Workshop is summer fun

Sounds of happy voices fill the air as youngsters of all ages glide from one class to another experiencing such varied offerings as music, art, dance, juggling and science.

Now in its 15th summer of operation, the Westfield Summer Workshop, under the direction of Theodore Schlosberg, is drawing more than 700 students from Westfield, Mountainside, Springfield and other neighboring communities.

"It's five exciting weeks," said Denise Bellog, Dance Department chairman and public relations coordinator, as she explained the courses available to children aged pre-school through high school.

Adults, too, can take advantage of a number of courses.

Classes like cartooning, magic and Indian crafts keep minds and hands busy during the five weeks the workshop is in session.

A new course, commercial acting, teaches youngsters to put their "best foot forward" at auditions for T.V. commercials. A "fun with fitness" course is another new offering for individuals aged 18 and over.

Musical Summer Stock is offered for the first time this year.

Two productions, "Charlie Brown," and "Dames at Sea" for which students are practicing every day for six weeks, will be performed at Roosevelt Junior High School as well as at local hospitals at the end of this month.

The show begins at 8:15 p.m. July 24. Tickets are $5 for adults and $4 for students and can be obtained at Roosevelt Junior High or by calling 233-0804.

Freeholders hire legal firm

The Union County Board of Freeholders has approved the hiring of a Hackensack law firm to provide legal services for the county in the pending suit brought against the county by Radiation Technology, Inc.

The case in question involves a nuclear freeze ordinance adopted by the county last October. RFI, a Rockaway-based company, has filed its suit in U.S. District Court against the county claiming that the ordinance is unconstitutional.

RFI, using the U.S. Atomic Energy Act of 1954 to legally defend its position, claims that the federal law supercedes the county's ordinance.

The ordinance forbids the production, storage and transportation of nuclear material within the county. RFI has declared in the suit that the ordinance is "unlawful, void and invalid and unenforceable." The suit also states that the county and any other parties cannot enforce such an ordinance.

Freeholder Alan M. Augustine, serving as chairman, said that the county "has an obligation to defend its ordinances."

"The tragedy of Chernobyl bares out the fact there is a totally different attitude about the world as far as the administration's control of nuclear energy," said Augustine.

Freeholder James J. Fulcommer objected to Augustine's reference to nuclear power.

"This is not a nuclear power plant. It's not a nuclear bomb factory. What we're talking about here is a food irradiation plant," said Fulcommer.

FTI is seeking to open a food-irradiation plant in Elizabeth. They charge in the law suit that the Port Authority, which owns the site where FTI wants to build its plant, has declined FTI's plans until the case is resolved.

The P.A. signed a lease agreement with RTI last October but now has reconsidered its decision due to the county ordinance.

In other business, Lawrence Caroselli, the director of the county's department of finance, presented a request to the board for an ordinance to authorize $75,000 from the capital fund balance account in order to "acquire personal computers throughout the county's administration."

"They're to allow the county administration co-department to greater introduce themselves to the personal computer," said Caroselli.

In another matter Armand Fiorletti, the director of the department of engineering and planning, presented to the board their plan to authorize an application to the New Jersey office of recycling for program planning and education grants.

Fiorletti said his department is asking $250,000 for programing and planning and $75,000 for the education part of the recycling plan.

Council OKs fire rules

By JORITA DEFRANCESCO

At its Tuesday night public meeting, the Mountainside Borough Council approved the rules and regulations of the Volunteer Fire Company after a six-month delay which, in effect, left the firemen without an official operations guide.

The council also adopted a revised general ordinance incorporating an amendment to the borough code which would keep the fire company rules and regulations in effect until the governing body approved a change. Council also made clear that the revised ordinance would not prevent new fire chiefs from proposing changes in the future.

Councilman Ronald Romak, fire committee chairman, introduced the resolution approving the rules and regulations. He again expressed his opinion that the rules are a "compromise," but also credited Fire Company President Jay Kelk and former Fire Chief Alan Hambacher for their cooperation in finalizing the rules.

At the same time, council also approved the appointment of Mountainside residents Thomas Perrotta and James C. Debbie to the fire department.

During the public comment portion of the meeting, Kelk voiced his dissatisfaction that the fire company had not been notified that the rules and regulations would be on council's agenda for the evening. Chiding the council for its protracted review of the rules, Kelk said, "You were the ones who elected not to adopt the rules and regulations. You want the ball game on your side not ours."

Another fireman worried that future changes to the rules would be blocked by council's failure to act. Councilman Bart Barre said that the fire department had been operating without rules since January. He further reminded the firemen that council had always had final approval on the fire company rules.

In other business, council agreed to defeat the proposed newsrack ordinance. Council President Robert Vigilanti, a proponent of regulating sidewalk placement of newsracks, said a revised ordinance would be introduced at the next council meeting.

Council also approved a resolution authorizing the return of real estate tax payments due to overpayments and failure of residents to take veterans and senior citizen deductions.

The sale of a Police Department surplus vehicle, a 1980 Dodge, in the amount of $733 was also approved.

Alcohol regulations

The Mountainside Borough Council approved the following rules and regulations for the storage and consumption of alcoholic beverages at the firehouse:

1. No alcoholic beverage shall be stored, maintained or dispensed from other than the second floor of the firehouse.

2. All alcoholic beverages shall be secured in a locked storeroom on the second floor and no one other than the four chief officers of the Fire Department shall be provided with or maintain keys to said room, although such officers may, in their discretion but without waiving their responsibilities, designate another officer in charge of such key on a temporary basis.

3. Alcoholic beverages shall not be dispensed in the firehouse except upon such occasions as the senior officer in charge shall deem appropriate.

4. At any time that alcoholic beverages are being dispensed at the firehouse, the senior officer present shall have the duty to ensure that there are a sufficient number of department members available who are not under the influence of any alcoholic beverage to operate the fire equipment in case of an alarm.

5. The senior officer present shall have the duty to insure that no alcoholic beverage dispensed in the firehouse is consumed by any minor and further to insure that no member of the department who is under the influence of alcohol operates any department equipment or is permitted to function in response to an alarm.

6. Each and every member of the department shall have the duty and obligation to assist in the enforcement of these rules and regulations and shall report any violation thereof to the chief, assistant chief or deputy chief immediately.

7. Any willful violation of these rules and regulations shall be grounds for disciplinary action.

Board approves extra funding bid

By MARK YABLONSKY

In a unanimous vote, the Mountainside Board of Education approved Tuesday night a district application for the High School Proficiency Test Supplemental State Compensatory Education Funds for the upcoming 1986-87 fiscal school year.

The funds, which are expected to total the full amount of the $13,500 available to each district, will be used for students who did not score well enough on the most recent IOWA basic skills tests, and who must now enter the Compensatory Education program as a result.

Superintendent/board secretary Leonard J. Baccaro indicated that this year's lower scores on the test, which is given each year to students in the district, were due in part to the test's newest edition. Baccaro said the test apparently gave some students difficulty in understanding the directions that were stated.

Additionally, Baccaro said special letters notifying parents that their children will be in "some kind of basic skills" program in the fall, are being sent out. A similar proposal had been discussed by the board earlier, after being introduced by board member Linda Esemplare.

In other business, the board listened to a presentation from Eve Marchiony, a field service representative of the New Jersey School Boards Association, who was on hand to help the board decide on which goals it would like to attain by the end of the next school year.

First asked to be a consultant for the search that eventually brought Baccaro to the district, Marchiony emphasized that the relationship between the superintendent and the board is a "partnership kind of thing," and any goals set should not exceed the State Department of Education's mandate — of three — by more than one.

"Limit your requirements," she explained. "It is not something that can be done by one person, it most certainly must have the support of the full board."

After looking at numerous possibilities, including more frequent staff evaluations and a reduction of the amount of children in need of compensatory aid, the board is expected to decide upon its three goals by September.

Post Office extends services

The Mountainside post office has extended service hours following a review of customer needs and preferences as announced by Postmaster Michael J. Collins.

The post office now provides lobby services from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday and from 9 a.m. to noon on Saturday.

Post Office boxes will be accessible from 7:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday and from 7:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Saturday.

In commenting on the expanded service hours, Collins said, "The Postal Service regularly reviews the efficiency of service to our customers and we believe these changes will make it easier for the people of this community to do business with us."

School notes

Mountainside resident David A. Hamlett, a student at Our Lady of Lourdes School, received a merit citation in the 1986 national traffic safety poster program sponsored by the American Automobile Association. David's winning poster was chosen from 6,128 entries submitted nationwide.

Springfield resident Edward J. Fanning earned first honors at Seton Hall Preparatory School in West Orange for the second semester. Dean J. Schafer of Kenilworth also earned first honors at Seton Hall for the second semester. In addition, Schafer is also one of 100 academically-talented, New Jersey high school seniors who will be attending the third year of the Governor's School in the Sciences at Drew University in Madison. Schafer was selected by a 10-member committee comprised of Drew faculty, high school science teachers, and industrial laboratory scientists who screened 250 finalists.

Selection was based on academic record, standardized test scores, teacher recommendations and interest in science both in and out of the academic setting.

The academic program offers intensive, non-credit college level instruction in physics, biology, mathematics, chemistry and computer science. Laboratory courses, team research projects, seminars, elective classes, career trips and field trips round out the curriculum. The faculty comes from Drew, corporations, and several high schools, and guest speakers include author Isaac Asimov.

Kenilworth's Harding School library has a summer reading program to encourage students to maintain their reading skills during vacation months.

Sports enthusiasts to get new chair

The Children's Specialized Hospital of Mountainside will purchase a specially-fitted wheelchair for use by its wheelchair athletic team with a $1,250 gift it recently received from the Sara Slifer Organization.

Andy Chasanoff, director of recreational therapy at Children's Specialized, said that in the wheelchair sports program the natural playing abilities of the children are used to help them gain self-confidence and social awareness. "By making the development of new skills fun, the youths involved in the program are likely to develop life-long, constructive leisure time interests," he said.

The hospital enters its wheelchair athletes in many competitive events for which the children do regimented training. "Up to now they have been using wheelchairs provided by their parents at their own expense," Chasanoff said. "This gift will allow children who could not otherwise participate to experience achievement through wheelchair sports."

At the check presentation ceremony at Children's, members of the Sara Slifer Organization paid tribute to one of the group's founders, Molly Cohen, who died last winter.

The hospital's Community Resources Coordinator, Shirley Biegler, described Cohen as "a very active member of the group, a good friend of the hospital who often visited it to see what we'd need." Biegler added, "her interest in helping disabled people and her genuine warmth will always be remembered."

Since 1974, the Sara Slifer Organization has contributed more than $21,000 to Children's Specialized. The group, which includes women from Union and Essex Counties primarily, donates to hospitals and other charities which provide orthopedic relief to patients. "Contributions to Children's have provided orthopedic equipment such as wheelchairs, canes, walkers, hospital beds and any kind of item needed to make life easier for the children," Biegler said.

The Sara Slifer Organization has also provided for a cast room which was dedicated by the group to the hospital. It also has previously donated funds which purchased a universal power pack exercise system and biofeedback instrument for the Physical Therapy Department.

"The generous and continuous support of the Sara Slifer Organization over the years has been of great assistance to the hospital and the children," Biegler said.

Bear name chosen

The Kenilworth Library announced that Maria Davanzo is the winner of the Name the Bear Contest with her entry, "Dixie."

The name suggested by Maria, a student at Harding School, was chosen from more than 70 entries submitted to the library sponsored contest.

Buses in service to Overlook

New Jersey Transit recently agreed to reinstate the bus stop at Overlook Hospital in Summit, according to Assemblyman Bob Franks, who represents Mountainside in the New Jersey General Assembly. Service to and from Overlook became effective on June 28.

"The service to the hospital had been suspended four years ago due to heavy construction at the hospital site," said Franks. "Now with construction nearing completion, it made sense to ask N.J. Transit to resume its service.

New Jersey Transit bus No. 54 has added the Overlook Hospital stop to its route between Summit and Scotch Plains. From Scotch Plains, the bus will stop at Overlook just before stopping at the Summit train station. From Summit, the stop at Overlook will immediately follow departure from the train station.

People interested in obtaining a schedule for this servicing may telephone New Jersey Transit at 1-800-772-2222.

Beer battle breaks

The question of where, why, when and how beer can be consumed at the Mountainside firehouse has been settled. Although neither the fire department nor the fire committee can claim a victory, perhaps the people of Mountainside can.

Ideally, the focus of the firemen and the fire committee will now return to weighty matters like fighting fires, teaching fire prevention, inspecting buildings and keeping the borough's equipment in working order.

As a result of conflict between the fire department and fire committee during the past seven months, gone are the days of the free-flowing beer tap. Unfortunately, a lot of other more important things like mutual trust and respect have also disappeared during the tug of war.

Regarding beer in the firehouse, it looks like the firemen came out on top even though access to the brew is restricted.

Ronald Romak, the fire committee chairman, did achieve small success by stemming the tide of free-flowing beer. However, he admits to not being satisfied with the new rules and regulations regarding alcohol on fire department premises and called it a "compromise."

There are many citizens in this community who see nothing wrong with beer at the firehouse. It is, in fact, an accepted norm in volunteer fire departments throughout this country.

Others, agreeing with Romak, feel it is totally unacceptable and dangerous to have alcohol on site. Some members of the Mountainside police force as well as members of the rescue squad do not approve of beer in the firehouse.

Since there were no documented cases of fire department problems directly attributable to consumption of alcohol at the firehouse, discussions boiled down to a matter of differing opinions.

After a while, it became apparent that beer was just a banner for two opponents to carry into battle. What's really been going on is a war of wills between the fire commissioner and the fire company. Through it all, both sides inflicted wounds and both sides were hurt.

In spite of threats from Mayor Bruce Geiger, it looks as if Romak will sit out his term as fire commissioner. Perhaps, that's what both sides need — the opportunity to treat one another with civility despite vastly different points of view. And, maybe that's what the people of this town need to see.

We've witnessed adversaries thrash it out in the back room as well as on the evening news. We've seen two sides fighting for what they respectively maintained was right. That, we believe, makes the event worthy of the attention it received.

Student thoughts on Statue, liberty

Evelyne Holcombe, fifth-grade teacher at Deerfield School in Mountainside, submitted the following student work for publication in the Mountainside Echo.

Our Statue: Teacher of Liberty

By LINDSEY BEASLEY
It was 1884, the Fourth of July, that my parents, my husband, my children and I, arrived in New York Harbor so full, to be greeted by a friendly seagull. He beat and flapped his ivory wings, pointing to the most marvelous thing. "There, standing erect just beyond you! Tis a massive and glorious statue! There we stood, frozen with awe, marveling at the sight we saw. We had arrived, lined at the railing, just before the unveiling. The Statue of Liberty had just been fabricated, and later in 1886, 'twas dedicated from France 'twas an outstanding donation. To represent the freedom of our young nation. We rushed off, eager to see, the lustrous Statue of Liberty.

Our Statue: Teacher of Liberty

By MOLLY LYONS
Whenever I think of the Statue of Liberty, I think of my ancestors when they sailed into New York Harbor. My great-grandmother came to America from Ireland when she was eighteen. She never saw her parents again.
I'm sure she had her doubts at first, but when she came to the Statue she might have thought of the opportunities, peace, freedom, and a new life ahead of her.
The Lady is a symbol of America and its leaders. She will stand there for generations and generations as a sign of peace, freedom and courage, and a new life for many.
Sometimes I wonder what my children will think of our Statue. They should learn to appreciate it, as many Americans do today.
When we celebrate her 100th birthday we will celebrate a birthday of a symbol that should never die. Even though she has been through a lot of history and events, she is strong. She truly is a teacher of liberty.

Without the Statue, the Harbor where she stands would be empty, and so will a little place in our hearts.
I'm proud to be in America and grateful that my great-grandmother had the courage to make that scary trip across the ocean many years ago.

Finance facts

Some suggestions about 'hot tips'

You probably get stock recommendations frequently — from your friends, relatives or financial advisors. If you are an astute investor, you probably disregard "hot tips" about companies you've never heard of, with exotic products, untested technologies and no earning record. But what should you do when a legitimate company is recommended, particularly by someone whose judgment you respect? The answer is: Ask many questions.

The following is a list of the most important questions, many of which you can probably answer after reading your brokerage firm's latest research report on the company, or reviewing a standard investment service such as Value Line or Standard & Poor's Stock Reports. These investment service publications are available at most public libraries. You can furthermore, ask the company in question to send you its annual report and recent proxy statements.

Keep in mind that unless recommendations come from someone truly knowledgeable about stocks, the chances are slim that tipsters really know much about the companies they tout.

Here is what you need to know before putting your money on the line:

—What has changed to make this stock suddenly a "terrific buy"

when it wasn't six months or a year ago? This is the single most important question.

—What is the general outlook for the company's industry? If its market is shrinking, even the most well run companies will lose business.

—What is the company's position in its industry? It should be a significant factor, if not an industry leader.

—How much competition is there in the particular industry? The less the better.

—Have corporate earnings grown in proportion to sales over the past five years? Ideally, earnings should have grown faster than sales.

—How fast have its earnings per share been rising? If the recommended security is supposed to be a "growth" stock, earnings per share should be growing by at least 10 percent per year. If it is a more established corporation, you can be satisfied with somewhat less.

—Does the company's stock pay a dividend? A growth company probably won't, because all of its earnings should be going back into the business, while a blue-chip company should have an uninterrupted flow of dividends, as well as dividend increases.

—Have sales and earnings doubled over the past decade? They should have if the company is to have any real chance of outpacing inflation over the next decade.
—Does it have a great deal of debt, especially compared with other companies in the industry? Its debt should not be above the industry average. Be very careful if short-term debt is rising. This could be due to the fact that the company is growing very fast, but it could also be a danger signal.

—Do the managers of the company own significant quantities of its stock? If they do, they are likely to work hard to keep the company growing and the stock price rising.
If you find a company with favorable answers to all these questions, you've got a winner. But chances are, you will have to weigh the positive and negative information, in order to determine the relative risks versus the earnings potential.

Student works for recreation

It's late in the afternoon at Children's Specialized Hospital and a dozen youngsters have rolled into the recreation room in their wheelchairs and are unable to contain their excitement.

During their day at Children's Specialized Hospital they've been examined by doctors and struggled through arduous and varied therapy sessions.

But now it's time to play games. For Kathie Marcinak, a Montclair State College recreation therapy major in her senior year, this is her time to work. It's time for the children, but Kathie's objective is therapy.

Marcinak, a 1982 graduate of Arthur L. Johnson Regional High School in Clark, is a student intern at Children's Specialized Hospital.

In training to be a recreational therapist, she is developing an understanding of the psychosocial needs of children. She strives to give the children the opportunity to live their lives to the fullest in spite of disabilities.

"Recreational therapy often takes the form of fun and games for the children," Marcinak explained,

"but the professional knows it is an integral component of the total therapeutic program designed for the child."

The recreational therapist must always be aware of the special needs of the children with whom he or she "plays" and the inter-relationship of the various therapies as well as the specific objectives of the therapists, such as:

Occupational Therapists who have evaluated each child's readiness to perform age-appropriate tasks and achieve functional development milestones; and

Physical Therapists who follow prescribed treatments and develop programs for the correction of conditions which interfere with a child's ability to stand, walk or use his or her body functionally; and Speech and Hearing therapists who have evaluated, diagnosed and are correcting speech, language and hearing problems.

"There is a great deal to consider when planning play activities for disabled children who are in several therapeutic programs," she says. "And on top of that, I've got the pressure of being graded."

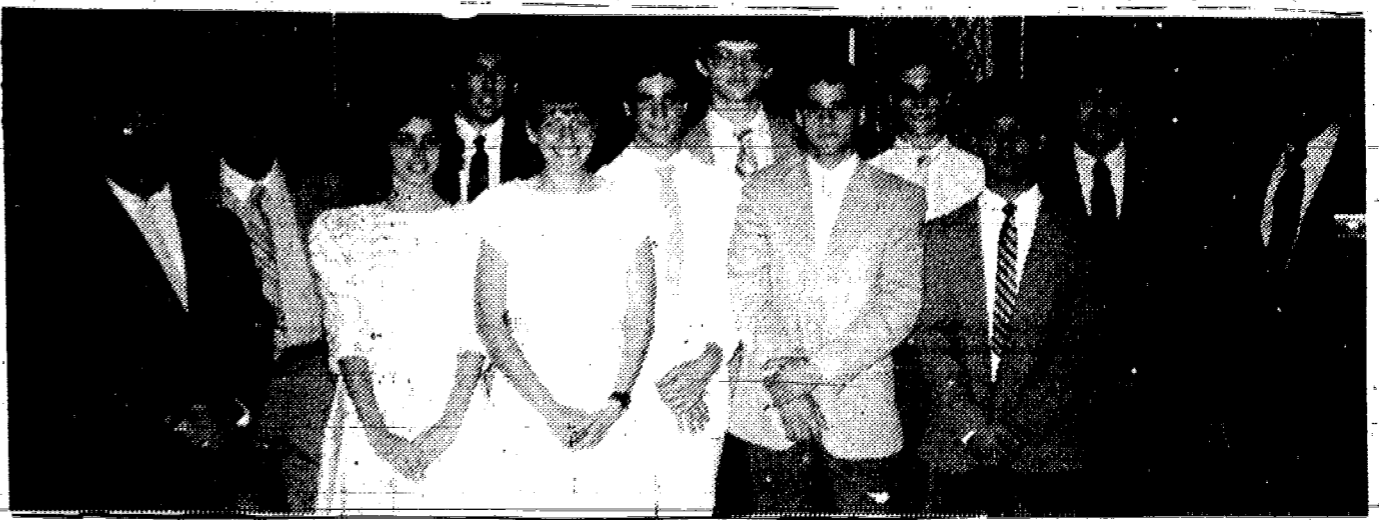

"But," she continues with a smile, "it's worth every ounce of pressure and every hour of time when I see an activity I have planned bring smiles to the children's faces."

She says that the children, understandably, "get a little boisterous at times. And," she continues, "they need to be kept in line just like any other children their age would."

Her ability to keep activities under control is a major criteria in the evaluations of her performance, which are done by her advisor at Montclair State College who consults Children's Special Hospital Recreation Director Andrew Chasanoff. "Well-planned activities which keep the children busy are the best 'kid controllers,'" Marcinak says.

Upon her recent graduation, Marcinak was hoping to join the staff at Children's Specialized Hospital or some place like it.

"So many people coming out of school don't know what they want to do with their lives, but I'm glad I don't have such questions. To me, there's no joy that quite compares with being able to help children."

Sheriff's department gets new van

The Union County Sheriff's Department recently received a transportation van, courtesy of the Schering-Plough Corporation of Kenilworth, Union County Sheriff Ralph Froehlich announced recently.

The donation will allow the Sheriff's Department to add to their Search and Rescue Unit, which had only one van. The new van will be outfitted with emergency equipment and utilized to transport canines and sheriff's officers to assist law enforcement agencies in locating missing persons and for other emergency situations, according to Froehlich.

The Sheriff's Department has nine specialized dogs that have been instrumental in searching for missing persons, investigating crime scenes, locating narcotics, searching buildings for hidden felons and apprehending arsonists, burglars and homicide suspects.

"The addition of this newly acquired vehicle will enhance the unit's capability of responding quickly and safely when called upon," Froehlich said.

People in the news

Dr. Martin Diamond of Westfield, has been promoted to the position of director of outpatient services at Children's Specialized Hospital. For the past six years he has served the hospital as its pediatric psychiatrist. In making the announcement, Dr. Ilana Wechsler Zarafu, medical director of the pediatric rehabilitation facility, praised Diamond as "an excellent teacher and clinician."

Children's Specialized, which was founded in 1891, has received state approval to expand its facilities in Mountainside to include long-term care for severely disabled children, and to introduce outpatient services in a new facility in Fanwood.

Diamond, in his new position, will supervise the transfer of outpatient services to Fanwood with Zarafu and the hospital's executive director, Richard Ahlfeld, and will move his office there when the facility opens in 1987. The new center is located at the former LaGrand School, three miles from the hospital.

"Dr. Diamond has excellent rapport with patients and has specific interests in outpatient care," Zarafu said. He has extensive training in pediatrics and psychiatry and is a frequent lecturer on the conditions of the handicapped.

Born in New York City, the new director of outpatient services received his medical degree from the University of Pittsburgh School of Medicine and completed his pediatric residency at the Children's Hospital National Medical Center in Washington, D.C. He completed post-residency training in physical medicine and rehabilitation at Sinai Hospital of Baltimore, where he became chief resident.

In addition to his work at Children's Specialized, Diamond serves as clinical assistant professor

"Mrs. Cassidy's involvement in community affairs and her commitment to maintaining high-level community services make her especially qualified for this position," said Ahlfeld.

Cassidy was formerly an instructor and writer for IBM Corp. and a high school English teacher in North Plainfield.

Pamela Shaw of Mountainside has been elected administrative council director of the Junior League of Elizabeth-Plainfield.

The organization, whose purpose is to promote volunteerism, provides professional volunteers for most of Union County and some adjacent areas.

Springfield resident Annette Lalloppa, a teacher at James Caldwell School is one of 100 teachers selected by the New Jersey State Department of Education to participate in the education commissioner's symposium for outstanding educators.

Out-of-state man held on warrant

A 35-year-old California resident was arrested last week by three members of the Springfield Police Department on an outstanding warrant for grand theft that had been issued earlier by the Tulare County sheriff's office.

Responding to a lead from California's assistant attorney general, the department discovered that Arthur Maynard Smith Jr., believed to be a telephone salesperson from Visalia, Calif., was working for the Runyon Sales Co. on Fadem Road, where he was later apprehended by Sgt. William Chisholm and Patrolmen John Trampler and Paul Caron. Smith is being held in the Union County Jail, awaiting extradition to the West Coast.

In an unrelated incident, Steven

Wayne Adamczyk was arrested by Patrolmen Peter Davis and Jeffrey Vreeland at the Colonial Motel on Route 22 the morning of July 9 on a drug warrant issued from the Monmouth County prosecutor's office.

Adamczyk had originally been charged in Monmouth County with possession and intent to distribute narcotics, when he later failed to appear in court to answer the charges. Following his apprehension, Adamczyk was remanded to the Monmouth County Jail.

In Municipal Court Monday night, Serious J. Warren Jr., 22, of Plainfield pleaded guilty to driving while suspended and was fined $500, $15 in court costs, and another $30, payable to the state Violent Crimes Compensation Board.

Robert B. Mascuch, 31, of Woodridge, pleaded guilty to driving while suspended and was fined $750, along with $15 court costs, a six-month license revocation and a three-day jail sentence. Mascuch also pleaded guilty to having fictitious license plates, no automobile insurance and an unregistered vehicle, and was fined a total of $135 and $40 in court costs for all three offenses, as well as an additional six-month license revocation.

Robert Freeman, 52, of Short Hills, pleaded guilty to shoplifting at ShopRite Supermarkets and received a suspended $25 dollar fine. Freeman, however, was fined another $30, payable to the state VCCB.

Overlook offers new course

Overlook Hospital in Summit is offering a Saturday morning class for parents adjusting to an expanding family. Time management, sibling rivalry, discipline, self esteem of parent and child, and communication skills will be discussed.

The next class will be held July 26, from 10 to noon. There is a $10 charge per couple and class size is limited.

Overlook Hospital also offers a monthly Prepared Sibling Course geared toward children between the ages of 3 and 12 whose family is expecting a baby. The next course will be held on Saturday from 9-10:30 a.m. or 12:30-2 p.m.

Children's anxieties about "Mom" going to the hospital will be alleviated as they become familiar with the hospital environment. The program includes a tour, a nursery story session and audiovisual presentation.

The young participants also will be able to dress up in little hospital gowns, caps and masks. Instructors will give the children pointers on how they can help out at home once the newborn arrives. "Graduates" of the program will be given buttons announcing "I'm a prepared big sister or brother," as the case may be.

Mothers and fathers also may participate in the program, in a discussion group learning how to help their children adjust to the new baby.

There is a $15 registration fee for the program. Because classes fill early, parents should sign up two months in advance of their due date.

Henwood services Saturday

Earl C. Henwood of Union, who waged many political battles, lost his fight with cancer Tuesday.

A Mass for Mr. Henwood, 48, active in county and local politics for the past 20 years, will be held Saturday at 9:30 a.m. in Holy Spirit Church on Morris Avenue in Union. The Union Township Republican municipal chairman died Tuesday afternoon in his home.

Viewings at the McCracken Funeral Home, 1500 Morris Ave., Union, are scheduled for today and tomorrow, 2 to 4 p.m. and 7 to 9 p.m. The burial following the Mass on Saturday will be held at St. Dennis Cemetery, Havertown, Pa.

Commenting on his death, his close friends noted Mr. Henwood's brilliant political mind and spoke of the void he will leave in their lives.

David Isenman, a member of the Union Board of Education and a close friend of Mr. Henwood, said "I'm very saddened by his death. He affected so many lives ... for the better. I'm sure they are all saddened too."

State Senator C. Louis Bassano, a close friend of Mr. Henwood's both socially and politically since they first met in 1967, spoke about his comrade's gift for politics.

"The best description I can give of the man is that he was a 'shaker and a doer.' He had a brilliant political mind in addition to talents for writing and strategy," Bassano said.

"A lot of things he stood for was what the Republican Party stands for. The void caused by his death just won't be filled. He's going to be very sorely missed," the senator added.

Born in the Mainline section of Philadelphia, Pa., Mr. Henwood came to Union 20 years ago. He attended Temple University, Philadelphia, and was a staff sergeant in the Army during the Korean War.

Mr. Henwood was Republican municipal chairman in Union for the past 17 years, and a Union Township Committee candidate in 1973 and 1982. He served as delegate to the Republican National Convention in Detroit, Mich., in 1980 and was a Reagan appointee to the Small Business Administration, serving from 1982 to the present.

The roast helped raise money for the oncology unit at Memorial General Hospital, Union.

Mr. Henwood greeted children as Santa Claus for many years, also playing the role for Union Township's first annual holiday celebration in 1984.

He was also a member of the New Jersey State Master Plumbers Board, and the American Legion Post 35 and Elks Post 1583, both of Union.

Mr. Henwood was a member and past president of the Regular Republican Club of Union, and a member and past chairman of the

He was appointed clerk of the Union County Board of Chosen Freeholders on Jan. 13, 1981 and served until his term expired on June 12, 1982. He was an aide to Bassano, Assembly Speaker Chuck Hardwick and Assemblyman Peter Genova.

Mr. Henwood served as Union County campaign manager for gubernatorial candidate "Bo" Sullivan in 1981. He was a member of the county's George Washington Plunkett Marching and Chowder Society, which held its first annual roast in December honoring him.

Union Township Zoning Board of Adjustment.

For the past 12 years, he was the owner of Composition Graphics in Montclair. Prior to that, Mr. Henwood was employed by Suburban Publishing Company, now County Leader Newspapers, Union, where he set up the offset printing department in the early 1960s.

Surviving are his wife, Patricia; his son, Joseph Henwood of Philadelphia, Pa.; and his nephew, David Dougherty, who resided with him.

Businesses prepare for Expo

At a time of growing confidence in the economic health of New Jersey, companies of every size and distinction are preparing for a landmark business showcase slated for Oct. 1 and 2. Expo '86 is being heralded as the largest, most comprehensive business marketing event yet held in Northern New Jersey and a timely symbol of the area's commercial renaissance.

John Naisbitt and Patricia Aburdene will headline the Expo. "Megatrends," Naisbitt's best-selling book, and the couple's recent collaboration, "Reinventing The Corporation," have focused on the burgeoning information and service economy and associated trends in health care, education and politics. Expo sponsors predict these themes will reverberate throughout the two-day event.

"Northern New Jersey's resurgence has been admired globally," said Richard G. Schoon, president of the Greater Newark Chamber of Commerce, principal Expo sponsor. "We've emerged from the recessions of the '70's and '80's stronger and more ready for the future. Now, the Expo will be the perfect forum to demonstrate our confidence to ourselves, the nation and the world."

Close to 75 companies have already agreed to exhibit with a total of 250 expected to sign-up over the summer. Companies exhibiting at the Expo will range from small owner-operated companies to the region's major financial services, transportation, manufacturing, media and health care companies. The Expo will be held at South Mountain Arena in West Orange, the largest exposition facility in Northern New Jersey.

In addition to the keynote and roundtable discussions with Naisbitt and Aburdene, Expo '86 will feature career and management development seminars for all levels of office workers, executives and managers.

But the bottom-line of Expo '86 is business promotion. "Those companies exhibiting will have an excellent opportunity to make new contacts, reinforce existing business relationships and even capture new accounts on the exhibit floor," remarked Schoon of the Chamber.

Mark A. Fien, a partner in Newark-based Samuel Klein and Company, predicts that Expo '86 will be a personalized marketing environment tailored to the needs of service businesses like his accounting firm. "Our most significant resources are our people," remarked Fien. "An event like this will enable us to meet people face to face, shake their hands, talk with them and determine if they have any needs which our firm can help meet."

"We can't pass this up, it's a natural for us," amplified Jerry Daily, vice president of marketing for the New Jersey Devils hockey team. The Devils are planning an exhibition to promote season tickets sales to businesses. "What better place to reach a concentrated group of business managers and owners." Jocelyn and Laurie Hander, owners of Food Fantasies of Harrison, anticipate that the Expo will position their catering service among area businesses. To make sure everyone gets the message, they will have their best pasta chef in attendance preparing fresh linguine and tortellini for all to sample. "Anyone who is a qualified buyer will get a chance to see what we can do," remarked Hander.

A full schedule of conference sessions and short courses will be offered through Expo '86. Programs will focus on such areas as technology, management, marketing, financial development, human resources, international trade and future-oriented issues.

"Those businesses interested in exhibiting at Expo '86 should make reservations early. Space is limited. For more information call 1-800-252-EXPO (3976).

Repeat offenders are target of Hardwick bill

The state Assembly recently passed legislation aimed at cracking down on repeat offenders and career criminals.

The bill, sponsored by Assembly Speaker Charles Hardwick, would establish the "Targeted Offender Prosecution Program" (TOPP), to assist county law enforcement agencies in developing more aggressive prosecution strategies for handling repeat felons.

"Repeat offenders are responsible for committing many of the most serious and violent crimes," Hardwick said. "This legislation will help ensure the full force of the law is exerted against such individuals from the earliest point in the prosecution process until the day these felons are put behind bars."

The Speaker also said the bill, which will now be placed before the Senate for consideration, would help reverse the recent upswing in the incidence of crime reflected in both state and federal crimes statistics. According to U.S. Justice Department statistics released in late June, one in every four American households was affected by crime in 1985.

"While the federal figures alone offer compelling support for this bill, the need to get tough with repeat felons becomes even more evident in view of the State Police 1985 Crime Report," the Speaker said. "State figures show a 6 percent increase in crime overall and a 5 percent jump in the number of violent incidents, including murder, rape, robbery and aggravated assault."

Under the bill, passed unanimously by the Legislature June 27, each of the state's 21 counties will receive a share of $3 million in funding to set up programs aimed at targeting defendants with records of repeating criminal activity. Funds would be distributed according to each county's share of the state's total number of offenses, as recorded in the latest State Uniform Crime Report.

Union County would stand to receive some $200,000 under the legislation, according to Victoria Bramson, a deputy attorney general in the police and legislative unit for the state Division of Criminal Justice. The division is currently preparing rules and regulations each of the 21 counties would follow in carrying out the program, and state law enforcement officials will work closely with county prosecutors to ensure compliance with TOPP procedures, the Speaker said.

The bill would require county law enforcement agencies to implement a number of critical procedures for stiffening the prosecution effort of repeat offenders, including:

- Developing a program providing for early screening and identification of targeted offender cases.
- Pressing for appropriate bail or restrictive conditions or both for pretrial release in these cases.
- Processing these cases on an expedited basis.
- Working in close coordination with local police departments as well as victim/witness programs to help achieve early targeting of repeat criminals.

Establishing definitive plea negotiation procedures that may include seeking extended terms, minimum parole eligibility sentences and other stiffened penal sanctions.

"While in the past we've focused on treatment of serious offenders at the time of sentencing, the difference with this bill is that here we will be focusing on these individuals at the very beginning of the prosecution process," Deputy Attorney General Bramson said. "There will be a refusal to plea bargain — and show leniency in order to gain a conviction — beyond a certain point."

While each county will have some flexibility in targeting particular categories of offenders, Hardwick said the division would require a policy of vertical prosecution in these instances, whereby the same prosecutor is assigned to a case from start to finish.

"This is something that we in law enforcement have been hoping to establish for a long time," Union County Prosecutor John Stamler said of the bill. "It's an excellent program and one that will enable us to devote more energy and resources to prosecuting habitual criminals."

Speaker Hardwick said he is confident his legislation will receive strong support from the Senate after the bill gained full bipartisan approval in the Assembly, where the legislation passed by a 71-0 vote.

'Right to Know' coordinator appointed

The Division of Environmental Affairs of the Union County Department of Engineering and Planning has been designated as the county lead agency under the Right to Know law, which is designed to protect workers and the community's health, safety and welfare from harmful exposure to hazardous substances, according to JoAnn Gemenden, Right to Know Coordinator for the division.

As Right to Know Coordinator, she is the "Resource Person" for the county, and is qualified to answer any questions the public, employees or employers may have regarding the Right to Know law. Each county in the state is required to have a "Resource Person."

Under the law, many employers are required to fill out various surveys, properly label all containers of hazardous substances, and train their employees concerning the proper handling of these materials.

Employees and the public can request a copy of these surveys from their employer or from Gemenden's office. The law protects workers who request information relative to hazardous substances they work with.

Under the law, approximately 18,000 non-manufacturing businesses in New Jersey are required to file surveys with the state, county and local emergency response teams.

Approximately 45,000 businesses in New Jersey are required to comply with the Right to Know community standards, with approximately 3,500 of them in Union County. Of the 3,500, approximately 1,000 are required to file Right to Know Workplace Surveys.

Gemenden will assist employers in complying with the law by providing pamphlets, posters and training and education packages to employers who have not yet complied. The implementation of the law has been delayed by industry-initiated lawsuits.

"Once everything is ironed out, the Right to Know law will help safeguard the workers and residents of our county when dealing with hazardous substances," said James J. Fulcomer, Union County freeholder and liaison to the Environmental Health Advisory Board.

More information or materials regarding the Right to Know Law, can be obtained from the Division of Environmental Affairs, Monday to Friday, 9 a.m. until 4 p.m. at 527-4215.

Bad luck plagues Legion play

By MARK YABLONSKY
As the old axiom goes, optimists who look at a half-filled glass of water will see it as such, while pessimists will see it as half-empty. For the Springfield American Legion baseball team, that ambiguous mode of thinking presently remains in full effect.

On the surface, things appear to be looking up. With just five games to go, Springfield owns a 12-8-1 record and third place in the 14-team Union County Legion league. If the season ended now, the club would have an automatic berth in county post-season play. But while the schedule has but five games remaining for Springfield, there is still a fly in the ointment. And that insect is' not exactly small in size.

No other team in the county circuit has played as many games as Springfield, which means that four of the top five contenders sandwiched around the team have several games in hand. While first-place Scotch Plains has played 20 games, and second-place Westfield has played 18, Elizabeth, Cranford and Summit — in fourth, fifth and sixth place, respectively — have not even played 16 games yet. Summit, in fact, still must play half of its schedule by July 27, or miss out on all of those potential points. So do you smile or frown? On whom does the pressure lay the most?

"I'm very happy to be in the spot we're in," said Springfield coach Harry Weirnerman, whose team went 3-2 during the past week of play. "I don't want to be in a position where I've got to play most of my games at the end of the year."

As strange as it may seem, the rain seems to be affecting everyone except Springfield. While three games were postponed on Sunday, Weirnerman's club got in both ends of a doubleheader at Ruby Field. And like the current standings, there were mixed results.

After stopping Scotch Plains, 4-0, behind Todd Richter's three-hitter in the opener, eighth-place Berkeley Heights escaped with a harrowing 4-3 win in the nightcap. After closing to within 4-2 after six innings of play on a mammoth two-run homer by Andrew Tullo, Weirnerman's batters scored another run and loaded the bases with two out in the bottom of the seventh.

Swinging at reliever Bruce McNutt's first pitch, first baseman Duke Guthrie hit a long drive to deep right-center field that came within inches of touching the overhanging tree branches, which would have meant a ground-rule double and hence, a 5-4 win. But almost doesn't count. Winning pitcher Jack Zarinsky, playing centerfield after changing places with McNutt an inning earlier, caught up with the drive and the game was over.

So were Springfield's chances of picking up a valuable two points against an 8-7 opponent.

"I didn't think it was going to hit the trees," admitted Weirnerman, who targeted three pick-offs of his baserunners as a key factor in the loss. "I've coached there long enough to know the trajectory of the ball. But it came closer than I thought it would."

"Let's not forget that the ball was getting a little bit heavier by that time," he added in reference to the soggy field conditions that were present all weekend long. "You don't always have to be good, you have to be lucky, too."

To date, the team has been more good than lucky. Five of the club's eight losses have come by one run, with another occurring as a result of darkness that resulted in Elizabeth

Mountainside swimmers win

The Mountainside Community Pool Swim Team defeated North Caldwell, 245-109.

The Mountainside team was led by several record-breaking performances. Eric Swartz broke the boys, 9-10, backstroke record formerly held by Stephen Fowler and Scott Marinelli. Swartz also broke the boys, 9-10, breaststroke record held since 1978 by Mike Wood. Other recordbreakers included Jodie Shrode, beating Elena Maguire's 1984, girl, 9-10, breaststroke record, and Kristy Shrode, shattering her own girls, 8 and under, breaststroke record.

The Mountainside Community Pool Swim Team was also helped by several triple first-place winners. Among them were Keith Briggs, Robin Reinhardt, Jim Alder, Eric Swartz, Maria Maresca, Stacey Meisner, Scott Marinelli, Maureen Barisonek and Allan Gardner.

Double first-place winners included Heidi Pascutti, Kristy Shrode, Jodie Shrode, Ben Schneider, Stephen Fowler, Suzanne Crane, Kristen Marinelli, Todd Richter and Aaron Weber.

Other Mountainside swimmers who placed first were Jay Geroghty, B.J. Davis, Lurlene Harrison, Nicole Kress, Kevin Barisonek, Amanda Benninger, Heather Pascutti, Elena Maguire, Rod Prada and Lucas Perea.

More information on the Mountainside Swim Team can be obtained by calling 232-1032, Coach Fred Filler.

Swinging at reliever Bruce McNutt's first pitch, first baseman Duke Guthrie hit a long drive to deep right-center field that came within inches of touching the overhanging tree branches, which would have meant a ground-rule double and hence, a 5-4 win. But almost doesn't count. Winning pitcher Jack Zarinsky, playing centerfield after changing places with McNutt an inning earlier, caught up with the drive and the game was over.

So were Springfield's chances of picking up a valuable two points against an 8-7 opponent.

"I didn't think it was going to hit the trees," admitted Weirnerman, who targeted three pick-offs of his baserunners as a key factor in the loss. "I've coached there long enough to know the trajectory of the ball. But it came closer than I thought it would."

"Let's not forget that the ball was getting a little bit heavier by that time," he added in reference to the soggy field conditions that were present all weekend long. "You don't always have to be good, you have to be lucky, too."

To date, the team has been more good than lucky. Five of the club's eight losses have come by one run, with another occurring as a result of darkness that resulted in Elizabeth grabbing a 5-1 win after a 5-5 deadlock reverted back to what the score had been after six innings of play.

But wiping out some of the sting of those defeats was Frank Quinn's brilliant no-hitter against Rahway on Friday that saw the Westfield resident improve his record to 4-0 with a sizzling 12-strikeout performance. Just a week earlier, Quinn had fanned 14 Roselle Park batters enroute to a 6-2 victory.

The talented southpaw now has an earned run average of 2.92, along with 37 strikeouts in just 24 innings of work. And despite a somewhat misleading 2-3 mark, left-hander Duke Guthrie has a 2.94 ERA and leads the club in strikeouts, with 39. But the most impressive ERA on the staff belongs to Richter, who has an astonishing figure of 1.00. The overall team mark has now dropped to 3.18.

Offensively, Richter is also leading the way. Relegated to being little more than a spot player a year ago, the hustling Mountainside resident is batting at a .339 clip and is topping the club in runs-batted-in as well, with a total of 13. Matt Miller is second on the team in batting, with a .328 mark, despite leading in overall hits, with 21. Heading into this week's action, the team is hitting at a furious .292 pace.

Determined to keep his team ready in any event, Weirnerman had his squad traveling to South Orange Tuesday for a non-league match-up with Vailsburg, followed by last night's two-hour trip to Bear Stadium in Boyertown, Pa., the site of the annual American Legion eastern Regionals. The stadium, said Weirnerman, is "out in the middle of nowhere."

"You only get better as a player by playing more games against better competition," explained the sixth-year coach. "It makes them better well-prepared for college ball. It's not just winning and losing."

Springfield resumes league play tomorrow night, with a 6 p.m. contest against Summit at Ruby Field, before traveling to Union Sunday night for an 8 p.m. start. After the weekend is over, only three games will remain on the team's regular-season schedule.

Junior tennis team drops opener 3-6

The Springfield Recreation Department's junior tennis team dropped its opener in the New Jersey Youth Town Tennis League, Thursday to Rahway, 3-6, at the Dayton high school tennis courts.

Losing singles players were Samir Sharma, 1-8; Danny Monaco, 2-8; Colleen Drummond, 3-8, and Laura Greene, 0-8.

CPA group, DJs to play benefit game

The New Jersey Society of Certified Public Accountants (NJSCPA) has challenged the Z-100 Disc Jockeys (WHTX-FM) to a "rubber match" charity softball game July 26 to benefit the Valerie Fund.

Both teams are anxious to break the 1-1 tie from last year's game which raised more than $11,000 for charities in New Jersey. Proceeds from this year's event will benefit the Valerie Fund, a volunteer organization dedicated to the fight against childhood cancer. The fund supports children's cancer centers in several New Jersey hospitals including local Valerie Fund centers at Newark Children's Hospital and Beth Israel Hospital of Newark, and Overlook Hospital, Summit. It also runs a summer camp for young cancer patients. "Camp Happy Times," staffed by specialists, professional counselors and volunteers, offers these youngsters an unforgettable week of fun and friendship.

The game will be played at Biertuempfel Memorial Park, off Vauxhall Road, Union, beginning at 2 p.m. Admission is free. Funds will be raised by donations and a raffle. Former Yankee Joe Collins and Anthony Russo, mayor of Union Township, will be on hand for the game. To add to the festivities, cheerleaders for the New Jersey Generals Football Team and the Union High School Cheerleading Squad will route the teams on. Music will be provided by "Polished Brass," a brass quintet. Prizes will be awarded.

Tom Roche, CPA, chairman of the NJSCPA Committee on Young

CPAs' who issued the challenge said, "Our past two charity softball games were very successful and I'm sure this game will top that success. We hope the public will support our efforts by coming out to cheer for us."

Further information is available from Lisa Rainone, the society's public relations coordinator, at 994-4888.

RACE CO-FOUNDERS—Pat Goias, left, and Tina Di Rienzo are readying the course at Tamaques Park, Westfield, for the Catch the Sun Women's 5-Mile Road Race. The race, which will be held at 9:30 a.m. Sunday, is one of the nation's largest women's road races. A field of more than 1,500 runners is expected.
