Resident named to judicial post

By PHILIP GIMSON
 Mountainside resident Walter Barisonek may be on the verge of trading in his suit and tie for a black judicial robe, but that doesn't mean he'll give up carrying a briefcase in the event he gets his new job.
 The 39-year-old attorney, nominated last week to a Union County Superior Court judgeship by Governor Thomas Kean, says he'll "now have to get a briefcase twice as large" in the event the state Senate confirms his appointment.
 The Senate Judiciary committee is scheduled to conduct hearings on the appointment sometime in June, according to Barisonek. Following the hearings, his nomination would then go before the full Senate to vote.
 To take on a judgeship, Barisonek will have to leave his private practice in Linden and his current post as municipal prosecutor in Clark in order to make the move to the bench.
 It's a move that he'll be only to glad to make. "Though it's not something I actively sought until now, almost from the time I was in law school, I had thought about becoming a judge," Barisonek explains. "Naturally though, it's not something that happens overnight. It's a long process.

 While it hasn't happened overnight, a nomination by the Governor to a judicial post is not something that happens to very many 39-year-old attorneys. If confirmed, Barisonek would become the second youngest judge on the Union County Superior Court.
 He may be young, but in the 16 years that he has practiced law Barisonek has seen virtually every aspect of the legal process. "I've dealt with almost every courtroom situation imaginable in both criminal and civil law, both on behalf of the state as a prosecutor and on behalf of the litigant as a private attorney."
 Pending confirmation of his nomination, Barisonek could be assigned to serve as either a civil or criminal judge. Though he says this is a choice "that's up to the assignment judge," Barisonek explains, "I would like to stay in civil law," an area that he has trial certification in from the New Jersey State Bar Association.
 Barisonek began his career as an attorney for a legal service project in 1968 following his graduation from Seton Hall Law School, and then went into private practice in the early 1970's, the capacity in which he has worked ever since. In 1971, Barisonek also took on additional duties as the municipal prosecutor in Roselle, where he stayed on for a couple of years.

 Though he has had thoughts about becoming a judge ever since law school, Barisonek might never have taken up law as a profession if a professor at his alma mater, Marist College, hadn't talked him into taking the law boards. "I was never tuned into the legal mind set when I was going to college, but after I took the boards I discovered I had an aptitude for the law. I guess the fact that I fell into the profession is just one more indication that God has been good to me and my family."
 At the time he began his career, Barisonek remembers that judges were only paid some $25,000. Thus, he is not as intimidated as one might expect by the relatively modest remuneration (by a private attorney's standards) of serving on the bench — which is now well over two times that.
 But financial compensation has never been foremost in Barisonek's mind. "A lot of people are under the misconception that you automatically become independently wealthy when you go into law," he says. "It's not really true, especially when you consider that you've got to put in nights and weekends. For me it's never been a 9 to 5 job."

 Barisonek is also realistic about the mammoth responsibility he may be getting into in serving on the bench. "I don't expect it to be a cushion job and I don't see it as a stepping stone either."
 Nor does he view the prospect of serving on the bench as an experiment. "Assuming that all goes well, I plan to serve for good," in explaining that he has no intention of eventually going back into private practice.
 Until the Senate confirmation proceedings begin, Barisonek still has plenty of work to do — for his private practice. "While all this has been going on, I've had to keep my mind on the fact that I've got a trial to start on Monday. Knowing how hard it is to prepare for a trial, I think I'd have good perspective as a judge listening to all the excuses lawyers have as to why they're not ready. I've been there."

Survey results lead to new graduation date

By PHILIP GIMSON
 In response to the results of a recent survey distributed to the parents of graduating seniors throughout the district, the Union County Regional High School Board of Education decided to change the date for commencement ceremonies to Friday, June 22.
 In a unanimous vote, the board decided to amend an earlier proposal to hold the graduation on Sunday, June 24, after learning that 57 percent of the parents surveyed expressed a preference for the Friday graduation date.
 The originally scheduled commencement date of June 21 was postponed to June 24 by the board as a result of a one day extension of the school year caused by a snow-closing. A number of students had previously turned out to protest postponing the graduation until Sunday citing vacation plans and summer job commitments.
 A total of 948 surveys were sent out, yielding a total return of 589 responses, or 62 percent, as of Tuesday night. The number of parents favoring the Friday graduation totaled 336, compared to 227, or 39 percent, who selected Sunday as their preference. Another 4 percent suggested alternative commencement dates.

 Parents of Dayton High School seniors selected Friday over Sunday by a two to one margin, although Brearley High School parents—where the vote was the closest in the district—opted to change the commencement date by only a 52 to 50 margin.
 In voting to change the commencement date, a number of board members expressed the sentiment that the decision on when to hold the graduation might have been handled better in order to avoid inconveniencing the district's parents.
 "I think surveys should be made before the fact rather than after the fact," board member Elizabeth Waldt stated. Later in voting for the proposal, Waldt said "I want the record to show that I'm very unhappy with the way this whole thing was handled."
 The board's Steven Marcinak said,

"Perhaps it would have been a good idea to begin to poll the parents before a recommendation was made."
 "I think we can learn something from this," board member Harold Donaldson said. "We should see to it that this sort of thing doesn't happen again."
 Dayton High School principal Lou DeRosa pointed out that based on the relatively small margin of difference in the survey preference, "the board was in a no win situation on this. No matter which way you decide, you're going to be wrong." Board member David Hart agreed, noting "If we had selected and stuck with Sunday, we would have been going along with a lot of other communities in Union County."
 Schools superintendent Donald Merachnik requested that the board consider allowing teachers and staff to begin their summer vacation on the same day as students, prompting board members to suggest that the matter should be decided by school administrators.

 In other business Tuesday, the board approved a proposal submitted by business administrator Harold R. Burdge, Jr., to institute a Wang word processing system in order to make up for a clerical vacancy in the business office. The $13,816 cost of the program will actually save the district over $9,000 in overhead costs, according to Burdge's information.
 The board also voted to award $151,340 in miscellaneous bids for janitorial supplies for the 1984-85 school year.

Dayton student wins trip to Washington

By VICKI VREELAND
 Scott Prager, a junior at Jonathan Dayton Regional High School, will soon be on his way for a week's all-expense paid trip to the nation's capital. Scott will be among 100 students sponsored by a national company.
 Prager, a resident of Shunpike Road, was the winner in an annual contest sponsored by the Union Carbide Corporation. Scott, who is fascinated by government and politics, entered the contest when he learned from last year's winner that the trip was a valuable experience.
 Union Carbide has sponsored the contest for 14 years at locations all over the country. This is only the second time that an applicant from the Springfield area has been selected.
 Nicholas DiFranco, manager and public relations for Union Carbide, Springfield, said the company requests a junior be selected so that they can share the experience, not only when they return from Washington, but in their senior year.
 DiFranco enjoys the recruiting aspect of the annual event. "I find it a lot of fun and it is a good program for the student. Besides meeting the bureaucrats, they get to meet people from all over the country," DiFranco said.

Scott, a member of the Explorers, the Office of Emergency Management, Scouts, the Spanish National Honor Society, and a Columbia University Science Honors Program, was selected by his social studies teacher, Dennis Fox, and the guidance department.
 Fox said that a number of students attend the workshops every year, but they pay their own tuition. "When a company came to us and offered to pay for a student to go, it was a very good opportunity," Fox said.
 DiFranco suggests that while Scott is in Washington, he should, "Ask some pointed questions to the representatives and congressman. They like to hear from the young, future constituents."
 Prager will travel with a group of nine other Jerseyans. He has already written congressmen from the area to arrange meetings.
 The group will attend the Congressional Seminar, an educational workshop geared to high school students. They will stay at Mary Mount College for the week's duration. DiFranco said their itinerary has been packed full, but there is some time allowed for sightseeing.
 Scott's group will have a send-off dinner at the Somerset Hilton Saturday night. The group will leave the following morning by train, and return by plane.

Students are giving earful to new course

Regional high school students may be all ears by the end of the school year next month.

During the final marking period this year, all Union County Regional High School District No. 1 students will receive special instruction in listening skills within their regular English courses, according to District Coordinator of English Robert Whelan.

Five units of study were devised by district teachers of English to be used in each freshman, sophomore, junior and senior class as well as advanced placement classes and readiness courses.

Pat Cilo and Mary Ellen Vershuren of Dayton Regional; Governor Livingston's Ken Mattfield, Doug Felter of Johnson and Brearley's Dory Logan researched methods and materials for use. Finding little published, the teachers established unique objectives and activities. Included are exercises in listening for the main idea, recalling specific facts and direction comprehension.

Many of the exercises are conducted using cassette tapes and teachers will devote the equivalent of one week's class time to the unit with the goal that each student obtain a 70 percent mastery of the material.

The thrust for enhancing listening skills stems from the state department of Education's requirement that specific objectives be achieved by each school district. The Regional District selected listening skills as one area in which to concentrate.

Party candidates set for June 5's primary

Congressman Matthew Rinaldo, whose district once again includes Springfield, Mountainside and Kenilworth, is unopposed for the Republican nomination for another term in the House of Representatives. He was the only GOP candidate to file in the 7th District for the June 5 primary by last Thursday's deadline.

Seeking the Democratic nomination to run against the heavily-favored Rinaldo are John Feeley of Roselle Park, the Democratic organization candidate; Dwight Gatling of Plainfield and James J. Cleary of Bound Brook, a candidate associated with the Lyndon LaRouche ticket.

Local residents also will join voters from throughout the rest of the state in naming party nominees for the U.S. Senate. Sen. Bill Bradley, the Democratic incumbent, is being challenged by Elliot Greenspan for the party nomination. The challenger is the state spokesman for Lyndon LaRouche, former head of the U.S. Labor Party, who is also on the primary ballot as a candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Two candidates will seek the GOP Senate nomination. Mary Mochary, mayor of Montclair, is up against Robert Morris of Mantoloking, a former university president.

At the county level, in the race for four seats on the Union County Board of Freeholders, the Republican organization slate is unopposed but Democrats, as usual, have a contest.

Seeking the Democratic nominations for three three-year terms are incumbent Freeholder Gerald B. Green of Plainfield, Harry Pappas of Springfield and MaryAnn Dorin of Linden, the organization candidates; Adrienne E. Sneed, Samuel McGhee and William Galik, running as Regular Hillside Democrats, and Abdul-Salaam Ismail and Myra Satterfield, both of Elizabeth, who are associated with Jesse Jackson's Rainbow Coalition.

Peter Okrasinski of Union, the Democratic organization candidate for an unexpired one-year term, is unopposed in the primary.

On the Republican side, the candidates are Freeholders Edward Slomkowski of Union and Alan Augustine of Scotch Plains, incumbents, and City Council President Robert Honor of Linden, for the three-year terms, and G. Richard Malgran of Plainfield for the one-year term.

On June 5, the state's voters will also choose delegates to each of the major party's national conventions this summer. In the presidential preference or "beauty contest" vote, President Reagan is running unopposed on the GOP side, while the three major Democrats — Walter Mondale, Gary Hart and Jesse Jackson — will also face LaRouche.

School co-op meets May 14

The discussion will include various reading methods often used to teach children with learning problems and their effectiveness as well as ways parents can help at home.

The workshop will begin at 7:30 p.m. at the New Providence Board of Education Conference Room D, 340 Central Ave., New Providence.

Dental Dialogue

A BRACING EFFECT

Q. I need braces, but I'm worried about my teeth decaying under them.

A. Actually placing an orthodontic band on a tooth gives protection to the area it covers. However, braces do tend to collect more food debris and so extra thorough cleaning of the exposed teeth is needed to prevent decay. Daily brushing and flossing are obviously important, and the use of an oral irrigator (water pik) can be a helpful aid. Corrective braces leave the teeth, bone, and gums healthier and make oral hygiene easier in the future. So, "brace up" and you'll enjoy straighter teeth and better dental health.

This column is presented in the interest of better dental health. From the office of

How to protect your money against the ravages of taxes and inflation.

When it comes to money, one thing is certain. It has a way of disappearing. After taxes and inflation, our dollars just don't go very far. In fact, many people can't afford to buy a home, send their kids to college, or retire comfortably.

But there are things you can do to make your money go further. The first thing is to take a cold, hard look at your finances: We recommend our free guide, Financial Planning: How It Works for You. It helps you nail down where your money is going. And shows you how to create a strategy to reach your goals.

Adult Learning Center provides second chance

KENILWORTH—After only three weeks of preparation, high school dropout Daniel Schorr passed the State's General Educational Development test and received his high school equivalency diploma. Lisa Mast is studying for hers. But in January, they were two of over 100,000 residents of Union County who had not graduated from high school.

Danny attended the Union County Regional High School District No. 1 Adult Learning Center, located on the David Brearley Regional High School Campus, Kenilworth, where Lisa studies now. Students of the center are assisted in preparing for the social studies, science, literature, math and grammar portions of the GED. They have the help of professionally-trained educators who are available at the center every weekday but Friday. And, because the center is state-funded, tuition is not charged.

Both from Hillside, Danny and Lisa realized the need for a diploma shortly after leaving high school.

"I wanted to get credit for the courses

I'm taking at Kean College," said Danny, who hopes later to attend the Berkeley School of Music in Boston. "My mother encouraged me to come here, but left the decision to me. It's a stepping stone."

Hoping to become a professional musician, the recent graduate writes and arranges his own songs. And, although he enjoys performing, he wants to learn more about music theory and composition.

Lisa spends up to two hours a session, three nights a week at the center. A beginning bass guitarist, she hopes to get a good-paying job upon receiving her diploma to fund her music lessons.

"It's hard to study, practice music and hold a job all at the same time," she notes. "So I've made some choices which I hope will get me where I want to go eventually."

"Lisa and Danny have set goals for themselves and are highly motivated," says the center's director, Carole Beris. "Receiving a diploma is rewarding for them, but it gives us all a feeling of accomplishment."

Youngsters earn laurels in PTA Fair poster event

MOUNTAINSIDE—Winners in the Fair Poster Contest sponsored by the Mountainside PTA have been announced. A winner was chosen from each grade from a total of over 90 posters submitted for judging.

The posters will be displayed in school and around the community to advertise the May 12 Fair.

The winners are Chad Vigilanti, kindergarten; Kimberly Orwell, first grade; Shannon Keller, second grade; Grace Marie Nazarenko, third grade; Christine Santos, fourth grade; Peter Sempepos, fifth grade; Dawn Ray, sixth grade; and Kiri Schmey, seventh grade.

PTA Chairperson for the contest was Hope Swarts.

The next contest related to the Fair will be a cake-decorating competition, with exciting prizes for the first, second and third places in each division.

The grand prize for "best of show" will be ten games of bowling at Echo Lanes, three roller skating passes and rentals at Union Roller World, and three free shakes at the Union Wendy's. Combinations of donations from Echo Lanes, Roller World, Wendy's, MacDonald's, and Friendly's will make up the other prizes, according to Chairperson Carol Marinelli.

Students in three age categories are invited to submit their creations for judging on the day of the Fair.

Mrs. Marinelli also encourages parents to exercise their baking skills at the same time. Donations of cookies, brownies, cakes and other baked goods will help make the bake sale part of the Fair a success.

Mancino competes in pageant

KENILWORTH—Cathleen Mancino, 19, will be among 13 area contestants competing Saturday for the title of Miss Union County 1984 in the Miss Union County Scholarship Pageant. The pageant will be held at 8 p.m. at the Scotch Plains-Fanwood High School, Scotch Plains.

Mancino will be competing for a $1,000 scholarship and numerous other awards, along with the hopes of qualifying for the Miss New Jersey Pageant in July.

Retirees set lunch

MOUNTAINSIDE—The Mountainside Active Retirees will attend an installation luncheon on Tuesday at the Kingston Restaurant, Union. Car pooling will form at 11 a.m. in the Municipal Parking lot. Carol Hector, a local resident, will provide entertainment on the accordion. Reservations can be obtained by calling 232-9266.

Who cares?

Sometimes it makes one wonder: just what does it take to move the average citizen to get involved? In Mountainside, week after week, the same faces turn out at the borough council meetings and the same people usually stand up to speak, often expressing the same opinions over and over again.

The record of public involvement is even worse when it comes to writing letters or issuing statements on matters of civic interest in the community newspaper. It has become apparent that very few people in Mountainside care enough about issues affecting the welfare of the community to take time out to write their local newspaper. That's a shame, especially when this newspaper provides an open invitation to any and all of the borough residents who wish to make a public comment on whatever they believe to be important.

Is the epidemic of apathy the result of a lack of problems or issues in the borough? Are people under the delusion that Mountainside has become a utopia, where everyone can just sit back and let the community run itself. Hardly. Mountainside schools are faced with a chronic declining enrollment situation which threatens the very existence of the local district; the borough has one of the highest costs per pupil in the state; yet voter turnout in the recent school elections recently dropped to the lowest total in the last several years. Renovations are still needed to borough hall and the board of education building, and the fate of a talked-about community recreation center remains in doubt.

Problems? Oh yes, Mountainside has its share, and right up on the top of the list is the apparent fact that with the exception of a dedicated handful, no one in the borough really seems to care. Maybe, just maybe, that will change. But it's going to take a change in the collective consciousness of the community, from a preoccupation with taxes and property values, to evidence of a genuine concern for the welfare of the borough and one's fellow citizens. People of Mountainside, wake up. There's a community that surrounds you and it's counting on your involvement.

Adjustment possible when pain is chronic

By GEORGE F. WILSON, M.D.

This column is from The Carrier Foundation, a psychiatric facility. Inquiries should be addressed to The Carrier Foundation, Belle Meade, N.J. 08502.

In most instances, pain is a transitory, temporary experience. A person may suffer pain as a result of tooth decay, a physical injury resulting from a fall or blow, an acute attack of some illness, a muscular spasm in the neck or back or some internal organ. Sooner or later, depending on the nature of the cause, the condition is corrected or natural healing takes place and the pain goes away.

In some conditions, however, the pain does not go away but remains chronic, as, for example, with arthritis, a slipped disc, an injury to head, neck or back resulting from an automobile accident or industrial accident or battle wound, and others. In other words, there are people who have to live with pain of various levels of intensity as a fairly constant presence for years, or even for the remainder of their lives.

In many cases the individual is able to make an adjustment. He (or she) accepts the pain as a part of life and goes on with the business of living, resuming work or changing to some other occupation consistent with the disability; taking up family life, social life and recreation to the best of his ability. While the pain continues to be experienced, it tends to fade into the background and to become less intense.

There are cases, however, where an entirely different pattern develops — a condition known as the chronic pain syndrome. Although the actual physical injury, illness or impairment may be no greater than that in other cases, the individual will experience the pain as intense and intolerable. Instead of being pushed into the background, the pain becomes the focus of the individual's life. He (or she) feels that all of life has changed and that he will never be the same again. Instead of viewing himself as the same person with an extra burden to bear, a burden that can be accepted and dealt with, he sees himself as one who is impaired, disabled, and handicapped — a damaged person, forever. The pain becomes the central experience of that person's life, and, because of this mental state or attitude, the pain is actually intensified.

Typically, the individual with the chronic pain syndrome will go from doctor to doctor seeking medication or surgery to rid him of his pain. In cases where narcotics are prescribed, the individual is likely to become dependent on them, and, eventually may become addicted. This may also happen where the patient takes to drinking as a way of overcoming his pain. Even where drugs or alcohol use is not an issue, there is a progressive withdrawal from the activities of life and a progressive limitation of functioning. The individual may give up his work entirely, becoming financially dependent on relatives or on welfare or disability payments. The dependency may also become physical and emotional. Feeling incompetent and helpless, the individual will involve the family in tending to him, nursing him, and serving him.

Currently, The Carrier Foundation is planning to institute a treatment program for people suffering from chronic pain. Essentially, such a program would consist of the following elements:

- Working with the patient to accept the fact that he may never be free of the particular pain.
- Setting a goal of learning to live with the pain rather than trying to eliminate it.
- Enabling the patient to become active again, in spite of the pain. This would include going back to work or taking care of the family. This is essential since much of a person's self-esteem and positive motivation derives from working — whatever the work may be — or from being a homemaker.
- A program of regular daily exercise and physical therapy where necessary.
- Working with the family so they will stop feeding into the patient's feeling of self pity, dependency and helplessness and start treating him like a normal person and not as a handicapped or damaged person.

Scene around the towns

Irving B. Epstein of Springfield suggested this week's Scene around the towns, at top right — because it is in his hometown, and because, as a sheet metal contractor, he had a special connection with it. If you know where it can be found, let us hear from you by 9 a.m. Monday. Write to Scene, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 3109, 1291 Stuyvesant Ave., Union 07083.

Last week's Scene, above, was Children's Specialized Hospital in Mountainside.

"I was riding down New Providence Road in Mountainside on the way to a dog show at the Westfield Day Care Center and I spotted this ... scene," Lynn Bunting of Roselle wrote. "The scene is the old part of the hospital," she noted, adding, "When I was little, I used to sit on the lions in front of the hospital."

Mary Matyas of Elizabeth was en route to a friend's home when she recognized the hospital as the scene of the week. It is "very beautiful ... with the nice green grass." Like Bunting, she has childhood memories of the scene: "When I was a little kid, I used to slide down the railing," she said.

For Frank McSweeney of Linden, the scene was an easy one. A school bus driver, he delivered a load of Easter candy to the children at the hospital recently. The candy came from the children at St. John Vianney School in Colonia and members of Girl Scout Troop 194 of Cranford helped distribute it, he added.

Mildred Fennel of Mountainside recognized the Scene because "I drive past it every time I go into Westfield and I have also attended a 'fair' at the hospital ... sometimes I drive past it three or four times a day."

Too late for last week: The Easter scene was "the beautiful statue in front of St. Theresa's" in Kenilworth, Michael Korab of Linden wrote. Teresa Stamatis of Kenilworth also recognized the photo.

Invitation to elderly: Come to the seminar

By CONGRESSMAN
MATTHEW RINALDO
(R-7th District)

If you want to know more about Social Security, Medicare, and county, state and federal programs serving the elderly, then plan to attend my senior citizens seminar May 12 at North Plainfield High School.

It is open to the public and will be held from 8 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. in the auditorium of the high school on Wilson Avenue in North Plainfield, one block east of Route 22.

Among the speakers will be Joseph Kenny, branch manager of the Social Security Administration office in Plainfield. He will discuss benefits available under the Social Security program and review changes made in the system last year to ensure its continued financial integrity.

Among the other speakers will be

Ruth Reader, director of the Somerset County Division on Aging, who will describe county programs and services for the elderly. A report on the state programs and services will be given by Norman Mattson from the New Jersey Division on Aging.

An explanation of Medicare and advice on what senior citizens should look for in buying health insurance to supplement Medicare will be offered by Jack Gamble, Medicare claims director for the Prudential Insurance Company. Prudential administers the Medicare program in New Jersey for the federal government.

Consumer protection tips will be offered by Joan Godal of the U.S. Food and Drug Administration. The talk will focus on health gimmicks and what the consumer should watch out for in shopping for drugs, health-care items and medical devices.

In addition to these talks, I will be offering a status report on major legislation before Congress that is of particular interest to older Americans. It includes comments on several pieces of legislation I have sponsored to benefit the elderly. Some of these measures are now law and have had a direct, beneficial impact on the elderly residents of the 7th Congressional District.

Another feature of the seminar will be free blood pressure checks for those who wish to have them. This service will be provided by volunteer medical personnel from 8 to 9 a.m. The formal part of the program is scheduled for 9 a.m., and participants should plan to arrive sufficiently early to be seated by that hour.

Caseworkers from my office will be at the seminar to assist senior citizens with problems involving the federal government. Persons seeking assistance should bring any correspondence with federal agencies on the matter they want to discuss and any other pertinent records.

Various publications of interest to older Americans also will be distributed to those attending the session.

The seminar will serve as an educational forum and will give senior citizens an opportunity to gain a better understanding of programs intended to benefit them. Elderly constituents who will not be able to attend the seminar but would like additional information about programs and legislation affecting them are encouraged to write to me at 1961 Morris Avenue, Union, N.J., 07083. Or you may call in your request by dialing 687-4235.

The state we're in

Corporation gives a boost to conservation

By DAVID MOORE
Executive Director

N.J. Conservation Foundation Corporation philanthropy is a lot more common in this state we're in than most folks realize. The demands on the companies making their homes here are substantial, and getting greater all the time as less federal and state funding for helping people out puts more of a squeeze on the private sector.

It also means that the dollar competition takes more corporate time to administer. I mean, with thousands of demands from deserving charities hitting public affairs offices, more people are needed just to be able to sort out those requests.

That makes it all the more important that when a company provides a needed shot in the arm for land conservation, everyone should applaud it.

And so it is with AT&T, which just figured out a way to have its cake and eat it too by donating a perpetual conservation easement on a key coastal wetland to the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service as an addition to the Barnegat National Wildlife Refuge.

A conservation easement is a restriction on a deed, so that there are limitations on how that land can be used. New Jersey's farmland preservation program, now moving into place under the auspices of County Agriculture Development Boards, uses the same principle. In both cases, the "rights" of the landowners to do things that would destroy conservation values have been stripped away. The private landowner still owns the land, and pays some property taxes, but is not allowed to build on it. That restriction is worth money — enough so that the federal government rewards such donations of easements with a tax deduction.

Meanwhile, at the 10,200-acre Barnegat Refuge, the ducks and peregrine falcons are happy, because they are now assured of a place to live in peace, along with all their descendants.

The AT&T land comprises 2,400 acres — about four square miles. It has been used by the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service for several years to rear peregrine falcons. The agency has brought up 22 birds born in captivity so they could be released in the wild from what's called a "hack box" — an artificial nest that feels enough like the real thing to acclimate the birds to the wild. The falcons are an endangered species in the U.S., and a welcome addition to New Jersey's wildlife population.

Money management

Balance, risks factors in investment

You don't have to be a financial wizard to assemble a sound investment portfolio. There are some basic guidelines that most investors can use, according to the New Jersey Society of Certified Public Accountants (CPAs).

Before planning to manage your portfolio, ask yourself: Do I have a reserve large enough to cushion myself against heavy losses or sudden emergencies? Generally, that sum should equal three to six months of your take-home pay, depending on the number of people you support.

The best place for that reserve is a money market account at a bank, or in a money market fund through a brokerage house. Money market funds may yield a bit more interest, but you may still prefer the convenience of having your money readily accessible at your bank. In either case, its liquidity is reasonably assured.

Once you satisfy the need for that nest egg, you can begin to expand your investments. Basic considerations in managing your portfolio are balancing your investments and evaluating risks. Let's focus on risk first.

There's some risk in all investing. Generally, the higher the risk, the greater the potential return. A single person with a steady job could probably afford to speculate more than one with a young family and a huge mortgage. The speculator may put as much as a half of his or her portfolio into stocks of little-known companies on the chance they may develop into major players. Not everyone can comfortably accept risk for the chance of a bigger return, so be sure you have the temperament to go with the risk.

Balancing investments means selecting investments with varying degrees of risk according to your total financial picture. Someone positioning his or her portfolio around gold or silver probably ought to put some money into a less volatile income-producing investment is served because both kinds of land are kept open and in production for the kind of thing the land does best for us.

I hope more corporations follow AT&T's example in New Jersey, so that other acreage can be protected by easement. Here at the New Jersey Conservation Foundation, we have the responsibility for monitoring 25 easement properties, ranging from farmland to natural areas to suburban open spaces. We'd be glad to supply information about easements if you'd like to know more.

Thank you, AT&T!

Rt. 22 inspection station closed; new site sought

The New Jersey Motor Vehicle drive-in inspection station on Route 22 in Union will be closed "indefinitely" on May 31, according to Clifford W. Snedeker, state director of motor vehicles.

But township officials, reluctant to see it go, are searching Union for a spot to relocate the station.

"The station is being closed because the owner has terminated our lease and has requested that we vacate by May 31," Snedeker said, noting that about 81,000 vehicles are inspected there station each year.

Efforts to locate a new site in the immediate area are under way, Snedeker said.

"We only learned of the owner's decision last week and there has not been enough time to make any firm commitments. But ... once a suitable site is secured, we could install a new open-air inspection lane in roughly a week's time," he said.

Thomas J. Strapp, township administrator, said that he has been asked by the Township Committee E. James Roberts to look for a suitable site to relocate the station.

The administrator said he met with James Schaefer, executive director of the Union Township Chamber of Commerce, to discuss what areas might be available.

Schaefer and Strapp came up with a few potential pieces of land, including one piece of municipally-owned property on Green Lane, adjacent to the Elizabeth Iron Works.

The Green Lane property is a site where the station would have "the least impact on the township," Strapp said.

Strapp said that the township is also considering some privately-owned property.

Art Smith of the state DMV's public information office said Tuesday that a minimum of four acres is needed for the new site.

If there is no building on the property, Smith said the state will need land where a trailer can be placed.

"It has to be property that can be utilized for inspections on Saturday and must have a safe egress for the public," he added.

Until a replacement can be found, Snedeker urges motorists to use the inspection stations in Westfield, Newark, Plainfield and Rahway.

Although the Union station has been in operation since 1957, the state has been on a month-to-month lease there since Aug. 31, 1975, "since the owner did not want to enter into any long-term arrangements," he added.

The property, which recently was rezoned for condominiums and townhouses, is owned by SEI Union Properties Company of Chicago, Ill. Rental of the site cost the state $15,000 last year, he said.

Local patrons mourn burger haven closing

By BEVERLY GOLDROSEN
UNION—Five Points just won't be the same.

That was the consensus of area residents questioned at random just prior to the closing down of the White Castle on Monday, a visual and culinary staple in Union since 1950. The impromptu interviews were held at the Galloping Hills Mall and Five Points Shopping Center.

"It's been here for so many years," said Tina Ciravolo, of Woodland Avenue, Kenilworth. "I think it should stay. I think it should be here. It's been here a long time and I think it would be a nuisance by knocking it down. We should keep what we have—don't ask for trouble."

"I think it's a shame," agreed Maryann Genova, of Passaic Avenue, Kenilworth. "They should keep the building, even as a landmark. It's a shame; I felt bad when I heard about it. They should put it up on the hill by Freberger (Park). It would look good there."

"It's going to break my heart," said Bob Beasy, a 42-year-old Roselle Park resident. "My whole life has been survival through White Castle. It's a landmark. I'm a photographer, so I guess I should take some pictures of it."

"I think it's terrible, just plain terrible," said Fannie Brickous of Frances Court, Union. "Because you could at least get something to eat on Sundays. It's sad for some of us. Some of us don't care, but I care if it closes."

"If anything is closed, it's no good," said 61-year-old Jan Sydlar of Chestnut Street, Union. "It's been here so long; it should be here another 50 years." Will he really miss it that much? "Sure! The whole family will," he answered.

Even those who did not express much affection for the restaurant's culinary offerings agreed that the structure itself would be missed—it is reportedly the only White Castle left in New Jersey built in the original design, and one of six remaining in the country.

"I stop there every once in a while—not too often. But I do like having it around," said a 25-year-old resident of Louisa Street in Union.

"I never really went to White Castle, but I think it's (the closing is) stupid," a 26-year-old woman from Galloping Hill Road in Union said of the closing. She added that she had heard rumors that the building could be purchased for $7.50, and that, she said "sounds fishy." In fact, the building can reportedly be purchased for $10—but the new owner must pay for any moving expenses, and cannot use the structure to sell alcohol or promote pornography.

"It's been there for years, though," she continued. "My husband likes to eat there every once in a while, but as far as I'm concerned, I don't really care for it."

"MR. BIN" says...

WHAT HAPPENED TO "SERVICE"?

How do you get someone to wait on you when you're in doubt on color or size? ... or need something that isn't stocked but is available with a little "effort"? Personal service is a forgotten word in this world of big business and little people and, besides that, you're even paying more to "not be waited on!"

The secret is the "small store" ... owner operated for you, not the stockholders. His desire is to please you and give you what help and information you need, not sell you anything "just to make the sale!" BELIEVE ME... the small merchant wants to satisfy you... not just sell you, otherwise you won't come back.

Our sales people are here to help you and please... if they don't... let me know!

Performances will be held at Temple Beth El, 185 Montrose Ave., Rutherford, May 12, 13, 19 and 20. Curtain times are at 8 p.m. on Saturdays and 1:30 p.m. on Sundays.

The theme of the contest is "The Activity I Enjoy Most In Life," and judging will be based on overall expression and how it fits in with the "Life. Be In It" theme of participation in recreational activities.

There will be three categories for the poster contest: kindergarten through grade 2, grades 3-5 and grades 6-8. Posters can be done in any medium but must be on 11 x 17-inch paper, with the child's name, address, phone number, grade, name of school, activity depicted and why it is the favorite activity attached to the back on a separate piece of paper. Entries are limited to one poster per child and all posters must be received at the parks department offices, 3rd floor, Union County Administration Building, 1 Elizabethtown Plaza, Elizabeth, by 4 p.m. Friday, May 18.

Section 6. The following additional matters are hereby determined, declared, recited and stated:

- (a) The improvement or purpose described in Section 3 of this Bond Ordinance is not a current expense. - (b) The period of usefulness of the improvement or purpose within the limitations of the Local Bond Law, according to the reasonable life thereof computed from the date of the bonds authorized by this Bond Ordinance is 3 years.
- (c) The Supplemental Debt Statement required by the Local Bond Law has been duly prepared and filed in the Office of the Director of the Division of Local Government Services in the Department of Community Affairs of the State of New Jersey. (d) An aggregate amount not exceeding $10,000.00 for items of expense listed in and permitted under N.J.S.A. 40A:2-8 (a) is hereby authorized for the purpose of improvement.

Section 7. The full faith and credit of the Township of Springfield are hereby pledged to the punctual payment of the principal of and the interest on the obligations authorized by this Bond Ordinance. The obligations shall be direct, unlimited obligations of the Township of Springfield, and the Township of Springfield shall be obligated to levy and valetam taxes upon all the taxable property within the Township of Springfield, and the interest thereon without limitation of rate or amount.

EASY OUT—Dayton High School softball pitcher Sharon Kutsop fires over to first baseman Carol Heymann for the easy out during action last week against Roselle Park. Kutsop was the hard luck loser in Roselle Park's 3-0 no-hit victory.

Kutsop ups record, Bulldogs win 2 of 3

The Jonathan Dayton High School softball team, led by pitcher Sharon Kutsop, continued its winning ways with a 15-3 victory over West Orange April 25 in Springfield. Kutsop was stopped by Roselle Park 4-0 the next day however, but it took a no-hitter to do it. Kutsop returned to form Monday in a 3-2 win over Manville.

Leading the Bulldogs to its sixth straight win in the West Orange game, Kutsop extended her streak of scoreless innings to 33 allowing only two hits and striking out nine en route to her seventh victory with no losses. Lisa Wood led the offense with three hits and three RBIs including a homer in the third inning. Michele Coddington also cracked a solo homer.

Kutsop and her teammates were thwarted by Roselle Park freshman pitcher Lisa Dragon who struck out two and allowed only three batters to reach base during the no-hit shutout.

Kutsop struck out six and walked four in the four-hitter, but her scoreless inning streak was stopped in the first inning when Karen Critelli doubled in Donna Lewis after Lewis walked and stole second. Kutsop was also victimized by a bases-loaded error in the sixth inning in the outfield which allowed three runs to score.

Bears shut out by one-hitter

David Brearly's Bears didn't find their North Plainfield hosts to be very hospitable as they were roughed up 16-0 in softball action Monday.

After giving up a first-inning single to Bunny Legg, North Plainfield's Karen Lauten didn't allow the Bears a hit the rest of the way. Legg, pitching a six-hitter, walked seven in the first as North Plainfield scored eight times.

In a much tighter contest, the Bears fell victim to timely hitting and effective pitching on the part of a strong Middlesex squad which edged out a 5-4 win April 26 in Kenilworth.

The Bears were limited to seven hits by Middlesex hurler Cheryl Massa who struck out three enroute to the victory. The big blow came in the fifth inning when Cheryl Morella singled in Gretchen Somma for a 5-3 lead.

The Bears, now 3-5 overall, are in fifth place in the Valley Division of the Mountain Valley Conference with a 1-3 conference mark.

Bearly travels to Ridge for a 4 p.m. contest today and to Union Catholic Tuesday, also at 4 p.m.

Junior Olympics set

Elizabeth Pabst has been chosen to carry the torch during the opening ceremonies at the 19th annual Junior Olympics field day on May 12 at 1 p.m. at Meisel Field in Springfield.

Last year, after winning local and district events in the Junior Olympic program, she took second place in the half mile at the state level with a crisp 2:40. This year she hopes to break the local town record for junior girls (12 to 13) for the mile (6:16). This mark is currently held by Tracy Biber (1982) who as a high school runner holds all the freshman and sophomore records for Dayton from the mile to 5,000 meters.

The previous record was held by Mary Pat Parducci (1980) who as a high school senior is now the county champion at the same distance and holds records on many tracks in the area. If Pabst can best the marks of two such outstanding athletes, her potential is obvious and a remarkable dynasty of female distance runners at Dayton is established.

The local Junior Olympic track meet is open to all Springfield youths from age 7 to 13. Competition is separate for boys and girls and grouped according to age, 7 to 9, 10 to 11, and 12 to 13. Age is determined as of Jan. 1, 1984. No prior experience is required and all athletic children are encouraged to compete and discover sometimes unsuspected talent. Competition is offered in short dashes, middle distances, the long and high jump, the triple jump for older boys and the shotput. Medals are awarded for the first three places in each event. Winners are eligible to advance to district and state levels of competition. Registration forms are given out through the schools or are available at the track on the day of the meet just before the events begin.

The field day is sponsored by the Springfield Recreation Department, 376-5884. Greg Clarke, at 379-4520, is the meet director. The raindate is May 13. There is no entrance fee.

Bears will face UHS Saturday after big upset

In a tight pitching duel, David L. Brearly's Bears defeated Jonathan Dayton's Bulldogs 1-0 in the preliminary round of the Union County Baseball Tournament Saturday in Springfield.

The Bears, who were seeded 19th in the tourney, will take on a tough Union High School squad Saturday at 2 p.m. in Union. The UHS Farmers are seeded third in the UCT.

Bears hurler Ken Gries pitched a three-hitter, striking out six, and walking two. He also scored the game's lone run.

Dayton pitcher Richard Policastro only allowed six hits but balked the run home in the fifth. Gries tripled with two outs and came home on the balk sending the 14th-seeded Bulldogs down to defeat. Policastro is now 1-3.

Bears get hot, win 3 straight

Coming into the week with only one win against five losses, David L. Brearly's baseball team couldn't have asked for a better three games. The team came out of it 3-0, including an upset over Dayton in the preliminary round of the Union County Tournament on Saturday (see story above).

The Bears won their second baseball game of the season April 26 on the strength of Rich Russo's pitching and some timely hitting as the Bears defeated Middlesex 4-2 in Kenilworth.

The key for the Bears was in the eighth inning as Kevin Cullen doubled in a run and Chris Davey followed with an RBI single to give Russo the victory. The big inning began when Rich Heim lead off with a double and scored on Cullen's hit. Heim was two for four and Davey was 2 for three with two RBI.

Russo (1-2) gave up only four hits while pitching a complete game.

A grand slam and a clutch hit by Mike Mancino assured the Bears of their third straight win Monday in a 5-4 win over North Plainfield in Kenilworth.

Mancino drove in all five runs with a first-inning grand slam and an RBI single in the seventh that won the game for Phil LaFererra who pitched a six-hitter and struck out six for his first victory.

Bearly, now flirting with the .500 mark with a 4-5 record overall, are currently in fifth place with a 2-5 mark in the Valley Division of the Mountain Valley Conference.

Dragon had a perfect game going after four innings. In the sixth, Dayton put two runners on after an error and a walk, but Diane Tolhman lined into a double play. Dragon, the first freshman Panther pitcher to hurl a no-hitter, raised her record to 6-0.

A two-run triple by Linda Belenets in the seventh was the big blow in Dayton's 3-2 win over Manville Monday in Springfield. Setting the table for Belenets was Carmela Carpenter, who singled, and Michele Coddington, who worked herself on with a walk. Lisa Wood knocked in the first Dayton run in the fourth with a triple.

Kutsop tossed a three-hitter for her eighth victory against one loss. Her seven strikeouts added to her total of 76 in 54 innings pitched.

Dayton, on top of the Mountain Division of the Mountain Valley Conference with a 4-1 record, is 9-2 overall. The Bulldogs take travel to Millburn for a 3:45 p.m. game today. They return to Springfield Wednesday for a home game against North Plainfield at 3:45 p.m.

Bulldogs rest, Brearly falls in UC Tourney

Jonathan Dayton got to relax a week while David L. Brearly faced Hillside at home Saturday in the preliminary round of the Union County Softball Tournament.

Brearly's Bears, seeded 14th in the tourney, were upset by 19th-seeded Hillside High School 16-6 Saturday in Kenilworth.

Everything was looking good for the Bears as they clung to a one-run lead in the sixth. Then, the roof caved in. Hillside rallied for 11 runs led by Barb Kulish's two-run homer and Leah Riley's two-run double.

Loser Barbara Legg, 1-6, walked 10 Hillside batters.

Dayton's Bulldogs, led by pitcher Sharon Kutsop, have been seeded fourth in the tourney. They will take on Union Catholic in Springfield Saturday at 2 p.m. in the first round of the tourney.

The tournament continues on the next three Saturdays with the semifinal and championship games scheduled to be played under the lights at Memorial Field in Linden.

TORCH BEARER Elizabeth Pabst will signal the opening of the 19th annual Junior Olympics in Springfield May 12.

No-hit hurler has no luck

Allyson Glembocki of Kenilworth, a freshman at Susquehanna University, Selinsgrove, Pa., recently hurled a no-hitter, but still came up with a loss.

Glembocki, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Glembocki of N. 22nd Street, Kenilworth, gave up no hits, but received little support from her Lady Crusaders teammates in losing 3-0 against Elizabethtown. The hard-luck hurler is a graduate of David Brearly Regional High School.

Through 10 games, the Susquehanna University softball team has compiled a 2-2 record in the North-West Division and are 6-4 overall under first-year coach Donna Papa. Last season, the Lady Crusaders finished with a 9-11 mark.
