Program for jobless a first in N.J.

By ADA BRUNNER

Industries closing or moving out of the area.

No jobs.

No opportunity.

Those complaints have been heard, like a running theme, for a half a decade throughout the Union-Essex-Middlesex counties area, a Kean College spokeswoman noted this week.

Ellen Fraites made the comment as she described plans for a day-long conference for the unemployed — the first of its kind in New Jersey — which will be held Saturday on the Kean campus in Union.

Free workshops on retraining and on coping with the problems of joblessness will be conducted from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

The climax of the program will come at the end of the afternoon sessions, when a half a dozen $1,000 scholarships will be awarded to winners whose names will be drawn at random. Recipients will be able to use the scholarships for job training programs at any school of their choice throughout the area.

Funds for the scholarships, and for a free lunch which will be served, have been provided by area industries.

Fraites, a member of a 10-person project team which has been planning the conference since the start of the year, said the program is designed primarily for Union County residents. However, "you can't separate out Irvington — or Perth Amboy," she said. "We've even had calls from Short Hills."

Word about the conference has been getting out in a number of ways, including posters, publicity releases and State Unemployment Offices in Elizabeth, Plainfield and Irvington, where registration materials have been distributed to claimants.

Since the program will be a "first" for the state, planners are not sure how much of a crowd it will draw. But, Fraites said, similar conferences in the Midwest and in Maryland have been "very successful."

The program at Kean will include not only workshops but also information booths and counseling.

Nathan Weiss, Kean College president, and Commissioner Roger Bodman of the state Department of Labor will give the welcome at the opening session, which will be held from 9 to 10 a.m. in the Wilkins Theatre for the Performing Arts.

Also at that session, Howard Kurt, president of the employee-owned Hyatt Clark Industries in Clark, will speak on "The First Step" and Thomas Charpentier of the state Department of Labor will speak on "Where the Jobs Are Now and Where They Will Be."

From 10:30 a.m. to 1 p.m., participants will be able to visit booths where information will be available on financial aid, changing careers and future job opportunities; they also will have the opportunity to take part in workshops on training and job prospects for some two dozen occupations.

The programs and speakers will be:

Dental technologies: Joan Levinson of Scotch Plains, coordinator of the dental hygiene program at Union County College (UCC); Michael Walko of Scotch Plains, coordinator of the dental laboratory technology program at UCC; Theresa Fahringer of East Hanover, coordinator of the dental assisting program at UCC.

Pick Of The LPs, "Excuse Me Are You Reading That Paper?" by David Brenner (MCA Records).

David Brenner is probably best known for his guest-hosting of "The Tonight Show" and his appearances on all the major talk shows. In 1980 The Book Of Lists No. 2 recognized his popularity by citing him the number one most frequent guest on television.

What few people realize is that David is also a writer-producer-director as well as an author. Before stepping in front of the cameras, he enjoyed a very successful career behind the cameras as the creator of numerous documentary films and headed the prestigious documentary department of Westinghouse Broadcasting. His films earned him nearly 30 awards in that industry.

In 1983, David added another dimension to his career by writing his first book "Soft Pretzels With Mustard" published by Arbor House and containing accounts from his youth to the present.

Now, David has brought his writing and comedic talents to bear on his debut album, "Excuse Me Are You Reading That Paper?" David created a combination of dramatized excerpts from his book, bringing them to life with sound effects and actors; even his own parents, Lou and Estelle, portray themselves. He also correlated stand up routines recorded at live performances.

Two months after his first appearance on stage, David says, he played his first paying job at "Pips" in Brooklyn, earning $30 for five shows. Then 18 months later, he made his debut on "The Tonight Show." That appearance launched his career. Within months he appeared on the last live "Ed Sullivan Show" and had a debut in the main showroom at the Sahara Hotel in Las Vegas.

In 1975, David made his first headline appearance, playing to SRO audiences at Palumbos in his hometown of Philadelphia. From there, headlined nightclubs, theaters, college auditoriums and concert halls in 49 states.

David's main influence in comedy is his father, Lou, who was a vaudeville comedian. David credits his father with giving him his timing, delivery, and his sense of humor. Besides Lou, David is very close to the rest of his family, including his mother, his brother, Mel (a college professor), and his sister Bib (a high school teacher).

David was born and raised in the tough, poor sections of South and West Philadelphia. As a youth, he was a gang leader. Humor was a valuable instrument for dealing with life in the neighborhood, and David's use of humor helped get him through those years. He ultimately was elected both class president and class comedian in high school. David then attended Temple University, where he was graduated with honors in communications.

David has been honored by the American Guild of Variety Artists as "Male Comedy Star of the Year." He also was voted the "Las Vegas Comedy Star" award by his fellow performers.

His most cherished award occurred on May 5, 1978. That date was proclaimed "David Brenner Day" by his hometown of Philadelphia, to be presented with the keys to the city... a true showing of just exactly how far David Brenner had come.

Pharmacists launch anti-drug abuse effort

An innovative public information campaign using the resources of 55,000 community pharmacies, and 120,000 pharmacists across the country to help educate parents on the health dangers of illicit drug use by their children has been launched in New Jersey and the rest of the nation.

The program, called Pharmacists Against Drug Abuse (PADA) was created by McNeil Pharmaceutical and the Johnson & Johnson Family of Companies. It is built around a free brochure, "The Kinds Of Drugs Kids Are Getting Into." PADA focuses on alerting the public to the dangers of such commonly abused "gateway" drugs as marijuana and alcohol. According to Dr. Carlton E. Turner, director of the White House Drug Abuse Policy Office, "These are the two substances young people are most likely to use in entering the drug scene." The program also focuses on cocaine, the fastest growing drug of abuse in America.

PADA is sponsored by the Pharmacists Against Drug Abuse Foundation, a foundation created by McNeil Pharmaceutical and the Johnson & Johnson Family of Companies specifically for the program. In addition to endorsements from First Lady Nancy Reagan, PADA has the ongoing support of the White House Drug Abuse Policy Office, ACTION—the federal volunteer agency, The National Parent's Resource Institute for Drug Education (PRIDE) and the National Federation of Parents for Drug Free Youth.

Speaking before media conferences in New York and Los Angeles to launch the program nationwide, Dr. Turner emphasized that over one-third of all youth in America use illegal drugs and one out of every 18 high school seniors use marijuana every day.

Turner added, "Parents and children need to know that using these drugs is harmful. For example, marijuana can have a marked impact on a child's ability to learn and to remember things. What we're really talking about is an epidemic of drug abuse which is a threat, a real danger to a generation of young people."

Other participants in the announcement of the program launch were actor Michael Landon, national spokesman for PADA; Margaret Heckler, secretary of Health and Human Services; Thomas W. Pauken, director, ACTION; and Jack E. O'Brien, president, McNeil Pharmaceutical and the Pharmacist Against Drug Abuse Foundation.

According to O'Brien, the program was developed using pharmacists because "local pharmacists, by academic training and professional expertise are experts in drugs and an excellent source of information on drug abuse." He added, "to make the program successful we must do more than distribute 25 million brochures on drug abuse throughout the United States.

Additionally, parents must educate themselves about drug abuse, talk to their kids, get involved in their communities, and form and work with existing parents groups that can turn around the drug abuse problem in America."

Pauken, who represents the federal government agency that supports volunteer programs, said that ACTION was enthusiastic in cooperating in the PADA program as it represents one of the single largest joint endeavors of private/public sector programs in the country.

In addition to the free brochures available at participating pharmacies, the PADA program also includes a public service television and radio campaign featuring Michael Landon. This campaign encourages people to seek out their local pharmacist for information on drug abuse.

Parents who want further information about how to aid in the fight against drug abuse, may call: ACTION•PRIDE, the National Resource Center at 800-241-7946 or the National Federation of Parents for Drug-Free Youth at 800-554-KIDS.

PADA SPOKESMAN—Actor/director Michael Landon, national Pharmacists Against Drug Abuse spokesman, talks with a pharmacist about the anti-drug abuse information program.

SEH plans many activities for Hospital Week

With the announcement, "We're the Caring Kind," St. Elizabeth Hospital (SEH) joins hospitals throughout the nation in celebrating National Hospital Week 1984, Monday to May 12.

"The 1984 National Hospice Week theme pays tribute to the special kind of people we have at St. Elizabeth Hospital," said Sister Margaret Doherty, SEH executive director. "Whether they be physicians, employees, volunteers, visitors, or trustees, they are all people who are the Caring Kind. They are people who care about one another and about the community. It is their commitment to caring that we celebrate this week."

Free blood pressure screenings will be offered to the public on May 11, from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. and from 4 to 6 p.m., in the Health habits are the basics

To achieve the maximum benefits of any health-improvement program, several good health "basics" must be understood and accepted. These include:

- Eliminate smoking — According to the Surgeon General of the United States it is injurious to the smoker's health, and some physicians believe that even "sidestream" smoke is harmful to non-smokers.
- Moderate the intake of alcohol and caffeine. The upper limit is 15 ounces of hard liquor (10 drinks) or equivalent in wine or beer per week and three caffeine-containing drinks per day.
- Prescription drugs should be taken in accordance with physician's instructions.

hospital's Education Center. Literature on high blood pressure will be available. Further information on these screenings, is available by calling the Nursing Education Department at 527-5390.

Community awareness of National Hospital Week will be heightened with a window display at Steinbach's Department Store, East Broad Street, Elizabeth, and a student art poster contest at a local school, with the posters being displayed in the hospital cafeteria throughout the week. Winners of the contest will be presented with cash awards and a reception and tour at the hospital for themselves, their families and the school's administration.

On Employee Appreciation Day on Wednesday, administrative and management staff members will serve lunch and dinner to employees. Additionally, special food prices will be offered, and employees will be given a special token commemorating the day. A photographic display featuring employees in their various posts in the hospital will also highlight the theme, "We're the Caring Kind."

Physicians will be honored May 11 with a continental breakfast. That evening, a Volunteer Service Awards ceremony and dinner will credit the dedication and commitment of the volunteers to the hospital. Throughout the week, hospital patients will receive special information and literature on their food trays.

In addition to National Hospital Week activities, the St. Elizabeth Hospital Nursing Staff has planned special events honoring its nurses on National Nurses' Day, Monday. Announcement will be made of the Registered Nurse and Licensed Practical Nurse of the Year with a special ceremony and reception for nurses on all shifts. A display in the Main Lobby of the hospital will feature nursing memorabilia, including antiquated nursing uniforms, caps and yearbooks, a collection of nursing dolls in various uniforms throughout the world, and literature about the nursing profession. Also featured will be a display of nursing pins representing the alma maters of SEH nurses, letters of greeting from nursing leaders throughout the state, and a proclamation of Nurses' Day 1984 presented to the SEH

Nursing Staff by the City Council of Elizabeth.

Sister Doherty concluded, "We could not serve the community without the community's support and the dedicated effort of our employees. National Hospital Week 1984 is a celebration of both our employees and the community. Only by working together can we truly be the Caring Kind."

National Hospital Week is sponsored each year by the American Hospital Association and its 6,300 member hospitals throughout the country.

Teeth tips

Here are tips on keeping your teeth clean from periodontists, the dentists who specialize in treating gum disease.

Place brush head alongside teeth, with bristle tips angled at gum line. Brush gently and with very soft strokes, but use enough pressure so that you feel the bristles against the gum. Remember, only the tips of the bristles clean; don't squash them.

The toothbrush cleans only one or two teeth at a time so change the position of the toothbrush frequently. Brush insides of front teeth with the "toe," or front part of the brush.

Use dental floss to clean the sides of teeth. The floss goes under the gum line.

Local grandmother 'takes it off' with the help of Lean Line's class

Joan Nisch from Irvington has lost an incredible 102 pounds and is wearing a slinky size 10. Finding little success after years of dieting from the time she was a teen-ager, she agreed to accompany a friend to a Lean Line class.

She was pleased and surprised by her initial success. Joan found that as her weight dropped, her energy increased, her arthritis was not as painful and she didn't feel as if she was "over the hill." In fact, her 2-year-old grandson thinks she has "nice legs."

At any age it is important to look and feel your best. It is also important to lose weight in such a way that you learn proper nutrition, lose weight gradually and keep it off. Whether you are a young grandmother like Joan, a teen-ager, a young mother or an overweight executive, Lean Line has a program that will fit your needs and your lifestyle. Some of the programs that were available to Joan and all Lean Line members are a Tension and Stress diet, a one week of discipline called "Magic" and the regular Lean Line weight loss and maintenance program.

Further information about Lean Line and the classes offered in the area is available by calling 757-7677.

Disabled POWs may be eligible for VA benefits

The Veterans Administration is reminding former prisoners of war that a law enacted in 1981 broadened the agency's authority to provide health care for ex-POWs and liberalized rules for determining whether compensation can be paid for certain medical conditions.

Residuals of certain conditions suffered in prisoner-of-war camps are presumed to be related to the POW experience. A former POW who is now disabled by one of these conditions may qualify under the law for VA disability payments without the need for additional proof. It will be presumed, in the cases of former POWs, that the conditions originated in, or were aggravated by, military service.

A recent law added dysthymic disorder (depressive neurosis) to a list of such diseases which already included chronic dysentery, helminthiasis, nutritional deficiency (such as beriberi, pellagra), psychosis, and any of the anxiety states including post traumatic stress disorder.

Any former POW who was detained or interned for 30 days or more, and who became disabled by one of these conditions at any time after his military service, will be presumed to have incurred the condition during his military service unless there is evidence of some other cause.

VA Administrator Harry N. Walters urges all former POWs to register with their nearest VA office. Information on disability compensation and other benefits, including medical and dental care, will be provided along with assistance in applying.

Warming up properly essential to exercise

Organizing and sticking to a regular schedule of workouts can make you look better, feel better and live a lot longer.

The surest way to a successful exercise program is a good beginning. In physical fitness, a good beginning is the proper choice of clothing and shoes, and an adequate warm-up period.

If your circulation is nil and your muscles stagnant or tight, injuries can result. A warm-up period can help prevent muscular and skeletal injuries and reduce soreness, by gradually stimulating cardiovascular activity and breaking a light sweat. As your circulation increases blood is pumped to your muscles, making them warm and pliable.

The warm-up should consist of five to 10 minutes of stretches, flexibility exercises and light calisthenics. Be specific and warm up those parts of your body that will be exercised during the actual workout.

Sustained, static stretches help lengthen muscles and loosen joints. Start slowly, then gradually build up your heart rate and breathing so that a smooth transition can be made to more strenuous exercises.

An adequate warm-up can also make you better prepared mentally and emotionally for the work out to follow.

Practice common sense by building a warm-up period into your workouts.

The choice of clothing is dependent on the weather conditions and type of activity. Clothing should provide for freedom of movement without being overly loose.

In warm weather, clothing should protect you from heat exhaustion and muscle cramping. Wear fabrics that are porous and act like a blotter. Both conditions facilitate the evaporation of sweat, which is the primary way body temperature is regulated during exercise.

Sensitivity to foods affects many people

If eating meals frequently leaves you feeling drowsy or bloated, nauseous or constipated, even irritable or depressed, your daily diet probably includes too many "healthy" foods.

In fact, according to findings released by clinical ecologists, you suffer from a somewhat underpublicized ailment called food sensitivity. However, you needn't despair. You are not alone in your suffering.

Each day, countless millions of your fellow citizens are also plagued by severe headaches, sore throats, gastric discomfort, sinus problems and dozens more telltale symptoms of food sensitivity, including those mentioned above.

The fact is, food sensitivity strikes Americans daily. And many of these people are unaware they have a food-related problem.

It is small wonder, too, because the foods doing the harm are the same foods most people have been taught are good for them. They are the foods most often consumed. And they are at the root of the problem.

Wheat and other grains, milk and dairy products, red meats, sugars and similar "good foods" are the culprits that cause you, and other sufferers of food sensitivity, to feel miserable. Fortunately, there is a way out of this dietary prison.

If you live almost anywhere in the metropolitan area, you can go for help to a private center called New Outlook Nutrition, Inc. Under the care and supervision of licensed physicians, New Outlook Nutrition has devised a treatment program for sufferers of food sensitivity.

Since opening its doors for business, New Outlook Nutrition has successfully treated so many patients, it has quickly grown to be one of the largest treatment centers in the state.

If you believe you suffer from food sensitivity, all you have to do is arrange an initial meeting with New Outlook Nutrition in its offices. Prior to the first consultation, you'll be asked to complete a questionnaire which will help the New Outlook Nutrition physician assigned to your case determine if you have a food related problem.

If your answers indicate that you need help, New Outlook Nutrition will take you on as a patient for their 3-step, six week program:

New Outlook Nutrition, Inc. is a professionally staffed health center treating patients in Union which is open five days a week from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Consultations may be arranged by calling 686-2990.

Hospice and hospital sign joint agreement

Elizabeth General Medical Center will provide inpatient hospice care to terminally-ill patients served by Center For Hope, Inc., as a result of a recent agreement with the hospice organization, announced David A. Fletcher, chief operating officer of Elizabeth General, and Peggy Coloney, president of Center For Hope, Inc.

Services to be provided by Elizabeth General include management of pain and other symptoms, respite care such as bathing and feeding, and psycho-social support services for the patient and his or her family.

According to Elliioth Fishkin, M.D. director of the Cancer Program of Elizabeth General, "Hospice care involves treatment and care for terminally-ill patients which allows them to continue life with minimal disruption, primarily in the home. On occasion, however, hospice patients need inpatient care for pain control or symptom management."

Elizabeth General will provide such services to terminally-ill patients as emergency care, nursing care, physician and other professional services, medication, the use of therapists and other ancillary services. According to Dr. Fishkin, the hospice program will draw upon several special features of the cancer program at Elizabeth General, including a private, home-like hospice room, a kitchen where favorite foods may be prepared, an area where the patient's family may find privacy, 24-hour visiting and overnight accommodations for family members, and the services of a psycho-social counselor.

In existence since 1982, Center For Hope, Inc., located in Union, focuses upon a concept of caring for the terminally-ill and their families, enabling the patient to live as fully as possible, making the entire family the unit of care and centering the caring process in the home, according to Peggy Coloney, president of the organization. Essentials of hospice care include: palliative care which focus on comfort, not cure; management of pain and other symptoms; psychological, emotional, and spiritual support to patient and family; provision of trained medical personnel, nurses, social workers, clergy and trained volunteers; community education, and bereavement care for the survivors

"We're looking at this joint effort as an opportunity to provide Union County with a compassionate and caring addition to the already good medical services provided," Coloney explained.

According to Fletcher, "Elizabeth General is delighted to reach a point where we can work with the Center For Hope to provide excellent hospice care."

Soups make good sense for meals in the summer

The foods of summer — they're quick, they're cool and they're a lot of fun, but many of them strike out when it comes to good nutrition.

In the game of summer eating, the real stars are food that fit fast-paced summer lifestyles, and are low in calories and high in nutrition.

Soups bat a thousand for summer nutrition. They not only taste great on a hot summer day, but help keep us in top shape for fun in the sun.

Why soup?

A recent analysis of the food consumption habits of more than 28,000 Americans indicates that people consume fewer calories on days they eat soup, on average, than on "soupless" days.

Directed by Dr. Jack Smith of the University of Nebraska Medical Center, the study initially sought to identify any foods that are generally associated with high or low caloric intake. While many of the 226 food groups examined were consumed more often on days of high caloric intake, only soup was disproportionately consumed on the lowest calorie day.

In fact, the data showed that soup is one-and-one-half times as likely to be a part of the diet on the day an individual consumes the lowest number of calories.

This held true regardless of the quantity of food eaten, the season, the locale, or the person's age, sex or race, and led researchers to hypothesize that soup is a "dietary pacesetter" that may help to moderate over-eating and obesity.

These findings really hit home in the summer — prime time for fitness and health awareness. Hot or chilled, soups are an ideal summer food. They are quick, low in calories and nutritious.

Smoking is danger

Only a decade ago, scientists had little understanding of the role personal habits and the environment play in causing cancer. Americans had little information on the actions they could take to prevent cancer.

Now, according to the National Cancer Institute, numerous laboratory and population studies show that up to 80 percent of cancer cases may be associated with the way people live their lives. For example, the foods they eat, the work they do, and whether they smoke all affect their likelihood of getting cancer.

These studies have given us important clues for the prevention of cancer. Scientists now believe that most cancers are caused in two steps by two kinds of agents: initiators start the damage to a cell that can lead to cancer, and promoters stimulate the development of cancer but usually do not cause cancer by themselves.

For example, studies show that alcohol promotes the development of mouth and throat cancers when combined with an initiator, such as tobacco. Although the action of initiators has been shown to be irreversible, the effects of repeated exposures to a promoter can be reversed. Thus, a new approach to cancer control involves finding ways to interfere with promoters to prevent onset of the disease.

Epidemiologists have estimated the number of U.S. cancer deaths that might be prevented by eliminating some of the known or suspected cancer risk factors associated with personal behaviors and practices.

According to these data, about 30 percent of current U.S. cancer deaths are due to tobacco use. An additional 30 to 35 percent of cancer deaths could be avoided through changes in dietary habits.

Rajoppi beginning new investment program

Joanne Rajoppi, Union County register of deeds and mortgages, has announced a new policy which she said will raise new revenues in excess of $15,000 in 1984 for the county at no cost to the taxpayers.

Until now, she said, the register's office has maintained three bank accounts, none of them earning interest. They are: an account for daily cash deposits, which includes recording fees turned over to the county on a monthly basis; an account for realty transfer fees; and a revolving account for lawyers for charge purposes.

"Recently, I have authorized our daily cash deposit account to be invested in a money market account at a varying interest rate. Based on an average monthly balance of in excess of $35,500 for 1983, this account will yield approximately $2,500 over the next nine-month period," Rajoppi said.

For the largest of the three accounts, the realty transfer fee account, which maintained an average monthly balance of over $188,000 during 1983, "I have authorized a monthly eight-day repurchase agreement with a fluctuating yield," she added. "This account will yield approximately $3,800 over the next nine-month period."

The repurchase agreement is backed by U.S. Treasury notes and bonds. In addition, it is insured through the Governmental and Deposit Protection Act.

"Lastly," Rajoppi said, "I have placed the lawyers' account and realty transfer fee account in two NOW accounts at a fixed yield. These accounts will yield approximately $9,200 over the next nine-month period."

Rajoppi concluded, "While the register's office continues to generate the largest portion of revenue for Union County, I will continue to seek innovative means to add to the revenue. This will be the first time in the history of the register's office that interest has been earned on any type of account."

Association receives a surprise donation

The Union County Association for Retarded Citizens, whose headquarters is at 1220 South Ave. in Plainfield, received an unexpected donation for its Thrift Shop recently.

It was, to all appearances, a carton of clothes left outside the front door.

On top were some shirts, neatly folded and packed.

But when staffers began to unpack the box, three black puppies suddenly popped up.

Fussed over by the trainees at the association headquarters, the puppies quickly lapped up a carton of milk. All three were then adopted by staff members.
