

Society prepares for Titanic 'reunion'

Editor's note: This is the second of a two-part series on the Titanic.

By MARK HAVILAND

Next April, it will be 75 years since the Titanic sank after striking an iceberg in the North Atlantic; but unlike many such disasters, the passage of time has done little to diminish the avid interest of many people throughout the world in the doomed ship and its lasting legacy.

The Titanic Historical Society, which has 3,000 members worldwide and is based in Springfield, Mass., was formed in 1963 as an outlet for the fascination with the Titanic and it will hold a convention in April 1987 in Philadelphia, as it does every five years, to bring together the thousands of Society members.

Planning for that convention is already taking up the time of New Jersey resident Charles A. Haas, who has served as president of the Titanic Historical Society since 1980, and a member of that organization since 1973. Haas lives and works in the Morris County community of Randolph, where he is a high school English ' teacher.

Haas has been busy this year on two books about the Titanic. He is the co-author, with the Society's historian John P. Eaton, of "The Titanic — Triumph and Tragedy: A Chronicle in Words and Pictures," which will be published in November by W.W. Norton. The book will be profusely illustrated and will run more than 300 pages.

Haas said in a recent interview that he and Eaton had set about trying to put together a "photographic record" of the liner. They had envisioned about 350 pictures, but then stumbled onto large quantities of photographs by combing sources in this country and overseas, and wound up with over 850 pictures.

"It's more than just a photographic book, it's a publication of many fascinating details," he explained.

The 'all-encompassing'' book studies the Titanic from the moment of construction to the sinking and rescue. Although information on the 1985 discovery of the Titanic's final resting site by Dr. Robert Ballard of the Woods Hole Oceanographic Institute in a combined American-French expedition is included in the book slated for November publication. This year's exploration of the wreck, where two submersible vessels, one manned and one a robot, probed the wreck up close, happened too late for inclusion in the book.

The latter expedition will be included in a second paperback book, due out in March 1987 Haas said will be "popular treatment" of the Titanic legend. "Titanic: Destination Disaster" has been selected by Patrick Stephens Ltd., a British publisher. Haas and Eaton are still two authors in search of an American publisher though.

Haas is hopeful that "The paperback is something that might pique readers' interest so they turn around and buy the first book."

The author previewed some of the facts that will be included in the November hardcover. "The Titanic: Triumph and Tragedy" will include information for the first time in any book on the role of the city of Halifax, Scotland, where many of the victims of the disaster are buried.

"The most pernicious legend is that the Titanic is a treasure ship," Haas said. "Many of the myths are not encapsulated in previous books, they're part of the aura, the legend, that surrounds the Titanic."

He explained that they had obtained copies of official documents which revealed the ship's cargo to be auto parts and dressmakers' goods, essentially "commercial grade_stuff." In the ship's "strong room," where valuables were kept were 12 cases of opium for medicinal purposes.

'Many of the first class passengers had never checked their valuables with the purser," Haas explained, adding that the wealthy usually had their servants guard their valuables.

Haas said there was pretty solid evidence that the Titanic was not the only ship in the area at the time of the sinking, and that Ballard had revealed last year that the liner was actually five miles south and east of the officially recorded distress position.

The book also includes updated information on the "Californian," a smaller passenger liner which has been portrayed as negligent for not responding to the Titanic's distress rockets. Haas said the rockets that were fired did not match the usual appearance of distress signals.

"The 'Californian' was a scapegoat, particularly for the British Board of Trade, which had done nothing for 18 years to update its lifeboat regulations," Haas charged. "The Titanic and the Californian were more than 20 miles away, not five miles as originally claimed."

"We believe there was another ship directly between The Titanic and the Californian," Haas said.

The massive passenger liner had 2,200 passengers on its first and only voyage, but had lifeboat space for only half those passengers, following lifeboat regulations set in the 1890s. Haas estimated that since many lifeboats were launched only partially filled, that there were 500 wasted and unused seats.

"There were 500 people who died for absolutely no reason," Haas exclaimed. "Some of the first boats that were sent away were empty because there were no signs of danger."

"There was no skimping even in terms of lifeboats," he continued. "She actually had more lifeboats than the law required at the time."

Haas added that Eaton and he served as consultants to the National Geograpic Society and will be featured in an upcoming television special they're doing on the Titanic. The magazine had profiled last year's expedition in its December issue and will do so again in its January 1987 issue.

The author said he would have liked to accompany the two expeditions, but was unable due to his books. Haas said he had a chance to look at many of the pictures from the two expeditions.

"I'm looking forward to a time when historians and scholars can completely avail themselves of that material," Haas said.

"The goal of the Titanic Historical Society is mainly to disseminate information about the ship, and her people, and the company that owned her, and the people who built her," Haas said.

"We are aware of about 15 to 20 survivors, and we would suspect there are five to ten more;" Haas said. "There are still some survivors who would find discussion of the Titanic very painful...and that is understandable."

"Other survivors feel they have a unique perspective on history," Haas added, explaining that at the last convention of the Society in 1982, there were five survivors present.

"I've actually met nine survivors, and the one thing that hits you immediately about them is that they have an electrical energy about them, an enthusiasm about life; and strong loving and caring feelings for others. They are very independent people." Haas explained.

One survivor, who died last year at the age of 101, the author said, was still driving on California freeways at the age of 97 or 98. Another survivor is an 87-year-old scuba driver and an ardent fan of the California Angels baseball team; she attends all of their home games and looks like she is about 60, Haas said.

The Society publishes a quarterly journal which is distributed to all of its members. Artifacts and archives of the Society are maintained at the Philadelphia Marittime Museum. The artifacts are preserved under special environmental conditions, Haas said, and include a (Continued on page 2)

Titanic deck chair, a piece of carpeting, and a life jacket belonging to Mrs. John Jacob Astor.

"Another objective of the Society is trying to sort out legitimate artifacts from fraudulent ones," Haas explained. "A few years ago, we discovered a life ring that proved to be about as phony as a $9 bill."

Last year, the Society learned that an entrepreneur was going to auction off what he maintained was an authentic Titanic lifeboat in Atlantic City:

An Edison resident who is a member of the Society went to the auction armed with the sizes and specifications of the Titanic's lifeboats, and determined the item was fraudulent. When confronted, the entrepreneur revealed that the boat was actually a movie prop from the film of Walter Lord's book, "A Night to Remember."

Haas discussed some of the plans that have been made to raise the wreck from its resting spot 12,500 feet below sea level. Some of the more wild ideas put forth have included encasing the liner in ice and filling it with ping pong balls. The latest proposal to raise the ship has been put forth by a Texas wildcat oilman named Jack Grimm, and Haas said the Society is very worried about the idea.

"If that expedition occurs, we will be absolutely innundated with phony Titanic artifacts and a lot of people will end up wasting their money," Haas said, who said it would be difficult to prove the falsity of the items.

'The Titanic is at the very least a symbolic cemetery," Haas said. "How would Grimm react if we unearthed his ancestors?"

"There are still survivors, and survivors" descendants, who would be greatly anguished," he explained. "What would be the purpose? Photographic records of the ship should suffice."

"How do you deal with the survivors?" Haas asked. "How do you say to them I have a piece of the Titanic in the trophy room?"

Haas said the ship was the best that 1912 technology could build, and that even the modern "Queen Elizabeth II" would be in danger if she suffered the damage the Titanic did. "Everything about her was the best that money could buy," Haas said.

Haas said there are two "alleged survivors" in New Jersey, sisters who live in Paterson and Bayonne. The problem with positive confirmation of their claim, the author said, was that their maiden name does not appear on the passenger list, although the ship's clerk may have had problems with the spelling of some immigrants' names. There are many members of the Society in the state - at least 100, Haas said.

He explained that there is a Titanic memorial bill that passed the U.S. House of Representatives, but there has been no action on it yet in the Senate. The bill calls upon all maritime. nations to also respect the Titanic, and not to salvage any of the artifacts in the wreck.

"The only thing that is really going to protect the Titanic from treasure hunters is public opinion," Haas said.

Of course: golf art is on display

"Of Course: Golf Art" links a range of artistic strokes now through Oct. 4 at Swain Galeries, 703 Watchung Ave., Plainfield.

The group exhibition lines up. abstract to representational paintings,~ bronzes, soft sculptures, graphics and a stained glass of Bobby Jones. Some are turn-of-the-century pieces, other are contemporary interpretations of the sport which was developed in 'the Scottish Highlands in the 15th Century.

'Of course: Golf Art'' curated by Bill Goff, founder and former director of New York's Spectrum Fine Arts Gallery, notable for a decade as a showcase for sports art.

Golf mounted a similar exhibit near the Shinnecock Hills Country Club during the U.S. Open in Southhampton, L.I. in June, Among_the fairways and greens depicted at Swain's exhibit will be Baltusrol in Springfield, Augusta, Doral, Pebble Beach and Shinnecock.

The stained glass of Bobby Jones by Hy Bley teams up with such works as "Teeing Off," an oil by William Feldman, who is a librarian at the Brooklyn Museum, and six pieces by surrealist Donald Moss, whose illustrations have appeared in Sports Illustrated. Also at the fore are "4th at Baltusrol" by Teresa Fasolino, oils by British artist Clifford Smith, cast bronzes by Dan Hill and soft sculpture paintings of Byron. Nelson and Ben Hogan by Leslie Kuter.

Starting time is 8 p.m. for the opening reception on Sept. 8. Spectators can view "Of Course: Golf Art" on weekdays, 9:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. and Saturdays to 5 p.m. Additional information can be obtained by calling 756-1707.

'PAR BREAKER'-Cast bronze by Dan Hill is on display at Swain Galleries, Plainfield, now through Oct. 4 in an exhibition called 'Of Course: Golf Art.'

'Talisman' is a 'dizzying' experience

By BEA SMITH

When Berkley Publishing Co. in New York City decided last year to reprint, by arrangement with Viking Penguin, Inc., "The Talisman," the unique and terrifying novel by Stephen King and Peter Straub, the choice was an excellent one. In the first place, the cover is striking with its reds and oranges against a black background; in the second place, the print on all 765 pages is easier on the eyes, and in the third place, readers. such as I, who read and were fascinated by the original novel, published in 1984 by G. P. Putnam's Sons, can now purchase and re-read the sensational text brought forth the nightmarish dreams. from twisted ideas and wondrous thoughts of the masterminds of King and Straub.

"The Talisman" is an absolute work of art unlike anything this reviewer has ever read. It conjures up a world of insanity in a world of sane people, and it offers solutions to the basic problems of humanity and its quest for peace of mind, of spirit, and Straub's solutions are too far ` over the rainbow for any human to reach.

Still, the two authors, who complement each other in their collaboration, are not deterred by the obstacles involved in reaching the utopia of their creations. In fact, when they began writing diligently, King admitted that after reading chunks of the book, he couldn't tell whether or not he was the author of some of it, and what was written by King and what was written by Straub. They begin their book with a simple story line and a normal perhaps too normal - situation. But King is known for his simple starters in most of his novels and short stories.

Does he think he can fool his readers? Certainly.

For fans of Mark Twain's "Huckleberry Finn" and "Tom Sawyer." both authors quote liberally from Twain's two works at the beginning and end of their book, of life. The problem is that King's ---- "The Talisman." In fact, they begin with a 12-year-old boy, Jack Sawyer, who is brought, first to an elaborate apartment in Central Park West in New York City, and then to a rundown hotel, Alhambra Inn, in a tiny, empty and lonely seacoast of Arcadia Beach in New Hampshire, It seems his mother, an aging, dying

On the shelf

star of B-movies, has left Los Angeles to travel east to die. Lily Cavanaugh Sawyer, whose beauty is being dissipated with each passing day, each martini and each cigarette, finds solace in the over-. whelming love of her son.

And through an eerie series of events, young Jack is given an opportunity to save not only his mother, but the world itself, by finding a talisman, the Golden Fleece, a sort of magic fiery-burning diamond-like piece, and bringing it to her. He must walk back to the west, more than 3,000 miles from where he is, and he is given a year in which to do it.

His adventures are frequently crippled by an enemy of his mother's, himself, the world, a man named Morgan Sloat, a greedy business partner. Initially, Jack is assisted by a black man on the beach called Speedy Parker, who gives young Jack a cheap bottle of wine, which when gulped, can "flip" Jack over into a land of mythological territories. The territories are actually a parallel world, and most of the characters in the book have a twinner in the territories, a mirrorimage of themselves, with the exception of Jack, whose own mirror image has died.

The frequent "flipping over" to the present world and to the territories, Jack finds, after the foultasting wine is gone, is made easy by just wishing to be "flipped over. Jack's first discovery of the "territories" affects the reader particularly when he becomes so amazed that the air is pure and clear and clear of fog and smoke and smog and the poisoned chemicals emitted from factories and companies. It is reminiscent of what the world would be like after a nuclear explosion has cleared the air for a new world.

The King-Straub characters are in turn loveable, hateful, comical, morose, frightening...

Especially endearing is Wolf, a simple. affectionate wolf-man, who, when the moon is not full, can be a warm and loving companion to Jack. Another companion is Richard Sloat, a bright, intelligent boy, who doesn't believe in the world of the territories; he is a friend of Jack's and the son of Jack's enemy, Morgan Sloat.

"Flipping" back and forth so often can made a reader a bit dizzy, but it never fails to lessen one's fascination and a reader is apt to take the walk from one coast to the other with Jack and to really experience what he is experiencing throughout the huge book. The quest for the Talisman becomes as great for the reader as it is for Jack.

Wormwood haven for Black Grouse

By DR. JOHN B. WOLF Professor, Union County College

Chernobyl is the Ukrainian word for wormwood, a plant with a woody root and numerous bushy stems. Flowering from June to September, wormwood's leaves and petals form the base of an extract used in rural areas of Siberia as a treatment for sprains and bruises. Resembling the sagebrush of the American and Canadian West, wormwood is the haven of the Black Grouse, sometimes called "Blackcock."

This glossy blue-black pheasant-sized bird has a lyre-shaped tail and a scarlet wattle above each eye. A permanent resident of the Eastern European and Soviet moors, the Black Grouse nests on the ground. I've heard its musical bubbling notes as it skulked through the wormwood

The Sage Grouse is the Black Grouse's counterpart in North America. Also known as "Cock of the Plains," it is found in sagebrush areas that cover the ranges of southern British Columbia and Saskatchewan. Sagebrush areas of the American West stretch from the Canadian border to northwestern New Mexico and mid-eastern California.

For the birds

Grouse are galinaceous birds, a large group of avians that nest on the ground. Chickens, turkeys and pheasants also are part of this family. The sage Grouse is one of the largest members of its tribe, exceeded in size by only one American gallinaceous bird, the Wild Turkey.

Sporting a long spike-like tail, a black throat and a white breast, this largely brown-plumaged bird haunts the high sagebrush-covered regions in the warm weather. It's not unusual to find it nesting at an altitude of 7,000feet or higher. Watch for it in the winter on the plains.

The male Sage Grouse has two enormous yellow sacs on its neck which it inflates during mating season. Obscuring the neck and chest of the bird when filled, these bulbous bags give the bird a globular appearance.

In the American West, sagebrush and Sage Grouse are inseparable, except in snowy weather when some of the birds leave the exposed brushy areas and seek the protection of timberlands. Sagebrush leaves are the grouse's principal food.

Sage, an herb used to season a turkey dinner, and sagebrush are not the same. Sage might be used for your Thanksgiving meal, but sagebrush is "for the birds.

There's no doubt about your emotional vulnerability during this week. Later, romantic, creative and childrens' interests are top priority for many.

SAGITTARIUS (11/23-12/21) Elders or those in authority give you the nod of approval early in this period. You relate well to others and draw new opportunities easily. Avoid wool gathering, stick to plans that yield results! Later, careful investigations pay off, and visitors on the home front happily ends this week.

CAPRICORN (12/22-1/20) This is an important period to launch new ventures. Travel, communications and those at a distance will all play a key part. New meetings or affiliations promote powerful alliances for some. Later, you scurry to complete obligations, paperwork demands attention and leisure time is limited.

AQUARIUS (1/21-2/19) Look for important developments to take place in family, career and relating to elders over the coming months. You may be facing more than one difficult decision. Later, recreational or educational travel may be on the agenda, and investigate financial possibilities... a hidden bonus may be uncovered!

PISCES (2/20-3/20) Important and far reaching plans begin to take shape during this week. People, places or situations at a distance are likely to play a key role. Later, you juggle job and personal matters. Inflated egos cause problems for some and although_confidence is sky high, keep you feet on the ground!

"Damn Yankees," starring Orson Bean, Alyson Reed, and Davis Gaines, and directed by the "old of Broadway, George master" Abbott, will open at the Paper Mill Playhouse, Millburn, Sept. 17. It will run through Oct. 26.

The musical is the tongue-in-cheek fable of an avid fan of the Washington Senators who options his soul to the Devil so that his favorite baseball team might dethrone the champion New York Yankees.

Mini wedding cakes an old tradition

For wedding receptions at home, only two ingredients are needed to make it official - the cake and something bubbly to toast the bridal couple.

One new way to simplify the cake is borrowed from an old wedding custom. In England, small, individual wedding cakes were the vogue. This custom meshes with today's lifestyle since many guests prefer light desserts.

Make them in cupcake pans with bits of chocolate, nuts and cranberry-orange relish. When served, instead of the bride and groom cutting the cake, they kiss over the little cakes, just like the Elizabethans of centuries ago.

For the toast, try elegant Ivory Wedding Punch, made with cranberry-apple juice drink and champagne or, if you prefer, lemonlime soda

INDIVIDUAL TIERED WEDDING CAKES (Makes 24) Cakes:

1 cup vegetable shortening

1 cup sugar 1 cup firmly packaed brown sugar

4 eggs 1 cup OceanSpray cranberry-orange relish

4 cups sifted all-purpose flour

2 teaspoons baking powder 1 teaspoon salt

- 1 teaspoon baking soda
- 1 cup water

2 teaspoons vanilla 1 package (6 ounces) semi-sweet chocolate pieces

1 cup chopped nuts

Frosting: 6 egg whites

4 cups confectioner's sugar Preheat oven to 350 degrees F.

In bowl, beat shortening until fluffy. Stir in sugar and brown sugar. Add eggs one at a time, beating until smooth after each addition. Stir in cranberry-orange relish.

Sift flour with baking powder, salt and baking soda. Alternate adding flour mixture and water to shortening/sugar mixture, beginning and ending with dry ingredients. Fold in vanilla, chocolate pieces and nuts

Spoon batter into 24 greaased and floured cupcake muffin pans filling cups half full. Spoon remaining batter into 24 greased and floured tea-size muffin pans filling cups onehalf full.

Bake for 20 to 25 minutes for regular size and 15 to 18 minutes for tea-size. Unmold and cool.

Combine frosting ingredients and beat until smooth. Spread side and top of both cupcake and tea-size muffins. Place small ones on bigger ones

Using a pastry bag fitted with a star tip, decorate tops of both cakes with remaining frosting.

A variety of packages for perfect honeymoon

Few things in life are more exciting and rewarding — than selecting the place for your honeymoon with your mate.

Depending on your time, budget and the kind of environment you both prefer, there is now an unusually fine assortment of honeymoon packages at prime travel destinations.

The following are packages for newlyweds that are not only diverse in location and price, but honeymooners report that these hotels live up to their reputations for beauty, rooms, food and gracious service and hospitality.

Orlando Resort In Orlando, the Hyatt Regency Grand Cypress is the spectacular centerpiece of 920 acres of magnificent Grand Cypress Resort property in central Florida.

There are 11 tennis courts, a Jack Nicklaus-designed 18-hole golf course and a nine hole Pitch N'Putt course, the world's largest free-form swimming pool with waterfalls and jacuzzis, shuffleboard, racquetball, bicycling, jogging course and sailing.

The "Grandest Honeymoon" package is $450 for 3 days and two nights in a luxury suite, champagne on arrival, complimentary breakfast in bed, and use of all sports and recreational facilities.

The Agha Khan recently took a whole floor of this lovely hotel for a second honeymoon vacation for his wife. Private Island island. Four beaches, including Deadsman Bay, one of the Caribbean's finest, offer Robinson Crusoe-like seclusion.

Peter Island, the exclusive island resort in the British Virgin Islands, is a honeymooner's dream. The resort has just 52 rooms and occupies the eastern twothirds of the 1,050-acre island.

Privacy is key, whether at the Harbour Houses, overlooking what many call the world's most charming yacht harbour; the Beach Houses on Deadman Bay; or one of three villas.

All rates include three meals daily, watersports at Peter Island's beach, tennis, horseback riding and transportation to the resort's remote, romantic areas.

Peter Island's Honeymoon Plan adds a bottle of complimentary French champagne and a special gift memento. Price is $1,150 per couple for seven days and six nights.

New England Inn

Set amidst the natural splendor of New England in Williamstown, Mass., The Orchards re-creates the charm and intimacy of a grand English inn.

Antique furnishings, four-poster beds, and woodburning fireplaces set a romantic scene.

Chests fill 'odd' space

There will be certain spots in almost every newlywed couple's home that need "filling." These are the areas that look empty for lack of just the right decorative accessory. The entry-way that's too small for a cabinet, but too big for an umbrella stand, or the scant three-foot space beneath an extra-low picture win-

What about the vacant wall in the master bedroom - it needs a table and a bureau combined.

When you find one of these empty spaces, the Lane Company has a suggestion on how to fill it; with a cedar chest. With more than a hundred styles and a wide range of wood finishes, colors and sizes, there's sure to be a cedar chest just right for any empty space.

Think about your entry-way. Why not fill it with a lovely oak chest that sets in elegant moods for the entire house. It's narrow enough to let people walk by easily, but important enought to fill the foyer with style. You can use the cedar-lined interior to hold sweaters, mittens and scarves where they-re easy to grab as you walk out the door. What about a low picture window?

Try slipping an upholstered cedar chest underneath the sill. Viola! You have a readymade window seat that invites relaxation while it performs double-duty holding off-season clothing, linens and woolens, and those special mementos you want to keep safe.

If you'd like to triple its use, choose a "telephone cedar chest' with a versatile shelf for phone and phone book, plus an upholstered seat.

A cedar chest works in tiny guest rooms and dens, where it serves as a coffee table or nightstand. The fragrant cedar interior freshens and protects pillows, sheets and blankets for overnight guests.

Cedar chests also make versatile fillers for other empty spaces: An open wall, a naked corner, a lonely alcove or hallway. If you find an empty space in your first home, think about how well a cedar storage chest could fill that spot with fuction and flair, while adding a cozy friendliness to the room.

Champagne adds sparkle to wedding

Every step in orchestrating your wedding, from the style of the invitations to the bridal toast canenhance the ceremony. Depending on the mood you've decided to create, serving champagne from France in delicate flutes adds elegant grace notes during the reception, lunch or dinner, even at a tet-a-tete breakfast on the morning after.

Is your heart set on a soft, rosy glow? Color your wedding romantic with rose champagne, the traditional bubbly for nuptials. Complement the sparkling blush of pink champagne with salmon fillets as the main course, and decorate guest tables with centerpieces of rasberry tablecloths.

For sparkles of another dimension, have the toast to the bride poured from a gigantic Salmanazar bottle which contains 12 standard bottles, or Balthazar which is 16 standard bottles in one. Later you can convert the bottle into a lamp base for a cherished memento of your milestone event.

Whatever your preferences, you'll find a style of champagne to match your taste. You may select a light, crisp blanc de blancs - white champagne made only from white grapes - as a wedding breakfast wine. Or a fuller-bodied non-vintage champagne to lend zest and gaiety to miniature pink roses and soft luncheon or dinner. For classic perfection and elegance, serve vintage or prestige cuvee connoisseur champagne.

Champagne is appropriate at any hour of the day or night, and can properly be served with any menu. Here are some tips from the Champagne News & Information Bureau to help make your wedding memorable:

 Serve champagne in tall, slender, long-stemmed glasses, not saucer-shaped glasses which quickly dissipate the bubbles and aroma.

 It is the best man's responsibility to make sure all glasses are filled before giving the first toast, which he makes while holding his own glass in his right hand.

• The bride stays seated when receiving a toast. She stands to toast the groom, the two families or perhaps her friends.

 Avoid being caught short. A champagne bottle contains six 4ounce portions. Allow one bottle for every three guests at the reception, or one glass per guest for each toast. Offer Champagne to bridesmaids and ushers at rehearsals. It will add to the joyous atmosphere.

· Chill the wine well. Bottles will be at the right temperature if they are cooled in a mixture of ice and water for at least 30 minutes.

Authentic champagne, from the region of the same name 90 miles east of Paris, is easily recognized. Just look for the word "champagne" standing alone and "product of France" on the label. If the label says "methode champenoise" it is definitely not champagne, but rather a sparkling wine from another place.

Bride's makeup should look natural

The bride's makeup should look natural and radiant. As Estee Lauder puts it, "You want to look glowing — but-you still want to look like you. How you apply your makeup is as important as choosing the right shades."

Good, clear skin is the best beginning — and this can be prearranged by months of extraspecial care before the big day. A visit with a beauty advisor will help you get started on the right regimen for your skin. She'll guide you in selecting the preparations that will help your skin look its very best.

Since this is a time of stress and anticipation, breakouts may suddenly occur. Be very gentle when you cleanse your face, taking care not to overscrub.

If your skin is oily, you may want to try Oil Control Formula to help control oily breakthrough and shine. A dual action formula, makes skin less oily, and it absorbs the oil that surfaces. Oil Control Formula leaves oily skin with a fresh, matte finish that lasts for hours. It comes in three complexion shades.

Under a wedding veil, your hair, as well as your face, will be the center of attention. Natural, shinning hair can be the happy result of extra care with a shampoo and conditioner that are formulated for your hair type.

Estee Lauder's makeup brush collection makes a unique gift for a bride — giving her the tools of a makeup artist. Brushes provide a sheer diffusion of color and help_ make application mistake proof.

Fragrance is a bride's most important accessory. The bride should choose her own fragrance as well as the fragrances for her attendants, so that they will work well together and will not overpower the bride's fragrance. Many of today's brides are selecting romantic new "Beautiful" for their special day.

1. Smooth on a sheer foundation...or, if you are very oily, choose one of the three complexion toned shades of Oil Control Formula. 2. After foundation, brush on powder blush in a soft shade.

3. Dust transparent face powder on face and neck using a large fluffy powder_brush_to_create a look of softness. Always brush in upward strokes, using the side of the brush.

4. For a soft, wide-eyed look, use two or three colors for your eyes. It's best to stick with medium tones for your wedding. Brush a "glow" color or highlighter from lashes to brow. Use a neutral or medium shade in the crease.

A second medium tone can be used at the outer corners of the eye. A soft eyeliner will give special emphasis to the eye and make the lashes look thicker. Mrs. Lauder suggests brown or soft black. Line the outer-third of the lashes and along the outer third of the lower lashes. Smudge to soften the line. Apply mascara, let it dry, separate lashes with brush, and reapply to tips only, for a natural look.

5. Sweep powder blusher — in a medium shade — across cheekbones and up around the eyes. Brush a little along the hairline and down the neck just in front of your ears. If you need to tone down color, mix transparent face powder with blusher.

6. Use a lip pencil to match your lip shade to keep lip color from bleeding. Fill in with lipstick. Add gloss to middle of bottom lip. A medium lip color is best — never very light tones or deep dark dramatics

Living with in-laws

Hear the phrase "mother-in-law" and the word "joke" often springs to mind. Throughout history, the mother by marriage has been a figure of fun in folklore, literature, even botany: the alternate name for the snake plant is mother-in-law's tongue.'

But, joking aside, is it really impossible to get along with your mother-inlaw? A recent book, Between Mothers-in-Law & Daughters-in-Law by Helen S. Arnstein, Dodd Mead & Company, which was excerpted in a past issue of Bride's magazine, has this advice for young people getting married today:

Realize that times have changed. Says Arnstein, "The days are long past when a mother-in-law dropped by at her daughter-in-law's, lifted the lid of the simmering pot to inspect her son's dinner, or commented on the dishes stacked in the sink."

"Your mother-in-law, if she's like many women today, holds a job and leads an active life -- with little time or engery left over to inspect your home. Her own home may be far from perfect!

Let go of preconceived notions. "First impressions can set the tone of a relationship," claims Arnstein. Think of your mother-in-law as your spouse's mother, instead of associating her with the stereotype. She is the mother of the person you love, and part of the things you love were fostered by her.

Borrow from her wisdom now and then. Put yourself in your mother-inlaw's place and think how an older person would feel if there was nothing she could contribute to the younger generation. So, if she suggests something in good faith, give it a try. After all, under her tutelage, your spouse turned out pretty well!

Should she nag and complain, realize that this behavior may stem from unhappy experiences in her life and may not necessarily be a reflection on you.
