Dinosaur detectives solve swamp case

Duncan and Scott are detectives, was the prehistoric toeprint, buried in They spent last summer digging for clues in the Great Swamp. They were sent there by a mysterious man, whom Duncan will refer to only as "Mr. X." He told them that's where they could find what they were looking for, and when the father and son team returned with their find, even Mr. X was im-

Duncan Hallock and his son, Scott, are amatuer archeologists, but their discovery was far from a neophyte's expectations.

"It was just for pleasure-a father and son expedition," remebered Hallock. "I never thought we'd end up with a find like this.

The former Earth Science teacher from Summit and his 12-year-old son went on a dig early last summer, and after a few painstaking hours uncovered a fossil which told a tale of life in New Jersey more than 180 million years ago.

I thought before I went that I would be discovering all of these finds and donating to museums all over the state," said Hallock. "But it was harder than I thought to find them.'

He took his find to an expert at the Morris County Museum who verified it as the tracks of Coelophsis, a small dinosaur about the size of a turkey, who roamed the Garden State in the Triassac period of prehistoric times.

After a few more sleuthing expeditions, Hallock and son came upon their major find—a 14-inch long fossil of the Eubrontes, estimated to be between 180-200 million years old.

When Hallock and Scott came across the fossil, it was imbedded in a 300pound block of stone. The amatuers had neither the technical knowledge nor equipment to remove it, but the former geology teacher knew it would be ruined once it had been exposed to weather and made a long-distance call to Yale University.

Paul Olson, a doctoral candidate in archeology at Yale, was in New Jersey on a dig and when he heard about Hallock's find. He rushed to site. Gently cracking the quarter-inch veneer of crusted sediment encasing the fragile fossil, he opened the block and there Scott.

'He had so much experience, he was like a surgeon. You have to know how to dig a track out of the sediment, or you might lose the whole thing," Hallock said. "Watching him was like watching a a diamond cutter.'

Olson, a former Livingston resident. gained national prominence at the age of 13 when he uncovered a major find at Rikers Hill in his home town. Fourteen years later, he is one of the leading archeology experts in the country.

Hallock and Olsn worked on several fossils that summer, and with Olson's expertise the tracks of four different dinosaurs were unearthed in the mysterious Swamp area

Olson was able to tell that the tracks of the Anonmeopus were made by dinosaur babies who jumped and played in what he called a "gregarious manner."

Northern New Jersey was once covered by water about 200 million years ago, when the state was 10 degrees from the equator before the continents separated. Most of the land was sand and mud, and the tracks made by prehistoric creatures hardened and were covered with layers of sediment which flowed from what is now the New York City area.

Hallock, an avid nature photographer, has spoken to numerous schools and groups about his summer of discovery, and presented a slide show at the Trailside Museum Sunday on his "Dinosaur Summer."

The group was made up largely of children, but their parents were equally enthralled by his tales of discovery. He aims the shows at children, and the response is somewhat surprising.

"I've spoken to about 1,500 people and I've really enjoyed it," Hallock said. "But the kids really love it. They know all the names. One of the first historical things a kid relates to is a dinosaur. They astound their parents with their knowledge."

Hallock's mystery story doesn't end here. He hopes to continue his work in the Grand Canyon with his partner, Congressman Matthew Rinaldo of Union, who frequently has been mentioned as a possible candidate for governor or the U.S. Senate, is expected to decide by the end of this year whether to seek one of those offices.

The 12th District Republican is looking to the future in the wake of an elecoutstripped every other candidate in Union County.

Now back in Washington for the postelection session of Congress, he is planning to meet with his advisers within the next few weeks to discuss the options open to him.

As a candidate for the Republican nomination for governor or senator, he would be running in a crowded field.

With Gov. Brendan Byrne finishing his second term next year and banned constitutionally from running again, large numbers of hopefuls in both parties have their eyes on Morven, the gubernatorial mansion.

The U.S. Senate seat held by Democrat Harrison Williams also is attracting extensive attention from prospective candidates. Though Williams has denied any guilt in the Abscam scandal and insisted that he will not resign, his current aix-year term ex-

The decision results from the legal opinion of Borough Attorney John Post

The Mountainside Borough Council on the legality of a probationary chief. The police personnel advisement chief position, and the borough's force firm, McCann Associates of Philadelphia, Pa., has been hired by the

"The council had a problem with the idea of instant tenure," said Bagger. "This way the governing body can evaluate the man's performance.'

The probationary chief offers an alternative to the two other methods which had been proposed to fill the position vacant since May. The council first suggested appointing a non-tenured civilian director with an ordinance introduced Sept. 16. This met with protest from the borough police force and who, according to Mountainside PBA President James Debbie, based their oppostion on the loss of tenure and what they feared would be the enusing political control of the official by the

The controversy continued and the idea of appointing an acting chief was proposed by the PBA. The acting chief, which did not agree with Post's interpretation of state laws, differs from a probationary chief in that there is no time limit on the acting chief's term, and there is no conditional promise of appointment.

Asian family adjusting to life in America

The Le family is now comfortably settled in a Roselle apartment. But it was not long ago that they were seeking freedom through a perilous voyage on a small boat on the open sea.

Holy Spirit Church, Union, helped relocate Long Van Le, his wife, Khiet, and their 10-month-old daughter, Phrung, after they fled from Communist South Vietnam. They could no longer tolerate the lack of freedom and the high taxes in South Vietnam, Le said. He explained that in South Vietnam, a person did not even have the

There was no means of cooking food, and the drinking water was consumed after two days. Pirates robbed the families, on their third day at sea, of the few possessions they had managed to escape with. And 90 percent of the people became ill before reaching the Malaysian islands five days later.

Two championships and a 14-1 dual meet record in 1980.

It will be difficult for Howard Cushnir and Steve Fenton to forget the 1980 girls' gymnastics season at Dayton Regional, especially since most of the girls will be back to better those marks when 1981 comes rolling along

The Dayton coaches watched their girls end their best-ever season in impressive fashion last week, scoring a school record 92.45 points in a rout over a strong Bridgewater-Raritan West team in Springfield.

Once again, junior Paige Carter was the big gun for Dayton, placing first in all four events—beam, floor exercises, bars and vaulting—and capturing the all-around title. Freshman Gina Pashaian also had a good outing, placing second in the floor exercises, her complish next season will be donebest event.

"Since both Steve and I were firstyear coaches here," Cushnir began, "I don't think we realized the full potential of this team until we got underway.'

Once the Dayton coaches saw the girls roar through their schedule, knocking off traditional conference and county powers along the way, they knew the season would be different. And when the girls took back-to-back championships and nearly advanced to the state finals, finishing third in the sectional meet, Cushnir realized the Dayton program had arrived...in style.

"We're going to come back next season hoping to do just as well," he said. "Our big goal will be to make it to the state finals.

The Mountainside Jets "C" team got all tangled up in a 0-0 tie with Chatham Township last week, but it didn't hurt the locals' league standings.

The Jets, 5-0-1 on the season, still lead the Suburban Conference.

Mountainside's Jets dominated the game with Chatham, keeping their opponents bottled up in their own end for much of the afternoon.

In other action, the Fury captured third place with a 5-0 victory over the Sting. Mike Zucker, supported by Mitch Friedberg, Robert Feinberg and John Campos, scored three times, while Charles Weisse and Liz Pabst added a goal apiece. Pabst became the first girl to score a Middle League goal this season. Leni Saia and Peter Glassman also played well for the winners, while Kamaran Bayrasli, the Sting keeper, Scott Oliver, Rich Markovich, Dan Monaco and Greg Grazianni were the stars for the Sting.

The Aztecs rolled past the Stompers, 3-0, to gain fifth place in the league. Eric Schobel made several good runs early in the game, finally setting up Leor Marko for the first goal. Christian Moreno and Scott Leonard both got a foot on a loose ball in front of the net to make it 2-0 and Schobel closed the scoring with a fourth quarter goal.

David Brooks, Mike Perri and Barry Teitelbaum were the keys on defense, while Peter Sadin at forward, Jason Yee at the wing and Roger Basin in midfield stood out for the Stompers.

The Bulldog booters played their final two games of the 1980 Suburban Conference soccer season last week, stopping the Summit Hilltoppers, 3-0, and falling to Verona, 1-0. The Bulldogs were at their best in the victory over Summit. Largey took care of the offense, drilling home a hat trick, while keeper Andrew Grett recorded his 10th shutout of the season. Other outstanding players were Zenon Christdoulous, Dave Cushman, Hanigan and Meixner.

The Dayton booters had to come back the next day and play a strong Verona team. The weary Bulldogs still played well but just couldn't capitalize on a number of good scoring opportunities. Henry Largey, a three-goal scorer in Peter Klaskin, Largey and Hanigan the win over Summit, was named to the paced the Bulldog attack.

Dayton's injury situation was never more apparent than last week against powerful New Providence, 7-1 and heading to the North Jersey, Section II, Group II playoffs.

The Pioneers took full advantage of Dayton's injury woes, burning the Bulldogs with six touchdown passes.

The Bulldogs did lead at one point, jumping to a 7-0 advantage when running back Ed Francis took Caricato's pitch, slipped past two defenders, and raced 70 yards for a touchdown. Dooley added the extra point.

In the Garwood game, Jim Rau scored the tying and winning goals. Gerard Franciosa notched the other

Jim Thorkalson led the team in scoring during the season with 12 goals, and Joe Blanda followed with 11. Other scorers included Brian Dailey, Kevin-Everly, and Mike Tomko, in addition to Rau and Franciosa.

Goalie Steve Katowitz recorded three shutouts, and was one of the better goalie's in Deerfield's history, making excellent and difficult saves, according to coach Charles (Kit) Carson, Matt Miller, Rob O'Neill, Myles Carter and Peter Von Der Linn stood out on

Greg Torborg, Dailey and Tomko also were starters who contributed to

Other eighth-graders who played well were Kipp Levinson, Bob Miicke, Ryan Lake, Sam Bigley, Brian Miske and Clarke Hedrick. Some seventh-graders who will return to anchor the squad next year are Tommy Jackson, Russell Picut, Tomas Nonnemacher, Patrick Daniele and Marc Franciosa.

The girls' squad, according to coach Sandra Everly, played better than its record shows. "Four games were lost by only one point, and we played through the season with only four eighth-graders, often against teams of all eighth-graders," she said.

The team was sparked by Ann Bunin; who scored all the goals for the season except for one booted by Michele Coddington.

The cpach complimented Coddington and Nancy Klaskin for good work as goalies and eight-graders Linda Fernicola nd Nancy Rosenbauer for fine defensive play.

Several sixth graders on the team gained experience in at least four games, with sixth grader Colleen Delaney finding action in every contest.

Applications are due soon

Rep. Matthew J. Rinaldo (R-12th for five appointments—two to the U.S District) this week reminded Union County students that this is the last month in which to file applications for appointment to a U.S. military academy in 1981.

He said the applications, including test scores and other information, must reach his Washington office (2338 Rayburn House Office Building, Washington, D.C. 20515) by Nov. 30.

Rinaldo will nominate 50 young people from the 12th Congressional District

Military Academy and one each to the U.S. Naval Academy, U.S. Air Force Academy and Merchant Marine Academy. Coast Guard Academy appointments are made on the basis of an annual nationwide competition. The congressman said his nominations will be based on test scores on the Scholastic Aptitude Test (SAT) or American College Test (ACT). Applicants also must complete a questionnaire and submit their high school transcript

MERIT low tar/good taste combination earns convincing 3 to 1 victory over high tar leaders.

There's a low tar cigarette that's challenging high tar smoking—and winning.

The cigarette: MERIT.

High Tars Suffer Setback.

Nationwide smoker research documents that smokers prefer MERIT.

Blind Taste Tests: In tests where brand identity was concealed, a significant majority of smokers rated the taste of low tar MERIT as good as—or better than—leading high tar brands. Even cigarettes having twice the tar!

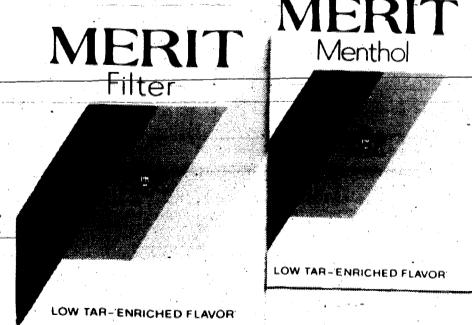

Smoker Preference: Among the 95% of smokers stating a preference, the MERIT low tar/good taste combination was favored 3 to 1 over high tar leaders when tar levels were revealed!

Long-Term Satisfaction: In the latest survey of former high tar smokers who have switched to MERIT, 9 out of 10 reported they continue to enjoy smoking, are glad they switched, and reported MERIT is the best-tasting low tar they've ever tried!

MERIT is the proven alternative to high tar smoking. And you can taste it.

Not long after that, Matthew met Jan McLagen, then of the Small Faces, who convinced him that was high time he bought himself a Hammond organ. He did, and after a afternoon concert, the the Summit Junior High can be obtained by calling brief stnt with Screaming Lord Sutch and the Savages, he found himself placing an advertisement in Melody Maker. (a British rock publication) for a gig. The responent was none other than Keith Reid, who was then forming Procol Harum.

The association couldn't have been more perfect or natural for Matthew because at that time, he was looking for season with funds from the the opportunity to combine the diverse musical influences of Jimmy Smith, Booker T. and J.S. Bach within the framework of contempoary rock music. "The Brooker-Reid material in certs are free, and the general, and 'Whiter Shade of Pale' in particular, presented just such an opportunity," Matthew remembers. Obviously, the relationship was a mutually beneficial one, and Fisher can certainly take credit for helping to pioneer the shape of rock music that was to > Eventually, Matthew began to feel that it was time to branch out. "I was beginning to outgrow the role of 'phantom organist' and wanted to broaden my musical activities further into writing and singing my own songs," he recalls. Finding it difficult to do so within the strict musical format of Procol Harum, they parted.

Setting in shoulder pads is not as easy as it sounds. To really see what you are doing, you need the garment wrong side out. If you turn the garment wrong side out, the shoulder pad is going to curve the wrong way.

If you have a dress form hidden away in the attic, now is the time to dig it out. You can slip the garment onto the form, then slip shoulder pads in place. Adjust pads until they fit correctly, with the long straight edge extending beyond the sleeve seam at shoulder about one-halfinch. This "fills in" the cap of the sleeve and gives your garment a more professional "hang."

No dress form? Then your knee serves just as well. Place garment shoulder right side up over your knee. Slip shoulder pad in place. Adjust. Pin.

Try garment on to make sure of fit. Using a double strand of thread, hand sew long straight edge of pad to seam allowances. Stitching should be loose, but secure (you do not want it to pull on the garment). Sew shoulder seam allowances to bottom layer of pad (do not stitch through pad). Tack point of pad to seam allowances near neckline.

If you do not want the added height and broadness created by shoulder pads, but still want the professional smoothness and hang, select "shoulder shapes." These are very thin pads that add little height.

For figures with one shoulder higher than the other, the low shoulder can be raised with extra padding.

Patterns not allowing for shoulder pads may fit too tightly underarm if pads are added. Check the back of the pattern envelope under Notions to determine whether or not it calls for

In shortening pleated skirts overturn waist

By CAROLYN Y. HEALEY Extension Home Economist

Accordion pleated skirts are currently a big fashion item and generally look well on most figures. The problem with many pleated skirts is the length. If the skirt is too short, little can be done to lengthen it. However, if the skirt is too long, one trick is to turn over the waistband to gain the desired shortness. If this does not do the job, then the skirt will have to be shortened either from the waist or from the bottom:

If a hem is already turned up at the bottom, then the best method is to into be pressed in a reversed crease.

Although time consuming, setting in each pleat crease can be easier if a mixture of equal parts of vinegar and water are put in the steam iron and the edge of each pleat pressed with the vinegar and water spray. If the hem at the bottom of an accordion pleated skirt is a narrow rolled billing service type hem, the best method of shortening is either cutting off that rolled hem

A post holiday

BY GWEN WARANIS

Extension Home Economist Now is the time when department stores are offering credit card holders a post-holiday billing service. All you have to do is sign and return a card stating that you want the store to hold all bills until sometime next January. The store won't even add an extra charge for this service. It sounds like a good deal, right? Not necessarily.

This type of billing service can be advantageous to the credit card user who plans to pay off the bill in one lump sum; that way, you can enjoy the "float" of using the store's money at no charge to you.

But, for the average credit card user, there are several disadvantages.

One is tht without receiving bills for Keeping the cold out and the warmth several months, you may not recall just how much you have charged on that card. A good remedy would be to save

How to benefit from special food additives By ELLAWESE B. MC LENDON

Extension Home Economist

Did you know that some food additives are good for you? If you are suspicious of food additives, you might be surprised to learn of benefits from one complex carbohydrate commonly added to different foods. Pectin is found naturally in apples, oranges and grapefruit. It's also made commercially for thickening processed foods such as jellies, jams and marmalades. Most commercial pectin is extracted from citrus peels, although some is made from apple pomace.

According to Sheldon Reiser, chief of Carbohydrates Nutrition Laboratory, Human Nutrition Center, U. S. Department of Agriculture, chemically, pectin is not only a polysacchoride having 10 or more types of sugars linked together, but also a nondigestible fiber 'hypocholesteremic'' action; that is, it lowers cholesterol levels in the blood.

Several studies were cited in which cholesterol levels were reduced in the blood of males after they ate from six to 36 grams of pectin daily for two to four weeks. In contrast, cholesterol was not lowered when males ate the equivalent amount of cellulose or wheat fiber. The key to the difference, cites Reiser, may be that pectin absorbes more bile salts in the gastrointestinal tract than does -cellulose.

When you think of additives, remember that some are still good for us. If you are concerned about the amount of additives in foods, the Food and Drug Administration has placed limits on the amounts of additives that can be added to foods.

Shoulder pads will be noticed in fall, winter By BETTY W. KINSER

Shoulder pads are going to insist on being noticed this fall and winter. Whether we like it or not, they are definitely in.

Setting in shoulder pads is not as easy as it sounds. To really see what you are doing, you need the garment wrong side out. If you turn the garment wrong side out, the shoulder pad is going to curve the wrong way.

If you have a dress form hidden away in the attic, now is the time to dig it out. You can slip the garment onto the form, then slip shoulder pads in place. Adjust pads until they fit correctly, with the long straight edge extending beyond the sleeve seam at shoulder about one-halfinch. This "fills in" the cap of the sleeve and gives your garment a more professional "hang.

No dress form? Then your knee serves just as well. Place garment shoulder right side up over your knee. Slip shoulder pad in place. Adjust. Pin.

Try garment on to make sure of fit. Using a double strand of thread, hand sew long straight edge of pad to seam allowances. Stitching should be loose, but secure (you do not want it to pull on the garment). Sew shoulder seam allowances to bottom layer of pad (do not stitch through pad). Tack point of pad to seam allowances near neckline.

If you do not want the added height and broadness created by shoulder pads, but still want the professional smoothness and hang, select "shoulder shapes." These are very thin pads that add little height.

For figures with one shoulder higher than the other, the low shoulder can be raised with extra padding.

Patterns not allowing for shoulder pads may fit too tightly underarm if pads are added. Check the back of the pattern envelope under Notions to determine whether or not it calls for

In shortening pleated skirts overturn waist

By CAROLYN Y. HEALEY Extension Home Economist

Accordion pleated skirts are currently a big fashion item and generally look well on most figures. The problem with many pleated skirts is the length. If the skirt is too short, little can be done to lengthen it. However, if the skirt is too long, one trick is to turn over the waistband to gain the desired shortness. If this does not do the job, then the skirt will have to be shortened either from the waist or from the bottom.

If a hem is already turned up at the bottom, then the best method is to increase the width of the bottom hem. With this method, each pleat will have to be pressed in a reversed crease.

Although time consuming, setting ture of equal parts of vinegar and water are put in the steam iron and the edge of each pleat pressed with the vinegar and water spray.

If the hem at the bottom of an accordion pleated skirt is a narrow rolled type hem, the best method of shortening is either cutting off that rolled hem and hemming the skirt according to the previous directions; or shortening it from the waist.

To shorten such a skirt from the waist can mean resetting the zipper and the waistband lower onto the skirt. Or if the skirt has an elastic waistband, then making a new elastic casing can solve the problem.

If you have any questions about these methods, call Mrs. Healey at the extension office, 233-9366.

A post holiday billing service

BY GWEN WARANIS

Extension Home Economist Now is the time when department stores are offering credit card holders a post-holiday billing service. All you have to do is sign and return a card stating that you want the store to hold all bills until sometime next January. The store won't even add an extra charge for this service. It sounds like a good deal, right? Not necessarily. This type of billing service can be advantageous to the credit card user who plans to pay off the bill in one lump sum; that way, you can enjoy the "float" of using the store's money at no charge to you.

Instant nonfat dry milk good By ELLAWESE B. MC LENDON

Extension Home Economist

Nonfat dry milk makes a nutritionally-good companion for those who like to be next to nature. It packs Mrs. Merentino, the former Margaret light, requires very little storage space and has all the nonfat nutrients of fresh fluid milk. There is no waste in using nonfat dry milk. Just measure and mix what you need, then reseal the package for the next milk break. While useful as a beverage, it also can be used in any recipe that calls for milk in camping favorites such as pancakes, scrambled eggs and French toast. Instant nonfat dry milk can be used in different ways; but, did you know it even lets you prepare your own buttermilk? Here's how: First, liquefy the desired amount of nonfat dry milk that you need. Do not chill; then, stir in onehalf cup commercial or homemade buttermilk. Let stand at room teperature eight hours or until thickened. Add a pinch of salt if you desire and stir until smooth. Refrigerate until ready to use. Packaged instant nonfat dry milk should be kept in a cool, dry place without refrigeration. If kept carefully sealed it should last six months.

"The war between Iran and Iraq is a compelling reminder that the United States, along with other industrialized well as developing countries, depends on a politically volatile and militarily insecure source of imported oil-the Persian Gulf," Bradley said at the opening hearing on Nov. 11.

"Our dependence, which long continued to grow despite recurrent threats to the security of our imported oil, means that we are highly vulnerable to foreign manipulation and disruption of our petroleum supplies. Reducing that vulnerability is the most urgent task on our energy policy agen-

The inquiry is being made by the Senate Finance subcommittee on taxation and debt management at two hearings chaired by Sen. Bradley.

"To date, our energy policy has focused too narrowly on programs aimed at the remote objective of energy independence," Bradley said. "It is high time that we address emergency preparedness measures that will anticipate and minimize the consequences of a major interruption in our crude oil

At the first hearing, the witnesses-all recognized authorities in energy economics-were asked to advise the panel on alternative approaches to rationing to manage supply interruptions. In particular, they discussed whether emergency tariffs or taxes on crude oil and products can reduce the short-term damage to the United States and the international economy stemming from major oil disruptions.

"In examining this issue it is essential that we recognize at the outset that we are talking about emergencies," Bradley said. "None of the measures proposed for managing supply disruptions can entirely avoid damage to the economy and hardship to individual consumers

"I want us to deal with reality. A major oil supply disruption presents us and other consuming nations with a terrible problem which even the best emergency response plan can only hope to mitigate. THE RESERVED RESERVED

A few weeks ago we ran one advertisement, on one weekend, announcing that the luxury town houses of Liberty Greens were available for sale. Since that ad ran, the buyer response has been revolutionary. Without furnished models. Without a sales office. With nothing more than floorplans and, of course, one of the finest locations in Morris County and New Jersey.

But our success is no surprise. Because Liberty Greens is a revolutionary new community. The first and only luxury town houses at this incomparable address.

And starting with today's grand opening — with our furnished models and formal sales center open — we expect that the rest of our town houses will be gone in a few short weeks. So if you don't hurry, there may be none left. Which would be a shame. Because you'll probably never again get another chance to live this well, for prices like these.

Not this close to Manhattan. Not in Convent Station. The revolution has begun. Visit while it's still going on.

intersection, then turn right on Route 24 for about 11/2 miles to Punchbowl Road (Jersey Central Power and Light Co.). Turn left to Liberty Greens. From the N.J. Turnpike at the Newark Airport Interchange: Take Route 24 West to the end, then Main Street (Old Route 24) through Chatham and Madison to Punchbowl Road in Convent Station (Jersey Central Power

Consumer News

By ADAM K. LEVIN, Director, New Jersey Division of Consumer Affairs

The holidays are approaching and now is the time to take a few safety measures that can prevent a tragedy from occurring during this festive season.

The following tips of children's toys and household safety hints could help to prevent such an occurrence. Each year, many children are injured by toys which are unsafe, unwisely chosen, or improperly used and maintained Parents can help prevent these traumas.

Remember that all toys are not intended for all children. An important guideline to follow is the manufacturer's age recommendation on the package.

If a label reads, "Not Recommended for Children under 10 Years of Age," regardless of how bright or mature you think your eight year old child is, or how safe the toy appears, it is not advisable to purchase that toy.

When purchasing toys, avoid: Playthings with sharp edges.

Toys with small parts_that can be easily removed and swallowed.

eye damage if improperly used.

 Toys that make loud noises which Brunswick. can injure a child's hearing.

Electrical toys and games for very small children Toys with heating elements, such as toy kitchen appliances, unless your child is at least eight years old.

Safety concerns should not be dropped after the purchase has been made:

•Be certain the child knows how to use the toys correctly. Read the instruction booklet carefully and instruct your child on the proper usage and on precautions. You and your child should operate the toy together, until you are certain that your child can be trusted

•Check the plugs of electrical games to be certain they fit into outlets snugly. Teach your children to unplug the game by pulling the plug and not the cord; and instruct them to ask you for help if they have any problems.

you feel that it is necessary. Keep infants away from your older children's toys, and have your child pack up and put away the toy when he is finished us-

 Periodically check the toy for proper functioning and safety. Broken parts or frayed wiring in electrical toys can be extremely hazardous. If you find that a game or toy is inherently unsafe due to design or usage. or if you have questions concerning toy safety, call the Consumer Product Safety Commission hot line at (800) 638-8326. You can also find out more about product safety by calling the Division of Consumer Affairs Tel-Consumer information line at (201) 643-6400. Ask to

 Also, be sure to supervise the child if hear the taped message on product safety.

> Here are some more holiday safety tips concerning decorations and lighting: Always look for the UL label of Underwriters' Laboratories. If you're using a set of lights that was used last season or before, be sure to check the set carefully for frayed wires, loose connections, broken or cracked sockets and spots where bare wire is ex-

Make sure that lighting used outdoors is clearly identified for such use. Indoor lights are not designed to withstand the elements outdoors. Careful purchasing and use of holiday products is an essential precaution.

Seton Hall U. plans heirloom discovery worth something?

The chance to find out the real value of some old family treasure or garagesale item will come at "Heirloom Discovery Day" at Seton Hall University's Student Center, South Orange, on Saturday, Dec. 6, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. when five experts from the fine-art auction firm of Sotheby Parke Bernet will appraise artworks, antiques and art ob-

For a fee of $5 per appraisal, the experts will identify and verbally appraise objects in the following categories: silver, porcelain, furniture, painting, and Oriental art (for furnitureand other items too large to carry, owners should bring a clear photo or a removable part such as a drawer). Books, stamps and coins will not be appraised.

Sponsored by the Department of Art and Music, the Seton Hall program is the only Sotheby Parke Bernet "Heirloom Discovery Day" in New Jersey this season. All proceeds go to the University,

During the past few years nearly 150,000 people in more than 50 cities in the U.S. and Canada have had their family heirlooms evaluated in similar Priceless? Worthless? Or at least "Discovery Day" programs. Some previously unknown priceless works of art are occasionally uncovered, but the more usual "Discovery Day" experience is for an owner to learn the true (and often substantial) current market value of a familiar object.

For instance, some New York nuns found out that an ornate dish they owned was a rare Medici porcelain bowl later sold for $180,000. One of the 'Peaceable Kingdom" series of paintings in a New Jersey Historical Society's collection turned out to be a fine example worth $125,000. A set of old watches was valued at more than $130,000, and a little pottery dog in a shoebox on a closet shelf was determined to be Chinese porcelain worth at least $5,000.

According to Sotheby experts, any work of art worth more than $1,000 is a treasure for most people, especially if they did not know the identity and value of the object. The "Discovery Day" concept emphasizes that popular definition of "art treasure."

Patrons' contributions of $30 per couple includes two appraisals. Requests for invitations and reservations, which are limited, are being accepted at the Department of Art and Music, 762-9000.

Israel Bonds to offer 'fluctuating' interest

A $50 million variable rate State of Israel Bond has been issued by the Development Corporation For Israel for employee benefit plans and union

The corporation, the corporate structure of the State Of Israel Bond Organization, said the yield on the new bond will be the 7½ percent minimum rate supplemented by one half the excess, if any, of the average prime rate over 71/2 percent as determined twice each year. The minimum purchase amount is $25,000; additional $5,000 units can be purchased within 12 months after the initial purchase.

The variable rate bond has a 12-year maturity. It is redeemable after three years, or earlier in the event of the dissolution of an employee benefit plan.

The average prime rate will be the average of the prime rates set at the close of business April 1 and Oct. 1 by the Bank of America (San Francisco), the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust Co. (Chicago) and Citibank, N.A. (New York). The interest which will be paid for the first interest period is 10.417 percent.

Among the funds eligible to purchase the variable rate bonds are corporateadministered profit-sharing andor pension plans, professional corporation or association or service corporation plans, pension or employee benefit plans, jointly-administered corporation-union employee benefit plans, union pension or welfare plans, Keogh or individual retirement plans and union funds.

TMEPLE OF DIANA DESTROYED

The Temple of Diana at Ephesus in Turkey, one of the ancient world's seven wonders, measured 300 by 150 feet and its columns were 60 feet high. Work-on it-was begun about 555 B.C. "It's a SMALL MALL after all'

...with big gift ideas for our little shoppers. Livingston Mall thinks it is unfair for the little shoppers to be lost in the hustle and bustle of the crowds. So, we have designed a holiday shopping area to accommodate our little shoppers during the holiday season.

The area is completely supervised, which allows Morn and Dad to finish-up that last minute shopping. So, come down and join in this delightful experience, starting 7 PM, Friday, November 21st during Santa's arrival and from 12 noon 'til 7 PM throughout the holiday season. Don't miss this wonderful experience...it's bound to be filled with surprises.

AND A LOT MORE IN YOUR SPARE TIME

Why scrimp to save when all you have to do is sew. With the sewing machines that have always made saving simple... Singer.

To begin with, there's a sale going on With better than just nickel n' dime offers. Like the Creative Touch Fashion* machine model 1036, with its regular price lowered by $100. This machine has convenient features like a free-arm and 12 stitch patterns that make sewing easy.

And the more you sew

the more you'll save. Since the prices you see on clothes are so high, about all you can afford to do is look.

So come in soon while an siw save extra.

Then spend your spare time wisely and sew with a Singer* machine. And eventually, you'll save a lot more.

THE SINGER STORE WHERE SAVING IS ALWAYS IN STYLE.
