Council declines to vote on police directorship

By PATRICIA GEOGHEGAN

After a night of demonstrations and debate, voting on the controversial ordinance creating the post of a civilian police director was delayed for two weeks after the borough council tabled the ordinance pending a review of further information.

The motion to table was passed by a vote of four to two after a suggestion was made by Mountainside PBA attorney Herbert Johnstone that both the council and Mountainside Policemen Benevolent Association further review the legalities of tenure status.

The tabling, in effect, kills the ordinance and with it the issue of civilian police leadership in Mountainside. By state law, in order for an ordinance to be passed, it can have only two successive voting sessions before it dies. It passed when first introduced at the Sept. 16 council meeting by unanimous vote and Tuesday night's tabling represents the second voting. In order for the issue to be considered for future passage, it must be re-introduced and voted upon for two voting sessions.

The tabling climaxed the borough meeting after 4½ hours of heated debate between council members and a standing room only crowd with nearly 100 residents and more than 150 policemen from many departments in Union County.

Mountainside PBA President James Debbie said the tabling showed the council there is still work to be done before a decision is reached. "We'll have to see what transpires within the next two weeks," he said.

"As police commissioner, it doesn't change my mind on anything," said Councilman Abraham Suckno.

A resolution which requests that the state attorney general issue a formal opinion on the legalities of an acting chief in Mountainside was passed by a council vote of four to two. An amendment to this resolution was introduced by Councilman Robert Vigilanti, making the director ordinance null and void if an acting chief was found to be in compliance with state statutes. Councilman Timothy Benford drew resounding applause from the audience when he questioned the direction of the amendment. "We're painting ourselves into a corner," he said. "Wouldn't it be fairer to wait until the attorney general passes judgement on an acting chief and then see if we need a director? Let's not hand him a stacked deck of cards," he said.

After council discussed the alternatives available, the meeting was opened to public questioning. Resident Ira Andreas explained his opposition to the director with the analogy of putting a civilian director into a police leadership position "like putting a taxi driver into the cockpit of a 747."

Representing the borough PBA, Debbie directed his questions to police Commissioner Suckno, asking why the police department had been informed of the ordinance only four hours before it was introduced. He claimed Suckno told the police department there were men qualified for the job of chief on the force, while telling the Police Chiefs Association that there were no men who could qualify for that position on the force.

Debbie said a director would be under the same contract as an administrator, and feared this would place the police leader in a politically vulnerable position. "The director could be forced to resign should he not succumb to the whims of the council," he said.

He said a change in council members would, in his opinion, bring with it a change in director, and the citizens of

Textiles become works of art when fashioned by Ina Golub

By Patricia Geoghegan

At Indiana University's art gallery in the mid-60s, graduate student Ina Golub first fell in love with textile design. Clearly a case of love at first sight, the Mountainside resident since has become an award-winning artist whose fiber works hang with expressive beauty in synagogues throughout the country.

Golub began her career after being graduated from Montclair State College and earning her master's in art education at Indiana. Always dabbling with textiles in her spare time, she realized it was a frustrating impossibility to go on teaching and designing. After 10 years of teaching at Columbia High School in Maplewood as well as Kean and Montclair colleges, she decided her true profession was art.

"Time is of the essence to an artist. You need 32 hours a day," she said. "There was a point in my career when I felt that my art was more important than teaching."

The majority of her work is commissioned by synagogues for ceremonial pieces, such as Torah mantles and rabbis' vestments. After being commissioned by a rabbi, she visits the synagogue and judges the architecture and surroundings to get a feel for where her work will hang.

After she has decided on a design, the next challenge is to pick a suitable medium for her expression.

Combining traditional fiber techniques—such as weaving, macramé and stitchery—with modern architecture and art, Golub juxtaposes color and texture to produce striking fiber creations.

"After I sketch a design, I select my technique. In my studies in art, I've worked with most mediums—weaving, applique, stitchery, quilting, tapestry and macramé—but each work is an individual," she said. "I choose whatever fits best in that particular temple."

Her works reflect the spirit of creativity and imagination woven into the natural fibers of cotton, silk and wool. While she uses metallic threads and bits of nylon as a shiny accent on her pieces, Golub prefers to stay away from synthetic fibers.

She feels the expressiveness of her pieces lose something in the man-made translation from natural to synthetic. "There's something about the feel of synthetics that's not as real as natural fibers for my works," she explained.

The length of time to complete a piece depends on the complexity and technique used. For example, a five-by-eight foot hanging may take from eight months to a year. "Each piece is different," she said. "You can't really estimate how long it takes. There are many, many hours that can't possibly be counted."

Her first commission was in the mid-60s, when she created a tapestry for Temple Israel in South Orange. Since then, word-of-mouth praise has catapulted her into a career which has her working on four or five pieces at a time in her studio at home.

Golub has done many hangings and ceremonial objects, but her personal favorite is the traditional texture of tapestry. She is working on a tapestry for Temple Emanuel in New York City which she plans to finish before the end of 1981.

One of her favorite hangings is also her largest, a tapestry 30 feet high and 10 feet wide used as an ark curtain covering the Torahs in a temple in Jacksonville, Fla.

Golub finds her inspirations in Oriental, primitive, medieval and Byzantine art, as well as the Old Testament. A student of Hebrew, she is intrigued by the elegant shapes of Eastern calligraphy. But her most compelling inspiration, she says, is that which art imitates.

WEAVING WONDERS—Award-winning Mountainside artist Ina Golub is shown working on another creation of fiber weavings. Her works, inspired by Oriental design, primitive arts and Eastern calligraphy, are on exhibit at the Morris Museum of Arts and Sciences through Nov. 30.

"Life inspires me!" she said. "All different influences hit artists in different ways, and they are produced differently."

Golub, a Newark native, moved to Mountainside 13 years ago with her husband Herbert, chairman of the music department at Kean College. In her spare time she enjoys gardening and sewing, and is taking private instruction in Hebrew.

While Golub has made a success for herself with her work, she was not always convinced she made the right choice in becoming a freelance artist. "There were lots of times when I felt like giving up," she said. "But I always realized that, deep down, I really was an artist."

For advice to any aspiring artists, she has studied the legalities of a freelance art career and urges they understand their rights before entering the profession.

"Artists have been sorely taken advantage of for too long because they are so specialized," she said. "The commercial industry knows they are more interested in their art than the money that comes in."

The only other word of advice she could think of to pass along was simple, direct and all too obvious. "Work very, very hard," she said with a smile.

Access Sunday to aid those with handicaps

Access Sunday, a day in which it is hoped will change negative attitudes toward the disabled and officially declare 1981 International Year of Disabled Persons, will be held Sunday, in Westfield and Mountainside.

The interdenominational event, sponsored by Children's Specialized Hospital and the League of Religious Organizations of Westfield and Mountainside, will begin at 10 a.m. with a sermon at the First Congregational Church in Westfield by the Rev. Dr. Harold Wilke. The Rev. Dr. John Wilson, minister of the church, is Access Sunday chairman, and Michael Diamond, member of the Temple Emanuel in Westfield, is president of the league.

Dr. Wilke, himself handicapped, will give a sermon entitled, "Wholly Human," dealing with the issue of disabled persons in the religious community. Later, he will address 200 members of the religious community at Children's Specialized Hospital on "The dignity and worth of the Handicapped Person." Wilke's speech will deal with the "greatest barrier a handicapped person faces — the attitude of others." A dinner at the hospital will follow.

Dr. Wilke is director of the Healing Community, an interdenominational resource center for handicapped people. He is also a consultant to rehabilitation to a number of governmental bodies in Europe and to private rehabilitation agencies in this country. He has served on the National Easter Seal Society for Crippled Children and Adults, and is on the faculty of the Union Theological Seminary in New York City.

An ordained minister of the United Church of Christ, he has authored several books in the field of counseling and church work. He recently spoke at the opening symposium at the United Nations to celebrate the start of "International Year of Disabled Persons."

Tickets for the speech and dinner at Children's Specialized Hospital are available. For further information, call Dr. Wilson at 233-2494.

Wildlife film will feature film, lecture

The Audubon Society's local chapter, the Summit Nature Club, will present a film and lecture on mating rituals of woodland creatures in the first of a series of Audubon Wildlife Films for the fall season.

Guest speaker will be Thomas A. Sterling, whose observations will accompany his film, "Superior—Land of the Woodland Drummer." The film will highlight mating rituals of various wildlife, such as the ruffed grouse, common loon, wood frog and broadwing hawk. The film follows these creatures and their offspring as well as a family of black bears and a den of wolf cubs.

The program will be held in the Summit Junior High School auditorium, Morris Avenue, at 8:15 p.m. next Thursday. Ticket are $2.25 for adults and $1 for students and will be available at the door.

Proceeds will benefit the conservation efforts of the local Audubon chapter. For further information, call 647-6738.

Keke Anderson: It's 'when,' not 'if' he's elected

When Keke Anderson told a crowd last Wednesday that "Jimmy Carter doesn't deserve twenty more seconds in the White House, let alone four more years," she was applauded, cameras clicked and a television camera rolled.

But the cameras were mainly Polaroids, the television crew was from Union College and the applause was from about 25 campaign volunteers who have manned the John Anderson headquarters in Union since last spring.

Last week was Mrs. Anderson's first visit to the headquarters at 2183 Morris Ave.

After a campaign stump in Maplewood, she arrived in a silver Cadillac. Secret Service men surrounded her. A small woman, wearing a brown plaid suit and a long strand of pearls, Mrs. Anderson stepped into the crowd, looked up at the grey afternoon sky and said, "Hope the sun comes out."

Inside the headquarters, Anderson campaign literature was spread out on a window ledge where a Baskin-Robbins ice cream cup was stuffed with dollar bills. A table in the corner was loaded with cakes and cookies. And local radio, television and newspaper reporters were showing one another, trying to interview Mrs. Anderson.

A Union College reporter, with microphone in hand, asked if "a vote for Anderson was really a vote for Carter?"

"A vote for Carter or Reagan is a vote for Carter or Reagan," she shot back. "A vote for Anderson is a vote for the quality candidate."

She said the presidential race has "boiled down to Anderson and Reagan," claiming Jimmy Carter "has brought the country to its economic knees."

She also criticized Carter's refusal to debate Anderson.

"The public is going to be surprised on Nov. 4," she said. "The undecided voters keep going up."

In the final days of the campaign, Mrs. Anderson said the undecided voters could swing the election in favor of her husband.

She described Anderson as "a man of courage, intelligence, common sense and a sense of history."

But her serious political stumping was interrupted when someone gave her a John Anderson T-shirt and asked her to pose for a picture.

"Try it on for size," someone else suggested.

Mrs. Anderson held the T-shirt over her brown blouse and replied, "I'd should look like Dolly Parton to model this."

The camera clicked and Mrs. Anderson challenged the next question.

"If your husband is elected ...." a radio reporter began.

"If?" Mrs. Anderson replied. "Oh ye of little faith...it's when, when Anderson is elected."

"When Anderson is elected," another reporter asked, "what will you do as First Lady?"

"I will use my public speaking abilities to talk about ratification of Salt II, de-escalation of the nuclear arms race and solving the energy problem," she said.

As Mrs. Anderson left for a private talk with the campaign staff, a young man in the crowd mumbled, "How can she live in Illinois for 20 years and still talk like she's from Boston?"

A Secret Service man in a navy blue suit eyed people who milled around the table with cookies and cakes, but no one ate until Mrs. Anderson returned for a snapshot session with local residents.

When she stood with a group from Berkeley Heights, a photographer said, "Act like you're talking about something."

"Talk about the inauguration," Mrs. Anderson suggested. "Let's talk about that."

The Polaroid snapshots were placed on a table. And before Mrs. Anderson left, she put on a pair of rose-framed glasses. "Let's take a look at that Polaroid," she said.

Then, with a slice of vanilla cake in her hand, Mrs. Anderson left for her next stop, Hackensack.

DiFrancesco against autonomous agency

Autonomous state authorities—those agencies of state government which are literally answerable to no one—have been utilized over the years in New Jersey to carry out rather diverse projects, ranging from the construction of the New Jersey Turnpike to the sports complex development in the Meadowlands.

These authorities hold the power to issue bonds to raise funds to finance whatever projects fall within their jurisdiction and are, of course, liable for the redemption of those bonds.

While, in theory at least, the creation of autonomous authorities seems to be an attractive method to employ to carry out construction programs which are much too expensive for the state budget to absorb, the system does have its pitfalls.

The most prominent of these, of course, is the potential for overuse—or outright abuse.

And, it was this potential that convinced me to oppose legislation to create such an agency and give it the power to construct, acquire or modernize buildings for state purposes and use, but which would be able to do so without taxpayer approval or legislative sanction.

The autonomous authorities already in existence were created with a specific goal in mind—construction of the New Jersey Turnpike; construction of Giants Stadium and the sports complex, etc. Their mission is clearly spelled out and is restricted.

The proposed building authority, which won Senate approval by a 30-4 vote, would, as a practical matter, be free of many of the restraints which have been placed on other authorities.

It would be free to issue bonds to raise money for any number of projects anywhere in New Jersey. And the taxpayers would be required to redeem those bonds, as opposed to the Turnpike Authority which uses its toll revenues, or the Sports Authority which uses racetrack revenues to retire their obligations.

Indeed, in the early 1970's when the Sports Authority was experiencing difficulty in selling its bonds, the Legislature was asked to give its "moral obligation" to their redemption, an obligation which would have bound the state's taxpayers to meet the cost of retiring the bonds if the sports complex project faltered or failed.

There was a substantial body of opinion in the Legislature that such a commitment would establish a dangerous and costly precedent and could lead to similar commitments later. The moral obligation was given eventually, the bonds were sold and the sports complex became a spectacular financial success, obviating any need for taxpayer support.

The Legislature also addressed itself to the issue of restricting authorities to specific tasks when it refused to permit the Sports Authority to extend its jurisdiction to Camden and rebuild the fire-damaged Garden State Racetrack.

The proposed building authority, however, would be authorized to operate anywhere in the state and its jurisdiction would include, presumably, any building for state government use.

Such buildings are, obviously, not generators of revenue—such as the Turnpike or the sports complex facilities—and the financial burden would fall on the shoulders of the taxpayers, taxpayers who would have no voice in what projects are undertaken.

The potential for plunging generations of New Jerseyans into staggering debt is much too genuine in the creation of the proposed building authority. We need look only as far as New York City and its continuing fiscal crisis and flirtations with municipal bankruptcy to realize what non-voter authorized expenditure of public funds can lead to.

Council

Mountainside have not suffered under a tenured police force.

Springfield Police Capt. Samuel Calabrese pointed out to the council that its decision would have state-wide ramifications and urged professional evaluation of the qualifications needed for a leadership position in the force.

"A civilian director is a political ploy. The council doesn't have the experience to judge," he said. "Let the professionals take care of it, not the politicians."

Resident Eugene Duestch called the ordinance a sham. "You've got the responsibility to pick a chief. If he doesn't do a good job, fire him," he said. "That's what you're on council for."

Al Vardalis, sheriff candidate in Westfield, said, "If you want to destroy initiative, incentive and morale, you're taking the right road. Tenure doesn't protect the incompetent, the council does."

ANSWER ON PAGE 1980 RYAN GAME COMPANY

By H.P. JANS D.V.M.
Q. We have an 8-year-old shepherd dog and all these years we have slapped her snout and bawled her out for wanting to eat her stool. Is there anything we can do to get her to stop? We pick it up immediately after, but sometimes she beats us to it. Thank you.

A. There are many causes of fecal eating (coprophagia) in animals and each must be considered and corrected as necessary. The more common causes are:
(1) Improper early "housebreaking" techniques, (2) parasites, (3) dietary imbalances, (4) digestive enzyme deficiencies, (5) boredom, and (6) a vice or bad habit. Have your veterinarian examine your dog and run fecal exams for parasites and digestive enzymes. If no physical problem can be found then consult a good animal behaviorist.

Q. You seem to be a veritable fountain of information about love and care of people's cats. But what about people who don't like cats? The reason is, I'm tired of people's cats using my backyard as a defecation depot. I am sick of having my windows sprayed and my flowers ruined by their urine.

I too have pets, the birds, and a fish pond that is constantly molested by those sneaky creatures. Am I to get rid of them to satisfy cat lovers? If people love them so much they should contain them. If not, they deserve to lose them, one way or another. Sprays and scare tactics don't work, so please tell us how to get rid of them, fast!

The Humane Society is deaf to this problem and I'm past being humane. I'll be expecting a solution from you soon. Thank you. — A.W., Valinda, Calif.

A. Your problem is not a medical problem. Your problem is an old one of legislation and law enforcement. I would recommend that you call your local animal regulation department and complain, not the Humane Society. If you do not get any help from them, then I would call and also write a letter to your county supervisor explaining your problem. If your supervisor will not listen, then I would contact the district attorney and also your assemblyman.

A. After reading your response to J.B., San Pedro, Calif., I wanted to thank you for urging her to neuter her cat's offspring. The importance of this is more than just to help eliminate mother-offspring hostility and interbreeding.

As an animal lover and volunteer for the Humane Society, the need for spaying and neutering is painfully made clear. There just aren't enough good homes for the overpopulation of dogs and cats. Millions die each year in shelters because of irresponsible pet owners. This high number doesn't even include those animals which die less humanely. Their lives end under moving wheels, from starvation, disease or abuse — just to mention a few. Please continue to urge your readers to alter their pets. For every litter they permit, that many more must die. — T.A.B., Orient, Ohio.

A. Thank you for your comments. Q. I have a small dog that has a heart problem. I have been to three good veterinarians to secure help for her. They all gave me Cardoxin for her to take. One gave me Lasix 12.5 Lasix and the other no Lasix. One gave me Prednisone No. 80 for her to take. Is Prednisone harmful to her? It has relieved her coughing but one of the vets said never to give her Prednisone. What is Prednisone and will it hurt her? Please enlighten me on the use of Prednisone. — J.A.H., Anaheim, Calif.

Prednisone is a potent steroid drug which has many effects on the body including anti-inflammatory, anti-allergic and anti-itching. In general it has no part in the treatment of heart conditions and should not be used to suppress a cardiac induced cough. Do you have a question about your pet? Please write Points on Pets, in

Backgammon

By James Seibert

White to play 3-2. Black owns the doubling cube. ten 9/4, (9/4* indicates, in addition, that a man was hit on the 4-point). 9/4 (2) means that two men were moved to the 4-point.

One of the fascinating aspects of a holding game is that it is often difficult to determine who's holding whom. A look at the pip count will tell the story more times than not. The pip count can also tell one whether to hold and engage, disengage and run for home, in addition to being a useful tool when it comes to cube handling.

In this situation white is ahead and no longer need be concerned with holding black. The best way to hold an opponent is obviously with a prime. A prime however, notwithstanding, the next best place to be is on a point exactly six pips away. The reason for this should be fairly obvious. There is only one way to get around an opponent who holds a point six pips away from a point you hold in a single roll, and that is with a high double. The odds against this are fairly strong.

The reverse of this is also true. Being six pips away is the worst place to be when one is trying to disengage. This situation is a good example of an error that is made by even experienced players. For white to play 15/10 so that he is only exposed to double fives is a mistake, especially if black re-enters on the next roll. Should black re-enter immediately, white would have a difficult time clearing the 11-point without leaving black a direct shot. Therefore, white should take this opportunity to clear the 11-point by playing 11/6. It's well worth the risk of being tagged with a 6-5 to clear now and avoid a potentially disastrous situation downstream.

The points are numbered 1 to 24 starting with white's home board at the lower right. A move, for example, from the 9-point to the 4-point is writ-

Better Bridge

By Robert Rosenblum

A competent declarer works magic. He may not make an elephant or tiger disappear, but his repertoire includes a variety of vanishing trick tricks.

The most dazzling act is the smother play, wherein a defender is deprived of a protected trump trick. Spades are trump with West on play:

- S-43
- H-
- D-
- C-
- S-10
- HA
- DA
- C-
- SA
- H-
- D-
- CA

No matter which red card West leads, partner's trump holding is lost.

Then there is the compression play: two defensive tricks are telescoped into one, each defender "winning" the same trick.

Somewhat less rare than the smother play is the trump coup in which declarer works a finesse against an opponent's "invulnerable" trump holding without a trump to lead through. Here is an example of this:

- SKJ5
- H98
- DAKQ3
- C10962
- West SQ983
- H3
- D10742
- CAKQJ
- South SA62
- HAQJ10
- 74
- D5
- C853
- Dealer — North. East-West vulnerable.

North East South West
1D Pass 1H Pass
1NT Pass 4H All Pass

Three no-trump or four hearts, which shall it be? At four hearts, the defense cashes three club tricks and waits for a trump, for East's king is protected. At three no-trump West wins four clubs and leads his heart, but declarer has nine tricks when spades and hearts each produce three.

Three no-trump is superior or then, as the cards lie, for it cannot be beaten.

This is small solace to South who has jumped to four hearts. West leads four top hearts. East shaking the four and seven of spades on the last two. Declarer ruffs with the ten and leads a diamond to the queen. Then nine of hearts is led, then the eight, West showing out on the second.

Since he cannot pick up East's trump king at this point, South must try for a coup. He ruffs dummy's low diamond and leads a spade to the jack, winning. Look at what declarer has set up:

- SQ9
- H-
- D107
- C-
- SA6
- HAQ
- D-
- C-

South has shortened his trump length to equal East's with the lead in dummy. He continues with the king and queen of diamonds discarding spades. A spade is led at trick 12 and East's hearts are trapped by South's tenace.

Then, since four hearts scores more than three no-trump, is it the preferable contract in tournament play?

Not at all. West missed the boat. After cashing three top clubs he must shift to a spade. One of dummy's limited entries is removed prematurely and declarer cannot execute the coup. He must ruff twice. When he ruffs the club East pitches his last spade. Now South has no way back to dummy for the end game.

Victims, witnesses get volunteers aid

They don't do it for recognition, reward or money—they do it for love.

Joyce Dillon and Madeline Morris have been putting in 15 to 20 hours of work each week in the Union County Prosecutor's Office Victim Witness Assistance Unit because they love what they're doing.

Both of them responded to newspaper articles back in March indicating a need for volunteers to work with the unit in providing a wide range of services for crime victims and witnesses to criminal events.

Both of them have come to realize the importance of cooperation by victims and witnesses in bringing criminals to justice.

And both of them are glad to be able to help provide needed services such as escort service to the courtroom, follow-up paperwork and referral services.

"It sounded interesting when I read about it," said Mrs. Dillon, 53, of Elizabeth. "I'd never been involved with government before and it really turned out to be great."

Mrs. Dillon said what impressed her most was the dedication of Peter Campbell and Georgeanne Doerr, the two counselors in the unit. Campbell, 37, is a former Elizabeth Patrolman seriously wounded in a 1973 shootout while on duty and Miss Doerr, 22, is a psychology major who graduated from Kean College.

"Georgeanne and Peter are not just doing a job, they really care about people and you can tell," Mrs. Dillon said, pointing out that Secretary Ethel Beale has made their work much easier by setting up an efficient filing system.

She said she would highly recommend the job to anyone bored with his or her life. "The main thing is the work—this isn't your ordinary office job," she added.

Mrs. Morris, 38, also of Elizabeth, said she was bored staying home being a housewife and decided to keep her mind busy. "I love my job," she said. "It's worthwhile to be able to help victims of crime and witnesses who want to testify."

Like Mrs. Dillon, she works on chronological reports, answers telephone calls and sends out contact letters and types up statements.

Mrs. Morris said she worked for the clerk of the board of freeholders from 1960 to 1967 and was grateful for a chance to get back to work.

Since its inception in August 1979, the Victim Witness Assistance Unit has provided specialized services for more than 435 crime victims and court witnesses.

Those who testify in criminal cases or are victims of serious crimes are helped with transportation, day care, counseling referral, social service agency contacts and even reports on the progress of their case.

The unit was funded initially by a $30,000 SLEPA grant for the first year of operation, but the board of freeholders has indicated the unit is a high priority for continued operation past the grant period.

The unit, located directly in the prosecutor's office on the second floor of the County Administration Building on Elizabethtown Plaza behind the courthouse complex, is open five days a week. The telephone number is 527-4596.

ENDORSED—State Sen. Anthony Russo, left, and Union Mayor James Conlon flank Union County Sheriff Ralph Froehlich and offer their endorsements for Froehlich's re-election. Endorsements also were made of Democratic Freeholder candidates Joan Allen, Dexter Martin and Herman Schreiber.

PLANNING A RESCUE—Doris Sobin, exercise coordinator, and James Engle, Union Township Civil Defense-Disaster Control coordinator, discuss plans for a simulated air rescue medical evacuation to be conducted by State Police helicopter and Callmen's Emergency Unit in Biertuempel Park, Union, on Nov. 1.

State Police 'copter to conduct a 'rescue'

A State Police helicopter will land at Biertuempel Park in Union at 10:30 a.m. Nov. 1 to conduct a simulated air rescue medical evacuation.

Callmen's Emergency Unit 1, a volunteer ambulance squad in Union, will participate.

Plans for the exercise were announced this week by James Engle, Union's Civil Defense-Disaster Control coordinator, who said it is part of an expanded State Police service.

Members of the public are being invited to come to the park and watch the program, he said.

He reported that Callmen will demonstrate how to prepare a victim for transport on a helicopter. A question and answer session will begin at noon, followed by a general discussion period.

According to Col. Clinton Pagano of the State Police, the helicopter, which is based at Bedminster, is available in "life-threatening" situations.

It can be used to take victims from the scene of a serious accident to the nearest hospital; to fly them to a major medical center, bypassing local hospitals, or to transport patients whose condition has been stabilized from the local facility to a medical center.

The helicopter also is available for emergency transport of medical supplies, blood or blood components or organs for transplant.

But, Engle noted, the helicopter is designed to be used only when ground transportation by ambulance is not available.

He announced that Doris Sobin, a member of the Civil Defense staff and the Callmen's Unit, is coordinator for the exercise.

Family Day open house scheduled Sunday at UC

A Family Day Open House will be held Sunday for families and friends of all Union College students.

The event, which will last from 1:30 to 4 p.m., will provide an opportunity to visit the Cranford campus, learn about the college's activities and programs and meet with members of the college community.

The program will begin in the Campus Center theater, where Dr. Saul Orkin, president, will speak. Participants then will be divided into smaller groups to visit the various departments for short presentations by faculty members.

The Family Day activities will conclude with a reception in the cafeteria; refreshments will be served and students, friends and families may speak informally with each other, faculty members and administrators.

Students—full-time, part-time, weekend, day evening, credit or non-credit—are encouraged to attend and see how Union College operates, Dr. Orkin said.

Phi Theta Kappa unit to meet at UC Nov. 7

A regional meeting of Phi Theta Kappa, the national honor society for two-year college students, will be held at Union College Nov. 7 and 8, according to Professor Helene Roholt-Moen, sponsor of the Union College chapter of PTK.

The event marks the first time the New England-Middle States meeting will be held at Union College and the first time in 20 years that it has been held in New Jersey.

The Friday program will begin at 2 p.m. and will include a general meeting, banquet, readings from Shakespeare and a dance. The general session will feature a talk and discussion of "Hamlet and Frankenstein," led by Dr. Charles R. Varela, professor in Union College's department of psychology and sociology.

The Saturday program will begin at 9:30 a.m. and conclude at 6 p.m. It will include a general meeting, a series of seven simultaneous workshops, a film from Shakespeare country, a slide presentation from the PTK Honors Institute, and a buffet supper.

The meetings are open to all members of PTK. Also welcome are members of Alpha of New Jersey, the state's only PTK alumni chapter, which is head-quartered at Union College.

Anyone interested in attending the regional meeting should contact Roholt-Moen, 276-2600, extension 394. Roholt-Moen is the sponsor of Iota Xi, the Union College chapter of PTK, and the advisor to Alpha of New Jersey.

Mountainside's IRS unit cuts taxpayer aid hours

The Internal Revenue Service has announced a change in taxpayer assistance hours in its Mountainside office. The new hours are 9 a.m. to 3:30 p.m., Monday through Friday.

Cornelius J. Coleman, director of the New Jersey IRS District, explained that the new hours pertain only to those persons who visit the IRS office on a non-scheduled basis to seek assistance or advice on a federal tax matter. Appointments for tax return examinations and collection matters will continue to be scheduled with individual taxpayers during the 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. work day.

The revision in walk-in assistance hours, Coleman explained, is being made because extremely few taxpayers visit the office for unscheduled assistance before 9 or after 3:30 during the non-filing season period. The IRS will resume 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. walk-in assistance in the office from January through April 15.

Coleman added that most taxpayers with questions about their federal taxes or tax returns telephone the IRS instead of making a trip to an IRS office. Telephone assistance is available to all taxpayers, toll-free, by dialing 800-242-6750, Monday through Friday.

Powers named to state unit

Joseph Powers, program supervisor of the Union County Police Chiefs' Training Academy at Union College in Cranford, has been named to the Police Training and Education Committee of the New Jersey State Association of Chiefs of Police.

The committee's function is to improve and professionalize police training techniques throughout the state.

Powers, a 30-year veteran of the Scotch Plains Police Department, was chief of that department before joining the training academy staff in 1977.

Vardalis cites 'spoils system'

Westfield Police Capt. Al Vardalis, Republican candidate for sheriff, has accused his opponent of returning to the "spoils system."

"Never in the history of the sheriff's office have so many political appointees been on the public payroll," he charged. Some of the appointments, he claimed, are given preferred assignments while Civil Service-certified officers with more job seniority are refused reassignment. These political appointments, he said, have caused severe morale and manpower problems.

Vardalis said he would, if elected, immediately call for a Civil Service test to fill all vacancies in the department and remove the spoils system from the sheriff's office.

Froehlich cites PBA stand

Union County Sheriff Ralph Froehlich said this week that he has the "full support" of Policemen's Benevolent Association Local 108, Union County Sheriffs Officers, and Local 199, Union County Corrections Officers, in his effort to keep the Civil Service Commission from lowering minimum standards.

Froehlich, a Democrat running for re-election, said, "We should be raising minimum standards to meet those of police officers. The men and women in the Sheriff's Department are in sensitive situations in our courts and jails and must have the mental, physical and emotional ability to handle emergencies."

In a letter to the sheriff, Tom Parsons, president of Local 199, attacked efforts by someone in an "ivory tower" to remove physical performance and age limit requirements without giving the sheriff and those who serve under him "a fair hearing."

Wallcovering section Siperstein's success

"For walls, we have it all." That is the motto at Siperstein's, Paints and Wallcoverings, with 11 stores. "And now, when we are remodeling the exterior of the Union building and adding to the floor space of the wallpaper department, it is truer than ever," says Steve Siperstein at the Union store.

Siperstein's introduced a complete line of wallcoverings, matching decorator fabrics and in-home consultation services eight years ago. "Since then," says Oscar Siperstein, the president, "the response from the public has been just tremendous. When we first planned to enter the wallcoverings field, I insisted on quality at a great discount. We are consumer-oriented and value-conscious. I think our formula has worked very well," he added.

Selection of wallcoverings can be made from more than 900 sample books, giving shoppers about 10,000 styles, patterns, materials and colors from which to select. Included in the selection are handprints, vinyls, fabrics, grasscloths, cork and screen prints. Some selections can be custom-colored and custom-designed.

"Being a giant in the paint business has helped, too," said Steve, secretary of Siperstein's. "A woman can select her favorite wallcoverings and we can custom-match the paint to exacting specifications. The result is a very happy customer."

Another aspect of the operation is Siperstein's in-home consultation service. For a nominal fee, one of the Siperstein in-home specialists will visit the customer's home to help select wallcoverings. The fee is refunded with the first purchase so the service actually is free.

"Our customers really appreciate this service," said Steve. "Just being able to get an experienced opinion, right in the home, is the service for which we most often get thanked."

Paints and accessories are available from all Siperstein locations: Linden, North Plainfield, Toms River, Fords, Union City, Jersey City, Middletown, Lodi, Long Branch, Bricktown, Manalapan and Union.

Disc & Data

By Mill Hammer

Pick Of the LPs—"Me Myself I" by Joan Armatrading (A&M SP-4809).

Joan Armatrading's latest album ranges widely in style from semi-classical songs like "I Need You" to reggae-infused works like "Simon," all of which are supported by a rock backbone achieved during New York recording sessions with instrumentalists like guitarist Chris Spedding and drummer Antop Fig (of Spider).

Her use of her guitar, of her voice and even of melodic and lyrical content defies most musical conventions. The key to Armatrading's powerful individuality is her background as a child who spent most of her time alone, establishing her own viewpoint and her own ways.

Joan Armatrading was born in 1950 on the island of St. Kitts in the West Indies and moved to Birmingham, England, when she was seven. Her father, a bus driver and carpenter, was strongly against her interest in music. Though he was a musician himself, he would hide his guitar above a closet where Joan could not reach it. While her original ambition was to be a lawyer, at 14, she saw Marianne Faithfull on television and decided to write her own songs.

Initially, she had little interest in pop music—while her school mates had pictures of the Beatles and Cliff Richards taped inside their desks. Joan's desk remained empty. For a school concert, she learned one Bob Dylan and one Paul Simon song, though until then she had not been familiar with their music. Joan remembers being unimpressed with Aretha Franklin and Otis Redding. Instead, she was drawn to the vastly different styles of country singer Jim Reeves, 40s crooner Nat Cole, hard rockers Free and contemporary rocker Van Morrison, who, she says, "was the first person who made me listen to a record properly."

Joan never took a guitar lesson. Instead, she taught herself to play by picking notes until she found a chord that pleased her. The result was the unorthodox style the New York Times has called "splendid." In her isolation, she developed a vocal style equally unique.

At 18 she joined the London company of "Hair" (and steadfastly remained the only cast member who refused to disrobe on stage). She went on to record her first album in 1973.

Joan now lives in the English countryside where she collects British comic books, antique autos and clocks.

Historic Tower Hill has modern comfort

Short Hills has long been thought of as a separate municipal entity, but, in truth, it is but one very special residential section of the Township of Millburn. So, too, Tower Hill cannot be found on any official map of the Rumson-Fair Haven-Little Silver-Red Bank area, but it has quickly become the Short Hills of the northern New Jersey shore.

Like Short Hills, Tower Hill is the home address of professionals who can commute easily by car or train to metropolitan New Jersey or New York City. Both "communities" are set on rolling, heavily wooded landscape. Both can trace their histories back to Colonial times. And both represent the finest architectural values of their respective eras.

Yet the new values of Tower Hill, where luxury condominium townhomes are offered from $90,500, carry with them the modern energy-efficiency and comfort features, the private pleasures and the nearby year-round recreation that cannot be matched by any Short Hills mansion.

"There have always been those special residential sections that have exceeded association with their surroundings," explains Robert C. McNally, Lanid Corporation's director of residential construction for award-winning Tower Hill. Another current day example of this phenomenon is Union Gap Village, which Lanid Corporation earlier created in western New Jersey off Route 78. "Even the immediate area's population would be hard pressed to recall the Union Gap Village, rather than being a separate entity, is actually a section of Clinton Township."

Once past the entrance gates of Tower Hill, visitors leave behind all sense of the outside world. They encounter spectacular white Mediterranean exteriors, immaculate and rich landscaping, terra cotta roof styles, secluded courtyards, clean open spaces and pristine recreational facilities, all set atop high grounds that are, in fact, the highest points from this site all the way down the Atlantic coast. Tall native trees have been left standing, while literally scores of new evergreens and deciduous trees have been added to the site. The tree shadows fall over the centrally-situated year-round tennis court, private swimming pool and peaceful walkways.

Seemingly so distant from its neighborhood, Tower Hill also benefits from its nearby surroundings. Within a mile, for example, are the prized downtown shops, and art galleries of Red Bank, as well as gracious dining, public tennis courts and private yacht and ice boating clubs. The drive to the beaches and marinas of Sea Bright and Monmouth Beach is six miles. For sailing, residents can choose either the Navesink River to the north or the Shrewsbury to the south. Several excellent golf courses are near, and Monmouth Park horse racing is within a 10 minute drive.

Formerly one sprawling, expansive estate, Tower Hill now is a private province that, when completed, will comprise no more than 132 townhomes. Each is a multi-level residence, with dramatic interior balconies and lofts that match the distinctive exterior appearance. Each model has at least two large bedrooms and 2½ baths, eat-in kitchen, appliance package, wood-burning fireplace, central air-conditioning and heating with individual controls, minimum R-15.6 wall and R-30 ceiling. The garages, by the way, are secluded in courtyards at the center of each building complex. Insulation and attached garage, all standard.

Three facilities added

Millions of dollars in new community-development facilities will be dedicated during a 90-day period this fall at Crestwood Communities, according to Herbert Wishnick, executive vice president of the Ocean County cluster of retirement communities centered at Whiting.

A major shopping mall—Crestwood's second—opened last week, with a Food Town supermarket, a Centennial Savings bank and 40 shops and services. Construction is almost completely on a second medical center, to house 10 doctors, dentists and health services. Three doctors are scheduled to open their offices next month, augmenting the 38 now practicing in the original medical center. The tenth clubhouse serving the sprawling Crestwood complex will be dedicated this month, providing auditorium-ballroom, meeting and activity rooms, library, billiard room and outdoor sports.

The shopping center was financed in part by the New Jersey Economic Development Administration. A multi-million mortgage loan was granted by New Jersey National Bank and insured by EDA. Charles Villano, EDA compliance officer, and Edward J. Daubner Jr., assistant vice president of New Jersey National, participated in the grand opening ceremonies at the shopping mall last week. Manchester Township officials, headed by Mayor Anthony Sussex, also took part, acknowledging the addition of a substantial new ratable to its tax rolls.

According to Wishnick, "These three major facilities continue a policy we at Crestwood have pursued for 15 years—building in advance of need. Our first clubhouse, 'Friendship Hall,' was opened well before Village One was fully occupied. Each of the subsequent nine clubhouses was built with the same mandate in mind—to provide more than adequate and uncrowded conveniences.

Founded in 1964, Crestwood is now the largest group of retirement communities in the Northeast. Fourteen model homes are being offered, priced from $30,000 to the $70,000. The Exhibit Center is open seven days a week, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Route 530, 10 miles west of exit 80 on the Garden State Parkway.

New law gives special tax edge

The president of the law in late July by Gov. Brendan T. Byrne. "By using an approved county deferred compensation plan, any employee may elect to invest as little as $20 a month, on which he or she pays no federal taxes, until the time of eventual retirement. At that time, the rate is considerably less. The plans come each year until retirement. He spoke after presiding at a fullscale presentation of the investment possibilities under a new law in New Jersey, which was sponsored by Senator John T. Gregorio, District 21, and signed into law in late July by Gov. Brendan T. Byrne.

Directors and the 21 County Freeholder Boards as soon as possible. Barry Skoskowski of the Department of Community Affairs, who must review all plans and county contracts with director of local tracts.

Bulldogs fumble, 47-21

By RON BRANDSDORFER

Dayton's football team had a bad case of the fumbles last week in Summit. And before the Bulldogs could discover the right remedy, they were 28 points behind.

"We made some costly mistakes early in the football game," said Coach Angelo Senese, trying to figure out what went wrong in the 47-21 loss to powerful Summit. "When you fumble four times within your own 20 against an explosive team like Summit, you're in trouble. They turned every fumble into a touchdown."

The Bulldogs, now 1-3, turned the football over four times in their first four possessions, and Summit's Jerry Hunt and Chris Brodman turned the turnovers into a very quick 28-0 lead.

"Summit's a class team," Senese said. "They've got tremendous athletes right down the line, both on offense and defense. When you play a team with that caliber of athletes, you can't even afford even one mistake."

That's why Senese wasn't too surprised when Dayton fell behind right away. What was a pleasant surprise was the way the Bulldogs came fighting back.

After Summit turned two Dayton errors in the defensive secondary into second quarter touchdowns and a 41-0 halftime lead, Senese gave a long intermission lecture to his players.

"I told the kids we'd have to come out in the second half and pick our heads up, put our offense and defense together, and attempt to win the second half of the football game," he related.

"I just told the players they'd have to be man enough to accept the situation (down 41-0). The kids really put it together in the second half. And what pleased me most was that some of our younger and less experienced kids were able to move the football."

Halfback Matt Smith, a senior who had seen only limited duty through the first three games, came off the Bulldog bench and had an outstanding game. He led all ball-carriers on both teams with 87 yards in just eight second half carries and even scored a 23-yard TD.

Soph Kyle Hudgins also looked sharp, turning a Mike Caricato pass into a 55-yard TD connection.

Senese was also overjoyed with the effort of John Caricato, the younger brother of the Bulldog QB. Caricato entered the game when Dan Circelli, the team's monster back, injured an ankle, and played very well in the Bulldog secondary.

In fact, by the time the second half and the football game had ended, the Bulldogs had crossed the goal line four times, although one Caricato to Smith pass play was called back because of a motion penalty.

"I'm pleased with the way the kids hung in there and battled," Senese said. That's the kind of effort Senese will be expecting Saturday afternoon when the Bulldogs host a high-powered Millburn team at 1:30.

Millburn, led by talented quarterback Marty Horn, rely on their offensive firepower. And the Bulldogs will work out all week to stop that passing game.

"Millburn is an extremely explosive team on offense," Senese said. "Horn throws very well, he gets good protection and he has a corps of good receivers. At any point in the game they can beat you with a touchdown pass. That will put some real pressure on our defense."

But stopping Horn and Company will be the job of Dayton's offense, and not the defense as might be expected.

Explained Senese, "We'll have to hold on to the football to beat Millburn. If not, that kind of offense can beat you at any time."

Dayton is hoping Saturday won't be the time.

FOLLOW THE BALL—Senior Judy Hockstein keeps her eyes on the tennis ball and reaches for a forehand in a match last week against Summit. Hockstein was a 6-2, 3-6, 6-4 winner over Summit's No. 3 player, Liz Cullen, but Dayton lost the match, 4-1. The Dayton girls, coached by Ed Jasinski, will meet Union Catholic next Thursday at home, beginning at 3:45.

Dayton harriers aim for 'lucky 13' sweep

It'll be baker's dozen time this week for Dayton's girls' cross country team.

The female harriers, who boosted their record to a perfect 10-0 with victories over Madison and Westfield last week, will now try to make Millburn, Verona and West Orange victims 11, 12 and 13 in preparation for the Suburban Conference Championship Meet next Friday.

The girls, coached by William Jones, had a very impressive two-meet span last week, thumping Madison, 16-47, and crushing Westfield, 20-42.

Then the girls went out and placed second in the county championships last weekend at Warinanco Park.

Kathy Kelly was Dayton's top finisher, clocking in at 21:03 for eighth place overall. Three other runners finished right behind, with Dana Levinson taking 10th, Janice Levine 11th, and Maureen Kelly 12th. Cranford won the meet, nipping Dayton by 20 points.

There was never any doubt about the Madison meet after Kathy Kelly, Levinson, Maureen Kelly and Levine grabbed the first four spots. Shirley Salemy, Kathy Rogers, Beth Mortimer, Alice Barry, Candy Lesofski and Joelle Haughey were right behind, too, finishing sixth, seventh, eighth, 10th, 11th and 15th, respectively.

The order of finishers was quite similar against Westfield, as Kathy Kelly, Levinson, Maureen Kelly, Levine, Barry and Rogers swept places two through seven. Salemy picked up the ninth spot, followed by Amy Kiell (11th) and Mortimer (12th). Traci Spivack missed both meets with a sprained ankle.

Tornado shoots way to soccer circuit win

The scoring was held to a bare minimum in the Upper League but goal-scoring was no problem in the Middle League, all in Springfield Recreation Department soccer action last week.

In the Upper League, the Tornado managed to slip by the Lancers, 1-0, in a match that went down to a shootout.

The Tornado played a man down in the ballgame and concentrated on defense and sudden thrusts into Lancer territory. The strategy almost worked, too, with Phil Feuerstein, Dirk Schobel and Paul Teja just missing scoring chances. The Lancers had their share of opportunities, with Jim Roberts, Ian Schwartz and Andy Zidel looking very dangerous for most of the match.

After regulation time ended in a 0-0 tie, the teams went to a shootout. Feuerstein, Nick Hilas and Schobel converted for the Tornado, while Kathy Meixner scored for the Lancers.

The Strikers and the Rowdies got all mixed up in a wild battle, with the Strikers finally pulling out a 2-0 verdict.

The Rowdies put the pressure on early in the game, as Eric Yoss passed to Angelo Palumbo for several good scoring chances. But Striker keeper Lou Monaco, with a little help from defenders Ken Garguilo and Eric Kahn, kept the Rowdies off the scoreboard long enough for Anthony Graziano to blast in a 30-yard goal off a Kara Scheinerman setup. Joe Graziano made it 2-0 in the fourth quarter after Gilon Rubenenko, Jim Yee and Mark Morris were stopped by the Striker defense.

In the Middle League, offense was the key as the Blizzard, the Aztecs and the Timbers all won by big margins.

Adam Miller scored four goals, one on a perfect setup by Dennis Costello, and Mat Zucker (two goals), David Blum and Dan Lissy also scored to pace a victory.

Eric Schobel had his best game of the season with a five-goal effort for the Aztecs. Leor Marko added three goals, one on an assist from Christian Moreno, and Daren Allen picked up a pair of goals.

Chris Monaco scored twice for the Sting, and Peter Carpenter, Greg Graziano and Dan Monaco all played well. For the Timbers, Joshua Wasserman picked up four goals and Marcela Reyna and Anthony Zamorra added one apiece. Roger Lerner handled the playmaking chores for the Timbers. Mitchell Friedberg and Leni Saia combined for two goals and Chris Burkhardt and Charles Weisse provided the defense to lead the Fury.

Registration begins one hour before the program, which is co-sponsored by Adidas and N.J. Bell in cooperation with the Union County Department of Parks and Recreation.

This weekly event is designed to give youngsters the opportunity to participate in and learn about cross country running as well as promote general physical fitness. Different professional runners and sports medicine experts will aid Freeman during each clinic.

There is a registration fee, part of which is donated to the Heart Association, the Cancer Association, the Sickle Cell Association and the Athletic Congress. Each participant will receive a T-shirt. Winners will receive athletic bags, running shorts and posters.

Bulldog booters ready

By ROBERT A. BRUCKNER

Dayton's varsity soccer team put together two strong defensive efforts last week. The only trouble was that the offense got lost in the shuffle, and the booters ended up with a 1-1 tie with Summit and on the short end of a 2-1 verdict against Millburn.

The Summit game began on a very promising note when soph John Klimas converted a penalty kick to give Dayton a 1-0 first quarter lead.

That lead stood until the third quarter, when the Hilltoppers' Mike Mauze smacked a shot past keeper Andrew Grett with a minute remaining in the period.

The Dayton booters fought back in the fourth quarter and appeared to score the game-winner in overtime when Klimas drilled one into the netting. But the officials ruled no goal, calling a foul on Dayton.

Coach Joe Cozza was a bit disappointed with the loss but was pleased with the play of Jerry Caccitore, Keith Hannigan and Don Meixner.

The game against Millburn began with a roar and ended with complete silence. In between Millburn's strong defense turned away a number of good Dayton rushes and caught the Bulldog booters napping on two occasions.

Myron Waskeu scored the Bulldogs' only goal at 8:55 of the first period, converting a penalty kick.

Grett played another strong game in the nets, while Kenny Palazzi and Peter Klaskin supported him with solid defensive play.

The Bulldog booters did pick up a victory last week, but it came in a special alumni game. The final was 3-1.

Dayton's varsity has a full slate of games ahead, beginning this afternoon with a game with Caldwell in Springfield. Governor Livingston High will come to town Saturday morning at 11, and the Bulldog booters will meet St. Benedict's Monday and Madison Tuesday, both on the road.

MICHELOB suggests "GET UGLY" BENEFIT MULTIPLE SCLEROSIS

Wanted: Bartender very ugly, to flag MS

"Ugly is Beautiful!" How's that again? It's true. Poets and philosophers notwithstanding, ugly is beautiful in October as the National Multiple Sclerosis Society and Anheuser-Busch's Michelob beer team up in a search for the area's ugliest Bartender—all as a means of raising funds for MS.

The talent (?) search is taking place throughout the service areas of two New Jersey MS units, the Upper New Jersey Chapter, in Essex, Hudson and Union counties, and the Bergen-Passaic Chapter, operating in its namesake counties.

With the help of the Michelob sales force of the Newark Brewery branch of Anheuser-Busch, the MS people are seeking the ugliest publican among the 3,000 establishments in the five counties. Once determined, he or she will be whisked out of the country—on an all expenses paid trip for two to the Grand Bahamas. Other prizes include a fabulous dinner for two, gift certificates and similarly appropriate ugly awards.

The method of determining how the ugliest bartender will be found is simplicity itself. All during the month of October, cooperating bars and lounges are featuring "Me Me the Ugliest Bartender" voting displays. A single ballot costs the voter a 25-cent donation to the Multiple Sclerosis Society. The ugliest bartender will be selected on the basis of the number of votes received.

There is, of course, a serious purpose to it all. Each 25-cent donation goes toward research and treatment of multiple sclerosis an incurable disease of the nervous system. It strikes adults between the ages of 18 and 40. All proceeds of the contest will provide local patient services and will support the National Society's research program into the cause and cure of MS.

Ugly, at least in this case, is definitely beautiful.

Dinner, dance is for patients

A fund-raising dinner and dance will be held Saturday evening, Nov. 15, at the Imperial Manor, Paramus, under sponsorship of the Northern New Jersey Chapter of the National Association of Patients on Hemodialysis and Transplantation (NAPHT).

"Thanksgiving Fiesta" will be the theme of the affair. Proceeds will benefit the chapter which is comprised primarily of people with chronic kidney disease. The chapter covers Union, Essex, Hudson, Bergen, Passaic, Morris and Sussex counties.

Tickets to the dinner-dance can be purchased by contacting Frank Caruso, 124 Newark Ave., Bloomfield, N.J. 07003. Donations may be mailed to Nora B. Ahmet, 822 Pennington St., Elizabeth, N.J. 07208.

Jensen blasts GOP platform

David Jensen, independent candidate for Congress in the 12th District, this week called the Republican Party platform "a document of economic abandonment for the poor."

The registered Democrat criticized a proposed amendment to the Internal Revenue Code which would reduce Social Security payroll taxes and capital gains taxes in designated enterprise zones, saying it would "mean the end of essential social services in this county, such as Home Health which is funded under Title 19 and 20 of the Social Security Act."

The Westfield resident said, "The same Republicans who are talking about security for the elderly have nominated a man who just four years ago said participation in Social Security 'should be made voluntary.'"

Heart attack victims sought for research

Researchers of heart disease are looking for help from one-time victims of heart attack between the ages of 28 and 64.

The National Institutes of Health is sponsoring four research teams across the country to explore the role of lowered cholesterol in treatment of heart attack victims.

Participants join the study at no cost. Anyone aged 28 to 64 who has had one heart attack within the last five years is urged to contact the Hyperlipidemia Study for more information. The toll-free number is 1-800-345-1057.

The newest center for the research is at Lankenau Hospital in Philadelphia.

'Battered Woman' film scheduled

"The Battered Woman," a film on domestic violence, will be shown next Wednesday at the noon session of Woman Talk in the Alumni Lounge of Downs Hall on the Kean College campus.

Information on psychological and vocational counseling for women and their children will be given by Ellen Stele, chairwoman of the board of the Essex County Shelter for Battered Women.

The public is invited to the session.

GREEKS FOUNDED MARSEILLES
Greeks, about 600 B.C., founded Marseilles as a trading post, calling it Massilia. It became a thriving port and finally a city-state with colonies of its own. Nike (Nice) was one of them. For almost 500 years, it was a Greek outpost.

Boredom study: a lively probe

A literary paper on Migration," by Dr. Joseph P. Mahoney; "Light in August / William Faulkner," by Dr. Bernard Weinstein; "Opium War Images of Costal Control and Relations With the Nan-Ying (Maritime Asia)," by Dr. Jane K. Leonard; and "Symphony Conducting As an Occupation," by Dr. Jack Kamerman. The book was edited by Dr. Charles Fethe of Union.

Healy said, in the article, that boredom can be trivial or deeper, depending on the gravity of the cause. Normal boredom usually can be relieved by a change in circumstances or the presentation of new possibilities. However, he added that interest cannot be revived except fleetingly in what Healy calls "existential boredom," which he describes as the "sense of personal meaning from which interest arises is altogether missing."

"Boredom," Healy wrote, "is the inevitable concomitant of a failure of belief in, or even serious uncertainty about, the objective reality of a particular range of values, purposes and commitments."
Healy concluded that boredom is rampant in schools and suggests this should be acknowledged so that urgently needed changes can be made. He cites boredom as a possible cause for the rapid growth of vandalism and violence among students.

Housewife sells 'glass plate'
for $10; worth
$1,800

NILES, Ill. — The story of a small fortune, lost because a housewife had no idea her glass plate was a collector's item, recently came to light.
In a letter to J. R. MacArthur, chairman of the Bradford Exchange, world's largest trading center in collector's plates, a Madison, Wis., woman wrote: "I had a Lalique 1965 plate... which I sold to a friend for $10. I had not heard of you at that time."

The plate she sold is actually valued at more than $1,800. Although MacArthur points out that this price is exceptionally high, he said, "I'm afraid others may be losing hundreds or thousands of dollars by not knowing what their plates are worth."

To aid in identifying valuable plates, the exchange issues a report that includes current prices on more than 900 plates, guidelines on what to look for and when to buy, and the plate evaluation checklist used by the exchange.

To obtain a copy without cost or obligation, just send your name, address, and zip code before Saturday of next week to: The Bradford Exchange, Dept. A50143, 9301 Milwaukee Avenue, Niles, Ill. 60648. A postcard will do.

Poll shows Carter would win in N.J.

President Jimmy Carter edged out Gov. Ronald Reagan and Congressman John Anderson in a presidential poll of more than 500 day and evening students at Union College, according to Dr. Harold Damerow of Cranford, professor in the college's economics, government and history department.

Of the 524 students responding, 40 percent voted for Carter, 33 percent for Reagan and 27 percent for Anderson. The students polled were members of the college's classes in American Government and Western Civilization. The age range was from 18 up to retirement age, but age did not seem to be a factor in the presidential preferences, Damerow said.

What was most significant in the poll, he said, was the number of students who would have preferred other candidates. Those who would have voted for a Democratic candidate other than the president numbered 187. On the Republican side, 126 students would have preferred someone other than Reagan.

Of the 27 percent who selected Anderson, 57 percent said they would have voted for Carter if Anderson were not running. Forty-three percent of the Anderson voters would have swung to the Reagan side. If these trends accurately reflect the larger electorate, Damerow said, Anderson is cutting into the Reagan vote to a much greater degree than most reports have indicated.

The Union College students also were asked about the political issues that would influence their vote. On increasing military expenditures, 391, or 67 percent, favored an increase, while 189 were opposed. Seventy-eight percent, or 455 students, felt the government should create jobs to bring down unemployment. Opposed to the idea were 130 students.

Regarding the issue of balancing the budget, the students were offered two methods as choices: Raising taxes was opposed by 433 students, favored by 40. Lowering government spending was selected as the best method by 465 students, but 79 were against a lessening of expenditures.

Damerow noted a certain contradiction in the students' desire to balance the budget by lowering expenditures while simultaneously wanting increases in government programs.

On other issues, 78 percent of the students wanted to increase federal aid to education and 65 percent favored breaking up the seven big oil companies. On the nuclear power question, the student poll was much closer. Fifty-nine percent felt that nuclear power development should be increased, while 41 percent were opposed to the idea.

In past election polls taken of Union College students, the survey results have been remarkably well-matched to the final results determined on Election Day, Damerow said.
