Devilish Bean in 7th heaven on Mill stage

By BEA SMITH

Waiting in the office of the Paper Mill Playhouse, Millburn, for Orson Bean to finish his matinee performance in "Damn Yankees" last week turned out to be a surprisingly interesting experience. The publicist and her assistant were busy on the telephone, the receptionist was pushing buttons on the switchboard sweetly murmuring in a sing-song voice, "Paper Mill," employees were passing through the office as if it were a subway station. And amidst the hustle and bustle, Alyson Reed, who plays the sexy Lola in the show, was sitting at one of the desks between scenes, reading, while male dancers dressed in Washington Senators' baseball outfits, and other members of the cast flitted in and out of the office.

One could hear the music from the stage, which is down the hall from the office. And the applause!

Then suddenly, as if from out of nowhere, Orson Bean was standing in front of this reporter, grinning his famous Mr. Applegate grin. It was left over from the play.

One was tempted to gasp, "Where'd you come from?"

But one was more tempted to ask how he did the magic tricks on stage, particularly when he made a lighted cigarette appear and disappear with the twist of a hand.

"Oh," he smiled, after we were escorted into one of the business offices. "I broke into show business as a magician. That's how I got started." Bean admitted that he had been given a magic set when he was 8-years-old, and he never fully recovered. He later developed a nightclub act and toured the country as a prestidigitator.

"I could do a lot more magic up there on stage," he said, as his eyebrows lifted, "but it would be an intrusion to the play. Sorry, I can't tell you how it's done. I'm sworn to secrecy...Magician's Union, you know!"

Bean appears to be born to the role of Mr. Applegate, the Devil in "Damn Yankees."

"I'm so happy with it," he declared. "Villains are always more fun to play."

"When they called me to do 'Damn Yankees,' I jumped at the chance to work with the 99-year-old director, George Abbott. I'd worked with him when he was a child of 79 — 20 years ago on Broadway in 'Never Too Late.' He's truly astonishing. He's the best director I ever worked with. He drove us into the ground. He always does," Bean said.

"And here at the Paper Mill, he hadn't changed a bit." Bean shook his head with amazement. "He's always right. And he makes us keep at it until we get it right. His instincts are perfect."

Others had informed this reporter of Abbott's perfection. According to Angelo Del Rossi, Paper Mill Playhouse producer, Abbott, who also collaborated on the book for the musical with Douglass Wallop, had revised his script to create a new production exclusively for the playhouse. And he was constantly making changes, which the cast learned and absorbed.

Since the beginning of rehearsals, Bean has been impressed by the talented cast and the beautifully musical voices. He was particularly impressed by Davis Gaines, who plays young Joe Hardy. "When Davis sings," said Bean, "it's a gift from God."

This is Bean's second visit to the newly-renovated Paper Mill Playhouse. "The last time I was here," he recalled, "was in 1984 when I did 'The Show-Off' with Jean Stapleton. She's on Broadway right now in 'Arsenic and Old Lace.' Bean grinned menacingly. "I not only visited her one night, but I was one of the corpses for one night. I never uttered a line; just popped up."

Bean said, "I just love being here at the Paper Mill. I appeared once at the old Paper Mill before the fire in 'Black Comedy.' It was a most unusual play, and the audiences were the best. Angelo is a genius in what he does. There's not a theater in the world like this one. The actors are so thoughtful. And I just love the audiences."

The versatile actor, who has played in every media of entertainment, prefers the theater. "Years ago," he said, "I got some formal training in the theater." He is a stage, screen and television actor, an Off-Broadway producer, an author, nightclub comedian...and magician. He made his New York debut as a stand-up comic at the Blue Angel supper club, and among his stage credits are "John Murray Anderson's Almanac," for which he received a Theater World Award, and the lead in "Will Success Spoil Rock Hunter?" in which he appeared for one year opposite the late Jayne Mansfield. Bean received a Tony nomination for David Merrick's musical, "Subways Are for Sleeping," and three Obie awards for his Off-Broadway production of "Home Movies." His book, "Me and the Orgone," dealing with his experience in Reichian therapy, was published by St. Martin's Press.

"It's a rough life," admitted Bean. "You have to want it so bad you can taste it — in order to keep up with it."

Bean took a 10-year hiatus "to experience life" and raise his three children.

"I've always allowed my life to be what I want it to be. I finally decided I wanted to do what I wanted to do. And I knew everything was going to be okay. So, in the 70s, I became an old hippie. I traveled around the world dragging my long-suffering children with me, and my now, ex-wife, Carolyn. The children now live in California. I have a daughter, Susannah, 17, and two sons, who will be flying in from California to see this show. They are Max, 19, and Zeke, 15. I have an older daughter in Paris," he said proudly. "Her name is Michele...with one L."

The actor explained that "none of my four children have expressed interest in a career in show business. That is, with the exception of my youngest son, Zeke. He has a tremendous interest in the backstage of a theater. He does it in school...the lighting, the sound. Just wait until he arrives here and visits the backstage of the Paper Mill," Beansaid, excitedly.

Since Bean's return from his 10-year hiatus, he has appeared in New York in "Forty Deuce," "Dr. Jeckyll and Mr. Hyde" and his own adaptation of Dickens' "A Christmas Carol."

"I did some pictures. But it's no fun-for-actors in the movies. In the theater, it's tremendous fun. I did all the television I wanted to do, such as

'Super Password.' I did them and got them out of my system. You know," he mused, "I also make a living doing commercials. My latest ones are the voices for Kellogg's cereal and Nabisco's Home Cookies."

The amiable actor smiled his Orson Bean smile, while bidding farewell to his visitor. He rubbed his flat stomach and said, "Gotta get something to eat before the next show," and strolled out of the theater into the midst of several dozen matinee theater goers, who were in front of the theater awaiting a late bus.

Smiling and nodding, Bean slowly walked among his public. "Who was that?," one of the men asked. "Was that Orson Bean?," one woman asked. "It's the devil from the show," another woman gasped.

Bean kept on walking, grinning his "Mr. Applegate" grin. He seemed to be in "Seventh Heaven."

Cold War no barrier to migrating species

By DR. JOHN B. WOLF

Professor, Union County College
The Russians lowered "The Iron Curtain" in the early 1950s severing communication between families. The inhabitants of Alaska's Little Diomed Island and their friends and relatives on Big Diomed Island, part of the Soviet Union, were isolated from one another by the Cold War. Situated in the Bering Sea, these islands are separated by two miles of blue water and the International Date Line.

set down, I saw the Long-Tailed Jaegers. A pair of these hawk-like seabirds swooped the road on their way to the sea.

Jaegers nest along Arctic coastline and in Denali National Park, a reserve that engulfs Mount McKinley, the pinnacle of the 600-mile-long Alaska Range. Open seas south of the equator are the wintering ground for these birds.

Nome has a port facility for small vessels. Its entrance is formed by two parallel rock breakwaters that

For the birds

Defying Moscow's artificial barrier, Wagtails, Bluethroats and other Siberian birds use the Diomed Islands as waystations on their migrations across the Bering straits. Numbers of these birds nest in Alaska, some spending the summer cavorting amidst the bushes that flank a gravel road stretching from Nome to Teller.

Nome is the commercial hub of Alaska's Seward Peninsula. Teller is prominent in aviation history. In 1926, Ronald Amudsen, the arctic explorer, landed the dirigible Norge at this Alaskan hamlet after the completion of its flight across the North Pole.

Fascinated by the history of aviation, I once hired a cab for the 150-mile round-trip ride from Nome to Teller. I wasn't disappointed. In addition to the Wattains and Bluethroats, and the monument marking the area where the Norge jug into the Bering Sea. One of the gulls that I saw a light on these rocks was the Slaty-Backed Gull. Its usual haunt is the coastline of northern Asia.

While waiting at Nome's airport for the flight to Anchorage, I left the terminal for a few minutes to get a breath of fresh air. Outside, I spotted an Arctic Loon flying low over the roof of a hangar, headed for the sea. A baggage-handler told me that loons leave their nests on the tundra every morning to fish in the Bering Sea. Known as the Black-throated Diver in Europe, the Arctic Loon feeds itself and its young with the fish it catches in the northern oceans.

People go to Alaska for many reasons — gold, oil, tourism. Some don't find gold and other drill dry wells. A few "strike it rich." Officially, I went to Nome on business, unofficially it was For The Birds...

Art show winners

The Kenilworth Art Association has announced the winners of the Sept. 7 Fine Art show and sale. The show was a huge success, show organizers said, and "many artists made excellent sales."

The top awards from Schering-Plough for "Best In Show," went to William Senior for his watercolor. The "Purchase Award," and to Irene Folinus, also for a watercolor painting. On Sept. 12 this painting was presented to Overlook Hospital in Summit.

The rest of the winners included Professional Oils: first place, Clair Torgersen; second place, Kosia Novak, and third place, William Bell.

Also, Professional Watercolor, first place, Ellen Borowski; second place, Onelio Marrero; third place, Barbara Norris; first honorable mention, Betty Morris; second honorable mention, Steve Potasky, and third honorable mention, Helen Geller of Springfield.

Varied Media Professional: first place, Misao Fishwick, second place, George Freeman of Union, and third place, William Nagengast of Irvington.

Non-Professional Oils: Karoly Daroczi, James Maloney, Joaquim Pinto, with Margo Preuss of Linden.

Non-Professional Watercolor: Pearl Piegari, Shelley Rooney, Aldo Putignano and Florence Bowman.

Non-Professional Varied Media: Anne King and Jean Power, both of Springfield, and Elizabeth Nelson.

Professional Photography: first place, Greg Price; second place, Reginald Wickham, and third place, Bob Deasy.

Non-Professional Photography: (Black and white category): Pasquale Moreno, Frank Brindley and Edna Hill of Kenilworth.

Nathan, 6½, painted a violin in detail, complete with bow for his award.

Celebrity auction due at County Arts Center

What have President Reagan, Burt Reynolds, Chita Rivera and Katherine Ross got in common besides last names that begin with R? The obvious answer is that they all are show biz veterans. But they also are fellow donors to the celebrity auction to benefit the Union County Arts Center which will be held tomorrow night at the K of C Columbian Club, Cranford.

Autographed collectibles also have been received from Pat Benatar, Tony Bennett and Carol Burnett; from Bob Goulet, Bob Hope, and Bob Newhart; from Alani Alda, Peter Allen, Glen Campbell, Johnny Carson, David Hartman, Charlton Heston, John Houseman, Billy Joel, Jack Lemmon, Ed McMahon, Mary Tyler Moore, Paul Newman, Susan St. James, and Danny Thomas.

So far, Gov. Kean, President Reagan and ex-President Nixon top the list of donors from the political sphere. In the interests of political balance, the Arts Center says it hopes to persuade high-ranking Democrats to add their names to the list before the event takes place.

Sandra Sweeney, president of Rahway Landmarks, the non-profit owner-administrator of the Union County Arts Center — the former Rahway Theater — "is quick to point out that donations of goods and services are being accepted from non-celebrities as well."

"If you'd like the privilege of having a personally donated art object, antique, store shelf item, or even a craft item of your own making included on the auction block with the donations of internationally famous celebrities, call the Arts Center office, 499-0441, any weekday, and let us know what you have," Sweeney advises.

The only stipulation, according to Sweeney, is that the donated item must have a real or estimated value of $25 or more.

WATERFOWL STAMP—New Jersey's third waterfowl stamp depicting a pair of pintails resting on the water is now on sale. This stamp was designed by Ronald J. Louque; winner of the 1984 world championship waterfowl painting competition. Numbered and signed limited editions of the design are available from local art dealers for $142 each. The stamps, which are required for waterfowl hunting in New Jersey in addition to the federal duck stamp, come in two denominations — $2.50 for residents and $5 for non residents. These stamps are available at license agents of the Division of Fish, Game and Wildlife and from division offices.

AAI to view partial eclipse

A partial solar eclipse visible throughout New Jersey, will occur tomorrow, but Amateur Astronomers, Inc. warn that it should not be viewed without protection for the eyes.

The astronomy group plans to make watching safe for local residents by opening the Sperry Observatory during the afternoon of the eclipse and providing special filters for visitors. The Observatory, which is operated jointly by Union County College and AAI, is located on the college's Cranford Campus.

Roger Tuthill of Mountainside, a long-time member of AAI, who owns a telescope equipment company, said his company will provide mylar filters for safe but effective sightings of the eclipse.

"It is never a good idea to look directly at the sun, even during an eclipse, with the naked eye or with sunglasses. It could be very damaging to the eyes," Tuthill said.

The partial eclipse will be visible in all of the United States east of Salt Lake City and Phoenix, Arizona, Mr. Tuthill said. Albuquerque, New Mexico will have a 12 percent eclipse but residents of San Francisco, Los Angeles, and Tucson, Arizona, and the remainder of the Southwest will not be able to view it, he noted.

The upcoming eclipse, while it won't be as spectacular as a total eclipse, will certainly be worthwhile for children and adults to observe, since it is the last major eclipse that will be visible in this area until the year 2016, according to Barry Malpas of Warren, AAI president. "For this reason, we are pleased to open the Sperry Observatory to the public during the hours of the eclipse."

Beginning at 2:01 p.m., E.D.T., the eclipse will reach maximum totality at 3:17 p.m., and will be completed by 4:27 p.m., Mr. Tuthill said. The Observatory will be open from 1:30 until 5 p.m. with a number of AAI members on hand to help viewers get the best sightings of the phenomenon. In addition to looking through the 10-inch refractor telescope inside the Observatory, visitors will find several smaller but sophisticated telescopes set up outside the Observatory to accommodate interested sky watchers. Also, Mr. Malpas said, it is hoped that a good daytime look at Venus will be possible on the day of the eclipse.

AAI boasts a number of veteran "eclipse chasers" who have viewed numerous partial and total eclipses from various parts of the globe. In addition to regular meetings on the third Friday of the month, the organization hosts weekly viewings of the skies on all other Fridays in the Sperry Observatory. All programs of AAI are open to the public free of charge.

How to talk to your children

Who's your first choice for a rip-roaring discussion of current events? Your 10-year-old? Well, why not? Talking with children about the news, television programs and current events is one way of helping them to learn, reason and understand. And their point of view can be "most interesting."

The U.S. Department of Education has prepared a free booklet filled with suggestions for helping your child learn. It tells what is successful at home, in the classroom, and for the schools overall. It's entitled "What Works: Research About Teaching and Learning," and one can get a free copy by sending one's name and address to Department 605P, Consumer Information Center, Pueblo, Colo., 81009.

There is a lot that you can do at home to motivate your children to learn. For example, you can help your young child become a good reader by reading aloud. Urge your child to draw and write, too — what looks like a mere scrawl to an adult can mean something to a child, and it helps develop language skills. Children learn math and science best when they use physical objects to solve problems, such as counting everyday things and seeing actual scientific experiments. Playing with blocks, for example, arranging them in patterns by color, size, shape, and then counting them, gives your child the beginnings of mathematical and scientific learning.

You should encourage school-age children to read and to get in the habit of visiting the local library. As part of helping children learn more, it's a good idea to monitor the amount of time your children spend watching television and the shows they watch. Then discuss the programs so that the children understand what is happening and how it relates to reality.

You can stay aware of your children's lives at school by discussing school events, helping them meet deadlines and talking with them about school problems and successes.

But...all work and no play doesn't necessarily produce the most successful student. Children gain the benefits of team work and recognition offered by extracurricular activities. Older children can gain experience from after-school jobs. Just be sure the activities don't overwhelm children's school work.

Rebecca's forecast Chamber season under way

For week of Oct. 2 through Oct. 9 ARIES (3/21-4/20) The accent is on relationships and partnerships, new understandings are highlighted and key alliances flourish. Heart to heart discussions yield results. Later, your overall financial security is boosted, unsettling job conditions recede and dealings with family, elders and those in authority are smoother.

TAURUS (4/21-5/21) Concentrate your energies on career, dependents' interest and day to day activities during this period. The pace is stepped up in these areas and may involve new or additional obligations. Later, romantic exchanges are indicated, group activities are highlighted and unexpected travel is possible.

GEMINI (5/22-6/21) The weeks ahead will highlight matters related to romantic, creative and children's interests. Socially you are popular and in demand and special meetings are on the agenda for some. Later, you ponder financial issues, a child's dilemma and your own ever changing needs. Be alert to health particularly.

CANCER (6/22-7/23) Both domestic and career conditions are intensified during this week. The heat of recent months is off and as a result you will be able to make important decisions and perhaps mend a fence or two. Later, scrutinize your financial situation, important issues emerge in the months ahead.

LEO (7/24-8/23) Communications, correspondence and everyday interests keep you busy this week. Contact with those at a distance is indicated and local travel may be on the agenda for many. Later in the week, family and property interest dominate, spruce up the home front and be alert to plumbing or water problems.

VIRGO (8/24-9/23) You have the opportunity to implement important plans early this week; hesitation will lose valuable time. Other cooperation is critical. Consult with experts; legal papers possible for some. Later, tempers flare on the home front, siblings may be of concern and job schedules create conflicts.

LIBRA (9/24-10/23) This is an auspicious period for many. Important new beginnings are set in motion and you may have more than one surprise in store before weeks end! This is a good time to spruce up your image, influential goings on emerge in job matters. Later, patience is the key... months ahead are most promising.

SCORPIO (10/24-11/22) The personal and private aspects of your life are intensified during this period. You ponder relationship or partnership dilemmas and seek solitude to re-group. Later in the week domestic troubles may be brewing. Consider changes carefully and be mindful of the impression you make on others.

SAGITTARIUS (11/23-12/21) Social, group and organizational affiliations are highlighted during this week; new acquaintances are indicated. Another's slant proves to be worth listening too. Later, manipulative or scheming tactics are best avoided. Defer travel if possible. Interests at a distance assume importance.

CAPRICORN (12/22-1/20) Career matters take center stage. You're likely to be in the limelight on more than one occasion during this week and envious opportunities emerge for many. Later social plans turn out well. Re-read letters and messages or you miss out. Expect changes within friendships in months ahead.

AQUARIUS (1/21-2/19) You may be feeling argumentative and restless, others accuse you of being obstinate and disturbing revelations may point the way for changes in family or career matters. Later in the week, values, beliefs or morals are topics for intense discussions, tone down overly aggressive behavior!

PISCES (2/20-3/20) Matters related to tax, insurance, pension or estate will assume importance for many, while others may consider longterm investment or financial commitments. Later, you may reach important crossroads in romantic relationships. News from a distance is indicated and serious discussions as well.

The Garden State Chamber Orchestra, recipient of a $20,000 grant from the New Jersey State Council on the Arts, has announced its 1986-87 schedule will begin Oct. 19.

The orchestra has expanded to five concerts in each of the three locations, a total of 15 concerts, in the John Harms Center for the Arts in Englewood, the Morris Museum in Morristown and Kean College of New Jersey, Union.

The first series of concerts begins Oct. 19, 7 p.m. at Kean College; Nov. 7, 8 p.m., at John Harms Center, and

Nov. 8, 8 p.m. at Morris Museum.

Highlights of the orchestra's season, under the direction of Frederick Storfer, includes a New Jersey commemoration to the Statue of Liberty with a premiere by Fredrick Kaufman entitled Mother of Exiles. Each site will include a local chorus. In Englewood the GSCO will sponsor the Bergen Chorale; in Union, the Kean College Chorale, and in Morris, the orchestra is negotiating with Masterworks Foundation. The series also includes Bach, Holst and a Molter premiere.

The second series, Nov. 28, 8 p.m. at John Harms, Nov. 29, 8 p.m., at Morris Museum, Nov. 30, 3 p.m., at Kean College, a holiday celebration with Manfredini's Christmas Concerto as well as compositions by Mennini, Mozart and an orchestral premiere of Quintet in C, Op. 29 by Beethoven.

The third series, Jan. 16, 1987, 8 p.m., John Harms, Jan. 17, 8 p.m. at Morris Museum, and Jan. 18, 3 p.m. at Kean College, a special concert of chamber music given by the principal players of the GSCO under concertmaster Gideon Grau.

The fourth series, Feb. 13, 8 p.m. at John Harms, Feb. 14, 8 p.m. at Morris Museum and Feb. 15, 3 p.m. at Kean College, commemorates Black History Month featuring two black composers — Coleridge — Taylor Perkinson and Chevalier de Saint-Georges. Also on the program are Puccini and Verdi. The GSCO is negotiating with the Trenton Museum to offer the same program at a matinee on Feb. 14.

The fifth series, April 10, 8 p.m. at John Harms, April 11, 8 p.m. at Morris Museum, and April 12, 3 p.m. at Kean College, concludes the season with two more premieres — Fredrick Kaufman's Seascape and an orchestral version of Donizetti's C Minor Quartet. Also on the program are works by Vivaldi, Peter Schickele and Mozart.

More information can be obtained by calling the GSCO at 488-2168.

Choir seeking new members

The Cathedral of the Sacred Heart in Newark has announced that it "will audition anyone interested in becoming a member of the Cathedral Choir." The choir will sing at the noon Sunday liturgy through June 14 which is Trinity Sunday. Rehearsals are set for Tuesdays from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m.

The liturgical music program at the Cathedral of the Sacred Heart "strives to actively preserve the rich heritage of music entrusted to the Church and to explore new directions in music for worship befitting the spirit and dignity of the liturgy as set forth in the Second Vatican Council."

In addition to its liturgical responsibilities, the Cathedral Choir will form the basis of the Cathedral Symphonic Chorus and perform with the Cathedral Symphony Orchestra.

Prospective members can call David Fedor, director of music, at 484-4600 for an appointment.

'Amadeus' staged

"Amadeus," the play, written by Peter Shaffer, will be performed at 8 p.m. Oct. 9 by the National Players, a professional touring company, in the Wilkins Theater at Kean College of New Jersey, Union. Tickets can be purchased at the box office, or by calling 527-2337. The event is sponsored by the Kean College Cultural Arts program board.

Musician follows his visions

By MILT HAMMER

Pick Of The LPs, "American Vagabond," by William Lee Golden (MCA Records).

When asked which quality he most admires in a person, William Lee Golden answers, "People who seek their visions and then follow them." Indeed, Golden has been following personal visions all his life, visions that have led him on enlightening roads, and ones that have often generated fierce resistance from people around him.

Born in the rural deep south—Brewton, Ala., Golden grew up on a farm with no electricity or running water, two commodities he didn't experience until he went to school. His father, Luke, plowed the land with two mules. At seven, Golden began playing guitar and singing with his sister on WEBJ in Brewton. Between farm chores, he performed at local events and churches with a gospel group, The Pilot Trio. In 1964, he began the quest for personal fulfillment, shocking the local populace by leaving his steady job at the Brewton papermill to audition for the baritone slot in The Oak Ridge Boys singing group.

Formed during the Second World War, The Oak Ridge Quartet—as they were known then—entertained the isolated crews working secretly on the atomic bomb at Oak Ridge, Tenn. After the war, the group reformed as The Oak Ridge Boys, and traveled the gospel circuit. Eventually, Golden was joined by other current members: Duane Allen, Richard Sterban, and Joe Bonsall. They became one of gospel music's most successful—and controversial—groups. In 1977, The Oak Ridge Boys shocked the gospel world by going "secular," releasing their first country album "Ya'll Come Back Saloon" (a Gold album). It was a rough transition, but one that has handomely paid off. The Oak Ridge Boys just released their 13th album on MCA Records, "Seasons". They have nine gold and two platinum albums, and their 1981 single smash hit "Elvira" made them a household name. The Oak Ridge Boys' reputation isn't based on their records alone—their performances have won them fans and accolades from every corner of the world, and they have over 60 awards to their credit.

Through the years, much has been written of the four distinct and individual personalities that make up this universally appealing group. Several years ago, Golden began an intense inward search—one that led him to examine his roots, his surroundings, himself, his feelings and aspirations. It is a search that led him on a trail of such emphatic individuality that it created severe and at times, close to destructive dissension in one of country's most harmonious groups.

In 1981, Golden bought a small, Civil War era plantation in Summer

County, Tenn. As he studied the history of his home, his curiosity expanded in to the history of the people who once inhabited the land around him. He began collecting arrowheads from the creekbed, and allowed his hair to grow down his back and his beard to flow over his chest. His wardrobe increasingly consisted of buckskins and his house was Indian artifacts and ceremonial objects. He made friends with an filled his home with antiques.

He was invited to spend a weekend in the wilderness with a group of men who, as a hobby, recreated the living conditions of Indians and Mountain Men. They lived in tents, using only what could be made by hand, hunting with bows and arrows, and musket-loading rifles, wearing animal skins and sleeping on buffalo skins. He joined the American Mountain Man Association, and

Indian Medicine man who showed him how to conduct sweat lodge ceremonies, one of several ancient Indian rituals that knit man and nature as one. He erected two 23 feet high teepees on his land and built a traditional Indian Hogan, as well as a Sweat Lodge behind his home. "I felt like a kid again," he says. "I felt free. Walking through the woods, or through a big canyon can make you feel mighty small."

Organist due at Arts Center

Organist Lee Erwin will return to the Union County Arts Center, Rahway Theater, Saturday evening at 8.

Erwin performed on the Rahway Theater pipe organ last April. In his return engagement, he performs in a mini-concert and accompanies a pair of classic silent films. The feature film is "Sherlock Jr." with Buster Keaton. The second film is a short subject featuring Gloria Swanson and Wallace Beery.

The program also includes an old-fashioned community sing-along and some surprise extras.

Tickets for the Saturday evening performance can be advance-ordered by calling 499-8226, Monday through Saturday, 11 a.m. to 2 p.m., and Thursdays, 5 to 8 p.m.

Crossroads annual benefit planned

The Crossroads Theater company's annual benefit, celebrating nine years of "producing high quality theatrical productions by one of the nation's premiere Black Theater organizations," will be held Oct. 9 in the Atrium at the Johnson & Johnson World Headquarters in New Brunswick.

Tickets can be purchased by calling 249-5561, Monday through Friday from 9 a.m., to 5 p.m.

THEY'RE BACK—Alice Cooper returns with his first single for MCA Records entitled 'He's Back (The Man Behind the Mask),' the theme song from the movie, 'Friday the 13th Part 6,' and pictured above is the star of all six Friday movies, the elusive Jason, attacking Alice after hearing that the shock rocker was stealing his thunder and spotlight. Alice survived to record his first LP for MCA, 'Constrictor,' released last month.

WALL-TO-WALL WINDOWS can be treated to vertical blinds to make them look more important to the room's scheme. Never to be underestimated is the drama inherent in stark black-and-white, as illustrated in this dining room.

SIGNS OF THE TIMES—A nostalgic look back in time, old advertising signs, add eye appeal to the home and are of increasing value to collectors.

Heritage look on a budget

"You don't have to spend a lot of money decorating to have a warm, welcoming country look," says Mary Emmerling, also known as the "First Lady" of American Country decor. Sometimes it's as easy as changing the sheets on your bed!

After successfully publishing definitive books on American Country decorating and on the American Country West style, she has brought her love of the American heritage home.

Pairing ticking stripes with floral baskets and adding lace and embroidery, she has created a sheet pattern that immediately softens a room into a country cottage.

For everyone's inherent love of the American West, she responded with a pattern which brings the colors of the Southwestern sunset indoors with native Indian designs.

The two patterns, "Country Baskets" and "Ikat" are available through the JCPenney catalog and stores. They give everyone the opportunity for quick and easy heritage decorating!

Says Ms. Emmerling, "You can take Americans out of the country, but never take their love of the country out of their hearts." That attachment is evident from the east coast to the west.

Rural homes and city dwellings both embrace native craft collections, handmade quilts and rugs, primitive and rustic furniture. There are even magazines devoted totally to country decorating.

Together with fabrics and designs from simpler times, today's decorating patchwork is very much made from pieces of our past.

A back-to-the-future concept in style

It's revival time for the furniture industry. But religion isn't the catalyst; American furniture designs are.

Revival doesn't mean nostalgia, however. It means that designers are borrowing some of the best ideas from the past and incorporating them into fresh-looking creations. Styles from yesteryear, reshaped into contemporary furnishings for today, are this year's trendsetters.

Jay Spectre, for example, one of the best-known American interior designers, incorporates 86 years of this century's most exciting designs into his very first furniture collection for Century Furniture Company.

American-inspired

Encompassing beds, tables, chairs, sofas and occasional pieces, the 66-piece collection is classy contemporary inspired by various American eras and designers: The Art Deco period of the silver screen, the industrial era of Charles Eames, Diego Giacometti and Frank Lloyd Wright.

Named one of the "Giants of Interior Design" by the Smithsonian Institute in 1979, Spectre unveils his first commercial collection this fall. Clear in the designer's work is his love for the look of the 1930s and 1940s. He calls what he has done, "Looking back to the future."

Art Deco adaptations

The collection is the furthering of a design movement that some people refer to as Art Deco. According to Spectre, it's probably the greatest design art movement in this century, interrupted only by two world wars. Spectre's designs are definitely not revivals but adaptations. There is humor in his work as well as respect for what the original designers sought.

"We're entering into a new era. Most contracts and mortgages go into the 21st century so we're looking into that period," Spectre explains. "At the same time, I'm looking back at what was the best of the 20th century."

The new collection is "a reflection of years of design integrity," he says, "but with the look of today." As we approach the next century, Spectre asks, why shouldn't we begin to pay homage to the classics of our own time?

The collection is divided into two groups: Steamer and Eclipse. Reminiscent of romantic ocean voyages of the '30s, Spectre's Steamer grouping reflects a time when shape and form had a forward, streamlined, in-motion look.

The dining room chair is "very Saturday night at the movies" according to the designer. "It reminds me of coming down the aisle and lifting up the seat," says Spectre, who started his home furnishings career in Louisville, Kentucky.

Comfort, scale and aesthetics were paramount in that era. The Steamer pieces are so authentic-looking you can imagine Ginger Rogers and Fred Astaire gliding past them along deck. For real people, however, Spectre has scaled them down so they'll fit easily into today's apartments and small homes.

The Eclipse group, based on the designer's on-going love affair with nature and the solar system is created out of a combination of glass, blond wood and metals, ornamented with columns, globes, arcs and circles. Many of the woven fabrics in the collection represent ripples and movement of water.

From leopard to leather

For the first time, we also see leopard in pastels. Leopard becomes respectable — not just for Harlow anymore — Spectre notes. Leather upholstery colors run from apple green to sunset orange to cloudy gray-blue.

Spectre's modern designs are a bold but not controversial departure for Century, a family-owned North Carolina company known primarily for its fine traditional furnishings.

"The use of metals and light colored white oak bring a freshness and sophistication to the Jay Spectre Collection," says Century President Harley F. Shuford Jr. "The pieces seem 'different' but never faddish; the line has what we call good continuity. We know it's the kind of furniture our customers will enjoy for years to come."

FASHIONABLE BENEFIT—Proceeds from the annual New Jersey Kiwi Club luncheon and fashion show Wednesday at the Headquarters Hotel, Morristown, has been dedicated to the Children's Specialized Hospital, Mountainside. The Kiwi Club includes past and present American Airlines flight attendants. Geri Massari, left, admires one of the show fashions professionally modelled by Sharon Riva of the Jalm store, Millburn.

Children's Specialized Hospital of Mountainside will benefit from the proceeds raised at the annual luncheon and fashion show by the New Jersey Kiwi Club Wednesday from 11:30 a.m. to 3 p.m. The benefit event, "The Bermuda Fantasy," will be held at Headquarters Plaza Hotel in Morristown. Fashions by Jalm of Millburn will be featured. Tickets can be purchased by contacting the Community Resources Office of the hospital at 233-3720. The sponsoring Kiwi Club includes current and former American Airlines flight attendants and "is dedicated to raising money for charitable causes." "The New Jersey club chapter," noted Arlene Goodes, past vice president, "did a lot for me after I relocated here from Europe. I really did not know too many people here, but after I joined the club, I felt as though I had a second home." Nancy Linde, Kiwi Club's treasurer, reported that the annual luncheon and fashion show raised $5,000 last year and that this year's goal is to raise $7,000. Club president Ernestine Haaag added that professional models will donate their time for the fashion show.

THE UNION CHAPTER of Hadassah will meet Monday at 8 p.m. in Congregation Beth Shalom, Union. Program vice president Sydell Spialter will present guest speaker, Estelle Berger, who will discuss "Insight toward the Sightless." Dina Jacoud, education vice president, will give a presentation on Rosh Hashanah and Yom Kippur. Ilse Frank, fund-raising vice president will discuss future events including a "Yiddish show" on Nov. 16. Frances Ostrofsky, games chairman, has announced that games will be played at the meeting. Prizes will include an oil painting by Miriam Rotmensz, an afghan handmade by Frances Ostrofsky and an ice cream parlor set donated by Livia Salomon. Mary Koltenuk will give the treasurer's report and information on New Year's cards. Tess Porter, hospitality chairman, will serve Rosh Hashanah "delights." Marie Herman will have blue boxes for members and guests. Julie Gelb, leadership chairman, will discuss her leadership courses with members. Barbara Zilberberg is publicity chairman. Florence Rosansky, hostess chairman, has announced that hostesses for the meeting will be Dina Jacoud, Sara Riskin, Frances Ostrofsky, Helen Wolff, Freda Yeager and Dorothy Katzen. Evelyn Gingell is president.

THE LINDEN Women's Social Club has planned a luncheon trip Wednesday for a luncheon trip to the San Francisco Club. A bus will leave the Sunnyside Recreation Center, Linden, at 10 a.m. The club will celebrate its 25th anniversary with a bus trip and luncheon at the Buttonwood Manor Oct. 22. Arrangements for the event were made at Friday's meeting at the Sunnyside Recreation Center. Mary Caffrey presided at the meeting. Special recognition was given to the charter members of the club, and refreshments were served by Lena Macaluso, Dorothy Bond, Linda Caruso, Gussie Carter, Jean Bosonac, Helen Bobowsky and Mary Caffrey. The club is sponsored by the Linden Recreation Department.

THE GUILD Association of Union Hospital has planned events for the next three months, some of which are fund raisers to benefit the hospital. On Oct. 10, there will be a discovery toy sale in the hospital lobby featuring a variety of items, arts and crafts, toys, novelties hand made articles and Christmas decorations will be available for sale 9:30 a.m. 5 p.m. Dec. 4 and 5, a candy and fruitcake sale will be held in the lobby, featuring all kinds of candy, including holiday and Christmas candy. The Claxton fruit cakes also will be available in the gift shop. The public is invited to attend and participate in the events. On Oct. 19, the guild will hold a membership tea in the hospital cafeteria from 3 p.m. to 5 p.m. Guild members and volunteers are invited to attend.

THE AMERICAN Legion Auxiliary, Connecticut Farms Unit 35, Union, held its first meeting of the season recently. The meeting was opened with a prayer by Chaplain Kay St. Laurent. The unit nominating chairman, Marion Knox, presented the slate of officers for 1986-1987. The officers are Elizabeth Cortess, president; Janis Blank, first vice president; Marion Knox, second vice president; Mildred Dunphy, secretary; Jeanette Pollari, treasurer; Kay St. Laurent, chaplain; Anne Hoffman, historian, and Ann Donninger, sergeant-at-arms. Outgoing president Jeanette Pollari will serve as county second vice president during the year. Refreshments were served by hostesses, Kay St. Laurent and Anne Hoffman. The first fund-raising event will be a fish and chicken fry on Oct. 23 at the American Legion Post Hall on Bond Drive. Additional information can be obtained by calling Jeanette

THE ELIZABETH Chapter of Hadassah will meet Oct. 14 at the YMHA, Green Lane, Union. Luncheon will be served at noon. Anita Fox, program vice president, will present guest speaker, Dr. Sadie B. Richman, assistant professor in the Graduate Program of the Education Department of Kean College of Union, New Jersey. She will discuss "Aging in Contemporary Society."

THE LINDEN VOLUNTEER Ambulance Corp. Ladies Auxiliary will hold a fish dinner at the Squad House at Stiles Street and Elizabeth Avenue in Linden on Oct. 24 from 5 to 7 p.m. Argyle of Kearny will cater. Tickets can be purchased by calling 486-7876, 486-6556, 486-2231 or any member of the auxiliary.

THE GFWC JUNIOR Woman's Club of Connecticut Farms, Union, will hold a general business meeting Nov. 7 at 8 p.m. in the Boys and Girls Club, Union. Valarie Baker, Cathy Bordens, Kathy Ernst, Connie Maker, Janice Mallon, Maria Monto, Linda Perara, Phoebe Pitarresi and Kathy Rubin recently attended the New Jersey State Federation of Woman's Club's Junior Membership Department fall conference at Douglass College, New Brunswick. The Connecticut Farms Juniors attended workshops and award presentations, with more than 700 juniors from around the state. The New Jersey Juniors are comprised of 94 Junior and Sub-Junior clubs. The volunteer organization is a part of the General Federation of Woman's Clubs, reportedly the largest of its kind, with a membership of more than one half million women internationally. Membership in the Connecticut Farms Juniors is open to women between the ages of 18-35. More information can be obtained by calling 964-5883.

UNION COUNTY BOARD OF CHOSEN FREEHOLDERS
RESOLUTION NO. 691-86
DATE: 9/25/86

WHEREAS, there exists a need for professional services for the preparation of an Environmental Impact Statement for the Proposed Health Care Facility; and

WHEREAS, Canger & Cassera, Consulting and Municipal Engineers, 160 Littleton Road, Suite 300, P.O. Box 5245, Parsippany, New Jersey 07054-0597, has agreed to provide the necessary engineering services in the preparation of an Environmental Impact Statement for the Proposed Health Care Facility in accordance with their attached letter proposal dated September 12, 1986 and in the sum of not to exceed $4,750.00; and

WHEREAS, the Local Public Contracts law requires that a Resolution authorizing the award of a contract for professional services "without competitive bidding" must be passed by the governing body and shall be advertised; and

WHEREAS, this contract is awarded without competitive bidding as a "Professional Service" in accordance with 40A:11-5(1)(a) of the Local Public Contracts law because the services to be performed are engineering services;

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED by the Board of Chosen Freeholders of the County of Union that Canger & Cassera, Consulting and Municipal Engineers, 160 Littleton Road, Suite 300, P.O. Box 5245, Parsippany, New Jersey 07054-0597, is hereby awarded a contract to provide the necessary engineering services in the preparation of an Environmental Impact Statement for the Proposed Health Care Facility in accordance with their attached letter proposal dated September 12, 1986; and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that the County Manager and Clerk of this Board be and they are hereby authorized to execute said contract upon approval by the County Counsel's Office for the aforesaid project; and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that the said sum of not to exceed $4,750.00 be charged to Account No. 001-000-238-000; and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that a copy of this Resolution be published according to law within ten (10) days of its passage.

I hereby certify the above to be a true copy of a resolution adopted by the Board of Chosen Freeholders of the County of Union on the date above mentioned.
