'Elvis and Me' honest novel

By BEA SMITH

About a dozen or more books have been written about Elvis Presley since his death on Aug. 16, 1977, and they all offered different interpretations of the kind of man they found the superstar to be. Fans and non-fans of Elvis Presley have been inundated with pictures and printed material on him, and the only other book one could tolerate and perhaps accept is the one written by his wife, Priscilla Beaulieu Presley, whose collaborator was Sandra Harmon.

In "Elvis and Me," originally published last year by G. P. Putnam's Sons in New York, and in paperback by Berkley Books of New York, Mrs. Presley creates an honest portrait of the complex person who claimed her when she was only 14 and became so integral a part of her life that she invariably knew little else than a limited life with Elvis Presley.

When the book was first published, it made number one on the New York Times best selling list, was a Literary Guild Main Selection and was serialized in People magazine. And no wonder!

his father, Vernon Presley; his grandmother, Minnie May Presley, and his entourage led by Joe Esposito and his bodyguards.

She says that Elvis taught her everything: how to dress, how to do her hair, how to drive, how to live in his bizarre world...to stay up all night and sleep the day away...or at least, until late afternoon. She learned how to cope with his black moods. She and Elvis' entourage moved with him almost rhythmically, dependent on the atmosphere of his moods.

It seems Priscilla's description of the boy who never really grew up is accurate to the point of pain. She would probably be distressed to know how much she could whet a reader's appetite by reaching into the darkest corners of the star's life. Among the very intimate stories she reveals is Elvis' fear of hurting himself because he was a sleep-walker. She tells of how he slept with his parents, Vernon and Gladys, until he was an adult, and that later, he had always had someone stationed nearby while he slept, to see that he would not wander off during this time.

KIPLING CLASSIC—"The Jungle Book," will be performed by Pegasus Puppets as the opening show in Popcorn Playhouse. Performances will be held Nov. 8 at 11 a.m. and 1 p.m. at Montclair Kimberley Academy, 201 Valley Rd., Montclair. Further information can be obtained by calling (201) 744-1717.

On the shelf

If anyone could turn Elvis inside out in the telling of what life was really like in the midst of his private kingdom, it was Priscilla. Interestingly, she tries to be kind in telling the truth about this phenomenal blockbuster, but in the telling of it, she brings him so close to the surface, one can see his pores and blemishes.

She talks about how she first met him in 1956 in Germany, where he was stationed. Her father, Capt. Joseph Paul Beaulieu, was a career Air Force officer, and she lived there with her parents. She reveals Presley's strange behavior in Germany during the two years she spent with him, visiting him each evening, spending hours with him in his bedroom and swearing that they never did anything to be ashamed of because he wanted her "pure" when he married her. She talks of the many prescription drugs he gulped in a day, and how she tried to keep up with him when he insisted that she take them too. She became addicted for a short period of time, but was able to drop them freely by will. He wasn't.

Priscilla explains that before and after they were married, he was said to have had affairs with his leading women...and the futility of her intense jealousy. She tells of how Elvis talked her parents into letting her come to live in his Graceland mansion home in Memphis, Tenn., which he shared with his father, his father's new wife, grandmother and Elvis' assorted relatives and paid companions, and to attend high school there. It was there that she became very well acquainted with

He was his mama's boy, and he apparently never got over her death. There was no one actually to take her place, to advise the boy who never grew up what to do in impossible situations which he had created and from which he could not extricate himself without his mama's assistance.

In "Elvis and Me", Priscilla follows Presley's career, rides the turbulent waves with him throughout his life, participates in his super successes and the fat, bloated period of his life. She claims that when she became pregnant with his child, he was at once excited and exhilarated about the prospect of becoming a father. When their daughter, Lisa, was born, he played at being the proud father, although he treated her more like a toy doll than a real baby.

He was generous to a fault with gifts for everyone he knew, but it wasn't long after the baby was born that he really started to drift away from Cilla, as he called his wife. After the divorce, Elvis and Priscilla remained friends, but it was the beginning of the end for the super star. As with many super stars, he couldn't handle all that success.

The revealing book that Priscilla Presley has written with Sandra Harmon is truly readable in its heartbreak. It contains intimate pictures of their life together and apart.

The book leaves the reader emotionally drained...and terribly sad.

Grants workshop on Sunday

A workshop on New Jersey and Union County arts grants will be held Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. in the first floor conference room of the Union County Government Annex, 300 North Ave., East, Westfield.

The workshop is free but registration is required by tomorrow, it was announced. Additional information can be obtained by calling the Office of Cultural and Heritage Affairs at 233-7906.

'Aging' is topic of conference

Twenty-four social service agencies from Union County and around the state will participate cooperatively at an all-day conference, "New Perspectives on Aging: A Harvest of Information," Sunday at Union County College's Cranford campus center.

The program is being sponsored jointly by the College and CIBA-Geigy Pharmaceuticals Division, Summit, and will be conducted by Union County College's L.I.F.E. (Learning Is For Ever) Center from 12:30 to 5 p.m.

Workshops and demonstrations will be presented by the Older Woman's League (OWL); the American Association of Retired People (AARP); the Home Health Care Assembly, Princeton; Interweave Associates; the N.J. Department of Public Health; Mental Health Players; and the Arthritis Foundation.

Admission is free. Additional information can be obtained by calling 276-2600, ext. 274 and 375.

The annual legislative luncheon held by the Senior Citizens Council of Union County is scheduled for Oct. 24 at the Galloping Hill Caterers, Five Points, Union, from 9:30 a.m. to 3 p.m.

The legislative luncheon reportedly provides an opportunity for informal dialogue and an airing of issues with those who hold state office. The morning's agenda will provide time for discussion with the senior citizens on issues of the day before the legislators join the group for a buffet lunch. In the afternoon session, council members will have another opportunity to seek action on legislation they feel should be "dealt with immediately."

Senior citizens in the Union County area can register for the day by calling in their reservations to the council office at 964-7555. The deadline for reservations is Monday. The luncheon is subsidized by the council and is available to alternates and delegates for $6 and to all other senior citizens for $9.

Evelyn Frank, council president, noted that the program, which is informal, "provides an excellent vehicle to ask for clarification on how laws are introduced and which bills are now awaiting passage from a committee to the floor."

The Senior Citizens Council of Union County will hold an insurance seminar at the F. Edward Bier-tuempfel Senior Center, 2155 Morris Ave., Union, today from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Representatives from Medigap Insurance companies will attend. John Brower, representative of HCFA, will join Debra Hudgin, training director for the Health Benefits Advocacy Program for New Jersey, department of insurance and will "try to help educate senior citizens and their families on different kinds of Medigap insurance that is available."

The seminar is sponsored by the Senior's Council and the Division on Aging of Union County and is open to the public. Family members of senior citizens are requested to attend the information program.

Luncheon (with a donation of $1) will be available by calling the council office 48 hours in advance of the program at 964-7555.

A national poll has shown gardening to be a favored activity among the elderly. For the elderly with limited capabilities, the pleasures of gardening may be extended through horticultural therapy.

To introduce the concept and benefits of horticultural therapy (HT) the Reeves-Reed Arboretum will sponsor a two-day workshop, "Horticultural Therapy: A Tool for the Elderly," Oct. 29 to 30, featuring leading experts as guest speakers.

The first workshop, Oct. 29, is geared to volunteers and community organizations working with the elderly. Oct. 30 is for therapists, and nursing home or senior citizen center directors, whose specialty is dealing with the problems of the older population.

The workshops are designed to show how gardening can be adapted to the special needs of the elderly. Both workshops run 8:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. and are accredited by the National Council for Therapy and Rehabilitation through Horticulture (NCTRH).

ANIMAL BENEFIT—JoAnn Mulcahey and 'Daisy' from the People For Animals Low Cost Spay Neuter Clinic get ready for the benefit fundraiser for homeless strays and the clinic in Hillside. Additional information can be obtained by calling 688-1424 between 9 a.m. and 3 p.m.

Army surplus offer some useful items

Want a good deal on a used football or some outgrown baby clothes? Go to a neighborhood garage sale.

Want a good deal on, say, a ship's worth of scrap metal? How about an Air Force base? No joke. When the U.S. Government has something it can no longer use, it adds that item to the long list of surplus items up for sale. You won't find a football or baby clothes on this list; however, you will find furniture, agricultural equipment, land, and even leases for mineral rights on government land — but not at garage sale prices. Those jeeps for $44 and free land do not exist.

most of the victims are under 5-years-old. Children who survive such fires are often severely burned, resulting in disfigurement for life and emotional adjustment problems. Many of these tragedies are avoidable.

Rebecca's forecast

For week of Oct. 16 through Oct. 23

ARIES (3/21-4/20) Both material and emotional security assume importance during this period. Take advantage of early aspects if you need someone's assistance. Close alliances offer resistance to demanding or domineering attitudes. Later, friendships are strained and issues you thought resolve crop up again.

TAURUS (4/21-5/21) The coming week suggest that you will feel the need to clear the decks and be finished with old or lingering business. There will be a lot of activity related to private or personal matters. A secret romance may be in the picture for some and others sift through changing emotional ties.

GEMINI (5/22-6/21) Health, job and dependents' interests crowd your thoughts early this week. Co-workers may be difficult and your own patience wears thin. Later, social invitations are indicated. You feel the need for more independence and should be careful not to overextend yourself or health may suffer.

CANCER (6/22-7/23) It's important to give equal attention to your personal and professional life. A bit of juggling may be required but it will be well worth it. Later, past efforts are praised, financial concerns remain for many, but this improves in the year ahead, concentrate now on eliminating old debts.

LEO (7/24-8/23) This may be an impressive period for new beginnings. Those at a distance may play a key role and visits could be on the agenda for some. Later, devote time to resolving family dilemmas, community standing is highlighted and the need for more creative self-expression becomes apparent to many.

VIRGO (8/24-9/23) Extremely personal issues rise to the surface this week. Others crowd you now and you feel burdened with daily obligations. Later delay travel if possible. Events related to those at a distance surprise even confuse you now. Later, an impressive gain is overshadowed by unusual events.

LIBRA (9/24-10/23) Both personal and professional relationships are infused with good will during this week. Contracts assume importance for some and dealings with professionals are highlighted. Later, spruce up your wardrobe, avoid over committing yourself and take advantage of excellent communication aspects.

SCORPIO (10/24-11/22) Expect the pace to be hectic this week, keep your schedule flexible to accommodate inevitable changes and guard your own health, stress plays a key role. Later in the week, speculation may pay off big, tune in to your hunches and follow through! You are able to focus your energy more productively.

SAGITTARIUS (11/23-12/21) Matters relating to children, romance or creative self-expression rise to the surface. Hidden facts become important and dealings with professionals may be on the agenda for some. Later, try to keep things low key for awhile, background work is favored and travel is definitely best postponed.

CAPRICORN (12/22-1/20) Groups, clubs and friendships are highlighted during this week. Powerful alliances may be formed where you least expect. Financial trends are mixed but temporary. Later, critical turning points are related to home, family or property. Count on having more to say in these matters from here on.

AQUARIUS (1/21-2/19) Many are feeling more protective or possessive during this week, important values and priorities are shifting and learning to express your feelings and emotions may be a key issue for many. Later in the week, keep tabs on job going-on. Private or secret meetings will be important very soon.

PISCES (2/20-3/20) Investigate new job avenues, major financial overhauls continue into 1987 and more travel is sure to be on the agenda for some. You may get a second chance opportunity before this period is over, the past assumes importance. Later, don't be greedy; biting off more than you can handle will not work out.

William J. Gehrke, director of the Union County Division of Consumer Affairs, has received word from the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission (CPSC) that they are renewing a warning to parents that the dropside mesh-sided crib and playpens present an asphyxiation and suffocation hazard when a child is left in one of these products with a side down. Children should never be left in a dropside mesh-sided crib or playpen with a side down, Gehrke warned.
