THE WESTMINSTER DANCE THEATER, a non-profit group, has performed throughout the area for the past 14 years. The theater opens its doors in Union on Sept. 10.

Culture comes to town

By MARY MC KINLAY

More culture will be added to the community when the Westminster Dance Theater, a non-profit company, opens in Union at 969 Stuyvesant Ave. on Sept. 10.

The Westminster Dance Theater, which has been active for 14 years in Elizabeth, with two studios at the same location, has decided to add a studio in Union in order to reach a wider population.

Its faculty, which is under the direction of Karen Silva and Maryann Battell, is and always has been composed of professional members from the dance and theater world. Among the classes offered, according to Silva and Battell, are ballet, jazz, tap and aerobics. "There are classes for every dance and fitness level to help meet any goal. Each student is given the opportunity to receive a superior dance education, regardless of the reason for studying dance." Often the school provides an opportunity for its students to demonstrate their class-learned skills by coordinating programs for local schools and civic groups. Some Westminster dance students have been accepted into the School of American Ballet, Joffrey II Co., Alvin Ailey, and the Pittsburgh Ballet Theater.

The Westminster Dance Co., which is a division of the theater, performs throughout New Jersey and New York and specializes in giving demonstrations. Its members have performed full-scale concerts at the Garden State Arts Center, the McCarter Theater, the Ritz Theater and at various dance festivals and colleges.

Dancers, says Battell, must audition and be invited into the company before being able to perform. "The dance company performs mostly contemporary jazz with a classical background." There are 10 dancers in the company who are 20 years of age and older.

The Westminster Dance Theater is partially funded through the Union County office of Cultural and Heritage Affairs, which is funded by the New Jersey State Council of the Arts Department of the State. A grant is given to the dance theater annually for its performance expenses. Frank Flisak, company manager, explains that "the grant only makes up 15 to 20 percent of the total contributions we receive; we heavily rely on corporations and foundations to enable us to provide culture for the community." Some of the money the school receives goes toward the salaries of dancers, choreographers and some travel expenses.

The new Westminster Dance studio has relied on contributions in order to become established, Flisak indicates. The dance floors, mirrors and ballet bars all have been donated.

Battell says that registration will be held on Aug. 25 and Aug. 26 from 3 to 7 p.m., and Aug. 27 from 1 to 4 p.m. and that more information can be obtained by calling 686-7676.

MUSICAL GROUP FROM SOVIET UNION — The Usmishka instrumental quartet, a group popular in the USSR, featuring lead vocalist Mikhail Slivotsky, will appear in concert at Farther's Grove in Union on the Saturday evening.

USSR joins Folks in Union concert

The Usmishka Instrumental Quartet from the USSR will make its first American tour in concert this week. It will appear in performances in New York and New Jersey, including Farther's Grove, Union, Saturday evening.

Joining the group in concert will be the Karpaty Folk Chorus, composed of Slavic-American women from New York and New Jersey.

As a reciprocal event initiated by last year's visit of Karpaty to the Ukraine, the joint concert tour will reunite the two groups after their 1987 "packed house" tour which included performances in Kiev, Lvov, Ternopol as well as several farming communities.

Karpaty musical director Janet Fuchila said, "This series of concerts is eagerly awaited by those of us who toured with Usmishka last year, since we'll have the opportunity to show how song and music can build bridges of understanding."

Appearing in authentic Slavic dress, the performers will treat their audiences to "lively, lilting melodies of Russia, the Ukraine and Eastern Slovakia" as well as favorite American folk tunes and classics such as "Oh, Susanna," "This Land Is Your Land" and "Last Night I Had the Strangest Dream."

Taking its name from the Carpathian Mountain region, Karpaty Folk Chorus is comprised of 11 members with varied backgrounds. Some were born in the United States of Slavic-American parents, some were brought to this country as small children, and others emigrated from Eastern Europe as adults. Usmishka, or, in English, "Smile," is from the Western Ukrainian city of Ivano-Frankovsk.

Appearing with the quartet as lead vocalist is Mikhail Slivotsky.

More information and reservations can be obtained by calling 866-5910.

Don't take risks, substitute diet

A diet high in fat may increase your risk of developing heart disease, obesity and certain forms of cancer.

Unfortunately, most people do not pay attention to the medical risks related to poor eating habits, however their ears perk up when they hear that something will cause weight gain.

Fortunately, if people become concerned with their weight and begin to be discriminating about what they eat, they will automatically have health benefits.

The easiest way to lower fat calories is to substitute foods that are lower in fat. Try these ideas — choose lean meats, eat poultry without skin, substitute fish for meat, and broil or bake rather than fry. There are wonderful lower fat dairy products that are made from skim milk with half the calories and fat of regular cheese. Using diet mayonnaise in place of regular mayonnaise cuts the calories and fat in half also.

Being on the Lean Line eating plan teaches people how to reduce the fat calories in their diet and adds the fiber that nutritionists recommend for better health.

Ontario lakes in park now haven for loons

By JOHN B. WOLF
Professor, Union County College

Spindly black spruce, lush green carpets of moss and shining lakes dot the landscape that separates the North Woods, forests of spruce and tamarack that grow in bogs, and the South Woods, stands of maple, beech, birch and other deciduous trees.

During the nesting season,

The young birds accompany their parents around a lake. They are often observed riding on the back of one of the adults. Four species of loons — red-throated, Arctic, yellow-billed, and common — breed in Canada.

To Canadians, the common loon is the most familiar and beloved. According to legend, an Indian princess threw her string

- Low Cholesterol Recipe
Polynesian Chicken Kabobs
 1 oz. unsweetened pineapple juice from unsweetened canned chunk-style pineapple
 1 tbsp. soy sauce
 ½ tsp. powdered ginger
 Onion flakes, salt and pepper to taste
 7 oz. chicken cubes (will cook down to 6 oz.)
 8 oz. button mushrooms
 4 oz. green pepper, cut into squares
 3 oz. canned, unsweetened chunk-style pineapple

In bowl, mix pineapple juice, soy sauce, ginger, onion flakes, salt and pepper. Add remaining ingredients, cover, and marinate in refrigerator for several hours, preferably overnight, mixing occasionally. Then alternately skewer pieces. Broil or barbecue until chicken is browned. 2 servings.

For the birds

most Canadian forests, particularly the woodlands that engulf Ontario's Algonquin Provincial Park, are a sonorous place. The park's lakes are havens for the loon, a fish-eating bird that resembles a duck. Its piercing cry is distinctive, particularly at night when most forest creatures are silent.

After a deep dive into the depths of a lake, a loon is quite vocal. While submerged, the bird uses its long and pointed bill to snare fish for itself and its young.

of valuable pearls into a Canadian lake. These precious gems, after becoming entangled around the neck of an ugly bird that was fishing for its meal, became the raiment of the common loon. Henceforth, when this loon surfaced after a dive, its plumage was noticeably speckled and splashed in pearly hues. Thankful for its splendor, when the common loon completes a dive, it emits a quavering call across the waters where it makes its home.

Canadian lakes are truly "For the Birds."

FRESH APRICOT SORBET

Fresh fruit sorbets popular

Fresh fruit sorbets may never take the place of rich ice cream but they are more popular than ever before. Not only are sorbets more refreshing but once you have the fruit, everything else you need is in the pantry.

Here's an unusual recipe for apricot sorbet. Its luscious apricot flavor is complemented by a splash of rum or orange juice and a hint of candied ginger. Since fresh California apricots are in season, now is the perfect time to make Fresh Apricot Sorbet.

- FRESH APRICOT SORBET
 1 pound California fresh apricots (about 2½ cups, peeled and sliced)
 2 tablespoons fresh lemon juice
 2 tablespoons rum or orange juice

2 teaspoons finely chopped, candied ginger (optional)

1 cup water
 ½ cup sugar

Plunge whole apricots into a pan of boiling water, about 30 to 60 seconds. Remove to ice water. Peel and puree apricots. Stir in lemon juice. Add rum and ginger, as desired; set aside. Cook water and sugar over low heat, stirring occasionally. When sugar dissolves, bring to full boil over medium-high heat; simmer about 5 minutes. Remove syrup from stove; chill. Combine syrup and apricot mixture. Freeze in ice cream maker according to manufacturer's instructions. Best served fresh. Makes 1 quart (8 servings).

The bride-elect, who was graduated from Gov. Livingston Regional High School, Berkeley Heights, and Muhlenberg College in Allentown, Pa., where she received a bachelor of arts degree, is employed as a marketing consultant by the Prudential Insurance Co. of America, Roseland.

Her fiance, who was graduated from Union High School and Geneva College in Beaver Falls, Pa., where he received a bachelor of science degree in business administration, recently received a master of education degree from Rutgers-The State University of New Jersey, New Brunswick. He is employed as a senior systems auditor for the Prudential Insurance Co. of America in East Hanover.

A November wedding is planned.

Photo charge

There is a $10 charge for wedding and engagement pictures. Glossy photos suggested. Black and white preferred. Story and photo must be submitted within eight weeks of the wedding date. Photos cannot be returned by mail and must be picked up at Union Leader office.

Gerweck-Frino

Karen Gerweck, daughter of Mr. William Gerweck of Abner Lane, Union, and the late Mrs. Margaret Gerweck, was married recently to Kenneth Frino, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Frino Sr. of Suburban Road, Union.

The Rev. Ronald Rozniak officiated at the ceremony in St. Michael's Roman Catholic Church, Union. A reception followed at the Friar Tuck Inn, Cedar Grove.

The bride was escorted by her father. Ellen Amon of Maplewood served as matron of honor for her sister. Bridesmaids were Doreen Silakowski of Atlantic Highlands, sister of the groom; Carol Palermo of Harrison, Angela Klopfer of Rahway and Susan Valenti of Colonia, cousin of the bride.

Gerald Frino Jr. of Carlstadt served as best man for his brother. Ushers were Wayne Silakowski of Atlantic Highlands, brother-in-law of the groom; Vincent Buttiglieri of Union, George Frino of Mendham, brother of the groom, and Joseph Amon of Maplewood, brother-in-law of the bride.

Mrs. Frino, who was graduated from Union High School and Montclair State College, is a credit analyst employed by AT&T Credit Corp., Morristown.

Her husband, who was graduated from Seton Hall Preparatory High School and Seton Hall University, is a branch manager for First DeWitt Savings & Loan, Belleville.

The newlyweds, who took a honeymoon trip to Bermuda, reside in Maplewood.

'Great Gatsby' era to unfold at benefit

The elegance and fun of the "Great Gatsby" era will come alive on Sept. 23 and Sept. 24 at 8 p.m. when the Opera at Florham Guild presents the Great Gatsby Benefit Evening.

The turn-of-the-century, 100 room Vanderbilt-Twombly mansion will be the setting for dancing, entertainment and refreshments — all evoking the 1920s. Guests are encouraged to carry out the black and white theme with attire that is reminiscent of a time when the Charleston was the rage and high style the norm.

The planning committee, under the direction of Countess Hortensia z de Caspar von der Trabe, has arranged for singers, dancers, instrumentalists, magicians and a silent auction to participate. The committee stressed the importance of advance reservations by calling 277-4172.

Cruise tipping tips

"Cruising is all about being pampered," says Anne Machinist, center and travel agency manager for the AAA New Jersey Automobile Club, Florham Park. "You want to be waited on hand and foot, and you rank personal attention right up there with the sun, the sea and the food. Cabin stewards, waiters and other cruise staff make an art of fine service."

Tipping is an opportunity to show your appreciation for being treated like royalty. Yet, it's often treated as a delicate subject, discussed in hushed tones. The work "tip" originally meant "to insure promptness." It also can mean confusion, especially on a cruise ship.

"There's really no mystery to tipping on a cruise ship," says Machinist. "No cruise line, with the exception of Holland America, includes gratuities in its rates. But each has suggested tipping standards which are usually spelled out in the information packet you receive when embarking.

"A general rule of thumb is to plan for about $2.50 to $3 per person per day for your room steward and dining room waiter, and about half that amount for your busboy."

Machinist indicates that on a standard cruise of seven days or less, tip the waiter, busboy and cabin steward on the last night. "Envelopes are available at the purser's desk. Give the cabin steward his envelope just before going to dinner or leave it on the dresser. Hand the waiter and busboy their tips after dinner or leave them on the table. Some cruise lines split a specified amount between the two."

In the dining room, there are other people to tip in addition to the waiter and busboy. "If you order wine, the wine steward should be given $1 per bottle, but generally not more than $2 per sitting, even when more than one bottle is served. Tip before leaving the dining room or make special arrangements to do so periodically," says Machinist.

"And if the maitre'd was particularly pleasant or attentive to your special request, give him something appropriate to the situation."

Girl trio blends fine voices

By MILT HAMMER

Pick of the LPs: "Body," a young girl trio from Detroit, ear-pleasing with a close-knit, harmonizing sound on a self-titled MCA Records debut LP album.

Finding the right blend of voices is a rarity in pop music. The three girls achieve this special combination. If there's a natural chemistry in the mix, it's no accident. Letitia, Peggy and Francina Body are sisters as well as musical partners. The girls say their vocal ability is a God-given talent that's been polished by renowned professionals throughout their career.

With Letitia handling much of the lead vocals and her sisters strongly supporting her, Body strikes a blend that's both modern and classically soulful in approach. "In the Middle of the Night," the first single, flows with a simmering dance feel. Other tracks, such as "Possession" and "Whisper of the Heart," give the trio a slower intimate, romantic setting. "About Love" lends more than a touch of funk to their style. Body handles it all with a smooth sense of grace and expressiveness.

Body's tracks were supervised by an outstanding list of by people like Chaka Kahn, Denice Williams and Patti LaBelle," Peggy recalls. "The fact that we were sisters singing together made us a little special."

Body continued to perform at free concerts and festivals until producer/writers. Michael Powell and Dean Gant with Anita Baker; Ron "Have Mercy" Kersey with Stephanie Mills; Wilmer Raglin and Keg Johnson Levert and Carl Sturken and Evan Ridgers with Karen White, all lend their studio expertise to the project. They give Letitia, Peggy and Francina the sparkling, biting-but-classy musical support they deserve.

As the girls neared their teens, they began to enter talent contests and took part in school events around the Detroit area. They became involved in the city's performing arts program, working with former Motown singer Kim Weston. "We would sing songs music professionals took notice. From there the trio's reputation spread until Stevie Wonder became interested. The girls' parents insisted that they graduate from high school before embarking on a show business career, however. When each of the trio had completed schooling, each flew to California to begin working with Wonder.

Body recorded a demo tape with Wonder, which eventually led to the signing with MCA. In the meantime, the three toured with Earl Klugh in 1985 and with Jermaine Jackson in 1986 and also performed a duet with George Howard on "Sweetest Tabu."

Traveling Troupe seeks youths

All Children's Theater will be holding auditions for boys and girls ages, 8 to 12, who would like to become a member of its Kids On Tour Traveling Troupe, it was announced. Youngsters who plan to audition must be able to carry a tune, learn dance routines fairly quickly, read well and have good stage appearance.

Those who are accepted to the Troupe will rehearse Saturday afternoons during the school year in Montville Township, Morris County, and would be involved in a "Holiday Show," "Disney Revue" and "A Salute To Rock 'n' Roll."

The troupe tours for two weeks in December, March and June with the "Song and Dance" productions. Tours are usually in the North Jersey area and usually take place on weekends.

Kids On Tour Traveling Troupe, sponsored by All Children's Theater, Inc., a Parsippany based nonprofit "All Kids" performing arts organization, has performed in more than 65 communities during the past three years including Atlantic City and New York. The troupe has performed at street festivals, parades, public and private school assembly programs, dinner-theater productions, shopping malls, transportation centers, nursing homes, youth organizations, colleges and universities, sing-a-longs, radio stations, cable-TV and benefit performances.

Any child who is between 8-12 years of age who would like to audition can contact All Children's Theater, Inc., 1180 Rt. 46 West, Parsippany, 07054, or call the office at 335-5328. Auditions will be held now through early September by appointment.

Horoscope

For week of Aug. 18-25

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) This would be a good week for you to be everyone's "shoulder to cry on." You're at your compassionate best and will be able to help others around you. Consideration now goes a long way.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) A business partner will turn out to be your best source for advice right now. You can also feel free to share certain confidences with this person as he or she will go nowhere else.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) Although advancement in business is favored this week, the financial aspect of this will take some time to catch up with everything else. Plan your budget wisely.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) The stars are spinning romantic fancies for you this week, although you will have to help them out with this. Try not to be too moody or overly sensitive with others.

LEO (July 23 to Aug. 22) It seems that co-workers are just not in the mood to be cooperative this week. It may be best to tackle whatever you can from your own cozy lion's den, if that is at all possible.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 to Sept. 22) Try to be more realistic this week when it comes to romance. You may be looking at things through the proverbial rose-colored glasses. The weekend is good for tending to certain domestic chores.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Although you may feel it's time to spruce things up around the house, your mate may not be in agreement over how much to spend concerning this. Try not to lose your temper while making your point.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Creative pursuits are favored this week, but don't let these activities overshadow what still must be done on the job. Those around you will not be in any mood to take advice from you, so try to curb that side of your nature.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) It's a good week for you to start an austerity program and start saving some money. If you look hard enough, you will find some areas in which you've been a bit overindulgent.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 19) This week is favored for friendships, but dealings with relatives may not be as pleasant. If it's possible, try to keep away from those family members who seem to be cantankerous right now.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 to Feb. 18) It is not the time to share your good news with others concerning your career. Wait for the right time, which you'll recognize. The weekend is best for quiet activities.

PISCES (Feb. 19 to March 20) Although your popularity seems to be at a high level this week, you could still find yourself arguing with someone over a financial matter. Try to be more compromising.

Selecting apples is exciting art

Selecting fruit today has become an art. Produce shelves are bursting with a colorful array of new and exciting crops which, a decade ago, would have seemed unimaginable.

Spurred by consumer boredom and a lust for just-harvested freshness, fruits from around the world now can be enjoyed at their peak season. Knowing when those seasons are, though, is the key.

This summer, one of the tastiest temptations comes from New Zealand. Exactly opposite to our growing season, New Zealand celebrates its apple harvest in March and April with six unique varieties.

What makes these particular apples so sensational is their just-ripened taste. Unlike domestic varieties which have been picked in the fall and cold stored to last throughout the year, these apples burst with flavor, crispness and vitality.

First-of-the-season favorites include the Gala and Royal Gala, two dessert varieties which are unique to New Zealand. Favored among Europeans, the Galas have an appearance similar to a peach, with a sweet, delicate flavor. Serve diced in salads or tossed in fruit compotes.

The best known variety hailing from New Zealand is the tart-crisp Granny Smith. New Zealand introduced this apple to North America about 30 years ago and today it's a universal favorite.

Superb baked, cooked or teamed with sharp cheeses, this variety arrives in May and keeps well into August.

A new knockout is the tangy-sweet Braeburn. Unlike any other variety, the Braeburn's juicy, firm flesh and distinct clean taste has spurred enormous consumer demand.

As you venture through the produce section this summer, remember that "fresh" means just harvested and, if you're unsure whether it's winter in Chile or fall in New Zealand, just ask your produce manager.

Affordable housing is becoming scarce

"In the midst of economic prosperity, affordable housing is no longer available to a large and growing segment of our population," stated Anthony Ziccardi, president of the New Jersey Builders Association, in his recent testimony before the Housing and Community Development Subcommittee of the Banking, Finance and Urban Affairs Committee of the U.S. House of Representatives.

"New Jersey is a state whose unemployment rate averaged about 4 percent last year and whose per capita ranked second among all the states," stated Ziccardi. Yet an estimated 25,000 to 35,000 individuals are homeless. An especially alarming dimension of the problem is the increase in the number of homeless families, including those with at least one wage earner present. "These statistics validate the need for a housing policy at all levels of government," said the NJBA president. "We must restore housing to its priority and, when making other policy choices, we must assess their potential impact on our ability to provide affordable housing to all segments of the population."

The goal of a national housing policy, said Ziccardi, should be that every household have the opportunity to obtain housing, either rental or purchase, which absorbs no more than 25 percent of their income and requires a commute of no more than 40 minutes. A substantial increase in the supply of housing is necessary to achieve this goal.

Ziccardi emphasized that market mechanisms, unless unduly disrupted by excessive regulation, can respond to the housing needs of most families. Public programs should complement market mechanisms in ways that will enable them to serve those segments of the population that are at a competitive or economic disadvantage. "A housing policy that is premised on cooperation between the private and public sectors, in a spirit of partnership, will be more efficient and equitable than one that relies exclusively on public interventions," he said.

Addressing the negative effects of redundant and unnecessary regulations would result in significant benefit for both the supply and affordability of housing, according to Ziccardi. "An estimated 25 to 33 percent of the cost of a new house in New Jersey is attributable to redundant and unnecessary regulations. Given the other policy considerations confronting the state, e.g., environmental issues, infrastructure needs, fiscal stability, it is easy for our policy officials to ignore the housing needs of the citizens and to consider other issues without regard to the implications for the supply and cost of housing."

Project of the week

Here's a glider settee that's as popular as that surrey mentioned in an old favorite song. What could be more fun than a soft summer breeze, a cold drink, and a relaxing afternoon spent on your glider settee with someone very special? This handsome and sturdy outdoor piece is built from exterior fir plywood and is approximately 28 inches wide by 51 inches long by 65 inches tall to the base of the sunshade. Sail cloth and cotton fringe makes up the sunshade. For instructions on how to build this attractive addition on wood to your backyard, see the story on this week's Project of the Week.

To obtain Glider Settee, Pattern 369, please send $4.50.

Once you're in the "swing" of do-it-yourself, you may want to try our collection of eight popular backyard projects including a chaise, bird shelters, a lawn swing and more! Order Lawn Packet, C22, $9. (C22 does not include #369). All pattern prices include postage and handling. California residents please add 6 percent sales tax. Send check or money order to Steve Ellingson, c/o County Leader Newspapers, P.O. Box 2383, Van Nuys, CA 91409-2383.

Using our full-size traceable pattern and step-by-step directions with photos, you can construct this glider by simply tracing the different parts onto wood, sawing them out, and assembling. A complete materials list takes all the guesswork out of purchasing the required supplies for this pro-

Home sales to drop

Sales of new single-family homes are expected to total 655,000 units for 1988, dropping 2.8 percent from the 674,000-unit total expected for this year.

SETTEE with the fringe on top can be built by the do-it-yourselfer of the house from exterior fir plywood and is approximately 28 inches wide by 51 inches long by 65 inches tall to the base of the sunshade. Sail cloth and cotton fringe makes up the sunshade. For instructions on how to build this attractive addition on wood to your backyard, see the story on this week's Project of the Week.

MANICURED LANDSCAPE — A beautifully manicured landscape like this is easy to achieve and maintain with the use of various organic mulches. The wood chips shown here were produced by running fallen branches and tree prunings through an electric garden chipper.

'Mulch' manicures lawns

What smothers weeds, enriches garden soil and saves water? The answer is "mulch," and it does that and more.

Mulch, shredded organic matter you spread over the soil, prevents weed seeds from germinating by keeping them in the dark. Mulch conserves precious soil moisture and keeps plant roots cool and growing in the hottest weather. It will keep vegetables and flowers clean, prevent soil from compacting in heavy rain, define garden areas, and give a professionally landscaped look to any piece of property.

Commercial mulch is made of everything from corn cobs to peanut shells. The mulch that's sold at garden centers is generally pine bark, but you can make excellent mulch from material you've already got on your property. Here are some tips from the experts at Vornado Power Products on how to make and use your own mulches.

Wood chips, autumn leaves, grass clippings, pine needles — all make good mulches and are readily available. Your lawn mower will provide you with all the grass clippings you'll ever need. A good garden shredder will allow you to make more durable, attractive mulches, while cleaning up brush piles, leaves, prunings, clippings and other debris at the same time.

Vornado's Chipp'r/Shredd'r/Mulch'r is a particularly versatile machine designed for the average-sized piece of property. Available in electric or gas-powered models, the lightweight, portable unit will turn branches up to 2 inches in diameter into fragrant wood chips. Lighter stuff, like clip-

Spread mulch around the base of plants to a depth of two to three inches. Mulch in late spring or early summer after your soil has had a chance to warm up. Heavy soil should be loosened first. In the vegetable and flower garden, wait until plants are about four inches tall, then spread mulch around and between the rows.

Where appearance is impor-

Garden spots

pings, prunings, leaves and such can be quickly shredded for use as mulch or composting material.

This is the only shredder on the market that operates standing or lying on its side. In the lie-down mode, grass clippings, thatch and other debris can be raked directly into the hopper. The machine automatically bags all processed material for ease of handling.

The Chipp'r/Shredd'r/Mulch'r retails for between $300 and $400, depending on whether you choose the electric or gasoline model. It's sold at chain retailers and independent power equipment dealers.

tant, consider color and texture of mulch material and how long you want it to last before it needs replacing. Grass clippings, for instance, are not particularly attractive and break down in a single season. Wood chips are better looking and last longer.

Some mulches are more suited to particular kinds of plants than others. Pine bark and needles increase soil acidity as they decompose. Evergreens like this condition, but some plants may require an addition of garden lime to balance soil pH. Ask at the garden center about what kinds of mulch are best for your garden.

Garden Hotline hours expanded

The Rutgers Cooperative Extension of Union County has expanded its garden hotline hours.

Union County residents can call to have their garden questions answered free of charge, thanks to efforts of our Master Gardening volunteers. The number to call to reach the hotline is 233-9366, 1-3 p.m. weekdays or 7-9 p.m. on Monday and Wednesday evenings.

Legislature ponders 11th grade test

The New Jersey State Department of Education's statewide basic skills testing program continues to evolve as the state Legislature considers raising the high school graduation test from the ninth to the 11th grade. Under the proposed legislation, passing the 11th-grade test would be a graduation requirement beginning with the graduating class of 1995.

"Higher education, business and industry, and military services demand much more of today's high school graduates than in the past," said Commissioner of Education Saul Cooperman. "In order to better prepare high school graduates for an increasingly technological society, we must continue to raise basic skills standards."

New Jersey high school students already have taken the first step in this evolution by moving beyond the Minimum Basic Skills (MBS) test. They now are rising to the challenges of the more difficult High School Proficiency Test (HSPT). The HSPT is the basic skills test for students who entered ninth grade beginning in 1985.

"Students perform best when the academic standards established for them are rigorous and challenging, yet attainable," said Commissioner Cooperman. "Schools must constantly challenge them to strive for their highest levels of achievement. Academic standards must be rigorous enough to ensure that a high school diploma means graduates can read, write, compute and reason at levels that will allow them to function independently and productively in the 21st century."

New Jersey took the first step toward ensuring that its graduates had learned basic reading and mathematics skills when it instituted the Minimum Basic Skills (MBS) test in 1978. The MBS was first officially administered in 1982 to ninth-graders, who had to pass both the reading and mathematics parts of the test as a requirement to graduate in 1985.

"The MBS test was just a first step, measuring only minimum skills," the commissioner said. "Student performance on the MBS in its first few years demonstrated that New Jersey was ready to move beyond the minimum level."

In 1983, the state Board of Education took the second step to raise New Jersey's expectations of its students, voting to replace the MBS test with the more demanding High School Proficiency Test (HSPT). The HSPT includes a writing portion in addition to reading and mathematics tests. It became a graduation requirement beginning with ninth-graders in 1985-86, who must pass all three parts to earn diplomas in 1989.

Developed with the assistance of a broad-based panel representing K-12 education, higher education, business, industry and parents, the HSPT also measures only ninth-grade skills. But it is a tougher test than the MBS. To pass the HSPT, students must apply basic skills in more complex ways, such as writing a coherent essay, interpreting reading passages and solving multiple-step math problems.

"The difference between the two tests is not simply the degree of difficulty within the same set of skills," said Cooperman. "The HSPT assesses added skills in language arts and mathematics, including problem solving and writing. Thus, the HSPT represents a major shift in what students are expected to learn in kindergarten through grade nine."

Center offers scholarships

"Britannica Learning Centers are now offering scholarships to area-wide students," according to Kathy Druding, regional manager in Essex County.

"These scholarships will be available to students in the elementary through high school grades," Druding said. Courses will be adapted to meet student needs and will cover either sessions in the reading or math programs, college survival skills, SAT (ACT) preparation, or study skills, a new course developed as part of the Evelyn Wood program.

"Students who apply must have both a financial and educational need," she added. "And, there will be two types of scholarships, full and partial. The partial scholarships will be offered on a 50/50 basis, with the center funding half and the student the remaining half."

"The purpose of the program is to assist needy students in an increasingly competitive world by offering them the opportunity to improve their reading or math skills, prepare for college entrance exams, or develop good study habits," Druding explained.

Scholarships are available across the country through Britannica Learning Centers. The first centers were established 18 years ago by the parent firm, American Learning Corporation, which is now a subsidiary of Encyclopaedia Britannica, Inc. Currently, there are more than 100 centers which offer achievement programs to students of all ages.

The new scholarships will be offered on an ongoing basis. For more information on these scholarships contact Joanna Reed at the Millburn Center at 201-379-7323 or call 800-445-READ for the number of the center nearest your home.

Experimenting with school lunch menus

You can get your child to take a lunch box to school, but can you make sure your youngster eats what's inside?

Your concept of a healthful lunch may appeal to an adult, but it may not be appetizing to your youngster. The celery and carrot sticks you faithfully pack probably go uneaten.

Here are some tips for healthy, well-balanced lunches that your child will eat instead of trading or, worse, throwing away.

• Experiment with sandwich stuffings. Try variations on the theme: Peanut butter with banana — always remember to slice lengthwise for a more secure sandwich — or team it with raisins, dates, even shredded coconut. How about sliced cheese and tomato drizzled with Italian dressing, or cream cheese with raisins and chopped nuts?

• Add variety with different breads. If you rotate among four or five fillings of the usual kid-pleasers such as peanut butter or tuna fish, add variety by using a different bread for each day of the week. Some possibilities: Wheat, honey bran, rye, pumpernickel, raisin bread, or a bagel, pita, English muffin or onion roll.

• Make dessert healthy. Pack a dessert that's naturally sweet and nutritious — one your kids will love and you'll feel good about serving. Instead of cakes or candy, try one of the single-serve fruit paks. Flavors include apple strawberry, apple cherry, apple peach and apple pineapple.

• Hide the veggies. Add finely chopped celery, carrots, or green pepper to tuna or chicken salad, and your youngster will eat veggies the painless way.

• In cold weather, pack a hot lunch. A wide-mouth thermos filled with vegetable soup, chili, stew or spaghetti is warmly welcomed during winter months. But for a really fun surprise, put boiling water in a thermos and drop in an all-beef hotdog with some sauerkraut. The hot dog and sauerkraut will cook during the morning while the water cools, so your child won't get burned at lunchtime. Don't forget the hot dog roll and small packs of mustard or ketchup.

• Vary the beverage. Low fat milk is important but, for variety, once a week substitute other drinks such as low fat hot cocoa or apple juice. The single-serve juice packs are especially convenient.

• Brighten the day. Add a big, bright napkin or wildly colored plastic utensils for a touch of cheer.

• Include food to share with friends. On special days, give your child a chance to share with friends. Add an extra Mott's Fruit Pak, a bag of homemade popcorn or several cheese minis for your munchkin to hand around.

Back-to-school safety program under way

The beginning of a new school year always brings the issue of safety to the minds of parents. Unfortunately for students, safety often takes a back seat to the excitement of seeing old friends and starting a new year of study.

Local police departments and educators in Cranford, Elizabeth, Kenilworth, Mountainside, Linden, Springfield, Union, Roselle, and Roselle Park are working with the AAA New Jersey Automobile Club to remind motorists that "School's Open — Drive Carefully." This year's "School's Open" program focuses on running feet — the feet of children across the nation on their way to and from the classroom.

"Safety is usually not the first thing on a young child's mind as he or she travels to and from school. Impulsive actions are normal behavior for children," said

Capt. Robert Foster of the Union Police Department. "For this reason, it is important that drivers take the safety initiative by keeping their eyes open for children."

Traffic accidents kill more children up to age 14 than drowning, burns, falls and choking/poisoning combined. Last year in eastern Union County, thirty-eight school-age children were killed or injured by motorists.

Capt. Foster indicated that although motorists have the major responsibility to drive carefully, students and their parents must also make safety a top priority. Parents must discuss and reinforce basic traffic safety rules with their children to ensure a safe trip to and from school.

Parents can help, advised Capt. Foster, by observing these guidelines:

Talk to your children about proper pedestrian safety. Remind your children that they must see and be seen, cross only at corners and obey all pedestrian-traffic rules.

Discuss bus safety with your children. Bus riders should wait for their bus away from traffic, board and exit only when the bus driver indicates it is okay to do so, and remain seated while on board.

Avoid driving your children to the bus stop. Additional cars clustered around this area create a traffic hazard.

If you must drive your children to school, remember the most dangerous stop is the one in front of the school. Parents, students, cars and buses create a dangerous situation.

Tote bags, bookbags or backpacks are wise investments for your children since many accidents occur when a child dashes to retrieve a dropped book.

To get the school year off to a safe start, local police departments will be displaying AAA "School's Open" posters near roadways and distributing general traffic safety materials to all area schools.

Additionally, many public and parochial schools will be using AAA's "School's Open — Drive Carefully" label stickers to help identify first time school bus riders and their respective bus route. Participating schools include: Washington, Livingston, Connecticut Farms, and Hamilton Elementary schools in Union; St. Hedwig, St. Anthony, Woodrow Wilson, St. Vladimir Ukrainian Catholic, St. Patrick's Elementary, and Madison Monroe #16 schools in Elizabeth; St. Elizabeth, No. 4, and No. 5 schools in Linden; St. Joseph the Carpenter, Harrison, and Lincoln schools in Roselle; Springfield Public Schools; and Our Lady of Lourdes in Mountainside.

Getting ready for the S.A.T.

"Score High on the S.A.T." That's what Mark Walters, executive director of Learning Tree Associates, believes students can do — provided, of course, they have prepared properly for the college-entry examination.

Walters has been preparing students to take the test for more than 25 years as a teacher, vice principal and principal in the New York City schools.

Learning Tree Associates was formed in 1982 as an outgrowth of the successful results experienced by Walters. He believes that in coaching for the S.A.T. one must teach for the test.

He feels that such an approach is entirely valid for the purpose of achieving the highest possible

S.A.T. score. Through the years, Walters and his staff of certified teachers have developed countless strategies, shortcuts, and techniques to boost confidence, all designed with one purpose in mind — to outsmart the S.A.T.

Walters also uses many of the techniques in the Princeton Review book, "Cracking the System" which is one of the three texts the students receive.

Learning Tree claims that it has been able to raise thousands of test scores by 100 points to over 200. And Walters guarantees a score increase, or the student may take the course again — free. For more information, call toll free, 1-800-THE EXAM, 1-800-843-3926. Classes begin this fall throughout Central Jersey.

Now's the time to have eyes examined

You may think that a child's vision problem would be easy to detect. But it's not. Children who see the world in a blur can seem perfectly normal.

But when these children start school, they may not seem so normal anymore. Instead, they can seem difficult because they are having trouble learning to read and write.

That's how it is with a vision problem. Unfortunately, the signs of a child's vision problem are often mistaken for something else, such as a failure to pay attention.

That's compounded by the fact that most children don't realize they have a vision problem because they think everyone sees things the way they do, says the American Optometric Association.

For example, a child who is near-sighted and sitting at the back of the class may believe that the blackboard would be blurry to anyone sitting that distance away. Or, a child who lacks eye-focusing skills may think everyone's eyes have trouble adjusting when looking from far to near and back again.

So how does a parent determine that a child may have a vision problem when the child may not even realize it?

One of the best ways is by having your doctor of optometry examine your child's eyes at the beginning of each school year. By reviewing your child's health and vision history, conducting a battery of vision tests and examining the health of your child's eyes, the optometrist can determine whether or not your child has a vision problem.

Between examinations, parents and teachers can watch for signs that a child may have a vision problem. These include losing his or her place while reading, avoiding close work, holding reading material closer than normal, frequent headaches, irritated eyes, reversals when reading or writing, and performing below potential.

If your child actually does have a vision problem, your optometrist may prescribe glasses, contact lenses or vision therapy, which reinforces or reteaches vision skills that are vital to learning.

State considers 11th grade skills testing

 To prepare their students for the new basic skills standard, many school districts had to re-align their curricula in these grades. The state assisted such districts by conducting regional and district curriculum workshops for educators. The state also has provided curriculum materials to help local educators prepare students with the necessary basic skills.
 "The skills assessed by the HSPT continue to be critically important for all students," Cooperman said. "But a high school graduation test should measure the level of those skills near the end, not the beginning, of high school.

"The HSPT is helping to raise basic skills standards; but ninth-grade skills are simply not adequate," he added. "Leaders in higher education, business, industry and military service assert that high school graduates must come to them better prepared. Remedial education is not their job, yet they are forced to teach basic skills to college freshmen and new workers who didn't learn the necessary skills in high school."
 The 11th-grade test, proposed by Governor Thomas H. Kean in January, would assess most of the same skills as the HSPT, at a level two grades higher. If approved by the Legislature, the first official administration of the test to 11th-graders would occur in December 1993. Thus, students would be required to pass the new test as a requirement to graduate beginning with the graduating class of 1995.

 In addition to the 11th-grade test, the proposal includes the establishment of an eighth-grade test to identify students needing remedial assistance before they enter high school. The eighth-grade test would not be a requirement for entry into ninth grade.
 The legislative proposal also includes practice testing of 11th-graders in the 1990-91, 1991-92 and 1992-93 school years, which would help local educators and students prepare for the new test.

"As with the HSPT and MBS, the state would support the new testing program with curriculum materials and training," said Dr. Joel Bloom, assistant commissioner of the department's Division of General Academic Education. "However, it's anticipated that curriculum alignment would be less extensive in the shift from the HSPT to the 11th-grade test than in the shift from the MBS to the HSPT."
 As with the HSPT, school districts also would receive state compensatory education funding to provide extra instruction for students who need help learning the reading, mathematics and writing skills assessed by the new test.

 The bill under consideration by the legislature was introduced in April by Assemblymen Joseph Kyrillos and Joseph Palaia (A-2928), and was passed by the state Assembly (73-3) in June. The State Senate Education Committee released the bill (S-2547), sponsored by Senator Matthew Feldman, which is expected to be considered by the full Senate this fall.
