Packing a fun lunch

Preparing a packed lunch doesn't have to mean throwing a bologna sandwich and apple into a lunch box. This year, pack some fun into lunch instead.

The fun begins with the lunch box. Set aside time prior to school's beginning to shop for that special lunch box. If your child is involved in the selection, he'll be more likely to look forward to carrying it every day.

CREATIVE APPROACH

Or exercise your child's creativity. Let him repaint last year's box and spruce it up with brightly colored stickers or handpainted drawings.

Next, involve your child in planning his lunch. This is an excellent way to start good nutrition training early. One way is to show your child how a "colorful" lunch is a nutritious lunch. Balance the bland colors of sandwiches with colorful fruits and vegetables, such as raw red and green peppers and bright red apples or purple plums.

Of course, every child looks forward to that sweet lunch box treat. This year, try satisfying that sweet tooth with treats made without sugar.

The following recipes are made with products sweetened with NutraSweet brand sweetener, so there's no worry over dental problems — or the extra calories — that come from sugar.

PACK SOME FUN

Try them and pack some fun into this year's lunch box!

TROPICAL PARADISE BARS

3/4 cup flaked coconut
3/4 cup crushed, dried, unsalted banana chips
1 box (7.5 ounces-10 envelopes) vanilla flavored reduced calorie dairy drink mix with NutraSweet brand sweetener

3/4 cup orange juice
1 container (8 ounces) banana yogurt
1/2 cup finely crushed crispy corn and rice flakes with NutraSweet brand sweetener

Note: Use blender to crush cereal and banana chips, pulse 14 to 16 times.

Preheat oven to 350 degrees F. Spread coconut in shallow pan. Toast 8 to 10 minutes, stirring once or twice, or until golden brown. In small bowl, combine toasted coconut and crushed banana chips; set aside.

In blender, at medium speed, whirl vanilla drink mix, orange juice and yogurt until thoroughly combined. Transfer to large bowl; stir in cereal — mixture will be thick and slightly sticky. Cover and chill one hour.

On large sheet of foil, spread out coconut-chip mixture. Using two measuring tablespoons of the batter-like mixture, shape into 2 x 3/4-inch bars, roll in coconut mixture to coat. Place bars in shallow container or tray.

Cover and chill at least one hour before serving. Store leftover bars in freezer. Defrost when ready to serve.

Makes 18 bars.

FRUIT JIGGLES

2 packages (.3 ounces each) fruit flavored sugar-free gelatin with NutraSweet brand sweetener
2 envelopes unflavored gelatin
1 1/2 cups boiling water
1 1/2 cup prepared whipped topping with NutraSweet brand sweetener (prepared according to package directions)
1/2 cup fruit

In medium bowl, mix fruit gelatin and unflavored gelatin. Add water and stir until gelatin is dissolved. Cool to lukewarm; blend in whipped topping. Add fruit. Pour into 8-inch square pan.

Cool, then chill 1 1/2 hours or until very firm. Using 1 3/4-inch cookie cutters, cut into shapes or into 1-inch squares. Makes approximately 16 cookie-cutter jiggles.

Suggestions:

Orange Jiggles: Use orange gelatin with NutraSweet and 1/2 cup well-drained canned Mandarin orange sections.

Lime Pineapple Jiggles: Use lime gelatin with NutraSweet and 1/2 cup well-drained crushed unsweetened pineapple.

Strawberry-Banana Jiggles: Use strawberry-banana gelatin with NutraSweet and 1 1/2 cup diced ripe banana.

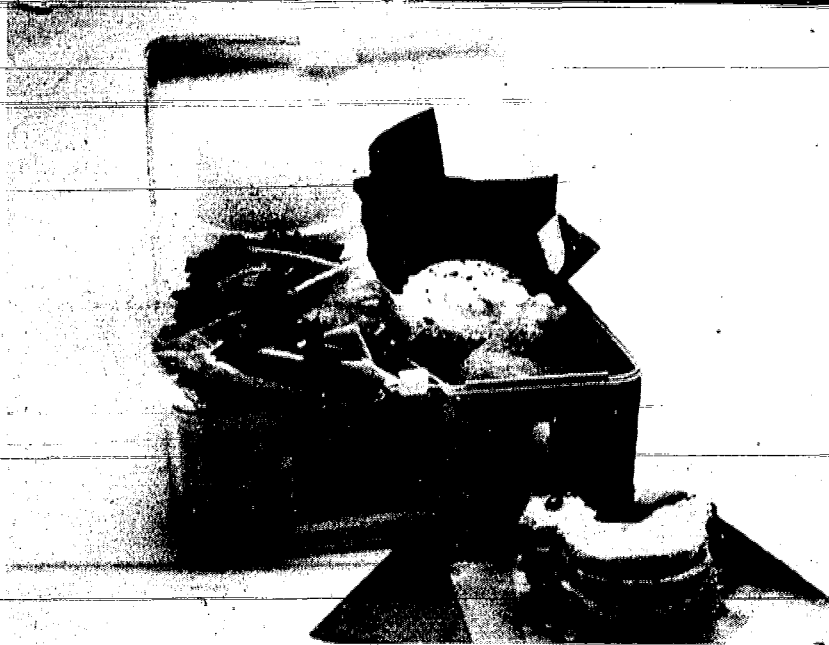

For bright, clear fruit jiggles, omit topping, increase boiling water to 2 cups, and proceed as recipe directs.

VARIETY IS THE KEY to a good school lunch. Uniquely shaped sandwiches, cut from a cookie cutter, are one idea.

Creativity needed in preparing lunch

Necessity is the mother of invention. And when it comes to preparing a school lunch it's a necessity for a mother — or father — to be inventive and creative in order to capture a child's attention.

"We've moved away from the days when a school lunch consisted of a plain white bread sandwich and an apple," said Judy Mentzer, a Victor F. Weaver, Inc. home economist. "Parents today can make lunch exciting by using a little creativity."

Using a little creativity doesn't mean mothers have to put fireworks in a lunch box, but only vary their lunch-packing routine and take advantage of all the foods and utensils in the kitchen.

The sandwich, still the staple of the school lunch, is the best place to start. By simply using a knife or a cookie cutter, a mother can create some appealing and unusual shapes that will entice the child and give a new dimension to the sandwich.

Different types of meats or breads also can turn the same old lunch into something completely new.

"Whole wheat or pita breads can transform a lunch for a child," said Mentzer. "Chicken is also ideal for lunch because it's versatile. You can use chicken roll, chicken bologna or chicken salad to replace the lunch meats you usually serve."

Being observant at home and when meeting other mothers can also yield some important information. By asking the child what his or her friends bring to school in their lunches, a mother can get some helpful tips and find out what her child thinks. It's important to know the child's likes and dislikes so that, when preparing a meal, only the accepted foods are included.

The PTA or school meeting is a perfect chance to compare notes with other parents to see what items are popular for school lunches.

"Suggestions can be helpful, but being a trendsetter is also important. Don't be afraid to experiment and try new foods and ideas," said Mentzer. "New foods should be tried out at home first, otherwise they may find their way into the trash."

If outside suggestions are not helpful and creativity is at a low point, an untapped resource to provide possibilities for lunches are the family's leftovers.

Fried or roast chicken can serve as an ideal entree for the Free trees offered

The National Arbor Day Foundation has announced that it is giving 10 free trees to people who become foundation members during this month.

The free trees are part of the foundation's efforts to promote tree planting throughout America.

A Sugar Maple, White Flowering Dogwood, Pin Oak, White Pine, Red Maple, Birch, American Redbud, Silver Maple, Red Oak, and Colorado Blue Spruce tree will be given to members joining during August. The six-to-twelve inch trees will be shipped this fall at the right time for planting between Oct. 15 and Dec. 10. They will be sent postage paid with enclosed planting instructions.

"These trees were selected to provide benefits every season of the year: lovely spring flowers, cool summer shade, spectacular autumn colors, and winter berries and nesting sites for songbirds," according to the foundation.

The National Arbor Day Foundation, a nonprofit organization, "is working to improve the quality of life throughout the country by encouraging tree planting." The Foundation will give the 10 free trees "to members contributing $10 during August."

To become a member of the foundation, it was announced, and to receive the free trees, a $10 membership contribution should be sent to Ten Trees, National Arbor Day Foundation, 100 Arbor Ave., Nebraska City, Neb., 68410, by Sunday.

September is back-to-school month for gardeners as well as for children. On Sept. 13 a one-day Home Gardeners' School will be held at Cook College on the New Brunswick campus of Rutgers University.

'Do-Op Night' to be held

The Union County Department of Parks and Recreation will present Do-Op Night as the final concert of the 1986 Summer Arts Festival Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. at Echo Lake Park, Mountainside.

Performing at the concert will be "The Saints" and "The Mellow Kings." Both acts will perform a wide variety of songs from the 1950s. A dance floor, snack truck and parks information booth are available at the concert site. Concert goers can bring lawn chairs or blankets to sit on. Admission is free.

In the event of rain, the concert will be held at Trailside Nature and Science Center auditorium, Coles Avenue and New Providence Road, Mountainside. There is no raindate.

Additional information can be obtained by calling the parks 24-hour hotline at 352-8410.

SAVED BY THE BELT—New Jersey residents were on hand to plant a tree at dedication of Survivors' Grove, Washington, D.C., recently. The dedication commemorated lives saved by safety belt use. The trees were donated by the newly formed American Coalition for Traffic Safety of which the New Jersey Committee For Safety Belt Use is a member. From left are Curtis Dull, Joyce Lynch, Amy Lynn Buzby and Bobbie Nicoletti, members of the New Jersey Saved by the Belt Club.

To assemble parfaits, spoon a layer of vanilla, then chocolate, the root beer pudding into each of nine 4-ounce plastic containers with lids or into 6-ounce custard cups. Garnish each with crushed peanuts and a strawberry half, or other fruit as desired.

Makes 9 servings, 3-ounces each.

Creative lunches

next day. Using these items gives a refreshing change to a school lunch and gives a child a "special lunch." It also stretches the family food dollar.

Many times parents forget the nutritional aspect of a child's lunch. A good way to ensure nutrition is by incorporating fruits and vegetables into the weekly noon meal schedule. Find out what the child's favorite vegetables are, then cut and package them to make finger foods.

Remember, though, variety is the key — occasionally include strawberries, kiwi fruit, seedless grapes or other popular children's favorites. The bright color of fruit adds visual appeal to lunch.

"The key to preparing a good school lunch is to know your children and use creativity to vary the pattern," said Mentzer. "If you do this, you'll have a happy child and you'll feel good about it too."

Here are some of Judy Mentzer's suggestions for lunch meals.

—Whole wheat bread, white meat chicken roll, grape jelly; cut with a chicken cookie cutter.

—Chicken bologna, American cheese and pickle slices on a round roll.

—Chicken salad on a hot dog roll.

—Sandwich picks with cubes of chicken or luncheon meat, and cheese, packed with pasteurized creamy bacon dip and celery and carrot dippers and whole wheat crackers.

—Pita filled with luncheon meat cheese, lettuce and tomato.

In a wide mouth thermos, pack a frankfurter in hot tomato soup. Tuck a hot dog roll in the lunch box too.

Legal talk for women slated

Legal concerns affecting women and their families will be addressed in an educational program series, "Women and the Law," established by the Status of Women Advisory Board of the Union County Board of Chosen Freeholders, according to Elizabeth A. Cox, chairman of the Advisory Board.

Leading off the group of four programs to be given Monday evenings from 7 to 9 p.m., is Divorce and Separation, Sept. 29. Leonore Mohr will discuss the grounds for divorce in New Jersey and the legal procedures and considerations, including division custody and division of property. Mohr practices law in Union and concentrates on matrimonial and related matters.

Children in the Family Court will be presented Oct. 6 by Jo Anne B. Spatola, a Westfield attorney who is also legal council to the welfare board. Spatola will discuss custody, paternity, support and juvenile delinquency charges which might bring a family to Family Court with their child.

County Surrogate Ann Conti will present Wills and Probate: What You Need to Know Oct. 20. She will cover why everyone needs a will, what should be included in the will and how to probate the estate of a friend or relative. Conti is an attorney practicing in Elizabeth.

Joan E. Dowling, a Plainfield attorney specializing in real estate and related matters will present Buying and Selling Real Estate Oct. 26. She will discuss the legal aspects of buying and selling a house or condo and applying for a mortgage. Tenants' rights may also be discussed.

Women interested in attending any or all of the programs in the series may do so by contacting the Department of Continuing Education, Union County College, Cranford. There will be on site registration on a space available basis at each individual lecture.

The series was organized by the Union County Status of Women Advisory Board to provide introductory information to women in need of legal direction at a minimal cost. Members of the Union County Women's Bar Association are donating their time and services. The Department of Continuing Education at Union County College has provided registration and space arrangements.

Reservations and information may be obtained by contacting Helen Flanagan during working hours at 688-2400.

Paper book 'colors' emotions

By BEA SMITH

Why Pocket Books waited three years to turn Alice Walker's masterpiece novel, "The Color Purple," into a mass market paper back printing last year is unfathomable.

One of the most unusual books of this season and probably of all seasons, "The Color Purple" was published in 1982 by Harcourt Brace Jovanovich, Inc., in California and printed by Pocket Books of New York last year.

A Pulitzer Prize-winning book, it also is the recipient of the American Book Award for Fiction and was made into an award-winning Oscar-nominated motion picture last year by Warner Brothers, produced and directed by Steven Spielberg.

What makes "The Color Purple" so unusual is the method in which the talented writer has presented her poignant story. It's so simple, it becomes complex. Most of the book, which is set in the deep south, is written in a series of letters, penned first to God by Celie, a 14-year-old black child, who has been violated by her so-called father, and who is practically sold as wife to an older man whose mean children cause the sensitive teenager much heartache. She writes her letters to God nearly in a form of a diary and in the dialect of her soul, pouring her heart out, letting Him see and hear of her poverty and sorrow and offering up small bits and pieces of her fragmented happiness and love. She asks Him for nothing; she merely accepts His reason for her daily existence.

The language Celie uses is the language of the poverty-stricken, uneducated, unworldly southerners, and this language has the strongest form of impact on Walker's readers. The very fact that Celie has the courage to uphold her dignity in so restrictive an atmosphere, and raise herself with pride from her squeaky rocking chair on a worn-out old porch to a world in which she ultimately feels welcomed, needed, loved and truly accepted, turns this forlorn child into a whole human being.

As Celie continues to write her diary-like letters to God, her sister, Nettie, who has moved to Africa with her husband and Celie's two children, now begins a lengthy letter-writing spree to Celie. Celie never receives these loving and informative letters and only the reader benefits from them.

Celie's maturity is slowly recognized when she stops writing to God and begins to write to her sister, Nettie, who also never receives the letters.

The most amazing thing about "The Color Purple" is how Walker is able, through a series of practically illiterate letters, to develop the characters of Celie, Nettie, Shug Avery, Celie's husband's former lover, who eventually, but briefly, has a homosexual relationship with the ever-growing Celie; Harpo, her husband's son; Sofia, Harpo's wife, and Samuel, Nettie's husband.

They become so real, so homey, so sweet, so mean, so deliciously human, a reader wants to reach out and envelope them all — explain, particularly to that beloved Celie, and all the rest of the characters that the reader understands their problems, their emotions, their poverty and their love.

This reviewer did not see the movie, "The Color Purple," fortunately, or unfortunately.

And perhaps it is best this way. This astounding book has enough to fulfill every emotion. It satiates its readers sufficiently. A movie would merely flood the senses. To this reader, it would merely be redundant.

Winners will be announced on Oct. 22 at the HMDC commission meeting.

All prize winning photographs will be displayed in the lobbies of the HMDC and the Hackensack Meadowlands Environment Center, and in local newspapers.

Ethnic fest set Sept. 6, 7

The weekend festival is held both indoors and outdoors at the historic Central Railroad of New Jersey Terminal and on the banks of Hudson River in proximity to the Statue of Liberty and Ellis Island. Admission and parking are free.

The opening ceremonies scheduled for noon Sept. 6 will feature a parade of nations, a naturalization ceremony, and welcoming remarks by public officials and representatives of ethnic communities.

The festival is sponsored by the New Jersey Ethnic Advisory Council and the Office of Ethnic Affairs both in the New Jersey Department of State.

RODNEY DANGERFIELD

'Energetic' soundtrack

By MILT HAMMER

Pick Of The LPs, "Back to School," Music From the Motion Picture Soundtrack (MCA Records).

Rodney Dangerfield stars as a successful businessman who joins his son at college in Orion Pictures' summer smash, "Back to School." An hilarious comedy, the film boasts a soundtrack collection as energetic and welcome as its laughs. Both the music and the film prove once and for all that it's never too late to matriculate.

The title track rings with chiming guitars and is persuasively sung by newcomer Jude Cole, recently signed with Warner Brothers Records. Bobby Caldwell, who enjoyed a big hit several years back with "What I Do For Love," turns in a stellar performance on a song he co-wrote with his co-producer Randy Goodrum, "Educated Girl," a track sparked by the guitar of Toto-member Steve Lukather. Eddie Tyson and Dave Schwartz offer two tracks, both of which they wrote. Schwartz' biggest hit to date was "Hit Me With Your Best Shot" for Pat Benatar. He and Tyson are superb on the ballad, "Learnin' and Livin'," and side two's engaging "On My Way." CBS recording artist

Michael Bolton offers the explosive, hard rocking "Everybody's Crazy," a far cry from his hits for Laura Branigan ("How Am I Supposed to Live Without You?") and the Pointer Sisters ("Heartbeat"). Los Angeles favorite Oingo Boingo is represented by the wildly rhythmic title track from its last MCA album, "Dead Man's Party."

Another stand out of the collection is Dangerfield's debut as a rock and roll singer on the classic tune, "Twist and Shout." Rodney delivers the song quite effectively, letting it play against his established persona. The final track on the album perfectly suits Dangerfield as well. It's Aretha Franklin reprising her classic plea for what Rodney never gets enough of — "Respect."

Alan Meffer directed Rodney Dangerfield in this Orion Pictures release which also stars Sally Kellerman, Burt Young, Keith Gordon and Robert Downey Jr. Ned Beatty makes one of his special appearances as Dean Martin. The screenplay was by Steven Kampmann and Will Porter and Peter Torokvei and Harold Ramis. The film's executive producers were Estelle Endler, Michael Endler and Harold Ramis.

Union Oktoberfest slated

Old and young are waiting with great anticipation for the two-day Oktoberfest that will be held Sept. 6 and 7 at Farcher's Grove, Springfield Road, Union. The Bayern Verein Newark and the Elizabeth Sport Club will be the hosts.

On Sept. 6, the hours are 5 p.m. to midnight, and on Sept. 7, Sunday, the hours are noon to 10 p.m.

Featured on Saturday evening will be New York Knickerbockers, Sunday afternoon, New Jersey Knickerbockers; and Sunday evening, Bernie's Orchestra. There will also be German folk dancing and other guest dance groups.

Enjoyable, but 'gory'

By MARK HAVILAND

One of the better films in Hollywood's current tidal wave of sequels to earlier hit films, is James Cameron's "Aliens," a sequel to the 1979 film "Alien."

The earlier film was directed by a different director, Ridley Scott, who made a stylish science fiction-horror film, that was full of symbolism and the designs of a Swiss artist of the surreal, H.R. Giger. It was a scary and gory film, but very enjoyable at the same time.

In the sequel, the only survivor from the original alien attack is Ripley, played by Sigourney Weaver ("Ghostbusters"), who also starred in the 1979 film. As the sequel opens, she is awakened from a 56-year space trip in suspended animation. Despite her best efforts, she cannot convince a crew of people from returning to the planet where the aliens live, and where a band of colonists who travelled there, are missing.

Focus on Film

Ripley accompanies a group of tough, foul-mouthed space marines to the planet, where the only survivor of an alien attack on the colonists is an eight-year-old girl, nicknamed "Newt."

Ripley and the little girl must confront the alien menace in the film. The aliens are creatures from nightmares, eight-foot high skeletal creatures who have acid for blood, and who breed inside human bodies, with predictably gory results.

Unlike the first film, the sequel concentrates less on atmosphere, and more on action and hardware. An explanation for this is that Cameron's previous directorial effort was "The Terminator." In an unusual twist for Hollywood action epics, the women in this film are tough and resourceful, while the men are for the most part, spineless or conniving, with one exception.

"Aliens" makes more sense if you have seen the original film, which is available on videocassette. It is an enjoyable suspense film, but its excessive violence and gore make it the wrong film for younger children.

Open house set by Kindermusik

Monica Felsing of Union is holding Kindermusik open houses Tuesdays, Sept. 2 through Sept. 16, at 7:30 p.m. at the United Methodist Church, Overlook at Berwyn Street, Union.

Kindermusik is a specialized program of music learning and enjoyment for children four, five and six. The program focuses on the development of the entire child as well as music education. Through a music curriculum basic school readiness skills such as language, reading, gross and fine motor coordination and social interaction are developed. After the completion of the Kindermusik program, the children show a developmental advantage of seven months in readiness for school as well as developing an intense interest in music.

The children's musical activities include singing and learning many songs, listening, playing instruments, drama & movement, reading and writing musical notation and acquaintance with instruments of the orchestra.

The child meets with the teacher in a group of 8 to 10 children for a 90-minute lesson, once a week. The class activities are well-balanced and change approximately every five minutes.

Any parent, wishing more information or planning to attend an open house, may contact Felsing at 964-9439 a description of the program and materials will be on display.

MONICA FELSING

Y offering full-day programs

Children three months to 10 years of age are finding a secure and interesting home away from home at the YM-YWHA on Green Lane in Union. Full-day care from 7:45 a.m. to 5:45 p.m. is available to babies, toddlers and pre-schoolers; kindergartners have two different full-day programs from which to choose.

At the YM-YWHA the infants and toddlers are part of a small group of mixed ages with one particular caregiver overseeing their safety and wellbeing. "Our assigned caregiver system means that each child has one adult who really knows his/her style and preferences, creating comfort and security for the child," noted Y Early Childhood Chairman Aaron Cohen of Cranford. The small play groups and assigned caregivers create a family feeling. Kosher breakfast, snack and lunch are served daily.

Nursery school at the YM-YWHA is a half day program enriched with Jewish culture and punctuated with professionally taught gym and swim courses. Two-and-one-half to 4 1/2-year-olds attend two or three days a week and may have their lunch at the Y with the 11:30-12:30 lunch option.

The YM-YWHA Early Childhood Service is offering full day kindergarten and an after-school program in addition to nursery school. Pam Bell will lead the all-day kindergarten. "Our kindergarten program will be a sound educational experience in a healthy social atmosphere with generous measures of Jewish culture and physical education built in," said Ms. Bell in a telephone interview.

Children who attend kindergarten and grades 1-5 elsewhere can attend the Plus Kindergarten and After School programs. The Y provides van pickup at specified schools, both at noontime and following the afternoon session. The After School programs are geared to the needs of children who have spent the day in a classroom, providing for vigorous physical exercise, quiet time, and constructive, relaxing activities as well.

"All early childhood teachers at the "Y" are fully credentialed professionals sensitive to the learning needs of young children," said Early Childhood Director Barbara Shaw, M.A. "Most of them have advanced degrees or are doing graduate work in education." In addition to professional quality, the "Y" offers the convenience of extended hours in several programs and transportation for Plus Kindergarten and After School children.

Auditions planned

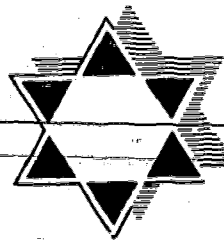

The Department of Theater Arts and Speech at Rutgers University's Newark campus is seeking young singers for its fall production of Anna Brigadere's musical fable for children, "Spriditis."

Department chairman Vern Smith, who will direct the production, is looking for the male lead, a 12-to 13-year-old, and a children's chorus of boys and girls of various ages.

Tryouts are scheduled for Sept. 8 and 9, 5 to 7 p.m., at University Theater, Bradley Hall, third floor, corner of Warren Street and Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. Boulevard, Newark.

Performances will be held in October.

Further information can be obtained by calling mornings at 648-5119.

SAT review course scheduled

The Clarion Review Course, directed by A.J. Pantazes, a member of the mathematics department at Columbia High School, Maplewood, is accepting registrations from high school students planning to take the Scholastic Aptitude Tests (PSAT/SAT) in October and November.

The purpose of the Clarion Review Course, located at Newark Academy in Livingston, is, according to its director, to assure the student that he will achieve his maximum potential score on the all important SAT.

With college admissions officers surveying applicants more or less equal in intelligence, class rank, grades, extra-curricular activities, the final decision is often predicted on the result of the SAT. While a high score on these tests will not automatically guarantee entrance to a particular college, it is an important factor.

The Clarion Review course is offering courses in basic mathematical review and verbal skills to prepare the student for the SAT. Each class will consist of a maximum of fifteen students. Classes are scheduled Monday evenings, Wednesday afternoons or Saturday mornings at our Livingston location.

Clarion Review is also offering evening courses at the Adult Schools at Columbia High School in Maplewood, Montclair High School, Summit High School and Carteret High School.

Registration forms and additional information may be obtained by calling 922-6070 or 992-6010 between 9 a.m. and 9 p.m.
