to shootings and knifings, the study disclosed. And teachers were frequent targets of verbal and physical assaults, it added. Perhaps as a result, a substantial proportion of teachers said they were afraid to intervene in student disputes.

The report was only a beginning, Toby concluded.

"The report described the current situation rather than attempting to explain how a less-than-orderly school environment developed," he said. "The report did not consider social trends in American Society that made it more difficult for public schools to control predatory, violent or malicious student behavior."

The mandated report on criminal activity in New Jersey public schools, issued last spring, was likewise flawed, he said.

The report, the first of its kind in the state, revealed that in one three-month period—September through November 1979—3,712 incidents of violence, vandalism and drug abuse were reported. The majority of incidents—2,346—involved vandalism and theft. Incidents of violence totaled 916, and 348 incidents of drug abuse were noted. But without comparative data, school officials conceded, few conclusions could be drawn from the report.

Crime plagues the American public school system, and the epidemic obviously did not mushroom overnight. Yet, the lateness and limited scope of the two reports underscores Toby's complaint that educators and legislators have not come to grips with the full magnitude of the problem.

The Rutgers professor suggested a two-pronged attack. Schools should implement a variety of incremental measures to check the crime wave and attempt to rehabilitate the disruptive student—in-school suspension, greater parental participation, work programs, transferral to alternative schools as well as expulsion. But the most important step is to stop concealing the problem and delve into the phenomenon, he said.

What is at stake in combating school crime is more than a stolen pocketbook, graffiti on the walls or even personal injuries; the mission of the public school system itself is in jeopardy, he said.

"Many schools, especially in the inner cities, are not operating like schools," he said. "They are operating essentially as custodial institutions. It is precisely in the neighborhoods where the schools have their greatest problem in maintaining order that students lose their chance for moving up in American society."

Dance school in 16th year

Lois Peterson, a lifetime resident of Springfield, has been operating the Lois Peterson School of Dance in Union for 15 years. An additional studio was opened in Springfield last year, and classes in classical ballet, jazz, tap, gymnastics, twirling and aerobics now are offered.

Sandie Hilliard, also of Springfield, will teach again this year. She has toured with a professional dance troupe and was a Radio City Music Hall Rockette. Teaching aerobics and gymnastics is Cheryl Trubin, a physical education teacher and gymnastics coach at Wayne Valley High School. Diane Simone, a graduate of Kean College certified as an early childhood teacher, will teach twirling.

Information on the school is available from 379-1385 from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Good shears are expensive, protect them

By BETTY W. KINSER

Good scissors are expensive, and we certainly don't want to buy more than necessary. So, we must learn to respect them.

Selection: Don't go for cheap. Good dressmaker's shears are going to cost from $8.95 to over $15 depending on brand and quality.

Prevention: Protect your good shears with your life! They should not be used as paper airplane cutters, crowbars, screwdrivers or nail clippers. If necessary, hide them! Do not toss your scissors into a drawer or basket. Hang them on a hook or put them back into their plastic cover.

Cure: When the edges of your scissors become dull or ragged, have them sharpened by a competent workman. Watch fabric store ads. Often shops will offer free sharpening during a sale or special event.

Problems: Polyester fibers are very hard on shears. If you work a great deal with polyester fabrics, you may want to invest in a pair of shears made especially for these man-made fibers.

Dear Betty: Thanks again for your great column and newsletter! I get a lot more good information from your column than I did from a lot of sewing and craft books I have seen. Keep 'em coming!—Bonnie Hejmann, St. Charles, Ill.

Shall do, Bonnie, thanks a bunch. The "fabric suggestions" on the back of a pattern envelope are just that—suggestions. You may successfully substitute other fabrics if you don't stray from the basic features: weight, hand, drapability, crispness, stretchability.

Example: A pattern calls for corduroy or wool. You can successfully use a heavy denim. It has the weight, hand and crispness needed. Or, the pattern calls for interlock knit, you can use a jersey or tricot.

Charge for Pictures

There is a charge of $5 for wedding and engagement pictures. There is no charge for the announcement, whether with or without a picture.

Our computerized eye exam assures you of the right prescription

Remember all those "decisions, decisions" you had to make during your last eye test? Well, we now use a new "eye computer" which gives you the sharpest vision possible. In fact, if you wear contact lenses, we can verify that they are the correct prescription without the need to have your eyes refitted.

You simply look into the computer through a small window. Then, it instantly measures your eyes and prints out the calculations of any "visual error" you have. A computerized test helps us prescribe glasses or contact lenses which will give you the sharpest vision possible. In fact, if you wear contact lenses, we can verify that they are the correct prescription without the need to have your eyes refitted.

This system has computerized your eyes so smoother. It also makes it very simple to examine little children, hard-of-hearing patients and others who have trouble communicating with the doctor.

Widely read Rutgers professor becomes economist's economist

Confused or skeptical about the constant stream of economic reports? Take a tip from Dr. Geoffrey H. Moore, one of the world's leading experts on business cycles and director of the Center for International Business Cycle Research at Rutgers, the State University of New Jersey, in Newark. He suggests a do-it-yourself approach for determining the state of the economy. "A poor man's way of forecasting," he calls it. "All you need to do," he says, "is follow the indicators in the 'Business Conditions Digest,' issued monthly by the United States Department of Commerce. Most libraries get it. The basic figures are not hard to understand and they will be the same for you as for professional economists."

Moore is an economist's economist. If this seems to suggest he writes and speaks in an even more technical style than most economists, the opposite is true. He is known for simplicity and clarity, and for the authoritative and scholarly quality of his data. That is why business editors and the economic pros in business, industry and government consider his reports required reading.

Many business and financial editors on newspapers and magazines rely on Moore's periodic report, "Recession Watch," for objective and up-to-date figures and commentary of the current recession and the economic outlook. Moore, a pioneer in developing business-cycle indicators and former United States Commissioner of Labor Statistics, was appointed director of the Center for International Business Cycle Research a little over a year ago. The center is maintaining a continuing surveillance of the American economy to learn more about the nature and causes of business fluctuations and their relation to economic developments in the rest of the world. "If we are to avoid recessions and depressions, or at least take timely steps to counter them, we need to know when they are about to begin or end, so that we can avoid overstimulating the economy and contributing to inflation," Moore says.

Through its analysis of historical data from the major industrial countries—the United States, Canada, Britain, West Germany, France, Italy and Japan—the center is learning to "signal economic peaks and troughs in the United States and other countries as well as for groups of countries," he says.

The center is meeting the need for an international indicator system to detect the start of recessions, the beginning of economic recoveries, the development of inflationary pressures and trends in export markets. Economic indicators for the leading industrial nations are published every other month by the Conference Board, an economic-business research organization in New York City, with commentary by Moore.

Moore has been associated with the National Bureau of Economic Research for 40 years as vice president for research and, from 1975 to March 1979, as director of business-cycle research. His name is synonymous with the study and reporting of economic cycles in the tradition of similar service by Dr. Arthur F. Burns, former chairman of the Federal Reserve System.

Moore is a graduate student of Burns at Rutgers University in the mid-1930s, when Burns was on the economics faculty of the State University in New Brunswick. Moore later taught economics at Rutgers for six years. Burns says this about his former student's new organization at Rutgers: "With growing interdependence in the economic features of countries around the globe, Dr. Moore's research can hardly fail to attract wide interest at home and abroad. The center will become one of the foremost institutions for business-cycle research in the world."

Burns, chairman of the recently-formed Committee to Fight Inflation, has expressed interest in Moore's idea for a quarterly report to be called

"Inflation Watch." Moore, Burns and Dr. Milton Friedman, the noted University of Chicago economist, see each other regularly on vacation in Vermont. Moore and Friedman, old friends for many years, are playing tennis a lot this summer. The Chicago economist says, "Geoff Moore has been one of the most important contributors to a statistical and empirical analysis of business-cycle movements in the United States."

A lifetime of research and writing is summed up in Moore's newly published book, "Business Cycles, Inflation and Forecasting." What this country needs these days, Moore says, is an inexpensive recession. But he's afraid that cheap recessions have gone the way of the five-cent cigar. Recessions, like good cigars, are at least in the 50-cent range, figuratively speaking. They are far more costly in unemployment, high prices and stagnation. A hopeful sign about the current recession, for Moore, is the decline in lagging indicators since April.

July slump minimal

July produced little change from the reduced spending by retail consumers, the department said. Seasonally adjusted factory employment fell to 770,100, the lowest level since September 1977. The July figure reflected the June closing of Ford Co.'s Mahwah plant which affected nearly 3,000 workers. The weekly earnings of manufacturing production workers averaged $294.26 in July, a decrease of $1.76 from June but an increase of $20.03, or 7.3 percent, from a year ago.

Housewife Sells Plate to Friend for $40; Later Learns Plate Worth $1800

NILES, Ill. — The story of a small fortune, lost because a housewife had no idea her glass plate was a collector's item, recently came to light.

In a letter to J. R. MacArthur, chairman of the Bradford Exchange, world's largest trading center in collector's plates, a Madison, Wis., woman wrote: "I had a Lalique 1965 plate... which I sold to a friend for $40. I had not heard of you at that time."

The plate she sold is actually valued at more than $1,800. Although MacArthur points out that this price is exceptionally high, he said, "I'm afraid others may be losing hundreds or thousands of dollars by not knowing what their plates are worth."

To aid in identifying valuable plates, the exchange issues a report that includes current prices on more than 900 plates, guidelines on what to look for and when to buy, and the plate evaluation checklist used by the exchange.

To obtain a copy without cost or obligation, just send your name, address, and zip code before Saturday of next week to: The Bradford Exchange, Dept. A50135, 9301 Milwaukee Avenue, Niles, IL 60648. A postcard will do.

Need aid for college? Hot-line has answer

Are college tuition costs pricing a college education for you or your children right out of feasibility? It's a fact that today a college education can cost up to 75 percent more than it did only 10 years ago.

But a college education and the financial aid need to afford it, can be a reality to students if they utilize a valuable new source—placing a toll-free phone call to the New Jersey Financial Aid Hot-line.

A toll-free phone call can give prospective college students and parents information on available financial aid and how to make the most of it. The number is 800-792-8670.

Financial aid for education is important to most families today, but it can be a complex and often frustrating process to experience, involving filing of forms, computing family financial data, dealing with high school guidance counselors and college financial aid need analysis services, and a substantial degree of waiting.

That's where the state Financial Aid Hot-line steps in. New Jersey offers prospective college students one of the most comprehensive systems of financial aid programs in the United States through Tuition Aid Grants (TAG), Educational Opportunity Fund Grants (EOF), Garden State Scholarships, and Guaranteed Student Loans.

A wide range of federal student financial aid programs such as the Basic Educational Opportunity Grants aid programs such as the Basic Educational Opportunity Grants (BEOG), Supplemental Educational Opportunity Grants (SEOG), National Direct Student Loan, college work-study, Social Security and Veterans benefits are also available.

Of the over 111,000 applications received last year by the Office of Student Assistance, more than 30 percent received informational assistance of some type through the use of the Financial Aid Hot-line. And as the range of people served expands, the complexity of the calls increases. It is this increasing complexity of calls that points to the true value of a financial aid hot-line.

As the hot-line has become more widely visible, assistance has been expanded to students, parents, college financial aid personnel, high school guidance counselors, social, industrial and union organizations, public assistance programs, and state and congressional offices.

Music to be offered as college program

Five sections of three courses in music will initiate Union College's new associate degree option in music being offered for the first time in the fall semester, Dr. Leonard T. Kreisman, vice president for academic affairs, has announced.

The new music curriculum, an option within the college's liberal arts program, is a two-year program leading to the associate-in-arts degree. Credits earned can be transferred to four-year colleges and universities, where students may enter with Junior year standing. Courses within the music curriculum can also be taken on a non-matriculating basis. The three courses to be offered this fall are music appreciation, fundamentals of music, and music in the 20th century. They represent three of the four specialized courses that are an integral part of the college's new fine arts option in music.

Students enrolling in any of the college's new fine arts options—music, drama, dance and the visual arts—study four specialized courses in one of the art forms plus two other fine arts courses. In addition, they receive a broad-based liberal arts education through the study of general education courses.

Students enrolling in the Music curriculum on a full-time basis will take one of the specialized music courses and four additional courses during the first semester. The other liberal arts courses available as part of the program this fall are English, mathematics or science, history and a foreign language.

Music appreciation will meet on Tuesday and Thursday from 10:50 a.m. to 12:05 p.m.; Monday and Wednesday from 6:30 to 7:45 p.m., and Monday, Wednesday and Friday from 12 to 12:50 p.m. The course is aimed at developing a greater sensitivity for the aesthetic experience through music.

Telethon to combat MD

The Jerry Lewis Labor Day Weekend Telethon for the benefit of the Muscular Dystrophy Association (MDA) will be telecast by WNEW-TV, Channel 5, from 8 p.m. Sunday around the clock until 6:30 p.m. Monday (Labor Day). Jerry Lewis will be host live from Las Vegas, assisted by veteran telethon anchorman Ed McMahon. Patty Duke Astin and husband John will serve as co-hosts for New York segments. Over 1,500 volunteers will gather at four Northern New Jersey telephone pledge centers for the 1980 telethon.

These centers are located at the Police Athletic League (PAL) Building in Irvington, serving the Greater Newark-Hudson-Union area (399-9393)

FOR THE RECORDS—With New Jersey Bell Telephone Co.'s new computerized system for processing telephone repairs, Union County area repair calls are channeled to a central repair bureau where customer records are quickly and easily found on a video screen (left). The computer system eliminates the need to search manually through bulky paper records (at right) previously stored in regional repair offices.

Milt Hammer's Disc & Data

Pick of the LPs—"Running All Night" by Lion (A&M SP-4755).

With the album band's debut on the A&M label, Gary Farr, lyricist and lead vocalist, begins a new adventure in a life that has been full of them. (He is the youngest son of Tommy Farr, the "Fighting Welshman," who lost his bid for the world's heavyweight championship by decision after going 15 rounds with Joe Louis in Madison Square Garden.)

As a teenager, Gary discovered American blues and R&B and after he left school at 15, went to sea for three years, returning to England an able-bodied seaman. He started a band with Keith Emerson called T-Bones, which hit with "One More Chance" and frequently played London's famed Crawdaddy Club. Gary later quit to become a photo-journalist and traveled the world with his camera and guitar, returning to compose a solo album for Atlantic.

Subsequently, he decided to meld his talent with a hand-picked group whose energies would complement and augment his. The result is Lion: John Sinclair, keyboards and vocals; Steve Webb, lead and rhythm guitars, vocals; Robin Le Mesurier, lead and rhythm guitars; Steve Humphreys, bass, and Eric Dillon, drums.

Dillon has worked with everyone from Nicky

Hopkins to Long John Baldry. Le Mesurier was a noted young rock session player and composer and recorded a successful children's album called "The Velvet Rabbit," which his father, actor John Le Mesurier narrated. Steve Webb paid his dues with Jess Rodan, while Steve Humphreys, after two years of session work, principally with Long John Baldry, joined Lion at its conception. John Sinclair was a prime mover of the seminal, proto-New Wave English band, the "Heavy Metal Kids" and also has done extensive session work.

After forming in England, the group made the decision to transfer its base of operations to Los Angeles. It was here that the members were signed by A&M Records and recorded their debut album. The result is a high octane combination of English vigor and American polish. Their music soars and swaggers with a classic, punchy finesse that transcends any of the stylistic cubbyholes that are the downfall of so many new groups. For the most part, the material is a collaborative effort of Sinclair, Webb and Farr. The latter's lyrics are full of sharply-etched imagery and the obvious product of a photographer's eye and a poet's sensibility. His songs tell stories, that both come from and hit close to the heart, the best example being "Helpless" where he is at his most effective and affecting.

A fall fashion show Arts benefit feature

Stan Sommer shops of Union and Westfield created and choreographed the fall fashions and Kodak Jewelers provided the jewelry which was worn in the Garden State Art Center's Cultural Fund raising annual fashion show Wednesday, Aug. 20. The fashion show and day at the races were held in the clubhouse at Monmouth Park Racetrack in Oceanport.

CHEVY CHASE stars with Rodney Dangerfield, Ted Knight and Bill Murray in "Caddyshack," which opens tomorrow at the Maplewood Theater.

'Countdown' for Rahway

"The Final Countdown," which opens tomorrow at the Old Rahway Theater, Rahway, was produced by Peter Douglas, son of the picture's star, Kirk Douglas.

The movie, which also stars Martin Sheen, Katharine Ross, James Farentino, Ron O'Neal and Charles Durning, concerns the dilemma of a group of people suddenly given the nuclear power of today. They are transported back to Dec. 7, 1941 and given the choice of blasting the Japanese air armada out of the skies thereby averting the attack on Pearl Harbor, or allowing it to happen and by-pass the chance to rewrite the last four decades.

Liberace, who appeared last week at the Garden State Art Center in Holmdel, entertained the party in his usual array of diamond-studded rings and gold piano shaped watch.

More than 600 people attended the sell-out affair, and the cultural fund has provided more than a half-million children, senior citizens, disabled veterans and blind people with free cultural and educational programming.

At the fifth annual fund-raising event, the day's activities included a buffet luncheon, and a "midsummer's day dream" fashion show, featuring Stan Sommer's latest designer labels shown by eight models as they displayed lingerie, day and evening dresses and coordinated suits and coats. A $40 ticket cost for the benefit was redeemable for a $40 discount with the purchase of $150 at one of the two Sommers stores. Background music accompanied the models.

Liberace awarded several door prizes, including a trip for two to San Francisco. He also presented the winning trophy to the owner of the horse in the sixth race held in honor of the cultural fund.

This affair, says Florence Fuhri, cultural fund developer for the Day at the Races, "has always been our most successful event."

Safe holiday: 'control' key

Labor Day—the final holiday of the summer for most persons—usually means a chance for a final fling before returning to school or work.

But, if history is an indication, Labor Day also means highway accidents.

"Whether you're on a long trip or just driving a few miles," says the New Jersey State Safety Council, "the key word is control—control of your car, control of yourself and control of the situation."

Here are some council suggestions:

Control your car's driving condition. Before your trip, get a thorough check of all "active" safety equipment—brakes, steering, tires, lights, turn signals, etc. Have all defects repaired.

Control your carload. Heavy loads put an extra burden on tires, brakes and shocks. Don't stow loose objects on the back shelf. Don't let luggage or passengers interfere with vision.

Control yourself and passengers with safety belts. Not only do they prevent death or serious injury in case of an accident, they cut fatigue by holding you firmly in your seat.

Home gardener gleans $100 prize in 19-¢ seeds

A 2½-pound tomato grown from a 19-cent package of seeds took first prize in a contest last week.

The tomato, grown by Rose Marie Iacobazzi of Millburn, who is employed in the accounting department of this newspaper, was among 57 which had been entered in a contest sponsored by the Abraham & Straus store in Millburn. Judging was on the basis of size, color and shape.

It won a $100 prize in the competition—and it may keep on winning. Iacobazzi is saving the seeds from it and will plant them next year.

"The plants just kept on growing, look down a picket fence, and went beyond it about three feet," said the smiling gardener.

Her garden, which began at four feet by ten feet, is now eight by ten. "And still going," she said.
