Train show signals holiday festivities

The Model Railroad Club, Inc., of Union, will present its annual Christmas Model Railroad Show Nov. 28, 29, 30 and Dec. 5, 6, 7, 12, 13 and 14 at the Model Railroad Center, Lenape Park, Jefferson Avenue, Union, off Route 22, East.

Last year, nearly 14,000 people came to see the large HO and N scale train layouts. The HO scale system is 40 feet wide by 40 feet long and contains three different railroads. It also includes 28 towns, two cities, 70 bridges, more than 100 buildings, 700 freight and passenger cars and 60 locomotives. The railroads provide a constantly moving display of many types and forms of railroad equipment. The show is highlighted by a 30-minute light and sound presentation which takes the visitor on a tour of the miniature railroad empire.

N scale modular railroads will also be on display as well as modeling techniques and skills.

The club is located on Jefferson Avenue off of east-bound Route 22. Show hours are Fridays, 7-10 p.m.; Saturdays, noon-10 p.m., and Sundays: noon-6 p.m. Admission is $3 for adults and $1 for children under 12.

Further information is available by calling 964-8808. The Model Railroad Club is a non-profit, affiliated group of the Union County Department of Parks and Recreation.

It's a three-ring show

Every one of us has a little bit of circus appreciation and enjoyment within ourselves. We certainly had it when we were children; and we find, in the presence of circus fantasies, we are still children in adult bodies.

At least, that is the way a visit to the Paper Mill Playhouse in Millburn these days can affect one. In the first place, the Paper Mill, which is featuring the spectacular Tony Award-winning musical, "Barnum," has decorated its theater lobby and stage with circus paraphernalia — old and faded American flags from 1835 posted everywhere, tightropes above the stage and climbing ropes in the theater proper. There are clowns to entertain the youngsters — and that includes all of us — in the lobby and in the theater audience. Inspired by the lively carousel music from the show, "The Colors of My Life" and "I Like Your Style," male and female clowns cavort and tumble up and down the aisles, toss balloons from the balcony, as child and adult wrestle to grasp them, and halt occasionally to blow up and shape balloons for many of the theatergoers.

And so, long before the curtain even goes up, the youngsters are in a state of exhilaration and the adults are in a state of amused anticipation. Suddenly, the clowns disappear from the audience and reappear on stage, as the wonderful spectacle that is "Barnum," a circus of a show, unfolds its tents in a three-ring production that turns audiences into spectators. It is truly amazing what Neal Kenyon, the director, Dirk Lumbard, the choreographer, and Jim Coleman, the musical director — who, incidentally, is costumed and part of the show — can do within the limitations of theater. The exceptionally talented Coleman wrote the music for "Barnum," with lyrics by Michael Stewart and a book by Mark Bramble.

The cast is first-rate even though the story of the rise of American showman Phineas T. Barnum is predictable and takes a back seat. It is presented in circus acts.

Broadway's P. J. Benjamin plays

the title role with zest and vigor as he goes through the motions of a con artist, who sings what he believes...that "There Is a Sucker Born Ev'ry Minute;" and his interpretation of the word "humbug," which is frequently tossed about throughout the play, is that one can get away with fooling an unsuspecting public through magic and imagination. Barnum was a dreamer, and unlike most people, his dreams came true. Benjamin does some really fantastic tricks on stage, including doing a shaky tightrope walk high across the stage. It actually has the audience gasping.

Meg Bussert, who plays Chairy Barnum, the showman's sensible wife — who sees everything in black and white, rather than in her husband's outrageously bright, flashy and gaudy colors — is properly subdued. She has a fine singing voice and is especially effective whenever she opposes her husband's outlandish ideas, making compromises as she joins him in such musical numbers as "The Colors of My Life," "One Brick At A Time," "I Like Your Style" and "Black and White."

With the ultimate exquisite arrival of the legendary Swedish nightingale, Jenny Lind, beautifully played by the truly beautiful Judith McCauley, well known to Paper Mill audiences for her talent, beauty and superb operatic voice, one is already prepared for the attraction between Lind and Barnum and relishes the brief affair that is forthcoming.

McCauley, with her comical Swedish accent, has a smaller role than her other Paper Mill vehicles, but she certainly makes her presence felt, particularly when she sings the number, "Love Makes Such Fools of Us All."

There is so much to see, to enjoy and to experience at the Paper Mill these days that it just wouldn't be fair to point everything out. All a reviewer can say is that the climax of "Barnum" is so spectacular, it's worth the price of admission just to see how this marvelous production ends.

CLOWNING AROUND—P. J. Benjamin, who plays the title role in 'Barnum,' and Meg Bussert, who plays his wife, cavort in center of clowns in the musical adorning the Paper Mill Playhouse stage in Millburn. The show, which also stars Judith McCauley, will run through Dec. 14.

'Soul Man' misses making its mark

By MARK HAVILAND

In the movie "Soul Man," teen actor C. Thomas Howell plays a wealthy young Californian, used to getting everything in life, who suddenly must confront the fact that his parents will not fund his dream of attending Harvard Law School, choosing instead to spend the money in Barbados.

So in an act of desperation, he takes massive doses of tanning pills to turn his skin black so that he can attend the law school on a scholarship. But there are problems associated with being a young black in America as he quickly learns in brushes with the police and bigots both on and off campus.

Focus on film

He also must confront the fact that he is falling in love with a pretty black student, played by Rae Dawn Chong. Noted black actor James Earl Jones plays his criminal law professor, with his booming voice and style reminiscent of John Housman's role in "The Paper Chase."

This film is a variation of "Tootsie" and it could have been used to offer some insightful comments on the plight of blacks in America and our perceptions and biases toward them.

As directed by Steve Miner though, the film takes the Hollywood middle road, and alternately mixes thoughts of bias with heavy doses of teen humor. Considering that Miner's previous film was one of the Friday the 13th chapters, this film is a definite improvement for him. It strives hard to be non-offensive, however, but then could be considered inadvertently offensive with some of its jokes. Credibility is strained as usual. It is hard to believe the film's characters could really be convinced that Howell is black, with his makeup job making his skin look more olive green than black.

Overall, "Soul Man" is entertaining, but a thoughtful viewer will come away troubled by a film that attempts to adopt a black viewpoint when its director and probably almost everyone associated with the production of the film is probably white. In an ironic parallel with the perception of blacks by many whites in our society, the film's story has a lot of potential that is overlooked.

Circus slates auditions

Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey Circus will hold admission interviews for their Clown College and dancer auditions tomorrow, 5 p.m., at The Meadowlands Arena.

Additional auditions in the New York area will be Nov. 24, noon, McBurney YMCA, New York City, dancers only; and Dec. 4, 5 p.m., Nassau Coliseum, Uniondale, NY, clowns and dancers.

All hopefuls must be 18-years-old or older, high school graduates and free to travel 11 months of the year. Dancer candidates must wear leotards and have a dance training background.

Men and women considering attending the Clown College Admission Interview sessions need not worry about having a bag of clowning tricks already developed. The clowns currently touring with the circus are recruiting candidates for Clown College, a 10-week training session with classes in stiltwalking, unicycling, improvisation, prop building and costume construction.

Anyone interested in a clowning or dancing career with Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey Circus may contact (202) 364-5220 for further information.

The Circus has performances at The Meadowlands Arena through Nov. 30.

The all-new 116th Edition of The Greatest Show on Earth features The Shanghai Acrobatic Troupe from The People's Republic of China, America's own Wade Burck, and Miguel Vazquez, the only person to complete a quadruple somersault on the trapeze.

Tickets may be purchased at The Meadowlands Arena Box Office and all Ticketmaster outlets. Tickets can be ordered by phone by calling 935-3900, or for groups 460-4370.

Concert at Arboretum

Two subjects native to New Jersey and a madrigals holiday concert directed by a Springfield resident will be featured this month in the Sunday afternoon series at the Reeves-Reed Arboretum in Summit. All programs begin at 3 p.m.

On Nov. 23, zoologist Jim Sciascia will describe the successful fight leading to "The Return of the Osprey" as part of New Jersey's wildlife heritage. Sciascia is principal zoologist with the New Jersey Department of Environmental Protection (DEP), Division of Wildlife and Game.

Over Thanksgiving weekend, Nov. 30, the Madrigal Waits Ensemble of Maplewood will return to the Arboretum with medieval songs of Christmas. The group was formed in 1979 by Gloria Thurmond, now with the opera chorus of the New York Metropolitan Opera. The Waits are currently directed by Mark Lampariello of Springfield.

All Sunday programs, arranged by John S. Tenant of Summit, are free to the public at the Arboretum, 165 Hobart Ave., near Route 24.

Reverse mortgage is offered

With increasing frequency, older homeowners living on fixed incomes are experiencing difficulty in financing their retirement years.

In most cases, neighbors can't see their plight. They live in nice homes and to all outward appearances are managing well. But in reality many are depriving themselves of necessities — adequate medical care, diet and heating.

Moreover, many of these older homeowners live in daily fear of losing their greatest source of security, their home, because of higher property taxes.

Take the case of Mr. H. At age 78 he was a fairly typical retired homeowner. His home was one of many like it in a quiet suburban neighborhood and his equity in it was substantial.

Still, living on a fixed income consisting of Social Security and a modest pension, he had little left over after paying $2,000 in real estate taxes every year and meeting the $1,400 winter heating bills.

In reality, Mr. H. was house rich but cash poor. Like many of his retired friends and neighbors, he was considering selling his home of 25 years, worth $73,000, to produce more retirement income.

But now Mr. H. is better off, even able to afford a trip to see his sister in Florida and have minor repairs done to his home. He is even putting a few dollars into the bank each month for occasional large expenditures he may wish to make.

Mr. H. has achieved his financial turnaround by utilizing a long term reverse mortgage called the Individual Retirement Mortgage Account (IRMA). This long-term reverse mortgage is a financial instrument which allows older homeowners to receive monthly tax-free income for as long as they live in their homes.

Offered by American Homestead Mortgage Corporation, a mortgage bank, the IRMA program is available in Connecticut, Maryland, Massachusetts, New Jersey and Pennsylvania and will be available in Ohio in the first quarter of 1986. The program enables homeowners 62 and over to retain title to their homes, yet enjoy the whopping nest egg of equity, actually savings, accrued over years of ownership.

In essence, homeowners borrow a monthly amount, up to $700, against the equity in their homes. They continue to receive this monthly advance until they sell the home or die.

At the maturity of the loan, the homeowner or, more likely, the executor of the estate, pays off the principal and interest owed from the proceeds of the sale of the property. Under the terms of the reverse mortgage, the amount owed by the homeowner (or his estate) can never be more than 94% of the home's value even when the bank is owed more.

The amount a homeowner can receive tax-free each month is determined by the homeowner's age, the value of the home, the portion of the home's value made part of the reverse mortgage and the marital status of the homeowner(s). Payments are lower for couples because the monthly advances continue in the same amount until the death of the surviving spouse.

In addition to the monthly cash advance, a lump sum is also available to pay, for example, back taxes, medical bills or to meet other needs.

For people like Mr. H. who are house rich but cash poor, the long-term reverse mortgage provides a way to get the cash they need to make their retirement years their best years. As another homeowner put it, "I haven't felt this secure in a long time."

Dr. Mary F. Madigan has been appointed by the SAGE Board of Trustees to succeed Ann Reeves in the executive director post.

Madigan, a gerontologist, is familiar with the Summit community, having worked as director of community education at Overlook Hospital. During that time, she initiated educational programs relating to the health concerns of older persons.

"Caring for your Elderly Loved One" was the first family-centered information series in the state.

Madigan believes SAGE to be a gerontological pioneer in the development of elderly care services whose endeavors reflect the community's spirit of care and concern.

Madigan received her degree from Columbia University, has been in private practice as a consultant to industrial management and long-term care service institutions. She is an adjunct professor of gerontology at Kean College in Union and is a member of the New Jersey Older Workers Task Force. She recently presented a paper on Women in Retirement to the International Society of Pre-Retirement Planners in Grand Rapids, Mich. Madigan is a resident of Montclair.

A gift of $4,000 has been pledged by the Plainfield Foundation to Union County College for its Learning Is For Ever Center, says Dr. Derek N. Nunney of Summit, UCC president.

The L.I.F.E. Center is a comprehensive senior citizens' educational center comprised of five coordinated units: The senior citizens studies center, a network of college courses taught by college faculty at various sites throughout Union County; the gerontology degree program, a multi-discipline curriculum designed to train practitioners for work in organizations serving the elderly; the research program, which will document the impact of education on the aging; the resource unit, a gerontological library, and the retired professionals' unit, an organization of retired persons established to serve their own as well as community interests and needs.

"We plan to use this money to help establish our gerontological library, which will provide audio-visual and educational aids and computer services to benefit both Union County College and the community," Professor Oscar Fishtein, director, says.

The donation is the result of a campaign directed by Fishtein to raise $230,000 to assist the L.I.F.E. Center in its quest to meet the educational needs of senior citizens. The campaign has been seeking contributions from Union County residents, including senior citizens themselves, from business and industry and from foundations wishing to support the L.I.F.E. Center.

Rebecca's forecast

For week of Nov. 20 through Nov. 27

ARIES (3/21-4/20) Recent financial or romantic dilemmas reach a climax during this week. Choices are narrowed down and many will feel compelled to make long-term decisions. Later, blind faith is an issue, communications are still cloudy and emphasis begins to shift away from others and more to self. Travel is likely.

TAURUS (4/21-5/21) The coming week will see things 'straighten out' in work matters, communications are more effective and stalled plans or changes get the go ahead. Later, actions speak louder than words. A stubborn stance may spoil a social outing and a romantic partner's goings on could raise questions.

GEMINI (5/22-6/21) The intense focus on career, dependents and health begins to lift during this week. Expect to have more freedom and less responsibilities for a while and enjoy the break. Later, financial issues and interests dominate, individual needs are recognized and a change in residence will be contemplated.

CANCER (6/22-7/23) Leaving someone or something may be an important issue during this week. Changes in the source of your income are highlighted and beneficial help from elders or those in authority will be appreciated. Later, expect to be more busy. Daily schedules are sure to be more demanding for most.

LEO (7/24-8/23) The week ahead will go a long way in lifting sagging spirits. The last few months may have proved somewhat difficult and you will be happy to see the pressure recede. Later, you ponder legal or moral issues. Keeping spending to a minimum and better communications help you resolve domestic problems.

VIRGO (8/24-9/23) The focus will be on home, family or property matters. Siblings share news. Travel plans are best shelved for the time being. Issues relating to your personal responsibilities will dominate your thoughts. Later, others may challenge your views, especially where financially-related topics are concerned.

LIBRA (9/24-10/23) This continues to be an upbeat period for many. Local travel, errands and communications will keep you busy. Taking the initiative in career matters may be hard to resist. . . temper your enthusiasm with good judgment. Later, relatives assume importance and beneficial revelations end the week.

SCORPIO (10/24-11/22) Dealings with tax, insurance, pension or partner's money will highlight the weeks ahead. Stick with the tried and true and resist speculative ventures. Later in the week dependents provoke concern. Iron out domestic differences and clear away lingering projects. New starts are spotlighted.

SAGITTARIUS (11/23-12/21) The reclusive, suspicious and introspective trends of recent months draw to a close this week. You will feel more optimistic and energetic and others will notice the change. Later, fix-ups or home improvements may be on the agenda and health or work doldrums are lifted.

CAPRICORN (12/22-1/20) This may be an especially tranquil period for many. Romantic relationships flourish and sentimental exchanges are easily shared. A quiet evening with friends or family is sure to be on the agenda. Later, you may surprise yourself more than another with what you say.

AQUARIUS (1/21-2/19) The weeks ahead will highlight social, group and organizational activities. Accept invitations even though this may necessitate a bit of creative juggling. It will be well worth it. Later, tackle unfinished projects, schedule short trips and indulge your more romantic moods now.

PISCES (2/20-3/20) This week promises more activity. Travel is highlighted and your own creative self-expression may gain important recognition. Expect news from those at a distance and be alert to new opportunities that may emerge now. Later, relatives, neighbors or in-laws may share exciting information.
