Mull non-public textbook plan

By LYNN JOFFE

The Board of Education discussed at its Tuesday night work session the projected expenses if it approved the Union County Educational Services Commission for a non-public textbook and/or a non-public transportation program.

Vice chairman Pat Knodel introduced the resolution which would make the non-public textbook program effective for the 1983-84 school year and the non-public transportation program effective for the 1984-85 school year.

According to her, the expenses incurred would total $29,878, of which a percentage would be paid by the school system. The proposed expenses would include salaries, typing clerks, drivers, office supplies, equipment, vehicle expenses and insurance.

"I have a big question as to whether we should get involved in this," Knodel said.

If approved, the board would be obligated to pay a surcharge equal to 10 percent of the allocation for the non-public textbooks to cover the commission's costs for administering the program on or before March 1 of the preceding year. The board would also pay to the Union County Educational Services Commission a surcharge equal to six percent of the non-public anticipated expense for transportation on or before Apr. 30, 25 percent of the contract cost on or before Sept. 30, 10 percent in each of the succeeding seven months (Oct. through Apr.) and a final payment of five percent less adjustments in May.

The board discussed the possibility of supporting the bill to allow the commission to approach the State for a change in charter.

Board member Linda Esemplare reviewed six options discussed by the Regional Board of Education on possible answers to the growing problem of decreased student enrollment.

Among the points raised was the possibility of reorganizing the regional schools into fewer buildings, bringing Mountainside and Springfield students into one school which will eventually encompass Kindergarten through 12th grades.

According to Esemplare, another option would be "to close a school. Not to sell it, but to use it as a satellite school for adult education, special education and vocational studies."

"Adult education is just beginning," Linda Schneider, board member said. "I feel the declining enrollment has already begun to eat away at education," Esemplare added.

In a report from the educational committee, Schneider discussed the proposed yearbook and booster fundraisers by eighth grade students. "It would not be a door-to-door sales pitch," she said. In the past, students raised funds by conducting car washes and paperdrives.

Board member Robert Gardella discussed the cost of the yearbooks. According to him, the total cost of 200 yearbooks is $1,284 or $6.40 each.

It was decided the students must inform the board of their plans for fundraising and win board approval before they may begin.

The board will vote on the issues at the next meeting scheduled for 8 p.m. on Nov. 9 in the Deerfield School cafeteria.

Portrait of first mayor donated

A portrait of Joseph Wilbur Cory, Mountainside's first mayor, was presented last week to Mayor Thomas Ricciardi and the borough as a joint gift of Mr. and Mrs. Harrison R. Cory of Westfield, son and daughter-in-law of J.W. Cory.

Harry Devlin, noted artist, borough resident and member of the Mountainside Historic Preservation Committee, presented his pen sketch of Cory, who served as the mayor from 1895 to 1901 and again from 1906 to 1909.

"This is long overdue recognition of our first mayor," said Fern Hyde, a member of the committee.

"Mr. Cory was one of 60 land owners who petitioned for the separation of the borough from Westfield. He and his family had a long and active participation in our town, going back to 1818, when the Corys helped establish the area's first Sunday school, a forerunner of today's Mountainside Gospel Chapel. Mayor Cory's father, Joseph Cory, became superintendent of the Sunday school in 1835, serving until 1851, when the mayor's uncle, Jonathan Cory, became superintendent for the following five years," Hyde recounted.

In 1859 he again assumed the superintendency, this time for three years. Joseph Wilbur Cory was elected superintendent three times: 1882, 1887 and 1894.

Harrison R. Cory was born in the family home on Springfield Road, now Route 22, opposite what is now Lawrence Avenue. His father and grandfather ran a dairy farm that extended from New Providence Road almost to the Scotch Plains line.

The portrait's artist, Harry Devlin, has had his architectural paintings exhibited at the New Jersey Historical Society and the Morris Museum.

Lions Club slates pancake breakfast

The Mountainside Lions will have a pancake breakfast on Sunday Dec. 5 from 8 a.m. to 1 p.m. at the Elks Club Rt. 22. Entertainment will be provided and bake sale will be held.

The Lions are presently seeking new members, with 10 new members to be accepted into the club.

Charge for adults is $2.50, and children under pay $1.25.

'Volunteer' workshops are set

Eleven workshops designed to educate volunteers in areas which are vital to their endeavors will be featured at "Skills for the Volunteer Sector," to be held Wednesday, 7:30 to 10 p.m., at Edison Junior High School, Westfield.

The event is billed as a "gift to the community" by the co-sponsors, the Junior League of Elizabeth-Plainfield and the Westfield YWCA.

Keynote speaker will be Westfielder Barbara Ball, a past president of the League, who will talk on "Volunteerism: Its Impact on the Community."

Ball is chairman of the English and Foreign Language Departments at Edison Junior High School, Westfield, and also has served as past chairman of the League's Management Assistance Program.

Following Ball's address, participants will attend one of the following workshops:

"Public Relations," with Denise Martin advising attendees how to pen press releases and which approaches to use in securing publicity; "Investments for Non Profits," panel discussion featuring Merrill Lynch account executive Alan Deombeleg; "Motivation in the Non-Profit Sector," with Mrs. Ball discussing needs for achievement and "Time Management," with Sharon Hackett as instructor.

"Advocacy," featuring Barbara Kelly discussing selection of issues and use of negotiation in effecting changes; "How to Run a Meeting," with instructor Sue Livera; "Mini-Computers: Their Benefit for Non-Profits," with Nancy Collart listing time and money-saving uses of the machinery, and "Coalition Building," wherein Susan nah Hobbs will list ways non-profit groups can work together.

"How To Successfully Fundraise" will offer Phyllis Sank's ideas on grantmanship; "Conflict, a Positive Force," will feature Fran Travisano relating ways to work with internal conflict and improve interpersonal relationships, and "Management by Objective" will include suggestions by instructor Fan Moberg in goal-setting and action plan implementation.

The skills program is open to the public, and organizations which utilize volunteers are asked to consider sending representatives to the event. Pre-registration is required for the workshops and information is available by contacting the YWCA, 220 Clark Street, Mrs. William Smith is president of the Junior League.

Profiles of Democratic council candidates

ROBERT DIBELLA

Robert DiBella is an eight-year resident of Mountainside and lives here with his wife, Ann Marie, and children Robert, 13 years old, and Michelle, nine years old.

He attended Kansas State University and is a Viet Nam veteran.

DiBella is the owner of J&E Trucking Co. A charter member of the honorary Mountainside PBA, he also is active in Scotch Plains UNICO. In addition, the candidate is a member of the Mountainside Old Timers Club and the Agent Orange Victims of New Jersey.

PAUL KUKAN

Paul Kukan has been a resident of Mountainside for 15 years and lives here with his wife, Joan, and children, 12-year-old Patricia, and 9-year-old Paula.

Self employed for the past 21 years, he is the owner of Blue Star Exxon Service on Route 22 in Scotch Plains.

He is a member of the honorary Mountainside PBA and the Mountainside Men's Softball League.

STUART H. LUTZ

A 22-year-resident of Mountainside, Stuart Lutz is a self-employed service station installation contractor.

He is a graduate of the University of Baltimore.

Lutz has been a fund raiser for the American Cancer Society and is a member of the Mountainside Lions Club and Mountainside Elks Club. In addition, he was honored as an Outstanding Young Man in America by the Jaycees.

Robert DiBella, Paul Kukan and Stuart have issued this joint release explaining their platform for this election.

"The overriding issue facing Mountainside is essentially, "Does the total domination by one political party short change the residents?" We of the Democratic party feel the answer is a resounding yes.

"When we set forth the theme that our opponents 'take your vote for granted,' we meant this as more than merely a partisan attack at election time. The fact is that without even assemblance of loyal opposition, creative thought and innovation, probing questions on expenditures have little chance to develop. The most effective safeguard of a democracy is two strong political parties. The recent rebirth of the Democratic party offers the opportunity for accountable bipartisan government.

"Certainly, merely being a Democrat is not alone a reason to support Kukan, Lutz and DiBella. The fact is that these three candidates offer a business background which will be a strong addition to the Mountainside governing body...

"The Republican policy of selecting solely on political stripes is too limiting and a luxury Mountainside can no longer afford."

Arico is moderator at Lourdes Nov. 14

Reverend Carl J. Arico will be moderator for the Day of Reflection to be held at Our Lady of Lourdes Parish in Mountainside on Nov. 14, 2 to 8 p.m.

This program will provide a married person the opportunity to reflect on their individuality coupled with the relationship to their spouse within the bonds of matrimony. A series of lectures and activities will be offered followed by a Liturgy and Buffet Supper.

Father Arico was ordained to the Priesthood in 1960. He received a certificate in pastoral counseling from Seton Hall University in 1968 and a M. Div. Degree from Immaculate Conception Seminary in 1976. Arico was executive coordinator of the New Jersey Family Life Bureau and the National Chairman of Family Life Directors Committee on Marriage Preparation and Common Policy, United States Catholic Conference.

Since 1977, Arico has given workshops for priests, priests retreats/spiritual direction, and has served on various councils and commissions among them the United States ad hoc Commission on Marriage and Family Life. Presently, he is Director of the Office of Priest Personnel of the Archdiocese of Newark.

Reservations can be made by calling 273-1493 or 232-7424. The donation is $10 per couple.

Kukan participating in pre-teen pageant

Patricia Lynn Kukan, 12 year-old daughter of Mr. & Mrs. Paul Kukan of Mountainside and a student at Our Lady of Lourdes School, will represent New Jersey in the Miss National Pre-Teen Pageant in Atlanta, Ga. on Nov. 3-7.

She and others representing their state will vie for the crown of Miss National Pre-Teen on the basis of poise, personality, appearance and talent before an audience from all over the country at the Atlanta Marriott Hotel on Saturday, Nov. 6.

As the reigning Miss New Jersey National Pre-Teen, Patricia participated in many community celebrations, parades, fashion shows, and fund raising events for the Muscular Dystrophy Association. She assisted at the Miss Pennsylvania National Pre-Teen Pageant in Sunbury, Pa. and the Miss New Jersey National Teen-Ager Pageant in Cherry Hill.

Stone named as a trustee

SPRINGFIELD—Dr. Frank B. Light, president of The Family and Children's Counseling and Testing Center of 40-52 North Avenue, Elizabeth, has announced the election to the organization's board of trustees of Julian G. Stone, a resident of Springfield.

Stone is the executive director of the N.J. Association of Mental Health Agencies. He is a former director of Youth Consultation Services of the Episcopal Church Diocese of Newark; was director of the Support Program for the American Foundation for the Blind, and of the American Foundation for Overseas Blind, New York City.

The new trustee was the former director of fund raising and public relations for the Essex County Heart Assn. and was director of the United Cerebral Palsy of Essex County.

Stone has a B.S. degree in Education from New York University and a masterate in Social Work from Washington University, St. Louis. He is a past president of the New Jersey Chapter of the National Association of Social Workers; of the New Jersey Rehabilitation Association; and of the New Jersey Association of Mental Health Agencies.

Sibling course for Overlook

SPRINGFIELD—Overlook Hospital in Summit will offer a monthly Prepared Sibling Course, geared toward children between the ages of three and 12 whose family is expecting a baby. The next course will be held on Saturday, Nov. 13, 9:30 to 11 a.m.

Children's anxieties about "mom" going to the hospital will be alleviated as they become familiar with the hospital environment. The morning program includes a tour, a nurse story session and a short film. The young participants will also be able to dress up in little hospital gowns, caps and masks.

Mothers and fathers may also participate in the program, with a parents' class held in a room adjacent to the children's.

There is a $10 registration fee for the program. Interested persons may call Overlook's Department of Community Education at 522-2963 for further information.

Blood clinic is scheduled

MOUNTAINSIDE—The Mountainside Board of Health will conduct a blood pressure screening clinic from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. on Friday, Nov. 5, in the Court Room of the Municipal Building, 1385 U.S. Route 22.

There are some 23 million Americans who have high blood pressure and at least 30% are unaware of it. High blood pressure most often does not produce any symptoms or discomfort.

Persons should be screened for high blood pressure if they: Are 35 years of age or older; Have not had their blood pressure checked in a year or more; Are not under the care of a physician for high blood pressure; Have a family history of high blood pressure; Have stopped taking blood pressure medication without their physicians approval.

This is a screening test only. A confirmed diagnosis can only be made by a physician.

Dance slated

KENILWORTH—A Jewish singles dance for ages 19-39 will be held Sunday, 8 p.m., at the Kenilworth Holiday Inn, just off Garden State Parkway exit 138. For more information, call Marc or Paul at 797-6877.

Luciano appointed as trustee at Drew

KENILWORTH—Robert P. Luciano, 48, who is the president and chief executive officer of the Schering-Plough Corp., Kenilworth, has been named to the Drew University Board of Trustees.

He received a bachelor's degree in accounting from the City College of New York in 1954 and earned a juris doctor degree from the University of Michigan in 1958. Luciano began his law career with the firm of Roger & Wells in New York City.

In 1966, Luciano became a member of the law department for the CIBA Corp. Some nine years later, he was named president of the pharmaceutical division of the CIBA-GEIGY Corp. He left that post in 1977 to become president of the Lederle Laboratories Division of American Cyanamid Corp.

Luciano joined Schering-Plough in 1978 as senior vice president of administration. He has since served as executive vice president of the Schering-Plough pharmaceutical operations, president and chief operating officer and, currently, as president and chief executive officer.

A member of the board of directors for Inco. Ltd., C.R. Bard, Inc., and New Jersey Manufacturers Insurance Co., Luciano and his wife, Barbara have two children. Luciano's other memberships include the steering committee of the University of Michigan College of Pharmacy, the National Advisory Council of Arthritis Foundation, and the Union League Club. He is a trustee of the New Jersey Business and Industry Association.

Christa learns rapidly with help from mother

MOUNTAINSIDE — When Christa Gibbons spent last summer as a nurse extern at Children's Specialized Hospital in Mountainside, she felt right at home.

Not only was it her third summer working at the hospital, but the University of Delaware nursing student was working closely with and learning nursing techniques from her mother, Barbara, a registered nurse specializing in pediatric urology and enterostomal therapy, has been a staff member for the past 12 years.

Christa, a 1979 Scotch Plains/Fanwood High School graduate who had been a nurse's assistant at Children's Specialized for the past two summers, was the first student to participate in the hospital's new 12-week nursing extern program. Designed to acquaint nursing students with the specialized area of pediatric rehabilitation, the extern program is open to those who have completed their junior year of training at accredited schools of nursing. she gained clinical experience in the treatment of coma patients, as well as in fundamental nursing procedures unique to rehabilitation.

As a result of her participation in the program, Christa says, "I feel as though I'm 10 steps ahead of my peers. Because of the experiences I've had I'm aware of the special problems and rewards of pediatric rehabilitation."

Christa's schedule was tailored to provide experience in the patient care areas in which she was most interested. The nursing instructor and supervisor provided orientation to the nursing unit and to care in general at Children's Specialized Hospital. Future externs will perform or assist with most nursing activities under the qualified professional leadership of a registered nurse preceptor, as did Christa.

Externs may also attend and participate in patient conferences, rounds and educational offerings at the hospital.

'July's People' slated as topic

SPRINGFIELD—"July's People," a novel by the South African writer Nadine Gordimer, will be the focus of the next monthly book discussion at the Springfield Public Library. It is scheduled for Tuesday, 8 p.m., in the meeting room.

Published in 1981, the novel takes place in South Africa in the not-too-distant future. The government has been toppled by black revolutionaries, and a liberal white family has taken refuge with their black servant in his home village in the bush.

The shifting relationships between master and servant, husband and wife, and parents and children form the plot of the book.

The book discussions, usually held the first Tuesday of the month, are free and open to the public. Paperback copies of the books to be discussed are sold in advance at the library reference desk.

Flannery O'Connor's "Three," a collection of short novels, is the selection for the next meeting on Dec. 7.

Art program is scheduled

KENILWORTH The Kenilworth Recreation Committee has scheduled its fall program in art.

Art lessons for all school ages (kindergarten-4 years of age at 9:30-11 a.m., and five and up, 11 a.m.-12:30 p.m.) starts Saturday, Nov. 6, at the Boro Recreation Center on the Boulevard.

Mrs. Rose Emmert will direct this program covering various art activities and skills. Her assistant will be Edna Hall.

Tell me about your high gas heating bills and I'll tell you how you can save up to 20%* with Ameri-Therm:

For years I've talked with people who are tired of wasting fuel and money. Gas rates keep going up, so they come to me for advice.

Every day, for homeowners like you, I correct the money-wasting problem of gas energy loss with Ameri-Therm® Vent Dampers.

The problem is very common: When a furnace, boiler or water heater shuts off, warm air is quickly lost up the chimney. Energy escapes, but you still end up paying for it.

People want to save as much as they can, so I tell them to keep heat inside with an Ameri-Therm Vent Damper.

- Ameri-Therm is the thermally actuated vent damper that's:
- Proven in millions of locations.
  - Saves up to 20%* on fuel bills.
  - Popular choice of American homeowners.
  - Five year limited warranty.
  - Thermally actuated to operate efficiently with no wires, electricity, or other power source.
  - Eligible for 15% tax credit.
  - Available for gas furnaces, boilers and water heaters.

ORDINANCE NO. 442-82
AMENDMENTS TO THE RULES AND REGULATIONS OF THE POLICE DEPARTMENT OF THE BOROUGH OF MOUNTAINSIDE.
 BE IT ORDAINED BY THE Governing Body of the Borough of Mountainside that the Rules and Regulations of the Police Department of the Borough of Mountainside are amended as follows: (Additions appear in boldface.)
 Section 2.11 is hereby amended to read as follows: Motorized patrolmen shall pay strict attention to all regular radio transmissions. The dispatcher will make hourly location checks with all motorized patrol officers. When they fail to hear any radio transmissions or time signals for a period not to exceed 60 minutes, they shall immediately call the dispatcher for a special test. If, after three attempts, he fails to receive an acknowledgment, he shall immediately contact the dispatcher by telephone, or return to headquarters in case of radio trouble. The officer shall notify his shift commander and/or dispatcher of the nature of the trouble.
 Section 3.12 shall be amended to read as follows: Members and employees are prohibited from buying, selling, transferring or exchanging anything of value from or to any complainant, suspect, witness, defendant, prisoner, or other person involved in any case which is active or which no final disposition has been rendered or in any case where the transaction would jeopardize or compromise his position as Police Officer or jeopardize or compromise the Department from legally and appropriately performing its functions.
 Section 3.126 is amended by the addition of the following: Members or employees shall not incur debts or legal liabilities in any way that will negatively affect them in the performance of their duties.
 Section 3.4 is amended by the addition of the following language at the end of the introductory paragraph: when the damage or loss has been determined to be due to negligence or the lack of proper care by the Officer.
 Section 3.8.5 is amended by the addition of the following language at the end of the section: or the standard list to be kept at the Police front desk.
 Section 3.8.6 is amended to read as follows: Members, and employees cannot act as bailors for any person in custody except relatives or friends, and in no case where any fee or gratuity or reward is solicited or accepted, and in no case where such transaction would jeopardize or compromise the Officer or Department from legally and appropriately performing its functions.
 Section 4.5 shall be amended to read as follows: Each member of the Police Department shall be encouraged to devote his whole time and attention to the service of his department. If a member's employment is involved in frequent or steady outside employment, the Chief shall be notified. If the outside employment is deemed to affect negatively an employer's ability to perform his duties, he is subject to appropriate action under the New Jersey Statutes, or the Rules and Regulations governing the Police Department. A Police Officer shall be required to obtain permission from the Chief of Police prior to the undertaking of any outside employment which includes the wearing of the uniform or in any way which reflects upon the nature of the position as a Police Officer.
 This Ordinance shall take effect immediately upon its passage and adoption according to law.

The measure of your success starts with the best.

Investors Savings Individual Retirement Accounts.

No matter how young you are, there has never been a better time to consider retirement than right now. And there's never been a more rewarding place to save for retirement than at the best, Investors Savings.

The benefits of opening an IRA have been expanded by the federal government. By opening your IRA at Investors, you will be permitted to contribute up to $2,000 of earned income annually to your retirement account; if you have a non-working spouse, the limit is raised to $2,250. For the first time, even if you're in a qualified pension plan where you work, you can open an Investors' IRA -- and contribute up to $2,000 annually; if you have a working spouse, you can open two plans and contribute up to $4,000.

Every dollar you contribute to an Investors' IRA -- and every dollar of interest it earns over the years -- is completely tax deferred until you retire, when you'll probably be in a lower tax bracket.

Best of all, at Investors you'll earn a lot. And you don't have to deposit your funds all at once. Come in for full details.

Federal regulations require substantial interest and tax penalties for early withdrawal. Investors Savings. Tax benefits now, a richer retirement later... because you deserve a full measure of success.

Invest with the best!

Scene around the towns

A pair of exhaust pipes against an outside wall at the Roselle Borough Hall stumped our readers last week. But we continued getting identifications of the aerial view of the Union Drive-In Theater and Kenilworth water tower, with correct responses coming in from S. Buonincontri, A. Dopart and Mark B. Guempel, all of Union.
Today's puzzler, above, should be an easy one for the folks in Irvington, where this well-known doorway can be found. If you recognize it, let us know by 9 a.m. Monday. Send your answers to "Scene," in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 3109, Union, N.J. 07083.

The questions

There are bond issues on the ballot in almost every state election. But few ever have been needed as urgently as the $170 million being proposed this year for jail construction. The best law enforcement in the world cannot help us bring crime under control if we provide no place for the prisoners, once they have been convicted. Our overcrowded county jails, where conditions have at times been held to be unconstitutional, are a prime example of the alternative to approval of the bond issue.

We also recommend approval of the $85 million community development bond issue, which has won widespread support from all segments of society. It is designed as seed money to attract new private investment to urban areas.

But we do have reservations about a proposed $7 million for a veterans facility addition to Bergen Pines Hospital, a project that perhaps should be handled as a county responsibility, and about the proposed constitutional amendment to sell state-owned riparian lands — those which were once covered by tides — to private owners who now occupy them at less than fair market value.

The latter could turn into a give-away. Among the biggest beneficiaries would be the casinos; only a small percentage of the land involved belongs to private home-owners, and an equitable solution other than the proposed amendment can be found for them.

Voters should remember, too, that the sale or lease of riparian lands is the only source of support for the School Fund, which serves as security against default by school boards undertaking capital construction projects. Because the School Fund is available, virtually all school bonds have an AA rating. This means not only that they are more easily marketable, but also that they carry a lower interest rate, and thus present a lower cost to the taxpayer.

One other question will be before the voters: a non-binding referendum calling for a verifiable nuclear freeze by the United States and the Soviet Union.

We devoutly wish that all the nations of the world would agree not only to a nuclear freeze, but to abolition of all the weapons which can turn a new war into a holocaust. But, realistically, it's not going to happen in the foreseeable future.

Asking people if they're for a nuclear freeze is a little like asking them if they're against sin. The answer is obvious. But putting it on the ballot seems to be an exercise in futility.

Tricky treats

Halloween may be one of the most popular days of the year for our nation's youngsters, but it's a major headache for most parents.

Aside from the yearly squabbles over costumes, most parents must work out schedules for accompanying their children in the trek through the neighborhood.

And when it's all over, a parent's real work begins, as each child's bounty of candy and goodies must be carefully checked.

Especially this year. Pardon us for even mentioning the Tylenol deaths in Chicago and the other incidents across the nation, but for your child's safety and to calm your own mind, we strongly advise parents to toss away any candy that is not wrapped and sealed. And as an alternative, even if it's an expensive proposition, go to the supermarket and buy your own family's supply of candy. Excuse us for crying wolf. But it's better to be safe than sorry.

'Watchdog' needed

Our choices for Mountainside Borough Council are Democrats Paul Kukan, Stuart Lutz for the two three-year terms and Robert DiBella for the unexpired one-year term.

The Republicans, incumbent Marilyn Hart and Robert E. Wyckoff, who are seeking three-year terms, and Werner C. Schon, who is running for the one-year spot, have demonstrated aptitude for the council. However, it is time for a change.

In its history, Mountainside has never elected a Democrat to its council. In this election, borough residents should vote for a "watchdog," someone who will question the actions of the governing body and make two-party government a reality in the borough.

This year's Democratic candidates are among the most impressive to run in years. Each is a self-employed businessman who promises to keep an eye on municipal spending and create a healthy atmosphere to attract, and keep, large ratables within the township.

It is time they and two-party government be given a chance.

Other races

Voters will elect a surrogate for Union County this year. We hope that the person they elect will be Rose Marie Sinnott, now serving an unexpired term in that office. Energetic, intelligent and capable, she is well-known to many in the county through her service on the Board of Freeholders. She well deserves the post.

We have, regrettably, not had an opportunity to speak individually with all the freeholder candidates this year. But we are convinced that the present 8-1 balance is one that could easily become unhealthy if it continues.

For those looking for help in making up their minds, a good source always is the League of Women Voters candidates sheet. We have found it as helpful this year as ever; so should voters in general.

Tom Long, the only Democrat on the board, is seeking re-election, and has compiled a record that has earned him another term. To strengthen the minority representation on the board, we recommend Walter Boright, who, as a former freeholder, also is knowledgeable about county affairs. For the third full three-year term, we suggest Blanche Banasiak, Republican, vice chairman; for the unexpired term, Gerald Green, Democrat.

The other races this year — the ones for House of Representatives and U.S. Senate — have generated a curiously remote atmosphere.

Though there was a stream of candidates nearly swamping us before the June primary, we have seen little of them since that time. In the Senate contest, we believe a major reason for this is the concentration on TV and radio; it is ironic, in this connection, that candidates who express so much concern about the New Jersey economy are pouring so much money into another state to reach Jersey voters.

We believe candidates have a responsibility to make themselves and their views known to voters, and to be available to answer questions. TV and radio are one-way streets; the candidates can speak, but they can't hear what the voters are saying.

The situation is a serious one, for when the gap between candidates and voters widens, it is democracy which is the loser.

State Senator

Donald DiFrancesco

Every day a half billion gallons of water are pumped from underground wells and aquifers to homes and businesses.

Just how safe is this water to drink? State officials are discovering that ground water, long thought to be immune from pollution because of the earth's natural filtering process, is being contaminated by the numerous chemicals we have come to rely on in our everyday lives. Although hazardous waste dumping is a major cause of pollution, other, commonly used chemicals, such as pesticides and herbicides, are jeopardizing our water supply.

I want the state to require annual testing of all underground water supplies. I must point out that the vast majority of the state's underground water is safe to drink. Over a three-year period, state officials tested 674 wells throughout the state and found that 23 polluted. Eleven of these contaminated wells were used for drinking water.

The testing showed that the state's water supply is being contaminated by hazardous waste. This is a serious problem and it is time for new sources of water.

Yet too often these dangers are not discovered until some residents complain about the color or smell of their tap water or become sick.

We must begin testing wells and aquifers periodically to protect the public health and preserve this valuable resource for future generations.

'Horrible examples' were part of an era

By SAM ARENA

A big part of my growing up was predicated on symbolism.

Examples, mostly living, breathing ones, were constantly held up to us as images of what we would or would not grow up to be if we did not comport ourselves in a certain manner.

There was one character to whom we had given the name, "Barrel Bung Willie."

In those days, breweries shipped their beer in wooden casks and, on delivery days, taverns piled their empty kegs at the curb or in rear yards for pickup.

Willie made the rounds with a milk bottle. He would remove the bung, drain the kegs into the bottle. He was good for a couple of gallons of beer per day.

Willie was an amiable and harmless soul. Barkeeps would engage him to sweep floors and clean the cuspidors which were a barroom fixture of those times. For his labors, Willie was granted access to the free lunch counter and given a mug of beer. Sometimes, a magnanimous bartender would throw in a dime to keep Willie in walking-around clothes.

As far as anyone knew, Willie was a good kid.

He was not. Willie was a thief. He would take a dime from the counter, a nickel from the cuspidor, and a dime from the bartender's pocket. He would take a dime from the bartender's pocket, a nickel from the cuspidor, and a dime from the bartender's pocket.

He was not. Willie was a thief. He would take a dime from the counter, a nickel from the cuspidor, and a dime from the bartender's pocket. He would take a dime from the bartender's pocket, a nickel from the cuspidor, and a dime from the bartender's pocket.

And then there was Hymie Rosenberg.

"Hymie, the junk man", people called him.

Hymie was one of the last of a breed. At a time when motor driven vehicles had made their inroads, Hymie clung to his horse-drawn wagon to make his rounds. He was a scrap dealer in an era when they were still called "junk men". He bought and traded in rags, newspapers, tin foil, lead and scrap metals of all kinds.

His house was located on the lowest border of the neighborhood, its yard perpetually filled with piles of all manner of scrap. His horse was stabled in the rear of the yard.

On Saturday mornings, we scoured and scrounged for anything and everything which we might convert to cash and carted it off to Hymie's, where he would view it with disdain, declare not the slightest of interest in it, but finally condescend: "You're nice boys. To me, what you got ain't worth nothing, but I feel sorry. For everything, maybe 20 cents, an' that's all!"

By this point, we'd have settled for anything, as convinced as we were that our trove was worthless. Twenty cents was enough to get two of us into the Saturday matinee.

Throughout the week, Hymie's wagon rumbled along cobblestoned streets with Hymie astride it, occasionally ringing a handbell and intoning: "Rags, Paper."

Homemakers came to their doors bearing tattered clothing and newspapers which Hymie weighed in a hand scale.

He unclipped the catch of a worn but bulging black change purse and dropped pennies, counting each of them singly, into waiting palms.

Even in the hottest of summer weather, Hymie wore longjohns, a frayed and faded blue flannel workshirt, soiled and worn blue serge pants and a battered fedora.

He was the picture of destitution. His horse looked equally abject, bony and gaunt.

Hymie was devoid of any social standing whatever in the community. His existence was viewed as a meager one at best. The very last thing which he reflected was success in any measure. So Hymie became a symbol.

"Don't go to school. Grow up stupid. Be a Hymie Rosenberg."

"Don't study. Don't learn. Someday you'll grow up and be another Hymie Rosenberg."

These were the dire warnings which parents held out to us.

Soon after World War II broke out, Hymie Rosenberg left town. Permanently.

The symbol of failure moved to Florida, where he purchased a beautiful waterfront home.

Hymie's bank accounts also moved to Florida.

For many years, he sat back and enjoyed a life filled with comfort and leisure.

We went through school, we studied and we learned.

And we worked and worked and still we work.

None of us became a Hymie Rosenberg.

It's true, what they say. You can't have everything!

'Mingles market' carries home-ownership pluses

It's called the "mingles market". For many single people it's the only way to obtain tax benefits and equity from home ownership — by pairing with other singles to buy a house, cooperative or condominium.

The advantages can be substantial, says the New Jersey Society of Certified Public Accountants (CPAs), if financial benefits are understood and provided.

Even in the face of recent tax reductions, single people with high incomes find themselves taxed by rates because of their status and often find it difficult to pay a high down payment. The CPAs suggest that single people consider the "mingles market" as a way to obtain the tax benefits of home ownership without the high down payment or mortgage to some man's pocket.

payments and property taxes, as well as a chance to build equity and increase net worth.

When you buy a home with someone, CPAs say, as a practical matter you are entering into a partnership. Treating your purchase as a joint venture and detailing the obligations and entitlements of each party in the beginning can avert legal and financial problems.

Map out your initial money requirements. Then project your monthly payments for mortgage and taxes, heat, electric and maintenance costs as well as expenses for furniture and home furnishings. Add to your monthly payments the amount of your required investment, and then see each of you can afford his or her share.

5,000 sought to aid Heart Fund campaign in communities in Essex, Union Counties

More than 5,000 volunteers from 24 of the Essex and Union County communities served by the American Heart Association, Metropolitan Chapter, Inc., are being sought to participate in the "Dear Neighbor-Heart Month" campaign which is traditionally held in February, according to Ronald J. Mount, heart fund chairman of the chapter.

The chapter's goal will be to raise $100,000 from 100,000 residents.

Although the recruitment is a massive one, Mount said, the campaign has been designed so that no single volunteer need devote more than one hour of his or her time to make it a success.

"That one hour next February would be a generous and important contribution toward conquering heart disease," Mount said.

Underlying Mount's remarks was a statement made by M.J. Berger, Ph.D., M.D., of West Orange, president of the chapter, indicating that "although the American Heart Association has been making encouraging strides through its research, community-service and professional education programs, heart disease is still the nation's number one killer."

"We have begun to see a decline in the figures," she added, "and we attribute that decline to the medical advances of research which bring new knowledge and techniques into the hands of those most involved with patient care as well as to greater awareness on the part of the public as to how it can participate in its own heart health."

The newly designed project eliminates the need in most communities for door-to-door visiting. Instead each volunteer will be asked to distribute or mail a maximum of 20 pre-typed letters to neighbors who, in turn, will return them with their contributions to the "Heart" volunteer.

Interested residents willing to help in the campaign are asked to call the chapter office at 429-0904.

Introducing this year's longest, widest luxury car.

Every year, Detroit presents its new line of luxury cars. Unfortunately, in its quest for gas efficiency, it's quickly doing away with some of the luxuries that made you buy luxury cars. Comfort. Quietness. An interior you can really stretch out in.

You won't find them in most of today's new cars. But you will find them in the new cars NJ TRANSIT is now running on the Raritan Valley Line.

We've replaced all the old trains with new ones that are considered the most comfortable commuter cars ever built — providing the smoothest, quietest ride ever.

With year-round climate control, carpeting, reversible high-back cushion seats, soft interior lighting and many other "standard" features, these new cars will make every trip you take more comfortable. And faster, too. For example, they can take you from Plainfield to Penn Station in Newark in 30 minutes — from Westfield, a mere 20 minutes. From Newark, there are convenient transfers to midtown New York (Penn Station) on NJ TRANSIT trains and downtown via PATH.

We're also adding new platforms and making other improvements at many Raritan Valley Line stations.

To save you money and add extra convenience, NJ TRANSIT offers 10-trip, weekly and monthly discount tickets. And Mail-Tik, our computerized ticket-by-mail service, can save you the hassle of waiting in line to purchase your monthly ticket. For off-peak riders, our one-day round trip ticket means a 25% discount off the regular fare.

For more information about Raritan Valley Line schedules and fares, call NJ TRANSIT information, toll-free at 800-772-2222.

Then start riding the new Raritan Valley Line. After all, how many other luxury cars offer you the added luxury of not having to drive?

Computer has key role in arts

ART BY COMPUTER—Philip Orenstein, left, founder and head of the computer arts program at Rutgers University, uses a computer to manipulate images from a laser disc, as graduate student Doug Sulpy watches.

Avant-garde artist Philip Orenstein, founder and head of the computer arts program at Rutgers University, says technology is catching up with his predictions.

Nearly a decade ago Orenstein began to prophesy that the arts would become one of the major users of computer technology. An early experimenter with computer graphics, he called the computer "the only general-purpose art machine."

Such notions, he says now, were considered "rather odd."

But no longer. "Now when I start writing proposals, I don't have to go through a whole preamble trying to convince people that computers are going to happen—they can just read it in the papers," he says, noting that computers are widely used in television, film making and throughout the graphics industry.

"We're beginning to talk about the present, not the future," he says. "We're to the point where we're beginning to train people for present careers and opportunities."

Largely through Orenstein's initiative, the computer arts laboratory was established in Sept. 1978 at New Jersey's State University. The laboratory, which is part of the visual arts department of the Mason Gross School of the Arts, was one of the first of its kind in the country to be housed within an arts school.

This fall more than 150 students, most of them arts majors, are enrolled in introductory and advanced courses offered through the computer arts program. The focus is on graphic design although, notes Orenstein, computer technology is also used in music, dance and theater as well as the visual arts.

"Students see the computer as the social and intellectual event of our times and want to make it a part of their art," he comments.

Many of the students, he says, are interested in commercial graphic arts, while others are attracted to video and film making.

The computer arts laboratory consists of three rooms, equipped with six Apple II and Apple II Plus computers, a color printer, a plotter, three music synthesizers, a video digitizer and a videodisc player. With a music synthesizer, Orenstein explains, orchestration can be arranged electronically, played instantly and rearranged, without committing a single note to paper.

The video digitizer converts a video image to computer graphics, which can then be colored, shrunk, enlarged or otherwise altered. Digitizers are used by boardwalk merchants in creating the familiar T-shirt imprints with one's image.

The laboratory's newest piece of equipment is a videodisc player that uses a laser to read tiny pits cut into the surface of the iridescent discs. A disc the size of a long-playing record carries sound and 50,000 images or frames.

A computer connected to the laser disc system can isolate a particular frame, rearrange frames, manipulate motion. The technology has applications in film making and stage set designing, says Orenstein.

"Right now the technology is still new and has a lot of problems, but I think soon it's going to be a very important art medium," he predicts.

Graduate students will be experimenting with the computer and laser disc under the direction of an interdepartmental faculty group, he adds.

Also recognized as a painter and sculptor, Orenstein has been exploring artistic frontiers throughout his career. He attracted media attention in the '60s when he designed the first commercial inflatable chair and other inflatable pieces, which he marketed through a company called Mass Art Inc.

Now an associate professor, he joined the Rutgers faculty in 1971 as an adjunct instructor.

He owns his own computer and at present is concentrating his artistic energies on computer projects, which include designing the graphics for educational computer programs.

One of his graphic film pieces is included in the exhibition, "dada Processing," now open to the public at the Walters Hall gallery on the Douglass College campus. Ending tomorrow, the exhibition focuses on the computer as an art medium and contains work by several Rutgers faculty.

'Snoopy' is slated this weekend

The Unicorn Productions Repertory Theatre Company of Plainfield has announced that the Lilly Greenleaves Restaurant located on East Front Street in Plainfield will be offering a "Dinner & Theatre" package in cooperation with the stage troupes upcoming musical production of "Snoopy."

"Snoopy," which has been released to the Unicorn organization as the New Jersey Premiere, can be seen on Friday, Saturday and Sunday and Nov. 5-6-7 and 12-13-14 at the YWCA Theatre (formerly the New Jersey Theatre Forum) located at 232 East Front Street in Plainfield.

The cost of the "Dinner & Theatre" package is only $20 and includes valet parking, a full-course Prime Rib dinner, a reserved seat for the performance and a "meet the cast reception" with a hot and cold hors d'oeuvre bar at the restaurant.

Performance times are scheduled for 8:30 p.m. on Friday and Saturday evenings and at 2:30 p.m. on Sundays. Dinner will be served starting two hours before the scheduled show times. Reservations for the Dinner & Theatre package can be made by calling Lilly Greenleaves Restaurant at 756-2044 or by contacting the theatre at 757-7070.

Featured in the leading role of Snoopy is Tracy Redd of Westfield. Redd is currently starring in the Edison Valley Playhouse production of the Stephen Sondheim musical "Merrily We Roll Along," and was seen in the Unicorn productions of "The Robber Bridegroom" and "Grease."

Also starring in the show are: Brian McColgan and Kim White as Charlie Brown and Lucy VanPelt respectively. Portraying the roles of Linus VanPelt, Sally Brown, Peppermint Patty and Woodstock are: Bill Perlach of Linden, Lynn Lawson, Annette Kelly and Wendy Taylor.

Peace Corps volunteer backs the nuclear freeze referendum

Glen Alcalay, who was a Peace Corps volunteer in the Marshall Islands, urged Union County College students, faculty and the general public to vote "yes" on the nuclear freeze on the Nov. 2 ballot at a recent seminar sponsored by the Student Government Association at the College's Cranford Campus.

Alcalay said the general population has a "nuclear gun cocked at its head." The opportunity to vote on the nuclear freeze is available in eight states, including New Jersey, which represents 28 percent of the U.S. population, he said.

This is the first time in the 37 years of nuclear arms build-up that the citizens' opinion can be voiced in the political arena, Alcalay said. The "Yes" or "No" vote is not legally binding, but it serves to excite people about the issue of nuclear weapons freeze, the speaker said.

"There isn't time for 20 more years of debate. Concerned people must make their opinions heard in public forums," Mr. Alcalay said.

Alcalay reviewed the protests of nuclear testing from the 1950's to the 1980's. The citizens' protests in the 50's contributed to the 1963 limited test ban treaty, he said. The 50's protesters didn't go far enough as atmospheric testing was stopped, but underground testing continued.

After the initial comments on nuclear testing, Alcalay presented slides which described the history of the arms race. Many of the slides showed the effects of fallout on natives of the Marshall Islands. These inhabitants were removed from various testing sites, sent to military installations and relocated to new islands. In some cases, groups were sent back to their original habitation if the area was considered medically safe, Alcalay said.

He stressed that studies have shown immediate, intermediate and long-range reactions of people in the fall-out area. Mr. Alcalay, an anthropologist graduate from University of California, said studies are showing genetic effects of an H-bomb fallout 27 years later. The people affected were over 300 miles away from the test site.

After discussion, John Nary, a member of the Student Government Association committee working for nuclear freeze announced that films, slide presentations and information about the "freeze" will be available on the Cranford Campus in the coming weeks before the November election.

Dental aptitude test slated for Saturday

The Scotch Plains Campus of Union County College will be the site for the Dental Hygiene Aptitude Test of the American Dental Hygienists' Association Saturday, 8:30 a.m., in the Health Technologies Building.

The Dental Hygiene Aptitude Test is a requirement for admission to Union County College's dental hygiene program, which is accredited by the Council on Dental Education. The program leads to an Associate in Applied Science degree and qualifies graduates to take the regional and national Dental Hygiene Boards examination leading to a license as a registered dental hygienist.

Union County College is among six institutions in New Jersey offering dental hygiene programs. The others are Camden County College, Blackwood; Middlesex County College, Edison; Fairleigh Dickinson University, Hackensack; University of Medicine and Dentistry, Newark; and Bergen Community College, Paramus.

Prospective dental hygiene students throughout the New York-New Jersey metropolitan area have been assigned to the Union County College test site in Scotch Plains for the examination Saturday, Dr. Leonard T. Kreisman of Westfield, acting provost and vice president for academic affairs, reported.

Union County College also will be a test site for the Dental Hygiene Aptitude Test on Dec. 4, and Jan. 15, 1983.

1-day seminar on business

A one-day seminar for men and women planning to go into a business of their own will be offered for the ninth year at Union County College on Saturday, Nov. 13.

"How to Start and Manage Your Own Business" is again co-sponsored by the College's Office of Continuing Education, ACE (Active Corps of Executives), and SCORE (Service Corps of Retired Executives).

Credentialed individuals representing ACE and SCORE who have participated in the seminar in the past will provide information on legal and financial problems, accounting and tax needs, pitfalls to avoid, and advertising and promotion skills involved in launching a new business venture.

The seminar begins at 9 a.m. and concludes at 4 p.m. with an hour lunch break at 12:30. Tuition is $20.

Registration information and brochure on the day's program may be obtained by calling Union County College, 276-2600, extension 206 or 238.

Sales appears in UCC show

Soupy Sales, a comedian who has gotten his share of pies in the face, will bring his zany antics to Union County College tomorrow, 8 p.m., when the college's part-time Student Government presents "Comedy Nite."

Sales, if you remember, had his own television comedy program some years ago on which he was hit in the face several times a show with cream pies. The creator of the dance, "The Mouse," Sales is expected to guarantee an evening of high energy and contagious laughter for those who attend.

Accompanying Sales will be Scott Benjamin, a comedian and magician, and Barry Mitchell, a comedian and impressionsist. Mitchell is known for his impressions of comedian Woody Allen.

Tickets for the "Comedy Nite" are $2 and are available at the Part-time Student Government Office as well as at the door. The public is invited. The show starts at 8 p.m., and will be presented in the Union County College theatre on the Cranford Campus.

Springfield Public Notice

TOWNSHIP OF SPRINGFIELD, COUNTY OF UNION
AN ORDINANCE AMENDING THE REVISED GENERAL ORDINANCES OF THE TOWNSHIP OF SPRINGFIELD, CHAPTER III, GENERAL POLICE REGULATIONS, AND REGULATING COIN OPERATED AMUSEMENT DEVICES.
BE IT ORDAINED by the Township Committee of the Township of Springfield, County of Union and State of New Jersey, as follows:
Chapter III, Section 3-12 entitled Games of Chances; Gambling Devices, is hereby amended in its entirety to read as follows:
SECTION I. Amusement or Entertainment Machine or Device: Any machine, contrivance or device which, upon the insertion of a coin, slug, token, plate, disc, or key into a slot, crevice or other opening, or by the public generally for use as a game, entertainment or amusement, whether or not registering a score and shall include, without limitation, such devices as marble machines, pinball machines, skill ball, mechanical games or video games, bagel, mack, tables, Ballyho devices, high score tables, and any and all operations, transactions, or mechanical devices similar thereto by whatever name they may be called.
B. Licensed Premises: The entire premises, including without limitation, all building, auxiliary buildings, structures, apartment structures, walks, alleys, drives and parking facilities owned or controlled by the operator and/or owner—operator.
C. Operator: Any natural person, partnership, firm, association, corporation or any other business entity which owns or controls a premises or a location with the Township of Springfield, in which any amusement or entertainment machine or device is displayed for public patronage or is placed or kept for operation by the public.

D. Net floor area: As defined in this Ordinance, net floor area means the gross floor area of the licensee's premises less deductions for counter space areas, storage areas, shelving areas, aisle areas, bathrooms, areas of ingress or egress, office space and other areas which are not intended or held out for public use. The Building Inspector shall determine the maximum number of square feet in each prospective licensed premises subject to this Article.
SECTION II. A licensee fee of $250.00 per year shall be charged for each coin-operated amusement device or game of similar nature as defined in Section II(A). Each table to have a license tag bearing a serial number posted and attached in a conspicuous place on such table or game on the premises. Transfer of any game or table must be referred to the Chief of Police who will issue permission for such transfer.
SECTION III. Said license fee shall be paid at the time when the application is made to the Township Clerk. All licenses shall run for a period of one year from January 1st through December 31st.
SECTION IV. Upon making application for the license, each applicant shall give in writing to the Township Clerk the name and address of the person, firm, partnership, or corporation who owns the coin-operated amusement device set forth in this Ordinance, and if during the term of the license, the ownership of such licensed device be changed, the licensee shall forthwith furnish the Township Clerk with the name and address of the new owner.
SECTION V. Any person who shall knowingly permit a person under the age of sixteen (16) years to play or operate any of the machines or devices licensed under this Ordinance, during the school hours on any weekday that the Township of Springfield public schools are in sessions, shall be guilty of a violation of this Ordinance and punishable therefore as herein provided.

SECTION VI. There shall be permitted not more than one amusement or entertainment machine or device as defined in this Article for each one hundred square feet of net floor area as the same is defined herein provided that under no circumstances shall a number of machines be permitted that exceed thirty percent of the net floor area of the licensed premises as defined herein. The Building Inspector shall determine the maximum number of square feet in each prospective licensed premises which is subject to this Article.
SECTION VII. No licensee of amusement or entertainment machines or devices shall operate or cause to be operated any such machine or device within the Township of Springfield without first having obtained from the Township Clerk a license to so operate. Application for said license shall state the following:
A. The name, date, and place of birth, home address and business address, home telephone number and business address and telephone number of the applicant, and each of its stockholders, officers and directors holding in excess of ten percent (10%) of its stock.
B. The name and address of the registered agent of the applicant or person upon whom service of process is authorized to be made.
C. The name, date and place of birth, home address and home telephone number of the manager or other authorized agent of the applicant who shall be in charge of or conduct the business of the applicant within the Township of Springfield.

D. The type, manufacturer, serial number and precise location of each amusement or entertainment machine or device sought to be operated.
E. If the applicant is a corporation, there shall be included a corporate resolution in proper form authorizing the execution of the license application on behalf of the corporation.
F. The application shall contain a certification under oath, made by the applicant or its authorized representative that the information contained in the application and all attachments thereto is complete, accurate and truthful to the best of his knowledge and belief.
G. The application must contain the total number of square feet to which the applicant customarily invites or permits the public to occupy and use, but shall not include any area used for storage, office, kitchen, counter space, walks, alleys, drives, parking facilities or such other areas to which the public has no access.
H. A sketch or plan of the proposed licensed premises shall be attached to the application.
I. The application must be accompanied by a certification from the Fire Department that the premises occupancy load has been calculated and posted in accordance with the BOCA Construction Code.
SECTION VIII. Every license issued hereunder is subject to revocation by the Township Clerk should the licensee operator distribute or operate any amusement or entertainment machine or device contrary to the provisions of this Ordinance or any other law, ordinance, rule or regulation or fail to cooperate fully with any enforcement officer of any agency.
Any material, misstatements or omission in the license application and any information submitted therewith or the failure to notify in writing the Township Clerk of any changes by addition or deletion or amendment to the said application or information during the term of any license or renewal, shall constitute sufficient ground for revocation of said license by the Township Clerk.
SECTION IX. If the Chief of the Township of Springfield Police Department shall have probable cause to believe any amusement or entertainment machine or device is being used for gambling, such machine or device may be temporarily seized by the Police Department and impounded and may be considered as contraband by law.

Springfield Public Notice

SECTION X. This Ordinance is enacted for the purpose of raising revenue and for the regulation and control of coin-operated amusement devices to promote safety by preventing over-crowding and ensuring conformity with fire regulations and to prevent truancy among school aged minors.
SECTION XI. If any word, phrase or clause of this Ordinance shall be adjudged unconstitutional or invalid, the remainder thereof shall not be affected.
SECTION XII. Any ordinance or portion of any ordinance which is inconsistent with the terms of this Ordinance is repealed to the extent of the inconsistency.
SECTION XIII. Any person, firm, association, club or corporation violating any of the provisions of this Ordinance shall, upon conviction thereof, be subject to a fine not exceeding Five Hundred Dollars ($500.00) or confinement in the county jail for a term not exceeding ninety (90) days, or both, in the discretion of the municipal magistrate, and each day such violation shall be continued shall be deemed and taken to be a separate and distinct offense.
SECTION XIV. This Ordinance is to take effect immediately upon passage and publication in accordance with the law.
I, Arthur H. Buehrer, do hereby certify that the foregoing Ordinance was introduced for first reading at a regular meeting of the Township Committee of the Township of Springfield in the County of Union and State of New Jersey, held on Tuesday evening, October 26, 1982, and that said Ordinance shall be submitted for consideration and final passage at a regular meeting of Township Committee to be held on November 9, 1982, in the Springfield Municipal Building at 8:00 P.M., at which time and place any person or persons interested therein will be given an opportunity to be heard concerning said Ordinance. ## Library

By Rose P. Simon
Following are the reviews of the recently popular books for Fall reading at the Springfield Public Library.

GLAMOROUS ARISTOCRAT

"Diane Cooper," by Philip Ziegler.
Beautiful, precocious, daring, beloved by those of the aristocratic circle into which she was born (daughter of a duke), Lady Diane Cooper used her charisma to develop her exuberant personality, and to spread her charm among the rich and the famous (Churchill, Reinhardt, Prince of Wales, Arthur Rubenstein, Lord Beaverbrook) wherever she moved in the world of her time.

Romantic, adored by countless suitors, Diane was seriously attracted to the impecunious, intemperate man-about-town, Duff Gordon. Although the match was vigorously opposed by Diane's Mother, the marriage was ultimately sanctioned. Duff longed for romance and gratification, adventure and intrigue; Diane sought admiration, unconventional distraction and companionship. Despite Duff's infidelities, Diane was always devoted and loyal to her husband.

Her bustling life (she is now 90) encompassed volunteer work during WWI, film acting, magazine editing, touring Europe and the USA in a play ("The Miracle"), pig-farming, entertaining and traveling. Duff forged a political career for himself, beginning as resident cabinet minister, then becoming Ambassador to Paris. He was later raised to the peerage.

After Diane's death Diane immersed herself in writing her autobiography (three volumes), more traveling, cultivating new friendships, and getting a face lift. She continues to live fully and energetically.

LITTLE, MIDDLE AMERICA
"Special Places," by Berton Rouche.
Writer of medical detection, novels, and travels, Rouche, a contributor to the New Yorker magazine, has favored us with seven geographical portraits.

These are all small American towns, ranging in population from 300 to 10,290. Stapleton, where the author spent a month, is an isolated village in the midst of the flat prairies of western Nebraska, at least 20 miles from any other town. Laid out as a railroad village (1912) with a depot at one end, it has a municipal park, tennis court, municipal water works and a power system, and a fully automated phone system.

Most of the one-story residences have flower and vegetable gardens. It's a peaceable town, in which there is no crime; doors are left unlatched, keys are left in cars.

Entirely different topographically, is Welch, W. Va. a coal town walled in by mountains. It is a maze of rugged hills; it is almost impossible to drive a car. Houses are at a premium, the best of them old and acquired by inheritance. Many of them are reached by flights of 20 to 40 steps. There is no city dump, and the sewage goes into the river.

Crystal City, Texas (named for its artesian well water) is the central city in the fruitful area of Winter Garden.

The town is at least 80 percent Mexican-American, many of them migrating to the North in summer, returning in time for school. They own and care for their homes well. The author stopped by the Winter Garden Clinic, the Country Club, the Ice Company, the Steel Gun Safe, and chatted with Judge Gutierrez, who wants to improve the quality of life for his people.

Also visited were Hope, Ark.; Hermann, Mo.; Pellee, Iowa; Corydon, Ind. In all of these, Rouche engaged the natives in conversation (gathering together some odd characters), looked in on churches, and cemeteries, tried out the restaurants, and collected bits of local history.

TRAINING AND CONDITIONING
"Sportsfitness for Women," by Sandra Rosenweig.
More women are coming into sports or some form of exercise than ever before, and myths about them (they're weaker, less competitive, can't run or throw like men) are being constantly disproved. The author claims that women have greater potential endurance, more flexibility in joints, and more stretch in muscles, than men. She assures women that they can do anything they wish to do, but must train following her special program.

You should choose a personal program tailored to your age, physical condition and life style; improve your present sport skills; learn the basic principles of training and conditioning; design your own diet; plan weight control. There are discussions of special problems (menstruation, birth control, pregnancy, menopause, etc.); diagnosis of injuries (prevention and treatment).

Many tests, graphs and illustrations of exercises supplement the text. The appendices include sources of information about special programs and sports, mail-order sources for equipment for various sports, and a selected reading list.

A RESIDENT INSTITUTION
"What's Happened to the American Family," by Sar A. Leviton and Richard S. Beious.

There is much evidence that marriage and family appear to have fallen on hard times: sky-rocketing divorce rates, increased participation in the work force by women, a decrease in the fertility rate, the decline in the number of children. In addition, our social programs and social mobility have emphasized the disruption of family life. The optimists find some hope, admitting that changes are indeed taking place, evolving and responding to the new economic order.

The author claims, with Margaret Mead, that the family is a resilient, diverse, social entity—"the toughest institution we have." It may have different meanings for different people, but if it "is found to include any possible system of relationships."

Lamb is fine source of quality protein

By ELLAWSE B. MCLENDON

Extension Home economist

Lamb is an excellent source of high-quality protein for growth and repair of body tissues. It is a good source of iron, thiamin, riboflavin and niacin—nutrients that help us produce rich, red blood and strong bones and teeth.

To enhance lamb's natural good flavor, choose any of these seasonings or a combination of several: basil, garlic, celery, dill, bay leaves, onion, parsley, mustard, curry powder, coriander, rosemary, tarragon and oregano. The seasoning you select, will, of course, depend upon your family's preferences.

Ground spices give up their flavors quickly. When they are used in a medium to long cooking dish, such as roast lamb, they should not be added until the end of the cooking time. Whole or "leaf" herbs should be finely crumbled just before using to release best flavor. Whole spices are especially tasty in long-cooking dishes, such as lamb stew. They should be added at the beginning of cooking. Place a small amount of whole spices in a small cheesecloth or muslin bag. It can be easily removed when the desired flavor level is reached.

Frozen lamb need not be thawed before cooking, but will require extra cooking time. If you do prefer to thaw meats, they should be thawed in the refrigerator, because thawing meats at room temperature may permit dangerous bacterial growth. Fresh lamb, like all fresh meats, should be stored either loosely-wrapped, or if prepackaged, in the original wrap at refrigerator temperatures between 35 to 40 degrees F. or lower. Chops, steaks and roasts will keep in the refrigerator for three to five days or in the freezer at 0 degrees F. or lower for six to nine months. Ground or stew lamb or variety meats will keep only one or two days in the refrigerator or for three to four months in the freezer. Cooked lamb and lamb dishes can be stored in the refrigerator for three to four days and in the freezer for two to three months.

Meeting set by club unit

TEAM PLAY—Three Dayton players, from left, Joe Roessner, Ron Martignetti and Pat Esemplare, combine to stop a North Plainfield runner in last weekend's 7-7 tie. The Bulldogs will attempt to get back on the winning road this weekend when they head to Ridge on Saturday afternoon. (Ed Kisch Photo)

Bulldogs on road again for clash with 0-5 Ridge

By RON BRANDSDORFER
Ah, a breather.
After compiling a 2-2-1 record against five opponents that have a combined record of 17-7-1, Dayton's Bulldogs will travel to Ridge on Saturday to take on the 0-5 Red Devils.
But before Bulldog fans plan a post-game victory celebration, they better keep the following warning in mind: Ridge just might be the best 0-5 football team in the state.
Last weekend, for example, while the Bulldogs were playing to a 7-7 tie with North Plainfield, Ridge was nipped, 21-20, by Governor Livingston. And the week before, the Red Devils were beaten by North Plainfield, 25-22. That's two losses by a total of four points.
"Ridge may be winless but they've played everybody close," cautioned Dayton coach Tony Policare. "They're a very capable team. They can play on par with any team we've played yet."
And that's quite a compliment, considering that the Bulldogs have beaten Brearley (4-1) and lost to New Providence (4-1) and Middlesex (5-0).
Not only will this be a tough ballgame for the Bulldogs, but it's a big one, too.

Dayton's dream of back-to-back winning seasons may hinge on it.
"If we want a successful season, the next three games (Ridge, Gov. Livingston and Manville) will make or break it," Policare said. "I think it's very important for us to have a winning season. We've worked very hard towards that."
The Bulldogs worked very hard last Saturday, outgaining North Plainfield by a 2-1 margin. The offense piled up 247 yards and the defense allowed just 107.
Yet the Bulldogs could only get in the end zone once all game, and it came on Pat Esemplare's five-yard TD run and Joe Roessner's extra point kick in the fourth quarter.
"We totally dominated the offensive statistics," Policare said. "I'm disappointed that we weren't able to get the ball in the end zone more."
That's particularly distressing considering some of the individual performances. Esemplare had a great game in the backfield, piling up 101 yards in 19 carries. And the defense came through with another sparkler, as Dayton has now allowed just 37 points in five ballgames. That's just 7.4 points per game.

"We've played great defense," Policare stressed. "We just haven't gotten things cooking on offense."
"The thing we've been unable to do is get a breakaway runner," he added, noting that the Bulldogs rushed for 201 yards on the ground. "We have some very good inside runners, but we've gotten very few long runs. We have to break some 10-yarders into touchdowns."
Saturday would be a good time for that to begin happening and for the Bulldogs to climb back over the 500 mark.
"We lost 17 starters from last year, yet we've been hanging tough with the best teams in our conference," Policare said. "We're trying to keep an upbeat attitude."
A victory on Saturday would certainly help

Cushnir, Dayton girls hoping for repeat of 1980's title effort

When Dayton's girls get to the Union County gymnastics championships on Saturday morning at Elizabeth High, they'll have one goal in mind: to return the team trophy back to Springfield.
It was two years ago that the girls captured the team title with a stunning performance. Last year they also had a super meet but had to settle for second best.

Head coach Howard Cushnir believes he just might have the talent to challenge for that team title once again. The key will be balance. Dayton will count on typical efforts from co-captains Karen Rose and Gina Pashaian, both veterans of Union County competition. And Cushnir will also expect strong outings by Joanne Fusco, Carmella Carpenter, Deanna Campos, Linda Anagnos and Carol Carpenter.

Brearley gymnasts qualify for states

The Brearley girls' gymnastics team raised its record to 6-1 last week with an 87.25-41.25 win over Kent Place. Along with the win, three girls have qualified for the state sectionals Nov. 13.
They are Kathy Giacalone in the vaulting, uneven bars and floor exercise; Maureen Riley on the bars and floor exercise, and Tracy Spillman on bars.
Against Kent Place, Giacalone, with an 8.15, and Riley, with a 7.6, finished one-two in the vaulting. Riley took the bars with an 8.05 followed by Spillman's 7.25, and Giacalone won the balance beam with a 7.05.
On floor exercise, Riley had the top score of 8.45, followed by Giacalone with an 8.25, Spillman with a 7.7 and freshman Marianne Schmidt with a 7.2.
Also competing for Brearley were ninth grader Sandy Bober and sophomore Kelley Shields.

America on Ice set at South Mountain

America on Ice IV will be presented by the South Mountain Figure Skating Club at the South Mountain Arena in West Orange on Nov. 19 and 20 for the benefit of the Valerie Fund Children's Center for Cancer and Blood Disorders at Overlook Hospital in Summit.

The center was founded in 1977 and provides both medical and psychological support to children and adolescents and their families.

Among the exciting guest stars at the ice show will be Robin Cousins, 1980 gold medalist from England, and Judy Blumberg and Michael Seibert, currently United States national ice skating champions.

Also featured will be the 1982 national junior dance champions, Mandy Newman and Jerry Santoferrara, and Lorilee Pritchard, 1982 junior ladies national champion.

Sixteen-year-old Gregory Diel will perform on stunts, an act made famous by his father, Fritz Diel, many years ago.
In all, more than 84 members of the South Mountain Figure Skating Club will perform in the cast.

Show time for the evening performances will be 8:30 p.m. and there will be a 4 p.m. matinee on Saturday. Admission: $8 for adults and $5 for children under 12.

Swanson in horse show

Mountainside's Sandi Swanson will participate in the junior division of the National Horse Show at Madison Square Garden from Nov. 2-7.

Swanson will seek to reach the "Good Hands" final and the "Maclay" at the Sunday matinee. Winners of the Maclay trophy often become professional riders or represent the United States in the Olympics.

Views On Dental Health

By SEAN T. FENTON, D.M.D.

HALF A TOOTH BETTER THAN NONE

Sometimes the dentist can save only part of a tooth (usually a molar) because of extreme bone loss or a vertical fracture involving half the tooth. Half a tooth, however, is better than none. The dentist can divide the molar in half vertically and surgically remove the one or two damaged roots of the weak half and save the undamaged, strong half with root canal therapy. This is called a hemisection.

Occasionally, an infected root is surgically removed without damaging the crown part of the tooth. This is particularly advantageous when there is a cap on the tooth and hemisection it would involve cutting through or destroying an otherwise good restoration, or if the tooth is healthy and in good contact with the adjacent teeth. In those situations, rather than hemisection, the tissue along side the roots is bisected (lifted and turned), and the infected root is found and removed. Root canal therapy is always done on the remaining root or roots. If there is ever a choice of saving a tooth (even half a tooth), by all means, save it!

Soccer squad nipped in UCT, set for states

If ever there was a time for Dayton's boys' soccer team to shake off the losing blues and get their act all together again, next week will definitely be it.
The Bulldog booters (9-4-2) have suddenly found themselves in a mid-season slump. And with county and state tournaments underway, that could pose some big, big problems.
As it is, the Bulldogs made a quick exit from the Union County Tournament, falling to seventh-seeded Gov. Livingston, 1-0, on Sunday.
And now comes the news that the Bulldogs have qualified for the North Jersey, Section II, Group II soccer tourney, along with Madison Borough, G.L. Mendham, Clifford Scott, Hackettstown, Warren Hills, Pequannock, Edison Tech, West Orange and Dover.
That means that Coach Joe Cozza's team will probably play a first round game at home some time next week.
And they'll need to get the ball to Henry Largey and to get continued super goalkeeping from Andy Grett if they have any hope of advancing in that sectional tourney.

Kean to talk at recycling awards event

Governor Thomas H. Brunswick will deliver the keynote address at the New Jersey Recycling Forum's third annual awards dinner Nov. 10 at the Ramada Inn in East Orange. Brunswick will present awards to individuals and organizations in recognition of significant recycling achievements. Under the state Recycling Plan and the New Jersey Recycling Act which was implemented Jan. 1, 1982, the plan's major objective is the recycling of 25 percent of municipal solid waste by 1985, including aluminum, ferrous metal, glass, newspapers, plastics, corrugated paper, mixed paper, food waste, tires and recoverable oil. New Jersey claims leadership in the recycling field with 400 programs operating in 297 communities. The state's recycling program is considered a textbook example of the substantial benefits to be gained through a cooperative effort of state and local governments, industry, labor and the environmental community.

JOHN G. COLLINS, president and chief executive officer of Commercial Bankshares, Inc., has reported that consolidated operating earnings for the third quarter, 1982 increased a record 120 percent over the same period last year. The Jersey City based holding company, which owns Commercial Trust Company of New Jersey, was formed on July 1, 1982. Income before Securities Transactions, Collins said was $1,485,000, or $1.06 a share for the third quarter of 1981.

For the nine-month period, Income Before Securities Transactions was $3,906,000, or $2.82 per share, an 80 percent increase over the previously reported period in 1981 which stood at $2,173,000, or $1.55 per share. Net income for the nine months in 1982 increased 65 percent, to $3,936,000, or $2.84 a share, from $2,379,000 and $1.70 a share, reflecting heavy security gains in the comparable 1981 period.

SUMMIT AND ELIZABETH TRUST Company and The Chatham Trust Company, member banks of The Summit Bancorporation, have announced the introduction of Summit Investor Services, which allows customers to buy and sell stocks listed on the New York and American Stock Exchanges and the over-the-counter market at reduced commission rates.

Customers can place an order by either calling a special toll-free telephone number or by speaking directly with bank representatives at any Summit or Chatham branch office location. All brokerage service transactions will be settled automatically through the customer's checking account maintained at these banks. Each month, customers will receive a statement showing all activity.

GERALD R. O'KEEFE, president of Queen City Savings and Loan Association, has announced that the institution is now making GEM (Growing Equity Mortgages) available to qualified homebuyers.

According to O'Keefe, a GEM Mortgage enables the homebuyer to pay off a loan much sooner than with a conventional level payment mortgage, while "growing equity" exceptionally fast and saving thousands of dollars in interest.

"The basic GEM loan structure allows a homebuyer to own his or her home, free and clear, in less than 15 years."

noted Douglas R. Doerr, vice president and mortgage officer. "GEMs are based upon a 30-year Mortgage has scheduled increases of 4 percent, 5 percent or 7 percent of monthly principal and interest payments which are applied to reduce the principal balance. Thus, the entire loan can be paid in full within 15 years." In short, yearly increases in payments are used to reduce principal and the total interest paid is substantially less than with an equivalent fixed rate payment loan for the same term, he added.

For example, with a 30-year GEM Mortgage at an annual interest rate of 14 1/4 percent and a 4 percent yearly increase in monthly payments, the total amount of interest a homebuyer will pay can be 60 percent less than a comparable level payment mortgage.

PUBLIC SERVICE Electric and Gas Company has reported earnings of $213.6 million, equal to $2.44 per share of common stock, for the nine months ended Sept. 30, compared with $163.7 million, or $2.06 per common share, for the same period of 1981. Revenues increased to $2.9 billion from $2.5 billion.

Sales of electricity were 2.7 percent lower in the first nine months of this year than the same period of 1981. The decrease was mainly attributable to the economic recession and cooler, less humid weather than in the year-earlier period. Gas sales were up 5.3 percent with gains in commercial and residential categories more than offsetting a decline in those industrial customers.

Helping education of handicapped

BY PHILIP HARTMAN

Through the Morris-Union Special Education Consortium, many school districts in Union, Morris and Somerset counties have become partners in improving the education of handicapped students, while making the most of their educational dollar.

The consortium is a cooperative organization of 10 school districts who combine, organize and oversee special services for handicapped pupils within their systems, including, Berkeley Heights, Bernards Township, Chatham Borough, Chatham Township, Florham Park, Madison, New Providence, Passaic Township, Summit and Springfield.

Its governed by the Superintendent's Council on Special Education, which directly administers the consortium programs. The council, which represents each member district, meets quarterly to discuss problems concerning FINGER PAINTING?—Jessica of Springfield traces the outline of a painted pumpkin at Wayside Farms in Springfield, where the DyDee (Deaf Youngsters Deserve Early Education) children picked out their favorite Halloween pumpkins last week. The 4-year-old is one of many children in the Union County program which mainstreams non-handicapped children with those hearing impaired.

Helping education of handicapped

(Continued from page 1) This cooperative net-operations, future planning, program development and recognized needs. work, which has grown from six districts and 19 special education classes in 1979, offers its membership 40 special education classes including a DyDee (Deaf Youngsters Deserve Early Education) program.

The types of handicapped students serviced by the consortium are: communication handicapped; educable mentally retarded; trainable mentally retarded; emotionally disturbed; neurologically impaired; perceptually impaired; multiply handicapped, and, pre-school handicapped. Pre-school through high school students are involved in the effort.

"Basically, I think its purpose is to be able to provide better services as a group ... and better services in a cost-effective way," commented Dr. Richard Fiander, superintendent of the Summit school district, which was a founder of the consortium along with Berkeley Heights and New Providence.

The consortium began informally in the mid-1960's, when those districts pooled their resources. "We concluded then that things could better be done as a group, rather than individually," according to Fiander.

"Since then," he added, "it has grown steadily."

Dr. Kim Coleman, executive officer and supervisor of the consortium, agreed: "As recently as July 1979 there were six districts in the consortium. There were 19 special education classes. Currently, in July 1982, there are 10 districts with 40 classes. I take that as an example of how well its growing."

Coleman cited several reasons why the consortium has become such a success, educationally and financially.

For example, he noted that every district cannot afford a DyDee program because it may have only one or two students who are auditorally or communicatively handicapped and within the three to five-year-old age group.

According to Coleman, the consortium provides the logical solution, a fusion of resources. "It's very costly to have a full-blown program for one student. What the consortium does is establish a continuum of programs," he explained.

Also, because districts have learned to combine their public school programs, there is no longer as great a need to send pupils to private out-of-district programs.

"Forget about the quality of private schools," the consortium director said, "Generally, it's more costly."

Besides a substantial savings in transportation costs, the district-run consortium gives boards of education jurisdiction over their student's education, which was monitored less efficiently in out-of-district programs, according to Coleman.

Also, he noted, "It's not educationally sound to transport children long distances."

"Through this office (located at the New Providence Board of Education) the board of education maintains control. It's an extension of the public schools," he further explained.

He added that parents no longer have to travel long distances.

Alcohol problem among elderly

UNION—An estimated three million older Americans are problem drinkers who combine alcohol and drugs and do great physical harm to themselves. We need to reach them and counsel them.

That was the message delivered to those who attended a recent seminar to promote the Union County Alcohol and Aging Program, held at the Union County College. The message came from Mrs.

Teresa McGeary, executive director of the Union County Council on Alcoholism. The Council, along with the College's Gerontology Program, the N.J. Division on Aging, the Union County Division on Aging, and the Division on Alcoholism sponsored the seminar which was held at the College's Cranford Campus.

Mrs. Joann Maslin of Westfield, director of the gerontology program at the College, said the seminar was trying to provide ways to reach both the senior citizen who is a problem drinker and who mixes alcohol with medication, as well as the older citizen who unwittingly takes a drink while on medication.

"Drugs and alcohol and the chemical reaction one gets from mixing both is a very large and hidden problem for the elderly," said Mrs. Maslin. She noted that students in the program are taught to deal with drug and alcohol abuse among persons in that age group, as well as many other problems they experience.

Those who attended the seminar heard McGeary talk about the importance of educating people who deal with senior citizens on a regular basis about the problems of drug abuse and the signs and symptoms to watch for. Those persons will then be able to identify the abuse problem and help the elderly person who is suffering from it by alerting the proper channels.

McGeary feels "there are more people in this dilemma than we really know about.

Some are retired people who are bored or lost, and they start drinking." She pointed out that there are 102 senior citizen centers in Union County alone. "If persons who work with Homemakers programs or Meals on Wheels, which deal with the elderly on a daily basis, can recognize a drug or alcohol abuse problem, we might have a chance to reach the seniors in counseling," McGeary said.

McGeary said the elderly also drink for other reasons, such as grief or illness. And they are more susceptible to becoming alcoholic because they have a lower tolerance level as well as a slowing down of their metabolisms. Many also drink instead of eat, which points up the nutritional problems of senior citizens.

The seminar also featured as discussion on "Identifying the Problem Drinker," conducted by Elaine Luthunger, executive director of Fair Oaks, South, an alcohol rehabilitation facility.

Both Mrs. Luthunger and McGeary spoke about "Intervention and Referral," and the film "Chalk Talk Revised" was shown to those in attendance. The film showed the effects of alcohol on the human body.

Union County College offers a gerontology program as an option within the Human Services curriculum at the College.

Sunday trip planned

UNION—Two Sunday trips are being offered by the YM-YWHA of Eastern Union County on Sunday, and Nov. 7. The first will entail a visit to the Judaica Museum in Riverdale and to the New York Botanical Gardens; the second, a walking tour of Jewish New York.

The van for the first will leave the Y, Green Lane at 10 a.m. and is scheduled to return at 6 p.m. The Judaica Museum is a new museum which was opened this year to help insure that Jewish traditions and customs would not be forgotten.

A guided one-hour tour will show the participants about 500 pieces of Jewish ceremonial objects and artifacts some of which date back to the 17th Century. On view will be a half-burned Torah scroll, only one of 13 which survived Kristallnacht, Nov. 10, 1938, the night of broken glass when almost all the Synagogues in Germany were vandalized. Objects for every Jewish holiday are included.

Subsequent to that visit will be a one and a half hour guided tour of the Conservatory at the Botanical Gardens. Time will be devoted to individual viewing of the gardens.

Participants are urged to bring their own dairy lunch. The fee for this day's outing is $9 for members, $7 member children under 12; $12 for non-members, $10 for non-member children under 12.

The second trip, called "Fall Walking Tour of Jewish New York," is scheduled for Sunday, Nov. 7. Participants will have an opportunity to explore the architecture, folklore, history and food of the lower East Side.

The tour includes: newspaper row with the forward building, the Eldridge Street Synagogue, Educational Alliance, the Essex Street Market and a visit to a scribe. Then the tour travels to the Upper West for a visit to three different orthodox synagogues.

The motor coach will leave the Y at 9 a.m. and return at 6 p.m. The fee is $12 for Y members, $18 for non-members.

Exhibit underway at Hall

An exhibition of the painting of Avery Johnson has opened in the Art Gallery of the Student Center on Seton Hall University's South Orange campus. It will run through Nov. 21.

A native of Wheaton, Ill. Johnson is a graduate of Wheaton College and the School of Fine Art Institute in Chicago. After supervising various Treasury Department art projects in Florida and the Virgin Islands, he executed Post Office murals in Illinois, Arkansas, Maryland and New Jersey.

During World War II he was with the Office of War Information, assigned to the Army's Psychological Warfare Branch in North Africa and Italy.

His paintings have been widely shown in major galleries and museums throughout the United States and are included in numerous private and public collections. He was represented in the Metropolitan Museum's exhibition of "200 Years of Watercolor Painting in America" in 1967 and the American Watercolor Society exhibition in the Museum of Aquarelle, Mexico City, as part of the Olympic cultural activity of 1968.

Although primarily a watercolorist and mural painter, he has had wide experience in other areas. His etching are in many collections including the Library of Congress.

'Tosca' opera helps celebrate FDU's 25th

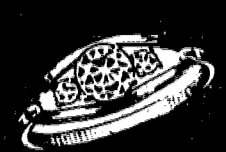

Giacomo Puccini's the Florham-Madison opera "Tosca" will be performed at the Dreyfuss Dickinson University at Mainstage auditorium on 8:30 p.m., Saturday, Nov. 20 and 3 p.m., Sunday, Nov. 21.

"Tosca" is part of the 25th anniversary celebration this year on the Florham-Madison campus. The Nov. 20 performance and a reception following the production are planned as a salute to area corporations and the campus community. "The performance is one way for the campus to extend its appreciation to area corporations and individual friends of the University in recognition of their many outstanding contributions," said Dr. James V. Griffo Jr., campus provost.

associate professor of theater, is in charge of set and lighting design. Bill Stevenson of Chatham is technical director. Originally from California, Stevenson worked with the Ice Capades. Performing the title role will be Alice Helgeson of Berkeley Heights. Her lover, Mario Cavaradossi, will be sung by Edward Perretti of Paterson; Barron Scarpia will be sung by Paul Aquino of Boonton and Angelotti, a revolutionary, will be sung by Samuel McCall of Passaic Township. Spoletta, a secret police agent, will be sung by George Lachenauer of Roselle; the sacritan will be sung by Steven Farris of North Plainfield; Sciarrone, a policeman, will be sung by Donald Eaton of Bridgewater.

Tickets, priced at $6 and $8, are available for the Nov. 21 performance.

The only melodrama Puccini ever wrote, "Tosca" is based on the play by Victorien Sardou. At the center of the action is Floria Tosca, an opera singer, her lover Mario Cavaradossi, a painter, and Barron Scarpia, the chief of secret police who wants to steal Tosca's love.

The outcome of their horrifying relationship comes to a head with the opera's brutal conclusion. At its premier in Rome on Jan. 4, 1900, "Tosca" was found by critics to be "a brutal assault on the nerves" due to its "inherent vulgarity and violence." The audience, not as inclined to be so susceptible, however, found this fatal drama moving and the music beautiful. In June of that year, it reached Covent Garden, London, and on February 4, 1901, premiered at the metropolitan Opera House in New York. The artistic creation was soon an international success and is still a mainstay in the operatic repertoire of all opera companies.

Musical direction is under the baton of Dr. Charles Del Rosso, professor of music, and the stage direction by William Brown of the Rutherford Campus. Chorus master for the opera is Albert Pendleton of Berkeley Heights. Pendleton is vocal director at Governor Livingston High School in Berkeley Heights. Roger Benischek, manager of the performing arts and

Gene Philley of Union will perform in concert

An annual free concert of the Suburban Symphony Society of New Jersey will be held Nov. 7 at 3 p.m. in the Orange Avenue School auditorium, Cranford.

It will be the season's first concert. Ira Kramer, music director, has selected a program, "Mostly Marches," consisting of marches.

Featured will be Gene Philley of Union, concert pianist, who will perform the last movement from Rachmaninoff's Piano Concerto No. 2 in C minor. Philley, who has resided in Union for two years, comes from Texas. He received his musical training at North Texas State University, where he studied the piano, organ and harpiscord.

After obtaining bachelor and master's degrees, Philley acquired a federal grant to do advanced post graduate work. For seven years, prior to his arrival in New Jersey, he was chairman of the music department at Angelina College in Texas. He taught classroom music and private piano, both at the college and preparatory level. He was accompanist for opera and instrumentalists and was a solo recitalist. He and his wife, a coloratura soprano, work in the New York area. Philley is the organist-choirmaster at Old Bergen Church in Jersey City.

County club sponsors dog show

Prize lists are available for the Union County Kennel Club dog show to be held Sunday, Nov. 7 at the Dunn Sports Center of Elizabeth High School.

The list contains more than 150 trophies and / or small cash prizes to be competed for at the 825-dog show. Elizabeth Mayor Thomas G. Dunn will present the Best-In-Show trophy to the top canine of the day—as chosen by Mrs. Alice Bartlett Lane of Easton, Md.

UCCK, in its 47th year of incorporation, is staging its 50th all-breed point show (the club also puts on a show each Memorial Day at Warinanco Park Ice Skating Center and a match at Nomahegan Park in Cranford on Father's Day). Entry forms for this fall's show must be in by Oct. 20, and forms can be obtained from the show chairman, Mike Helfner, 20 Pearl St., New Providence, N.J. 07974 (201) 464-5466, or the show secretary, George Schreiber, 74 Dayton St., Elizabeth, 07202 (201) 355-8910.

07202 (201) 355-8910.

Unlike most other shows, this UCCK event is a "benched" show, of which there are only nine similar in the U.S. Dogs at benched shows must remain in the building until 3 p.m.—unlike unbenched shows where dogs may leave once beaten by another canine.

Nurses group enjoying 70th

The Visiting Nurse and Health Services is observing the anniversary of 70 years of dedicated service to Union County residents. A voluntary, non-profit home health agency, VNHS is located at 354 Union Avenue, Elizabeth. A Colonial brick structure is headquarters for this professional organization which provides care to residents of 15 communities in Union County. Rosemary Cuccaro, Executive Director of VNHS refers to the organization as "a hospital without walls."

A staff of professional community health nurses is augmented by physical, speech and occupation therapists. In addition there is a nutritionist, social worker and a mental health nurse consultant. A corps of home health aides is maintained, as well as a business department.

Part-time intermittent care in a patient's home is the focus, but service is deployed to many other areas as well, including hospitals, schools, clinics and other community sites. The VNHS maintains affiliations with numerous social welfare agencies, and serves the community without regard to age, sex, religion, race or financial status. Care of the sick and disabled is correlated with health education and prevention of illness, aimed at maintaining patients in the security of their own homes.

The VNHS is licensed by the state of New Jersey, certified by HEW for Medicare and Medicaid, and accredited by the National League for Nursing, as well as being a United Way Member. As a member of the Home Health Assembly of New Jersey, VNHS supports the motto, "Home is where the care is."

Seventy years have passed since the Visiting Nurse Association was founded in 1912, as an outgrowth of the Charity Organization in the city of Elizabeth. The first budget of the VNA was $5,000.00; far below today's figure of $4 million. Ms. Andrew Campbell of Mountainside is on the Board of Directors.

Soviet orchestra performs Nov. 7

The Soviet Emigre Orchestra, under the musical direction of concert master Lazar Gosman, will perform at the YMYWHA of Metropolitan New Jersey, 760 Northfield Avenue, West Orange, on Sunday, Nov. 7, 8 p.m.

The concert is part of the Y's Jewish Omnibus Series, three programs of Jewish content of interest to the entire family. The performance by the Soviet Emigre Orchestra is presented in cooperation with the Metropolitan Conference on Soviet Jewry and the Jewish Association of Metropolitan New Jersey.

Music director and violinist Lazar Gosman emigrated from Leningrad in 1977. In his native Russia, Gosman was assistant concertmaster of the Leningrad Philharmonic. The renowned violinist also founded and led the Leningrad Chamber Orchestra for 17 years in performances with such leading musicians as David Oistrakh, Emil Gilels, Gidon Kremer and Bella Davidovich.

In this country, he has served as associate concertmaster of the St. Louis Symphony, professor at the St. Louis Conservatory, artist-in-residence at the University of Missouri and music director of the St. Louis Kammergild.

The Soviet Emigre Orchestra made its debut in 1979, a year in which their schedule included seven performances at Carnegie Hall.

Keeping records is key profession

Everyday, hospitals, insurance companies, nursing homes and clinics depend on them to help maintain efficiency in those facilities. Who are they? They're medical record technicians, and they're being trained at Union County College, which offers one of only two medical record technicians programs in the state.

A medical record technician's duties range from that of health record analyst, who uses medical record samples as a means of insuring quality control in a hospital, to supervising the filing, assembling and analyzing of a health facility's medical records.

The coordinator of the medical record technician program at Union County College, Margaret Hayes of Jersey City describes the field as "appealing to someone interested in medicine, but who doesn't want the direct patient contact." The program itself is a good combination of medical and supervisory training for an individual. A secretarial-type person is ideal," according to Ms. Hayes.

According to Hayes, salaries for entry level positions in a hospital's medical records department range from $12,500 to $14,500. Of course, if the technician decides to pursue advanced studies in the field and obtains a bachelor's degree, salaries would be higher, Hayes said.

Students who enroll in the College's two-year program are required to complete a prescribed number of weeks' clinical work. Each student is sent to several of 37 hospitals, long term care facilities, or health maintenance facilities to get on-the-job training. One of the program's most recent graduates, Tanya Canady of Hackettstown, formerly of Roselle and Union, describes this part of the program as "exceptional."

The College offers a two-year Associate of Arts degree program that prepares students for a variety of responsibilities. Hayes points out, for example, health organizations depend on medical record technicians to help organize and maintain "tumor registries," which follow the progress of cancer patients and their disease.

Health facilities also need someone to code every disease and operation on to a patient's medical record and then abstract that information and send it to the proper medical organization. And insurance firms use the specialists to handle medical records for payment.

"It's very broad program," Hayes said. "A person can do either very precise work or take the broader angle. The variety is in the program. It's also a field where both young and old work together. Not only do we have the traditional 18 and 19-year-old students in the MRT program, we also have some older women who are returning to the work force."

The medical record technician's starting salary is attractive, considering it takes only two years to complete the pro-

Canady is a 1974 graduate of Union High School. She graduated from Union County College in 1981 and is now Medical Records Director at Welkind Neurological Hospital in Chester in Morris County. According to Canady, "the clinical experience gave us some very good insights into how hospitals run their medical records departments. Without that exposure, I wouldn't feel as confident or as knowledgeable doing what I'm doing." Canady feels the clinical practice helped her relate to what she learned in the classroom, and both phases of the program gave her "a solid foundation" in the field.

Froelich cited by crime unit

Union County Sheriff Ralph Froelich and four of his sheriff's officers were recently honored by the New Jersey-New York Crime Clinic for their courageous efforts in subduing an armed suspect during the defendant's trial.

The five men were presented with a "Unit Citation" by the organization made up of police officers, public officials and private citizens interested in the prevention of crime and the apprehension and conviction of criminals. The group has been honoring outstanding police officers each month since its inception in the 1930s.

Froelich and his officers, Sgt. Joseph Chirichillo and Officers William Kane, Barry Fishler and Richard Rogers, were selected for the award for their actions during the attempted escape of a suspect on trial in the Union County Court House for possession of a dangerous weapon.

All four of the officers were stabbed by the prisoner during the ensuing struggle as he attempted to flee the crowded court room. The prisoner was killed during his capture. The incident occurred on March 30, 1982.

"It goes without saying that I am very proud of my officers and their valiant conduct. They used exceptional restraint during the capture of the suspect, and it was this controlled effort that caused their personal injuries," stated Froelich.

"The officers involved acted professionally and with concern for innocent persons exposed to the danger of a prisoner who had nothing else to lose."

Disc & Data

Pick Of the LPs, "Life On Earth," by David Reilly (MCA Records).

Definitely no stranger to the music business, David Reilly is well known as a singer, songwriter and one of Britain's leading jingle composers. "Life On Earth," his debut on the MCA label, is in harmony with AOR and Top 40 radio formats and marks the blending of his unique musical and lyrical talents.

Recognized for his work with a variety of top recording artists, David is currently composing songs for Cliff Richard's 25th anniversary album and has written special music for a British television documentary of Pope John Paul II's tour of the United Kingdom. Additionally, he's writing songs for an upcoming album by Twiggy, who will soon be making her Broadway musical debut, and is collaborating with Chris Thompson, formerly of Night.

This summer, David will score and compose songs for "Rachel," a new film, starring Alan Bates. he has worked extensively with George Martin of Beatles fame, Gary Brooker of Procol Harum, and co-produced and co-wrote the recent solo album of Sky's Kevin Peek.

Born in Bristol, England, David studied with renown professors of London's Royal College of Music and has a keen sense of the classical music world thanks to his father, Tommy Reilly, one of the world's leading exponents of classical harmonica. David has produced albums for his father and has incorporated the talents of this extraordinary man into his own music and commercials on both sides of the Atlantic.

Together with producer Nick Tauber, who also produced "Thin Lizzy and Toyah," David has expanded his polished style and created an exciting, diverse album containing some of his most probing lyrics to date, especially noticeable on such tracks as "Racing Cars," "Wings Over America," "Space Music" and the title track.

David Reilly — "Life on Earth" — the best of all worlds.

INDUSTRIAL TELEPHONE SALES Kenilworth

Articulate people with strong telephone personality. You'll need intelligence, flexibility, and the confidence to learn technical jargon quickly. We'll teach you what you need to know to do telephone market research and sales but you must bring the basic personal skills and drive to be a success.

We are a 35-year old $15 million carbide products company with the finest products in our industry. We're located in Kenilworth. We enjoy a strong market in the East but we haven't penetrated the Northeast and Mountain states. We've been experimenting, using telephone market research to locate the businesses out West that can buy our products and then using samples and telephone advice to impress potential customers with our product quality. The experiments are paying off and we're starting to get sales there. Now we need aggressive, bright individuals to make calls full time.

You'll be in on the ground floor of this new direction to our company. If you can make it a success then you can look forward to an excellent future in a growing company.

We offer $250/week training salary and once you're trained, you'll get an incentive package that could make you a total of $20,000 in the first year. If you've got what we need there's no limit on where you could go from there. Send resume to B. Collins.

VOICE ALERT—A new feature available in Chrysler Corporation vehicles for 1983 is the electronic voice alert, which actually speaks advisory messages to the driver to buckle up, refuel, or check for potential problems. The voice is transmitted through the radio speaker and can deliver 11 messages and even say, "thank you."

Women going to car clinics

The apprehension many women feel about automobile service, coupled with repair costs, are drawing women in droves to car-care clinics to learn more about how their cars work, says the Automotive Information Council (AIC).

An industry study has found more women than ever before are responsible for the repair and maintenance of their own vehicles. The study shows over 47 percent of women now decide when their car needs servicing and in 40 percent of these cases they alone decide where to take the car for maintenance or repair work.

Car-care clinics for women are sponsored by car manufacturers, tire companies, parts manufacturers, dealerships and repair shops. They usually are free.

In addition, "powder-puff" mechanical classes are taught at many community colleges, through school district adult-education programs and at some YWCAs.

Sponsorship may vary, but the goals are the same...to teach how to care for a car, but not to turn the students into mechanics. All the clinics teach the basics of an automobile, such as how the various components of a car work, and how to perform routine maintenance like checking the oil and other fluids, belts, hoses and tires.

Participants have the opportunity to ask questions of the instructor and many clinics allow the women to gain hands-on experience with the automobile.

Students learn how to give symptoms of automotive difficulties which can help any service facility diagnose the problem and repair it properly the first time.

Snow tires provide necessary traction

The time to think about tires for added traction on snow and pavement is before the first heavy snowstorm hits. "If heavy amounts of precipitation mix with the colder weather again this year, record snows could be dumped on many areas causing extremely hazardous driving conditions," says Donald G. Brotzman, chairman of the Tire Industry Safety Council.

"With their deeper tread, heavier shoulders and wider tread grooves, snow tires provide better traction and quicker starts and stops than conventional passenger tires," Brotzman says.

But Brotzman warns against mixing bias or belted-bias snow tires with radial tires. "If radials are used on the front, radials should be used on the rear regardless of whether the vehicle is front or rear-wheel drive. The handling of a car can be severely affected if you have radials on the front and non-radials on the rear."

Never reduce tire pressure to increase traction on snow or ice or in mud. It doesn't work. Excessive heat buildup from underinflation can damage tires.

During autumn, when outside temperatures begin to drop, tires should be checked frequently because cold weather reduces tire inflation pressure. So don't be surprised when you have to add some air.

Simply by correcting underinflation in their tires, motorists may improve their gasoline mileage by three percent.

Now is also a good time to have your alignment checked. Correct front-end alignment is essential for good tire mileage and safety. Ask your tire service man to check your shock absorbers, too.

Watch for autumn leaves. Even when it's not raining, leaves have a tendency to retain moisture and create a slippery surface for tires.

Take it easy on wet roads. Stopping on a wet road can take up to four times the normal distance required on a dry road. As water accumulates on the road, tires with shallow tread tend to hydroplane as speed increases, particularly over 40 miles an hour.

Check tread and sidewall. Inspect the tires for tread and sidewall cuts and cracks or snags that might expose tire cords.

Don't make sudden turns if you suspect the roadway is slippery. Make smooth, gradual changes, being careful not to oversteer. To prevent slipping, pump rapidly but lightly on your brakes, gradually slowing your car. If you begin to slide, steer to the direction of the skid, foot off the brake pedal until you feel you are in control.

Avoid spinning wheels at high speed on ice or snow. If your car gets stuck, gently rock the vehicle back and forth by alternating between forward and reverse gears. If that doesn't work, get a push or a tow.

Avoid a free-spinning wheel. When one wheel is stuck and the other is not, the free wheel on an axle with a conventional differential gear turns at twice the speedometer speed and can cause the tire to explode, resulting in vehicle damage and personal injury.

Tuneups help starter problem

Last winter, American motorists paid a heavy toll in headaches and inconvenience when their cars wouldn't start.

Twenty-six percent of all cars on the road—more than 1 out of every 4 in the nation—experienced at least one bout with starting failure last year, according to a Champion Spark Plug Company survey. The statistic represents a dramatic increase from the 21 percent a year earlier.

Harsher winter weather can be blamed for some of the increase, but only because automobiles were not prepared, David L. Walker, Champion's director of automotive technical services, said.

"Despite a lack of proper pre-winter maintenance and engine service in 1980-81, mild weather allowed motorists to slip through the cold season, but those who tried in this past year found the weather to be a stiffer challenge," Walker said. "I'm sure many car owners will think twice before deferring maintenance this fall."

The 26 percent figure for starting failures last winter was the highest total since 1977-78, Champion statistics show.

Walker said that the current survey reaffirms that engine tune-ups are the heart of reducing starting problems. Last winter, 12 percent of motorists bought new batteries, compared to 11 percent the year before. On the other hand, 25 percent had pre-winter tune ups, down from 28 percent in the previous winter.

"In other words, more persons bought batteries, fewer bought tune-ups, and more had headaches with winter starting," he said.

"Many motorists continue to believe that weak batteries are the cause of starting failures, and therefore figure that a new battery will solve all possible problems. However, a weak battery is usually symptomatic of deeper ills. The battery gets ground down in futile starting attempts, and that's why recharging or replacing batteries is only a temporary measure."

Walker explained that the battery is only one of the items that may be responsible for dependable starting. Defective components, wear, or improper adjustment of the ignition system all affect the engine's ability to deliver satisfactory voltage and start.

Voltage available from the ignition system must exceed the voltage required by the spark plugs to cause the engine to fire, he said. Worn spark plugs, reversed coil polarity, defective plug wires, a lean carburetor mix, and retarded ignition timing are a few of the more obvious things that can increase the voltage required.

"Often during warm or dry weather, such high-voltage requirements go unnoticed, but the coming of winter weather can cause engine-starting headaches to begin," Walker said.

Battery-starting ability drops 15 percent when the thermometer reaches 32 degrees F., and at zero degrees, starting power drops 35 percent.

The natural impact of cold temperatures on the battery is one way in which available voltage for starting is reduced. It can also be curtailed by a cracked distributor cap or a shorted coil, he added.

The Champion survey also shows that starting problems in winter are a national concern, and not limited to northern areas. New England had the highest incidence of starting failure—30 percent. But all parts of the country had significant hard starting. The lowest percentage in the nation was in the South Atlantic region, but even there, 23 percent of motorists had at least one taste of hard starting.

As might be expected, the incidence of starting trouble is lowest among late-model cars, but even then 6 percent of 1982 cars experienced starting problems.

Majority of drivers fail to check brakes

Only around a third of the people polled in a Car Care Council survey on brakes say they have their brakes checked regularly.

The random sampling involved 138 office workers and 25 students in the Detroit area — where automotive savvy traditionally is supposed to be strong.

In response to the question: "Do you have your brakes checked now and then to see if they are okay or do you generally just ignore them unless they show some symptoms, such as squeaking, a low pedal, pulling or grabbing?" 82 office workers and 16 students said they'd ignore them while only 46 office workers and nine students indicated they have them checked "now and then."

On the question, "To your knowledge, should repacking the wheel bearings and installing new grease seals be part of a normal brake reline job?" only 44 office workers and eight students indicated "yes," while 24 office workers and three students replied "no" and 64 office workers and 13 students admitted they didn't know.

Indiana University's Institute for Research in Public Safety reports 14 percent of accidents it investigated were probably caused by defects in the vehicles, attributed principally to lack of maintenance. Brakes lead the list.

While nothing beats a close examination of a car's brake systems by a competent technician, there are several checks the car owner can make.

1. Check the fluid reservoir in the master cylinder. It's on the firewall. Be sure there is no dirt around the cap before removing it; then remove the cap (it may be secured with clips or it may be the screw-on type) note if the reservoir is full. If it is not, add clean fluid of the type specified in the owner's manual. Consistently low fluid level indicates a leak. Have it checked and corrected.

2. Give your brakes the fade-away test. Apply pressure to the pedal and hold it down. If your foot tends to fall toward the floor, you may have a leak in the hydraulic system. If the pedal feels spongy, there may be air bubbles trapped in the system.

3. Try stopping, hands off the steering wheel, to see if the brake system provides an even stop. Do this at about 20 mph in a safe, open area such as a vacant shopping center parking lot. Surface should be level and dry. If the car tends to pull one way or the other, have the brakes checked by a mechanic.

The fuel filter needs change

Before leaving on any vacation, check the car's fuel system. Poor acceleration and surging at cruising speeds can indicate your car's fuel filter needs to be changed.

Before any fuel reaches the engine, it has to pass through the fuel filter located near, or sometimes inside, the carburetor.

Often neglected, the fuel filter can become clogged with rust or sediment from the gas tank, causing hard starts, sluggish performance and eventually serious carburetor problems.

It can also stop the car dead in its tracks.

Replacing the car's fuel filter twice a year can prevent costly repairs while maintaining a smooth-running engine. Car Care Council says.

PAUL NEWMAN, who has a second career besides acting as a racecar driver, is speaking out on the importance of using safety belts.

Newman speaks out for using seat belts

Actor Paul Newman is making rare appearances on television and radio this fall to carry a safety message that the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration feels will have a dramatic impact on American driving habits.

Newman has lent his support to the National Safety Belt Education Campaign in combating the declining use of belts by emphasizing his "second career" as a successful professional automobile racing driver.

The theme of the 30-second television and 60-second radio messages is "Belt Yourself," as developed by Nissan U.S.A., which is sponsoring the safety program along with local Datsun dealers, including Springfield Imported Motors.

Newman, a two-time national sports car racing champion who currently drives a turbocharged Datsun 280zx in competition, declares that race-car driving is actually safer than driving on the street "because the drivers are professionals and you know what to expect."

"Still I wouldn't dream of taking a lap without belting myself," he says. "And, when it comes to the real tricky part...the drive home, the very first thing I do is buckle-up."

Faulty roads damage car

If the car seems to need front-end alignments almost as frequently as it needs gas, you'll probably find the problem under the car—on the roads you're using.

Following savage winter weather last year, more than half of the paved road network in the U.S. was labeled substandard by a highway research group.

"More than a million miles of roadway in America now suffer from bad surface conditions and need resurfacing or rebuilding as soon as possible," says Donald S. Knight, executive director of The Road Information Program.

"Driving on bad roads has become a very expensive problem for motorists. Bad-road driving costs the average motorist more than $200 every year for wasted fuel, added vehicle repairs and excess tire wear."

It's been estimated that when spring finally arrived in the snowbelt country, there was one pothole for every man, woman and child in America.

In Detroit, a city whose roads were belted by one of the worst winters on record a newspaper contest urged readers to nominate Michigan's worst pothole. The prize: $200 in cash and — fittingly — a pothole award trophy based on a hubcap and designed by a student at The Center for Creative Studies.

At the depth of the pothole crisis, James Watts, director of Detroit's Public Works Department, found himself discussing the problem with City Council, meeting — appropriately enough — as the "Committee of the Whole."

Gearing up for the onslaught, Watts' department divided the city into three sections — 15 trucks per section assigned to patrolling and patching potholes. Meanwhile, two radio units monitored reports of fresh sightings and referred them for action within 24 hours.

Despite this yoman effort, Watts later commented: "We're not nearly as far in the hole as I thought we'd be — so to speak."

Bounding over poor road surfaces can boost tire wear along by as much as 150 percent and double the need for repairs to brake, steering and suspension systems, according to TRIP data.

Traditionally, road repairs have been funded with revenues from taxes on gasoline. But as cars became more fuel-efficient and started burning less fuel, revenues from fuel taxes started declining. One result is that road work is being postponed at record pace. Although potholes plague drivers every winter, the situation worsened in the past year as roadways, already in bad shape, suffered additional damage under the winter's record ice, snow and cold.

"There's little indication that the situation is going to get much better in the near future," Knight says.

"The current backlog of repairs will take nearly a decade to fix and we'd have to double the amount of money now being spent on road repairs to pay for it.

"Again this year, our roads and cars are at the mercy of Mother Nature as we head into another winter."

Retread tires

The retread automobile tire business appears to be posting its best year since the end of World War II, with sales forecasted to top 28 million by the end of the year. And they'd be higher, says Tire Retread Information Bureau, if there were more tires for retreading.

Cold causes havoc with engine

Driving habits and conditions tend to be different during the winter's cold and often inclement weather.

Faced with bad weather, many drivers may stick closer to home, driving shorter distances more frequently.

A winter of short-trip driving can put excessive wear and tear on the engine, transmission and other components, because it takes several miles of driving to warm up a car to operating efficiency, says the Automotive Information Council.

Frequent cold starts also are hard on the complete electrical system - battery, plugs, wiring, etc.

The same practices that can guard against excessive winter engine wear can help get better gasoline mileage.

Try to combine many short trips into one trip with several stops. Planning ahead can reduce the number of stops.

Fewer stops mean better gas mileage, too, and a car is easier to start once it has been warmed up.

Short-trip driving also requires that the engine oil and filter be changed more frequently. Short trips allow moisture to collect in the crankcase, diluting the oil.

Clean oil lubricates the engine with a protective film that prevents metal-to-metal contact and resulting wear, and keeps the engine interior clean by gathering contaminants and holding them in suspension for removal by the filter.

If the oil is dirty and isn't changed often enough along with the filter, sludge can coat and clog the engine oil passages, which can result in costly repairs.

Before winter sets in, have the spark plugs checked out and replaced if necessary. This not only insures sure-fire starts that next sub-zero morning, but a tune-up with fresh plugs can provide more than 11 percent improvement in fuel economy.

Plugs should routinely be changed at least once a year.

Once the engine has been started, avoid lengthy 10 or 15 minute warm-ups.

They're not only gas wasters; they could even damage the engine, says David L. Walker, director of Champion Spark Plug Company's Automotive Technical Services Department.

Even at below zero temperatures, most cars need to be running only a few minutes at the very most to be warm enough to operate. Normally 30 seconds is sufficient. Reach cruising speed quickly for most efficient operation.

Try to keep warm by turning up the temperature and letting vent pressure alone force heated air through the car.

Drive slower than normal when bucking a headwind.

Shut off power-consuming accessories before turning off the ignition so the engine load is minimized for the next start. Don't rev the engine before shutting it off.

Make sure the engine is operating at the proper temperature.

Too cold an engine can significantly increase fuel consumption. An engine running at 125 degrees instead of its normal 180 degrees may be wasting one gallon out of every ten.

At a cool 100 degree engine temperature, the loss increased to one gallon out of four.

Have the thermostat checked now and tested; many do-it-yourselfers play it safe and automatically install a new unit once they have taken the trouble to remove the old one.

Keep the tires up to factory recommended pressure. A nine-percent improvement in fuel consumption is possible with properly inflated tires, a clean air filter and the fan belts tightened to specification.

Taking precautions

The editors of Popular Mechanics Magazine say these are things you should keep in your car if you so you will be prepared if caught in a blizzard.

Red flares (for protection against plows and to help guide rescuers).

Two fresh, powerful flashlights.

Blankets.

Heavy sweaters, parkas, double mittens and strong lacing for parka hoods.

Skier's face masks with very small eye slits.

One knife for slitting seat cushions or other emergency use.

Several cans of canned heat; or several thick candles and tin cans to put them in.

Full gas tank. Buffalo drivers who ran their engines without stop burned eight gallons overnight. (Run your engine intermittently to prevent carbon monoxide poisoning.)

Old cycle displayed

The idea of a motorized bike gave birth to Henry Ford's first automobile. When the auto pioneer built his first internal combustion engine, his intention was to develop a motor he could mount on his bicycle. He abandoned the plan because of the weight of the engine.

Other pioneer developers of motorized vehicles, however, continued to concentrate on developing a fast and efficient motorcycle. Twenty one of the most important of these vehicles, built in the United States, Germany, France and England, are now on exhibit at the Henry Ford Museum, Dearborn, Mich. The collection includes an 1892 DeDion Bouton motor tricycle that represents the transition from bicycle to automobile, a 1903 Aster and 1904 Indian as representatives of some of the first motorcycles used in America, and a 1909 motorcycle built by a manufacturer that continues in business today.

The exhibit also includes a 1919 Excelsior Model 20 owned by Charles A. Lindbergh and 1894 Hildebrand and Wolfmuller, from Germany, the world's first commercially produced motorcycle.

Studs OK for safety

The California State Automobile Association offers these precautions to help foster safety and prolong the life of studded snow tires:

- * Be sure the tire is properly mounted on the rim and inflated to prescribed pressure.

- * Always use the same tire on the same wheel. Do not rotate tires from one side of the car to the other.

- * Be sure the direction of travel rotation remains the same to prevent pitching the metal studs from the tire tread.

- * Remember, useable tread depth must be at least 1/32-inch in any two adjacent grooves for the tire to be roadworthy.

- * Inspect all tires before installing to be sure they are free from punctures, cuts, bruises, separations and foreign objects in sidewalls and tread surfaces.

61-day drive

The trip from San Francisco to Newark took 61 days in 1902. Tom Fetch, an auto plant foreman, made the first transcontinental motor trip in a one-cylinder Packard affectionately nicknamed Old Pacific.

The car now is in the Henry Ford Museum collection, Dearborn, Mich.

Customers satisfied by servicing of cars

Automotive service satisfaction has very high marks in a survey just released by the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration.

The survey shows that 90 percent of service customers rated their satisfaction at over seven on a scale of one to 10. The average level was a high 8.9.

Sixty-four percent scored their satisfaction at a perfect 10, while 10 percent gave it a nine, 11 percent an eight and 5 percent a seven. Other rankings: 2 percent a six, 3 percent a five, 1 percent each for four, three, two and 2 percent a one.

The NHTSA study included in-depth interviews with 2,434 consumers who were asked about their level of satisfaction with their most recent repair or service work.

It covered those who had work done at dealerships, independent garages, mass merchandisers, specialty shops and service stations.

This survey, considered the most comprehensive ever done on auto service, should dispel past generalized criticism, says the Automotive Information Council (AIC), which it said vindicates those engaged in this important industry which makes our freedom of mobility the envy of the world.

The most frequently mentioned positive remarks were: Quality of work, professional service, consistently reliable work, no trouble encountered.

AIC points out that in recent years the entire industry has made comprehensive efforts to elevate service performance to its current level. Every segment of the industry has been involved in training programs, better and more instructional materials have been created and mechanics themselves take difficult tests to reach certification by the National Institute for Automotive Service Excellence.

These long-term efforts obviously have paid off, says AIC.

Front window must be clean

Autumn brings early darkness and foul weather driving conditions. To be sure you can see and be seen by others while driving in the fall and winter months, the Automotive Parts & Accessories Association recommends you make these followin checks:

Lights: Inspect and clean headlights, tail lights, back-up, stop lights, turn signals and emergency flashers. Check for broken lenses.

Windshield/Mirrors: Inspect all glass for flaws and scratches. Check morrors for cracks and any mounting problems.

Wipers: Streaks or noisy squeaky blades indicate inefficient blades. If squeaking, check the arm tension. If streaking, replace the blade. If the wipers fail to operate, check the fuse first, then the wiring and switch.

Reducing repair cost consumer objective

It's no secret that the cost of repairing a car has risen to astronomical heights.

Not only has the price of auto parts skyrocketed, but a mechanic's time averages around $30 an hour. Multiply that by the number of hours usually needed to fix a simple repair, and it's no wonder that consumers are looking for less expensive ways to keep cars in good running order.

Techniques to cut down car repair costs are outlined in a study, "Cost Effectiveness of Automotive Products," by The Aerosol Packaging Council. The study compares the costs of alternate methods of auto repairs. Some of the repairs include: cleaning auto brakes, fixing flat tires, cleaning and degreasing engines, carb and choke cleaning and decal removal from wood panels.

For example, use of an aerosol to clean brakes saved the consumer $133.70. The cleaning could be done while the brake is assembled with other materials, the brake had to be taken apart, which took five times as long to do.

For a free copy of this study, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to: Cost Effectiveness of Automotive Products, 592 Fifth Avenue, (9th Floor), New York, NY 10036.

Check, clean weatherstripping

The automobile needs the same attention in preparing for winter that houses receive, the Automotive Parts & Accessories Association points out.

Much as storm doors and windows, car doors and windows should be cleaned and the weatherstripping checked to assure they are sealed properly. APAA director of technical services Tim Tierney says.

The weatherstrips should be given a bath with mild soap and water, then lubricated with a silicone spray.

Inspect the windshield washing system to see that it will operate through the winter. This should include checking the hoses for cracks or dry rot, cleaning the spray nozzles and adjusting them so the washer solvent hits the proper area of the windshield.

Check for cracked or worn windshield wiper blades, particularly if they have not been replaced in the past four months. If the blade chatters or streaks when wiping across the windshield, replace the blade and the arm.

Next, check the tail light lenses. If they are cracked or broken, water or ice could collect in them and cause the bulbs to fail.

You wouldn't want to go into winter without a properly working furnace and a properly working radiator.

Check the protection level of the antifreeze in the radiator. If the coolant hasn't been changed in the past year or so, flush the cooling system and give the radiator fresh antifreeze. Check the radiator cap, the hoses, belts and, on most cars with air-conditioning, the hot water valve.

A properly tuned engine is a must for winter driving. If the car has been tuned recently, have the timing, idle speed setting and automatic choke checked. Be sure the choke is not binding or sticking.

The oil and filter probably needs changing and you may want to use a lighter weight oil than normal if you live in a cold climate. Lubricate the suspension for winter protection too.

(Here's a special tip to owners of cars with front-wheel drive: If the rubber boots covering the constants velocity joints on the axles are cracked or torn, snow or ice could settle in them and severely damage the joints.)

Obviously, your battery has to get through the winter. Check the electrolyte level and make sure the battery cables are clean, unfrayed, unbroken and uncorroded.

Finally, APAA's director of technical services suggests you add some items to your trunk, including tire chains, emergency flares, a piece of wood and a small bag of kitty litter.

The wood should be large enough to put under the base of the jack in case a tire has to be changed. The kitty litter will provide extra traction on ice.

"Much of what you do will reduce your fuel bills and reduce your chances of needing a service call," Tim Tierney adds.

Automotive industry maintains even keel

What would this nation be without a viable automotive industry?

It's frightening prospect to consider because the economic foundation of the U.S. revolves around the auto sector and without it the economic situation in the country would be in chaos, says the Automotive Information Council (AIC).

Continued erosion of the domestic auto industry—spurred by imports, high wage rates and high interest rates—threatens the country's entire industrial base, says AIC.

Automobile manufacturing is a major consumer of the products of the basic industries, taking 20 percent of the nation's steel production, 30 percent of ferrous casting, 26 percent of flat glass, 60 percent of synthetic rubber, 11 percent of plastics and 9 percent of paint.

Therefore, when a car is not sold, or when an import is sold, the basic industries suffer proportionately, as do the companies and employees in the component-making businesses.

The auto slowdown has placed 200,000 auto workers on indefinite layoff and they have been joined by 400,000 in the supplier industries. In addition, more than 2,000 dealers went out of business in a year.

The servicing end also has been affected with untold thousands out of work because of reduced repair work and business closings. Most are likely never to return to work unless a dramatic turnaround occurs. Their lack of purchasing power also reflects on other types of businesses.

Squeezed by high import sales and high U.S. labor rates, the auto companies have suffered huge financial losses and have had to postpone and cancel plans for new job-producing factories.

The car makers therefore are seeking some wage relief to narrow the $8 to $10 per-hour differential between the U.S. auto worker and his Japanese counterpart. That spread, plus Japanese tax exemptions, allows a Japanese smaller car to be landed on our shores for an average cost about $1,500 under our own.

Faulty thermostat should be replaced

The car is overheating—no question about that. Yet the overflow reservoir is full and the fluid inside it is cold. The fanbelt's in place and in good shape.

Probably the thermostat's stuck shut. Replacing it generally is the best solution.

A stuck thermostat can happen anytime, but it often occurs in warm weather when the temperature inside a car's cooling system can boil up to 300 degrees.

After installing the new thermostat, check to be sure the coolant level is up to par.

Vacuum carpets on regular basis

Keep your car's deep pile carpets in first-class condition by vacuuming them regularly. This is particularly important after a tough Northern winter when slush from boots and galoshes leaves behind residues of salt and sand.

A household vacuum cleaner connected to a power source inside the home will do nicely. In addition, many auto accessory outlets offer car vacuums that run off the power supply to the car's cigarette lighter.

Radiator leaks need sealants

Back when the Model T was king of the road, folks had a handy way to fix a leak in their car's radiator.

Small leaks could be plugged up nicely with a little amount of what horses conveniently left in the middle of the street. Trouble was, the plug sometimes clogged another area within the cooling system.

Radiators have come a long way since then, but cooling system leaks are still serious problems when they happen.

The trick in solving the problem is yet basically the same: use something which will plug the leak and keep it plugged but not clog the rest of the system.

For many years, stop-leak products have tried to do this, but with varying results and limitations. Recently, scientists at Union Carbide's Prestone labs developed a new chemical technology which, according to the manufacturer, dramatically outperforms previously available remedies.

Called "Super Sealer," the new Prestone formula seals leaks larger than other standard products have been able to stop.

But the real breakthrough, according to Prestone scientists, is that the increase in performance is achieved without clogging the rest of the cooling system.

"There's no fear of clogging," reports lab director Richard Wolstoncroft, "because the new formula actually uses less solid matter than other sealers have all along."

Auto service specialists agree that motorists should always check coolant levels whenever they stop for gas. That way, leaks can be spotted before they cause serious damage to the car's engine.

And with the new Prestone "Super Sealer" technology, there's a quick remedy available for small troubles which could cause major headaches if ignored. If you do find a leak in your radiator, you don't need to look for a horse anymore.

Woolley Fuel offers best premium diesel

It was about 15 years ago when Woolley Fuel Company of Maplewood purchased its first new diesel powered heating oil delivery truck. Its operation was so satisfactory and efficient that when Woolley bought another, it was also diesel powered.

When Mercedes and General Motors diesel cars became popular, Woolley thought that with its experience and knowledge of diesel fuels, Woolley could pass this along to consumers for their benefit.

Woolley then installed the first card operated diesel fuel pump in the east. Woolley formed a Diesel Card Club and when diesel fuel is purchased, it records the card number and gallons on a computer at the office and is billed monthly.

Woolley has found that with careful quality control and winterizing fuel in season, a large gallonage from satisfied customers has resulted. Many of Woolley's accounts come from great distances to purchase their fuel from Woolley because it is a super premium diesel fuel.

Talk with mechanic before he services

A pamphlet which advises car owners how to best deal with mechanics is available without charge from the Automotive Information Council.

Entitled "Communicate with Your Mechanic and Save," the folder offers tips on how to describe problems to the mechanic or service writer, suggests preparation of a written list of problems, tells how to select a service facility and what to look for when doing it, how to make better use of the owner's manual and other points of advice.

Both government and industry studies show that the biggest reason for service complaints is a lack of proper communication between the car owner and the service facility. AIC says the folder will help eliminate those problems.

Single copies are available free by sending a self-addressed stamped envelope to Automotive Information Council, 28333 Telegraph Road, Southfield, MI 48034. They also can be ordered in quantity, at $4 per hundred copies, postage-paid. Space is provided for an organization's imprint.

AIC said the folder is an ideal giveaway for civic organizations, associations, service facilities, parts stores and others interested in promoting better auto service.

In urging recommended maintenance, the AIC folder states: "Take care of your car and it will take care of you."

CHAMPION'S NEW

'COPPER PLUS'

IT CAN START YOUR CAR WHEN OTHER SPARK PLUGS WON'T.

Today's smaller engines—be they import or domestic—all offer you one significant advantage: improved gas mileage.

But along with this significant advantage may come some significant disadvantages:

Hard starting. No starting. Or low-speed stumbling caused by fouling deposits on the spark plug.

For the problems you may be experiencing, Champion has developed a solution:

'Copper Plus,' a new design of long-nosed spark plugs that can fight low-speed fouling twice as effectively as older spark plugs.

Every plug in the 'Copper Plus' program has a long insulator nose. Among the design features that make this possible are a wide insulator base, special thermal bonding, exclusive 522 nickel alloy electrodes and, where needed, a nucleus of highly conductive copper.

Best of all, because of their long-nose design, new 'Copper Plus' spark plugs can start your car when other plugs won't.

You save over $35 off our regular low price

First, the entire interior of your car is cleaned and shampooed to like-new condition. (Front and Rear Seats, Center Console, Door Panels, Rear Storage Area, Door Jams, Kick Panels, Carpets, Floor Mats, Dashboard, Ash Trays, Sun Visors.)

Next, your engine is sprayed with a degreasing solvent, pressure-cleaned and dried. Then, your car is completely washed.

Next, your vinyl top is hand-scrubbed, rinsed and dried. Then, a Special Conditioner and Sealer is applied for maximum vinyl protection.

Then, your car is machine-buffed with a Special cleaning polish by our Experts. All oxidation and road film is removed. If necessary, a mild rubbing compound is also applied.

And then, a thick coating of High-Lustre Polycoating is applied. Or, if you prefer, high quality Simoniz paste wax is also available.

Our final touches: Rubber bumper pads and tires get a special sealant. All trunk, door, and hood hinges are lubricated. The windshield solution reservoir is checked and filled ... and a Special Conditioner and Sealer is applied to your dash area and to the vinyl roof for extra protection against harsh Winter weather. Plus - every window is cleaned ... inside and out, and your entire car is hand-detailed to a streak-free finish.

Regular Price for these services would normally be over $125.00. But this SPECIAL PACKAGE is available during our Promotion for only $89.95! That's a savings of over THIRTY-FIVE DOLLARS.
