Bus reduction rapped

By PAUL PEYTON
In an effort to satisfy concerns among parents, the Mountainside Board of Education plans to hold a meeting of its transportation committee before next Tuesday's board meeting to discuss the reduction in school buses from eight to six.

Parents in attendance at Tuesday's board session stated that their children are forced to walk along Wood Valley and Summit roads in addition to Charles Street.

According to Superintendent of Schools Leonard Baccaro, the administration did not reduce the number of buses used to transport children to school in order to save money, as some parents claimed, but to get maximum use out of the number of buses used.

"At no point in time did we reduce the number of runs from eight to six to save money," Baccaro said, explaining the move was made to eliminate using buses that carried as few as 12 children.

Baccaro said that in the past courtesy passes were given to children who did not fall within the board's transportation guidelines allowing them to ride the bus. He said these passes will not be given out this year until the transportation plan has been fully implemented and it is determined how much room is available on the buses.

Baccaro suggested that the transportation committee, board members Susan Beaseley and Linda Esemplare, meet to discuss and come up with a reasonable busing plan acceptable to both the administration and the parents.

"I would hope they could come up with a solution that would benefit the majority of the people," said Baccaro.

A Wood Valley Road resident objected to not busing youngsters who live on the road.

"Does the board really expect six-year-olds to walk to school on Wood Valley road?" he said.

The man said parents who live on the road do not allow their children out of the backyard because of the danger of traffic and the fact the street does not have sidewalks.

Esemplare stated, in response to a question by a parent, that the administration has a given mileage policy in connection with busing children. She said that kindergartners living a half mile or longer from Deerfield School may be bused.

She said children in grades one through three whose homes are 3/4 mile from school, fourth and fifth graders who live one mile from school and sixth-through eighth graders who live 1.2 miles from school all may be bused.

Esemplare said that the state requirement for busing states that districts are only required to bus children who live at a distance of two miles or longer.

"Mountainside has been very generous in school busing," said Esemplare.

Board president Linda Schneider said that the safety of the children is the major objective of the board.

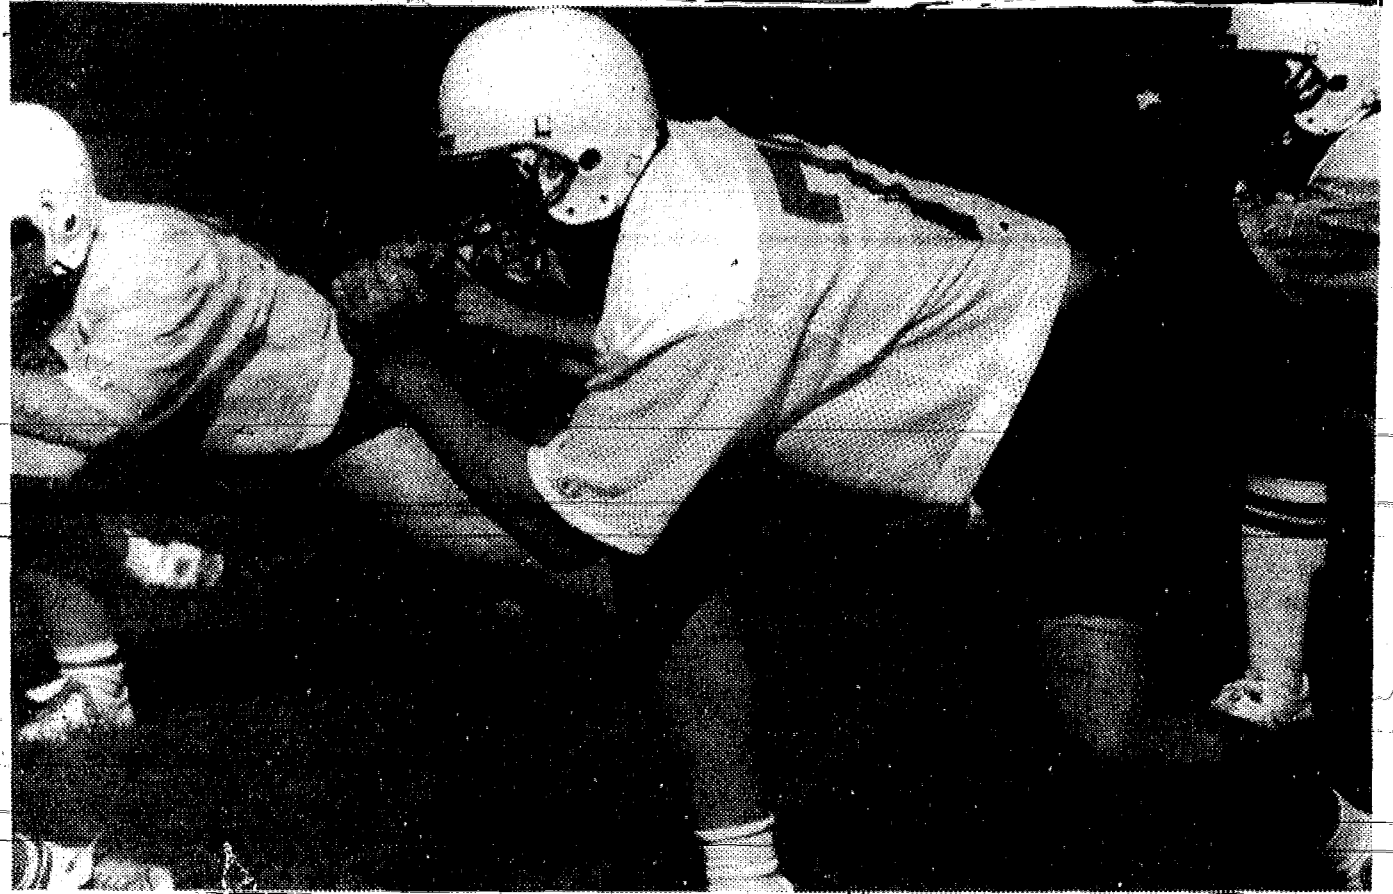

"I'm sure that this board will keep safety as its primary concern," said Schneider.

In other business, Deerfield School principal James Johnson listed the administration's major three goals for the school year which will be forwarded to the county.

He said the first goal would involve the kindergarten program which will consist of three four-hour sections.

"Our goal is to try and develop as comprehensive a program as possible with as much thought as possible," said Johnson.

The other two goals, he said, are the implementation of the seventh-grade word processing course and a new math course for eighth graders.

Board approves teacher pact

By MARK HAVILAND
The Union County Regional District Board of Education voted unanimously Tuesday to accept the terms of a settlement worked out with the union representing the district's more than 300 teachers.

Membership of the Union County Regional Federation of Teachers, Local 3417 of the American Federation of Teachers, AFL-CIO, ratified the terms of the settlement Friday following a 12-hour long negotiating session Aug. 25.

Regional Superintendent of Schools Dr. Donald Merachnik stated at a meeting of the school board Tuesday in Clark, "I think it was a very fair settlement."

Under the terms of the two-year settlement approved Tuesday, full-time, permanent teachers in the district's four high schools will receive a 9 percent salary increase this school year and in the 1987-88 school year, Merachnik said.

Another issue under contention is the equity of teaching assignments. Merachnik explained that teachers in the academic subjects, including social studies, science and foreign languages, previously could not be expected to work more than five periods daily, 25 periods weekly.

Teachers in other disciplines that did not have as much homework, such as art, physical education, home economics and music could be assigned up to 30 periods a week.

Under the terms of the settlement, physical education teachers requirements will be lowered to 25 periods starting with the 1986-87 school year. During the following school year art and music teachers will have the same lesser requirement, Merachnik explained. As a "sidebar agreement," teachers in all other low-homework disciplines will have their schedules changed after the contract term.

The only exception will be vocational education teachers who will continue to be assigned more than 25 periods weekly, according to the superintendent.

"This settlement was the product of long, hard hours on behalf of the staff...it took a long time and a lot of hard work," said board member Joseph Vaughn, a member of the board's negotiations and personnel committees.

Vaughn stipulated that the board reserves the right to deny any employee any or all salary increases if the employee does not merit the wage hike.

The federation represents the teachers in the four regional high schools: David Brearley Regional High School in Kenilworth, Jonathan Dayton Regional High School in Springfield, Arthur L. Johnson Regional High School in Clark, and Governor Livingston Regional High School in Berkeley Heights.

On another issue, Vaughn sounded off against state Commissioner of Education Saul Cooperman's proposed recommendation, discussed in published reports early this week, to have the state step in when local districts have failed to meet the requirements in the state's Thorough and Efficient Education program.

"I for one feel this is an unwarranted intrusion on the prerogatives of school districts in this state," Vaughn stated, and suggested that the board go on record in opposition of this proposal.

"My feeling is that not every student is destined to be a mathematician or a scientist," Vaughn said. "My interests are in higher standards and greater opportunities in all areas, not just in one area."

Merachnik announced that at the next regional board meeting on Sept. 16 at Arthur L. Johnson, Union County Superintendent of Schools Dr. Vito Gagliardi will address the board members, faculty, staff and parents.

BOE cancels camp

By MARK YABLONSKY
An annual camp for the Jonathan Dayton Regional High School football team, normally coinciding with the first full week of practice, was cancelled by the Union County Regional Board of Education due to a "discrepancy" over proper compensation for the team's coaches during that period.

Run by the club's instructors at a YMHA Camping Center in Milford, Pa., the camp comes during a time when the team undergoes conditioning during "two-a-day" work sessions in preparation for the upcoming season. After initially approving the camp at a cost of $79.50 to each student, the board later rescinded its decision after learning that more money was being paid by the players.

Under rules established by the state Interscholastic Athletic Association, Sept. 1 is the official time for practice and contact to begin, but Mountain Valley Conference guidelines allow teams to start the last full week of August, school officials say. Since the regional district "traditionally for many, many years" has allowed practice to begin in harmony with MVC policy, explained regional superintendent Donald Merachnik, the coaches are paid from the time practice begins until the end of the season.

A source, however, who asked not to be identified, insists that coaches are not under contract until Sept. 1, thereby entitling them to extra compensation for running the camp since they are taking off "a week early" from their summer jobs.

Hearing slated

The Mountainside Borough Council will hold a public hearing Tuesday at 7 p.m. at the municipal building on Route 22 to give residents of the borough in the vicinity of Prospect Avenue an opportunity to be heard concerning the proposed installation of a sewer line on Prospect Avenue. An easement over Parkland is necessary and Green Acre regulations require a public hearing when parkland is involved.

School tests to be discussed

The Mountainside Board of Education will discuss the results of the District Wide Standardized Testing at its meeting Tuesday in the board of education building on Route 22 and New Providence Road, according to newly appointed spokesperson Sharon Katz.

Katz said parents are urged to attend the meeting which will be held at 8 p.m. She said administrators will be on hand to answer question and to give an indepth analysis of the scores and how they may be improved.

Highway design irks local officials

By MARK YABLONSKY
It is just after 6 p.m. on a Friday afternoon. As cars travel along the just-opened Route 78 interstate highway, the late afternoon sun seems to blend in well with the scenery heading east toward Union.

Close to the 78/24 interchange in Springfield, however, there is a noticeable height variation between the two opposing lanes. Not far from the Houdaille Quarry lays a grass median that slopes gradually, eventually situating the eastbound lane several feet above the westbound lane, without a guard rail or any kind of divider in between. That has some people worried.

Local police and first aid squads are fearful that a driver battling road fatigue who becomes drowsy can come too close to the median and take a downward tumble directly into the westbound lane. Two weeks ago such a mishap did occur, when the driver of a tractor-trailer lost consciousness and had his rig overturn before coming to rest on a ledge below. Police also worry that a driver traveling at a high speed — who may even have had too much to drink — can overrun the eastbound lane and become airborne, leading to an accident of catastrophic proportions on the westbound lane if another car should happen to be in the way.

Some nearby residents are voicing their displeasure with the Department of Transportation as a result.

"I don't think the DOT handled that properly," said Marc Marshall of Tree Top Drive, Springfield, who feels the stretch will become more dangerous during the winter months and also at night. "They should have placed some sort of center or retaining divider there. You will see more and more accidents at that spot. There is no center divider, meaning that anything coming eastbound is going to head into the westbound lane."

Theodore Fischer, however, the DOT's regional design engineer for northeastern New Jersey, says that a number of geometrical factors were taken into consideration for that particular section of the highway, including horizontal and vertical curves, as well as the elevation that is present. Designed to accommodate speeds up to 70 miles per hour, said Fischer, any vehicle "should be able to safely traverse that highway," considering the speed limit is only 55 mph.

"The reason that's done is to provide optimum safety for the vehicles operating at the posted speed limit," said Fischer. "The entire highway has been designed in accordance with interstate highway standards."

Fischer and other DOT officials contend that in order to avoid taking more land — and more homes — than necessary, certain sections of the highway were designed to accommodate the amount of space present.

For wider sections, he explained, a "clear zone" composed of grassy medians separates the two opposing directions, while concrete barriers are used in more restricted areas. Based on safety standards from the Federal Highway Administration, the clear zones, including those which are elevated, are safe.

"If we don't have a barrier there, it meets that criteria," Fischer said.

Another thing worrying local police and first aid squads is the smaller number of exits and entrances present on a highway that was designed with just that in mind, in order to increase safety to motorists.

In an attempt to provide proper jurisdiction for local authorities, the first aid squads and fire departments of Springfield, Summit and Berkeley Heights have temporarily arranged for the three towns to cover both directions of the highway in the event of an emergency. While Springfield will take responsibility for the westbound lane between the start of Route 24 and Glenside Avenue in Summit, Berkeley Heights will answer calls on the eastbound lane between Route 24 and Diamond Hill Road, where the highway ended coming east prior to completion of "the missing link." Summit, in the meantime, is considered to be more of a "floater," covering both directions, although the city will usually join with Springfield for coverage.

But in the event that an emergency is reported, another problem arises. Jeffrey Katz, a lieutenant with the Springfield Police Reserve, says when accidents are reported, they are usually reported by people unfamiliar with the territory. As such, an out-of-towner reporting a crash near the quarry won't know which jurisdiction to call. Unless the caller is local, explained Katz, responses will be "chaotic," since each of the three covering towns will try to respond without knowing exactly where the accident has occurred, something that happened in the case of the tractor-trailer overturn.

"So it's really up to us to help people out," said Katz, also a member of the Township Committee. "You want the right emergency services to be dispatched from the right jurisdiction, and you want that to happen as quickly as possible. Because the matter of a few seconds can save lives."

In particular, after a police turnaround in the westbound lane near the quarry, emergency vehicles cannot make another U-Turn until they reach the Diamond Hill Road exit four miles away. Although there is a chained black gate halfway in between, Katz says the state has indicated that the gate is to be closed. Even if it remains available to police, however, Katz believes the amount of time needed to stop, unlock the gate, travel through and then relock the gate still wastes precious time. Also, winter ice buildups render keys useless, he said.

"Turnarounds are a must," agrees John Westerfield, an officer with the Police Reserve. "God help anybody that gets caught in between. In the wintertime, I think we're gonna have a problem out there. I really do."

"If you get a truck fire out there, there's no hydrants," he added. "If you're talking a matter of minutes in saving a life, forget it. That's a long unlimited road access out there. God help anyone that breaks down out there."

"Whenever you start adding additional entrance points, you are increasing the possibility of an accident," argues Fischer. "You want to limit the amount of turnarounds as much as possible so as not to increase the possibility of further accidents because the vehicles are entering and exiting from the high-speed lanes. We felt that the facilities allowed for adequate response time for all the sections of the highway."

Katz feels that a centralized location enabling dispatchers to determine exactly where calls are being placed would help. A system of call-box locations along with the central dispatch location could effectively curtail the "chaotic" responses that exist now, he suggests. "After dark, the highway takes on a different setting, one that has Katz and Westerfield concerned even further. With the exception of the immediate area in and around the 24/78 interchange, there are no lights overhead. There are, however, numerous reflectors in the roadway that give nighttime drivers the feeling of being in "Star Wars," says Katz. When driving, both the reflectors and passing headlights appear to provide enough light to any driver. But when a car stalls and is on the shoulder of the road away from the reflectors, there is nothing but darkness.

Frank Cimonetti, the DOT's supervising construction engineer of I-78 through Union County, says critics of the project are forgetting that when its completion was in limbo, no one wanted additional land condemnation by the state. So in order to "mitigate" the amount of land taken through the reservation, says Cimonetti, there are fewer interchanges.

"There is no person that can serve two masters," he explained. "It's only been open two weeks. It's been a long, long time since we've opened anything this big in this area. I think local officials may be overly concerned. As they become more comfortable with the facility, many of these concerns may ease."

"The highway department feels they have the right road out there with all the conditions imposed on them," Cimonetti added. "But if the department feels there has to be something done out there, we'll address them."

LAST SWIM—Mountainside resident Richard Stillwell enjoyed a last dip in the borough's pool before the start of the new school year.

In the service

Airman First Class Scott Ehrenkranz, the grandson of Joseph and Jeanette Ehrenkranz of Hillside Avenue, Springfield, has been named the comptroller airman of the quarter for the U.S. Air Force Tactical Air Command. The announcement from the Command's Headquarters at Langley Air Force Base, Va., cited Ehrenkranz for his "superior performance of duty and significant contributions" toward achieving the command's goals.

Ehrenkranz enlisted in the Air Force following graduation from Boca Ciega High School in Gulfport, La. in 1985 and completed technical training at Sheppard Air Force Base in Texas.

He is currently assigned to Tyndall Air Force Base in Florida as a financial services specialist and military pay technician.

Air Force Maj. PAUL A. BAUER, son of Doris H. Bauer of 333 Timberline Road, Mountainside, has arrived for duty with the 374th Tactical Airlift Wing, Philippines. Bauer is deputy commander for resource management. His wife, Dorothea, is the daughter of Dr. J. Paul Günther of 10 Woods Hole Road, Cranford.

Diploma courses available

According to the State Department of Education, about 17 percent of New Jersey public school students who enter the ninth grade do not graduate.

For those who did not finish high school at the traditional time, the opportunity to earn a diploma exists at the Union County Regional Adult Learning Center. The adult high school program is based on course requirements established by the board of education. Preparation for the General Educational Development test is also offered. All programs are free.

"Many dropouts who learn about the importance of high school education after they have left school are taking advantage of out-of-school options available to them in local school districts," said Robert Di Patri, assistant commissioner in the State Department of Education's Division of Educational Programs.

"Although the State's goal is to have every student remain in school, complete all graduation requirements and receive a high school diploma, we maintain an educational commitment to those who drop out," he said.

The Adult Learning Center is located at the David Brearley Regional High School on Monroe Avenue in Kenilworth. The Center's hours are Monday-Friday from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. and Monday, Wednesday and Thursday evenings from 7 p.m.-9:30 p.m. For further information, call Carole Beris at 272-4480 pr 272-7580.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank LaMotta, she is a graduate of Jonathan Dayton Regional High School in Springfield.

A total of six students from Mountainside and Springfield are among 90,000 students included in the eighth annual edition of The National Dean's List just published by Educational Communications Inc., Lake Forest, Illinois.

Students are selected for this honor by their college deans or registrars and must be in the upper 10 percent of their class, on their school's dean's list, or have earned a comparable honor. More than 2,500 colleges and universities nationwide use the publication to recognize their academically qualified students.

Springfield residents include: Matthew J. Eick, a student at Virginia Poly Institute and State University, Kim K. Garglulo, a student at Fairleigh Dickinson University and Davy E. Zonerach, a student at Cornell University.

Mountainside residents include: John R. Enders, a student at Westminster Choir College, Daniel M. Harvitt, a student at the University of Rochester and Thomas M. Hobbib, a student at the United States Naval Academy.

Lynne Stummer of Forrest Hill Way, Mountainside, has been named to the Honor's List for the spring term at Fairleigh Dickinson University's Florham-Madison Campus.

Lynne, who is a fine arts major at the university, was given this honor because she earned the required grade point average of 3.5 or better for the semester.

Course sign-up slated

The Union County Regional Adult School has announced that registration for its fall 1986 semester for all courses offered in its four high schools is in progress. According to John Hutchinson, director of Adult and Continuing Education, brochures have been mailed to every resident in the regional district, and are available in many area banks, post offices and libraries.

In-person registration has been scheduled for Sept. 16, between 6 and 9 p.m., at the high school offering the course the registrant desires. Courses will be offered in nine different areas of interest, including career development, vocational and technical, the written and spoken word, special interest, health and recreation, music, around the home, arts and crafts, and just for fun. The brochure also describes how to arrange for free instruction in the Adult Learning Center, offering programs for adult high school, high school equivalency, adult basic education, and English as a second language.

Several new courses highlight this semester's offerings. Tours to Reading, West Point, Smithville and the South Street Seaport will be available this fall. Small engine repairs, French I and II, Gerontology (Aging and Issues about Aging), Birds of New Jersey, a Musical Salute to Lady Liberty, Curtain Call, Culinary Hearts Kitchen, Intermediate Calligraphy, Calendar and Memory Magic, and Numerology are also featured additions for the Fall 1986 Term, which promises to be one of the most exciting terms in recent memory.

Tips on protecting children

The Springfield Police Department is cautioning parents about the necessity of teaching youngsters how to deal with certain situations if they are left at home alone for any period of time.

An estimated five to 12 million children between the ages of 5 and 13 are regularly left alone for some part of the day. Leaving children alone always causes some anxiety, but knowing they are prepared to cope with situations that may arise will lessen the worry.

- As a parent:
 - Be sure your children know how to use the telephone — both pushbutton and dial models — to make local, long distance and emergency calls and to dial the operator.
 - Post emergency numbers near all the phones in your home.
 - Make sure your children lock the door after they arrive home and then check in with you or a trusted neighbor.

- Teach them to work the door and window locks in your home.
- Tell them what to do in case of fire.
- Tell them they are never to go anywhere with another adult, even one who says he or she was sent by you. Adopt a family "code word" to be used if a third party is ever to pick up your children.
- Teach them that if they ever feel they're being followed not to run home but to a store, public place, back to school, or to the nearest "Safe House."
- Teach your children never to get near or into a stranger's car, or to take a walk with a stranger who says he needs the children to "show" him something.
- Impress on them that you always want to be told if anything happens to them while they're away from you that makes them feel uneasy or uncomfortable. Children will sometimes phrase this as feeling "funny."

- Tell your children not to go into anyone's house or apartment without your permission and make sure you know the people who live in any home your child wants to visit.
- Get together with other parents and approach your school or a community group about starting an extended-day program. Look into starting a McGruff "Safe House" program in which neighborhood parents, grandparents or other adults are recruited to volunteer their homes to serve as temporary shelters for frightened or lost children. A special sign posted in the window of these homes tells children this is a place to go when they are confronted with a serious problem. Local law enforcement can help in setting up a sound and effective program.

The Crime Prevention Unit of the Springfield Police Department, 376-0400, has more information on how to protect children.

Man faces forgery and theft counts

Kenilworth police have charged a borough resident with two counts of forgery and one count of theft by deception.

The suspect, Michael A. Grigsby, who gave 232 N. 9th St., as his last known address, was charged in the alleged burglary of a second-floor apartment at that address. He is currently being held in the Union County Jail in Elizabeth on similar charges filed in that city.

According to the police report, Grigsby was observed on videotape cashing two checks, in $200 and $300 amounts, stolen from that address, and which he forged, at the City Federal Savings Bank branch in Kenilworth. Municipal Judge William Boffa set Grigsby's bail at $2,500.

Kenilworth Police Detective Robert Jeans said that he had also charged Grigsby on Aug. 27 for possession and receipt of stolen property stemming from a separate automobile theft on Aug. 21. Grigsby was being held at the jail after the Elizabeth police had also lodged burglary and theft charges against him.

Elizabeth resident Joseph DeSanti, 31, was arrested in the parking lot of Buffy's Tavern on Monroe Avenue and 8th Street by Officer Scott Phillips for possession of a controlled dangerous substance under 25 grams. Phillips said he observed DeSanti using the substance, which has been sent to a laboratory for analysis. Bail was set at $250.

On Monday, there was a burglary and theft from a North 20th Street residence. Phillips responded, and determined that there had been a forced entry through the front door of the residence and that the bedroom had been ransacked, according to police.

A radar detector was taken on Sunday from a car belonging to a

Hyde Park, N.Y. resident, which was parked at the Holiday Inn parking lot in Kenilworth. The passenger window was smashed to gain entry, police said.

Fires were slashed Saturday, at an estimated $260 cost, on a vehicle belonging to a Union resident, and parked near the intersection of Washington Avenue and 20th Street.

Officer Richard Wood responded to the call.

A Commonwealth Road residence was broken into on Aug. 28, according to another report, which said that when the owners returned home, they apparently scared the suspects who fled. Jeans said Officer Daniel Rica reported that nothing seemed to be missing.

Pressure testing tomorrow

The Mountainside Board of Health will conduct a free blood pressure and diabetes screening tomorrow from 9 to 11 a.m. in the courtroom of the borough's municipal building on Route 22.

The department says those who should be screened include persons who are 35 years of age or older, anyone who is not under a physician's care for high blood pressure and those persons who have a family-history of high blood pressure.

The board also recommends that anyone who has not had a blood pressure test in over a year and those persons who have stopped taking blood pressure medication, without their physician's approval, be screened.

According to the board, early detection and treatment of high blood pressure can enable a person to lead a normal life. They emphasize that the test takes only a few minutes.

Cote named 'All-American'

The United States Achievement Academy announced recently that Gregory Cote of Mountainside was named a Collegiate Academic All-American. Cote, who attends Lehigh University, will have his name listed in the Academic All-American Collegiate Directory, which is published nationally.

The USSA established the Academic All-American Collegiate Award Program in order to offer deserved recognition to superior students who excel in the academic disciplines. The Academy selects honorees upon the exclusive recommendations of professors, instructors, deans, and other qualified sponsors.

Cote is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Nick Arena of Fernhill Road in Springfield, and Mr. and Mrs. Gerard Cote of Quebec, Canada.

Lady of Lourdes begins school year

The 1986-1987 school year for Our Lady of Lourdes School began yesterday.

a.m. and kindergarten 8:45 a.m. to 11:30 p.m. full-day session.

A welcome coffee will be held in the school auditorium for parents of new children in the school at 9 a.m. on Monday.

On Sept. 9 Back-to-School Night will be held at 7 p.m.

High-speed chase ends in arrests

Police arrested a 25-year-old Plainfield man on charges of operating a stolen car and several other motor vehicle charges after a high speed chase Aug. 26 which began on Route 22 east Mountainside and continued through Springfield, Union and Hillside where the suspect lost control of the vehicle and crashed into the center divider.

Police said Alfred Smith, a passenger, Roy Brodie of Freehold, were arrested after the chase ended with the suspects' auto crashing into the divider and a Hillside police car.

According to the police report, the vehicle was first observed in the left lane of the roadway where a check revealed the license plates on the 1985 Pontiac Firebird were registered for a 1977 Chrysler.

At this point, police said, the patrolmen turned on their emergency lights and attempted to apprehend the suspect. The suspects' auto pulled into the right lane and began to slow down.

Police said the vehicle's driver increased the speed up to 70 miles per hour as the chase continued through Springfield and that a county alert was issued for additional patrol units to join the pursuit.

The suspects' vehicle speed increased, they said, as it approached Michigan Avenue in Union.

Hillside police reportedly joined the chase in the vicinity of Bloy

Street and continued to follow the suspects' auto for approximately a half mile at which time the suspect lost control of the auto.

The report states that the Mountainside patrol car skidded to avoid colliding with the two vehicles.

Smith, who is being held on $10,000 bail in the Union County jail, Elizabeth, was issued five charges in addition to the operating of a stolen vehicle charge, according to police. The suspect was charged with eluding patrol car, operating an unregistered vehicle, driving while unlicensed and driving on the suspended list.

Brodie, police said, was released after both suspects were taken to Mountainside Police headquarters.

Editorial

Not again!

Here we go again. It's called political squabbling. Last week, the newly-created Union County Utilities Authority, which will ultimately oversee the development of the planned Union County Resource Recovery Plant, selected Republican Freeholder James Fulcomer as its chairman over the favorite, Joseph Hartnett, the Rahway business administrator, one of only two Democrats on the nine-member authority.

Hartnett was recommended to head the board by Republican Freeholder Chairman Paul O'Keefe and was the clear choice of the City of Rahway.

The city had made a deal with the county administration prior to establishment of the authority that two Rahway residents would be appointed to the board, with Hartnett serving as chairman.

But the freeholders, voting along party lines, named Fulcomer.

What appears, then, to have happened is that politics entered the picture.

Now the Democratically-controlled city of Rahway says it will notify the state that the location of the multimillion-dollar resource recovery plant is at an "impasse." Their reasoning is that Fulcomer's appointment was "a deal breaker."

Considering that the freeholder board has a history of political bickering, it should come as no surprise that a body it creates behaves the same way.

Resource Recovery is needed now. If Rahway was promised certain concessions for accepting the planned facility, then those commitments should be met. On the other hand, is it absolutely necessary for Rahway to add even more fuel to the fire by threatening to scrap the project? Do two wrongs make a right?

We urge everyone to start growing up and acting like the adults they are supposed to be. New Jersey will, within the next two years, probably be out of room to dump its garbage. Every day the project is delayed adds more uncertainty to a crisis that should have been addressed many years ago.

And that's no garbage.

Letters to the editor

Viglianti accepts offer to write column

I would like to thank you for the publishing of my letter to the editor and the invitation to be author of a guest column. I would be more than pleased to undertake the writing of the column and would like to start, if this meets with your approval, in the Sept. 25, 1986 issue. What I have in mind is to present to you by the third Thursday of every month an article to be run in the fourth Thursday edition of the Echo.

In the column I would like to cover areas of concern, offer an update on council projects and mention items of general interest that are not of a political nature. Perhaps I will also give a general view of council philosophy on certain important matters.

I would appreciate your letting me know the amount of space I can use and if there are any additional stipulations or procedures I should follow.

ROBERT F. VIGLIANTI
Council President
Borough of Mountainside

Reader supports Councilman Viglianti

Not being intimate with the facts, but based on your Page 4, Aug 21, which I assume is to give both sides airing, I agree with Councilman Viglianti. I don't have a particular contention with the Echo; however, in general, all forms of media are notorious in misinforming, poor informing and the slanting of news; albeit, in the midst of its negatives, some good comes out of the media in spite of it.

The public must read, listen and watch as much variety as possible to develop sound conclusions, and be reasonably informed.

On the bright side

A final look at a favorite vacation spot

By GERI DIGESU

On this last day of our Cape Cod vacation, I wanted to spend time at one of my favorite spots — the Mill Pond in Brewster. My two sons protested vehemently. One envisioned a final day of stalking females; the other, roused from sleep under great protest, proclaimed he wanted to soak up the sun and listen to "heavy metal." City boys are not attuned to "bugs and all that nature stuff you like, Ma." But, good mother that I am, I insisted we spend this day as a family. Only Nancy, 11, was happy. A spider spinning a web fascinates her, too.

Once there, the kids disappeared. My husband Rod and I walked by the mill, and the atmosphere immediately changed the tempo of our day. Shifting light and shadow, birds calling to each other, fish splashing to the surface in search of a fat bug — we had entered another world.

Soon Rod was talking with a young teen from Minnesota vacationing with his family who fished daily from their ancient wooden fishing boat. His knowledge of salt and fresh water fishing techniques was exceptional. I felt sorry for my husband as he listened to the boy relate his feelings or boredom over the large number of blues he had landed in Wellfleet Harbor. Rod is still trying to catch his first one. We had debated returning to the Cape next year for vacation but now I was sure we would be back, now we knew where the fish were and how to catch them.

I sat down on a stone wall to inhale my surroundings. Pale sunshine filtered through cobwebs, spotlighting captive insects, twisted leaves and a few gull feathers caught in the spider's trap. Lily pads bursting with delicate white flowers moved gently in the water. Tangled vines hung from branches around me and provided a refuge where I could be totally alone.

Schools of small herring circled the pond as if on a merry-go-round. Their parents seemed to be herding the youngsters faster and faster and reminded me of cowboys rounding up their cattle. Groups of fish were forced over the spillway and started downstream on their trip to the sea.

A catfish and his sister — prehistoric-looking fish with evil eyes, whiskers and a nasty look — surfaced to trap some herring in the weeds next to me and snatch them up for lunch. A water bug, his body set high on long legs, skimmed the surface of the pond, imagining himself a hydrofoil. Beetles skittered around in circles like a child's wind-up-toy. Next to me a spotted bug splashed down onto the surface, a seaplane making an abrupt landing.

Bass, sunnies, pickerel and perch swam in harmony. Two eels oozed from beneath a patch of weeds, gliding toward the opposite bank. My skin prickled as I watched a water snake slither across the mirror surface.

I heard a rustle behind me and discovered Chris, my heavy metal fan, groping in the water for a large mussel to use for bait. "Hey, look," he yelled. "There's a big frog right by the bridge." Kevin raced over to join him and I chuckled as I watched my two nature haters trying to catch the large bullfrog.

After much maneuvering, they were able to prod the frog gently, but he leaped beneath the bridge, out of reach. My meticulous husband, clad in white shirt and shorts, plopped down full length onto the wooden logs. Moments later, he jumped up — a huge grin on his face, and the bullfrog in his hand.

"Quick, get the camera," he ordered. "This is the only marine life I've landed in two weeks." The kids laughed, surprised at their father's quick reflexes. The frog rested a few moments, gave us a long, disgusted look and took a gigantic leap into the water.

Chris captured a large turtle which was sunning itself on a rock. Apparently used to intruders, the turtle showed no fear and blinked at us complacently. The boys talked about taking him back to the lake behind our home but I suggested we leave him there with his family. Chris set him back in the water and in a few moments his family did appear.

A huge turtle, probably dad, swam gently along the surface, followed by three offspring. "Look at this little one," squealed Nancy, pointing to the tiniest member of the family who slid off the bank and swam to catch up. The kids stared at me, impressed with my knowledge of turtle family habits.

Too quickly, it was time to leave. We had been here only a few short hours and had experienced just a tiny sample of the wonders of this pond community. I imagined the joy of being able to spend a year here. To experience the changing of the seasons, to hear the hums and cries, to smell, to feel the new rhythm of each day — to be.

State of recycling

Shopping and recycling are connected

By MARY T. SHEIL

Not all consumers associate shopping at their local supermarket with addressing New Jersey's solid waste management problems. But a connection does exist between the two.

The link originates with the waste disposal crisis that the state is experiencing. Landfill space is at a premium and trash disposal costs have increased up to 800 percent in some communities.

Recycling is an effective way to reduce the millions of tons of trash that New Jersey residents generate annually, thereby extending the lives of landfills that are nearing their capacity. Through their purchasing habits, informed shoppers can contribute to this important conservation effort when they:

- Buy products packaged in recycled materials, namely paperboard.

- Buy products packaged in materials that can easily be recycled, like glass and aluminum.

- Buy products manufactured from recycled materials. This approach to shopping is encouraged by the New Jersey Departments of Energy and Environmental Protection, Office of Recycling.

"Buying recycled" enables individuals to make an important contribution towards reducing the state's solid waste dilemma. Consumer awareness today consists of more than knowing just the contents of the products we buy. Where the environment is concerned, the packaging of a product is equally important.

More than 30 leading national manufacturers, retailers and supermarket chains — Kellogg's, Miles Labs, General Foods and ShopRite housebrands among them — currently use recycled paperboard for packaging more than 2,000 products. Take a look inside the box the next time you purchase products such as detergent, pasta, toothpaste, breakfast cereal, pet foods, dry soups, cake mixes and a host of others. If the interior of the package is gray, it's manufactured from recycled paperboard.

Perhaps the most familiar exterior element identifying packaging produced from recycled fibers is the recycling symbol, which many national brand manufacturers now incorporate on appropriate recycled products and packaging. The symbol consists of three arrows connected in a never-ending cycle, representing the three phases of recycling:

- Collection of raw materials.

- Conversion to new products and packaging.

- Consumer recognition of the role recycling plays in society.

More familiar to consumers is recyclable packaging, such as aluminum cans, glass bottles and paper. These materials can be separated from the waste stream and recycled to create new packaging and other products.

Glass, for example, may be used to manufacture fiberglass insulation as well as containers. And some companies use waste paper fibers to manufacture building materials such as wall board, roofing and siding.

A variety of products made from recycled materials are commonly found on grocery store shelves. For example, tissue and towel manufacturers use high grade paper to produce napkins, facial tissue and paper towels.

For information about products packaged, respectively, in glass, aluminum and recycled paperboard, write to:

Information about recycling in your area is available by contacting your local county recycling coordinator or the New Jersey Departments of Energy and Environmental Protection, 101 Commerce St., Newark, 07102, 648-6295.

The New Jersey recycling coordinator in Union County is Joan Buhrendorf, Recycling Coordinator, Union County Environmental Resource Center, 300 North Ave., East Westfield, New Jersey 07080 654-4499.

PROMISES—Township Committeeman Jeffrey Katz and Committee candidate Howard Massler hold up last week's edition of the Springfield Leader that said Union County is no longer interested in using the former Houdaille Quarry as a landfill site. Katz and Massler said the Board of Chosen Freeholders had made that promise to them earlier.

On the campaign trail

GOP candidates begin drive

Council President Anthony Montuori, Dennis Schultz and Councilman Frank Ferrara, the Republican candidates for the Kenilworth Borough Council cited the accomplishments of the present Republican majority on the borough council in their opening statement of their campaign.

Council President Montuori stated that the majority on council has succeeded in settling the lawsuit against the Senior Citizens Center, hired a new architect, awarded the contract for the construction of the building, and secured $50,000 in state funds for the construction of the building.

Schultz added, "I have been impressed by the Republican 'can do' spirit that, in spite of the obstructive attitude of Councilwoman Phyllis Baldacchini and the mayor, has succeeded in getting the Senior Citizen project started and in adding a measure of professionalism to the operations of the borough government."

Ferrara stated, "The Republican candidates remain steadfastly opposed to any efforts to change the residential nature of our town. Kenilworth is a community made up primarily of single family homes and we pledge ourselves to resist any effort to change years ago the Planning Board recommended re-zoning areas of our town for multiple-family dwellings, and considering the fact that all planning board members are appointed solely by the mayor, he must bear the responsibility for such recommendations. We will fight any efforts to implement such recommendations.

The three candidates added that they will work together with other members of the governing body to continue what the Republican majority has started — "building pride in Kenilworth."

Katz, Massler cite 'success'

Springfield Republican Township Committee Jeffrey Katz and Republican candidate for Township Committee, Howard Massler, have celebrated their successful effort in getting the freeholders to help stop a garbage dump from being placed in Springfield.

"The Springfield Leader headline of Aug. 28," said Massler, "proves that we got everything we wanted at our Aug. 7 meeting with the freeholder majority. In addition, we also won a commitment from the freeholders that no amphitheater will be built on county land without Springfield's consent."

"We are delighted," Township Committee Candidate Stanley Fink said, "With the courageous stance taken by our Republican majority on the county Board of Freeholders. With the assistance of our Republican Township Committee members, we are following through with the Republican state legislators."

Committeeman Jeffrey Katz explained that, "Having won the battle at the County level, we are following through with our state legislature to better protect Springfield's interests. A meeting has been scheduled with Senator Lou Bassano, General Assembly Speaker Chuck Hardwick, and Assemblyman Peter Genova to consult with them on issues of immediate concern to the community.

Subsequent meetings," Katz continued, "Will include all interested members of the Township Committee and interested citizen groups, such as SCOPE."

Genova bill supports suburban aid

Assemblyman Peter J. Genova (R-21) is supporting legislation which has been introduced in both the Assembly and Senate which will provide $172,903 to the Township of Springfield in state suburban aid.

"Assembly A-867 and Senate S-132 would establish a $40 million suburban aid program throughout the state, the same amount that is currently allocated for urban aid programs," the Assemblyman said.

Genova continued, "To qualify for the additional aid, a municipality would have to meet three criteria; a population density in excess of 1600 persons per square mile, a senior citizen population which exceeds 10 percent of the total population and a crime rate which exceeds 25 crimes per 1000 people."

"These bills would help our suburban municipalities address their concerns on crime and over-extended local government services without having to continually seek hefty tax increases. Crime and high property taxes are not limited to the big cities and I believe the state should take an active role to help our suburban communities meet their needs in the areas of police and fire protection, as well as with municipal service," Genova concluded.

field, on October 10, 11, and 12.

Highlighting the best of the old and the new, the show will feature a collection of antique woodworking tools and machinery, a complete cabinet shop display and operation, and special seminars for which attendees must register in advance.

Force Machinery will also display a full line of tools and machinery its distributes to industry, contractors, homeowners and hobbyists.

Show proceeds to hospital

The "force" is with Children's Specialized Hospital: Force Machinery, of Union, is sponsoring its third annual woodworking exposition this fall, and, for the first time, Children's Specialized Hospital of Mountainside, will be receiving a portion of the proceeds.

The event is titled "Woodworking: Tools of the Trade: Exposition '86" and will be held at the Westfield Armory, Rahway Avenue, West-

Assemblywoman elected to post

Assemblywoman Maureen Ogden has been elected northeastern vice president of the 1,800-member National Republican Legislators Association.

The NRLA, founded in 1976, provides a forum for interstate communication and the exchange of ideas among elected republican legislators throughout the country. It also provides staff support and research services.

Ogden was elected during the group's annual meeting in New Orleans earlier this month. During the convention, Ogden held a reception for Maureen Reagan.

New Jersey Assembly Speaker Chuck Hardwick said Ogden "is the perfect choice" for the leadership post. "Maureen, as a fulltime legislator, has the time and the energy to help strengthen the NRLA and to become an excellent resource for her Republican colleagues in the state legislature."

NOT RESPONSIBLE FOR TYPOGRAPHICAL ERRORS

Schering files labeling suit

Schering Corporation of Kenilworth recently filed suits against manufacturers of generic drugs in three states to enjoin them from selling their products with labels that simulate Schering's packaging and graphics.

Schering fled the suits to protect its "Afrin" nasal decongestant spray, its "Clor-Trimeton" and "Polaramine" antihistamines, and its "Tinactin" athlete's foot remedy. Schering's suit against Life Laboratories, Inc. of Sun Valley, Calif., involves the simulation of the packaging colors and graphics of Schering's "Afrin" and "Tinactin" products. This suit was filed in the U.S. District Court for the Northern District of California in San Francisco.

The suit against MY-K Laboratories, Inc., also involves the label colors and graphics of "Afrin". In addition, this suit charges Bay/MY-K with infringing Schering's trademark "Polaramine" by the use of the trademark Baylaramine for a directly competitive product. The suit against Bay was filed in the U.S. District Court of Illinois, Rockford Division, in Rockford, Ill.

Schering's third suit, against Certified Pharmaceutical Laboratories of Largo, Fla., and Jewett Drug Co., Inc., of Aberdeen, S.D., involves the simulation of the packaging colors and graphics of Schering's "Clor-Trimeton". It was filed in the U.S. District Court for the Middle District of Florida in Tampa.

Schering is seeking permanent injunctions prohibiting the defendants from continuing to supply their products with packaging that simulates Schering's trademarks, and from otherwise unfairly competing with Schering. The complaints also seek treble damages, the recovery of the defendants' profits from the sale of the products in question, and awards of attorney's fees and legal expenses.

The filing of these suits follows recent consent judgments obtained by Schering against various defendants for label simulation, trademark infringement, false and misleading advertising, and other acts of unfair competition.

Among the defendants who have signed consent judgments in Schering's continuing campaign to protect "Chlor-Trimeton", "Afrin", "Tinactin" and its "Fibre Trim" diet aid product are Thompson Medical Co., Inc. of New York City; Vita-Fresh Vitamin Co., Inc., of Garden Grove, Calif.; Sharpe Nutritionals Co., Inc. of Melville, N.Y.; Fiske Industries, Inc., of New York City, N.Y.; Great Life Laboratories of Westford; NMC Laboratories of Glendale, N.Y.; L. Perrigo Co. of Allegan, Mich.; Newton Pharmaceuticals Inc. of Bohemia, N.Y.; Pennex Products Co., Inc. of Verona, Pa.; Gentek Corporation of Cincinnati, Ohio; and Simpax Corporation of Seattle, Wash.

Schering, a subsidiary of Schering-Plough Corporation of Madison said that it intends to continue its efforts to enforce its property rights and expects to file additional suits against manufacturers of products whose packaging simulates the trade dress of its products, whose trademarks infringe upon the rights of Schering, or who engage in misleading labeling or false advertising.

Emergency health service offered

Overlook Hospital, through Overlook Management Corporation, is offering a new home health care service.

Home-bound patients of all ages, whether recovering from illness or injury or handicapped can now be protected at home by the Personal Emergency Response System.

For more than a decade, this professionally-staffed computerized monitoring system has been providing around-the-clock medical emergency alert service to thousands of patients in their homes.

The Personal Emergency Response System is a completely confidential and customized instant alert service consisting of a tiny transmitter carried by the patient. It can be worn as a pendant, on a belt or carried in a pocket for immediate access in case of any type of emergency.

When pressed, this transmitter signals a table-top control unit, also placed in the home, which passes the signal through the client's telephone lines to the response center. This activates the client's individualized file, which contains necessary medical data, address, name of physician, hospital and local emergency response agencies. The information also contains the names of people who should be called during an emergency. At the center, specially-trained operators make voice contact with the home to verify the emergency and to personally reassure the client that help is on the way and that the appropriate people have been contacted.

The Personal Emergency Response System can protect the patient in the home and bring an extra measure of peace of mind to those caring for him or her. This service is available through Overlook Management Corporation with offices at Overlook Hospital in Summit. This service is transferable and can be taken from house to house and from state to state. Anyone who may benefit from such a home health care service may subscribe; a physician's prescription is not required.

For further information and subscription, please call Overlook Management Corporation's 24-hour answering service at (201) 852-2602.

Foundation, local cite Lemmerman

Isadore "Zip" Lemmerman of Springfield, long-time supporter of Deborah Hospital Foundation, will be honored at this year's Annual Testimonial Dinner Dance jointly sponsored by the Food Industry and Butchers' Union, Local 174, U.F.C.W.

The event will be held Oct. 18 at the Sheraton Centre in New York. All proceeds will benefit the Foundation which helps fund the world famous Deborah Heart and Lung Center.

Lemmerman is senior vice president of Pathmark Supermarkets and served in the United States Air Force during World War II.

"Mr. Lemmerman has distinguished himself through his hard work on behalf of Deborah throughout the food industry," explained the dinner committee in a statement issued by General Chairmen Sidney Cohen and Robert H. Wilson.

His behind the scenes efforts for Deborah include working on other dinners and promoting the philanthropic hospital throughout the food industry.

Deborah treats adults with heart or lung disease and children with heart disease without cost to the patient or family, thanks to the success of events like the Food Industry and Allied Trades Dinner Dance and other volunteer programs sponsored by the Deborah Hospital Foundation.

He was born and raised in Irvington, and presently lives with Kay, his wife, in Springfield. He has worked more than 50 years in the retail food industry, joining Pathmark in 1968.

Firm raises hospital funds

A recent fund-raising car wash conducted by employees of Westwood Computer Corp., Springfield, for Children's Specialized Hospital raised $1,046.

The car wash will become an annual event, according to Lisa Sickinger, a Westwood Computer employee who voluntarily organized and carried out the event with help of several friends.

WHYZ "Z-100," a New York based rock and roll radio station, helped publicize the event. The location and use of water was donated by Westwood Computer Corporation, the printing of publicity posters was donated by Charlie Collette of C.M.C. Printing, and high pressure car washing devices were donated by K.E.W. Hobby.

Sickinger said that she was inspired to put on the car wash out of appreciation for the treatment a 15-year-old friend received at Children's Specialized Hospital as a patient.

All of the money raised will go toward medical equipment for Children's Specialized Hospital.

College will train volunteers

The Friend/Advocate Program, which trains volunteers to provide assistance and support to the frail and vulnerable elderly in Union County, will conduct its third training course this month at Union County College.

The potential Friend/Advocate volunteers receive training in the physical, social and emotional needs of the elderly; federal, state and municipal programs, services and benefits, and problem-solving and advocacy techniques for securing resources.

Volunteers call and visit the elderly client once a week for one to two hours to check on well-being, to explore and obtain available services in the community, to assist with decision making, mail reading and budgeting and to arrange medical care and transportation. Volunteers receive continuing support from the Friend/Advocate Program staff and additional training and encouragement through monthly volunteer team meetings.

The one-year-old Friend/Advocate Program has trained more than 30 volunteers, who through advocacy and friendship, can ease isolation of a senior citizen and provide a vital link to the services offered by the community. "I'm proud to be a Volunteer Friend/Advocate to my client," a volunteer summarized her experience with the program.

The training course is sponsored by the Community Health Law Project together with Union County College Continuing Education Department. It will be held on the Cranford campus on Sept. 22 and 29, from 6:30 to 9 p.m. At the completion of the training, each participant will receive a certificate and 5 continuing education units (CEUs).

Those interested in becoming a Friend/Advocate volunteer can call Kaarina Prideaux at 355-8282 or write the Friend/Advocate Program, Community Health Law Project, 60 Prince St., Elizabeth, N.J., 07208.

The Friend/Advocate Program is funded through a block grant by the Union County Division on Aging with a supplemental match from the Junior League of Summit and is sponsored by the Community Health Law Project, a non-profit legal and social advocacy organization.

KEAN COLLEGE OF NEW JERSEY

Officer appointed

Dr. Fred L. Steinbaum, director of oncology at Memorial General Hospital, Union, recently was appointed field liaison officer of the Commission of Cancer for MGH by the American College of Surgeons.

The American College of Surgeons is a certifying board for surgical specialists, which has a broad interest in cancer diagnosis and treatment and the dissemination of cancer-related knowledge among physicians.

As field liaison, Steinbaum will be responsible for maintaining an approved cancer program at MGH with a multidisciplinary team that includes physicians, nurses, social workers and administrators to audit and keep accurate medical records. The program also involves regularly-scheduled meetings of the Tumor Board, Tumor Registry and Cancer Committee.

In addition, Dr. Steinbaum will be responsible for supervising a cancer teaching program and various cancer conferences as well as for creating an information network between MGH, the state legislature, the local division of the American Cancer Society and the College of Surgeons.

"This appointment means a great deal in terms of recognition for Memorial General Hospital and highlights the achievements of our Oncology Center," Dr. Steinbaum said. "At Memorial General, we offer the latest medical services for our cancer patients along with an intimate, individualized treatment that isn't found in larger hospitals."

The MGH Oncology Center is designed to evaluate and treat oncologic diseases on an individual and outpatient basis. The center is affiliated through other hospitals with the Community Clinical Oncology program. This allows the center direct information from the National Cancer Institute in Washington and utilization of research protocols in the appropriate setting so that patients will benefit from the latest in cancer diagnosis and therapy.

Complementing the center is the MGH Hospice program, a volunteer service, which provides counseling and support to cancer patients as well as serving as a resource center for physicians and hospital medical staff.

"Memorial General Hospital is at the forefront of cancer treatment in New Jersey," Dr. Steinbaum said. "We are in a unique situation of being able to combine a small hospital setting, which provides intimate contact between our patients and staff, with the expertise seen only at major cancer centers. In this way we are able to provide our patients with the best of both worlds."

A blood drive at Autoland

Autoland, located at 170 Route 22 East in Springfield, will hold a community blood drive today. Co-sponsored by the Red Cross and New Jersey Blood Services, the drive will be open to the public from 1 p.m. to 6 p.m. at the store.

According to Janet Dannehower, drive chairman, the blood drive is being held to bolster blood supplies in local hospitals.

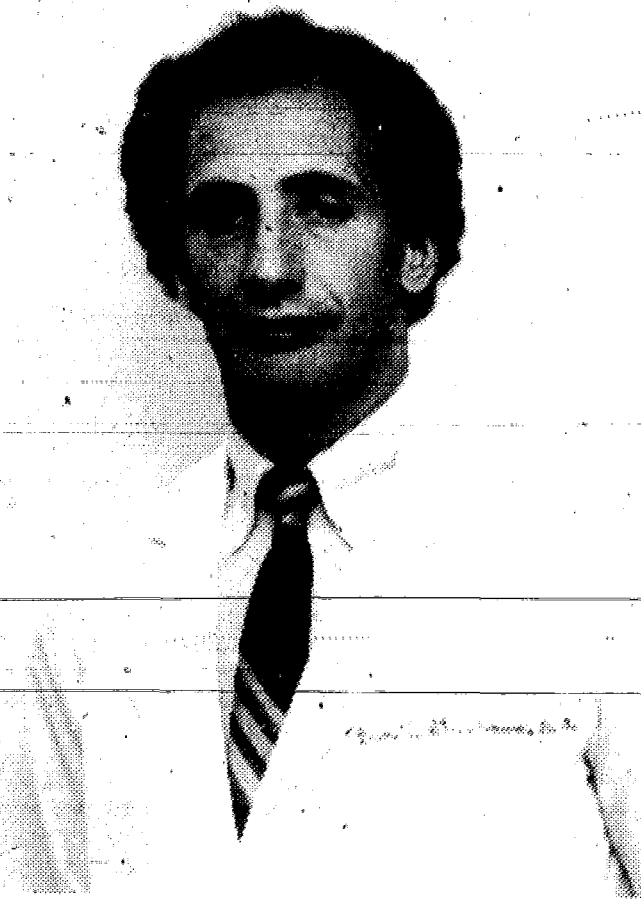

"Last year, we had a really good response. When we heard that there was such a need for blood this year, we decided to hold another," said Dannehower.

Needed year 'round donations are "traditionally" low during the summer and holiday periods. "This is due to the large number of regular donors being away on vacation or participating in the increased leisure activities of summer. This year, however, has been an unusually critical time for blood donations. Community members are urged to donate at the Autoland drive to help insure that blood will be available

"Anyone between the ages of 17 and 66, weighing at least 110 pounds and in good health, can donate blood. Seventeen-year-olds require the written consent of parent or guardian. Donors over the age of 17, must have donated previously, be in good health and meet the medical requirements of a New Jersey Blood Service physician."

Further information can be obtained by calling 828-9101.

Center seeks aides

The Union County Rape Crisis Center, a program under the Division of Planning, Department of Human Services, is seeking volunteers to assist in providing various community services offered by the center, located at 300 North Ave., East, Westfield, according to Sandra Flack, center director.

The service opportunities available to volunteers include providing a staff for the 24-hour crisis hotline, 233-RAPE, which fields hundreds of calls each year, offering in-person crisis intervention and support to victims of six crimes, and providing invaluable information to clubs and organizations throughout the county, as part of the Center's Speakers Bureau.

The Union County Rape Crisis Center was established in June 1984 to meet the needs of sexual assault victims, female and male, adults and children. The goal of the center is to provide a support network of free and confidential services including free counseling for victims, their friends and families. In June 1986, the center received the 1986 National Association of Counties Achievement Award, for excellence of programming in meeting a need within the community.

It was announced that anyone wishing to volunteer receives 40 hours of free intensive training in sex crimes intervention. Upon completion of training the volunteer is certified to work for the center.

The next training session will be held on Sept. 22, 29 and 30, Oct. 2, 6, 7, 9, and 14 from 6:30 to 10 p.m., at the Westfield location. One can call the center at 233-RAPE, 8 a.m. to 4 p.m., Monday through Friday, to schedule an appointment for an interview and to complete an application.

A safe walk to school

Will your child be one of the 84,000 entering school for the first time this fall?

The New Jersey State Safety Council urges parents whose children will be walking to and from school to see to it that their children are taught how to get there promptly and safely.

The council makes the following recommendations:

Children should be taught how to recognize standard traffic signals and how to obey them. If special pedestrian signals are used, they should understand these too.

Parents should make sure their youngsters know the way to school. Walk through the route with them several times before school starts or for the first few days of school.

Many schools have student patrols at street intersections. Children should understand that the patrols are there to help them and should follow the directions of the patrol.

Streets should be crossed only at marked crosswalks or at intersections in line with sidewalks. Impress upon children that cars cannot stop immediately, so they must look right and left for oncoming cars, and check for turning traffic.

Don't run across the street, a fast walk is better. Go directly to the opposite side without stopping to call or to talk with friends.

Freeholders request work opportunities

"We Republicans want more private sector employment opportunities for the people of Union County," said Freeholder candidate Janet Whitman of Summit recently in a joint statement with her runningmates, Freeholder Chairman Paul O'Keefe of Plainfield and Freeholder candidate Edmund Palmieri of Elizabeth.

"The efforts of President Ronald Reagan, Gov. Thomas Kean, our Republican freeholders under Chairman O'Keefe's leadership, and our runningmate, Congressman Matthew J. Rinaldo, have been impressive in increasing the jobs and economic opportunities in the private sector of our Union County economy, but we intend to do even more in our efforts to utilize every appropriate part of county government to attract even more private sector jobs for Union County," said Palmieri.

Chairman O'Keefe said that through the county's economic development corporation, outstanding programs have been developed to attract and keep business and industry in Union County. He said that through this corporation additional private sector jobs can be developed with freeholder support.

Whitman said that the county community block grant revenue committee has been successful in improving the appearance of many commercial districts to bring more business and jobs to Union County. She said that the Republicans will continue this key program to encourage more growth in the commercial districts of the county.

Palmieri commended the positive economic contributions of Union County College, Union County Vocational School, the county Industrial Pollution Control Financing Authority, the Transportation Advisory Committee, the Labor Advisory Board, the Employment Services and Training Division of the county and the Private Industry Council. He also commended the Union County Handicapped Advisory Board for promoting job opportunities for handicapped citizens.

"By cutting the county manager's budget by 2.6 million dollars this year, we also have helped to keep Union County's taxes much lower than those of neighboring counties that are controlled by Democrats. We believe that the maintenance of our relatively low county taxes is another factor in attracting business to our county," said Freeholder Chairman O'Keefe.

Finally, we believe that county government should cooperate with the chambers of commerce throughout our county to make Union County more prosperous," concluded Chairman O'Keefe.

Book sale planned

A "One For the Books" book sale, featuring more than 50,000 used books will be held Sunday to Sept. 14 at the Cabana Club, 609 Eagle Rock Ave., West Orange, from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. daily.

The sale, an annual event of the Essex Chapter of Brandeis University National Women's Committee, is one of 60 throughout the country. In 29 years the sales have raised $25 million "to develop the fine libraries and to support the scholarship program" at Brandeis University in Waltham, Mass.

Thousands of book-lovers from far and wide are drawn every year to the sale to find the fiction they want, the texts and the collectors' items they are hunting for all at bargain prices and all in good condition, it was announced.

Hard-cover and paperback books from romances to biography, from science fiction to history, from children's books to cook books, are piled high on tables marked for each category. "Thousands of beautifully-illustrated new, special edition books including hundreds of beautiful children's books are included." Sheet music and recordings also are available.

Admission is free at all times except at the Pre-Vue on Sunday from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m., when there is a $3 fee.

The Cabana Club is east of Pleasant Valley Way, at the rear of the Atrium Restaurant (Exit 7 off Rt. 280).

Goldie Stern of West Orange and Sylvia Baron of Short Hills are the co-chairmen.

LEGALLY SPEAKING

by JOEL I. RACHMIEL ATTORNEY AT LAW
Former Ass't. Union County Prosecutor (1973-1979)

An Essex County jury has awarded $85,000 in compensatory and punitive damages to a Livingston couple for the wife's FALSE ARREST and MALICIOUS PROSECUTION on a shoplifting complaint. The judgment was entered against Bloomingdale's at the Short Hills Mall and its security officer for the false arrest which occurred as the woman was being assisted by a salesman in attempting to color-match accessories to two coats she had previously purchased elsewhere and brought to the fashion department for that purpose. The security officer refused to speak with the salesman and later claimed he could not locate him for the municipal court trial at which the customer was acquitted of the charge. The salesman was eventually discovered during the ensuing civil litigation and testified on behalf of the woman at the trial. (This writer represented the plaintiffs in the civil suit.)

State Council to offer grants

The New Jersey State Council on the Arts Department of State (NJSCA) has announced $10,269,304 will be available in fiscal year 1987 grants to artists and cultural organizations.

This figure includes $9,583,304 in matching grants awarded to 176 arts organizations. In addition, $686,000 in fellowships was awarded to 112 New Jersey artists and $1,446,545 in artistic focus awards also were announced.

The four artistic focus recipients are New Jersey Symphony Orchestra, Newark, $800,000; McCarter Theater, Princeton, $273,105; New Jersey Chamber Music Society, Montclair, $88,440, and Paper Mill Playhouse, Millburn, $285,000.

According to NJSCA chairman Margaret Hager Hart, "State Legislative funding of the arts this year reached a record total of $12.7 million, a 46 percent increase over last year's appropriation. Because of Gov. Kean's personal interest and the State Legislature's long-standing support, New Jersey has become a national leader in state support of the arts."

Also on the increase was a 53 percent rise in fellowship awards to $686,000. Based on the policy and planning committee's recommendation, the grants committee recommended that the artistic standard be raised and the level of individual fellowship awards be increased to $10,000, $8,000 and $5,000.

The Council also agreed to hold up to $500,000 for the Southern New Jersey Arts Initiative. In addition, $630,000 was allocated for special agency cultural programs, including such projects as the New Jersey Arts Annual, the Summer Parks program, an arts tourism project, continuation of the Development and Touring Grants, and other agency-sponsored programs. The remaining Council appropriation is earmarked to match federal grants received by NJSCA, to cover approved appeal requests, and to implement special agency-sponsored cultural projects.

For the first time organizations receiving the highest evaluations from the grants review panel were honored as "1987 Distinguished Artistic Award" recipients. Twenty-one cultural organizations received the distinction.

The organizations are American Boychoir School, Princeton, $80,000; Danmari, Limited, Montclair, $10,000; Hoboken Chamber Orchestra, $25,000; Hudson West Productions, Inc., Hoboken, $20,000; Hunterdon Art Center, Clinton, $50,000; Inner City Ensemble Theater and Dance, Paterson, $75,000; Jersey City Museum, $36,000; June Opera Festival, Lawrenceville, $107,000; McCarter

Elected to serve as officers and trustees 1986-1987 are Dr. Allan Renkoff, president; Marc Hilton, vice president; Dr. Henry Kaplowitz, vice president; Roberta Krasner, vice president; Samuel J. Lerner, treasurer; Murray Rudnick financial secretary, and Gloria Malkin, secretary. Theater, Princeton, $673,105; Montclair Art Museum, $125,000; Newark Community School of the Arts, $191,000; Newark Public Radio WBGO-FM $60,000; New Jersey Ballet, West Orange, $195,000; New Jersey Symphony, Newark, $1,690,000; Oakeside Bloomfield Cultural Center-Black Maria Film Festival, Bloomfield, $30,000; Paper Mill Playhouse, Millburn, $510,000; Printmaking Council of New Jersey, Somerville, $19,800; Rutgers University Robeson Center Gallery, Newark, $39,450; Unity Concerts, Montclair, $55,000; Westminster Choir College, Princeton, $50,000 and Whole Theater, Montclair, $150,000.

Six fellowship grantees also were recognized as 1987 "Distinguished Artists," each receiving $10,000. "In an effort to simplify the grants process next year, arts organizations will be able to make one application and request funding for all of our programs such as General Operating Support or Special Projects, Touring Arts, Development, Major Impact Status and Artistic Focus," says NJSCA executive director Jeffrey A. Kesper. "These new guidelines will address the varying needs of arts organizations and will allow the Council to evaluate the organization in a more holistic manner. The application will be available at the end of next month."

CHILD CARE YOU CAN TRUST

The Cranford Child Care Center is a new facility, designed to meet the growing need for quality child care in the Cranford area. The center emerged as a result of concern among some members of the Cranford Alliance Church who saw the lack of child care in the area. The concerned few soon became a larger team of people with expertise in areas such as early childhood education, finance, and marketing. More than just a group of well-meaning church folks, these professionals developed plans and goals for the child care center. Immediately, the entire church joined the cause, contributing prayers, money and good old-fashioned hard work. The results of this cooperative effort are impressive. But what sets the Cranford Child Care Center apart from the average facility.

1) A QUALIFIED AND EXPERIENCED STAFF—Director Margaret Crane and her skilled staff have many years of experience in early childhood education and day care. They have state certification and extensive training, including college coursework, but more importantly, they possess the expertise that comes only with real-life teaching experience.

2) SUPERIOR FACILITIES—Modern, spacious rooms are equipped with the best furniture and materials that money can buy. When it comes to providing for your children, cutting corners is not an option. And the unique playground is the kind you won't find in most centers.

3) A WELL-PLANNED CURRICULUM—The Cranford Child Care Center program is not a baby-sitting service. It is a carefully designed mix of fun and learning, to meet the many needs of a growing child. It combines the newest in schooling with the oldest of values. And it's not too serious to recognize a child's need to play.

Operating hours of the Cranford Child Care Center are Monday through Friday, 7 AM to 6 PM. Enrollment is limited to children 2½ to 5 years old. The center is designed primarily with the working parent in mind. Located within walking distance of the Cranford railroad station and the center of town, the facility offers convenience to busy families. If you'd like more information or an appointment to visit the center, please call 276-8689 or 276-1617.

A laundry service that does it all

One of the conveniences of going to a shopping mall is having a variety of stores under one roof to save the time that usually gets eaten up running from place to place.

Ron Feigen had a similar idea in mind when he opened up Magie Hill Cleaning Center. Only this time it was a shopping mall for servicing your clothes.

For just over a year, Magie Hill has provided every conceivable clothing service under one roof. Patrons of the store can wash and dry their laundry, have their suits and fancy dresses dry cleaned, get their shoes repaired and, while they're there, even have their clothes altered.

"I perceived the need for a service, not just a cleaning store and not just a laundramat," Feigen said. "I saw the need to put everything under one roof."

So far, it seems the idea has paid off as Feigen stated business is going well. And one of the reasons behind Magie Hill's success is that, when it comes to clothes, Feigen provides anything you can possibly need.

"We offer self-service washing and drying as well as a valet service, where the customer drops off their laundry and we wash it for them."

He further explained the valet service, while a bit more expensive than doing it yourself, is ideal for customers who work and simply don't have the time to do load after load.

"We do it during the day and they can pick it up at night," Feigen noted. "It's very convenient."

Another reason for the good business is that Magie Hill is open from 7 a.m. to 10 p.m. all week long, and with five employees, there's always an attendant around to help a customer.

As far as machines go, Feigen said he has very few problems when it comes to breakdowns or maintenance because the washers and dryers are reliable and so is the staff.

"All our machines are Maytags," he explained. And if there is a problem the attendants are all trained to fix it."

Feigen added he plans to replace the machines every five to seven years to keep the equipment modern and avoid breakdowns that come from aging parts.

Feigen is no stranger to the clothing business being an former executive in the garment industry and he realized his rather novel idea just might entice a steady patronage.

"It's a relatively unique idea," Feigen stated. "Certainly, there's not much like it in the area. It seemed like a good idea to try and it's working."

And once the word gets around that there's a place where you can get your pants cleaned and altered at the waist all at the same time, people are bound to flock in. Feigen attributes much of his business to reputation and word of mouth.

"We're tucked away on the corner of the block and not very easy to see," Feigen explained. "I'd say a good part of our customers heard about us from regulars."

So, if your shoe heel comes loose while tripping on a step, spilling coffee on your shirt and ripping your pants, all during your lunch break. Ron Feigen may be just the man you want to see.

Magie Hill is located at 1331 Magie Hill Ave., Union, at the intersection of Galloping Hill Road.

Rec League results

The following are the results of the final week of regular season games in the Linden Recreation Department softball league.

FINAL REGULAR SEASON GAMES

Hurricanes 5 Venice 1
Eddie Mitjans singled to drive home Bernie Kordeksi, who had doubled, in the third inning to break a 1-1 tie. The 'Canes' went on to score two more runs that inning and took a 4-1 lead. The lead proved to be insurmountable.

Kordelski went three-for-three, and Artie Capone tripled for the winners.

UCAC 8 Gary's 7
UCAC struck for five runs in the bottom of the sixth to overcome a 5-3 deficit. John Byrne's sacrifice fly produced the go-ahead run. UCAC then held off a last inning Gary's rally to squeeze past Gary's 8-7.

B and B 10 Creanzo 4
Bruce Milos, Bob Sojka, Ray West, and Andy Ortiz each had three hits, and Gary Bachelli and Jeff Gerhardt drove in two runs apiece to lead B and B to victory. B and B rallied to score eight of their runs in the final three innings.

Apollo 7 Aces 1
After being locked in a tight 2-1 contest through four innings, Apollo struck for a five-run fifth inning to rock the Aces 7-1.

Les Kellaway crashed a homer, and had two other hits. Other offensive stars included Jim Fossetta, who had three hits, and Ken LeBouef and Bob Deckert who had two hits apiece.

Apollo hurler Rudy Bender won his ninth game, and played "gold glove" defense.

K of C 6 Linwood 2
Tom Siano and Matt Pagano combined to limit Linwood to two runs and six hits. George Dooley and Vince Small paced the winner's attack with two hits each.

After falling behind 2-0, K of C scored four times in the fourth inning, and added two insurance runs in the sixth.

NJBS 6 Reliable Tire 4
Phil Fink's sacrifice fly sent NJBS ahead for good in the fourth inning.

Slovak Club 17 Meat City 7
Home runs by Luke Metz and Joe Zaneski highlighted the Slovak Club's 28-hit attack. George Virick, John Smith, and Dave Sanford all tripled.

Electric Kielbasa 2 Jednota 1
Kevin Murphy finished the regular season by pitching a five-hitter to win his 19th game.

RBI-hits by Andy Messina and Steve Blazousky in the bottom of the first gave E.K. a 2-0 lead, which held up.

American Cyanamid 12 Razorbacks 5
Cyanamid launched their 12-run,

20-hit attack with a five-run first inning. Dave Aucoin had four hits, including a homer, and drove in three runs to lead the Cyanamid attack.

Other leading offensive contributors included Bob Walpole, Mike Grossman, Val Augugliado, and Rich Allman.

T and H 9 Manny's 5
Turtles and Hughes saw their 4-1 lead evaporate in the sixth as Manny's took a 5-4 lead in the top of that inning, but struck back for five runs in the bottom of that frame.

Dennis Keefe and Dean Esposito homered, and Russ Bailey tripled for the winners.

Chris Kazmac and Mike Esposito also had big days at the plate for T and H, and Bill Simo pitched a nine-hitter for the winners.

It was Turtles and Hughes' 16th straight victory.

Blue Hairs 7 VFW 3
After fighting VFW to a draw in

'regulation seven' play, the Blue Hairs oriented for four runs in the eighth inning to gain a 7-3 win.

Jim Hickman had a double and two singles, and Dan Dmidzik hit a triple and a single for the winners.

Eighth Ward Outlaws 6 Body Craft 5

Gerry McIntyre tripled in the seventh to drive home Kevin Scott with the game-winning run, and pitcher Wayne Clanton went the distance without walking a batter.

Mark Rebetje played errorless defense—league statistician's were still still checking records to see if Rebetje had accomplished this feat before, at press time.

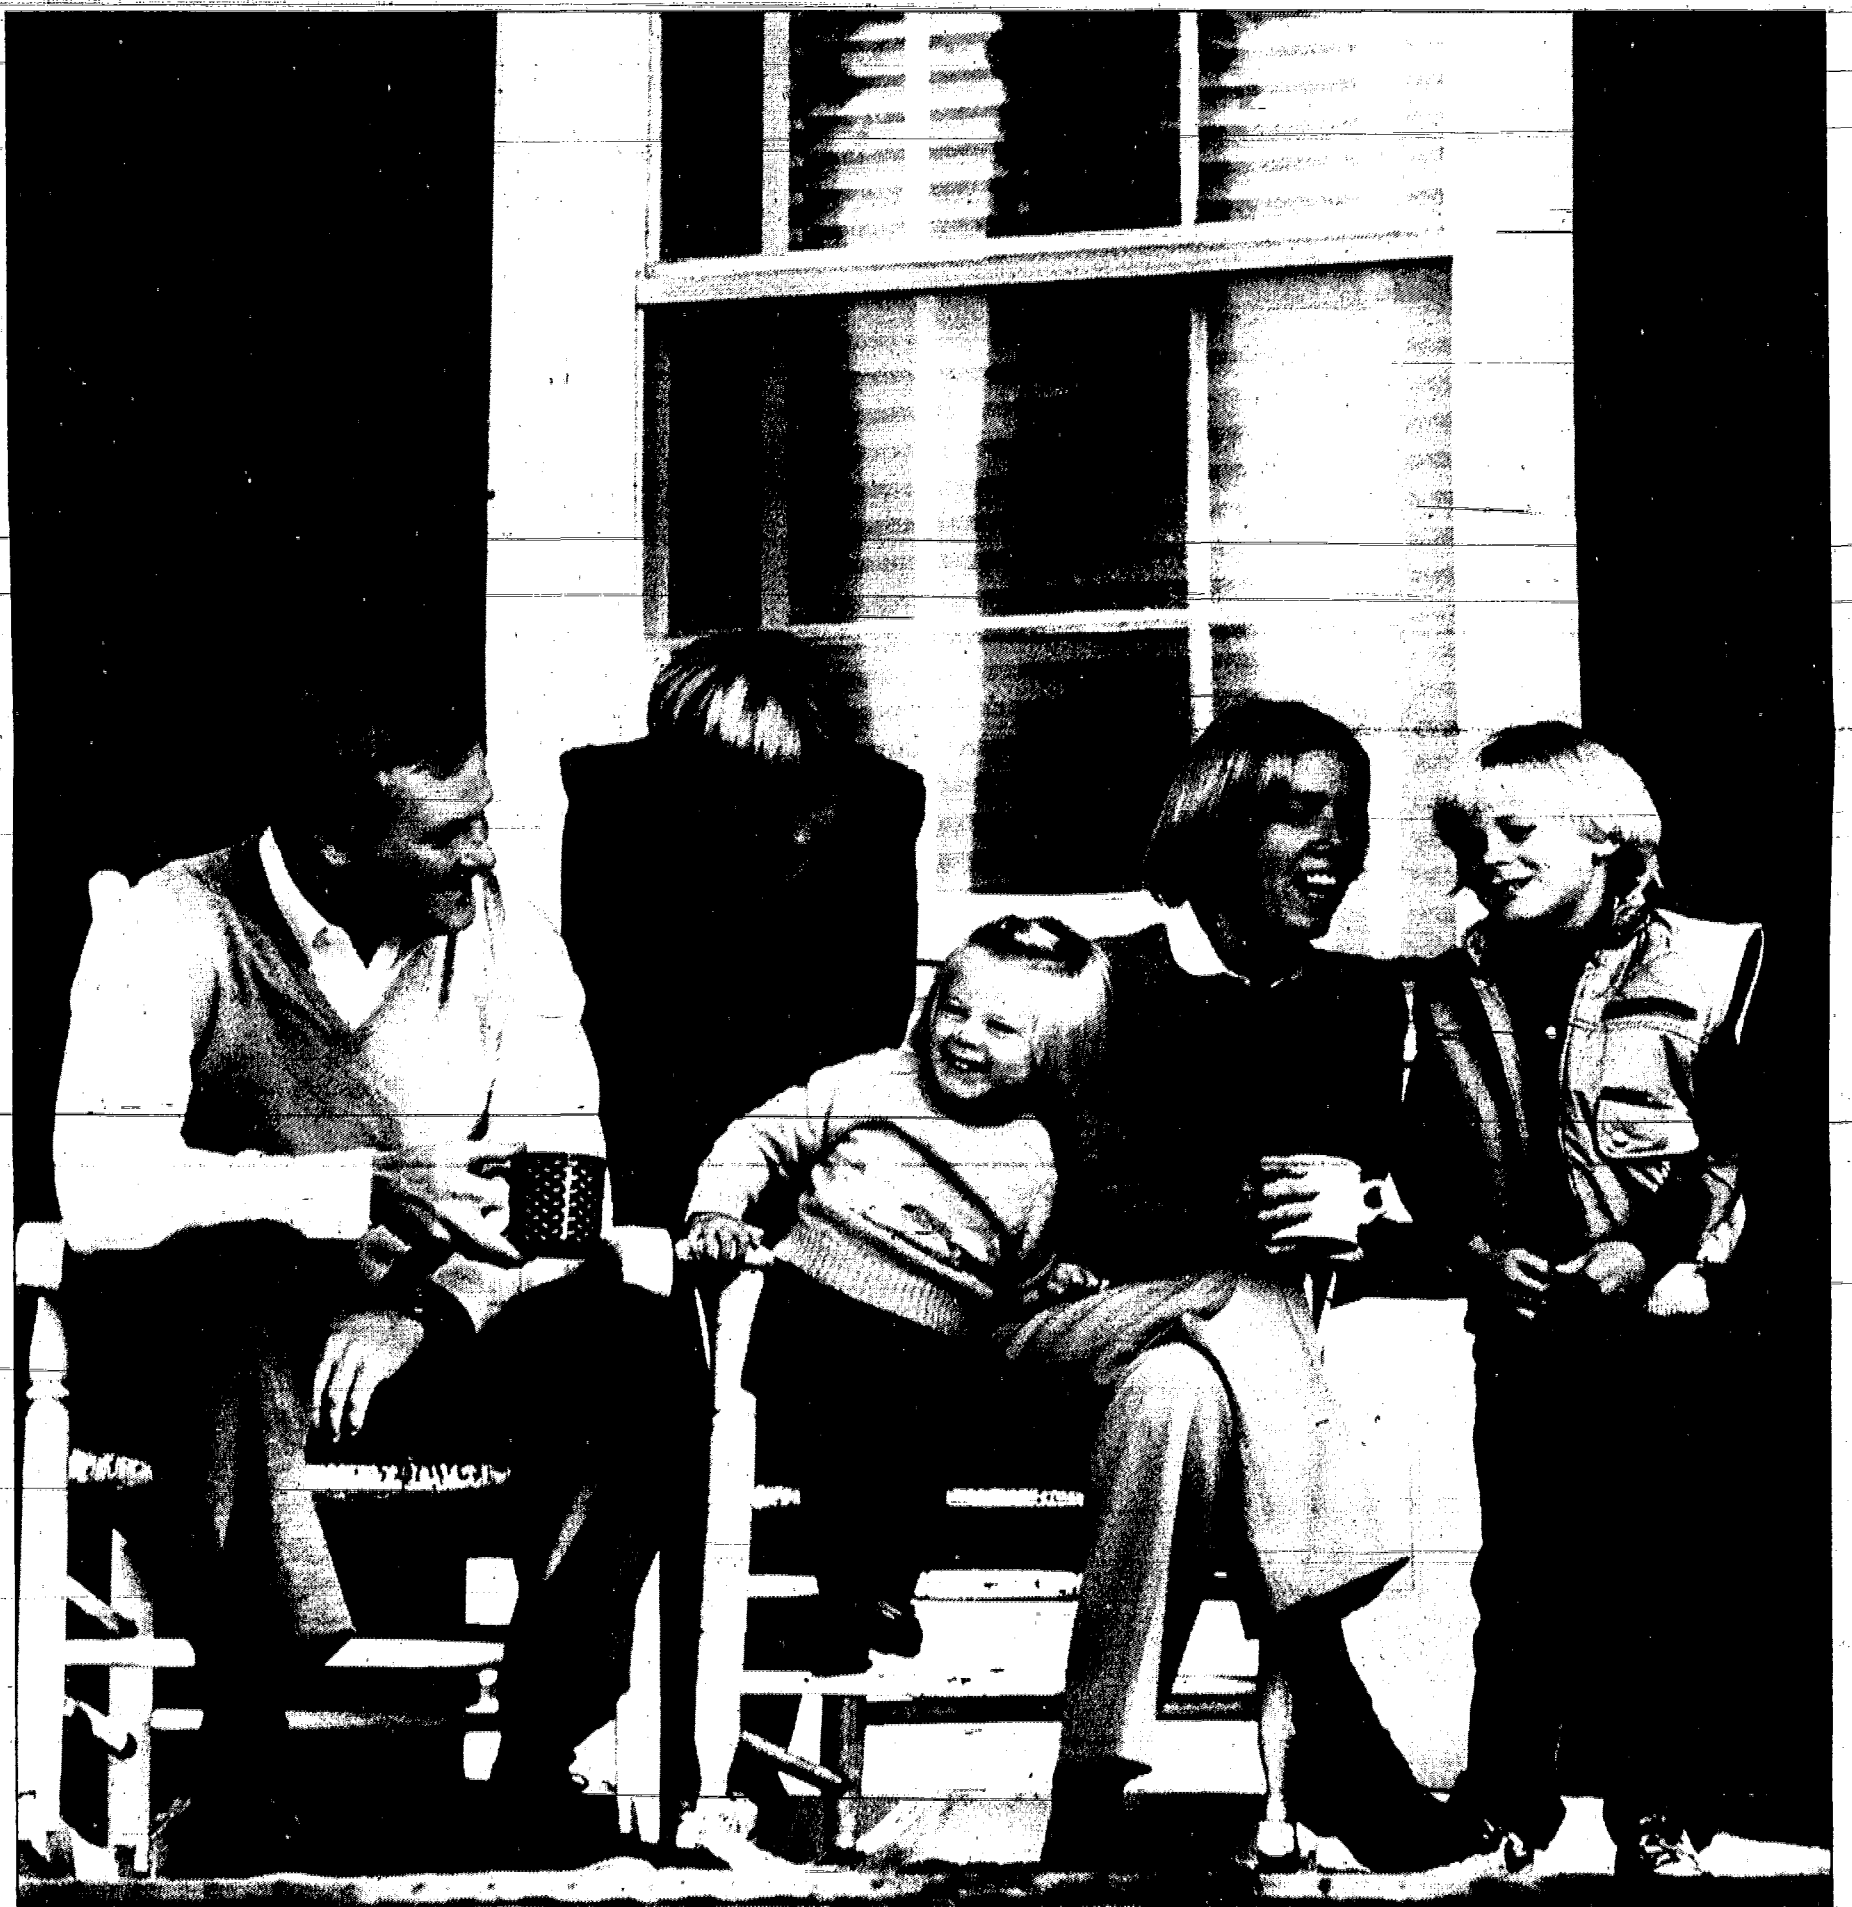

Jednota 8 Razorbacks 7

Jednota emerged as the winner of a see-saw battle with the Razorbacks. Gene Braun's fifth inning single brought home the winning run.

Andy Beno hit a pair of doubles, and Mike Weber smshed a two-bagger for Jednota.

Blood drive slated today

Autoland in Springfield will be sponsor a blood drive today. The majority of Autoland's staff will donate blood. The public is urged to attend. The blood shortage is a tremendous problem, said Janet Dannehower, 467-6177, who has additional information on the driver, sponsored by the Red Cross.

The Hansons just bought a great new house. Here's how.

Finding their dream house was easy. But the Hansons were afraid getting a mortgage would be a nightmare.

Until they came to the Howard and sat with their Howard banker.

First they explored all of the mortgage loan options the Howard has available.

- Fixed-rate mortgages with terms from 15 to 30 years for maximum stability.

- One and three-year Adjustable Rate Mortgages that take full advantage of current market rates.

- Bi-weekly mortgages that can save over 40% in interest payments over the life of the loan.

Then, with the help of their Howard banker, they selected the plan that made the most sense for them.

Like the Hansons, you can count on the Howard to be your bank for life. Because we understand the needs and concerns of home buyers today, and the hopes and desires that will come tomorrow.

We're the Howard. Your bank for life. Come to the Howard office nearest you and build your future with our help. Or call our Customer Service Center at 1-800-4-HOWARD.
