Students beat cuts by starting college

Thirteen students from two area regional high schools will begin their college educations six months early as a result of the Reagan Administration's cutbacks in Social Security Educational Benefits (SSEB)

According to Dr. Donald Merachnik, superintendent of regional schools, he learned of the state legislated changes in SSEB made last August through an article that appeared in a December issue of a New York newspaper.

Jonathan Dayton Regional High School had 15 students eligible for SSEB. Nine have enrolled in Union College, Cranford, according to Merachnik. In David Brearley Regional High School four of the nine eligible students have enrolled in Union

Most other area school districts did not become aware of the changes until the week of Jan. 21 when they received a letter from the Department of Higher Education in Trenton. In his letter, Brett E. Lief, director of tuition aid grant and scholarship programs, stated full-time college students (carrying a minimum of 12 credits) by May 1 would lose all SSEB assistance upon high school graduation or their 18th birth-summer when the changes were made, cipals to enroll, he added.

and at various intervals since then, according to Robert Vitolo, district manager of the Elizabeth Social Security office. "It was not something that was overlooked,'' he said.

"If individual guidance departments were not aware of the changes, I don't know why. There were stories about the changes almost every week, I believe."

The students eligible for SSEB have three options. They may enroll full time in a college and drop out of high school, attend high school and college part time or not act at all.

Those who become full-time students in college will get high school diplomas after the guidance department examines their college transcripts for successful completion of required

Even though many students may successfully beat the May 1 cutoff date in order to continue receiving benefits, additional changes in SSEB indicate that the program is still shaky. Each year the benifits will decrease 25 percent un-

Borough budget proposal falls under state cap limit The council then, following the advice review plans and specifications. Robert Viglianti in reference to the borough's 1982 budget proposal, estimated at $1,881,396.15 by the councilman at Tuesday's Work Session Meeting. Viglianti was referring to the fact that the budget, as proposed, would fall within state-mandated budget caps.

Viglianti told the council that because of certain changes-made possible through reductions in several administration line expenditures - he was able to work the tentative budget in such a way that it would not exceed the borough's spending caps. The councilman asserted that because the borough has not yet found an administrator, it was possible to reduce $4,000 in Administration Salaries and Wages and $12,000 in Administation Executive and Other Expenses line items.

Viglianti urged that the council meet during the last week of February to discuss the budget proposal further, so that it can officially be published for the public 10 days prior to the March 15 passage deadline.

In other business, Councilman Louis Maas discussed with the council plans for renovations to the Board of Educa tion and Borough Hall buildings.

The project, speculated by Maas to be "about $130,000 for the total renovations," would include: a complete refurbishing of the electrical system, grid ceilings, wall paneling, carpeting and bathroom renovation for the board building; renovations for the Borough Hall building included barrier-free access and improvements to the four bathrooms, drop ceiling and fluores cent lighting in second floor hallway and stairwell, carpeting and the pain ting of all exterior trim other than win dows and doors

Commenting on the report, Mayor Thomas Ricciardi said. I think we reobliged to go with the board of edbuilding," but the mayor also stated that this was something that "will take some time," adding, "This is not something that can be done immediately," Ricciardi said.

It was concluded that, first, an architect must be sought in order to ject to vociferously are those three

Maas informed the council that he would compile a list of three architects (preferably borough residents, as recommended by Ricciardi) who will be reviewed by the Building and Grounds Committee; from the three, one will be selected for the planning and supervision. Although no date was specified. Maas told the council that he was anxious to get this project under

After reading the survey, Ricciardi commented by saying, "One thing I obwords: Senior Citizen Housing." The mayor continued, "I think that people see those words and they immediately think of subsidized housing. I think you should specify exactly what you're suggesting," Ricciardi stated.

Viglianti questioned the frequent reference to "older people" in the survey, saying that someone not considering themselves older might simply disregard the letter, ultimately hindering the overall response they wish to receive "I suggest you omit older," requested Viglianti, "Otherwise, you may unwittingly preclude someone, say, in their 40s who does not consider themselves older, and they'll chuck it into deep six," Viglianti said

Councilman Abraham Suckno also commented by saying, "If you don't get to everyone, then you may be getting a minority response." He continued, You have to, once and for all, settle this; make sure you get it (the survey) to everyone.

Hart, after listening to suggestions, told the council that she would meet with Rosenbauer and McGuire and present another draft at a later meeting.

The Borough Council regular meeting is scheduled for Tuesday.

PERC gives borough employees go-ahead for unionization vote

y PHILIP HARTMAN

The Public Employment Relations Commission (PERC) has handed down a directive giving 16 borough employees the go-ahead for an election to vote on unionization of their municipal postions. The directive granted an election request made by the employees in December.

The vote will be held with the eligibility of two positions still in question; the municipal court clerk and secretary to the council might be considered confidential employees and therefore under federal law ineligible to belong to the union. The latter person also holds the posts of secretary to the borough administrator, deputy borough clerk and deputy registrar of vital statistics.

Those two positions are in question as to whether they overlap supervisory jobs normally rejected for unionization under PERC guidelines.

David Wallace, a Jersey City attorney representing the borough, explained that the borough's concern was that the proposed bargaining unit not include supervisory or confidential employees, although PERC had decided not to define the positions and left it up to the borough to challenge their eligibility.

The borough has not changed its stand on the two positions in question, according to Wallace. "If anyone shows up that we think is ineligible, of course we will challenge them," he said.

Wallace said the borough does not want to create any discord among the labor group, but said, "Why should they vote if they're not eligible for the bargaining unit.'

Supervisory employees are those "who have the power to hire, discharge, discipline or effectively recommend such actions, according to Mark Rosenbaum, a PERC spokesman. He explained that confidential employees may know or have access to collective negotiations.

Positions which PERC has already decided were clearly non-supervisory were police dispatchers, deputy tax collector, public works employees, clerks, school crossing guards and the senior citizen coordinator, which together

Patricia Knodel explained.

At the time of the election the borough could challenge the votes of those two individuals, according to Rosenbaum. If that happens, their votes would be sealed and counted only if a split vote resulted, he said.

To gain a union the employees must receive a majority, according to Rosembaum, who said a tie would mean "no union."

Both the borough and the municipal employees were given a week period to offer opposition to the directive, according to Wallace, who added that if either had done so PERC would have held a hearing on the grievance. The election will now be held after 30 days at PERC's discretion, according to

Your Library: Letters of a young Flaubert

Following are the reviews of the recently popular books for winter reading at the Springfield Public

EARY LIFE OF

ANOVELIST "Letters of Gustave Flaubert: 1830-1851," by Francis Steegmuller.

Creator of "Madaine Bovary" (purported to have been the forerunner of the modern novel). Gustave Flaubert-born in Rouen, 1821-was the son and brother of eminent doctors. In his youth he wrote prodigiously, but published very little.

From the selected letters to young friends we learn of his schooldays, his literary heroes, (Byron, Hugo, Rabelais, Shakespeare) and his attendance at law school, though he never practiced law. Most of the letters from 1846 to 1855 (there was an interveal from 1849 to 1851) were written to the beautiful poet-Louise Colet, who became his mistress. Long ill and celibate. Flaubert was in love for the first time, but did not share Louise's desire for domesticity. His letters were effusively passionate, but they also contained reminiscences, artistic and literary allusions, and opinions.

Meanwhile, Flaubert had been writing, but not to his satisfacton. With his affairs at an end, he and his friend Maxime were assigned diplomatic and commercial missions to the Orient by the French government.

Letters describing their travels and exotic experiences were sent to Gustave's mother and his friend Louis. On his return he was determined to engineers.

His relationship with Louise renewed. he now wrote primarily of his progress with his novel—"Madame Bovary"—or of Louise's poetic efforts. Soon the break between them was final. The remaining letters concern the publication of his novel, its hostile reception by the government, its trial for immorality' and its exoneration-followed by immediate success.

USING PLAY FOR GROWTH "The Gift of Play," by Maria W. Piers and Geneveive Millet Landau.

Play has a vital role in learning, development and survival. No one has been able to formulate a good definition of play, especially of child's play. But we learn that true child's play is selfmotivated, self-designed and to adults, often with no serious aim at all. Young children simply cannot do without play-and this the authors try to describe.

Through play children learn and polish skills (social, emotional, physical, mental.) The writers indicated the specific forces which deprive children of play, stressing the changed nature of contemporary society, which includes television. They describe a child's first games, the lifesaving powers, retardation of development when play is absent, professional therapy and preparation for school.

HOW TO COPE WITH ALLERGY "The Best Guide to Allergy," by A.V. Giannini M.D., and others.

About one out of five persons has an allergy. The information contained here reflects the current knowledge of allergy and immunology as studied and taught in the major universities and medical schools of the world. The authors define allergy, tell the difference between it and intolerance, list the substances which elicit allergic response (allergens) and describe the causes of allergy. Tests and prevention also are covered.

There are detailed discussions of hay fever, asthma, skin allergy, food allergy, insect and drug allergy, and numerous controversial aspects of the subject.

GIFT THAT LASTS A LIFETIME

Today, it seems that major. appliances and cars have builtin obsolesence. Toys given at holiday time seem to be broken by January and clothes have a way of wearing out before they're even broken in. Is there really a gift that can last a lifetime?

What parents do not want for their child - good looks, con--fidence, better health and a beautiful smile? Some go through their entire lives lacking these because of crooked teeth or an overbite (buck teeth) or an underbite. It's not hard to see children (and adults) go out of their way to hide their smiles so that people won't see their dental defects.

When parents bestow upon their child the gift of straight teeth through orthodontics, then they can be sure that they have given a gift that lasts a lifetime. With straight teeth will come the precious bonuses of a perfect smile, improved self confidence and (because of the corrected bite) lower future dental bills

* If you enjoy the security of always knowing what your money's earning, open a fixed-rate Colonial IRA! Lock into a high rate for 18 months with just a $250 minimum deposit -- and build your IRA during that period with more $250 additions without term extension!

* Colonial has many other Revolutionary IRA plans available and we'll custom-tailor one to suit your specific needs. Any savings account or certificate rate we offer can become an IRA for you!

Individual Retirement Account (IRA)

Anyone with earned income -- even if in an employer's retirement plan -- can open a Colonial IRA and defer up to $2,000 each year from taxes, along with every dollar of interest earned! And if your spouse is not employed, you can defer up to $2,250 each year. For working couples the advantage is even greater; open two accounts for $2,000 each and get a total deferment of $4,000! Rollover IRA

If you are about to receive a lump-sum distribution from a qualified pension or retirement plan, you can "roll it over" into a Colonial IRA within 60 days and earn the maximum tax benefits!

Keogh Plan

If you are self-employed, you can now con-tribute and defer up to $15,000 each year in a Colonial Keogh account. For additional contributions, you can

Overlook dedicates cancer-care center Overlook Hospital here dedicted a 23bed unit totally devoted to the treatment of adult cancer patients yester-

The unit is located on the sixth floor of the hospital and is designed to provide a centralized area for the care of cancer patients undergoing aggressive therapy to combat the disease. The unit is under the direction of David P. Miller, M.D., chairman of the hospital's Cancer_Committee and a medical oncologist.

The brightly decorated unit offers patients and their visitors a large lounge area and complete kitchen facilities for those who wish to eat at nonconventional meal times

According to Miller, the fight against cancer has been one of Overlook's foremost concerns over the years, with the dedication of the new unit further ing that commitment. Our goal is to ensure that the total needs-physical! psychological and spiritual - of our patients and their families will be met," he explained. He noted that this is achieved through a multi-disciplinary team approach which utilizes the skills of the medical staff, nursing staff, oncology social workers, nutritionists, the in-house hospice team, chaplains, physical therapists and psychiatrists. Representatives of each discipline meet weekly to discuss the status of each patient

In addition to these team meetings, programs have been set up for the staff under the acgis Patricia Partington Murphy of Springfield, oncology clinical nurse specialist. Valentine cards replacing apples in classrooms to point out that it's more alive than ever. In fact, by Feb. 14, teachers will receive more Valentines than anyone

According to research sponsored by the National Association of Greeting Card Publishers (NAGCP), children exchange almost four times as many Valentine cards as adults, and mothers can expect to receive an many Valentines as they have children.

Carl Goeller, editorial director of Cleveland-based American Greetings Corp., said teachers today are encouraging their students to remember every classmate to avoid hurt feelings. "Adults really tend to worry more than children about being left out," he added. "Overall, distributing Valentine cards in the classroom is an excellent . means to teach thoughtfulness, caring and the expressing of sentiment at an early age.

The NAGCP emphasizes, however, that the adult market for Valentine creased by more than 45 percent in the Former higher tar smokers affirm MERIT choice for taste, ease of switch, and long-term satisfaction.

The research results are overwhelming.

New National Smoker Study provides solid evidence that 'Enriched Flavor,' MERIT offers a satisfying alternative to higher tar cigarettes.

MERIT Taste Sparks Switch.

Nationwide survey reveals over 90% of MERIT smokers who switched from higher tar are glad they did. In fact, 94% don't even miss their former brands.

Further Evidence: 9 out of 10 former higher tar smokers report MERIT an easy switch, that they didn't give up taste in switching, and that MERIT is the best-tasting low tar they've ever tried.

MERIT Clear Choice In New Tests.

In addition, extensive unmarked-pack tests confirm that MERIT delivers a winning combination of taste and low tar when compared against-higher tar leaders.

Confirmed: The overwhelming majority reported MERIT taste equal to—or better than—leading higher tar brands.

Confirmed: When tar levels were revealed, 2 out of 3 chose the MERIT combination of low tar and good taste.

Year after year, in study after study, MERIT remains unbeaten. The proven taste alternative to higher tar smoking—is MERIT.

Dayton teams meeting coaches' goals

Bulldogs set for 1st round of county play

By RON BRANDSDORFER

Ron Fusco claims he stands about 5-8. but Bulldog coach Ray Yanchus insists that must be with three pairs of socks underneath his basketball sneakers. But whatever the case. Fusco is a big man on Dayton's 10-8 basketball team. The Bulldogs found that out the hard way on Tuesday afternoon with a disappointing 49-43 loss to Newark Arts. Playing without their 5-5 (or 5-8) playmaker, who tore a muscle in his leg in Friday's 81-52 victory over North Plainfield, the Bulldogs were a team without an experienced point guard. And it showed.

They allowed Newark Arts to set the tempo and found themselves stuck in a perimeter game. As a result, they only

"We had a lot of trouble getting going," Yanchus said. "We seemed to be kind of dead. We just let it get away." 'We had a problem adjusting without Fusco in the lineup," he added. "Ronnie provides defensive balance and runs our offense.'

The Bulldogs will look to Davev Johnson to provide that leadership when they travel to Metuchen tonight. And when the Union County Tournament starts on Saturday or on Monday, Fusco will probably still be out of the

And that could cause the Bulldogs some problems.

"I hope the injury to Fusco doesn't affect us psychologically," Yanchus said. "It's hard to lose that point guard, and especially someone who had been doing such an excellent job.

"Point guards are a rare breed," he continued. "A lot of people can't handle the spot and others don't want to even try. Ron relishes it, and he had been

North Plainfield last week, Fusco ran the show smoothly. He was a big reason that Kyle Hudgins put together a fine 24-point, 10-rebound day and that Jim Price scored 14 and Geoff Bradshaw added 13. And Fusco even found enough time to score 14 points.

And in the victory over Millburn, Fusco got the ball down low to Bradshaw and Hudgins, who scored 14 points apiece. And Price chipped in with 12.

Now the Bulldogs will have to get by with one of their main men and, depending on what the seeding committee decides, Dayton could end up playing a first round game on Saturday, on Monday or some other day.

Then, when the county tourney is all through, the Bulldogs will begin-action in North Jersey, Section II, Group II.

went to the line six times in the getting better game by game." In big victories over Millburn and Krupp's girls boost victory total to seven

By RON BRANDSDORFER

Since Dayton's girls' basketball team has already surpassed his two main goals for this season, Coach Art Krupp they've done that. has had the luxury of dreaming about the 1982-83 season.

And he has one goal all figured out aiready

"Next year we want to improve evenfurther," said Krupp, whose girls were 3-18 a year ago and have posted an impressive 7-12 at this point in the season.

"Reaching 500 will be the bigobstacle," he continued "Once you do that, then you realize you are a good team and that you can play with anybody.

Right now, the Dayton girls are still a bit unsure. And that's not too surpris-

"The year's experience has been the big thing," said Krupp, explaining the stunning turnaround. "The girls are really working together. They're really after a common goal. They've set out to improve themselves in basketball, and Much to Krupp's delight. The secondyear girls' coach, who took over after Dayton had a one-victory season two years ago, was hoping his team would improve the program and win more games this season than last.

'And we have already achieved those goals," he said proudly

The girls have knocked off Brearley twice and Manville, Roselle, Spotswood, Roselle Park and North Plainfield once apiece. The victory over North Plainfield came on Friday, and the score was 60-47.

After all, Hockstein has averaged more than 17 points a game in her last eight outings, and Karr is a top product of the jayvee program The girls have also received strong performances from senior Karen Hudgins, who averages 16 rebounds a game, and juniors Kathy Price and Monica Preiss. And sophs Kathy Drummond and Lisa Wood and ninth grader Kathy Meixner are top prospects for the future

"I've really been ecstatic," said Krupp, comparing a tough 1980-81 campaign to this year's successes. This has really been a super season.

And Dayton has the potential to have a super team in a year or two

Cornerstone jazzes up the Jersey music world

With the passing of the 100th anniversary of the birth of Franklin Delano Roosevelt, a series of seemingly unending television specials and magazine articles reminded all of us of an era past-a time of both great hardship and great hope. Being born in the 1950s, I obviously have no firsthand knowledge of those years, but I listen with interest to the stories of those who lived through it. We have all heard said, at one-time or another, that history repeats itself. Well, folks, there is no better example of history repeating itself than the tremendous resurrection that is currently taking place at the Cornerstone Restaurant and Lounge in Metuchen.

After his first set, Warren Vache Sr. leader of the jazz band "Syncopatin" Six" was kind enough to sit down at a corner table and give this brash young reviewer an education in jazz that I will never forget. Now you've got to realize that being a product of rock'n'roll, I was immediately amazed to find that music could actually be played through instruments that were not somehow connected to an electrical outlet. Warren knew after one look at me that he would have to start from scratch...and that he did.

He pointed across the room to the gentleman I had just seen playing the drums. "That's Johnny Blowers. He played with Bobby Hackett, probably the greatest cornet player in the history of jazz. They started playing together at Nick's in 1937." You Jazz people out there will have to excuse me.I had never heard of Nick's. It turns out that Nick's, in Greenwich Village, was probably the most famous club. He went on to give a rundown of some of the other world class musicians that have played and will be playing at the Cornerstone. On Sunday, Feb. 21, Chris Griffin will be playing the trumpet. Chris Griffin's credentials include nothing less than playing in the original Benny Goodman band and playing at Carnegie Hall with that bandein the 1938 jazz concert. It seems that the lovely lady playing the piano on Saturday night was none other than Jane Jarvis, the Shea Stadium organist. And believe me, I didn't hear "Let's Go Mets" once. She is one tremendous jazz pianist. While we're on the subject of the piano, some of the other greats that you'll hear from time to time include Don Coates, Bob Smith (also vibes), Les Burness, Larry Weiss (also cornet) and Jim Andrews. If the trombone is more your thing, try these names for size. They'll all be at the Cornerstone from time to time: George Masso, Jack Gale, Rick Knittel and Benny Long.

If that list of jazz greats is not enough for you, there are two more names that are sure to excite anyone who has any knowledge of jazz. Back from a fourweek tour of England, where he was promoting his latest album. "Blue

Three Live at Hanratty's" is Kenny Davern. For those of you not familiar with the jazz group "Blue Three," the band includes Kenny on the clarinet (Kenny can now be seen regularly at the Cornerstone). Dick Wellstood on the piano and Bobby Rosengarden on the drums. Finally, but certainly first in the hearts of jazz buffs, is Warren Vache Jr. Warren Jr. is obviously the son of Warren Vache Sr. and is familiar to anyone who regularly listens to WNEW-AM or WVNJ. Warren Jr., in addition to playing back up with Scott Hamilton on Rosemary Clooney's latest album, can be heard wailing his cornet in his latest album, "Iridescence," on the Concord label.

The bottom line to the story is this. There isn't another club in the area that can boast a full six-piece jazz band with the caliber of world class musicians that assemble at the Cornerstone every Wednesday, Friday, Saturday and, starting Feb. 21, Sunday night. All that jazz with no cover, no minimum and a great little dance floor to keep you moving. This may be the last time you'll have to travel through the Holland or Lincoln tunnels to search for a wonderful evening of jazz.

Now that you have an idea of the entertainment scene at the Cornerstone, I'll fill you in on the other twothirds of this successful puzzle. Man does not live on jazz alone. He must also eat well and be treated well. Not a stone is left unturned by the staff and management on this little corner in Metuchen.

If you're smart, you will have called in advance for reservations, especially on a Friday or Saturday night. The next step is getting there. The Cornerstone is easily accessable via the Parkway, Turnpike, Route 287, Route 1 or if you don't drive, by train (it's just a block or so from the Metuchen train station). There's plenty of free parking. When on Main Street in Metuchen, look for Morris Stores. The Cornerstone is directly behind Morris Stores on the corner of New and Pearl streets.

My suggestion is to get there early enough to have dinner and relax before you start dancing to jazz at 9 p.m. on Friday or Saturday and 8 p.m. on Wednesdays. If you're in the mood, stop in the Lounge for a drink before dinner. You'll be greeted by one of the three friendliest and most knowledgeable bartenders in the business, Jack, Jeff or Ed. They all seem to know just how to put you in the right mood for dinner. Your next move is into the dining room. You will most likely be escorted to your table by one of the managers, Nancy or Bob. If you plan on staying until early in the morning, you might want to say goodbye to Bob before he leaves. Early in the morning he'll probably be on his way to the fish markets in New York, where he regularly picks up the fresh seafood that is part of their fabulous menu. The next smiling face you'll see will belong to either Nancy, Donna, Pat or one of the other pretty waitresses. Believe me when I tell you that they will make your day.

Though you won't actually see him. you'll know he is there when you taste the delicious food prepared by head chef, Aaron Kuhns. Aaron has already developed a reputation and following in Middlesex County, where he is considered one of the finest. His regular closed and a great view of Warren Vache' Sr. and his "Syn

Fonda, Hepburn, Fonda immortalize film drama

"On Golden Pond," the current attraction at the Linden Twin I Cinema, is a very special motion picture in many special ways. First of all, it unites two immortal stars, Henry Fonda and Katharine Hepburn, for the first time in a story about pending mortality. Second of all, there's a magical quality in these two veteran actors that emanates from the screen into the hearts of movie goers, particularly those who grew up with Hepburn and Fonda and experienced their roles and practically lived their emotional careers with them. There also is a special joy in see-

DAVID AARON of Union and his 14piece orchestra will perform the music of the 1940s big bands Saturday night at the Holiday Inn of North Bergen, 2750 Tonnelle Ave., North Bergen. He will feature exact copies of the original hits by Bennie Goodman, Artie Shaw, Glenn Miller, the Dorsey Brothers and Harry James. Additional information can be obtained by calling 348-3424 or 348-3600.

Musical show slated at Ritz

Songstress Gwen McCrae, known for her brand of funky soul, will appear with recording star Marc Sadane in two shows Saturday at the Ritz Theater. 1148 East Jersey St., Elizabeth, Hostess will be Mary Thomas of 98.7 KISS fm. The first show, a student matinee, will begin at 4:30 p.m., and the evening show at 8:30. . Additional information can be obtaining Henry Fonda and daughter, Jane Fonda, in the same movie.

For years, we movie viewers have been comparing the physical qualities of the two; their uncanny resemblance to each other, their independence in both their film roles and their personal lives, and the sadness of their estrangement to each other.

Now, it all comes alive on the Linden screen in a beautiful movie, which was adapted to the screen by Ernest Thompson from his stage play, "On Golden Pond.

The movie begins with the elderly couple arriving at and dusting off their summer home on Golden Pond. Fondaplays an ailing, uncompromising, crotchety, retired professor, who cannot come to terms with the aging disintegration of his body and mind. Miss Hepburn portrays a retired teacher, and Fonda's stalwart wife of many years; a pillar of strength and a source of security to the old man. Her 0626. own aging qualities are quite forgotten as she submits to his whims with a stern but whimsical air of independence.

Into the picture tiptoes their fortiesh or so daughter (Jane), a divorcee, who has never been able to live up to her father's expectations, and her lover, a dentist, Dabney Coleman, with his son, Doug McKeon, a product of a divorced couple.

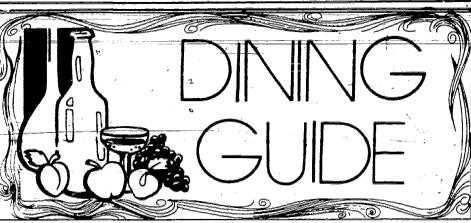

The three have arrived to celebrate the old man's 80th birthday, an event which both Fondas have not been looking forward to. The strain between father and daughter (as it had been in real life) becomes more pronounced during her brief stay, and it isn't until the very end of the picture that a reconciliation is made in an effective, emo-

Young McKeon is left to spend a summer month with the old couple while Jane and Coleman take off for a European vacation. And it is the boy who brings the old man out of his reverie and his obsession with and fear of death.

The movie, beautifully directed by Mark Rydell (who also served as producer), gives one a feeling of summer and serenity with too-bright and sometimes, too-shadowy scenes.

The only fault a reviewer can find with "On Golden Pond" is that it isn't long enough to fully appreciate the superb performances and the superb performers themselves.

The only solution is to return to the Linden Cinema to see "On Golden Pond" again...and again!

UNION

You get more for your money when you buy at home

It is simple logic. Union businesses give you the same or equivalent goods at the same or better prices with far less traveling time, cost and highway hazards. And Union merchants are friendlier! There's always plenty of convenient parking, too.

And part of their profit on every deal with you is used to help you pay local taxes and to support all other good and useful community activities.

It was the second festival prize for Brown, a supervisor of visual and performing arts in Harlem schools. He won the first purchase award when it was established two years ago

This year's purchase award went to Robert E. Lee of Cranford for an oil painting. "The Pines Exhibiting for the first time at the Festival on the Green, Lee became a prize winner for a third straight week when he received the award. A week earlier, he took a prize at an art show in Irvington: the week before that, he won in Dunellen.

Among the first prize winners this ear were three Union residents: Hella Bailin of Bishop Street, Larry Felder of Hickory Road and Michael J. Herring

Bailin, who recently returned from her annual painting trip to Greece, won first place in professional watercolors; Felder, a Union High School and Montclair State College graduate who is employed at a gallery in Millburn, took first in oils among non-professionals. and Herring won first place in black photography for nonprofessionals.

Some serious collectors inspect the inking of a commemorative stamp; some study the finish on an antique chair. Art Rostel of Union searches the country for a plastic toy soldier.

A collector of Lincoln Log toys, Davy Crockett items and Marx toy figures, Rostel is a history teacher at Herbert Hoover Junior High School in Edison. He admits his hopby is unusual, but says the few people he knows that collect toy figures do it with a fervent in-

Since owning that first set, he has amassed hundreds of pieces that include toy soldiers, comic book, cartoonand movie characters, and real life peo-

He even has a character of Jackie Gleason and Ronald Reagan, the latter made in 1968. The quality of the figures has undergone changes, according to Rostel. "They used to be mostly metal in the 1950's but they changed over to plastic later. Back then, figures were softer rubber but now they're made of vinyl, The quality of craftsmanship was propably at its peak between 1965 and Trying to find the older pieces is difficult, said Rostel. "I collect some Marx playsets," he explained, "but most of them were made in the 1950's when the company was located on Fifth Avenue in New York City. When they later moved their headquarters to Dale. West Virginia, the more obscure sets became difficult to find."

He said he's been actively searching the past five or six years for a Johnny
