School bells to ring at Deerfield Wednesday

By PAUL PEYTON

As the 1986-87 school year approaches, the most significant change, according to newly appointed superintendent of schools Leonard Baccaro, is the implementation of a four-hour school day program for kindergartners in Deerfield School.

Baccaro said that after careful study, which included observing two other districts which have full-day kindergarten programs, he recommended the school board adopt a four-hour day.

He noted the program, which will run from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m., will include three sections of about 15 students each.

The superintendent said that he, along with other administrators, was not satisfied with the manner in which the other districts were run.

"We were not overly impressed with a community that was similar to Mountainside's because it went into a baby sitting arrangement," said Baccaro.

He declined to specify the districts that were reviewed by his staff, but did say that one of the programs observed was in an urban district.

Baccaro went on to say that several new courses have been added to this year's curriculum for the upper grades in the school.

According to Deerfield's principal, Jim Johnson, the new courses include a sixth-grade writing course, word processing for the seventh grade, and a math course for eighth-graders.

Johnson said that the writing course will be given to students five days a week for one marking period.

He described the word processing course as an extension of the typing course. He said the eighth-grade math course will be a mini course which will concentrate on the needs of the district to prepare students for the High School Proficiency Test by "tying up loose ends."

According to Johnson, the enrollment figure for the school this year stands at 428 students. He said that with the probability of additional children being added in September, the total could come close to last year's figure of 436 students.

The topic of the HSPT scores raised some concern by Baccaro. He said that eight freshmen who took the test last year failed.

"We're not happy with that even though it's a small number because we feel it's too high," said Baccaro.

He said that a strong emphasis will be put on basic skills in the future. An example of this will be the new sixth-grade writing class which will be partially geared toward improving the HSPPT scores.

In discussing why so much emphasis seems to be now given towards teaching computer courses such as the new word processing course, the superintendent said that new ideas attract attention.

"I think what happens unfortunately in education is that the newer ideas make the headlines so to speak," Baccaro said.

He explained that basic reading and writing have been present in the curriculum along with music and art and that computers were given a strong emphasis because they added a new method of learning. "Computers are a tool like pencils and typewriters to be utilized," said Baccaro.

He said that the curriculum will be reviewed by the administration and the board for future improvement "wherever it's not as strong as it should be."

Baccaro said he would also like to see the school play revived for the coming year.

Another reported change in the school this year, according to the superintendent, is the consolidation of the school's two libraries into one main library which will be open school days from 8:15 a.m. until 3:15 p.m.

Several new teachers will join the school's staff for the new year, the superintendent said.

The new members include, he said, another kindergarten teacher along with new second grade and music teachers.

Baccaro said that a new public relations person will, also, be hired to represent the district.

The school has undergone construction work over the summer, according to Baccaro, with the biggest improvement being the completion of a multi-year roof replacement program.

He noted that the total cost of the project was $55,000 and that the repair work will be completed for the opening of school.

Another issue which is still being reviewed by the superintendent and his staff involves school bus stops on New Providence and Summit Roads.

Baccaro said several parents have expressed concern about the safety of children being picked up on the roadways due to the heavy traffic volume. He said the traffic bureau would be contacted to help review the safety question.

In discussing working with the board members Baccaro said he feels their primary concern is the children of the district.

"They are very demanding and they want accountability," he said.

The new district administrator said the board, which has been split on school issues in the past, would have less difficulties if they remembered what their main objective was.

"If each board member remembers that they are here for the youths of the community and they call their shots on that, there would probably be less problems," Baccaro said.

He concluded by saying that many parents have moved to Mountainside primarily because of the good reputation of the school district.

"We can't just sit back in the past but we have to keep moving ahead," Baccaro said.

Classes for Deerfield School students begin Wednesday with teachers reporting a day earlier.

Opening day for Our Lady of Lourdes students will be Sept. 3 with dismissal at 1 p.m. that day and Sept. 4 and 5, according to spokesperson for the school.

She said that pre-kindergarten and kindergarten children will also report Sept. 8.

Ethics panel finds no conflict

The Board of Ethics Committee of the Borough Council has found, via an independent study, that there was no conflict of interest among borough officials regarding the application of firefighter volunteer Charles Tate.

The study, however, set certain guidelines to be followed to avoid any conflicts in the future.

In a statement issued by the committee, which met at the request of Mayor Bruce Geiger, it was determined that although no conflict of interest was present, "the actions of the officials involved could have been viewed by the public as being a conflict."

The committee based its discussion on whether or not a conflict existed among borough councilmen and the borough attorney John Post in acting on Tate's application to the fire department.

The committee at Geiger's request reviewed several matters which had been perceived as a conflict. The areas questioned included the mayor, two councilmen and Post.

The committee discussed whether Geiger and Councilmen Robert Wyckoff, both of whom are members of the fire department, should be able to vote on department issues.

Another topic covered involved Post and the fact that he might be in conflict by giving legal advice to the council on the Tate matter since the two are involved in litigation pending in court.

After originally approving the application of Tate, who has a vision impairment that prevents him from driving, the council reversed its decision when told by Post that only the fire committee could make a decision on such appointments.

The committee made several recommendations which they determined "would be in the best interest of the Council and the public."

The first recommendation asked that elected officials not participate in matters involving organization, operations or personnel that could be perceived as a conflict when the organization being discussed is "subject to the control and/or supervision by the borough" if any of the officials are members members of that organization.

The committee also recommended that officials "shall not participate in any official business of the borough" which involves an organization or person if such an official has any direct or indirect business interest which might cause impartiality among an official "with respect to his official duties."

Any official, it was determined, shall make known any relationship which would be affected by the new rules "prior to any participation in any matter governed by these rules."

The committee stated that these rules have not been adopted by the board as being formal in governing a situation which involves a conflict of interest. They also said that the rules are "not intended to limit the activities of public officials" but rather to guide the council.

The rules are also intended to provide the public with the knowledge of the rules under which the governing body will operate in the future.

Members of the committee included Councilman Werner Schon, who is the committee's chairman, Council President Robert Viglianti and Councilwoman Marilyn Hart.

School to offer milk program

Deerfield School, Mountainside, has announced that milk will be available to all children enrolled, and will be provided free to children from households whose gross incomes are at or below those shown on the income scale on Page 2. Applications are being sent to households of all enrolled children. Foster children are also eligible for free milk.

Application forms are available at the school. Application can be made at any time during the school year. If a household member becomes unemployed, or the household size or income changes during the school year, parents should contact the school so that all children receive the proper benefits.

For the school officials to determine eligibility, the households must provide names of all household members, social security numbers of all adult household members or a statement that the household member does not possess one, total household income listed by the amount received by each household member and the type of income it is, and the signature of an adult household member certifying that the information provided is correct. Households are required to report increases in household income of over $50 per month or $600 per year and decreases in household size.

The information provided by parents on the application is confidential and will be used only for the purpose of determining eligibility.

The school will advise parents of their child's eligibility within 10 working days of receipt of the application. Any parent dissatisfied with the eligibility determination may contact the school to request an informal conference or may appeal the decision by requesting a formal hearing. A hearing can be arranged by calling or writing Leonard J. Baccaro at 1391 Route 22, Mountainside, 232-9406. Parents may call Barbara Meyer at 232-3711 for further information.

Borough library closed for holiday

The Mountainside Free Public Library will be closed Monday in observance of Labor Day, according to library director Johanna E. Chen.

According to Chen, the library will reopen Tuesday with its regular hours of 9 a.m. until 5:30 p.m. and 7 to 9 p.m. The building will be open from 9 a.m. until 5 p.m. starting Sept. 6.

Newspaper offices closed Monday

The offices of this newspaper will be closed Monday in observance of Labor Day. All news items for next week's paper should be submitted by noon tomorrow.

Dayton opens doors to students Wednesday

The Jonathan Dayton Regional High School in Springfield will open for orientation of freshmen and new students Tuesday from 9:30 to 11 a.m. Bus transportation will be available. The opening day of school for all students will be Wednesday, at 8:20 a.m. Cafeteria services will be provided.

Anne Romano, principal, and Manuel Pereira, assistant principal, will greet all students and staff. Dr. Donald Merachnik, superintendent of the Union County Regional High School District, said 877 students are expected to be enrolled at the school this year. This is 51 less students than last school year.

Curricular changes for the new school year include continuation of last year's innovative early morning option in Chem Study for seven periods per week instead of the traditional five. With seven periods per week, increased laboratory opportunities are available, Merachnik said.

In addition, the early morning SAT course will again be available, however, requirements for students to elect the advanced placement U.S. History seminar have been changed. Seniors may elect this course after completion of two years of U.S. History with a minimum average of 3.0 in U.S. History Survey and two semesters of U.S. History II. In addition, the recommendation of the teacher is required.

A new computer keyboarding course, using microcomputers, will be in operation in September. Traditional typing practices will now be in competition with keyboarding via microcomputers.

"This skill will be important for our students in their future occupations," he said.

All incoming 9th grade students enrolled in a mathematics course must be in either geometry, algebra I, college preparatory mathematics I or mathematics I. New courses available include junior-senior electives entitled, "The Adolescent in Literature" and a social studies offering, "Holocaust and Genocide."

Students will notice several physical changes upon returning to the school. These include replacement of carpeting in the Instructional Media Center, repair of porcelain water fountains throughout the building, various roof repairs, replacement of exterior doors, altering of fire alarm relay systems, and a cable TV link for use in the Media Center.

A new Board of Education policy regarding administering medication to students while in school and new administrative guidelines defining a code of student conduct will affect students and parents.

The policy on taking medication provides safeguards for students by stipulating that medication must be brought to school in its original container, appropriately labeled by the pharmacy or physician and accompanied by a note from a parent or physician authorizing its use.

Medication will be kept in the school nurse's office, refrigerated if necessary, and must be taken in the presence of the school nurse. It may be administered by the school nurse, the parent or guardian or taken by the student himself, with approval of the physician or parent.

A new director of guidance has been appointed. Jane Laustsen of Mountainside, a guidance counselor at the school for the past five years, will replace the retiring director, Charlotte Singer.

The student "open lunch," which permitted students to leave the school grounds at lunch time, is being terminated. Starting September, students must remain in the school for lunch. Cafeteria services, offering hot and cold lunches, as well as sandwiches, hot dogs and hamburgers, will be available.

Students may also bring their lunches from home and purchase salads, beverages and desserts. A new grill has been installed in the cafeteria which will provide broiled "McDonald's style" hamburgers. This will complement the hot dog grill installed last year for the students.

The superintendent also said that a system of regulating student parking is being considered. Due to overcrowding, students must register their cars and park in the student parking area. Only seniors and students enrolled in work study programs requiring afternoon on-the-job employment will be permitted to park in the school parking lot. Adequate bus transportation is provided for students entitled to this service, he said.

A Code of Student Conduct has been recommended for all school districts by the state Board of Education. The regional district code includes expectations for students which should foster positive attitudes and behavior.

The expectations include being prepared mentally and physically for learning, demonstrating respect for people and property, being responsible for individual behavior and learning, using time and other resources appropriately, sharing responsibilities with others, meeting the requirements of each instructional class, monitoring individual progress and communicating with parents and teachers.

In addition, the code defines specific regulations governing behavior in the following areas: during transportation via school bus, while in the cafeteria, during graduation ceremonies, proper dress, bringing electronic devices to school, during fire drills, during dances, while using lockers. It also proscribes penalties for use of tobacco or use and/or sale of drugs.

The code outlines regulations regarding discipline infractions leading to Saturday/Sunday school, out-of-school suspension, superintendent's probation and expulsion by the Board of Education.

A complete copy of the Administrative Guideline for a Code of Student Conduct will be found in student handbooks for the 1986-87 school year, Merachnik said, urging students and parents to read it carefully.

The superintendent also reminded seniors and their parents of the change in the June 1987 graduation ceremonies. These will be held inside the school instead of on Meisel Field. Crowd control and interference with the ceremonies have resulted in this decision, he explained.

Another new event planned this year is Poetry Week in October. Students will have an opportunity to be exposed to poetry in school, and a state poetry festival supported by the Geraldine R. Dodge Foundation.

Academic achievement and development of individual potential via curricular and co-curricular activities will be a priority in 1986/87.

Regional district lunches set

The Union County Regional High School District No. 1 schools have announced today that low cost, nutritious school lunches are available to all children enrolled. In addition, meals will be provided free or at a greatly reduced price to children from households whose gross incomes are at or below those shown for their household size on the income scale below.

Foster children are also eligible for free or reduced price meals.

Application forms are available at school and applications can be made at any time during the school year. If a household member becomes unemployed, or the household size or income changes during the school year, parents should contact the school so that all children receive the proper benefits.

For the school officials to determine eligibility, the household must provide the following information listed on the application: names of all household members; social security numbers of all adult household members or a statement that the household member does not possess one; total household income listed by the amount received by each household member and the type of income it is; and the signature of an adult household member certifying that the information provided is correct. Households are required to report increases in household income of over $50 per month or $600 per year and decreases in household size.

The information provided by parents on the application is confidential and will be used only for the purpose of determining eligibility.

The school will advise parents of their child's eligibility within 10 working days of receipt of the application. Any parent dissatisfied with the eligibility determination may contact the school to request an informal conference or may appeal the decision by requesting a formal hearing. A hearing can be arranged by calling or writing Dr. Francis Kenny at Jonathan Dayton Regional High School, Mountain Avenue, Springfield, 376-6300.

Parents may call Frank Imbracio, David Brearley/Gov. Livingston, 272-7500; 464-3100, or Karen Vinacour, Jonathan Dayton/Arthur L. Johnson, 376-6300, 382-0910 for further information on the program.

Once determinations are completed, school officials are required to verify a minimum of three percent of the approved free and reduced price applications on file.

In the operation of Child Nutrition Programs, no child will be discriminated against because of race, sex, color, national origin, age, or handicap. Also, the names of those receiving free or reduced price meals will be kept private. Children who receive free or reduced price meal benefits are treated the same as children who pay for meals. If you believe you have been discriminated against, write immediately to the Secretary of Agriculture, Washington, D.C. 20250.

Opening set at Vail-Deane

The Vail-Deane School begins its 117th school year in September. This will be Vail-Deane's fifth year in its Mountside campus. It is an independent coeducational day school for grades K-12. The school was founded in 1869 in Elizabeth and recently moved to Mountside.

Vail-Deane has about 200 students with one class of each grade. Students develop friendships across grade levels and older students may sometimes be given the opportunity to assist younger students. Headmaster Ralph Scozzafava explains, "Vail-Deane's strength is in the quality of its core curriculum and in its human relationships, the healthy interaction between students, faculty and parents. He continues, "We emphasize a quality academic college preparatory program, but students are given unique exposures in art, music, and physical education as well. Ninety-nine percent of our graduates attend college."

Vail-Deane serves over 31 communities in the central New Jersey area. Additional information is available from Vail-Deane's Director of Admissions Martha Chaves at 232-5502.

Borough funds college class

Union County College President Dr. Derek N. Nunney has announced that a $1,000 gift from the Borough of Mountside for the continuation of the college's Senior Citizens Studies Program will be used to help provide financial support for courses offered at the Community Presbyterian Church.

The class, "Contemporary Literature," will be taught by Union County College faculty.

The college's Senior Citizens Studies Center offers free credit and non-credit courses in many communities. The courses are offered by the center for the convenience of seniors at such places as senior citizen housing complexes, community centers, and other locations where seniors congregate.

Meeting changed

Theresa Herkalo, senior citizen coordinator for Springfield, has announced that the Mayor's Committee on Aging meeting scheduled for Sept. 12 has been changed to Sept. 19 at the Sarah Bailey Civic Center at 9:30 a.m.

JWV season ready

The Elin-Unger Post #273 of the Jewish War Veterans of the United States will open its 1986-87 season by holding its monthly bagel breakfast business meeting Sept. 7 at Temple Sha'Arei Shalom at 9:30 a.m.

Combat Veteran Major Jim Beck, USMC, presently the liaison officer at the U.S. Army Armament Research Development and Engineering Center in Dover, will be the guest speaker.

Information may be obtained by calling senior vice commander Joe Todres at 379-9188 or Commander Murray Nathanson at 376-0837.

Tentative pact averts strike

By MARK HAVILAND
A possible strike in the Union County Regional High School District was averted after both sides reached a tentative settlement following an all-night negotiating session Monday night.

Dr. Donald Merachnik, superintendent of the regional district, said Tuesday, "A tentative settlement was achieved at 4:30 this morning between the Board of Education and the American Federation of Teachers."

"I am happy that the settlement has been reached because it will mean that school will open as scheduled," Merachnik added.

Details of the tentative settlement were unavailable as of press time. Merachnik explained that the state mediator who arbitrates the negotiations had ordered a news "blackout" on the terms of the settlement until both sides ratify the agreement.

The board of education must also review and vote to ratify the settlement, according to Merachnik, but the question of whether such a vote would come at the board's next scheduled regular meeting depends on whether the teachers' union accepts the settlement. The next board meeting will be Tuesday at Arthur L. Johnson Regional High School in Clark.

"I would hope very much that the board of education will vote for ratification on their meeting on Sept. 2," Merachnik said.

Terms of the settlement will be presented to the union's membership at a meeting tonight, and the teachers are expected to meet to determine whether they will ratify the settlement at a meeting tomorrow night.

"Right now, we cannot release details of the settlement under restrictions imposed by the state mediator," stated Evelyn McGill.

McGill is the president of the Union County Regional Federation Local 3417 of the American Federation of Teachers, AFL-CIO. Negotiations between the two sides continued for more than 12 hours, starting 4 p.m. Monday and ending early Tuesday morning.

"The Federation is pleased that we reached a settlement," McGill said in a phone interview Tuesday.

If the district's 300-plus teachers had voted to strike, the district would have relied on certificated teachers to replace the striking ones. The four regional schools would have opened, but on a half-day schedule from 8 a.m. to 12:30 p.m., and all after-school activities would have been cancelled.

Leaders of the New Jersey Federation of Teachers had threatened to strike, citing the board's unwillingness to compromise on several issues. These issues included salaries, fringe benefits, teaching assignments and inequity of workload.

"The two major issues were salaries and the inequity of workloads," McGill said. "We wanted equal workloads as far as the number of courses assigned."

In June, the rank-and-file unanimously voted not to return to work without a contract settlement. The membership met on Aug. 14 and established Crisis Action Committees, and supported the union's bargaining team unanimously.

Negotiations between the union and the eight-member Board of Education began in December. Mediation, under the auspices of the Public Employment Relations Commission (PERC) began in July.

Merachnik said that he could not remember when the regional district's teachers had last held a strike. He explained that the regional Board of Education has a Board Committee on Negotiations and an outside professional negotiator at its disposal during contract negotiations.

Mountainside resident Loren D. Smith has been named executive vice president and general manager of Universal Fragrance Corp.'s fragrance division.

Smith graduated from Stanford University and the Thunderbird Graduate School of International Business.

Children's Specialized Hospital in Mountainside has promoted Cynthia Newman, A.C.S.W., to the position of program coordinator for the Union County Youth Mental Health Case Management Unit at the hospital.

In her new position, Newman will work actively with emotionally disturbed children, their families, and with county agencies to unify services for children recently discharged from psychiatric hospitals.

"Our goal is to assist children identified as having mental health problems in obtaining the greatest benefit from community resources," Newman said.

Cecilia Rizzo of Kenilworth has been named a U.S. National Award winner in mathematics according to the U.S. Achievement Academy.

Rizzo attends David Brearley Regional High School in Kenilworth, and was nominated for this national award by Marian Szabo, a mathematics teacher at the high school.

The student will appear in the U.S. Achievement Academy Official Yearbook, which is published nationally. Less than 10 percent of all American high school students are nominated for this award.

Rizzo is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Rizzo.

Springfield resident Joseph Alpert, the director of the Newark Beth Israel Medical Center's Division of Peripheral Vascular Surgery, was recently honored at a reunion of NBIMC vascular-surgeon fellows at the Hilton Hotel in New Orleans, La.

Alpert received a plaque in appreciation for his dedication in the establishment and growth of the Peripheral Vascular Surgery Fellowship Program at Beth Israel.

Howard Massler of Springfield has been selected by the New Jersey Institute for Continuing Legal Education to give a three-part lecture series on "Tax and Drafting Considerations of Qualified Domestic Relations Orders."

The New Jersey Institute for Continuing Legal Education is the nonprofit continuing education service of the New Jersey State Bar Association in cooperation with Rutgers, The State University, and Seton Hall University.

Massler's other local legal activities include chairing the Union County Tax Committee, serving as a lecturer for the Union County Bar, and other publishing commitments in both national and local publications.

Bond ordinance is approved

By MARK YABLONSKY
A multi-purpose bond ordinance that will fund several capital improvement projects throughout town received unanimous approval from the Springfield Township Committee Tuesday.

Introduced two weeks ago, the ordinance will appropriate the "aggregate" amount of $316,000, including the issuance of $301,000 in bonds to finance "part of the cost thereof," allowing the town to do the work. Included in the projects will be the acquisition of a street sweeper, the restructuring and repaving of various roads, and the improvement of pumping stations designed as part of the township's flood control program. Also included in the package will be the acquisition of a communications system for the fire department.

In other business, Marc Marshall of the recently-formed SCOPE — Springfield Citizens Organized to Protect the Environment — committee asked the township committee for continued "help and guidance," and also to begin appropriating funds for a legal defense in regard to possible use of the former Houdaille Quarry as a landfill waste site for raw garbage. Committed to finding alternatives for development of the 191-acre site other than a refuse dump or a county amphitheater, the group is in the process of investigating legal counsel, Marshall said.

Calling the situation "analogous to Route 78," Committeeman Stanley

Kain said that the governing body "will participate with such private groups" in terms of partial funding, but that the cost involved must first be known.

Although the Union County Board of Chosen Freeholders has already promised to oppose use of the quarry as a landfill site with the state Department of Environmental Protection, several township residents fear the nine-member county governing body is "just passing the ball on to the state," with the intent of letting the DEP decide the issue.

Many residents claim the site had been "secretly" prepared to accept a solid waste dump during the recently-finished construction of Route 78.

Back to basics

School bells ring for thousands of area children and teachers next week, signaling the beginning of a new year of learning.

While the youngsters were wiling away the summer at the beach, pool and camp, educators were evaluating the results of the new High School Proficiency Test (HSPT) administered for the first time this past spring. Many school administrators spent the summer months reviewing scores and planning educational programs that will affect the future education of young people in the state. We hope their efforts are not wasted.

Like the Minimum Basic Skills test, the HSPT is a good way to measure student skills — if the skills taught are the basics of reading, writing and arithmetic and not just those skills that will help them pass the test.

One of the problems with the MBS test was that teachers began teaching students "how to pass the test." Already, some educators on the state level have suggested making the HSPT more difficult because "too many students passed." Does that mean they are disappointed that so many youngsters can read and write?

At Jonathan Dayton Regional High School, for example, 91.9 percent of the students passed the reading portion, up from 85.2 percent who passed during the preliminary tests given last year; 83.7 percent passed the mathematics test, up from 73.3 in 1985, and 85.1 percent passed the writing portion compared to 82 percent on the preliminary testing.

Does passing these tests mean these students can actually read, write or do a math problem outside the classroom environment? Unfortunately, many won't be able to do any of these things.

We hope local educators who plan curriculum will look to the future and gear their programs towards the basics of the three R's. The new state standards cannot be ignored, but educators must keep in mind that the purpose of setting the standards is to make sure students will be able to read and write when they get out school.

And for this, they need to have help from parents, who must assume more responsibility for their children's education by instilling in them a basic desire to learn. It's up to parents to discipline their children at home so they do not pose a behavior problem in the classroom, wasting valuable teaching time.

Parents should take an interest in their children's school work: Help them with their homework, without doing it for them; keep the television off and noise to a minimum, providing an environment conducive to studying; encourage good study habits by setting aside a time and place for homework; answer questions when possible, help them find the answers when it's not. We parents might learn something along the way, and show our children that learning is not just for kids.

Parental involvement is a necessary ingredient in the educational system. If a child can't read or write by the time he gets to high school, it is not only the educational system that has failed him.

The opening of school means different things to different people, but parents and educators need to work together to provide the best education possible for our children. That's the goal everyone should aim for this year.

Relief in sight

A lot of people in New Jersey are going to be happy and relieved to know that the new non-smoking rules for New Jersey's public places go into effect Monday.

Many public places already have adhered to the clean air laws by setting aside a special section for smokers. However, many bingo halls in Union and Essex counties have not been cooperating.

The smoke in the air at these halls is annoying. When added to the constant rattle of lung growling and phlegmy coughs, a night out at bingo is not as pleasant as it could be.

According to the New Jersey Group Against Smoking Pollution (GASP) "...75 percent of Americans don't smoke...and the purpose of the non-smoking laws is to protect citizens from the harmful and irritating effects of second-hand smoke."

Why should non-smokers have to stay out of bingo halls just because the other 25 percent of New Jerseyans are contaminating the atmosphere? Why should they have to miss out on the fun of games and of occasionally winning merely because bingo halls have become real health hazards?

According to GASP, scientific evidence links involuntary smoking to "immediate and long-term health hazards including cancer."

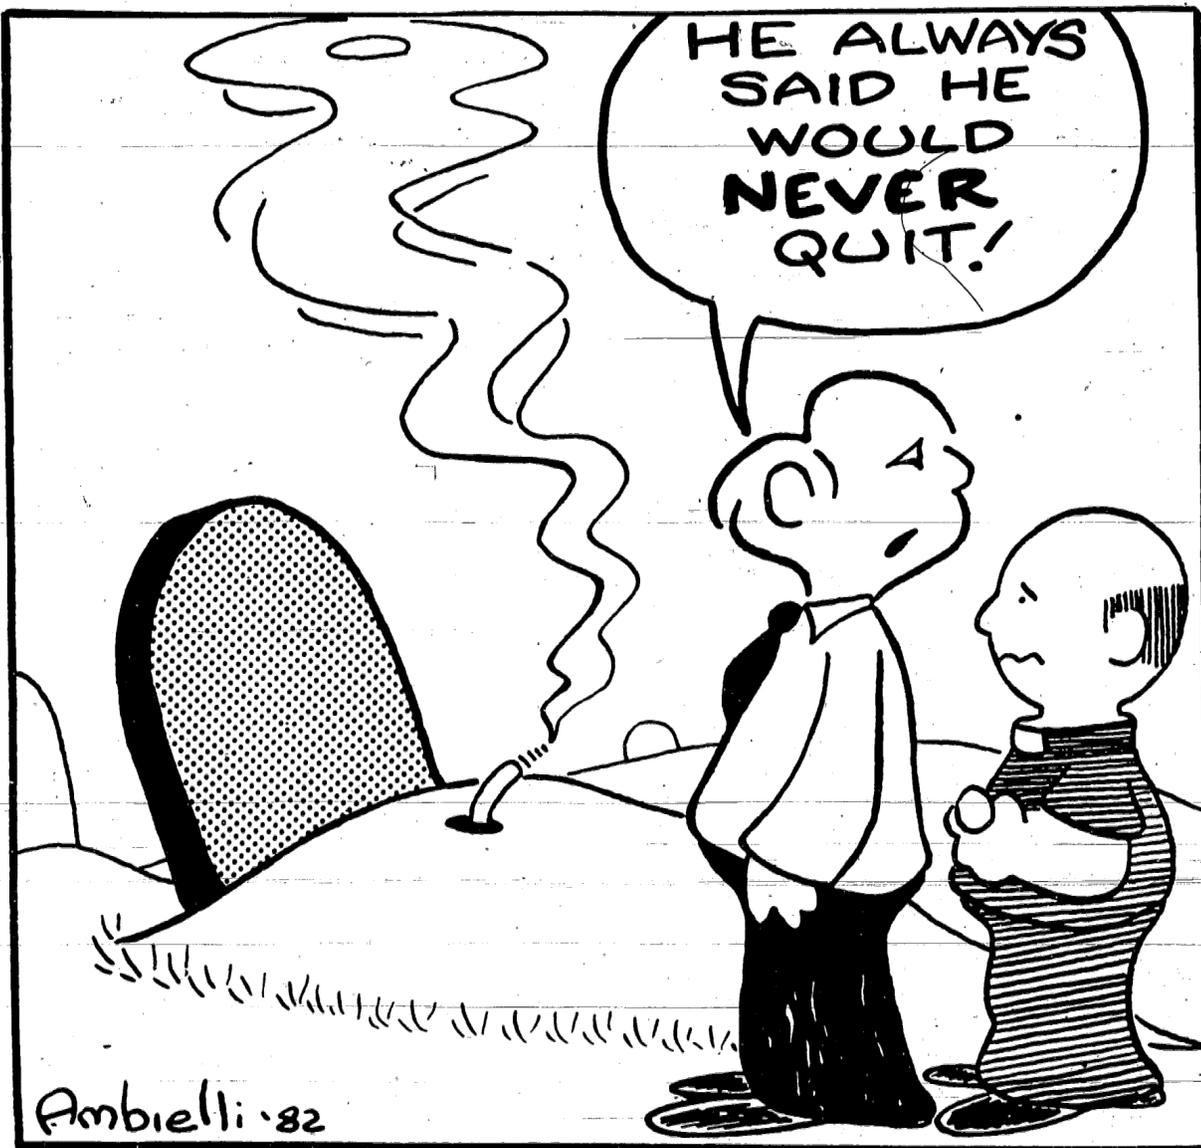

We hope the new non-smoking regulations will change the atmosphere in all public places, particularly bingo halls, where many people go for an evening of enjoyment. Those who run these games might find that more non-smokers will be tempted to attend if they know there's a special spot just for them.

We believe these new rules give people the right to smoke if they want, but protect the non-smokers from any health hazards or annoyances that result from cigarettes.

Utility investments offer advantages

By JOEL SPITZ
If you're wondering where to invest now that so many sectors of the stock market have shot up spectacularly, you should take a close look at electric utility stocks. Select utilities offer investors the advantages of relatively high income, relatively low risk and — even now — considerable potential for price appreciation. Moreover, the current outlook for the industry is more positive than it has been for some time.

The good news about the utility industry is that it is in a slow-growth phase. While slow growth usually spells trouble for an industry, it is favorable for utilities because it means less spending for construction and considerably lower external financing requirements. As capital spending slows, utilities generate excess cash, which enables them to strengthen their balance sheets and secure their dividend payouts. It also enables them to diversify into unregulated businesses that could enhance their earning power. Utility companies are now diversifying into various businesses including: insurance, other financial services, construction, cable TV and equipment leasing. Unlike the regulated electric business, these activities are not government-regulated and therefore represent a potential supplement to the utilities' regulated earnings base.

The current low-inflation, low-interest rate environment in the United States also has a positive impact on utilities. It helps them reduce their older, higher-cost debt and preferred stock by refinancing with lower-coupon issues. Lower interest costs therefore, help increase earnings and ultimately benefit shareholders.

The key to investing in sound utilities today is skillful selection, because each utility issue has a different risk/reward ratio. The best approach is to ask your advisor for analyst recommendations that fit your goal and investment style. But before you buy any utility stock, make sure you can answer these questions:

What are the utility's construction plans for the next few years? In general, the less the better. Steer away from a company just embarking on a multi-year, multi-billion dollar construction program.

What are the projections for cash flow, earnings and dividends? You want to see relatively high cash flow expectations and projections of earnings and dividends above the anticipated industry average of about 4 percent.

How is the utility meeting new competition? In some areas of the country, large-scale users — industrial customers — of power can now shop for the lowest-cost energy source, including independent power producers or other utilities. Look for utilities that use "incentive rate making" to preserve their industrial customer base. You should also favor large, efficient companies, which are likely to grow even stonger in the future as they take over small, weaker utilities in their markets.

What does the stock's yield say about its risk? As is true for all stocks, lower-risk utility issues yield less than those with higher risks. In all likelihood, utilities offering the highest yields are the ones still constructing nuclear plants or trying to get completed plants approved for operation, so they can begin earning income on total assets. To reap the generous yields of such utilities while limiting your exposure to the risks, try this tactic: Since many nuclear projects are built by groups of utilities, buy the stocks of only one of the utilities involved in the construction of a particular nuclear plant.

Finally, what is the stock's rating? If rating services like Standard & Poor's, Moody's and Duff & Phelps, rate the stock highly, you can be reasonably sure that its finances are sound, its debt load is manageable, and its dividends are secure.

Eating disorders can kill too

I am writing in response to the recent unfortunate death of Len Bias. The day after the autopsy results came out and proved cocaine to be the cause of death, hundreds of people called the Cocaine Hotline. It struck me that it is so sad that it takes something as extreme as a death for people to make that first call for help.

Like cocaine, Anorexia Nervosa and Bulimia can kill. Eating disorders are becoming epidemic among men and women of all ages. People are literally killing themselves to be thin. And like cocaine, there is a place to call for help: The Eating Disorders Hotline. The hotline can help you or someone you know who is struggling with an eating disorder. The Hotline provides free information, counseling and referrals. Call toll free: 1-800-624-2268.

Thank you for printing this and possibly saving some lives.

TAKING A DIVE—This swimmer is taking advantage of his waning summer vacation by heading for a big splash at the Springfield Municipal Pool. The pool will close Sept. 7.

In brief

Commenting on the opening of Route 78, Senator Donald DiFrancesco, representing Union and Essex counties, stated that the opening of this stretch of highway is "greatly needed to alleviate truck traffic on Route 22 and remove the traffic burden in Berkeley Heights generated by exiting motorists." Completion of this final 5½ mile section connects the Springfield to Holland Tunnel and the Berkeley Heights to Phillipsburg segments of Route 78.

In addition to Berkeley Heights, it is expected that the interstate will relieve congestion in other Union County communities which handled detour traffic off of the heavily-traveled Route 22.

The Mountainside Active Retirees have announced that they will meet

Sept. 9 at 10 a.m. in borough hall on Route 22.

The highlight of the meeting will be a slide presentation entitled "African Safari." This presentation will be conducted by Lee and Bill Symonds. Further information may be obtained by calling Anna Savonis at Sunnyslope Drive at 232-6209.

Springfield resident Joseph Alpert, the director of the Newark Beth Israel Medical Center's Division of Peripheral Vascular surgery, was recently honored at a reunion of NBIMC Vascular-Surgeon fellows at the Hilton Hotel in New Orleans.

Along with Victor Parsonnet of Millburn, the Department of Surgery's director, Alpert received a plaque in appreciation of his vision and dedication in the establishment and growth of the Peripheral Vascular Surgery Fellowship Program at Beth Israel.

The Children's Department of the Springfield Public Library is accepting registration for a six weeks' Fall Story Hour Program.

Three-year-old Story Hour will be held Tuesday mornings from 10:15 to 11:00 on Sept. 30, Oct. 7, 14, 21, 28 and Nov. 4. Story Hour for four-year-olds will meet on Thursday afternoons from 2:00 to 2:45 on Oct. 2, 9, 16, 23, 30 and Nov. 6.

Children can register by calling the Children's Department at 376-4930.

Informal story hour for three- and four-year-olds will meet on Tuesday mornings Sept. 2, 9 and 16 at 10:15 to 11 a.m. No previous registration is necessary.

Gymnastic team tryouts set

The Summit Summies Gymnastics Team of the Summit YWCA will hold its fall team tryouts Wednesday and Sept. 4 at Wilson Center gym, Beekman Terrace, Summit.

Try-outs for all new gymnasts and 1985-1986 Little Summies will be held from 4-5:15 p.m. both days. All other 1985-1986 team members will try out from 5:30-7:30 p.m. on both days.

Among the prerequisites which must be adhered to are a 7-year-old minimum age by Dec. 31 for all aspirants; a parent or guardian must accompany each gymnast to the try-outs, and all gymnasts must attend both nights of try-outs.

Members of the Summies Parents Organization Executive Board will be in attendance both evenings to answer questions. Also, Team Coordinator Kathi Evans, 273-4242, can answer questions.

The Summies, Summit's "official" gymnastics team, are divided into 5 categories based on age and gymnastics skill. They participate in meets with other gymnastics teams, competing in the U.S.—Gymnastics Federation, and are in the Junior Olympic Age-Group Program sponsored by the U.S. Gymnastics Federation. The Summies have brought home many awards and trophies over the years!

By ROSE P. SIMON
An Extra Ordinary
Woman/Photographer
Margaret Bourke-White

By Vicki Goldberg.

Born in Bound Brook, N.J., in 1904, Margaret Bourke-White came from a home where perfection was a goal. With a workaholic father, she was introduced early to the world of nature, machines, and photography. Naturally shy, she paradoxically yearned for attention, especially from men. She sought recognition and fame.

By the time Margaret was 18, she had developed into a dauntless young woman, indifferent to conventional opinion, determined to pursue the career of photographer-reporter, and to conquer the world. Spirited, talented, with a magnetic personality, she availed herself of every opportunity (good timing, willing men), to improve her craft. Her efforts at selling her pictures was not promising, until she sold a

Bourke-White (she worked for Fortune, Life, P.M. and others) was strong, fearless, and devoted her energies to taking pictures, no matter how great the risk. She climbed great heights, leaning out beyond rooftops, helicopters, planes; she traveled down miles to the depths of mines; she covered Much of WWII (exposing herself to bombardment, experiencing front line shelling) being torpedoed, going on a reconnaissance mission; covering the Allied advance into Germany, and viewing the horrors of concentration camps.

Later, in 1946, she traveled with Gandhi and Nehru, witnessing the Calcutta riots and the wholesale slaughter in the Punjab. Back home, she was assigned to fly in a B-47 to photograph America from above. During the Korean War Margaret did some of her best work, filming people, human interest events, being moved by the horror, misery, and pain she encountered.

Bourke-White was married twice and divorced twice. While she was still in college she married a man who was too attached to his mother. Much later she fell in love and married Erskine Caldwell who collaborated on a book depicting the lives of the sharecroppers and who made her more politically and socially aware. But her work meant more to her than marriage and domesticity. However, she had no scruples about her numerous liaisons with men afterwards.

Her last 27 years (she died in 1971) became marred by Parkinsons Disease, which gradually limited her physical activities, yet hardly dampened her indomitable fighting spirit. Toward the end she identified with her father, who "inspired her, shaped her, handed her an unlimited legacy." She was an amazing woman, whose religion was WORK. The author affirms: "Bourke-White's star will not be removed from the place she carved for it in the firmament."

SLIM AND TRIM—An awards banquet was held at the Manor in West Orange in recognition of those enrollees in the Diet Center of Springfield who have shed 50 or more pounds. Franks recommends training Assemblyman Bob Franks, who represents Mountainside in the New Jersey General Assembly, has sponsored a bill authorizing training for local and county officials to respond safely and effectively to emergencies created by the discharge of hazardous substances. The measure recently passed the Assembly and has been assigned to the Senate County and Municipal Government Committee for consideration.

The bill, A-2350, would require municipal and county health officers to participate in the hazardous discharge and emergency response training program operated by the Departments of Health and Environmental Protection.

The training will enable officials to verify that a hazardous discharge has occurred, identify the type and amount of the discharge, be familiar with the proper precautions for handling or controlling hazardous substances, as well as implement the appropriate emergency and first aid procedures.

The training program bill is the extension of a previous Franks initiative, the Toxic Spill Notification Act, which was signed into law by Governor Kean in December, 1984. The Toxic Spill Notification Act requires private businesses and industries that have knowledge of an accidental spill to notify the Department of Environmental Protection, the local governing board and the local board of health of the incident within ten days of the occurrence.

"Awareness of the need for the training at the local level and the Toxic Spill Notification Act grew out of an incident in Berkeley Heights in which environmental protection officials had learned of an accidental toxic spill in the township but it was several months before local officials were informed," Franks remarked.

"Certainly local officials should be aware when a hazardous substance emergency exists in their communities, but awareness alone is not enough," Franks said. My bill takes the Toxic Spill Notification Act one step further by insuring that local officials receive training to learn how to spot and evaluate potential discharges of hazardous substances. The training will also cover immediate action steps which may need to be taken to protect the health and safety of the people in their communities," Franks concluded.

The State Department of Environmental Protection supports the bill which passed the Assembly by a vote of 63-0 on June 26, 1986.

TV-36 to review 78's impact

With the official opening of the Interstate 78's 5.5 mile missing section, costing taxpayers $20 million a mile, TV-36 will air a special report—examining the environmental impact upon Watchung Reservation and neighboring areas.

TV-36 member Mark Miller produced the report with the assistance of narrator Jim Riffel. Miller has donated V.H.S. copies of the report to The Summit Library and The Mountainside Library. Source information for the I-78 special report was obtained from The New Jersey Department of Transportation Report, "Final Environmental Impact Statement." (Both sources are also available at The Summit Library). Producer Miller, age 27, has been a lifelong resident of Mountainside, with the exception of time spent in Iowa to earn a Bachelor of Arts in English from the University there. Miller stresses the value of reservation acreage which was not affected by the highway construction; he suggests upgrading maintenance of the surrounding park area.

Miller was aided in gathering 28 hours of raw footage and editing his project by Jim Riffel, also of Mountainside. Riffel holds a degree from New York University's film school. He owns his own film company-Bolshy Films.

Both TV-36 members conducted interviews with Carl F. Schmiedeke of Berkeley Heights, Alan Estevez of Springfield and Ruth Clark of South Plainfield. Clark is Chairwoman of The Watchung Nature Club. With over 2,200 acres of forest land, Watchung Reservation is the largest county park.

The special will air on Suburban Cablevision's community access channel 32 tonight at 10:05 p.m. It will air on TV-36 during the month of September.

TV-36 reaches residents in Berkeley Heights, Millburn, New Providence, Springfield and Summit. Production classes will be held in September. Call 277-6310 for further information.

Cancer program is approved

The cancer program at Overlook Hospital has received three-year approval from the Commission on Cancer of the American College of Surgeons.

Established by the American College of Surgeons in 1956, the National Hospital Cancer Program encourages participating hospitals to equip and staff themselves in order to provide the highest quality diagnosis and treatment for cancer patients.

According to Dr. Louis Schwartz, chairman of Overlook's Cancer Committee, the hospital's cancer care program has been provided "...not only as the primary treatment modality for patients but as an adjunct to therapy coordinated by the major medical centers in New York and Philadelphia.

"The latter supportive role is an important part of the Overlook oncology program. Support is given by our sophisticated laboratory and radiology departments for diagnostic examinations. Radiation therapy treatments are supervised by board-certified physicians with optimal equipment. Likewise, chemotherapy is administered by the specially staffed oncology floor for inpatients and in outpatient facilities.

"Hospice, physical therapy, occupational therapy, speech therapy as well as support groups for patients and their family members are available."

Because cancer is a complex group of diseases, the program promotes consultation among family physicians, surgeons, medical oncologists, diagnostic and therapeutic radiologists, pathologists, and other cancer specialists. This multidisciplinary cooperation results in improved patient care.

An integral part of a hospital's cancer program is the tumor registry. All patients who are diagnosed or treated for cancer are listed in the registry so that the hospital can maintain contact with them and make sure that they receive continuing care and assistance with rehabilitation. Information collected through the registry permits Overlook Hospital to participate in national studies designed to improve patient care.

The American Cancer Society estimates that 930,000 cases of cancer will be diagnosed during 1986. Although only one-sixth of the country's hospitals have approved cancer programs, 68 percent of patients who are newly diagnosed with cancer are treated in these hospitals.

Recognizing the need for improving the care of patients who have cancer, the College, at its inception in 1913, absorbed the activities and functions of the Cancer Campaign Committee of the Clinical Congress of Surgeons of North America. This committee evolved into the Committee on Cancer in 1939 and was renamed the Commission on Cancer in 1965 when other cancer-related organizations joined in this activity.

The Commission is composed of Fellows of the College and liaison members representing 24 other cancer-related organizations. It sets standards for approval of hospital cancer programs and reviews these programs for conformity to these standards. Postgraduate courses, symposia, and programs about cancer are developed by the Commission.

Working with the American Cancer Society, the Field Liaison Program of the Commission is supported by nearly 2,400 voluntary Liaison Physicians who serve as cancer program consultants to local medical staffs.

Transfer students must register now

Anthony V. Richel, superintendent of Harding School in Kenilworth, has requested that parents who plan to transfer students into Harding School for this school year should register them immediately.

Richel also requested that parents who intend to transfer students out of Harding School, should notify the school office immediately so that transfers may be processed for pickup. Parents may contact the school at 276-5936.

NEW APPOINTEE—The Union County Board of Chosen Freeholders recently appointed Edith Sabol of Linden to the newly-created Advisory Board on Education. Sabol, a third grade teacher at the Woodrow Wilson School No. 19 in Elizabeth, will serve a three-year term ending May 31, 1989. Pictured from left are James J. Fulcomer, Union County Freeholder; George Sabol, Edith's husband; Edith Sabol, and Robert F. Goner, Union County Freeholder.

Vietnam veterans' chapter to meet tonight in Bayonne

The North Jersey Chapter 151 Vietnam Veterans of America will hold a monthly meeting tonight at 7:30 at the F.A. Mackenzie Post, 34th Street and Avenue E., Bayonne. The chapter has invited all veterans who served from Aug. 5, 1964 to May 7, 1975 to attend. Information on the nearest chapter in one's area can be obtained by writing P.O. Box 1345, Bayonne, New Jersey, 07002, or by calling 436-4518 after 6 p.m.

FDU graduates given degrees

Fairleigh Dickinson University's Florham-Madison campus has recently announced the names of its June 1986 undergraduate and graduate degree recipients.

From this area, recipients are: Michael Micheludis from Irvington, Jennifer Becker and Myrtyllyn Tomczyk from Kenilworth, Maria Faxas from Linden, Patricia Chin, Stephan Dillemoth, John Klimas and Karen Zimmerman, all from Mountainside; Dawn Roe from Roselle Park, Lisa Agrillo, Russell Grimaldi and Joan Triano, all from Springfield, and Ronald Ruggeri from Union.

Clinic is set for smokers

For smokers who are seeking healthier, non-smoking life, Union County College, Cranford, is offering a seven-week clinic starting Sept. 16.

The "Freedom from Smoking Clinic," which will be conducted on Tuesdays from 7 to 9 p.m. on the Cranford campus, "utilizes behavior modification techniques which help smokers quit by the third session," according to Dr. Joann LaPerla of Cranford, director of UCC's division of continuing education.

The last four sessions, Dr. LaPerla said, "emphasize maintenance and reinforcement of the learned non-smoking technique which has been tested nationally." Clinic leaders are trained and certified by the American Lung Association of Central New Jersey.

Tuition for the "Freedom from Smoking Clinic" is $35, it was reported. Registration information can be obtained by calling 276-7301.

Nonsmoking rules effective Monday

New nonsmoking rules for many New Jersey public places are in effect as of Monday. Smoking will be forbidden in most government buildings and offices and places of public assembly, as well as libraries, museums and lecture and concert halls.

These new restrictions are part of a set of comprehensive clean indoor air laws passed by the New Jersey legislature in 1985. Other laws in the package mandate restrictions in private workplaces, food stores, pharmacies and transportation.

State laws now affirm that the right of nonsmokers — 75 percent of Americans don't smoke — to breathe clean air supercedes the license of smokers to smoke. The purpose of the laws is to protect citizens from the harmful and irritating effects of secondhand smoke. Scientific evidence links involuntary smoking to immediate and long-term health hazards, including lung cancer.

According to the new public places law, government supervisors are required to formulate a written smoking policy to protect the health and welfare of employees. Supervisors may permit smoking in a designated area under certain circumstances. Restaurants in government buildings must have identified nonsmoking areas. The Department of Health is responsible for enforcing the new laws.

More information about New Jersey's laws protecting nonsmokers is available from New Jersey Group Against Smoking Pollution (GASP) at 273-9368. New Jersey GASP is a nonprofit, educational organization located at 105 Mountain Ave, Summit, 07901.

GASP publishes a booklet on establishing a smoke-free workplace, as well as a free directory of New Jersey restaurants with non-smoking dining.

GOP meets with board

Howard Massler, Republican candidate for Springfield Township Committee and Jeffrey H. Katz, Township Committee member, met with members of the Union County's Board of Chosen Freeholders recently.

"We came back with everything we wanted," said Massler.

"First, we won the commitment of the Republican majority that the freeholders will absolutely oppose the use of the Houdaille Quarry site as a garbage dump. Having the freeholders on our side helps strengthen Springfield's position in keeping garbage out of the quarry."

"Second" added Katz, "we won the commitment of the Republican majority that County property will not be used for an amphitheater without Springfield's consent."

In addition, Katz and Massler were invited by the Freeholder majority to be the first to testify on behalf of Springfield when hearings on the recently published Solid Waste Land Siting Study are held in September.

Katz added that, "Citizens who wish to testify are encouraged to contact me so that the Springfield effort can be coordinated with the freeholders."

Michael K. Krihak, son of Mr. William Krihak of Kenilworth, a student at David Brearley Regional High School, has been awarded the Rensselaer Medal from Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute.

The Institute awards the medal to high school juniors who have made outstanding achievements in the study of mathematics and science during their junior year.

Michael J. Danberg, a class of 1987 civil engineering major at Union College in Schenectady, N.Y., was named to the dean's list for the 1985-86 academic year.

Danberg is the son of Arthur and Madeline Danberg of Gail Court in Springfield. He is a 1983 graduate of Jonathan Dayton Regional High School in Springfield. To be named to the Dean's list, a student at Union College must have maintained an overall grade point average of 3.35.

Donna Lynn Vannauker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alex H. Vannauker of 354 Lincoln Drive in Kenilworth, left on Aug. 19 for one year of study as an exchange student at the University of Hawaii in Honolulu.

Vannauker has completed two years of study at Rutgers University in New Brunswick. She is a graduate of David Brearley Regional High School in Kenilworth.

Joseph Andrew Cohen of Springfield and Curtis Christian Ehrhart of Mountainside were recently graduated from Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute in Troy, New York.

Both received bachelor of science degrees in biology, with Cohen graduating Magna Cum Laude.

Garden Club report

The Kenilworth Garden Club beautification committee submitted a report of recent inspection tour of planters on the Boulevard in the community.

Most planters survived the summer dry spell. It was noted that a few local volunteers replaced expired plants or filled in empty areas caused by vandalism with a selection of hardy variety of flowers, and they should be commended.

The Garden Club had the assistance of Girl Scouts and their leader Annette Haddix, as community service this year and their help was appreciated. Praise is due to caring residents who watered the planters between watering periods.

The first fall meeting will be held in the meeting room of the library Sept. 12 at 1 p.m. with president Julia Barbarise as hostess.

Kervel in college program

Stacey Kervel of Springfield, recently attended a Hotel & Restaurant Management Career Exploration at the Providence campus of Johnson & Wales College. A student at Jonathan Dayton Regional High School, she is the daughter of Gererd & Arlene Kervel of 312 Partridge Run.

Designed to help high school students in their career decision-making, the summer Hotel & Restaurant Management Career

Exploration provided students with a variety of experiences including visits to all classes of hotels & restaurants as well as uses for computers within the hospitality industry. They received hands-on instruction in the college's hospitality computer laboratory. Students also listened to industry guest speakers and had the opportunity for informational interviews with professionals, graduate students, and career development counselors.

PUBLIC NOTICE

PUBLIC NOTICE is hereby given that an Ordinance of which the following is a copy was introduced, read and passed on at a meeting of the Mayor and Council of the Borough of Mountainside at a meeting on the 19 day of August, 1986, and that the said Council will cause the same to be published for public hearing on the 26 day of September, 1986, at 8:00 p.m. at the Mountainside Borough Hall, 1385 Route 27, Mountainside, New Jersey, at which time any person who may be interested therein will be given an opportunity to be heard concerning said Ordinance.

KATHLEEN TOLAND, Borough Clerk
ORDINANCE NO. 719-86

AN ORDINANCE REGULATING THE PLACEMENT OF SIDEWALKS AND OTHER PUBLIC AREAS WITHIN THE BOROUGH OF MOUNTAINSIDE

BE IT ORDAINED BY the Governing Body of the Borough of Mountainside, that the purpose of the Ordinance be amended by addition of the following Chapter:

1. Findings and Declarations.

The Governing Body of the Borough hereby finds and declares that:

a. Coin-operated newsracks have been installed by newspaper distribution businesses at locations throughout the Borough of Mountainside on public sidewalks or in the right-of-way of public roads, and, in recent years the number of such newsracks has increased significantly.

b. While such newsracks do provide increased convenience to the public, they also have the potential to obstruct sidewalks, curbs, streets and various signs and utilities, and to detract from the aesthetic beauty of the Borough.

c. Unless regulations are adopted governing the construction, maintenance and location of newsracks and the manner in which newsracks are attached or fastened, such newsracks will interfere with the health, safety, welfare, and convenience of pedestrians, motorists, residents and businesses and with the proper cleaning, servicing and maintenance of sidewalks, curbs, streets and various signs and utilities, and will detract from the aesthetic beauty of the Borough.

d. The public interest therefore requires the enactment of reasonable regulations governing the construction, placement and maintenance of newsracks which provide ample alternative channels for communication and appropriate procedural safeguards.

1.2 Purpose

The purpose of this Chapter is to provide definite and narrowly drawn regulations governing newsracks placed on public sidewalks, curbs, streets or in other public areas, which regulations further the Borough's interest in protecting the health, safety, welfare and convenience of pedestrians, motorists, residents and businesses; in ensuring the proper cleaning and maintenance of sidewalks, curbs, streets and various signs and utilities; and in preserving the aesthetic beauty of the Borough.

1.3 Definitions

a. "Newsrack" shall mean any machine, box or vending device into which newspapers or news periodicals are placed for distribution or sale and includes coin-operated machines as well as machines or boxes which permit the purchase of newspapers or news periodicals without charge.

b. "Public Area" shall mean:

(1) the public sidewalk;

(2) the right-of-way for any public street or highway;

(3) any public park, playground, trail, path and other recreational areas;

(4) any school or school or other public building and structure; or

(5) other public open spaces.

c. "Permit Review Committee" shall mean the committee composed of the Borough Engineer, the Borough Administrator and the Chief of Police, all of whom shall be voting members of the Committee.

1.4 Creation of Permit Review Committee.

There is hereby established the Permit Review Committee to hear appeals from decisions of the Administrative Officer pursuant to Section 1.11 of this Chapter. The Permit Review Committee shall consist of the Borough Engineer, the Borough Administrator and the Chief of Police, all of whom shall be voting members of the Committee.

1.5 Regulation of Public Safety.

No person shall install, use or maintain any newsrack which projects onto, into or over any portion of a roadway or public area, or which rests, wholly or in part, upon, or over any portion of a roadway or public area.

No person shall install, use or maintain any newsrack which in whole or in part rests upon, in or over any sidewalk or public area, when such installation, use or maintenance creates a danger to the safety of persons or property, unreasonably interferes with or impedes the flow of pedestrian or vehicular traffic, the ingress or egress from any residence, place of business, or any legally parked or stopped vehicle; or unreasonably interferes with the removal of snow, ice, leaves or other debris.

c. Any newsrack which in whole or in part rests upon, in or over any public area shall comply with the following standards:

(1) No newsrack shall exceed five feet in height, thirty inches in width, and two feet in depth.

(2) Newsracks located on sidewalks shall only be placed near a curb or adjacent to the wall of a building. If no building is located at the edge of the sidewalk opposite the curb, then any newsrack shall be placed near the curb on the opposite side of the sidewalk.

Newsracks placed near the curb shall be placed no less than eighteen inches from the edge of the curb. Newsracks placed adjacent to the wall of a building shall be placed or maintained on a sidewalk opposite another newsrack, unless such placement creates a "passageway" for pedestrians of at least 3 feet.

(3) Newsrack may be chained, bolted or otherwise attached to any property not owned by the owner of the newsrack or to any permit or license object, provided that the owner of the property or fixed object does not object to such attachment.

(4) Newsracks may be chained or otherwise attached to one another; however, no more than three newsracks may be joined together in this manner along a curb, and a space of no less than eighteen inches shall separate each group of three newsracks so attached.

(5) No newsrack shall be placed, installed, used or maintained:

(i) Within three feet of any marked crosswalk;

(ii) Within fifteen feet of the curb return of any marked crosswalk;

(iii) Within ten feet of any fire hydrant;

(iv) Within three feet of any public telephone, fire call box, police call box or other emergency facility;

(v) Within five feet of any driveway;

(vi) Along with curb immediately adjacent to any building or structure, or to the rear of such bus stop or along any curb immediately adjacent to any place marked for handicapped parking;

(vii) At any location whereby the clear space for the passageway of pedestrians is reduced to less than three feet;

(viii) Within three feet of any display window of any building, or to the rear of such window in such manner as to impede or interfere with the reasonable use of such window for display purposes.

No newsrack shall be used for advertising signs or publicity purposes other than that dealing with the display, sale or purchase of the newspaper or news periodical for which such newsrack is placed.

(8) Each newsrack shall be maintained in a clean and neat condition and in good repair and operational at all times.

d. Each person who places or maintains a newsrack in a public area in the Borough shall have his name, address and telephone number affixed thereto in a place where such information may be easily seen.

1.6 Permit for Placement of Newsrack

a. No newsrack shall be placed in any public area unless an application for a permit has been made to the Administrative Officer. The Administrative Officer shall issue the permit provided that the newsrack complies with the provisions of this Chapter.

b. All applications for newsrack permits shall be filed with the Administrative Officer. The application shall identify the owner of the newsrack, the location at which and manner in which the newsrack will be placed, and shall be accompanied by a fee of $25.00 to evaluate the application against the requirements of this Chapter.

c. The application shall be filed with the Borough Clerk, who shall forward the application to the Administrative Officer, who shall issue or deny the permit within 10 days of the filing date of the application. If the Administrative Officer fails to act within 10 days of the filing date of the application, the application shall be deemed to have been approved and the permit shall be issued.

d. A permit for a particular newsrack shall terminate if the newsrack is removed by the owner, except that the permit shall continue in effect if the newsrack is replaced within 5 days by the owner with another conforming newsrack at the same location.

1.7 Application of Ordinance to Existing Newsracks

a. This Ordinance shall apply to all existing newsracks located in any public area as of the Ordinance's effective date. An application for a permit for each such existing newsrack shall be made within 30 days of the effective date of the Ordinance and shall be processed in the manner provided in Subsections 1.6(b) and (c).

b. Any existing newsrack for which an application for a permit has not been made within the time provided in Subsection (a) above shall be removed pursuant to Subsection 1.9(a).

c. Any newsrack for which an application for a permit has been made shall be subject to the provisions of this Ordinance, and shall be subject to the provisions of this Ordinance, and shall be subject to the provisions of this Ordinance, and shall be subject to the provisions of this Ordinance.

1.8 Appeal of Decision

a. A permit for a newsrack may be revoked for one or more of the following causes:

(1) Whenever any of the provisions of this Chapter are violated;

(2) Whenever the permittee maintains the newsrack at a location other than that specified in the application; or

(3) Whenever the newsrack has not been utilized by the permittee for a period of 30 consecutive days.

b. No permit shall be revoked without first providing the permittee with written notification of the intent to revoke the permit, which notification shall state the specific violation and, if for cause (2) or (3), the date by which the permittee must correct the violation or, in the case of (4), to resume use of the newsrack. The written notification shall be served on the permittee by the Administrative Officer, who shall be entitled to a hearing pursuant to Section 1.11 of this Chapter if he so requests in writing within 5 days of service of the notification. If the permittee fails to request a hearing, the revocation of the permit shall be final.

c. Any existing newsrack located in or on newsrack placed in a public area as of or after the effective date of this Ordinance, for which an application for a permit has not been made as required by subsection 1.7(a) or for which such a permit has been denied, and no appeal has been filed with the Administrative Officer within 30 days of the effective date of this Ordinance, no permit application has been filed, or within 5 days of service of notification of denial or a permit, or of notification of the revocation of a permit, shall be removed and stored at the owner's expense. The newsrack will be returned to the owner upon payment of the cost of removal and storage.

d. In the event that a permit is revoked, the permittee shall promptly remove the newsrack. If the permittee fails to remove the newsrack within 5 days from the effective date of the revocation of the permit, the Administrative Officer shall cause the newsrack to be removed and stored at the permittee's expense. The newsrack will be returned to the permittee only upon payment of the cost of removal and storage.

e. In the event that, in the determination of the Administrative Officer or the Borough official responsible for responding to an emergency situation, a newsrack presents an imminent danger to persons or property, the Administrative Officer or official shall immediately remove the newsrack to the extent necessary to remove the danger. The newsrack shall be returned to its location as soon as the immediate danger has been removed and the Administrative Officer determines that the danger was created by the permittee or by a condition of the newsrack, the permittee shall pay the costs of removal, storage and return of the newsrack.

1.9 Appeal Procedures

a. An applicant for a permit or any permittee may appeal from any determination of the Administrative Officer within the time provided in this Chapter by filing with the Administrative Officer a written request for a hearing. Failure to request a hearing within the time permitted shall render the decision of the Administrative Officer final.

b. An appeal shall stay all proceedings or actions of the Administrative Officer pending the Administrative Officer's decision from which the appeal arises.

c. Upon receipt of a request for a hearing, the Administrative Officer shall promptly forward to the Permit Review Committee all documents or other evidence upon which the Administrative Officer relied in making his determination, and a written explanation of the reasons for his decision. Within 10 days of the date the request for a hearing was made, the Permit Review Committee shall hold a hearing. The hearing shall be held at least 7 days in advance. At least 5 days prior to the hearing date, the applicant or permittee shall be provided with a copy of all documents and evidence upon which the Administrative Officer relied.

d. At the hearing conducted by the Permit Review Committee, the applicant or permittee shall have the right to call witnesses to call evidence and cross-examine any witnesses who appear before the Committee, including the Administrative Officer. The applicant or permittee shall have the burden of demonstrating that the decision appealed from was incorrect. The Committee shall issue a written decision affirming, modifying or reversing the decision of the Administrative Officer within 3 days of the completion of the hearing.

e. Any appeal from the decision of the Committee shall be to the Superior Court of New Jersey, as provided by the rules of that court. Such an appeal shall stay all proceedings or actions in furtherance of the Committee's decision unless the Administrative Officer certifies that, by reason of facts stated in the certification, a stay would, in his opinion, cause imminent peril to life or property.

Car insurance survey is held

Nearly seven out of 10 New Jersey motorists feel that legislation limiting a person's right to sue for all but "serious injuries" suffered as a result of an automobile accident would be fair, while eight out of 10 drivers feel such a limitation would be an effective way to reduce lawsuits resulting from automobile accidents.

Such lawsuits are often blamed for the high cost of automobile insurance coverage in New Jersey.

These findings were contained in a recent statewide public opinion survey conducted by RMH Research of River Edge for the AAA Automobile Clubs of New Jersey.

A total of 400 New Jersey residents were randomly selected and interviewed by telephone. The margin of error for results based on the total sample is plus or minus 5 percent points.

Survey results show significant support for legislation now under consideration by the state legislature to do away with current dollar limitations on when an injured party can sue for pain and suffering resulting from an automobile accident.

The specific dollar limitations, which come to $200 or $1,700, depending on the option a motorist selects, would be replaced with a "verbal threshold" stating that a motorist may only sue for pain and suffering resulting from an automobile accident if they have suffered "serious bodily injury." Serious bodily injury is defined in the legislation as an injury resulting in death, disability or disfigurement.

According to Cornelia S. Haines, spokesperson for the six AAA-affiliated auto clubs operating in New Jersey, the study was commissioned in order to help the motoring organization represent the views of its more than 850,000 New Jersey members and other motorists before the State Legislature.

The General Assembly recently approved a "verbal threshold" bill, while the Senate is still considering options for automobile insurance reform. The results of the survey have already been communicated to the members of the Senate and General Assembly, Haines said.

The pool confirmed for the AAA that New Jersey motorists rate the automobile insurance issue as a "very serious" problem. In a listing of issues of concern to New Jersey residents, 77 percent identified the automobile insurance system as a "very serious" problem, placing this issue well above crime, 52 percent; traffic, 43 percent; unemployment, 36 percent; educational quality, 25 percent, and public transportation, 23 percent.

"We knew that motorists identified the auto insurance issue as a major problem, but we never expected such an overwhelming percentage would identify the issue as a more serious problem than crime and educational quality," said Haines. "The results of the study have strengthened our resolve to work actively for some type of auto insurance reform during this session of the Legislature."

The survey also probed motorists attitudes about who was responsible for the auto insurance crisis and rising auto insurance premiums. New Jersey motorists view insurance companies, lawyers and accident victims, who are all too ready to sue, as primarily responsible for the problem. Auto repair services, juries hearing auto accident cases and doctors are all perceived to be less responsible for high auto insurance rates.

"One of the most ratifying findings to come out of the study was the fact that 86 percent of the state's drivers view the AAA as a trustworthy source of information about the auto insurance issue," said Haines.

The 86 percent believability rating given to the AAA was higher than the ratings received by the Trail Lawyers Association 42 percent, or insurance companies 44 percent.

Political leaders rated quite well in terms of their believability on this issue, with Gov. Kean topping the list at 82 percent.

Grant-in-aid sessions set

To present its grant-in-aid program, the New Jersey Historical Commission will sponsor three workshops on Sept. 6, 10 a.m. to noon at Seton Hall University, South Orange. The Commission is a Division of the New Jersey Department of State.

This year the commission's grant funds total more than $260,000, and the maximum award it will make to a project has increased to $10,000. The commission also has expanded the scope of the work it will assist and removed many previous restrictions on the expenditure of grant money. There are three application deadlines: Oct. 1, Feb. 1 and June 1.

During the workshops, commission personnel will explain the provisions of the grants program. They also will discuss the elements of a competitive grant proposal and the commission's two scholarly prizes.

The commission has awarded grants to assist projects in New Jersey history since 1970. In 1986 the awards to 112 projects selected from 173 applications totaled more than $220,000.

Preregistration is required. For information, registration forms and grants guidelines, one can contact Grants and Prizes, N.J. Historical Commission, 113 W. State St., CN 305, Trenton, N.J. 08625; 609-292-6062.

TALENT SPOTLIGHT

Christie Amsterdam

Christie is 15 years old and is a sophomore at Livingston High. She has done commercials and voice-overs for Betty Crocker, Love's Baby Soft, Hellmann's Mayonnaise, Noxema, Favor Furniture Polish, Sony, Citibank and others. She also appeared in a film for Scholastic Productions entitled "Fun and Games."

An important part of Christie's life is the Performers Theatre Workshop in West Orange where she is presently studying to improve her skills. "You really don't have to travel to New York to get great training," says Christie. "I study Acting, Jazz, Tap and Song Interpretation. I am also a member of the Advanced Stage Workshop Teen Troupe which performs professionally throughout the school year and gives me a chance to use show techniques learned in class."

"Though I haven't quite decided if I'm going to make theatre my career, it's really great to see how much my confidence has grown from the shy and timid person I was three years ago. That's what makes PTW so special! The sensitive care and concern of the staff to help each person grow according to their own potential, and the new social life I have with people who love theatre as much as I do, has all made a fantastic difference in my life."

IN JAIL FOR A CAUSE—Union County employees were among those who were put in jail, for a cause, at the recent Jail-a-Thon, held outside the Union County Courthouse in Elizabeth, and sponsored by the American Cancer Society. The event raised $55,000 for the Society, and will be used to help cancer patients and promote cancer research and public education. In the photo at top, is County Manager Donald Anderson, while below him, Walter Davis, Director of the Union County Mosquito Control Division, pleads for donations and freedom.

Women's hotline number listed

The Y.W.C.A. of Eastern Union County operates a battered woman's shelter called Project Protect which provides crisis intervention and shelter services to battered women and their children.

The shelter served 276 women and children in 1985 and received almost 1,000 crisis calls.

Their crisis hotline number is 355-HELP.

'Overfeeding' leads to death of ducks

By MARK YABLONSKY
Concerned about a sudden rash of deaths to wildlife in Bryant Pond last week, the Union County Parks Department is urging park goers to stop "killing the ducks with their kindness" by overfeeding the fowl.

According to Assistant Park Planner Daniel Bernier, the large amount of bread being given to the ducks has found its way to the bottom of the pond, located on the Summit-Springfield border. This has further accelerated the growth of botulism bacteria upon decay. When the bacteria is ingested by the ducks by way of mosquito larvae, paralysis to the fowl occurs, with death coming later, he said.

"What we are asking is that people stop feeding the ducks and other water fowl at Bryant Pond and other ponds in the county park system," requested Bernier, who said that 35 ducks died last week. "The people are literally killing the ducks with their kindness."

Work by the Parks Department in flushing the botulism out of the lake has begun, but the planner is warning that the situation can arise again if people continue feeding the ducks. Assistance is also being received from both the New Jersey Fish and Game Division, and the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service.

Bernier also mentioned that the growth of algae is a problem in many other county ponds, and that while air raiders — which are electric pumps placed at the bottom of a lake to provide a constant flow of water and oxygen — are being considered at several sites county-wide, including Meisel Pond, a more pressing concern is the deteriorating condition of Surprise Lake in the Watchung Reservation, which is experiencing a rapid overgrowth of weeds and other wild plants.

Committed to restoring the lake to an earlier form, the parks department says it is looking into a grant from the state Department of Environmental Protection that would be used to hire a company which does "professional lake programs." Action on the dying lake will be taken within a year, Bernier said.

'Needy' insurance

Sen. C. Louis Bassano has renided residents that health insurance is now available for about 200,000 New Jerseyans who up until now did not qualify for Medicaid.

"The Medically Needy Program, which began July 1, is designed to help families that, up until now, have been falling through the bureaucratic cracks of the state and federal health care system," said Sen. Bassano. "These people did not qualify for Medicaid and other assistance because their incomes were too high and yet their incomes were not high enough to pay for proper medical care on their own. A relatively minor health problem could literally push these families over the edge financially."

"When people have to decide between going to see the doctor or buying food, there is a great potential for existing health problems to become exacerbated. A condition that could have been eliminated fairly easily in its early stages, can become a major health problem when medical attention is postponed too long."

"For example, the lack of proper medical care for children and pregnant women has led to high infant mortality rates and an increase in birth defects. It also increases the danger of the spread of communicable diseases. When a large segment of our population is denied sufficient medical attention, all residents face a greater health risk. The Medically Needy Program was designed to address this kind of situation."

The senator explained that health officials estimate more than 200,000 people statewide, including 100,000 children, 2,000 pregnant women, 90,000 senior citizens and 12,500 disabled residents, are eligible for the program.

In order to be eligible for the Medically Needy Program, individuals may have incomes of no more than 133 percent of the current AFDC (public welfare) standard after deducting medical expenses. Applicants may not have more than $3,000 in liquid assets for a single person or $4,500 for a couple.

Sen. Bassano said, "A study by Rutgers University showed that 78 percent of the families who lost welfare benefits because of changes in federal eligibility requirements had at least one medical or dental problem for which they could not afford treatment."

For more information about the Medically Needy Program one can call 1-800-624-4684.

DR. NATHAN WEISS, president of Kean College of New Jersey, Union, was recently cited by the New Jersey Chapter of the American Society for Public Administration for implementing the 'value added' approach to education excellence recognized by $3.9 million in Governor's Challenge Grant funds. With the Challenge Grant, Weiss wants to expand student growth, reduce the drop-out rate, implement and strengthen majors, further faculty development and integrate computers across the curriculum.

'Joseph' opens season

The Chatham Players will open its new season with the Webber-Rice musical hit, "Joseph and the Technicolor Dreamcoat," Nov. 14, 15, 21 and 22 at 8 p.m. with an additional Nov. 16 matinee performance.

Based on the Biblical story of Joseph and his brothers, the soft rock fantasy is a pastiche of vaudevilian tunes, country and western music, calypso and rock and roll.

Audition dates for "Joseph" will be Sept. 4 and 5, at 7:30 p.m. for principals and 10 p.m. for chorus, and Sept. 6, from 1 to 4 p.m. for children. All auditions will be held at the Playhouse, 23 N. Passaic Ave.,

Chatham. All performances will be at Chatham High School.

Director for "Joseph" will be Andrew Carl Wilk. Further information can be obtained by calling Liz Moore at 635-9127.

For its winter production the Chatham Players will present the Tennessee Williams drama, "Cat On a Hot Tin Roof." Production dates will be Feb. 27, 28, March 1, 6, 7, 8, 13, 14, 15, 1987 at the playhouse.

The final production of the season will be Leonard Bernstein's modern musical classic, "West Side Story." Production dates will be April 24, 25, May 1 and 2 at 8 p.m. and a matinee on April 26.

Applebaum Memorial concert is set

A concert in memory of Samuel Applebaum, violinist, teacher and composer, who died last June, will be held at the YM-YWHA of Metropolitan New Jersey, 760 Northfield Ave., West Orange, Sept. 8 at 8 p.m.

The Samuel Applebaum Memorial Concert, which will be open to the community at no charge, will be co-sponsored by the Y and the Society of Musical Arts—SOMA. It was founded by Dr. Applebaum in 1982 and is "dedicated to providing local string musicians with an opportunity to perform free concerts on a regular basis. In a few short years, the organization has become a focal point in the musical life of Millburn, Short Hills and Maplewood."

Michael Tree, viola; Jaime Laredo, violin; Joseph Kalichstein, piano, and Sharon Robinson, cello, will perform at the concert.

Free tickets to the concert can be obtained at the Y Box Office or by mail. Further information can be obtained by calling 736-3200.

Mrs. N. J. Pageant listed

A Mrs. New Jersey America 1987 Pageant has been announced by Denise Picinich, area director. Contestants will be judged on personal interview, swim wear and formal wear of their choice. It was reported that no talent is required, and the contest is for married women of all ages. Reservations should be made early.

The requirements are that one must be at least 18 years of age as of the date she enters the New Jersey Pageant. She must be married one full year or more as of the date she enters the New Jersey Pageant. She must be a New Jersey resident for six months or more and a United States citizen.

Information required are that she send a current black and white or color snapshot of herself, a brief typewritten biography. She must also why she decided to enter the pageant, and she must send a self-addressed stamped envelope for reply to Mrs. Denise Picinich, area director, 110 Echo Place, Elmwood Park, N. J. 07407. It was announced that upon receipt of the information and a careful evaluation by the pageant screening committee, "we will forward further information and instructions to all prospective candidates." It also was reported that "many prizes are awarded and you will have a chance to compete for the nationally televised Mrs. America Pageant 1987."

Students hold benefit

The Black Organization of Students of Union County College recently sponsored a benefit fashion show for the "Make-A-Wish" Foundation of Elizabeth. The fashion show raised $1,342 for the Foundation.

Mark Haley of Summit, president of the Black Organization of Students, and Barbara Turner of Roselle were the coordinators of the show.

The "Make-A-Wish" Foundation, a Phoenix-based organization, grants terminally-ill children one final wish. Peter Runfola, founder and president of the New Jersey Chapter, formed the chapter two years ago after seeing the national organization featured on the television show "60 Minutes."

Runfola has tracked down computers and stereos, as well as movie stars, such as Sylvester "Rocky" Stallone, athletes and pro-wrestlers for dozens of youngsters under the age of 18 from around the state.

The Black Organization of Students, who sponsored the fashion show, assists entering Black students in their adjustment to college life. It also conducts programs which inform the college community about the achievements of Blacks in America, presenting a variety of educational and entertainment programs on the campus.

Jewish Fair slated Sept. 14

The eighth annual Jewish Renaissance Fair will be held Sept. 14 beginning at 11 a.m. at the Rabbinical College of America, 226 Sussex Ave., Morristown. The fair will feature "A Comedy Concert," starring Marc Weiner and the Weinerettes of "Saturday Night Live," Moshe Yess and Moshe Shur, the Jewish minstrel of the Diaspora Yeshiva Band. The concerts will begin at 4 p.m.

Audition set

The Playhouse Association, Inc. of Summit will hold open auditions for the season opener, "Pack of Lies," on Wednesday and Sept. 4 at 8 p.m.

Based upon a true story, the play had its premiere in England and opened in New York at The Royale Theater on Feb. 11, 1985. There are eight roles available in "Pack of Lies," written by Hugh Whitmore.

Auditions will be held at The Playhouse, 10 New England Ave., Summit. Arnold Buchiane of Summit will be directing "Pack of Lies," with production dates scheduled for Nov. 14 to 16 and 19 to 22. There will be a matinee performance on Nov. 16.

Buchiane directed the spring production of "The Silver Whistle" at the Playhouse. Those interested in assisting with production or set design are invited to attend auditions.

Fall Y Fest planned

An afternoon of fun for children and photo opportunities for parents will be offered at the Fall Y Fest at the YM-YWHA, Green Lane, Union Sept. 14 from 1 to 3 p.m.

Continuous clown performances, with participation by boys and girls, pony rides and balloons will make it a special afternoon, it was announced. There will be an ice cream eating contest with prizes for different age groups. The Y is offering for one day only a 10 percent discount on all fall courses for adults, teenagers and children.

Admission to the Fall Y Fest is free, and all Y department heads will be on hand to explain their fall programs. The YM-YWHA, in addition to 21 fitness courses, offers its members lap swim times in the early hours at noontime and in the evening.

"Open gym times are popular with the local paddleball and basketball players and the Y Health Club is a conveniently located place for relaxation, equipped with steam room and sauna, and tanning booth."

Every day of the school week, and on Sundays, there are interesting activities for boys and girls and the Y's Youth Department offers a grade school child care program from 3 to 5:45 p.m. daily with van transportation provided from some schools. Youth Director Tammy Steckler can be called at 289-8112 for further information on these programs.

'Homerless' ball?

By DENNIS ORLANDINI

It was done with the best intentions in the world. The American Legion baseball officials this summer, and their New Jersey State Interscholastic Athletic Association counterparts, who controlled the state high school baseball tournament a few months earlier only wanted to hold their championship games at impressive stadiums with large seating capacities to promote their brands of baseball.

However, in looking for well-kept, well-lighted playing fields and seating facilities that were easily accessible to the public, and that would provide suitable showcases for their league's championship games, both legion and high school officials overlooked one important point—playing field dimensions.

Last week, the American Legion season climaxed when Clifton defeated Irvington to capture the state title at Breslin Field, Lyndhurst. Though it houses a well-manicured diamond, intact, well-preserved bleacher seating, and a professional quality press box and public address system from which to report and announce the games, it should be pointed out that by high school or American Legion baseball standards, its playing field was of gargantuan dimensions.

The field is home for Lyndhurst's team in the Metro League, a local semi-pro league, whose players are in their 20's. The unsymmetrical field has a distance of 388 feet to left center field and 384 to dead center, is proportionately deep throughout, and is rimmed by an eight-foot high fence. This presents a major challenge to even the strongest of these adult players.

It's safe to say that had this field been transplanted to another part of the country, away from this major league metropolitan market area, that it would make an ideal home for a minor league team. In addition to its cosmetic attractiveness, it has the type of dimensions to test young, developing players, and to prepare them for the even larger fields of major league parks.

But with the average legion player being only about 16 or 17, years old, the prospects for them to clear the fences becomes even dimmer than those for the semi-pro players.

BETWEEN THE LINES

FINAL EDITION SEPTEMBER 1984 VOL. II

Both in the legion championship and the state high school championships, that were played at two Princeton University fields with equally imposing dimensions, after full seasons where the home run was an important part of their arsenals, suddenly the players were denied that weapon.

Jerry Sparta, a legion official who served as the public address announcer for 43 county and state legion championship games at the Lyndhurst field said only one home run was hit in all of those contests.

The high school baseball championships at Princeton produced a similarly dismal home runs-to-games ratio.

Jack Shaw, who coached the Roselle Park Panthers to the Group 1 final at Princeton University, said that field's deep dimensions didn't bother him. "It's the same for both sides," said Shaw.

That's true—but it's the same disadvantage. Without the home run as a viable weapon, the complexion of the game alters drastically.

The teams with the best contact hitters who are able to scratch away runs with singles, stolen bases, and by taking advantage of the other team's errors, gained advantage over the teams that relied on their sluggers.

In addition, the team that grabbed a quick lead was in the driver's seat, as the possibility for the trailing team to come back by "playing long ball" to strike for some quick runs was reduced.

Irvington, which fell behind early in two games against Clifton for the legion title, had a couple of rallies thwarted when their batter's smashes, which would have been home runs in regular season games, turned into 350-foot outs at the Lyndhurst stadium.

It should be emphasized that the average high school or legion game is played at either a fenced field of average dimensions, or a field without fences of any kind, where a hit in the gap, or over the outfielder's head can turn into a home run.

In trying to add legitimacy to their championship games, and create major sporting events, and by holding the title games at bigger, more impressive parks, NJSIAA and legion officials forgot that the players, after all, are teen-agers.

It's the hope here that this factor is taken into account when these officials select the sites of future tournaments and championship games. Hopefully fields that are more representative of high school and legion play will be selected.

The home run is baseball's greatest attraction, and the sight of a ball disappearing over the outfield fence, is its greatest spectacle. It should have been a part of these championship games, but in effect this weapon was taken out of the players' hands. Why?

Falls sports to get under way

By MARK YABLONSKY

They say there's strength in numbers. Already owning a fairly successful fall athletics program, David Brearley Regional High School in Kenilworth not only has numbers on its side, but percentages as well.

Although student enrollment has fallen off from last year, the amount of students signing up for fall sports has not. From a total enrollment of 590, Brearley has about 185 names already registered for either athletic or cheerleading participation. That means roughly one-third of all Brearley students won't be going directly home after school for a while.

As many would expect, the top conduit for student signatures is none other than the Brearley football squad, which will have 60 players trying out for positions on Bob Taylor's fearsome Bear machine. Long regarded as a gridiron powerhouse, the Bears will be out to defend last year's 10-1 record that led to a state Group 1 title. Next in line is Allan Czaya's soccer team, which will have 30 players vying for spots after last season's 10-5-2 mark.

While football and soccer will obviously remain the school's strongpoints, gymnastics and field hockey will be doing their part as well. Giving gymnastics in particular an even bigger boost than last season's 8-4 record is the fact that with the addition of a sixth team, the Mountain Valley Conference will now be able to have a champion, unlike other years, when the five other clubs were forced to play on independent schedules. But the entry of Roselle Catholic has changed all of that.

The school's cross-country and girls' tennis squads, meanwhile, will be looking to make an upswing from unsuccessful 1985 campaigns.

"One of the reasons for our success in the fall is that we have many enthusiastic cheerleaders," pointed out Brearley athletic director Tom Santaguida.

What will the upcoming fall sports season bring?

"It's tough to make predictions, but I always like to look at the number of participants who have signed," the athletic director added. "Even though the numbers of enrollment have gone down, the number of students going out for sports has remained relatively the same."

And relatively as eager.

Bulldogs hope for 'upswing' this year

By MARK YABLONSKY

Now that there will be a 1986 fall sports season, things could turn out to be interesting for Jonathan Dayton Regional High School, which will have several of its programs looking to make an upswing in progress.

"At this time, we're hopefully positive or cautiously optimistic," said Pete Falzarano, the school's director of athletics. "There's no doubt we'll be competitive."

The Bulldogs will certainly be looking to improve on the gridiron, coming off of last season's disappointing 3-6 mark which saw Tony Policare's club hampered by late-season injuries and a string of narrow defeats. Two of Dayton's six defeats, in fact, were by a single point, while two others were by the margin of a single touchdown.

In soccer, Frank Ortiz of Elizabeth will be starting his first season as the Bulldog head coach, replacing Joe Cocca, who guided last year's club to a winning mark and a spot in post-season play. Also looking to expand on past success are the cross-country and girls' tennis programs, traditionally considered to be strongpoints in the Dayton fall athletic program. Even without Tracy Biber, who will now be doing her running for Princeton University cross-country for both the men and women figures to be a shining point for coaches Martin Taglienti and William Byrne. Taglienti is nearing 500 career wins.

Another sport, however, that will be striving for improvement is the girls' soccer squad. Admittedly "weak in numbers" a year ago, as well as on the field, Falzarano remains confident that the program will improve under the guidance of Art Krupp.

'TEE' ANYONE? Union County Freeholder Edward J. Slomkowski of Union, left, liaison to the Parks and Recreation Advisory Board, board member Jerry Goldmar, and Department of Parks and Recreation Director Thomas Nolan display the new tee marker that was recently installed at all of the 63 holes present in the county's three golf courses. The markers are made from all-heart redwood and provide golfers with clear layouts of each hole.

'Fun and football' Youth football clinic held in Kenilworth

The Kenilworth Recreation Department recently held its 12th annual Youth Football Clinic, one of many events the department sponsors.

"The Clinicians this year made our event super, to see these big strong college football players spend an evening with our kids, having fun, and learning was really a pleasure," said the department's director, Bob Taylor, who is the head football coach at David Brearley Regional High School. "My only instructions are to have fun with the kids and make a friend for football."

Former Brearley standouts were on hand for instructional purposes. Ed Miller and Anthony Siragusa, who are both slated to be starters at the University of Pittsburgh, ran rugged stations in line play, while Lou Pascarella and Fred Soos, who are both playing at Albright College, specialized in running skills. Baseball collegiate convertees Mike Mancino and Steve Kallensee worked on specialties, Jersey City State linebacker Alex Scherer and East Stroudsburg's Dennis Layden gave instruction on defense, and Wagner's Dan Sims developed throwing skills.

In all, 11 stations were set up, with each representing a different football challenge for the participants.

"Even though these players are no longer in the Brearley program, they still feel committed to helping out our youngsters," praised Taylor, "and we appreciate it."

The clinic brings together 12 active college football players and boro youngsters, aged 8-15, for a session of fun and football.

Charity game slated Sept. 7

Newark Beth Israel Medical Center is sponsoring a charity softball game to raise funds for The Valerie Fund, a non-profit organization dedicated to helping children win the battle against cancer.

The softball game will take place Sept. 7 at 2 p.m. at the South Maple Avenue Softball Field in Basking Ridge. The Valerie Fund team will go to bat against the members of the WNEW-FM radio station.

The Valerie Fund was organized in memory of Valerie Goldstein, a nine-year-old child who died after a six-year bout with cancer. After her untimely death, those closest to Valerie realized the need to create a program within that could offer state-of-the-art cancer care.

NBIMC, which officially joined forces with The Valerie Fund in October 1985 is one of five pediatric cancer referral centers in the state. The Valerie Fund and NBIMC provide a family-centered, multi-disciplinary approach to cancer treatment that provides both quality medical care and emotional support.

For more information about the charity softball game in support of The Valerie Fund contact Stacey Springer, A.C.S.W., Valerie Fund Clinical Social Worker, NBIMC, at 926-7161.

County aides raise money

The Union County Employees All-Star softball team remained undefeated in the Annual N.J. Easter Seal Softball Weekend Tournament, held recently at Warinanco Park. The $333 they raised brought their three-year total to more than $1,000 raised to help the handicapped of New Jersey, according to Co-Captains Joe Spirito and Dennis Panchyshyn and Coach Phil Macioli.

More than 130 teams played from 8 a.m. until dark in the two-day tournament held in Warinanco Park for Union County teams, according to Rebecca Jackson of the Union County Department of Parks and Recreation.

The Union County Employee All-Stars came into this year's event untested and with a 4-0 record. They escaped with a 10-8 victory in the first game, and showed their true form in the second game with a 16-1 victory.

The team members have issued a special thanks to their fellow co-workers, friends and family who contributed to the fund-raising effort for the N.J. Easter Seal Society.

'Race for Health' Sept. 11-13

The University of Medicine and Dentistry of New Jersey is sponsoring a three-day 245-mile bike race Sept. 11-13.

The event, dubbed the "Race for Health" is the longest race in New Jersey in terms of time and mileage, and the only major team stage race in the state.

The race begins Sept. 11 with a 59-mile leg from the northernmost point in the state, High Point State Park to Newark.

Friday's stage will include a 54-mile race from Newark to the State House in Trenton.

The following day the bikers will race 90 miles, from Trenton to Atlantic City.

There will be health expos at spots along the racecourse.

Cross country meet Oct. 8

Union County College will be the site of a major eight-team cross country meet on Oct. 8 as the highlight of its 1986 season. Dr. Timothy McCracken of Plainfield will be looking to improve on last year's 7-10 record.

Nomahegan Park in Cranford will be the site of the Owls' meet. Slated to compete are Somerset County College, Atlantic County College, County College of Morris, Middlesex County College, Burlington County College, Camden County College and Gloucester County College. The 4 p.m. race will be run on the bicycle path inside Nomahegan Park, across from the college's Cranford Campus.

The UCC squad will open the new year by traveling to West Windsor to meet host Mercer County College on September 30. Also competing that afternoon will be Middlesex County College of Morris and Ocean County College.

The Owls' final regular season meet of the year will be held on Oct. 14 at Bergen Community College. Union will race host Bergen, Brookdale Community College, Essex County College, Morris, Somerset, and Middlesex.

The Region XIX, National Junior College Athletic Association (NJCAA) championship will be held on Oct. 26.

Family fishing day plans set

Officials of Tri-County Asphalt Corporation and members of the New Jersey Anglers Sportsmen's Association recently met to formalize plans for an annual "Family Fishing Day" and tournament Sept. 27 at Hopatcong State Park. It is expected to become a yearly event.

The tournament, open to the public, will feature competition in two divisions, adult and junior. Prizes will be awarded to adults and children for the top three trout, bass, and pickerel caught. Anglers are aiming for gift certificates, savings bonds and trophies for their efforts.

The all-day event includes a swap meet of fishing gear, free soft drinks and all the food you can eat. All those attending will receive a souvenir mug.

Admission, limited to the first 500 participants, is $5 for adults and children under 13 will be admitted for free. For more information, contact Tri-County at 663-1800 or the New Jersey Anglers Sportsmen's Association at 398-4110.

Handicapped fishing day set

The Union County Department of Parks and Recreation and the Newark Bait and Flycasting Club will sponsor the 3rd annual Fishing Derby for the Handicapped Sept. 13, 8 a.m. - 4 p.m. at Echo Lake Park (lower lake area), Mountainside.

The lake will be stocked with plenty of catfish and the state Division of Fish, Game & Wildlife will also supply other fish for the event.

Participants are asked to bring fishing poles, if possible. The club will provide poles for the first 100 participants who cannot supply their own.

Prizes, including savings bonds donated by the Cranford Elks Club, will be awarded in various categories.

The registration deadline for the event is Sept. 5. For further information and registration forms, call Naomi Murphy, Recreation Supervisor of Handicapped Programs at 527-4912.

Golfers raise $10,000

The Memorial General Hospital Foundation's Third Annual Golf Outing Aug. 11 raised more than $10,000 for the Cancer and Hospice programs at Memorial General Hospital, Union, according to Louis J. Giacoma, Foundation president. The outing, which was held at the Suburban Golf Course in Union, was sponsored by the Union Center National Bank.

Rudi Wadle, D.O., of Springfield, a longstanding member of the MGH medical staff, served as general chairman for the event.

"I think I speak for everyone who participated in the outing when I say that it was an incredibly enjoyable day," Dr. Wadle said. "For the third straight year, community and business leaders, in addition to Memorial General's administrative and medical staffs came out in strong support of the gold outing. This has become an event that everyone looks forward to every year."

The outing attracted a record 90 golfers while others showed their support by sponsoring various greens, tees, sand traps and water hazards. A cocktail hour and dinner, which featured former New York Yankee Joe Collins as guest speaker, followed the outing.

Proceeds from the outing went to MGH's Cancer and Hospice programs, which provide the latest in medical treatment to cancer patients and various forms of support to terminally-ill patients and their families.

Runners, cyclists in benefit

More than 700 runners and bicyclists are expected to help their neighbors with multiple sclerosis through the sixth annual MS Bicycle Tour/Marathon Run Sept. 6.

Bicyclists can choose 100, 50 or 25-mile routes from each of three Mid-Jersey starting locations: Lincroft, East Millstone, or Titusville.

Marathon runners with a minimum sponsorship of $500 will run 26.2 miles from Washington's Crossing State Park in Titusville. Prizes are available to participants.

Participants are 25-45 year old fitness-conscious middle managers and professionals. The courses are laid out over scenic routes.

Donations raised through the sixth annual MS Bicycle Tour/Marathon Run will provide local services for 1,500 local residents with multiple sclerosis. Walkers, wheel chairs, transportation, aquatic therapy, peer led counseling, medications, homemaker services, advocacy, referral, education and seminars will be made possible through the generosity of sponsors, contributors, participants and volunteers.

Multiple Sclerosis is a common neurological disease that strikes young adults. Walking, talking, seeing, balancing, running, and other normal activities can be impaired by this crippling of young adults.

The public's participation as runners or bicyclists, their financial support and their volunteered time can make a difference, a spokesman for the event said.

For more information contact the Mid-Jersey Chapter, National Multiple Sclerosis Society, 801 Belmar Plaza, Belmar, 681-2322, 828-1455, 586-5406.

UCC golfers to open fall season Sept. 17

The Union County College golf team will open its first fall schedule of nine matches Sept. 17, according to Irwin "Wynn" Phillips, athletic director.

The squad will be competing for the first time in the fall as a result of a rule change by the Region XIX, National Junior College Athletic Association (NJCAA). Coach Bill Dunscombe of Clark is anxiously waiting to see how his team will adapt to the new schedule. Last season, playing in the spring, the Owls posted a 14-1 record.

The fall season will not be easy for the Owls as the team will play all of its matches on the road.

The Owls open the season with a tri-match against Camden County College and Bergen Community College on September 17, and then compete in its only quad-match of the season on September 23 against County College of Morris, Atlantic County College, and Middlesex County College.

The Owls open the month of October with a tri-match against Gloucester County College and Somerset County College on October 3.

UCC will be seeking a bid to the Garden State Athletic Conference championships on October 12 and the Region XIX, National Junior College Athletic Association (NJCAA) playoff slated for early November.

Plenty of road trips for women booters

It won't take Ted Tharney of East Brunswick long to learn the Region XIX, National Junior College Athletic Association circuit as the first-year coach of the Union County College women's soccer team since they'll play a majority of their games on the road.

Tharney will take the Owls on nine road trips and will only enjoy the home field advantage eight times. Union's third-year women's soccer team finished last season with a 5-8-1 record.

The Owls play their first two matches on the road opening the season Sept. 19 by travelling to Garden City, N.Y., to meet Nassau Community College. Coach Tharney's squad then travels to Arnold, Maryland, the next afternoon to face Anne Arundel Community College.

The women's soccer team has its home opener on Sept. 22 against Orange County (N.Y.) Community College at 3:30 p.m. The Owls play two more times at home against Mercer County Community College on Sept. 24 and Bucks County College of Pennsylvania on Sept. 29.

The Owls open another three-game home stand Oct. 4 when they host Trenton State, Middlesex County College Oct. 7, and Kean College junior varsity Oct. 9.

The Owls' other home matches of the season will be against Farmingdale Community College of Newark on October 18 and Suffolk County College Oct. 29.

The women's soccer team will seek a bid to the Region XIX, National Junior College Athletic Association (NJCAA) playoff slated for early November.

All home matches of the UCC women's soccer team are played in Nomahegan Park on Kenilworth Boulevard, across from the College's Cranford campus. All matches are open to the public free of charge.

32 teams sought

Thirty-two teams are being sought for the Union Slow-Pitch Softball Tournament scheduled for Sept. 20-21. All teams are guaranteed three games. For information call Sam Vassallo at 464-1400.

It's the American dream, to work, earn, grow and prosper. It's what makes our nation strong and our people proud. For the work we do strengthens our economy and our potential, keeps us moving ahead and makes life better for all. We can take pride in our jobs, and in the fact that we're working together with a common purpose. As always, America's work force is her spirit, her energy, her power. Let's enjoy the satisfaction of a job well done, as we celebrate this well-earned day of rest.

This message is presented as a public service by these community minded merchants
