BOE candidates examine the issues

Editor's note: On April 2, borough residents will cast their votes for two of the following four candidates, profiled below in alphabetical order, vying for seats on the Mountainside Board of Education. The backgrounds and qualifications of the candidates appear in opposite order in article below.

By SHAWN EVANS
& PHILIP GIMSON

Elizabeth Bellezza

Running on the campaign theme that she is "committed, competent and concerned," Elizabeth Bellezza says that her primary objective as a candidate for the Mountainside

ELIZABETH BELLEZZA

Board of Education is based on the educational welfare of the children.

"That should be the primary objective for all board decisions. I also feel we must maintain local control of our schools and prevent regionalization," Bellezza says.

Bellezza states that she intends to bring to the board a "positive attitude" if elected and plans to commit herself to researching budgetary items.

"I want to continue to help provide quality education in a cost-effective way," she says.

Her aspirations to join the board stem from her desire to actively assist in maintaining a strong school system, Bellezza states.

"We have a responsibility to meet the needs of all our children — the average, the gifted and the special," she says.

A self-described "active volunteer" in the school system for several years, Bellezza says she has an understanding of both families with school children as well as those on fixed incomes, since she has worked closely with both groups.

Bellezza contends she will be an asset to the board because she is a concerned parent with three young children and has "a vested interest" in the quality of the educational system.

Giving her assessment of the proposed 1985-86 school year budget, Bellezza says she basically supports it and if elected, plans to thoroughly review each budgetary line item.

"As a taxpayer in Mountainside for 12 years, I want quality education to continue in a cost-effective way. I will examine all the facts thoroughly and use tax dollars wisely," she says.

Bellezza also says she fully supports the present administrative structure which includes a full-time principal and superintendent.

"I feel very strongly about having a strong administration; I believe in the two positions because I think it's in the children's best interest to continue with the administrative structure that we have," she says.

In other issues, Bellezza says she believes the enrollment will level off and even increase.

"I think the enrollment will plateau within the next two years at about 400 as long as we can continue to provide quality programs. By maintaining a quality school system, you are going to attract new families with school-aged children," she says.

She added, "It is vitally important to me that we continue to maintain and build a strong school system at reasonable costs."

Linda Esemplare

After 19 years of involvement in the Mountainside School system, including two terms on the board, incumbent Linda Esemplare is running on a campaign theme of "experience, knowledge, and I want to win," she adds.

"The only thing that makes me a good board member is I do extensive research on every single, solitary item," Esemplare states. "If I feel strongly about something, I'll fight for it."

In seeking her third term, Esemplare claims that her six years on the board have given her insight into the problems and issues facing the school system.

"You have to know the background — you have to know where the school system has been in order to know where it's going," Esemplare says.

Among her main accomplishments, Esemplare says she "pushed for" and helped establish an enrichment literature program at the school and helped form the School Advisory Council.

Esemplare has spoken out adamantly against the proposed 1985-86 school year budget and the present administrative structure.

Esemplare contends that the cost for administrative salaries alone for one full-time superintendent and one full-time principal during the 1985-86 school year will be in excess of $120,000.

"There are some people who honestly cannot do both jobs; but to would be forced to do so, but if a regionalization did occur, it would not be as devastating as many believe.

"The only thing we would really lose are the administrative costs. I feel if we did merge with another district we would probably maintain a kindergarten through grade 5 level; you'd keep your teachers but me, our superintendent (Dr. Margaret Kantes) is already doing some of those duties; since the principal is retiring this year it's logical that she move over," Esemplare says.

She adds that the issue to combine the two positions is not dead, at least not for the taxpayers of the community, and that this option could be the only way of holding down administrative costs.

"The school budget has only seen a decrease once throughout all the years that we had declining enrollments; all other years there has been an increase; this has got to stop."

Esemplare contends that a decrease in the budget is long overdue, because "this town has always been behind us and I have faith that the community will come to the help. They taxpayers made this school — but as the enrollment began to go down the town said, 'when are we going to see a break?'. We cannot continue to ask the taxpayers for more tax dollars for fewer students," she says.

Regarding a threat of regionalizing, Esemplare says she has doubts that the school system the superintendent's cost would be saved.

Because the result of regionalization would be that administrative costs would be cut anyway, Esemplare contends that the district must do what it can now to trim these costs now and avert the threat of regionalization.

DOROTHY UNCHESTER

Dorothy Unchester

Dorothy Unchester says that she is seeking election to the board because she "has a genuine commitment to the children and a commitment to education."

An adamant proponent of local control of the school system, Unchester believes there "are several challenges to local control" that must be faced in the future, including the decline in student enrollment over the last several years.

Unchester speculates that based on a demographic study of the district completed prior to the closing of the Beechwood School, enrollment will begin leveling off.

Regardless of what happens to the enrollment numbers, Unchester says, "I see no reason to regionalize. I think local control is something we should cherish. There's a certain closeness in running the schools at the local level."

Unchester claims that enrollment "has nothing to do with regionalization so long as the town is willing to support the school financially."

In her assessment of the 1985-86

budget, Unchester says, "I'm in favor of the budget. I think it's reasonable, because the board did not add or delete any programs. You can almost consider this a freeze." Inflation accounts for much of the increase, she claims.

Unchester explains that she is strictly opposed to any proposal that would combine the roles of school principal and superintendent into one administrative position. "Two administrative positions provide not only a collaborative effect, but a check and balance system," Unchester says. "The principal I see is the key figure in improving the system."

She also argues that "the overwhelming majority of school districts" have separate administrative positions.

While some opponents of the budget have argued that the district's administrative costs are too high, Unchester states, "the total administrative costs are only 7.5 percent of the (school) budget. In general among non-profit organizations, the average administrative budget is 15 percent."

Rather than combining positions, Unchester is in favor of a number of alternatives for increasing district revenues. These include the "adopt a school" program, where industries would make donations to help fund specific resources or courses, the possibility of combining buying power with neighboring schools and self-insurance programs.

Unchester says she is a supporter of the proposal to institute minimum teacher salaries of $18,500, "because you get what you pay for. I believe teachers should be paid more money." Such a proposal would provide incentives for qualified entry level people, Unchester says, arguing that many non-degree entry level positions in other professions pay even more in salary.

William Vetter

In stressing his ability to remain objective because he does not have children presently enrolled in the Mountainside school district, William B. Vetter says he is seeking election to the board simply because he believes in the system.

"While I've heard some board members talk about doing certain things because they have children in the school system, I believe that because I no longer have children going to school in Mountainside, I will not have a vested interest if I'm elected to the board."

Vetter also says that he believes he will help give the board "a little more representation," because only 15 percent of the families in the entire borough have school-aged children.

One of the primary issues Vetter is calling attention to in his campaign is what he considers to be an overly heavy financial burden being placed on taxpayers by the school system: "I would like to have a system of quality education, but at a fair cost; the present budget does not indicate that," Vetter says.

He considers one of the biggest problems facing the district to be the decline in student enrollment, which he claims indicates the proposed budget is unrealistic.

"I am against the budget because it is much too high. A bit of money is going out for administrative costs that I think it can definitely be reduced," Vetter says.

He adds, "The cost is $6,500 per pupil, the highest in Union County. I attended that budget hearing and I saw how upset many of the residents were," he says.

Vetter says substantial reductions can be made by combining the role of the superintendent and principal, and moving the board offices into the Deerfield School.

Regarding his views on the enrollment status, Vetter says he believes it will eventually bottom out, but not without a further decline.

"Eventually it will have to level off, but I see a decline in the next three or four years; but it depends on the cost of homes and the number of families moving into the community," Vetter says.

He says he also feels there is a real danger that the district will be regionalized.

"If we don't bring the cost per pupil down, this can happen and it upsets me to think that we may have this (regionalization) mandated upon us. I want to keep Mountainside a local school system," he contends.

In light of the current debate at state level over the proposed minimum salaries for teachers, Vetter says that as a teacher, he believes it's important to attract qualified instructors at the entry level by offering "a fair and competitive salary."

Election hopefuls field diverse talents

A diversity of experience and qualifications is evident in the backgrounds of the four candidates competing for the two open seats on the Mountainside Board of Education in the April 2 school board elections.

The four candidates are incumbent Linda Esemplare and first-time challengers Elizabeth Bellezza, Dorothy Unchester and William Vetter.

Vetter, of 363 Central Ave., has 25 years experience as a school teacher in the Springfield school district, where he teaches the fourth grade. He is an instructor of social studies, reading, mathematics and spelling.

Vetter holds a master's degree in administration and supervision from University. He was actively involved in the Mountainside PTA for many years.

The father of three children, all of whom went through the Mountainside school system, Vetter is the only candidate without children currently attending the Deerfield school, a fact that he says indicates he has "no vested interest" in seeking election to the board.

Unchester, of 1467 Force Road, has a total of nine years professional experience in education. A former teacher of grades 3 and 5 in the Matawan school district with a master's of science degree in student personnel services guidance and counselling, Unchester worked as a school counselor for grades 6-8 in Marlboro.

Currently, she serves as the vice president of the PTA for grades M.O.P.P.E.T. (Mountainside Pre-school Program for Exceptional Tot) thru 3 at Deerfield and for the past two years, has worked as chairperson for the Special Education Advisory Council. Her activities have also included work as an after-school activities teacher and as chairperson of the PTA school fair and the school store.

A member of the New Jersey Association for Children with Learning Disabilities, Unchester belongs to both the Deerfield Enrichment Steering Committee and the Honor Roll Committee.

Esemplare, of 583 Woodland Ave., who is seeking election to her third term, is a six-year veteran of the board. Among her achievements on the board, Esemplare notes that she worked to institute an enrichment literature program at the Deerfield School and helped form a School Advisory Council.

Esemplare has been associated with the local schools for 19 years. After joining the PTA in 1966, she participated in the neighborhood mother program and worked periodically as a classroom mother at the Deerfield School for nine years. She later served as vice president of the Beechwood School for two years before joining the board in 1979.

Bellezza, of Stoney Brook Lane, is a PTA board member and a member of that organization for the last six years. A 12-year resident of Mountainside, Bellezza edited the PTA newsletter and participated in the school's reading enrichment program.

Bellezza, a six-year specialist in school media productions, has conducted courses in television production for the past three years in Deerfield's After-School Activities program. She holds a degree in English from Pace University, with a minor in education.

Her professional experience includes work as a writer for the CBS on the "Captain Kangaroo Show" and as an editor and columnist for Cue magazine. Bellezza has also authored a book entitled, "Guide to Dining in New York."

Her memberships include the American Association of University Women, the Junior League Elizabeth/Plainfield, the College Women's Club of Westfield and the Children's Athletic Committee, D.A.C.

Boro seeks to clarify parking

An ordinance to amend a present law which limits parking to an hour on certain streets in the borough of Mountainside was discussed Tuesday night by the governing body at its regular action meeting, but officials decided to table the issue to draft minimal changes.

At present, the borough ordinance places time restrictions of 60 minutes on vehicles parked on Sherwood Parkway, Woodland and Mountain avenues. But the parking limitation has been interpreted in such a way that individuals park in one location and then move the car elsewhere for an additional hour, officials explained.

Borough Attorney John Post noted that officials are dealing with a problem that has generated from a particular commercial establishment on one of the avenues with parking restrictions.

Apparently, drivers have been parking their vehicles for the given hour, and then move them to another spot, giving them the convenience of a parking space in the area for yet another hour.

The intent of the proposed amendment, generated from discussions, would specify that a driver is restricted to only one hour on the particular avenue, regardless of whether the car is moved to another location.

together and that the car should be ticketed if the periods total more than one-hour for any reason.

In other council action, Borough Administrator Jim Roberts told Policemen's Benevolent Association President Alan Kennedy that there has been no "clear delineation at this time" regarding the arbitrator's report on the decision in the ongoing litigation over the new police contract.

"At this point, we don't have a particular doctrine that the council can vote on. There are no major problems and it's in the hands of the PBA attorney at this point," Roberts said.

He added that the PBA's submission and the arbitrator's decision "greatly lack specificity."

Car stolen from Rt. 22 motel

A 1985 BMW was reported stolen Sunday from the Holiday Inn, Route 22, Springfield. Springfield police said this week. According to reports, the car was described as a white two-door, valued around $20,000.

Police also said an Escort radar detector was reported stolen Saturday from a car parked at Smuggler's Cove, Morris Avenue, Springfield.

William Rowand, 35, of West Orange, was arrested for driving while intoxicated Friday morning. According to reports, Rowand, 35, was driving on Route 24 when he was arrested by Special Police Officer Robert Fenner.

Rowand was also charged with refusal to take the Breathalyzer test and driving while suspended.

In Municipal Court March 11, Springfield resident Marilyn Bruder, 41, of Hillside Avenue, was found not guilty of a disorderly persons offense she was arrested for in December.

Bruder, who pleaded not guilty to obstructing the administration of law and additional motor vehicle violations, was found not guilty of the interference charge, but guilty of disregard of a police officer's signals, according to Detective Robert Mason.

Another motor vehicle citation, for not having insurance, was downgraded to not having an insurance card in possession, Mason said. Bruder was fined a total of $40 by Judge Robert Weltchek.

In Municipal Court Monday, Mark Klein, 24, of Bayonne, pleaded guilty to a second offense of driving while on the revoked list. Judge Weltchek fined him $750, in addition to a one-day jail sentence and a six-month revocation.

Arthur Kaufman, 35, of East Orange, pleaded guilty to driving while suspended and careless driving. He was fined a total of $575 and received a six-month revocation.

MISHAP SPOT—The state Department of Transportation rated this intersection — the Morris Avenue-Meisel Avenue-Springfield Avenue complex — one of the 10 intersections in Union County with the highest mishap rate. According to the Department of Transportation's latest figures, in 1983, at this location, there were 46 accidents with property damage over $500 reported.

Diamond Road parking ban in effect

By TIMOTHY OWENS

An ordinance banning parking on certain parts of Diamond Road was unanimously approved on second and final reading by the Springfield Township Committee at its meeting March 12.

The ordinance, which went into effect immediately upon passage, bans parking on sections of the street to allow trucks to use the loading docks for the industries in the area. It was introduced on the recommendation of Police Chief George Parsell.

In other business, the committee accepted a bid from Computel, Elizabeth, for computerized processing of township parking summonses. The firm will charge the township 74 cents for each summons processed plus $6 for pickup two times per week. Computel, the only bidder, has provided this service to the township since 1982. The township paid the firm $5,688.62 to process about 7,000 summonses in 1984, according to Municipal Court Clerk Olga Murnane.

The committee also unanimously approved a resolution retaining the Middle Department Inspection Agency, Somerville, to conduct township electrical code inspections.

The committee authorized the advertisement of bids for a new swimming pool apron at the municipal pool. Funds for the work will be paid out of the pool's operating budget. In a related matter, the committee moved to authorize the advertisement of bids for the operation of the snack concession at the pool this summer.

The committee also acted on a number of appointments. Kevin Scott Rothstein was appointed to the Springfield Volunteer Fire Department. Mayor Ed Fanning also announced the appointment of Marcia Foreman as Springfield's representative to the Union County Solid Waste Advisory Committee.

The committee unanimously approved on first reading an ordinance appropriating $6,000 for the reconstruction of a storm sewer in the Garden Oval area. According to

Township Committeeman William Cieri, the area has experienced "an ongoing problem" with flooding because of the faulty sewer. The measure will be up for a public hearing and final reading at the committee's next meeting Tuesday.

Bill would change lottery formula

A bill that would require unclaimed lottery winnings to be returned to the prize pool instead of being allocated to state institutions and state aid for education as currently done, was released for a vote by the Assembly Independent Authorities and Commissions Committee recently.

The bill, A-2942, is sponsored by Assemblywoman Maureen Ogden, R-22.

"During 1984 alone, there was nearly $5 million in unclaimed prize monies from the various games sponsored by the Lottery Commission," Ogden said. "Under present procedures, the portions of these monies unclaimed within a year would revert to institutions and education. I believe the money belongs to the people who play the lottery, and not the state, and that the money should be returned to the prize pool for special drawings to be planned by the commission."

"Since the lottery was approved by the voters in 1969, $1.6 billion was contributed by the lottery as a major source of revenue for state education and institutions," Ogden said.

Last year, the lottery produced $848 million. 50.2 percent was returned to lottery players in the form of prizes, 42.4 percent was used to support state education and institutions, 6.9 percent represented commissions to lottery agents and 1.6 percent was used for operational and promotional expenses. These figures exceed 100 percent because they include interest earned on investment income and forfeiture.

Ogden said the lottery is the fourth largest source of revenue for state government and that lottery sales increased $155 million last year, or 22 percent growth over 1983.

Experts are guests of club

The Federal Bureau of Investigation and the New Jersey Institute of Technology were the guests at two recent meetings of the Jonathan Dayton Regional High School Amateur Radio and Computer Club, according to the club's president, Jeffery Gornstein.

FBI Special Agent Richard Brandes addressed club members on the topic of computer crimes March 6. Highlighted in the lecture were the sections of the recent federal Comprehensive Crime Control Act dealing with illegal computer usage. Brandes also answered questions and discussed the increasing role of computers at the FBI's Newark office.

Thomas Moulton, a systems analyst at the New Jersey Institute of Technology spoke to the club last month. Moulton talked about electronic networking, an advanced form of computer communications. Additionally, Moulton discussed packet radio, a method of linking computers together via radio waves.

BOE proposed budget facts

The Mountainside Board of Education recently distributed a fact sheet to borough citizens on the proposed 1985-86 school budget in anticipation of the April 2 school board elections.

The proposed budget totals $2,754,123, including current expenses in the amount of $2,699,457 and a 98 percent debt service of $54,666. This total represents an increase of 4.4 percent over last year's budget.

According to the fact sheet, which explains that "No programs have been cut; no programs have been added," the proposed budget would call for an increase of 4.6 percent in current expenses and a decrease of 4.3 percent in debt service.

Total enrollment is expected to decline by 24 students in 1985-86 with plans to reduce the instruction staff by two positions, according to the fact sheet.

"The proposed budget reflects the reduced enrollment," the board's statement noted. "The proposed budget is below the cap limit of 4.9079 percent raise," and "anticipates full state aid from free appropriations balances."

Of the current expense portion of the budget, 49.3 percent is designated for instruction, 11.6 percent for fixed charges (pension, Social Security, property and liability insurance, employee benefits and tuition) while 10.4 percent represents costs for plant operations.

Other costs include: 7.9 percent for plant maintenance, 7.5 percent for administration, 6.3 percent for other programs, 4.6 percent for transportation, 1.5 percent for attendance and health and .9 percent for student activities.

In reference to the major areas of increase in the budget, a 21.4 hike in plant maintenance reflected the need for building repairs; a 33 percent increase in attendance and health costs was precipitated by state requirements for physical examinations for participating students for fall and spring seasons; a 38.7 rise in student activities for sports, dramatics and Olympics of the Mind competitions.

"On the other hand, slight decreases in instruction costs and transportation reflect an anticipated decrease in enrollment of 24 pupils from 431 in September 1984," the statement added.

"Voters are being asked to approve a 2.1 point tax increase to support current expenses of the school system," the board's fact sheet noted. "The current local school district share of the tax rate is 45 cents of a total $1.76 per $100 valuation. This is 25.8 percent of tax revenues for the school operation."

The statement concluded, "The Board of Education has worked hard in 12 public meetings since September to seek out areas for cost control and ways to get the most out of necessary repair costs and the best use of space and materials and staff possible."

Teacher makes presentation

Computer software designed by Deerfield mathematics teacher Dave Fogle, will be presented to the National Council of Mathematics conference in Parsippany today, Friday and Saturday.

Accountant earns listing as 'notable'

Dr. Bernard Lesser of Springfield has been inducted into the Two Thousand Notable Americans Hall of Fame. He was chosen to receive this honor due to his contributions as an accountant.

The Hall of Fame consists of a limited number of individuals whose biographies have appeared in any edition of the biographical references series "Two Thousand Notable Americans."

Lesser's name, portrait photograph, and reason for induction will appear in each successive edition of the publication.

The three-day meeting will include discussions from Muriel Thatcher, computer coordinator for the Scotch Plains School District, who will discuss the creation of computer materials for students.

Thatcher will demonstrate Fogle's junior high level programs for geometry lessons which are from Deerfield School's eighth-grade curriculum.

The new software uses a multiple choice format with two chances for a student to get the correct answer. The program allows the computer to keep track of how many correct answers the student got on the first try, and how many incorrect answers were made.

Students refer to a computer "worksheet" for guidelines to solutions. The computerized geometry lessons supplement the classroom textbook and chalkboard explanations by a teacher.

DEDICATION CEREMONY—Children's Specialized Hospital, Mountainside, recently announced the opening of a new Augmentative Communication Center to provide communication devices for non-speaking, severely handicapped children. ## Council rules

An important legislative development is taking place within the Mountainside governing body that ultimately represents a critical juncture in the strength and preservation of borough democracy.

In an issue brought to the forefront by Councilman Ronald Romak, the Borough Council voted Tuesday night to review committee appointment procedures and the Rules of Council to devise a new procedure for requiring that all committee appointments be subject to formal approval of the council. Councilman Ronald Romak initiated discussion of the matter by challenging the legality of the mayor's authority to appoint the membership of the Police Committee without council consent.

Romak's initiative cannot be ignored. The propriety and legality of giving the mayor sole appointing authority over the Police Committee, without the consent of council, in a municipal form of government chartered to operate under a strong-council/weak-mayor mandate violates both common sense as well as the principles of democracy. As Councilman Robert Vigilanti has pointed out, a restriction against the power to vote on appointments would prevent the council from having a say in the committee that administers the department which has the most manpower and biggest budget in the borough.

Borough Attorney John Post has argued that Vigilanti's point may indeed be grounded in logic, but the ordinance (No. 78.3), which provides the legal mandate for mayoral appointment of the Police Committee, has the power of law. While a qualified legal judgment on Post's opinion must be left to attorneys to debate, there are a number of observations that can be made from a layman's standpoint that call this interpretation into question:

Ordinance 78.3 provides for mayoral appointment of the Police Committee, but nowhere does it suggest or mandate the exclusion of council consent, a power that is considered the fundamental modus operandi of the strong-council/weak-mayor form of government. Where not excluded, should not this power be presumed? Especially given the existence of Rule of Council No. 12, which states, "All committees and special committees of the council shall be appointed by the mayor with the approval of the council."

Though state law does not specifically designate the procedure for appointing members of police committees, Section 40:87-16 of state statutes notes that "the mayor shall nominate, and, with the advise and consent of the council, appoint all officers in the subtitle directed to be appointed." Section 40:87-15 states that appointed officers "shall hold office under the pleasure of the council," and says that authority is also provided to designate "such other offices as the council may deem necessary." The only exception to the rule of council consent in appointing such officers, mayoral appointments to the Planning Board, is specifically noted in a footnote to the statute.

Why is it that although a separate borough ordinance, much like 78.3, stipulates that the mayor shall appoint the membership of the Recreation Committee, the council has been afforded the opportunity to vote on appointments to this committee in each of the last two years? Councilman Werner Schon pointed out this contradiction to Post in January, 1984, and the borough attorney went on the record in agreeing with Schon's observation, and yet the Police Committee alone was excluded from consideration by the council. Furthermore, why is it that the council always voted on Police Committee appointments prior to January 1984, when Ordinance 78.3 was suddenly judged to have the power of precluding the council's right of consent?

Fortunately, a majority of the council fully recognizes the legal inconsistency and democratic incompatibility of the mayoral appointment prerogative. Hopefully, the governing body will not let this matter rest until the council is vested with full power of consent over all committee appointments. Nothing less than the democracy of the borough is at stake.

How to deal with a freshman's stress

By BETH GIORDANO & FRAN SULLIVAN

Editor's note: The following is the first of a new column dealing with reader questions about education.

Q.—My daughter is in her freshman year at a large, out-of-state university and she's experiencing a great deal of difficulty adjusting to her new life. Her grades, which were always excellent, have begun to slip, and it seems she does not care. In high school, she was always a shy, bookworm-type with few friends. I admit that I always encouraged her to do well with less emphasis on her social life. Now I am worried about everything. What do you suggest?

A.—To a degree, what your daughter is experiencing is normal. Entrance to college is a stress situation and many students become depressed and maladjusted. The most common cause of depression among college freshmen, according to a paper presented at the Annual Convention of the American Psychological Association in August, 1982, is loneliness and interpersonal distrust. Although everyone experiences loneliness at some point in his or her life, those who have problems forming secure and consistent relationships are among the most susceptible.

The ability to confide in another

Beth Giordano and Fran Sullivan have combined teaching, writing and research experience. The column is written in consultation with national leaders in education. Readers with questions about education are invited to write to Ask the teacher, PO Box 1570, Cranford 07016.

New Jersey report

State serves as national cleanup model

By GOV. TOM KEAN

Over the past three years, New Jersey has emerged as the national leader in the field of toxic waste cleanup. We have made history with our innovative approaches to this pervasive problem, which promises to remain one of state and federal governments' chief occupations in the coming decades.

New Jersey has provided the rest of the states with a series of models for dealing with toxic wastes. We have identified more Superfund sites than any other state, and have secured more Superfund funding than any other. Our original research in the areas of dioxin contamination and asbestos cleanup will be the resources that other states use as they belatedly begin to address these same problems.

Two months ago, I stood before the Legislature and declared that 1985 must be the Year of the Environment in New Jersey. I issued this call knowing that, with the careful and thorough foundation we have laid over the past three years, 1985 has the potential to see the greatest advances in environmental cleanup ever accomplished anywhere.

Last week I was present when we launched another national first — this time in the training of workers to deal with the dangerous business of hazardous waste cleanup.

Cleaning up toxic substances is not like other kinds of construction work. It requires workers, on all levels, who are familiar with the dangers they face and know the methods of completing the job in ways that minimize the risks to themselves and to the environment.

The New Jersey Department of Labor, along with business and labor groups and the New Jersey Institute of Technology, have developed the first comprehensive skills training program in the nation for workers can greatly alleviate loneliness. Writes Noreen E. Mahon in the November/December 1982 issue of Nursing Research, "Self-disclosure is a personal variable people bring to encounters with others. The individual's desire to escape loneliness, to find support, reassurance, and appreciation generates a need to disclose feelings and thoughts with others while the inability to disclose oneself may result in loneliness."

Lessen the emphasis on the grades for now and encourage your daughter to reach out to others. One way may be for her to join an organization whose interests are also hers. And perhaps she would feel more comfortable at a small college, where she would be more of a person than a number, where it might be easier to get to know people. Let her know this is an option.

Q.—I'm a divorced father of an 8-year-old girl who lives with her mother in a distant state. It was a bitter divorce and although I am on speaking terms with my ex-wife, I am not supplied with sufficient information about our daughter. I'm concerned about how she is adjusting at school and I would like to be more involved somehow. I cannot depend on my ex-wife to see that I get information. Is it acceptable to contact the school for help? How would I go about this?

A.—There are several ways in which divorced parents can be involved in their children's schooling — even if the children live in a distant state. First, find out the name of your daughter's teacher and ask that a copy of her grades be sent to you. Make things easier for the teacher by providing stamped, self-addressed envelopes for this purpose.

Second, arrange for a time that is convenient for both the teacher and yourself for a telephone conference about your child's progress. Ask the teacher for suggestions about how you can help your child progress in school.

You can also join the PTA long distance, which is a good way to remain informed about your child's school activities.

Be alert to passive or aggressive behavior — either can signal that your daughter is having problems.

Q.—I just got my son's S.A.T. scores and I'm confused about the results. They are reported in percentile, stanines, and grade equivalent. What exactly do they mean?

A.—The three scores represent three interpretations of the same result. For example, if your child was in the 25th percentile, he has performed 25 percent better than all the other children taking the test.

The stanine simply means nine. If your child scored in the first, second, or third stanine, it is considered low. The fourth, fifth or sixth stanine is average range, while the seventh, eighth and ninth is high.

The grade equivalent plots your child's development in terms of grade and month. For example, a score of 4.2 means your child is the equivalent of the fourth grade, second month.

Your child is also compared both nationally and locally.

Q.—I'm thinking of enrolling my 3-year-old son in Montessori classes, but both my parents and in-laws think I'm foolish to "send him to school" at such a tender age. I've heard it's wonderful for children. Can you give me some facts on Montessori?

A.—The Montessori experience can be a rich and rewarding one for pre-school children. Maria Montessori began her work nearly 100 years ago with retarded children and later with the poor. Her "method" gained world-wide recognition when she achieved breakthrough after breakthrough with children deemed hopeless.

Very simply, the Montessori method is one of discovery, the acquisition of "concepts." Small children learn, through specially designed materials, fundamentals of math, music, reading and sense awareness... The child has access to the materials in the classroom and learns independently and through self-correcting materials. No tricks or games are employed to catch a child's attention. Materials are said to be inherently interesting, hence the child will want to learn, and proceed at his own rate and according to his individual skill. Also, Montessori teachers do not "correct" work or point out a child's errors. Through the specially designed materials, the child himself discovers his mistakes and corrects them.

The many facets of the Montessori experience are far too vast to cover adequately here. Feel free, however, to contact the nearest school for an appointment with its director for information and a tour, or check your local library or bookstore for in-depth reading materials.

phasize health and safety aspects of hazardous waste work activities and will instruct workers on the types of hazards they face, the ways in which they may be exposed to dangerous substances, and how to protect themselves from those hazards.

"Hands-on" classroom and field training will provide practical instruction on the use of personal protection equipment and clothing, respirators and other equipment.

The courses will be conducted at the training center of the Operating Engineers Local 825 in South Brunswick Township. Each of the three, two-week sessions will train five operating engineers, five supervisors and 15 laborers.

We are confident that when this pilot program is complete, we will have in place a valuable training program that the industry will be ble to use successfully in the future as the demand for highly trained toxic waste removal specialists grows.

We know that demand will grow because we are so firmly committed to the cleanup and removal of the toxic waste that threaten our environment.

We must have a clean New Jersey. Our economic well being depends on it. The safety of our drinking water supply rests on it. The future of the parks our children play in, the rivers we fish in, the ocean and lakes we swim in, all depend on our efforts to rid our environment of these poisons.

I am proud that, with the establishment of this innovative training program, New Jersey has once again shown the nation the way to that clean environment we all want and need.

Monaco: 'Quality is my concern'

Lou Monaco, a current Board of Education member seeking re-election April 2, says he is concerned about the quality of education in the Springfield district.

"The current board has been working very well to rectify the educational problems caused by the administration," Monaco said. "The recent state certification for the district is just the beginning of the positive accomplishments that the current board has been striving for the past year. The current board members have worked very long and hard together to accomplish this goal."

Monaco said he has worked hard for building maintenance and repair during his time on the board. He was responsible for the volunteer group which renovated Caldwell School in the summer of 1982. Other projects which he cited his involvement with were new windows at Caldwell, new paving for all three schools, new lights in Gaudineer gyms, new lighting in the parking lots, proper maintenance of grounds and a permanent new home for the board offices. He also said he was very instrumental in developing and creating a computer classroom in each school. Monaco has worked very hard for more computer instruction and hands-on computer skill training in the middle school, he said.

"Educational excellence is my goal for Springfield," said the incumbent. "We have the potential for greatness in our district. We need better leadership and emphasis on curriculum development for the high-tech of the '80s and '90s. I am running for re-election because I am a professional educational administrator. I have a total of 20 years experience with U.S. Office of Education, college administration, public school business manager, and private professional business school director. I have the expertise to ensure 'excellence in education' for all the children of Springfield.

"The only issue in this election is who are the best qualified candidates, who can work to ensure quality in deliverance of educational services. I have worked well and hard with all the other board members. I am running 'alone,' the 'only' representative candidate from the Caldwell School district. I have only one reason to seek re-election — to use my experience to give to the children of Springfield the 'excellence in education' that is mandated by the parents and supported by the taxpayers of Springfield. They deserve the best!"

Enders wins top honors

John Randolph Enders, son of Mr. and Mrs. John G. Enders of Mountainside, recently won first prize in the Upper College Men's Division of the New Jersey Chapter of the National Association of Teachers of Singing competition held at Rutgers University.

A baritone, Enders performed "The Viper" by Michael Head, Francis Poulenc's "Hotel," "Bella Siccome un Angelo" by Donizetti, and "Nicht Wiedersehen" by Mahler. Enders is a senior at Westminster Choir College in Princeton majoring in voice performance. He is a voice student of Marvin Keenze.

Apathy issue is raised

"The Board of Education election is less than three weeks away and little has been heard from the other candidates as to their views about the Springfield school system, while I raised questions about political interests, real estate and buildings being the priority of this board of education," said Myrna Wasserman this week, candidate for the April 2 election to the Springfield school board.

"My concern at the moment is the apparent atmosphere of voter apathy. During conversations with many people over the last few weeks I've been very encouraged to hear that people in Springfield are aware of and disturbed by the political aspects of the board elections and the ineffectiveness of this board.

"However, I have also heard that this board is 'working well' and it should be left alone. Well, I am not sure that this board is 'working well' because I can see no measurable improvement in the Springfield school district.

"Voter apathy during this election will nullify and make meaningless the votes cast last year when voter turnout was the highest ever for a board election. I am asking all of you who voted last year to cast your votes for me this year and by doing so, hold the board members accountable for fulfilling the promises they made as candidates."

"I am concerned that the lack of emphasis on educational matters at the board level has resulted in serious discipline problems in the district, lowered staff morale and the decline of public confidence in the quality of the education being provided by our schools.

Sambur urges support for budget

Incumbent Ned Sambur, seeking to keep his seat on the Springfield Board of Education in the April 2 election, announced his support for the 1985-86 school budget this week.

"The school board recently passed and recommended to the voters a budget which, in my opinion, is fair and fiscally responsible," Sambur said. "The Finance, Building and Grounds, and School Government committees all put in long hours of deliberation and thought to form the budget. Administration submitted many additional recommendations which would have put the budget over cap, and therefore had to be rejected. We took the best of the programs submitted. All of the committees are to be commended for the time and effort spent.

"Unfortunately, we as board members never really heard from the public or teachers as to what they felt was important in regard to new and existing programs. Citizens of this town, whether they have children in the schools or not, should take an active interest in the school system. Any citizen who has attended meetings in the last eight months would recognize that this board has had the best interests of the children in mind at all times. Recertification, new and exciting programs, expansion of existing programs, and honest thoughtful consideration to the improvement and safety of our physical facilities has taken place.

"Board members don't have all the answers. Any person who says otherwise would be fooling you, the voters. We board members have to base our decisions upon the information given to us by the administration. When the public and the teachers do not refute the facts supplied on a given issue, we as board members must, if our knowledge is limited on a subject, accept the recommendation of the administration.

"During my tenure on the board, I have tried to create an atmosphere of communication and compromise. I have listened to all positions on issues and made decisions based upon the best available information. Channels of communication must be maintained and expanded. The ability to communicate and to respond is of utmost importance. If there is one fact I have learned in my eight months on the board, it is that I must always research beyond what I am told, and to the source for a true explanation of an issue or program.

"I ask all voters to come out and vote for me on April 2. Your vote will make the difference," concluded Sambur.

Brinen cites dedication

Ruth Brinen, a candidate in the upcoming Board of Education elections, said she has demonstrated her dedication to children with a consistent attendance and participation at board meetings, and her involvement in helping the school district.

"Everyone in town who has followed the Board of Education is aware of my efforts as the chairperson of the Level II monitoring committee," Brinen said. "Through my diligence, our schools have been recertified and the groundwork has been set for a continuing self-evaluation program for our school district.

"At this point in time, the breakdown in communications between the board and administration is one of the greatest factors working against progress in our school district," said Brinen.

"There must be an open and honest exchange of ideas and information on the board, but it must be done in a constructive manner. The decisions facing the board, concerning our children, are far too important to be decided in an atmosphere of hostility and distrust.

"In working with the administration, teachers, out-of-district professionals and parents on several committees these past few years, I have seen the importance of drawing upon all available resources before making a decision.

"On April 2, your vote will determine the future direction of our school district. Please vote," Brinen concluded.

"Children should be our highest priority. Educational programs and staff morale should be additional priorities. Our children must be well prepared for entrance into the secondary school system. I believe that it is reasonable to expect our children to score well above the national norms on our standardized achievement tests inasmuch as we have small classes, individualized instruction, a senior staff and a very high per-pupil cost of education.

"It's time for the Springfield board of education to refocus on education. We have all the essential ingredients and we need a board to provide the proper direction.

"I am an independent candidate seeking election to the board of education with only one objective — the best possible education for our children," concluded Wasserman.

Hospital marks week

Overlook Hospital, Summit, will observe Children and Hospitals Week March 24 to 30, sponsored by the Association for the Care of Children's Health with a "Children Are Our Future" poster contest.

Area school children in grades one through five have been invited to participate by entering original posters no later than tomorrow. The artwork will be displayed in the hospital during Children and Hospitals Week and cash prizes will be awarded in two age group categories.

According to Karlene Albrecht, B.S., Overlook's Child Life specialist, the hospital also offers an orientation program for preschool children and pre-admission tours for children having elective surgery. The tours are a project of the Pediatric Unit and involve its mascot, "Benji the Bandage Bear," a life-size Teddy bear who helps relieve the anxiety of children who are patients.

The hospital provides a program of educational and developmental play therapy for Overlook's young patients. Children involved in community service organizations, such as Scouts and church groups, also come to the hospital for tours.

Further information on these activities, including the poster contest, is available by calling Albrecht at 522-2000, Ext. 3154.

Library schedules story time for kids

The Children's Department of the Springfield Public Library has scheduled informal story hours on Tuesday mornings for ages 3, 4 and 5. Story Hour Time runs from 10:15 to 11 a.m. and no registration is necessary.

Additional events such as craft hours and movie programs will be announced at a later date.

Joanne Filippone of Hillside Avenue has announced her candidacy for the Springfield Board of Education. An educator for 17 years, Filippone is currently employed as an elementary school guidance counselor in Irvington.

She holds a master of arts degree in student personnel services and holds certification as a principal/supervisor.

Filippone has worked on numerous district and building level committees including T and E, Testing, Curriculum, Graduation Requirements, and Report Card Revision.

She has been actively involved in the State Monitoring process in her district and serves as a liaison between the school and the Child Study Team.

She received a commendation from the Irvington Board of Education for her development of a homeroom guidance program to improve self-image and has been personally credited with the writing of the district's Pre-Referral Screening Procedure and the Individual Student Improvement Plan reporting device.

Listed in "Who's Who in the East," she is a member of Kappa Delta Phi, a National Honor Society for education majors.

Filippone has served as first and second vice president of the Irvington Education Association and as their chief contract negotiator. She is a member of the NEA and N.J.E.A.

Filippone has lived in Springfield for 13 years with her husband, Richard, and their daughter, Adrienne.

Citing "independence, qualifications, and integrity" as the most important characteristics of a board member, Filippone would like to see more attention given to real educational issues, particularly curriculum.

She cites poor central administrative leadership and inefficient use of available resources as two of her prime concerns.

Running as an independent, Filippone encouraged all voters to exercise their democratic right at the polls April 2. "Vote No. 1," she said.

Alper calls for Civil Service reform

Changes in the way Civil Service employees and managers are hired and promoted were supported this week by Mike Alper, Democratic candidate for state Assembly.

Addressing what he sees as a "system that stifles excellence at every turn," Alper said that a revamping of Civil Service rules would draw a "more highly motivated individual" into the system while maintaining traditional preferences for groups such as veterans.

Alper said special attention should be paid to hiring promising college graduates with an interest in government, as well as individuals with advanced technical training and organizational skills. "These people will eventually form the pool from which the state can draw its top policy-making and managerial personnel," Alper said.

"The goal in all this," added Alper, "is to give the public the best services we can provide while hopefully saving money through efficiency in the long haul."

To widen managerial experiences within the Civil Service system, managers would be encouraged to share experiences with their colleagues in other departments and even to switch positions with them from time to time. "By doing so we help broaden the knowledge and experience base on which a well run Civil Service system depends," said Alper.

Individuals are currently limited to only one department in the Civil Service system, he said.

I-78 meeting is tonight

The state Department of Transportation will hold a public meeting tonight to discuss proposed noise mitigation measures for the Route I-78 project in Union, Springfield and Millburn townships.

The meeting will be held at F. Edward Bierbaum Senior Center, 2155 Morris Ave., Union, at 7 p.m.

Testimony only will be taken by the hearing officer located in the main room. Questions may be asked and the project informally discussed, however, in an adjacent room where a display and information area will be staffed by department personnel. All testimony will be recorded on tape and will become part of the meeting record.

Those wishing to testify are asked to register at the registration desk and will be called to speak in the order in which they have registered.

Further information regarding this project may be obtained from Alexander Brown, area coordinator, NJDOT Office of Community Involvement, at (609) 292-6802.

Governor endorses Genova

Peter Genova, Republican candidate for the New Jersey State Assembly in the special election to be held Tuesday, has been endorsed by Gov. Thomas Kean.

"I know Peter Genova to be a tireless servant for the people of Union County. As a Union Township committeeman and community leader, he has proven himself to be effective and strong. I need Peter Genova in the state Assembly to help me reduce taxes and continue New Jersey's economic recovery," Kean said.

Genova also got the endorsement of the 21st district's other elected officials, State Senator C. Louis Bassano and Assemblyman Chuck Hardwick.

Bassano said, "I am proud to have worked closely with Peter Genova. I have known Peter for ten years. He has served his community both on the Union Township committee and as my legislative assistant. His experience will allow him to have an immediate impact in Trenton."

Hardwick, who is the Republican leader of the assembly, said, "we need Peter Genova in the state Assembly to help me work for a better way of life for the people of Union County. He has my wholehearted support."

Weight control is goal of program

The Body Shop, a weight control program for boys and girls ages 8 to 16, will begin its first 10-week session tomorrow from 6 to 8 p.m. at Overlook Hospital, Summit.

Participants will hear about satisfying the "after-school hungries," making their clothes work for a thinner look and muscle toning and body shaping through exercise.

Additional information is available by calling 522-2963

Committee to discuss letter

An unsigned letter sent to Springfield Mayor Ed Fanning complaining of unsafe conditions in the Charles Cohn Playground and a "dangerous intersection" at Milltown Road and South Springfield Avenue, will be discussed by the Township Committee, Fanning said recently.

According to the letter signed by "Concerned Springfield residents," the playground is "a disgrace." It was described as a dumping site for broken beer and soda bottles, as well as picnic tables engraved with profanities.

The signatories asked for a traffic light at the Milltown Road and South Springfield Avenue intersection.

Fanning said he was not aware of the described conditions in the park or of serious problems at the intersection, but that the governing body would look into the allegations.

The mayor added that it was "hard to take an unsigned letter as seriously as a signed letter."

Campus corner

Neuss, the valedictorian of the 1983 class at Union County College in Cranford, is a graduate of Jonathan Dayton Regional High School.

Masons to greet dignitary

Oscar D. Wittlake, of Springfield, worshipful master of Continental Lodge No. 190, F & AM, will greet William A. Burkett, district grand master of the 10th Masonic district, on his official visit to the lodge Tuesday.

Masons residing in the area have been invited to meet the grand lodge representative at the regular communication of the lodge, to be held in the Masonic building, 37 Spring St., Millburn, at 7:30 p.m.

The lodge, which is celebrating its 76th year in Millburn, is planning a series of events to herald the 200th anniversary of masonry in New Jersey to begin in 1986. A number of collectibles have been assembled as part of the celebration and will be available for sale.

Energy assistance available

New Jersey's low-income families and individuals are urged to apply for Home Energy Assistance. The program provides funds to assist eligible households to meet the cost of heating during the winter months.

The Department of Human Services expects to receive $83 million this year from the federal government for the Home Energy Assistance program and anticipates serving approximately 215,000 families. The average benefit is $315 per household.

Individual benefits will vary depending on the household's gross monthly income, size, geographic location and type of fuel used.

Households which have their heating costs included in their rent are also eligible to apply.

Under the federal guidelines, a single person must have a gross monthly income at or below $519; $700 for a family of two; $881 for a family of three; $1,062 for a family of four; $1,243 for a family of five; and $1,424 for a family of six; for each additional member, add $181.

Applications for the program are available at the local county welfare agency. Special arrangements have been made to allow senior citizens and the disabled to receive and return the applications by mail.

Applications and additional information about the program are available by calling 1-800-257-6249.

Correction

In an article last week regarding the impact of the proposed Union County Regional High School District's 1985-86 school budget on local tax rates, the 1984 equalized valuation rate for Mountainside was incorrect. The correct figure is $422,731,472.

We regret the error.

The rise of a powerful leader

By ROSE P. SIMON

The following are reviews of books currently available at the Springfield Public Library.

CAUTIOUS MODERNIZER
"Andropov In Power," by Jonathan Steely and Eric Abraham.

In 1982, at 81, Yuri Andropov, born in 1914, surprisingly succeeded Leonid Brezhnev as general secretary of the Communist Party — the highest office of the Kremlin. An intelligent man (more so than Chernenko) with a keen mind, dispassionate and precise, he undertook his new duties soberly and efficiently.

He left school in 1930, studying intermittently until the war, then afterwards — a patchy education unusual for Soviet politicians of his time. He served as youth leader in the party, became second secretary of the Central Committee, served as ambassador to Hungary, liaison officer for the Soviet Union's allies China and Czechoslovakia. In 1967, he transferred to the KGB, where for 15 years he brought the vast secret police apparatus under control, making it more professional.

The problems he inherited were serious ones: a poor economy, stagnant food production, low labor morale, an increasing defense bill, a hard-line U.S. administration and a greater animosity to the Soviet Union.

The authors — both British correspondents — trace the life of this powerful man through his various political accomplishments in internal and external affairs. They list his efforts to become "a cautious modernizer" in the economic field (new industrial experiments) and his attitude in dealing with NATO and the West with regard to a nuclear freeze, ban on testing, deployment of weapons in space. Essentially, Andropov's foreign policy remained similar to that of Brezhnev's, but his style was more positive and more adaptable.

MEDICAL RESEARCH EXPERIMENTATION

"Guinea Pig Doctors," by Jon Franklin.

There have been scientists who, frustrated by the rules and regulations of the science and health bureaucracy, often decided to experiment (heroically and foolhardily) on themselves, to save time and energy, and to prove their own theories. This is a collection of such "guinea pig" doctors who, as auto-experimenters of the past, have not necessarily contributed to medical knowledge, but have left stories of persistence, courage and their struggle "for truth."

One of the first doctors of the mid-18th century to investigate syphilis (self-inflicted) was the Englishman John Hunter, but his work would only be appreciated a century later. About that time, the Hartford dentist, Horace Wells, would be credited with being the first to discover anesthesia (nitrous oxide). His suicide predated this recognition of his work.

Then there was the "forgotten hero of Yellow Fever," Jesse Lazear, an American living during the time of Theodore Roosevelt. He pursued the study of malaria at John Hopkins in Baltimore, then, as part of a team of scientists, he, with Drs. Walter Reed, James Carroll, Simon Agramonte, and others, worked in Cuba which had been plagued with Yellow Fever. Although Lazear's findings were considered preliminary, it was he who first realized that the bite of a house mosquito could produce Yellow Fever. It was he whose detailed notebooks were turned over to Dr. Reed, who pieced together the Yellow Fever puzzle. Lazear died of Yellow Fever, unrecognized in the history of the disease.

School seeks handicapped students

The Mountainside School District is seeking handicapped children between the ages of 3 and 5 in any of 16 towns, boroughs and townships that make up the Morris-Union Consortium.

Planning for September's preschool handicapped classes at Deerfield School in Mountainside is beginning now. These classes are a public school service, provided by law, to children who qualify for special educational services.

The communities making up the consortium, for whose children the classes are designed, are Berkeley Heights, Bernards Township, Bernardsville, Chatham Borough, Chatham Township, Florham Park, Harding Township, Kenilworth, Madison, Millburn, Mountainside, New Providence, Passaic Township, Springfield, Summit and Warren.

Parents of a child who might qualify are asked to call Janet Parmelee, director of Special Services, Deerfield School, 232-3711.

Some symptoms that an eligible child might have include:

- Excessive clumsiness or extremely poor coordination.
  - Delayed speech and language (a child should be able to communicate simple sentences by age 3.)
  - Avoids play or is unable to play.
  - Has serious behavior problems.
- When a parent calls the school, he or she can expect a general description of the evaluation procedure and classroom program. The parent can also make an appointment to come without the child to visit the current classes.

Pupils are now transported to two M.O.P.P.E.T. (Mountainside's Pre-School Program for Exceptional Tots) classes from about half the eligible communities. Ten children are taught communication skills, motor and behavior skills in half-day sessions with a teacher and aide. Maximum enrollment in each class is eight for a total of 16 available spaces.

A speech therapist, the child study team members (social worker, psychologist, and learning disabilities teacher/consultant) and an occupational therapist work regularly to evaluate and select eligible children and to monitor and direct their progress, under the lead teacher with 10 years experience.

The M.O.P.P.E.T. program, started in 1983, uses diagnostic and prescriptive notes every day to track the progress of children in the areas of motor skills, communication, cognition, and social-emotional development, the areas in which an enrolled child might be handicapped seriously enough to impair functioning and which has a high predictability of seriously impairing normal educational development.

The classroom program operates as any other nursery school, with activity areas for housekeeping, blocks, water play, and a big table for group conversation, reading and planning each day. This classroom is unique because of the extra attention given to each child's handicaps to assist him or her toward the normal levels of development before entering the kindergarten.

Town native to head Rice

Dr. George Erik Rupp, a Springfield native, has been chosen as the new president of Rice University, Houston, Texas.

The choice of Rupp, who grew up in Springfield, to head a university known for its science and engineering programs is somewhat unusual in that the 42-year-old Princeton University graduate is a theologian. He has been dean of the Harvard Divinity School since 1979. Rupp will be the first nonscientist to head the 84-year-old school.

After graduating from Princeton in 1964 with a bachelor of arts degree, Rupp studied theology. He earned a bachelor of divinity from Yale University and a doctorate from Harvard. He was chairman of the theology department at Harvard before becoming dean.

Rupp will become president in July, when his predecessor, Norman Hackerman, becomes president emeritus.

Library offers Elderhostel options

For those age 60 or over who think that the library is just a place to read books, the Kenilworth Public Library has an alternative that will have them packing their suitcases and heading off for an educational adventure.

It's the Elderhostel Catalogue: 125-plus pages of challenging programs for older adults which take place on the campuses of colleges, universities and other institutions of learning all over the United States, Canada and in more than a dozen countries around the world.

Elderhostel is a non-profit, educational organization that consists of a network of over 700 independent campuses. Participating institutions design and host Elderhostel programs of one or more weeks in length, during which the hostellers live in dormitories, eat in the cafeterias, have access to the host institution's academic, cultural and recreational facilities, and take up to three challenging non-credit courses on a wide variety of liberal arts and sciences subjects taught by the institution's faculty.

The cost of enrolling in an Elderhostel program is quite modest, and to be eligible for Elderhostel, applicants need to be age 60 or over, or be the spouse or companion of someone of that age. There are absolutely no academic prerequisites — which means that whether one has completed grammar or graduate school, Elderhostel can be a stimulating and enjoyable experience.

Residents are invited to come to the Kenilworth Public Library to peruse the latest Elderhostel Program offerings. The Kenilworth Public Library is open Monday through Thursday, 1 to 5 p.m. and 7 to 9 p.m.; Friday, 1 to 5 p.m. and Saturday, 9 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Stage group to hold tryouts

The Springfield Stagecrafters will hold auditions April 1 and 2, for the Michael Bennett musical comedy, "Seesaw."

Auditions will be held 6:30 to 10 p.m. in Halsey Hall at the Jonathan Dayton Regional High School, Mountain Avenue, Springfield.

An audition appointment can be made by calling Alan Souza at 467-0013 in the evening.

Anyone between 16 and 23 may audition. There are parts for about 13 males and 13 females. Auditioners are requested to prepare a one- to three-minute vocal selection. Accompaniments will be provided, but auditioners must bring their own music. In addition, they should come prepared to follow a simple dance routine. Showdates for "Seesaw" will be June 13, 14 and 15.

Souza serves as director and producer, and Linda Duke is associate producer.

PTA supports '85-86 budget

The executive board and committee chairmen of the Mountainside PTA said this week that they unanimously support the school budget for 1985-86.

The PTA is actively campaigning on behalf of the budget and invites any member of the community interested in assisting their efforts to contact Elaine Cook at 654-4275.

The PTA reminds voters who are unable to vote on Election Day, April 2, that they are entitled to use absentee ballots. Applications for absentee ballots must be received by the County Clerk no later than Tuesday, seven days prior to the election. Applications are available from the borough clerk, the Board of Education Office, Deerfield School Office or by calling Cooke at 654-4275 or Dolores Sharkey at 654-3432.

PTA is recognized

The Thelma Sandmeier School PTA was awarded a membership certificate from the National PTA, Connie Boscia, president, recently announced. It was listed in the February 1985 edition of New Jersey PTA Magazine.

Radiography school gets OK

The Overlook Hospital School of Radiography has received the highest level accreditation from the Committee on Allied Health Education and Accreditation of the American Medical Association and the Joint Review Committee on Education in Radiologic Technology.

The Summit hospital has been training radiologic technologists since 1964. Its school graduates an average of 12 students each year, all of whom find jobs in their field within just one month of graduation.

The Joint Review Committee on Education in Radiologic Technology inspects the program only once every five years. The accrediting body has various levels of accreditation and can inspect a program as often as necessary to assure its quality or it may close down a school that does not meet its standards. Five years is the longest approval period and is given only to programs that demonstrate consistent high quality educating and training.

Accreditation is required for school graduates to be eligible to take the National Registry examination. It affirms that the school meets the requirements that promote quality education for radiologic technologists.

Overlook's School of Radiography is conducted by three full-time faculty members: Susan Pyner-Moss, R.T., of Springfield, director; Christopher Talbot, A.S., R.T., of Summit, clinical instructor; Joan Seibert, B.S., M.S., of Edison, radiation physicist; and Doris Goldstein of Edison, registrar.

A 1970 graduate of the school, Pyner-Moss has been affiliated with Overlook since 1968 and as director, is responsible for making sure the school meets the accreditation requirements.

The Review Committee, made up of radiologists and educators, came to Overlook in June 1984. Its inspection is sponsored by the American College of Radiology and the American Society of Radiologic Technologists.

Rinaldo urges support for deficit 'battle plan'

Rep. Matthew J. Rinaldo, R-7, says that Congress should use the Grace Commission report as its "battle plan" in attacking the burgeoning $200 billion federal budget deficits.

Since the 47-volume report was issued in January 1984, fewer than a one-fifth of the commission's money-saving recommendations have been implemented, the New Jersey Republican said.

"While some of the proposals may be impractical and others politically unacceptable, it is inexcusable for Congress to ignore the many worthwhile deficit-reduction suggestions advanced by the commission, especially at a time when the government is faced with a tidal wave of red ink," Rinaldo said.

He said that most of the proposals adopted so far have been management reforms within the administration and that only a "handful" of the changes requiring Congressional approval have been enacted.

The report by the President's Private Sector Survey on Cost

Control, better known as the Grace Commission, after its chairman, industrialist J. Peter Grace, contains 2,478 recommendations the commission claims would save the country an estimated $424 billion over three years. Changes were proposed in management and programs in 36 areas, ranging from civil service to data processing.

Among other things, the commission said considerable savings could be realized through reforms in various military and civil service benefit programs and by changes in entitlement programs. Additionally, the report called for a crackdown on pork barrel water projects and federal spending for travel, consulting fees, printing and motor vehicles.

"Congress should give serious consideration to proposals calling for the closure of unneeded military bases, improved management practices, and for the government to get out of the hydroelectric power business and shut off funding for wasteful pork barrel projects," Rinaldo said.

Lee Myles: personal service

When customers take their cars for repair work at Lee Myles Transmissions in Union, they don't do business with the type of typically curt, impersonal employees who operate many of the other major car repair franchises. They deal with the personal owner of the shop, Lou Papale, a technical advisor to the national cooperation, a member of the National Institute of Automotive Service Excellence, a member of the Union Chamber of Commerce, a Union Little League supporter, and the private owner of the shop for the last 20 years.

Papale said, (not to imply that that's what he had in mind). On the contrary, Papale advises customers to have their cars diagnosed like they would their bodies, "there's no harm in getting a second opinion."

Lee Myles specializes in all transmissions: domestic, foreign, industrial and marine. It also sells transmissions both retail and wholesale.

In addition, Lee Myles performs many service jobs for car dealers, Papale said.

He explained that today's transmissions "are built so high-tech," that service technicians have to keep up with the newest trends in order to do the proper repair work.

Papale is a businessman who has found it beneficial, and worthwhile, to not only make his business part of the community, but to incorporate a personal side into the mundane business of transmissions.

Evidence of this is the untraditional decor of Papale's office. Instead of the greasy hammers and screws that normally lie about an automotive station, Papale has filled his office with antiques, momentos, and photographs.

He started with Lee Myles in 1959 and came to Union in 1964 to open the Stuyvesant Avenue store, the first Lee Myles center in the state. Papale enjoyed working in the Union area so much, that a year later he purchased the franchise and bought a home nearby.

Lee Myles offers a number of warranties for transmission work, but Papale recommends a number of things a car owner can do before their car is doomed to transmission problems. Transmission oil and gear fluid checks should be made periodically and replaced when necessary.

In an automatic transmission car, slipping, oil leakage and unusual noises can be warnings of a transmission malfunction. Lee Myles will test drive your car at no charge to diagnose a problem.

On a standard transmission, Papale said, warning signs may include difficulty in shifting, engine speeding, and grinding of gears.

Again, like one's health, Papale claims preventive auto care is a good way to save a lot of time and expense. But if transmission problems do strike, Lee Myles will be ready to service your car expeditiously and stand behind the job.

Papale's shop is located at 1415 Stuyvesant Ave., Union, and is open 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday through Friday and 8 a.m. to noon Saturdays.

His manager, Jack Moran, has been with Papale for eight years.

Papale has remained enthusiastic about his business and appreciates the "new clientele," a public he sees as increasingly more "intelligent" and "business-oriented."

"People usually don't get raked over the coals,"

Brearley's Siragusa wins state wrestling title

By WAYNE TILLMAN
For Tony Siragusa, this has been a memorable season on the wrestling mats. And the capper came last Saturday, when he won the state title at heavyweight, completing an undefeated season in front of close to 8,000 fans at Princeton University's Jadwin Gym.

The Brearley heavyweight, who won the Union County, District 11 and Region III titles along the way, had to overcome a nearly two week layoff between the regionals and the states to win, which included wrestling four of the state's top heavyweights in less than a 24-hour period.

Siragusa, who finished with a 26-0 record this winter, opened state action last Friday the way he has most of the time this year: with a quick pin. He decked Jim Jordan of Cedar Ridge in only 11 seconds in the pre-quarterfinals, then pinned Emerson Borough's outstanding heavyweight, Andy Papanthassiou, in 3:56 to reach the semifinals.

He beat Jordan using a tilt move, then used a cradle and sit-through to beat Papanthassiou.

Then at the semis on Saturday, he faced the top seed in the weight class, Dave Szott of Clifton. Siragusa didn't pin him, but he did use a tilt and aggressive wrestling to beat him by a decision, 8-2, to reach the finals. There he would face Todd Goodwin of Millville, who had won 27 of his 29 matches this year.

And Goodwin reached the finals in almost the same manner, pinning North Hunterdon's Jim Abbott in just 34 seconds in the pre-quarterfinals, Jeff Waldron of Newton in 31 seconds in the quarters and William Hiros of Pemberton in 48 ticks in the semifinals.

But Siragusa proved his superiority by decking Goodwin in 1:48 and capturing the crown.

"It hasn't really sunk in yet," said the 6-4 1/2, 254-pounder. "This has been my goal all season. I had been hoping to win this since I was younger."

And Siragusa has been wrestling for quite a while, having competed since first grade. He had competed in the recreation program in Kenilworth and improved his wrestling through it.

And the result of all that hard work paid off this year in a 26-0 record, with all but two bouts ending in pins and a majority of them ending within the first two minutes.

What is his secret for his quick success?

"I'm good on my feet and I use my strength to hold the other guy down," he said.

"I came to the states this year and made some changes in my style, but I had to be aggressive and go for the pin," he said. "And now, I've closed out my high school wrestling career on top. Not many people do that."

Siragusa's title also meant a lot to the Brearley wrestling program.

"It's great for the program and it's quite an honor," said coach Ron Ferrara. "I've coached Tony since the fourth grade and he picked up a lot of moves in the rec program. He also won the state freestyle tourney as an eighth grader."

Siragusa had a two-week layoff between winning the regionals and the states, but he worked on the mat daily and his teammates stayed around to help him.

"I knew all along he could do it for us," said Ferrara. "He's a great wrestler and I'm very proud of having coached him."

Siragusa's title was the only bright spot for area wrestlers at Princeton. Jim Yee of Dayton was beaten by Colonia's Dave Weisman, 5-3, in the pre-quarters at 102, and the three Roselle Park competitors fared no better.

Frank Croce at 136 decisioned Bob Valaziotis of Wall Township, 5-4, in the pre-quarters, but was then pinned by Chris Mays of Oakcrest in the quarters in 5:33.

Paul Feola at 171 was ousted Friday when he was pinned by Tim Woods of Northern Valley of Demarest in 3:15.

But Jamie Shriner, who placed third at 189 last year, was eliminated in the pre-quarters this time around.

Wrestling in what was considered the toughest weight class in the tournament, he was defeated by Rob Connor of Jackson, 6-4.

But the Princeton spotlight shone the brightest on Tony Siragusa.

TOURNEY NOTES—Siragusa becomes Brearley's first state champion in wrestling. The other state champs crowned last weekend were as follows: Greg Griffith of Pennsville at 102; Dave Boncher of Phillipsburg at 109; Dave Glawson of Pemberton at 116; Bobby Malatesta of St. Augustine at 123; John Welch of Ridge at 130; Karl Monaco of Clifton at 136; Jerry Durso of Ridge at 142; Enzo Catullo of Summit at 149; Tom McGourty of North Hunterdon at 159; Ben Oberly of Warren Hills at 171 and Darnell Myres of Central Regional at 189.

Paul Zuckerman, chairman of the 12th annual Multiple Sclerosis Spring Golf Classic, has announced that this year's tournament, benefiting the Mid-Jersey Chapter of the National MS Society, will be sponsored in part by Doyle, Dane and Bernbach, one of the most prestigious advertising agencies in the country.

This year's all-amateur tournament will again be held at Plainfield Country Club in Edison on May 6 and will be limited to 54 foursomes.

The events of the day will include the challenge of playing at one of the top 100 courses in the country as rated by Golf Digest magazine. Prior to the 8 a.m. shotgun start, a continental breakfast will be served starting at 7 for the morning round golfers.

A buffet luncheon will be served between 11 a.m. and 12 noon, followed by the 1 p.m. shotgun the afternoon round. A cocktail hour, followed by the awards dinner, begins at 7 p.m.

The $200 entry fee covers greens fee, cart or caddy, continental breakfast, buffet, cocktail hour and dinner, favors and prizes.

Those participants who elect to golf during the morning round, will have full use of the club's facilities for tennis, squash and paddleball for afternoon relaxation. Arrangements can be made to play an additional nine holes of golf on the public course adjacent to the club for those who wish to do so.

Long season for Dayton girls

By RICK BARBA
For the Dayton girls basketball team this season was somewhat of a disappointment. The Bulldogs finished with a 5-13 record, this coming after the very successful 18-7 mark a year ago.

The highlight of the season for its was their second place finish in the Bridgewater East Christmas Tournament.

The Bulldogs had some fine individual efforts this year, led by senior co-captain Kathy Meixner, a four year gold letter winner

Meixner was the teams' leading scorer and rebounder averaging 13.5 points and 11.5 rebounds per contest. According to coach Art Krupp, "Meixner is a real competitor."

The floor leader for Dayton was junior co-captain Dawn Pohlman, who averaged 9.5 points per game and was "one of the top point guards in the conference," said Krupp.

Freshman Staci Weirnerman had an outstanding year, averaging 13.9 points per game and setting a new school record for first year players by scoring 251 points. At her current pace Weirnerman would have an excellent chance at breaking Dayton's career scoring record, which is 1,106. She also set a new school when she scored 19 points in one quarter by scoring 12 field goals and hitting seven out of eight from the foul line. "Weirnerman is an outstanding offensive player," said Krupp.

Grid dinner
A meet Foge Fazio cocktail party will be held this Saturday from 5-6:30 p.m. at the Kenilworth PBA hall on Lafayette Ave. All local college football fans are invited to meet the charismatic University of Pittsburgh head coach and talk football.

Fazio will be the guest speaker at the Brearley football dinner, held at Repetti's Restaurant on the Boulevard in Kenilworth that same evening.

Tickets are available through chairman Marty Sica or by calling Brearley football coach Bob Taylor at 272-7500.

Taub first at tennis meet
Susan Taub of Springfield won first place in the girls 12's division of the Eastern Tennis Association's Penn tournament last weekend at the Matawan Indoor Tennis Club.

She defeated Lexie Maizel of Red Bank in the semis, 7-6, 6-7, 6-1, then defeated Kerry Dillon of East Brunswick in straight sets, 6-1, 6-4, in the final.

Her younger sister, Lisa, won the Essex County Youth championship last summer in the 10 and under division.

Bears to hold baseball clinic
The Brearley baseball staff, under the direction of the Kenilworth Recreation Department, will be running the Bears baseball clinic this Tuesday and next Thursday.

Brearley's new head baseball coach, Ed Ward, along with assistants Ward Parker and Leo Danik, will direct the clinic.

The clinic, which is free of charge, is for all coaches of Little League or Senior League baseball. Further information may be obtained by calling Ward or Bob Taylor at 272-7500 during the day or Ward in the evening at 351-0867.

Wait until next year for Brearley girl cagers

By RICK BARBA
When one takes a first look at the 3-18 record of the Brearley girls basketball team, it's not too impressive. But in reality, the three victories were the most by the Lady Bears in five years.

Coach Tom Ruggiero's team was led by junior point guard Barbara Legg, who averaged 15 points per game and was the floor leader for the Lady Bears.

"Legg is an outstanding player and a great competitor," said Ruggiero.

The second leading scorer on the team was junior Kathy Carrea, who averaged seven points per game. The leading rebounder this season was sophomore Tracy Schmitt, who hauled down an averaged of six rebounds per contest. Schmitt was also the team's most improved player and played very well on defense.

The second most improved player for Brearley was 5-10 sophomore center Susan Buchner who, according to Ruggiero, "really came on towards the end of the season."

One of the highlights of the season came in the Madison Borough Christmas Tournament. Playing against a tough Madison team, the Lady Bears were nipped in the last minute of play, 36-34. Lady luck was not on their side in the consolation game either as they were edged by Kittitiny, 34-32. Another game in which Brearley lost by only two points was against Bound Brook, in a game Ruggiero blamed was lost due to the officiating.

Well, there's always next season and Ruggiero, with help from assistant coach Margarite Dempsey, hopes to improve the team a great deal. All of the players from this year's team will return and Ruggiero wants to work hard on the fundamentals and the technical skills of his players, but most of all the coach wants his team to "pick up its intensity level" for next season. The country club set, as Ruggiero calls his Lady Bears, will not exist next season at Brearley.

Senior Michele Coddington was a strong rebounder and also a good defensive player for the Bulldogs. Others who made contributions for Dayton were junior Marlo Coddington and three sophomores, Colleen Delaney, Gina Messano and Jeanie Perrotta, who is strong defensively.

Krupp has been at Dayton for five years and has worked hard to develop a fine program. This season was a good learning experience for the Bulldogs and the coach feels that it will pay off in the future.

Next season Krupp plans to build the Bulldogs around Weirnerman and Pohlman and the other returnees from this year's team.

Springfield Brownie Troop 869 of Sandmeier School has adopted a beautification program for the front of the school.

Cynthia Matta, leader, said that William Fallon, principal, has approved the troop planting flowers in the area adjacent to the front doors. The Brownies will grow the plants from seeds and after planting, will maintain the area.

The troop will also work on a Girl Scout Crime Prevention Program. The objectives of the badge are to enroll all New Jersey Girl Scouts as active partners in the state's work to control crime and to increase public safety; to help Girl Scouts learn and put into action positive steps to reduce opportunity for crime, and to serve families, friends and communities in this special way of being responsible citizens.

The institution of the badge is in conjunction with Springfield Police Department Crime Prevention Unit, under the direction of Officer George Hildner. The recognition for the Brownies are a Crime Fighters patch, a collar/lapel crime-watcher eye insignia button, and the governor's recognition certificate.

News of this "Super Pill" is literally sweeping the country. It's called Amitol and there has never been anything quite like it before.

"Flushes Calories Right Out Of Your Body"

What makes Amitol so thrilling and unique is its reported ability to flush calories right out of your body. Amitol is completely safe, it contains no drugs whatsoever. Its ingredients are derived solely from the Konjac root which grows primarily in Northern Japan.

Why the Konjac root? It has been used in Japan for over 1600 years to produce rapid and natural weight-loss!

Japanese studies verify that Konjac root actually prevents fat producing calories from being absorbed into your system. They say it does this by surrounding much of the fats, proteins and carbohydrates you have eaten with a protective viscous coating which is then gently flushed out of your system. And according to Japanese research this produces absolutely amazing results.

And who can disagree! Amitol (although brand new to this country) is already being called by many people "the most exciting weight-loss breakthrough of the century." In fact, everywhere there are reports of easy and fast weight-loss from formerly overweight people (in all walks of life) who are now slim, trim, and attractive again.

Artists take stock of the automobile

By DAVID M. MAXFIELD
Smithsonian News Service

Almost from the day in 1885 when Karl Benz took his invention out for a "spin" on a German road, artists have taken stock of the automobile's impact on our lives. Though the Benz test drive ended with a crash, the influence of that first horseless mile is still running strong.

"As long as the car is with us, providing emotional experiences, taking lives, changing the environment and altering perception, art will comment on and be influenced by the most inspirational of modern inventions," University of Pennsylvania art historian Gerald Silk says. Silk is a major contributor to Automobile and Culture, published in conjunction with a recent exhibition on that theme at the Museum of Contemporary Art in the freeway capital itself — Los Angeles.

Throughout the auto's golden decades, as well as its lean years during recessions and energy crises, artists have "autoanalyzed" the machines — at latest count 124 million — that American drivers ambivalently view as reliable servants and stern masters. Under the utilitarian chassis, many artists see a chariot capable of setting in motion our richest personal fantasies.

Visual metaphors as unlimited as the open road have been used by artists to come to terms with the century's mechanical star. One artist's snapshotlike painting included in the L.A. show casts the car as a member of a family, all in a streetside pose. Another work represents the auto as a tanklike, battle-painted warrior, replete with gun turrets in its side vents. And one dramatic installation, a Mercedes limo outfitted with 21 television sets, satirically depicts the car as entertainment center.

Artists working at the same moment in the same style often bring different points of view to the same subject. Take two contemporary "photo-realist" painters. Both are attracted to the glittering surface effects and reflections of paint, glass and chrome, chrome being a fitting reference to the technological world. But while one artist zooms in on precise details such as grilles, headlights and hubcaps, the other views a larger picture: the car as a part of the urban landscape, akin to buildings and trees.

Then there are artists who traffic in the automobile culture but never actually depict vehicles, opting instead for elements that serve and accommodate cars — roads, gas stations, diners, motels and garages. But messages related to highway travel — standardization, boredom, disorientation — are "entirely clear" without a leading vehicle, Paul Karlstrom, the West Coast regional director of the Smithsonian's Archives of American Art, suggests in an analysis of auto art in the archives' Journal.

Artists are fascinated with the car, Karlstrom observes, for a variety of reasons, not the least being that the automobile has come to represent the American dream: social mobility and democratic values. "If one accepts this notion of the car's symbolic role," he says, "its credentials are firmly established as a true national icon."

Introduced at a time of tremendous technological advance, the automobile initially functioned as an "optimistic symbol of change and progress," Silk explains, but as "the potential dangers and abuses of technology became more evident, the whole-hearted approval and celebration of the motorcar gave way to more sober, critical and negative assessments of its impact." Additionally, "the car began to influence not only the content of art, but also its form" as artists looked for ways to represent the machine.

Artists were right at the starting line in the conceptual development of the automobile, though they took a backseat to engineers and designers when car production actually began. As early as the 15th century, Leonardo da Vinci developed proposals for spring-driven vehicles in his studies of devices related to locomotion. Soon after Benz and other early drivers got on the road in the late 19th century, artists watched from the side, trying to figure out the auto's benefits and tolls.

Though generally this still is their place today, in the 1970s several artists resurrected the idea of the artist-inventor. By 1975, through trial and error, Chris Burden, an American artist, completed work on his homemade "B-Car," then drove it through the streets of Paris. Why? Because, he recalled, that was "one of my most cherished fantasies — to add the name Burden to the list of Ford, Honda, Citroen...."

At the turn of the century, images of the automobile appeared most often in advertising posters, books and magazines. In fact, the poster's emergence as a sophisticated art form was linked to the very developments, such as mechanical reproduction, that made the car possible. "The Automobilitist," Henri de Toulouse Lautrec's 1896 lithograph, is "perhaps the earliest example of an automobile image in the work of a major modern artist," Silk says. In that composition, the artist pitted a tranquil world of the 19th-century against the tumultuous vision of the 20th by portraying a goggled driver as a supercharged extension of a fuming vehicle speeding past an elegant promenader and her small dog.

Back then, technological subjects were not a priority of fine artists. When cars were portrayed by commercial artists, they often took on an "exploratory, sometimes tentative look," says Silk. Race cars trailed sweeping lines, puffs of smoke and sometimes barking hounds or flowing cloaks.

Silk thinks it "curious" that many early modern artists, among them the impressionists and Cubists, seldom applied their revolutions in technique to subjects other than traditional themes of still life, landscape and portraiture. Yet in Italy there was a group of artists who saw that the modern world demanded a new language in art.

Known as the Futurists, they believed that technology represented the wave of the future and that it was a necessary antidote to Italy's devotion to the Classical and Renaissance past, which, they felt, stood in the way of progress. Abstract Cubist devices, among them picture fragmentation and overlapping, were adapted by the Futurists to express speed, dynamism and aggression. "The car's association with power, force and machismo was ideally suited to a movement bent on destruction of the established order," Silk explains.

Meanwhile, in America — where the first successful car was assembled from 1893 to 1895 by the Duryea brothers, two bicycle mechanics — artists were also experimenting with the mechanical beauty and beast. As early as 1916, the abstractionist Stuart Davis was fascinated by the brilliant colors on American taxi cabs and gasoline stations and by the fast travel of autos, trains and planes. Borrowing from the Futurists, Davis flattened forms; in his "Multiple Views" of 1918, scenes from the roadside culture are spaced side by side and on top of one another.

Throughout the 1910s and '20s, the idea that machines evolve functionally toward a more ideal form had a large following, and artists treated the auto optimistically in their work. Many graphic designers established close relationships with the industry, and photographers, posing female models, presented the car as a chic symbol of liberation and progress. Such multi-level symbols tarnished quickly after the 1929 Crash.

"In the exploration of American values, the automobile, previously thought of as a symbol of the American dream, came to represent the betrayal of that dream," Silk says about the Depression. One artist, Grant Wood, dramatically cast the car as villain in his "Death on Ridge Road" (1935), in which the whole painting reels like a world out of control. The road snakes across the canvas, telephone poles and wires loom like grave markers. Space is distorted. Technological "progress" is challenged.

During the affluent decades after World War II, the auto appeared frequently in art, serving as a reference to societies built on mass production and the consumption of goods, but also symbolizing the freedoms that had been cramped and threatened by war and economic hardship. Pop artists seized upon advertisements spinning out the dreams and fantasies of car ownership as images for their own creations.

A good novel can be a great escape

Fiction always takes us out of our own lives and into those who may have lived in a different age or who are contemporaneous and let us escape nonetheless to other worlds. As always, there are the bestsellers and then there are a host of other novels who often get ignored for good reasons or bad luck.

The bestsellers these days are "If Tomorrow Comes" ($16.95, Morrow) by Sidney Sheldon who has proven his ability to tell a terrific story and, right up there on the list with him, is Mario Puzo with "The Sicilian" ($17.95, Simon and Schuster.) So much has been written and done to promote these books there is little to add. Both will entertain you greatly.

Less has been said of Clifford Irving's "The Angel of Zin" ($15.95, Stein and Day) which raises some interesting questions about what happens when a German police officer during World War II must come to terms with the evils of the death camps. Sent to investigate three murders in a prison camp call Zin, the whole Nazi horror confronts the main character. This is an extremely powerful story, filled with suspense, and very well told.

"Strands of War" ($26.95, Houghton Mifflin) by Jean Alexander Kemeny is yet another novel set against the context of World War II and provides us with a fairly lively story of espionage, interweaving the stories of spies and others caught in the web of events larger than themselves. Written as a series of letters passing between the various characters, it poses a bit of a challenge to follow the action.

How justice comes to a former Holocaust prisoner who cooperated with his captors is the heart of "Condemned" ($10.95, Dawnwood Press/Dist. by Sterling Pub.) by Paul Kuttner. This is a truly harrowing portrayal of life in the concentration camps and of how the efforts to pursue those who participated in the horrors are often thwarted by political changes and forces.

James Grady wrote a fine novel, "Six Days of the Condor" which became a Robert Redford film some years ago. Now he gives us "Runner In The Street" ($14.95, Macmillan) which deals with a nasty murder in Washington, D.C. and embroils the main character, a private detective, in a web of politics and power. There are other colorful sub-themes and all add up to a fine story worth reading. This detective, John Rankin, is going to be on the literary scene again, so meet him in this novel and wait for the next.

"Murder on the Appalachian Trail" ($16.95, Commonwealth Press Virginia) by Jess Carr is being given much support by its publisher, but sad to say it is just overlong and overdone. Based on true-life murders which occurred in 1981 when two women were murdered while out hiking and precipitated a major manhunt. I recommend you take a pass on this one.

You can also pass up "Defiance" ($15.95, Stein and Day) which was originally published in 1971 under another title. It was a bestseller then with its theme of super patriotism against a great threat to the nation, but it just seems a tedious "what if" exercise today. If, however, you like novels that explore what it's like to live off the land guerilla-style, you may well enjoy this story.

Another "what if" novel is "Scimitar" ($15.95, Stein and Day) which poses the question of what would happen if the Russians used a Neutron Bomb in Afghanistan. Author Peter Niesewant, regrettably contracted a fatal disease in Afghanistan while covering the Russian invasion, and this internationally acclaimed journalist has left us a rather novel with plenty of suspense to keep you turning the pages.

No need to bother with "The Predators" ($14.95, Stein and Day), a novel by Mark Washburn and Robert Webb, a kind of allegory in which a great white shark and kodiak brown bear are to be pitted against each other as a spectator, entertainment event by some sleazy fellows. The struggle to set free the shark and thwart the event is the nub of the story. It does have its moments, but is too contrived for my tastes.

So, you've had a look at some of the more offbeat novels which did not make it to the so-called best-seller lists. This is not to say that those that did aren't worth their fame. Most certainly, if you love spy fiction, don't miss Frederick Forsyth's "The Fourth Protocol" ($17.95, Viking) and Arthur Hailey comes through with a marvelously researched novel, "Strong Medicine" ($16.95, Doubleday) which takes you into the big money world of modern hospitals.

Most certainly, if you've grown bored with the pabulum being foisted on us all by the television networks, a good novel is always a great escape.

Rebecca's forecast

3/21 - 3/28

ARIES (3/21-4/20) The coming weeks will intensify all matters related to personal and professional relationships, contracts or agreements and dealings with those that openly oppose you. Be wary of impulsive actions; avoid a money loss; and new directions beckon for many. An old feud heats up again with a new twist!

TAURUS (4/21-5/21) The accent remains on financial wheeling and dealing for many; expect things to see-saw for a while; and steer clear of iffy schemes or ventures. Later during this period, unexpected intrusions may alter your schedule or personal plans; tone down aggression; and channel surplus energy effectively.

GEMINI (5/22-6/21) The coming weeks will highlight matters related to social, romantic and group or organizational ties. Spruce up appearance as unexpected meetings are possible. Later in this period, you may need a break from routine and are apt to be feeling somewhat reclusive; give in and catch up on things.

CANCER (6/22-7/23) The emphasis in coming weeks will revolve around career, community and elders concerns. Any of these areas may be disturbing on and off during this time. Plan some time alone to sort things out; you may need the time more than you're willing to admit. Tax or insurance matters surprise you.

LEO (7/24-8/23) The coming weeks will intensify matters related to in-laws, legal matters or people and issues at a distance. You could have more than your share of travel in coming weeks. Later, petty annoyances mount; inner restlessness may increase; and don't count on others to make final decisions for you.

VIRGO (8/24-9/23) You will undoubtedly have to give more consideration to your overall financial picture now and in coming weeks. Joint or partnership matters come under particular scrutiny. A new source of money may become necessary for some. You may be feeling that you're in a tight corner for the moment.

LIBRA (9/24-10/23) The coming weeks dictate that you focus attention on personal and professional alliances, legal issues and important agreements. Many will find they are involved again with issues from the recent past. Later, money problems are possible; and rid yourself of old or outworn practices.

SCORPIO (10/24-11/22) Health, career and dependants' interests can promote stress in coming weeks. Don't take things for granted in any of these areas. Important relationships need to be re-vitalized and local travel is likely to be on the agenda. A career opportunity may just fall into your lap before too long

SAGITTARIUS (11/23-12/21) There may be some unusual or disturbing events unfolding in coming weeks and they are likely to involve romantic, creative or children's interests. Later, private problems escalate; health concerns are indicated; and communications or correspondence will assume importance for many.

CAPRICORN (12/22-1/20) Focus your attention on family or property interests in coming weeks; important transitions are about to take place. You have to continue to be conservative financially a while longer. Be patient. Later, recreational pursuits may invite unusual encounters. Be prepared. Spirits begin to lift.

AQUARIUS (1/21-2/19) This promises to be an optimistic period for most. Share your opinions; they meet with success. Rumors and behind the scenes activities are unreliable and family members are extra sensitive. Later, uplifting surprises are indicated; defer travel if possible; and be sure to safeguard your health.

PISCES (2/20-3/20) Be extra careful in all financial matters in coming weeks; don't be tempted to waste or diminish your resources; and speculative ventures are best shelved for the time being. Later in this period domestic matters can be irritating; drop in visitors are likely; and shopping yields a bargain.

Belushi to appear at Kean

Disc 'n' Data

By MILT HAMMER

Pick of the LP's, "The Nylons" (Windham Hill Records).

In the early spring of 1979, four guys called The Nylons emerged from the Toronto underground scene to become one of the most popular cabaret acts in the city. They made their professional debut singing for their supper at a restaurant and ate their first pay check.

Since those early days, the group has moved on to rave reviews from audiences and critics across Canada, the United States and most recently in Great Britain, where they play four nights at Royal Albert Hall in London (on a tour with Shirley Bassey.)

Initially, they used no instrument other than the human voice the original instrument times four, and some percussive effects generated through finger-snapping, foot-tapping, and thigh-clapping. The percussion now includes tambourines, congas and electronic drums creating future primitive sounds well beyond the novelty and phenomena of the early days.

Although the personnel has changed since their debut, the group has continued where other may have quit, to expand their vision of "rockappella." Extensive background in theater and music embodied in a co-operative artistic effort provides a versatility enabling them to a approach almost any musical style they wish.

The sheer energy created makes multifarious a cappella that is as much theater as it is music. Seamless harmonies and inventive arrangements combine with instant costume changes, dramatic lighting, dynamic choreography and a set for ambiance to produce a stimulating entertainment package.

With songs from the swing era till now, the occasional foray into the classics and some originals, they're taking "rockappella" to the masses and proving that One Size Fits All.

Spring Fashion '85

Sahara's 'Seascapes' line is launched

Sahara Club's signature sportswear is launched in the Spring 1985 collection entitled "Seascapes." Designed by an international design team from the U.S.A., United States, Hong Kong and Japan, the collection upholds pivotal dressing with silhouettes and fabrics creating optional dressing.

The ever-changing nature of the shoreline colors Sahara Club's Spring. Seaweed green, seafoam white and pacific blue is beached while sand crystals provide the neutrals with shades of oyster white, granite and stone grey. The sun bleaches vibrant colors for sunburnt orange, sunbleached blue, lighthouse red and mustard. The three color groupings naturally interact on land and sea.

Weathered tonalities on pigment dyed canvas is fabric news for the beachcomber. An easy substitute for denim, canvas is washed to wear for a comfortable and casual style. The fabric is used on shorts in a mid-thigh length version with cargo pockets or a double-pleated model with exaggerated flap-over belt loops. In pants, canvas is used on a triple-pleated or a high-notched waistband style with rope center seaming.

Night-time boardwalking is envisioned with super-comfortable suits and sportjackets with dress-up or down versatility. Dress-up begins with a double-breasted, ventless sportjacket with patch pockets in cotton black and white twisted yarn stripes and matching inverted pleat pants. Cotton shirts pull the look together with space-dyed, clip dobbies and herringbone jacquards in vintage print motifs. Bold stripes define a single-breasted sportjacket with a small center vent in mustard, granite and stone grey. Worn slouchy with casual canvas pants and an oversized cotton cap shirt in geometric prints or directional with crisp double-pleated linen/cotton pants.

RISING BAROMETERS—The revered windbreaker is updated with Sahara Club's tri-color, reversible crinkled nylon jacket for Spring '85. Cotton pigment dye canvas pants with double frontal seams of roping completes this sea-faring look.

Sweater weather brings forth oversized, linen/cotton tops. Fashion gets turned inside out in a reversible, two-tone cotton jersey with visible seaming used as a detail, as well as on a crewneck boxstitch sweater. For the boating set, a v-neck black/white cable trim sweater or t-shirt is a wear-me-out item.

Foul weather gear is a garment-washed canvas duster in stone or charcoal. With double-entry bellows pockets, fly front and raglan sleeves, this Spring '85 cover-up stifles sea storms. On the shorter side, Sahara Club offers a reversible crinkled nylon jacket. In stone grey, pacific blue and granite, this updated windbreaker is a crucial item for blustery days.

Clear skies lets loose for Sahara Club renowned drawstring shorts in cotton colorful prints, herringbone jacquards, clip dobbies and batiks. Worn surfing or barechested sunbathing or as a cabana set with an oversized, short sleeve collarless shirt makes beaching it a stylish sight.

Adding impetus to the accessible-priced concept of dressing with a youthful/designer flavor, Sahara Club demonstrates that comfort and versatility is the Spring 1985 direction.

Hats are back in style

Despite the ups and downs of economic indicators, the hat business is back on the track and rolling full steam ahead according to Gary Rosenthal, president of the Stetson Hat Company Group, St. Joseph, Missouri.

Interviewed at the Men's Fashion Association Press showing in Atlanta, Rosenthal said, "Since the colonists first settled here, American men have traditionally worn hats. The puritans favored a large brim and conical crown. The Quakers modified it, adapting a rounded crown and sweeping brim. Washington popularized the tricorne, Davy Crockett the coon-skin cap and Lincoln the stove pipe beaver. It literally took generations to make the jump from one style to the next. Today, men want the right accessories to coordinate with their varied wardrobes and Stetson is doing its all to accommodate them with hats of every description." Rosenthal proved his point during the company's presentation of men's hats for spring-summer. The press was first shown Western straws and then casual planter's hats with curled brims, perfect for the beach and patio parties. On the dressier side coconut straws with leather bands were spotlighted, followed by a varied group of Panamas, some with colorful grosgrain ribbon bands. The show's finale featured the authentic Indiana Jones hat—a Stetson exclusive adapted for summer in Panamas, Milans and jutes—and for a curtain call the models wore linen caps in red, navy and white.

Following the show, Rosenthal indicated that only a small cross-section of the company's collection had been shown. Western felts are made and sold year round, here and abroad. Cloth caps and hats are best sellers.

He ended the interview stating, "John B. Stetson, the company's founder and originator of the western hat, is probably the first American fashion designer to be recognized around the world."

CALVIN KLEIN'S Spring '85 Collection includes this navy and white crepe de chine pin-dot wrap jacket and pants, available at Saks Fifth Avenue, Springfield. The wrap jacket is $450 and the pants, $210.

Jewelry '85: A master's mix

ADOLFO'S playful trompe l'oeil dress in vine green and white with navy and gold trim appears to be three pieces but is actually one. The Designer Salon, spring 1985, Saks Fifth Avenue.

A master's mix of materials combined with sculptural designs make Isaac Manevitz for Ben-Amun's Spring/Summer '85 jewelry collection one of his most exciting to date. Drawing heavily on the influences of the head-turning Memphis Gallery in Milan, Isaac Manevitz has designed important geometric jewelry pieces that fit perfectly with this Spring's architecturally designed clothes. (The Memphis Gallery in Milan features architect-designed furniture and furnishings which are just now making their way into America's special new breed of furniture stores.) Isaac's jewelry has a lot in common with this season's fashions — it is colorful, playful and exudes creative energy. A Ben-Amun piece makes an immediate impact.

The Spring/Summer collection is really done in two parts. The first, and most important, is the geometric pieces incorporating polished pewter, neon and brilliant-clear stones, plastic accents, ceramics and faux ivory. Isaac's interpretations with open, airy shapes give the geometrics a new twist. Size is also a factor with the earrings and pins large in open circular, square or triangular

Free Weight Loss Clinic

In the November issue of Better Homes and Gardens the new Cambridge Plan was shown to be the lowest in calories of 10 popular diets, and one of only two to offer 100% or more of selected nutrients vital to good health.

Opinion Research results show people who have lost over 50 pounds with Cambridge keep it off longer than any other plan including Weight Watchers.

Discover in one hour exactly how this amazing program works. You can lose 15 to 20 pounds safely in less than a month and keep it off for the rest of your life.

Everyone who attends the clinic receives an Atlantic City showcase. This includes two casino show tickets and many other gifts.

Hear from a special health professional guest about exactly why Cambridge is both safe and nutritious, and can work for you.

Call for reservations. Seating is limited.
