Mountain Ave. Bridge may close during summer

The Mountain Avenue Bridge may be closed for three months for repairs this summer, it was announced at Tuesday night's Borough Council meeting.

Should the 50-year-old bridge be closed, traffic would have to be rerouted along local streets. The renovations, which would be entirely financed by the state, are to mainly upgrade the bridge so it could better withstand heavy traffic. A pedestrian walkway would also be constructed on each side of the bridge.

Borough Engineer Robert Koser estimated that it would take three months to complete the work.

Council members raised concerns that the closing of the bridge, located between Tanglewood Lane and Route 22 on Mountain Avenue, might cause problems for residents who use the municipal pool, which is adjacent to the span.

The matter was referred to the Roads Committee which will study alternatives and make recommendations.

In other business, it was announced that Planners Diversified, consultants to the borough, have initiated a feasibility study on the best location for the proposed community center. The firm has begun to conduct a survey of local companies to see if the businesses may have a location they could offer as a site for the center.

The council placed a resolution on the agenda of its next meeting to create a new street. The new street is planned for a plot of land off of Summit Road where there is currently a dirt path. If the resolution is approved, Miami Court would be the name of the street.

Mayor Bruce Geiger, reiterating a theme he made during his inaugural message last week, discussed his plans for the creation of a citizens committee that would explore ways local government can encourage volunteerism.

Geiger said that the committee should study how neighboring towns get citizens involved in volunteer community work. He asked council members for suggestions on how the committee should carry out its task. He made no nominations to the committee.

Geiger also discussed two other citizens committees he would like to see created. One would study the use of a computer system for the borough or data processing and record retention and retrieval for borough departments. The second committee would study ways the borough can improve its employee benefits and insurance practices.

The mayor also asked the council for recommendations for nominees for a deputy assessor on the Tax Assessment Board. Councilman Robert Vigilanti suggested that former Mayor Thomas Ricciardi be asked to serve on the board.

Snow closes borough schools

The winter's first snowstorm, which began Tuesday night, deposited about 5-6 inches in the area, causing all schools in Mountainside and the majority in Union County, to close.

Dr. Donald Merachnik, superintendent of the regional high schools which includes Jonathan Dayton, announced the closing of regional high schools 5 a.m. yesterday. "The ice base was just too bad. We couldn't expect our 65 school buses to run on it," Merachnik said.

Robert Koser, borough engineer, said snow removal operations in the borough went "good." Koser said 10 plows began clearing the streets about 11 p.m. Tuesday night. As of yesterday morning, the plows were still operating. Koser said yesterday, "We should be finished up this morning with the streets and then we will plow the school parking lots. After that, we will salt and cinder the roads."

Police reported one accident on Route 22 West when a man skidded on the icy roadway and struck a utility pole shortly before midnight.

10-hour SAT course scheduled

The Westfield YWCA is accepting registration for a five-week P.S.A.T. and S.A.T. Course for high school juniors and seniors scheduled to begin on Monday, Jan. 23 from 7 to 9 p.m. and continuing for five Mondays.

The 10-hour series will review math and verbal skills in preparation for upcoming testing dates. Practice tools will be supplied. Class size is limited so advance registration is required. The fee is $50 for the five sessions.

Call the YWCA, 220 Clark Street at 233-2833 for more information.

The YWCA, in cooperation with the Washington Rock Girl Scout Council, will sponsor a seminar, "Taking On Leadership," on Saturday, 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the Westfield YWCA.

During this four hour training program, awareness club members and girl scouts will be given an opportunity to gain an understanding of leadership, to learn about themselves as leaders, to learn skills and attributes of different leadership styles and be able to practice leadership skills through group participation.

For more information call the Westfield YWCA at 233-2833 or the Washington Rock Girl Scout Council at 232-3236.

The YWCA will have a trip to "Alvin and the Chipmunks," In Search Of The Magic Camera, at the Felt Forum on Monday, Feb. 20, 11 a.m. performance.

The adventure features 20 musical production numbers. Dancing bananas and singing crocodiles star and become part of the show as action takes place on both the stage and in the audience.

Children from 4 years through the second grade may register for the trip. The children will be chaperoned and mothers are welcomed, too. Bring a bag lunch and juice.

Buses will leave the YWCA, 220 Clark Street at 9:30 a.m. and return at 3 p.m. Cost is $15 for YW members and $18 for all others. Reservation deadline is tomorrow.

Also, the YWCA is holding a one-week trip to historical Charleston, S.C.—in Azalea Time, April 12-18. The oldest urban environment in America, Charleston is a museum in itself featuring Colonial and antebellum homes, lived in by direct descendants of people who inhabited them 200 years ago.

One spends four nights at the Mills House Holiday Inn, one of Charleston's elegant and well known hotels built in 1855 in the heart of the city. While in Charleston, the 37th Annual Festival of Houses will be in progress.

The oldest landscaped gardens in America, Middleton Place, are also to be visited. Laid out in 1741, the terraces, allees and ornamental lake reflect the symmetry and elegance of earlier French and English gardens. Azaleas will be abundant at this time.

An optional tour will be the Monday Evening Candlelight Gala, offering an opportunity to sample the graceful and romantic lifestyle that has characterized the city for centuries. Join Charleston in the stately candlelit drawing rooms of two great house museums, the Nathaniel Russell House and the Edmonston-Alston House for an evening of wine, music and conversation.

Reservations are being taken for a limited number of accommodations. A $75 deposit is required and the remainder due March 7. A detailed itinerary will be given all registrants. Call 233-2833 for further information.

(Following is a complete text of Mayor Bruce Geiger's speech upon taking office last week.)

"As I was preparing my remarks for tonight I was struck by the probability that any attempt to predict events of the next four years would be incomplete and inaccurate at best. This feeling was reinforced this morning when all of the networks were carrying the story of the success that Jesse Jackson had in gaining the release of one of our navy flyers. Twenty five years ago this black man would not have been served at a lunch counter in a drug store in the south. Today he is a candidate for president. We live in a wonderful country.

"All of my life experiences have given me confidence that we, as a community, can meet the problems and challenges of the future.

"I am personally grateful that I can work with these members of council, for they are all highly qualified, well motivated and each of them is dedicated to our community. I am confident that although we may disagree on occasion we will all work toward the same goals.

"The members of the various boards and committees are similarly qualified and well motivated and they give freely of their time and talents. I express to them by best wishes and convey to them the thanks of the community.

"The employees and volunteers that staff our emergency services are special people that routinely perform in an outstanding manner in responding to the call for help. The police, fire and rescue squad people respond to the call, at any time, in any weather, and they do this at great personal sacrifice and many times they have risked their lives during the course of their duties. Mountainside has in the past and always will support these people in their special needs.

"We have, in Mountainside, wonderfully talented, residents; a group of highly motivated officials and volunteers and excellent employees. The Borough is in excellent financial shape and there is nothing to worry about during the next four years.

"Well almost nothing. How can we pay for the running expenses of the community center that is or is not going to be built on the Barnes tract or elsewhere?"

"Will the budget cap law and the PBA negotiations lead us to reduction of force or regionalization?"

"What is the least cost housing responsibility of Mountainside under the Mt. Laurel II decision?"

"Will the local school board help us find building space for the community center?"

"What does it mean when the Regional Board says it will keep all schools open for four years? What happens the day after?"

Well, I could go on but you get the idea. We have a few things to consider!

"I am confident that we can meet the challenges of the future and continue the tradition of maintaining Mountainside as a good place to call home.

"Very shortly, I will appoint three citizen committees that will be challenged to bring to the Borough Council the best report possible in the following areas:

1. The use of computers for data processing and records retention and retrieval for the Police, Building, Zoning, Court and business office.

2. To study the insurance and employee benefit programs and to make recommendations regarding their adequacy, cost and to determine whether self insurance makes sense.

3. To study the volunteerism in our community to inventory what is now being done, what is being done in other communities and what can the local Government do to encourage people to help each other.

"I urge people with special experience, education or talent in these areas to submit a letter to the Borough administrator outlining these qualifications. I will ask the Borough Council to help choose the members.

"The greatest challenge in the eighties for all local Government is to allocate limited financial resources in the most effective manner. I am confident that your mayor and council will do the job well. Thank you."

Franks wants repeal of 'Inheritance Tax'

Assemblyman Bob Franks (R-22) said recently the state's two percent 16 percent Inheritance Tax "is the most onerous element" of the state tax structure and should be repealed. He said he applauds efforts by legislative leaders and "signals" from Governor Thomas Kean that a compromise might be developed to phase out the tax over a 5-10 year period.

Kean has threatened to veto a bill passed by the legislature which would phase out the tax over three years. Kean spokesmen have cited the impact on budget procedures by the sudden loss of the $185 million in revenues from the tax.

"Obviously, I understand the governor's concern if the legislature does not identify replacement revenue to relieve the impact of a short-term repealer," Franks said. "That's why a negotiated, long-term repealer is in the best interests of everyone."

Franks said the tax is very unpopular because it drives capital out of the state, forces heirs to sell off real property to meet tax obligations and amounts to "a tax on already taxed assets."

"The tax was created several years ago to solve a short term fiscal problem but has become a long term headache," Franks noted. "Regrettably, it has remained on the books and provides significant revenues used over the years to balance state budgets."

He said a long term phase out would "dilute" the budget impact of the repeal.

"The stage is set for compromise," Franks said. "I will support any initiative that removes the inheritance tax from the tax structure that does not create intolerable budget problems."

Performance slated for PTA meeting

An unusual program will be featured at the Jan. 19 general membership meeting of the Mountainside PTA, according to President Sandi Arthur.

Library meeting

MOUNTAINSIDE—The annual meeting of the Board of Trustees of the Mountainside Public Library and the January meeting will be held in the Emma Weber Meeting Room of the Library Monday, 8 p.m.

PRESCRIPTION FOR FUN—Dr. and Mrs. Thomas C. Rommer of Puddingstone Road, Mountainside, are shown arriving at the recent annual dinner dance of the Newark Beth Israel Medical Center medical-dental staff at the Crestmont Country Club. Dr. Rommer, who directs the Cardiac Rehabilitation Program at the medical center, is immediate past president of the medical staff. Mrs. Rommer is past president of the NBIMC Auxiliary.

SUICIDE AWARENESS DISCUSSION—Participating in suicide awareness and prevention discussions are (from left) David Brearley Regional High School Director of Guidance Monroe Nestler, Brearley counselor Nancy Nelson and students Ken Gries, Maria Maley and Tony Costa. Discussions are part of Union County Regional School District's ongoing program to stay on top of such serious issues that plague students today.

David Brearley students attend seminars on suicide awareness

KENILWORTH—Teen stresses imposed by school pressures, jobs, peers, parents and career selection can sometimes lead to suicide or attempted suicide. And of the suicides tried, three times as many boys as girls succeed. These facts and more were presented to 734 David Brearley Regional High School students during week-long presentations in English classrooms. The purpose was to make students aware of the problem and instruct them on dealing with pressure and suicide prevention.

"Kids need to be aware that there are people who care and who can help," said Brearley Director of Guidance Monroe Nestler. "Our department can provide these students with as much information that is available and also make referrals, if necessary. We want them to know we are sensitive to their needs."

workshop for counselors and psychologists of the Union County Regional High School District No. 1, the program utilized a guide, "Teenage Suicide," prepared by Maureen Underwood, a social worker from St. Clares Hospital, Denver. The faculty was then presented with the materials and objectives, and their help solicited.

Fishing clinic will begin at Brearley next month

KENILWORTH—The Watching Saltwater Fishing Club begins its 16th year of fishing instruction at David Brearley Regional High School in Kenilworth next month. Acknowledged experts and club members will present both inshore and offshore blue water courses. The courses are coordinated by John Wilkinson—contributing author to The Fisherman. With the club's years of teaching experience, and a committee with literally centuries of fishing experience, Watching is an experienced New Jersey group conducting fishing clinics.

An outgrowth of an in-service concentrating on offshore, giant tuna, and shark fishing, work with fishing electronics, rig baits, study some fish biology/behavior, and a little navigation. Pete Barrett, editor of The Fisherman; Steve Pepe, captain of the charter boat "Sabre"; Al Ristore, famous author and fisherman's council representative; Doug Rusch, offshore specialist from Sportman's Outfitters; and representatives from nationally known marine electronics firms will be the featured speakers.

The results evolved into 50-minute presentations to the students on the historical perspectives of suicide, personal and cultural attitudes toward suicide, evaluating suicidal potential and offering suggestions on what to do about feelings regarding suicide.

"I'm very much concerned because adolescent suicide is a high-incidence national problem," said Superintendent of Schools Dr. Donald Merachnik. "Because of this it is extremely important that students in the regional district become aware of the problem and how to combat it."

Nancy Nelson, a guidance counselor at the high school, was responsible for organizing the program and, along with counselors Joanne Jakubik and Maria Settino, conducted it. The program will be available to the other three regional high schools in the district: Governor Livingston, Berkeley Heights; Arthur L. Johnson, Clark; and Jonathan Dayton, Springfield. A follow-up program will be presented in the spring. And freshmen next year will receive the information.

"Personal problems can and do affect academic performance," noted Nestler. "So, as educators, we have to consider the 'whole' student if we want to provide proper services."

Other guidance department offerings—outside of course selections and college or career choices—include alcohol and substance abuse information and single-parent family counseling.

Author's book leads to incident was placed on the front lawn of former Mountain borough councilman Timothy Benford. Benford, whose latest book is called "Hitler's Daughter", reported that he was awakened by his dog barking and looked outside. Seeing what he believed at the time to be a tree burning on his front lawn, the former councilman called police for help.

When Benford went outside, he realized it was a wooden swastika. He extinguished the two by three-foot Nazi emblem by rolling it in the snow. He believed the incident was prompted by his book. Benford, who has held numerous autograph-signing sessions for his books in area bookstores, reported he and his family has been receiving crank calls, but that they had stopped by Christmas.

It was reported that Sgt. James Debbie checked the area, but found little evidence of the 1:49 a.m. incident.

Mountainside Police Chief William Alder said that this was the first such incident reported in at least 17 years.

The storyline of "Hitler's Daughter" is that in the last days of the Third Reich, a pregnant woman carrying the unborn child of Adolf Hitler was spirited out of Europe on a German U-boat. Thirty-nine years later, the child is the subject of a search by a Nazi hunter, who believes the child is one of three women: the wife of the vice president, a powerful congressman, or a national television anchorwoman.

Benford's first book, the "World War II Fact Book", received much acclaim and has done well in sales.

During the seven-week inshore courses, lectures and personal instruction will cover topics including: fishing from your own boat, party boats, and charter boats; fishing from beaches, jetties, bays, and inlets; terminal tackle, knots, and equipment care. Speakers include: Mill Rosko, Jersey Coast expert and famous author; Dick Kondak, international big game tournament specialist and technical representative for Hydrasports boats; Art Hilliard, captain of the Highlands charter boat "Rip Tide"; and Frank Rusch, tackle and fishing expert from Newark Sinker Company.

The offshore blue water is a six-week course. During it we will hear lectures

A better way

When it comes to redistricting in New Jersey, one of two things is sure to happen:

1. If the governor's office and legislature are controlled by the same party, you get gerrymandering.

2. If the governor's office and legislature are controlled by different parties, you get a veto.

With the state locked into the second category, the long-standing squabble over creation of new congressional districts is continuing.

The plan pushed through by the Democratic majority under threat of a veto by Gov. Thomas Kean shows only minute changes from the old one which — as we've said before — is a monstrosity.

Republicans have been pushing for a bipartisan commission to redistrict the state.

That is, despite its partisan source, a logical idea. Logical ideas, however, do not usually get very far with state legislators. The fate of this one is no different.

As a result, the redistricting mess will end up in the courts, which will have to do the work that the state's elected officials should have done.

What's worse, it now seems likely that the whole business of redistricting will become another cliffhanger. January is almost half over; the filing deadline for candidates is in April. That means that candidates will have almost no time to plan for 1984 races. Even more important, voters will be left not only bewildered by district lines drawn at the last moment, but possibly so discouraged that they won't bother to go to the polls.

There is a better way. It's too bad that our legislators have been unable to find it.

The State We're In

Farmlands preservation given a boost by voters

By DAVID MOORE
Executive director
N.J. Conservation Foundation

With the thus-far relentless pressure on agricultural lands in this state we're in still averaging loss of an acre of farmland every hour, it's reassuring to be able to report that help is on the way.

Help is the gradual spread of New Jersey's farmland preservation program across our landscape, and following the November general elections, we now have 10 of the 21 counties putting together machinery to preserve farmland.

In Warren County, voters favored a $3 million bond issue to pay for purchase of agricultural easements. To the south in Burlington County, $2 million was approved for the same purpose. And in Gloucester County, formation of a County Agricultural Development Board won voter approval.

All three voter approvals were nonbinding, technically, but they gave three county governments clear instructions from their constituencies on how to proceed.

At the heart of the farmland preservation movement in New Jersey is the 1983 Agriculture Retention and Development Act, which established the legal concept of the county agriculture-development boards, or CADB's.

The first full-fledged CADB materialized in Hunterdon County, where in 1980 voters saw fit to approve a $2.2 million farmland preservation bond issue. By late summer of this year, Hunterdon's CADB was in a position to announce that five landowners had been accepted for participation in a pilot farmland preservation program, and that an agricultural district had been established in Alexandria Township.

Burlington's program, first enabled by a bond issue to acquire farmland easements in 1979, has been moving on a parallel course.

Under the Hunterdon program, landowners can submit applications to establish an agricultural district, which would have to remain in agricultural use for eight years. Acceptance of this by a landowner makes him or her eligible to receive a one-time payment of $200 per acre, which would give the county the option to purchase a permanent agricultural retention easement on that land.

Being a farmer in an approved agricultural district means one is eligible for such fringe benefits as "right-to-farm" opportunities and soil and water conservation payments which, along with 50 percent state funding for the purchase of farmland preservation easements, will come from the $50-million bond issue approved in 1981.

Farmers participate in this program on a voluntary basis. The emerging county programs, such as Hunterdon's, must pass muster with the State Agriculture Development Committee, which oversees county programs. Things are moving as the Agriculture Retention and Development Act puts down roots.

Elsewhere in New Jersey, Monmouth County is putting together an agricultural inventory via its CADB. Ditto for Morris County. Sussex County only recently launched its CADB, but voters there approved a $3 million farmland preservation bond issue in 1982.

Other counties are following a diverse pattern. Somerset County is organizing a CADB; although some sentiment exists favoring a CADB in Atlantic and Cape May counties, there is opposition from others who also oppose the Pinelands Protection Act. A CADB is being formed in Cumberland County; Ocean and Mercer counties favor their formation but freeholder actions are still needed.

In Middlesex the County Board of Agriculture is talking to farmers and freeholders alike about fostering a CADB. There has been no action at all in Union, Camden, Passaic, Salem, Bergen, Essex or Hudson counties. The latter three are just about beyond the fringe insofar as adequate agricultural lands to save are concerned.

Returning to Warren County, believed to be the premier dairy county at this time, the new proposal is for a low-interest loan program. Loans are suggested for farmers to buy land and then permanently restrict it to agriculture. The idea is to get loan repayments over 10 years and put the money back into a pot for use again for the same purpose.

Scene around the towns

IN THE PRESENCE OF THOSE
HERE ASSEMBLED MAY 26 1968

A tree and a flag; those are the clues to this week's Scene around the towns, which can be found somewhere in Springfield. If you recognize it, let us hear from you by 9 a.m. Monday. Write to Scene, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 3109, 1291 Stuyvesant Ave., Union 07083.

Last week's Scene, a photo by David Allison of Linden, shows "the top of a monument that is on the corner of N. Stiles St. and W. Elm St. in Linden, New Jersey," Joseph V. Insogna Jr. wrote. A teacher at Joseph E. Soehl Middle School of Linden, sending in his ninth correct answer, he said:

"This monument is dedicated to the men and to the women who gave their lives in the service of the United States."

"May 2, 1968, the monument was placed in its present location, Second Ward Park, as a tribute to Cpl. Ronald W. Knosky, U.S.M.C. Cpl. Knosky gave his life to our great country while serving in Vietnam. In light of this, the park is now known as the Corporal Ronald W. Knosky U.S.M.C. Second Ward Park."

"I recognized this week's Scene because I've driven past it often."

Frank McSweeney of Linden also recognized the photo as "the monument in honor of Cpl. Ronald W. Knosky, U.S.M.C., and all other servicemen and women who served or will serve in our armed forces, and who will give their lives for our country," he said.

"It is located in the Second Ward Memorial Park, at Stiles St. and Elm St. W."

"I know this park very well and I am known as the old man who plays paddle tennis there every summer. I beat almost everyone there — maybe one or two I can't beat. But I've been playing paddle tennis for 45 years."

Rich Munnely of Linden complained that the "challenge isn't a challenge at all." In identifying the park, he said, "You really should get something harder."

Too late for last week: The previous week's mystery scene brought a correct answer from someone who had a very good reason for recognizing it. Jeannie Spagnolo of Mountainside, a fourth-grader in Deerfield School, identified the picture as the entrance to the Mountainside Public Library on Watchung Avenue. She wrote, "I have gone to the Public Library for years. During the summertime I entered a contest at the library. I won a certificate for achieving the requirements. I go there also for research and leisure. In front there is a bicycle rack for people to put their bikes."

Excerpts from U.S. senator's Lebanon diary

By FRANK LAUTENBERG
U.S. Senator
(D.-New Jersey)

(The following account is from notes and observations made by Senator Frank Lautenberg during a recent inspection of marine forces in Beirut.)

As we await the helicopter to take us to Beirut from Larnaca Airport in Cyprus, already we see economic casualties of the Lebanon fighting — a fleet of jets, including 747's, belonging to Middle East Airlines, Lebanon's national airline, sitting idly on the tarmac.

It's a sobering reminder that the once bustling airport in Beirut we'll be touching down on later is closed to those jets. One of the warring factions promised to shoot down any airliners coming or going.

The rising whine of the helicopter engine matches the quickening pulses, but a young pilot from New Jersey, Lt. James Halligan, breaks the tension by telling me he'll keep a special eye on us.

During the 45-minute flight to Beirut, we talk about New Jersey, the Lebanese conflict, and are reminded that six New Jersey servicemen have already perished in Lebanon.

When asked why I came, I said I wanted to see the reality before the issue comes up again in the U.S. Senate, and didn't want to rely solely on Pentagon briefings, administration accounts, and the media for my information.

Mental Health

Help is available for 'nervous breakdown'

This column is from The Carrier Foundation, a psychiatric facility. Inquiries should be addressed to The Carrier Foundation, Bell Mead, N.J. 08502.

When someone in the family comes down with a physical illness, knowing where to get help is no problem. You call your doctor. In case of an emergency, such as a heart attack, your local emergency volunteer service or the police will get you an ambulance to rush the sick person to the nearest hospital.

But whom do you call if someone in the family is having a "nervous breakdown," or threatening to commit suicide? How do you get help for a son or daughter who is becoming addicted to alcohol or drugs? Where do you turn for help in an emotional crisis brought on by a death, divorce, unemployment, incurable illness? Not knowing where and whom to call for help can be a frightening and upsetting experience. Here are some suggestions which should prove useful:

Suppose a family member appears to be having a "nervous breakdown." He may behave strangely, "hear" voices, believe "someone is out to get him," become deeply depressed, become agitated and irrational, see things which aren't there. Whom do you call?

If the condition has been coming on gradually, and there is no indication that the sick person might do injury to himself or others, the person to call would be your doctor. He might refer you to a psychiatrist or he might, himself, ask you to come to his office with the sick person so he can make an evaluation and propose appropriate treatment. The psychiatrist would do the same. If the family has already had professional contact with a psychiatrist, then the psychiatrist should be called in the first instance. We advise strongly against trying to locate a psychiatrist or other mental health professional yourself through telephone listings. A recommendation from a professional you know and trust is much more reliable.

Once the patient has been seen by the doctor or psychiatrist, he, or she, might recommend one of several alternatives, depending on the evaluation of the patient's condition. He might himself undertake office treatment of the patient. Or he might recommend that the patient be taken to a general hospital which has a psychiatric service. Many of the larger hospitals, especially those connected with a medical school, have psychiatric units giving both inpatient (hospitalization) and outpatient treatment. Or he might recommend taking the patient to a community mental health center. There are many such centers throughout the state. Some are located in hospitals; others are affiliated with a hospital which offers inpatient psychiatric treatment.

Referral to the psychiatric service of a general hospital or to a community mental health center would be made if it appeared that the patient could be helped by a course of outpatient progress, if that's the word, to the British Embassy, which has given the United States temporary office space. I find myself thinking that I hope the ambassador could be right, but he seems too optimistic.

We are forced to helicopter to the marine position at Beirut Airport, just a few miles from the embassy through town. It's too unsafe by road, we're told.

At the airport, marine officers point out the route the truck terrorist took when he blew up the marine barracks Oct. 23. From the parking lot in which the terrorists circled before he made his run, we look at the wilted strands of reinforcing rods and crushed concrete.

Marine General Jim Joy takes note of the half-million sandbags and constant digging, and says that marines, very shortly, will all be underground. I shudder at his unintentionally macabre reference. I also recall the President saying that a principal objective of marines in Beirut was a visible presence.

Marine officers show us the forward position where eight marines were killed by a single mortar shell. An officer recalled that "one marine" died after his wife gave birth and he had turned down a leave offer in exchange for time off later for a Christmas visit. I told him that "one marine" was Sgt. Manuel Cox, 20, of Lakewood, N.J.

Marines give us binoculars to look at a gap in the mountains east of Beirut. They say if that gap could be closed, it would deprive extremists and radicals in the Beirut suburbs of weapons. I even hear the thumping of mortar fire in the nearby hills.

A marine brigade, I'm told, could do the job. However, symptomatic of the frustrations of the marines are the Byzantine political realities of the region. The Christian, Druze and Shiite militias all have a stake in closing the gap, but they're too busy fighting each other. And, if the marines did it, they could become the target of all factions.

Aboard the helicopter assault ship, the U.S.S. Guam, we're told all ships must keep moving at all times, and far offshore. A terrorist is capable of attacking with explosives in an aerial suicide mission. Even out here, no one is guaranteed safety.

Nonetheless, the New Jersey sailors I asked to meet with impressed me with their spirit and morale. I was happy to take personal messages for their families back to New Jersey.

Helicoptering back to Cyprus, we pass over the U.S.S. New Jersey on station off the Lebanese coast. I note the turbulent white wake behind the battleship. The threat of airborne terrorism even has the mighty U.S.S. New Jersey on the move.

Exiting the helicopter on Cyprus, I'm told Beirut is being shelled again. The 190th cease-fire is a little shaky.

Marine officers show us the forward position where eight marines were killed by a single mortar shell. An officer recalled that "one marine" died after his wife gave birth and he had turned down a leave offer in exchange for time off later for a Christmas visit. I told him that "one marine" was Sgt. Manuel Cox, 20, of Lakewood, N.J.

Marines give us binoculars to look at treatment, or that he might need no more than a few days of hospitalization. If it appeared that specialized and more intensive treatment were needed and that hospitalization for several weeks was in order, the recommendation might be that the patient be taken to a private psychiatric hospital. There are several in the state. The Carrier Foundation among them. One should expect to find in an accredited, up-to-date private psychiatric hospital, specialized treatment services for such conditions as: acute episodes of schizophrenia, depression and manic-depressive illness; attempted suicide; psychiatric disorders associated with old age; adolescent psychiatric disorders; severe phobic or obsessive-compulsive reaction; alcohol and drug addiction; anorexia and other eating disorders, and others.

What if you cannot reach your doctor or psychiatrist? There are agencies in the community which can make an appropriate referral for psychiatric treatment. They are the mental health associations and family service and family counseling agencies and you will find them listed in the front of your telephone book.

What do you do if there is an emergency? For example, the sick person might have become violent and is threatening to assault others in the family, or has already done so, threatens to jump out the window, locks himself in the bathroom and threatens to swallow drugs in the medicine cabinet; threatens to cut his wrists with razor, etc.

If the sick person is out of control and there is no chance of easily getting him or her to the emergency room of the nearest hospital, call the police. The police are well trained in the proper handling of disturbed persons without harming them. They will know where to bring him or her and the necessary procedure in case commitment is required.

If the problem is mainly that of alcohol or drugs, there are specialized inpatient and outpatient facilities which can handle these conditions. In the front of your phone book, listed under Alcoholism and Drugs, you will find the names of agencies and organizations which can help you locate the appropriate help. Family service and family counseling agencies will also be able to assist with that.

To get help for family emotional crises related to such eventualities as death, divorce, serious illness, etc., the agencies to contact are the family service and family counseling agencies. If the workers there think psychiatric treatment is necessary they will be able to make an appropriate referral.

Another, very valuable, source of information in what to do in the event of a mental health problem, illness or crisis is your clergyman. Clergymen are very knowledgeable about the various mental health and psychiatric services, and might, for many people, be the first ones to turn to when help of this kind is needed.

Dayton cagers playing cliffhangers; Bears falter

The Jonathan Dayton boys and girls basketball team seem to be involved in cliffhangers almost every game.

The Bulldogs shaded Ridge, 59-58, in overtime last week for their fifth win in six tries. Down by two in the extra period, Dayton reeled off five consecutive points, four by Mike Nenner, in posting the triumph.

Mike Graziano led Dayton with 19 points, while Chris Knierim and Cole tallied 13 points apiece. Nenner, who had half his points in the overtime, wound up with eight points. Ridge was paced by Dan Collins' 19 points. Collins had hit a long jumper with only five seconds remaining in regulation time to force the game into overtime.

Springfield led by two after one quarter, and increased the margin to 27-20 by halftime. However, the Ridgers outscored Dayton, 18-8, in the third period to take a 38-35 lead into the final quarter.

The Bulldogs' ability to win close ones was halted by Governor Livingston, 61-59, as Mike McKeon's two free throws with only 10 seconds remaining in the game were decisive. Knierim led Dayton with 22 points, while Gary Ruban hit for 23 for the Highlanders.

Graziano added 14 for Dayton. Dayton, losing only for the second time in seven outings, missed three field goal attempts in the last seven seconds in a bid to tie and force the contest into overtime. The Bulldogs, who are usually strong from the free throw line, dug themselves a hole in the second period by missing the front end of five one-and-one situations.

Dayton is home to Newark Arts tomorrow night and at Brearley Tuesday night.

The Dayton girls also captured a cliffhanger from Ridge, winning 51-49 as Linda Hockstein scored the decisive basket with 16 seconds remaining in the game. Hockstein scored 27 points to pace the Bulldogs.

Dayton had to fight uphill most of the game after trailing, 17-8, after the opening quarter. The Bulldogs still were behind, 30-21, at halftime, but cut the deficit to 39-37 after three periods.

The Bulldogs then went on to defeat Governor Livingston, 52-48, as Kathy Drummond scored eight of her 10 points to fuel an 11-5 tear in overtime. Tracy Karr had hit a basket with only five seconds left in regulation time to force the overtime. It was the Bulldogs' fourth victory in six tries.

The Dayton girls will be at David Brearley Tuesday.

The Kenilworth boys team continued to falter, bowing to Immaculata, 71-43. Immaculata roared to an 18-5 first period lead and was never headed. Jerry Stichel paced the Bears with 15 points. Immaculata coasted to a 39-10 halftime bulge. Ray Migliore led the winners with 12 points.

Kenilworth then lost for the fifth time in six outings to Manville, 43-31. The Bears led, 20-19, at the half, but Manville outscored them, 10-4, in the third period to take command. Brearley scored only 11 points in the entire second half. Stichel was again the high scorer for Brearley with 14 points.

The Bears travel to North Plainfield tomorrow night before meeting Dayton Tuesday in the district rivalry game.

The Kenilworth girls also lost by a wide margin, falling to Immaculata, 64-30. Immaculata tallied 22 of the first 24 points.

The Bears then dropped their fifth straight game without a victory, succumbing to Manville (2-5), 48-29. Bunny Legg sparked Kenilworth with 13 points. Manville erupted for a 21-7 spree in the second quarter to seal the verdict. Sandy Baranowski led the winners with a game-high 19 points, while Mimi Kaschak added 17, including nine in the second period.

The Bears then dropped to 0-6 Monday night when they fell to Hillside, 94-30. Legg again led Kenilworth with 14 points. Hillside, which has won its first 10 games, jumped off to a 14-0 lead and was never headed. Gail Jackson led the Comets with 22 points.

The Brearley girls are home to North Plainfield tomorrow night and Dayton Tuesday night.

Wnek back on sidelines as Dayton pilot

By WAYNE TILLMAN

After six years without coaching baseball, Stan Wnek felt the itch to return to the game he loves.

His dream of returning to coaching has been fulfilled.

Wnek, who coached the Irvington High School diamondmen for 23 seasons before retiring back in 1977, was recently named the new head varsity baseball coach at Springfield's Jonathan Dayton Regional High School.

Wnek replaces Robert Lowe, who resigned.

"I missed coaching," he said. "It's something I've done all my life."

After Lowe resigned, Wnek called Dayton and inquired about the position. Soon thereafter, he got the job and will undergo the task of improving the Bulldogs' 10-10 record of a year ago.

Springfield is not a new territory for Wnek, who has been a resident of the town for 29 years. He has also coached at Montclair State College and Hillside High before coming to Irvington, where he also served as the assistant principal at the junior high school before retiring last September.

At Hillside, he coached Rollie Massimino, the current basketball coach at Villanova University. At IHS, he twice reached the finals of the Greater Newark Tournament.

"1975 was my best year at Irvington," he recalled. "We won 23 straight games, but lost to Union twice in the state semifinals."

While at Irvington, he coached the school's current varsity coach, Karl Gordon, in the late '60's.

"Karl was an excellent ballplayer, good enough to be signed by the Cubs organization," said Wnek of his star shortstop.

Wnek also was drafted by the Yankees, but never played in the majors. He was sent to the Phillies, but never reached the parent club. He did catch well-known lefthander Curt Simmons in the minors.

Wnek stresses one thing in his approach to baseball—fundamentals.

"We plan on playing a lot of intrasquad games during the year," he says. "If you get the fundamentals squared away, you win. Do it often enough and you win."

Wnek, who has never lost his enthusiasm for coaching, enjoys working with young kids.

"The closeness of the young men is something you don't get in the classroom," he said.

For the 64-year-old Wnek, baseball is still a little boy's game. And something that keeps him young at heart.

UCC drops wrestling

There will be no more wrestling at Union County College.

Athletic director Wynn Phillips has terminated the program, effective immediately. The 11-meet schedule has been cancelled, and Phillips attributed the move to a lack of interest on the part of students and a limited number of two-year colleges sponsoring wrestling teams.

"We were at the point where we had only five students academically eligible for the wrestling team in four weight classes, and we are down to only four other college's sponsoring wrestling teams in our Garden State Athletic Conference," Phillips said.

Five years ago, there were 18 colleges in Region 19 of the National Junior College Athletic Association sponsoring wrestling teams, but now there are only six.

"With so few teams in the Garden State Conference and in Region 19, scheduling became difficult," said Phillips. "We could overcome this problem, but the lack of student support made it impossible for us to continue to sponsor a wrestling team."

"Over the past several years, we have found it more and more difficult to field a team because of the lack of student interest," he concluded.

UCC had sponsored wrestling since 1972. Phillips said no other intercollegiate athletic programs for men and women will be affected. That includes basketball, tennis, soccer, cross country and golf.

The Owls compiled an 0-10 record last year and had difficulty fielding a full team, losing many of the individual bouts by default.

Union had meets scheduled against the Princeton junior varsity, Gloucester, Suffolk, U.S. Military Prep, Bucks, Keystone, Middlesex, Bergen, Nassau and Farmingdale Community Colleges.

Minutemen sparkling on mat

The Springfield Minutemen wrestling team opened its season recently by competing in the Roselle Park Dad's Club Invitational Tournament.

The Minutemen had three matmen place in the tournament. In the midweight division at 65 pounds, Tom DiNorscio took first place. He also receive a plaque for most pins in the division (four).

At 95 pounds, J.C. Clayton came in third.

In the junior division at 65 pounds, Dante Puorro was runnerup. There were 25 teams in the tournament. Also competing were Anthony DiNorscio, Nick DeGiralamo, Matt Magree, Mike Masi, Anthony Masi, Chris Colatruglio, Bob Tranquilli, and Danny Murphy.

The Minutemen will participate in a dual meet Saturday against Summit. The match will be held 11 a.m. in the auxiliary gym at Jonathan Dayton Regional High School in Springfield.

Defense is dominant in rec league hoop openers

Team defense by the Billikins, Rockets, and Pistons enabled those teams to post opening day victories in the Springfield Recreation Department's Small Fry Basketball League.

In the first game, the Rockets used aggressive defense to beat the Lakers, 24-6. The Rockets were paced by Noah Scheinmann's 14 points. Offensive rebounding helped Andy and Ryan Huber score four points each. John Schiano was also good defensively.

Although the Lakers struggled in the first half, they came back in the last two quarters. Mark Zucker had a good floor game with two points. Jason Verbel, Bobby Grohs each scored a bucket and played good defense.

The Billikins pulled ahead to win, 12-9, over the Raiders. Terence Young hit the go-ahead bucket late in the game to give his team the lead for good. Chris Schwartzbee paced the team with six points. Josh Beck added four points and had a good floor game.

The Raiders were led by Victor Worthington with four points. Seth Eison added 3 points and played well defensively. Greg Maltzman added a bucket.

Good second half defense was the difference as the Pistons beat the Nettles 12-6.

Nettes divide in tournament

The Springfield Nettles split two games in the Florham Park Tournament last week. The Nettles dropped their opening round game to Montville 35-19, but bounced back in the consolation game with a 35-25 win over Maplewood.

The locals trailed Montville, 14-10, at the half only to see the taller club go on a 9-2 spurt in the third quarter and put the game out of reach. Staci Weimerman led the Nettles with 10 points, with help from Liz Pabst (3), Felice Bartel (2), and Julie Koppkin (4). Lauren Meixner, Laura Hyslop and Marianne Boffa also contributed.

Coach Bob Dash has utilized all of his girls in the first three games and feels this is the reason they are averaging almost 28 points per game.

The Celtics were led by Brett Winter's four points. Michael Landol played a fine defensive game along with Joey Grano. Drew Weisholtz added a bucket for the Celtics.

In the State League, at the Florence Gaudineer School, Alabama and Utah each posted opening day victories.

Alabama, with a fourth quarter surge, defeated Texas, 27-19. They used good defense and balanced scoring to outscore Texas 12-5 in the last quarter. Ryan Freely led the attack with 16 points. Robert Sabol rebounded well and had six points. Contributing was David Gerson with four points and Sean Weimerman on defense.

Texas was led by Matt Applebaum with five points. Both Scott Wishna and Damien Baroff scored four points, and played good defense. Danny LaMorges, along with Mark Feinsod, each had a bucket to add to the scoring.

Utah outlasted Oklahoma, 15-9. James Morrison and Jon Burger paced Utah with six points each. Jami Schultz scored 2 points and rebounded well. David Wickam contributed on defense.

Oklahoma was paced by Mike Montanari with four points. Mike Lipman, Jennifer Francis, and Ted Lave each added a point to the attack. Chris Laveve had two points in the losing effort.

In the Ivy League, Columbia, Penn and Harvard triumphed. Robert Valentino scored 32 points to lead Columbia by Cornell, 44-35. Valentino was also strong off the boards, while Justin Pelino added six points and Greg Graziano three, as well as directing the offense. Matt Lynch sparked Cornell with 18 points, while Lenny Saia had seven and Tom Berger six. Dan Francis contributed with his rebounding.

Penn stopped Yale, 42-39, as Chris Monaco had 20 points and controlled the offense. Greg Walsh had eight points, as did Daniel Monaco. William Lee chipped in with six points. Marcello Reyna sparked Yale with 20 points.

Adam Miller chipped in with eight points, while Pat Corbett chipped in with six and Claudio Reyna added four.

Harvard edged Princeton, 31-29, as Danny Lissy tallied 19 points. Brother David and Ricky scored five and two points, respectively. Neil Berman scored six for Princeton. Pete Sadin added five points.

A day fit for the courageous King

Although Martin Luther King Day does not become an official federal holiday until 1986, many towns and schools in Union County and around the nation are not waiting the two years to honor the revered Black leader.

Dr. King's impact on civil rights and human equality was monumental. Largely through his tireless and courageous efforts, the course of life in America was changed forever. His contributions were so immense that his legacy of justice for all seems to grow with each passing year.

Since Jan. 15, his birthdate, falls on a Sunday this year, the holiday is being celebrated on Monday.

From Roselle's Lincoln Elementary School to the Roselle High School students in the district are gearing up to celebrate the first ever Martin Luther King Day with poems, plays and films about the slain black civil rights leader.

With the schools closed Monday, high school students will listen to excerpts from some of King's speeches over the school's intercom system today and tomorrow.

Also, the social studies classes have put together a display about the civil rights leader's life that is on view in the high school's center hallway exhibit case.

Among the events will be a film depicting King and what effect his life and contributions had on people's lives today.

Frank Zack, head of the social studies department in the high school said that all of the activities are designed to give the students an understanding of some of the aspects of King's philosophy and life.

Zack said students will learn about King's concepts of peaceful demonstration, the use of passive rather than violent means to achieve change, and his use of economic forces, particularly the boycott.

The activities will also concern the role King played in the civil rights movement and the circumstances surrounding his assassination.

In the Middle School, students in Cathy Svare and Elis Jones's fifth-grade classes are preparing a short skit, a narrative of King's life and will see the "I Have a Dream" film.

Edith Mayner and Ellen Koulouthros, both fourth-grade teachers in the Lincoln School in Roselle, are having their classes put on a play about King. They will also sing songs and write original poems about King.

Union will celebrate King Day with feature showcases in Union High School's main lobby next week, and with both a library exhibit and films having biographical and historical relevance to King's life.

The high school's tribute to King will be incorporated into a celebration of black history — including commemorations of prominent blacks on the local, state and national level according to Michael Yesenko, department supervisor for social studies.

"We don't want this to become just one event for just one day," Yesenko explained. "King's contributions will not be isolated. I think it will be more meaningful for students to see the entire picture."

The two showcases, which are being designed by students from four history classes, will remain in the school's lobby for three weeks, Yesenko said.

In addition, students will view films of King and other black leaders of note through February, which has been declared Black History Month.

High school librarian Grace Shulman is preparing a portrait display and setting aside books pertaining to King and other leaders in Black history to be put on reserve.

At Central Six — Jefferson School, students will see the film, "I Have A Dream" in social studies classes and participate in discussions of the speech and King's impact on culture and society.

DR. MARTIN LUTHER KING—The revered Black leader's birthdate is Jan. 15, and it is being celebrated on Monday. Although it has been almost 16 years since he was slain, Dr. King's impact on American society seems to grow with each passing year.

M. L. King Day observances

Each Social Studies classroom will have a display board dedicated to King, and three additional showcases, including one in the school's main hallway, will also be erected in King's honor, according to Principal Martin Zwillman.

In Springfield, Mountainside, and Kenilworth, schools will remain open. However, there will be discussions in social studies classes during this period relating to King and his contributions.

In Linden, municipal offices, libraries and the schools will be closed on Monday.

The Linden Library will hold a special Martin Luther King program for children at 3:30 p.m. today in the East Branch Library. Children of all ages are welcome to attend the program, entitled, "Martin Luther King Celebration Program."

Around the state, there will be various dinners, discussions and other functions to commemorate Martin Luther King Day.

One of the most important of those functions is the 10th annual New Jersey Education Association Human Rights Dinner Saturday evening at the Meadowlands Hilton.

The keynote speaker will be Mary Berry, a member of the U.S. Civil Rights Commission who fought to keep her spot amid the controversial reorganization of that group. President Ronald Reagan tried to dismiss her last spring in order to replace her with his own appointee. While Berry and one of the other members filed suit to regain their seats, the issue sparked a power struggle between Congress and the President. Berry kept her membership as a result of a compromise between the executive and legislative branches.

The theme of the dinner, and of Berry's address, is "Human and Civil Rights at Risk." She will present her perspective on the condition of human rights in America 20 years after the passage of the historic 1964 Civil Rights Act.

The dinner will also include a performance by the New Jersey Philharmonic Glee Club. Composed of many prominent New Jerseyans, the group has developed a nationwide reputation.

Approximately 800 members of the education community and civic leaders are expected to attend, with the proceeds going to the Martin Luther King Center in Atlanta, Ga.

Senior Center

By ADA BRUNNER
(Second of two parts)

The increase in numbers of senior citizens — in the area, the state and the nation — brings with it an increase in the amount of medical care that is needed.

But that care need not necessarily be in hospitals, according to the New Jersey Hospital Association's Committee on Aging and Long Term Care.

A report issued by the committee on "The Role of the Hospital in Serving its Elderly and Chronically Ill Population" quotes testimony which the committee heard from authorities discussing alternatives.

One of those authorities, Dennis Hett, executive director of the New Jersey Non-Profit Homes for the Aged Inc., reported that there are now about 9,500 persons in homes operated by the association's 78 member facilities.

A handful of these homes are purely residential, but most also provide nursing service, he said.

The "facility of the future," however, will not be a "free-standing" nursing home, he predicted. "There needs to be coordination of services and it has to be under some central direction to make it work," he said.

Quoting a nursing home official who called alternatives to institutionalization "a euphemism for daughters," Hett said, "If you have middle-aged daughters, you are going to be O.K. They will take care of you. But this type of care is eroding."

Ruth Boer, president of the Home Health Assembly of New Jersey Inc., agreed.

"We get the patient literally dumped on the home health agency because there is no place else to go," she said.

She added, however, that her major concern is "lack of communication" among health care agencies. "My biggest recommendation for every hospital is to talk to their community-based agency," she said. "They are out there doing it..."

Kenneth Dollard, executive director of the Home Care Council of New Jersey, predicted that home health care will change "dramatically" in the next decade or two.

"Studies have shown that the demand for health care by the elderly is extremely elastic," he said. "It is mainly governed by third party reimbursement."

He called the existing home health care system "rather inefficient," explaining, "When you send a nurse or a doctor, a physical therapist or home health aide to visit one person in one home it is going to cost a lot of money." To meet this problem, congregate living programs are "the only way to go," he said. "But until someone with more political clout than existing community agencies says we are going to go into that area, it is not going to happen."

Disc 'n' Data

By MILT HAMMER

Pick of the LPs, "One Particular Harbour," by Jimmy Buffett (MCA Records).

The album features fresh production and exciting new energy from Buffett. As in the title track, Buffett's songs take one to a tropical dream setting where shorts and Hawaiian shirts are mandatory. Everyone peacefully relaxes to reminisce or kicks out the upbeat rock, staying up all night to tell the stories that show up in future songs. The album blends the Buffett ethic of past years with a bright and humor-filled attitude toward the 1980s.

Featured on the album is the blending of Jimmy's material with the writing efforts of others. Six songs are penned by Buffett with several collaborators including co-producer Mike Utey. They range from the upbeat, "I Use to Have Money," a wry image of the faster lifestyles, to the hauntingly beautiful title song (co-written by Bobby Holcomb). In between are "Twelve-Volt Man," about an expatriate molded into an effortless existence, the humorous "Honey Do" (come and do me again...), and the nearly autobiographical "We Are the People (Our Parents Warned Us About)." Add to these original selections, Rodney Crowell's "Stars on the Water," a lively version of Van Morrison's "Brown-Eyed Girl," Steve Goodman's "California Promise" (which features an elegant acoustic guitar solo by jazz great Earl Klugh), and Arthur Neville's "Why You Wanna Hurt My Heart?" and "One Particular Harbour" fills out handsomely.

Other notable musicians featured on "One Particular Harbour" are Timothy Schmit of Poco and Eagles renown, drummer Russell Kunkel, Bob Glaub on bass and former Little Feat percussionist Sam Clayton. Rounding out the talent roll are singers Rita Coolidge and Bonnie Bramlett.

Showcasing as a Coral Reefer for the first time on "One Particular Harbour" is the lively free-form artistry and Caribbean glee of Robert Greenidge's steel drums.

A Pre-Super Sunday phon-a-thon slated

The version of "Partners in Faith" to be shown at a pre-Super Sunday celebration at 8 p.m. Jan. 28 in Temple Emanu El, Westfield, will be one that is tailored to the performers and the area, according to the author-director, Issachar Miron.

"Pre-Super Sunday" is the curtain-raiser for "Super Sunday," a day-long phone-a-thon at the YM-YWHA in Union which marks the start of the 1984 United Jewish Campaign — the annual drive to raise funds for Jewish Federation of Central New Jersey agencies and the State of Israel.

The program at Temple Emanu El, open to those who pledge $500 or more per family, will feature a cocktail hour and dancing as well as entertainment.

Miron, a writer, composer and director whose awards include an International Film and TV Festival gold medal, was in Union County last week to supervise preparations for the showing.

He described "Partners in Faith" as a multi-media presentation featuring live performers, film and slides. Its theme is the Jewish experience in Israel and around the world, he said.

The stars in the performance to be given at Temple Emanu El will be Ron Eliran, an Israeli singer-musician who has appeared on television in this country as well as in Israel; Neva Small, whose roles have included that of Chava in the film "Fiddler on the Roof," and Sasha Nanus, actress and mime.

They will present songs and skits selected to show off their talents, Miron said, as well as material dealing with Israel, Jewish life in other nations and this area in particular. The program will be shown against a background of films and slides.

Reservations for pre-Super Sunday, at $15 per person, may be made by calling the Jewish Federation of Central New Jersey, Green Lape, Union, 351-5060.
