TWO SECTIONS — 50 CENTS

Borough Council predicts big plans for '90

By SUZETTE STALKER

The Mountainside Borough Council marked the start of a new decade Tuesday with the swearing in of two council representatives, a fond farewell to several other officials, and an optimistic look toward the municipality's future through the 1990s and beyond.

Councilmen Werner Schon and Bart Barre, both of whom were re-elected to three-year terms last November, were administered the oath of office by Municipal Judge Robert Ruggerio during the council's 96th annual reorganization meeting. Each of the men will be serving their third term on the governing body.

Councilman Robert Wyckoff, who has served on the council seven years, was appointed as Borough Council president. He succeeds Councilwoman Marilyn M. Hart in that position, who last year became the first woman ever to be named as council president in Mountainside.

Mayor Robert Vigilanti gave his traditional end of the year address, in which he recapped the community's highlights in 1989, while looking forward to major changes to come in the borough in the year ahead.

He cited completion of the borough's Emergency Management Plan, the development of a leaf collection program, the acceptance of the Hetfield House into the New Jersey and federal registers of historic places, and a successful fundraiser for seriously ill toddler "Baby John," as some of Mountainside's chief accomplishments during the past year.

The mayor anticipated such things for 1990 as increased services to Mountainside's senior citizens, solid waste and recycling improvements, expansion of the Recreation Department, enhancement of the Fire Department and the First Aid Squad, and further advancements within the Borough Hall network itself.

Several individuals were recognized by the mayor for their contributions to the community during the past year — among them being Walter F. Dinizo, who was recently named as director of Mountainside's Public Works and Facilities, and Senior Citizen Coordinator Helen Rosenbauer.

"Council must now consider and evaluate what direction the borough will be taking for the next decade, and our 100th birthday," the mayor remarked. "We must and will study what services our residents require."

"We will review what services our residents would like to have, and we must look at the borough's physical plant and see what improvements will be necessary to take Mountainside into the year 2000," he concluded.

Resolutions of appreciation were extended during the evening to three departing members of the Mountainside Board of Adjustment, including Board Chairman C. George Novitt, William McNamara and Henry G. Largey, as well as to Frank M. Hiljer, an out-going member of the borough's Shade Tree Commission.

Local businessman Howard Masser, who purchased state-of-the-art body armor for the entire Mountainside Police Department, was also honored. In addition, Boy Scout Troop 177 and Cub Scout Pack 177 also received a resolution commending their members for their achievements throughout the year.

Committee appointments were also announced during the meeting. The Board of Ethics Committee will be chaired by Councilwoman Marilyn Hart, with Council President Wyckoff and Councilman William T. Jackson as members. The Fire Committee will be chaired by Councilman Schon, with Councilmen Louis Maas and Jackson as members.

The Administrative and Executive Committee will be chaired by Wyckoff, with Jackson and Barre as members. The Public Works and Facilities will also be chaired by Wyckoff, with Schon and Jackson as members.

The Police Committee will be chaired by Barre, with Wyckoff and Jackson as members. The Solid Waste and Recycling Committee will be chaired by Maas, with members Schon and Jackson as members.

Local officers are cited

The Mountainside Police Department awarded departmental service awards to seven of its members Tuesday during the Borough Council's annual reorganization meeting.

Corporal Scott Worswick and Sgt. James Debbie received commendations, which are granted to any member of the department for exceptional performance, but which is not of the caliber to qualify for the higher awards.

Sgt. John Olock, Officer Wayne Martin, Corporal Todd Turner, Lt. Herman Hafeken and Corporal Richard Osieja were all awarded certificates of recognition, which are given to an officer who has performed a significant duty during the course of the year, but which is not of the caliber to qualify for the higher awards.

Barre and Schon were each elected to three-year terms last November in an uncontested election. During the meeting, Mayor Robert Vigilanti also gave his traditional message, in which he looked back on Mountainside's achievements in 1989 and his hopes for the future.

Education bill may boost teacher unions' power

By RAY BOGUSZ

Teacher unions stand to gain in their ability to negotiate in the process of collective bargaining if Gov. Thomas Kean signs a bill passed to him recently by the state Senate.

Bill A-4706, sponsored by Assembly Majority Leader Garabed (Chuek) Haytaian (R-Warren) and Assemblyman John Paul Doyle (D-Ocean) was approved by the Assembly Dec. 19 by a 59-10 vote and shortly afterwards by a 26-7 vote of the Senate.

Gov. Kean is now reviewing the bill, which is a scaled-down version of the original Haytaian-Doyle "scope" proposal. If signed into law, it would broaden the scope of contract negotiations between teacher unions and local school boards.

Among the new items placed on the bargaining table would be the assignment of extracurricular work and disciplinary actions against teachers.

Teachers statewide seem to strongly support passage of the bill, as does the State Department of Education and New Jersey Education Association, which feels the legislation would make resolution of the issues covered more efficient and less expensive.

The New Jersey School Boards Association opposes the bill, arguing that it would increase the cost of contract settlements, creating a managerial disparity among local school boards.

Others echoed this sentiment, including Senate Majority Leader John Lynch (D-Middlesex), who argued for statewide policies instead of local bargaining units.

Members of the Board of Education in several local municipalities recently received letters from the NJSBA urging them to tell state legislators to vote down the bill. The NJSBA contends that the bill "violates the public's interest."

Teachers in the area countered this move by writing letters in support of the bill to the state Assembly and Senate.

Dr. Donald Merachnik, Superintendent of Schools for Union County Regional High School District 1, remarked last week that he was opposed to the legislation because he feared that extended negotiations would place a harsh financial burden on New Jersey's more than 600 school districts.

The regional district includes Jonathan Dayton Regional High School in Springfield, which enrolls students from both Springfield and Mountainside, and David Brearley Regional High School, which serves Kenilworth students.

"I believe the legislation will be costing the school districts in New Jersey an enormous amount of money," Merachnik commented. "It will lead to more negotiations over issues which were heretofore non-negotiable."

Library to showcase late author's unique stories

By SUZETTE STALKER

The Mountainside Public Library will soon be featuring several works by the late children's author Ezra Jack Keats as part of its growing collection of audio-visual materials, Library Director Alice Cronin announced this week.

Four of Keats picture books will be showcased in separate "storyboxes," geared toward pre-schoolers, which will be available for circulation among schools and private individuals throughout Union County by the end of this month.

Each storybox will contain a video of the story, a cassette, and eight paperback copies of that particular tale, "so that children may listen to it individually or in a small group after viewing the video," the library director explains.

The series, penned during the 1960's, is being funded through a grant from the Brooklyn-based Ezra Jack Keats Foundation, which was established after the author's death in 1983. The foundation annually awards $500 "mini-grants" to various institutions throughout the United States.

Cronin reported that the Mountainside Library was one of only 10 Keats grant recipients nationwide this year, adding that she and her staff were "very honored" by the foundation's bequest.

Cronin remarked that the Keats stories are distinguished not only by their quality and strong themes of love and friendship but because Keats, who was white, used a black youngster, Peter, as the central character, in situations common to children everywhere — an unusual literary turn in the 1960's.

All of Keats' stories revolve around either Peter or his friends, all of whom live in an urban area. In "Peter's Chair," the boy learns to love his baby sister and eventually share his prize possession with her; in "A Snowy Day," he discovers the simple delights of playing in the snow, and in "Whistle for Willie," Peter struggles to learn how to whistle for his dog.

The fourth entry, "The Trip," is a Halloween story about Peter's friend Louie, who has moved to a new neighborhood, and who imagines going back to his old block to go trick-or-treating with his friends.

Each storybox, in addition to the audio-visual materials and books, will contain various tokens relating to the selection, such as a small wooden chair, a stuffed toy, plastic whistles, and Halloween black eye masks.

"The stories are very warm and loving, and they teach children about the sameness of all mankind, no matter what color they are or where they live," Cronin explained last week. "We all want to succeed, to learn new things, and to love our friends."

A Brooklyn resident, Keats was a multi-talented artist who specialized in acrylics and collages, but who chose to devote his talent to children's books rather than painting for profit, according to Cronin.

The artist wrote more than a dozen children's books during his lifetime, Cronin continued, and was awarded the Caldecott Medal for most distinguished children's picturebook for "A Snowy Day" in 1963. In addition, he was a runner-up during other years for several of his other stories.

Cronin emphasized that the library is anxious to share the Keats collection, which she described as "timeless," with other people in the area, noting that "these stories are irreplaceable."

Bill aims to protect homeless children

Legislation sponsored by Assembly Majority Conference Leader Bob Franks, R-22, that would require the Division of Youth and Family Services to provide emergency shelter to homeless children was released recently by the Assembly Health and Human Resources Committee.

Franks' district includes Mountainside.

"If the Division of Youth and Family ascertains that there is a possible threat to the health, welfare or safety of a child caused by imminent or actual homelessness of the child's family, the state would promptly assist the family in obtaining assistance from any state or federal shelter program," said Franks.

"The welfare and safety of young homeless children must always be a top priority," Franks said. "Without proper shelter, nutrition or medical attention, young children run the greatest risk of contracting illnesses and diseases."

Franks said the legislation further requires that if a family is ineligible for state or federal assistance, they should be directly provided with maintenance such as funds for shelter, utilities, food, repairs and essential household equipment.

Assistance would be provided until the family has secured permanent housing that is safe, habitable, suitable and affordable.

The measure, A-3370, also would appropriate $8 million to the Division of Youth and Family Services to carry out the provisions of the legislation.

The bill now proceeds to the Assembly Appropriations Committee for a fiscal review.

Legislation to assist seriously ill kids

The Catastrophic Illness in Children Relief Fund, created by legislation sponsored by State Sen. Donald T. DiFrancesco, R-22, is now accepting applications from eligible families.

The fund provides financial assistance to families whose children have experienced serious illnesses or conditions that have not been fully covered by insurance or other program benefits.

DiFrancesco, whose district includes Mountainside, said he initiated this legislation because, out of any individuals in the nation, children have the highest average medical costs.

"Combine this factor with the many families' lack of protection against chronic or single episodes of serious illness, and the result was usually financial disaster for the ill child's family," the senator commented.

"With this legislation, we hope to protect the child and his or her family by making the best quality medical care available without jeopardizing the family's finances," he continued.

To determine whether or not a family is eligible for the Catastrophic Illness in Children Relief Program, the family situation must meet the following requirements:

- Incurred medical expenses that are not otherwise covered must exceed 30 percent of the income of a family whose income is $100,000 or less; or, 40 percent of the income of a family whose income is more than $100,000.
- The child who has been or is ill is age 17 or under.

• The child's parents or legal guardians have been residents of New Jersey for six months immediately preceding the date of application. Migrant workers are eligible.

• Medical expenses must have been incurred during the prior calendar year. Initial applications may include expenses from calendar year periods back to January 1988.

• The family's income is measured for the calendar year in which the expenses were incurred. Supplemental statements may be requested by the state office.

The Catastrophic Illness in Children Relief Fund Commission administers the fund. It will make final decisions on eligibility as well as the amount of assistance a family might receive.

The commission meets periodically to review applications. An application may be submitted any time throughout the year for expenses of the prior calendar year.

For further information and applications, one can contact DiFrancesco's legislative office, 1801 East Second St., Scotch Plains 07076, or call 322-5500.

One may also contact Mary Ann Whiteman, Executive Director, Catastrophic Illness in Children Relief Fund Commission CN 364 Trenton 08625-0364, or call 1-609-292-0600.

"People need to know that this fund is available," said DiFrancesco. "Now that it is, money should not be an object in medical care for our children. They deserve the best."

Cable bill is introduced

Sen. Donald T. DiFrancesco, R-22, is introducing a package of bills into the next Senate term designed to keep cable costs down and make the New Jersey cable industry more competitive.

DiFrancesco's district includes Mountainside.

"Cable could be responsible for improvements in our quality of life, in education, in communications, in transportation and in industry," explained DiFrancesco.

"Cable's potential to aide society is being wasted. Instead of life improvements, we have home entertainment. I, for one, don't think the trade off is a fair one. The time for legislation to rectify this situation is now," he said.

The first of DiFrancesco's bills would increase the fee cable companies pay to municipalities. It is designed to enable municipalities, and, in turn, subscribers, to benefit from the enormous profits that so far only the cable industry has enjoyed.

Cable companies now pay municipalities 2 percent of their basic service revenues. The senator's bill would increase the fee to 3 percent and assess the fee based upon the gross operating revenue.

Because the gross operating revenue includes revenues from premium channels like HBO, as the basic service revenues do not, the fee would increase substantially.

In order to reintroduce competition into the New Jersey cable industry, the senator has proposed his second bill. This bill would shorten the franchise term to five years and leave the option of a five year renewal period to the municipality.

Current franchise terms run for 15 years, with an automatic 10-year renewal. Although municipalities can refuse a renewal, New Jersey is one of four states in the nation that issues cable franchises through the State. Consequently, a cable company can bypass the municipality's refusal and thereby ignore the municipality's complaints.

"By establishing a shorter franchise period and leaving the option for renewal up to the municipality, the possibility that a dissatisfied municipality would discontinue the franchise would be in the near, rather than distant, future," stated DiFrancesco. "In this way, I hope to put pressure on the franchised companies to improve their customer services and rates."

DiFrancesco's third bill, a resolution that memorializes Congress to reconsider the deregulation of the cable industry, appropriately complements his package.

With it, the senator acknowledges that, although state legislation is an important step towards a solution to cable industry problems, only national legislation can reregulate the industry and dissolve the cable monopoly.

'Romeo and Juliet' presented

The Vail-Deane School Upper School in Mountainside recently presented a unique production of William Shakespeare's "Romeo and Juliet" as its fall play, in acknowledgement of the timeless trials and tribulations which have faced young people for centuries.

Vail-Deane enrolls students from Mountainside and Springfield, as well as numerous other area communities.

With Juliet in sweat clothes, Romeo in a formal tux for his wedding, and various company members in bandanas and ear cuffs, this timeless masterpiece took on new relevance for both young and old in the audience.

Plainfield resident Karl Sikkenga, who teaches Upper School English at Vail-Deane and was director of the play, remarks that "high school is just not the idyllic time of proms and letter sweaters that many adults remember it to be."

"Generational conflicts, academic pressures, drugs, a creeping sense of 'what comes next?' — all these can make it a time of great inner confusion," says Sikkenga. "The kids in this, the world's most durable love story, are no exception."

"Their parents don't understand them; school is drudgery; their bodies and minds are changing too fast, and they don't know what to do about it," he continues.

"For Romeo and Juliet, the solution is to become completely dependent upon each other for their happiness. Ultimately, when a social conflict not of their own creation prevents the lovers from staying together, they turn to another solution which is unfortunately becoming more prevalent today: suicide."

"We chose 'Romeo and Juliet' for our fall production because, at the sprightly age of 400 years, it is one of the most vivid chronicles of the problems and battlegrounds teens must face. A work becomes a classic if its message never loses its relevance and power."

Recycling schedule announced

The Union County Utilities Authority (UCUA) has released the schedule for curbside pickups of recyclables during January for Mountainside, Springfield and the nine other municipalities participating in the Union County Regional Recycling Program.

Newspaper, glass and aluminum will be collected in Mountainside on Mondays, Jan. 15 and Jan. 29, and in Springfield on Fridays, Jan. 5 and Jan. 19.

UCUA officials remind residents to set out their recyclables by 7:30 a.m.

the day they are scheduled for collection. Residents should prepare their materials according to the following guidelines:

- Newspapers must be clean and tied in bundles that are no more than eight inches thick. The bundles may not include paper bags, magazines, telephone books or junk mail.
- Glass bottles and jars must be well rinsed with all caps and lids removed. Labels, styrofoam, metal rings and plastic do not have to be removed. Do not break glass. Glass must be placed at the curb in sturdy, reusable containers. Only bottles and jars will be collected — no window glass, dishes, Pyrex, mirrors or crystal.

- Aluminum beverage containers must be well — rinsed and placed in a sturdy reusable container. Tin cans, paint cans and spray cans cannot be collected. Note: A magnet will not stick to the side or bottom of a recyclable all-aluminum can.

Glass and aluminum recyclables must be set out in separate containers. Materials placed in plastic or paper bags will not be collected. Regarding missed pickups, residents may call 753-7276.

Weight program on tap

Overweight children may face a lifelong "battle of the bulge" unless they are educated properly about weight control during their young years, according to experts at Children's Specialized Hospital in Mountainside.

Children's Specialized, a pediatric rehabilitation hospital which conducts community education programs relating to children, is continuing to sponsor its popular "Changing Shapes" program, an eight-week series for youngsters.

The next session is scheduled to begin on Tuesday, Jan. 9, and registrations are currently being accepted.

"Changing Shapes" is designed to help overweight children change their eating habits through nutrition education, exercise and behavior modification.

The sessions are held from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. for eight consecutive Tuesdays at the hospital on New Providence Road. The January series is specifically tailored for boys.

Coordinated by a registered nurse, the team instructors include registered dietitians, exercise therapists, social workers and other qualified professionals.

The attendees will be taught to prepare tasty meal plans which are nutritionally sound. Professionals will demonstrate the importance of exercise and how it can be fun, too. Peer and family support discussions will focus on feelings and moods.

"We teach youngsters proper nutrition," explained Sallie Comey, R.N., director of educational services at Children's Specialized Hospital. "Then we back it up with a solid exercise program and discussion groups."

Parents, too, play an important part in their child's progress and are encouraged to attend each session.

"Through this program, parents can learn to help their children with their weight problems now and in the future," Comey commented. "Attending 'Changing Shapes' with their child is a way for parents to show their support and interest."

Further information and registration data may be obtained by calling the hospital's Education Department at 233-3720.

Children's Specialized is a comprehensive rehabilitation hospital which includes 60 acute rehab beds and 25 long-term care beds. In addition, the hospital provides extensive outpatient and community services through its outpatient care facility in Fanwood.

Disabled kids earn medals at games

People who visit Florida this time of year usually return with only a tan and maybe some oranges.

However, the three wheelchair athletes of the Children's Specialized Hospital team who participated in the World Disability Games returned from Miami with a lot more — a total of 12 medals and twice as many memories.

Children's Specialized Hospital, located in Mountainside, has been the home of a wheelchair athletic team for 11 years. The comprehensive pediatric rehabilitation hospital includes 60 acute beds and 25 long term beds.

Jeff Gyamfi, Jennifer Heitmuller and Janet Suppa faced worldwide competition as members of the USA team at the games, which were held Dec. 5 to Dec 10. More than 400 teenage athletes from 13 countries tested their mettle in sporting events for amputees, the blind, and those with cerebral palsy and spinal lesions.

Ansy Chasanoff, director of recreation therapy at Children's Specialized, served as coach for the USA wheelchair team at the World Games.

"There were some fine athletes," he reported, "and our team met up with stiff competition. However, we — both the athletes and myself — were pleased with the outcomes."

Jeff, competing in the 17- to 18-year-old category, garnered a bronze medal in the 100 meter. The Newark resident also placed fourth in the 800 meter and 1500 meter events.

In the 15- to 16-year-old grouping, Jennifer earned three gold medals, one silver and two bronzes. Her gold medals, which stand as world records, were in the swimming events of 100 meter freestyle, 25 meter butterfly and the Florida, received a silver for the 50 meter freestyle, and bronze medals in the shot-put and discus.

In addition, the 16-year-old was selected to attend the Youth World Championship Games next July in St. Etienne, France. At the Miami Games, Jennifer was selected to give the athletes' oath, representing all the participants, during the opening ceremonies.

Janet an Oak Ridge resident, competed in the 13 to 14-year-old category and came home to New Jersey with silver medals in the 100 meters, 200 meters and slalom, plus bronzes in the shot-put and discus events.

Sponsored by the Junior Orange Bowl, the competition marked the first World Disability Games. Chasanoff says he is already looking forward to next year.

ON THE RECORD — Steven Marcus, a student at Jonathan Dayton Regional High School in Springfield, poses a question to members of the Board of Education of Union County Regional High School District 1 during the recent Student/Board of Education Press Conference conducted at Dayton. More than 20 students from the Union County Regional High Schools participated in the event. The regional district includes Dayton, which enrolls students from Springfield and Mountainside, and David Brearley, which serves Kenilworth.

Kenilworth Scouts are given awards

Boy Scout Troop 82 of Kenilworth held its Christmas party and Court of Honor on Dec. 22. First Aid badges were earned by scouts Andy Fletcher and Eric Chase. The two boys were also named as First Class Scouts.

The Boy Scouts held a candy sale fundraiser in November. First place winner in candy sales went to Chris LoAlbo, earning him a basketball, and second place went to Raymond Forte, earning him a football.

Scoutmaster Bill Broeg presented them with these prizes.

Broeg thanked his troop committee, including Committee Chairman Janet Forte, Treasurer Simone Krazer, Curt Krazer, Gordon Fletcher, John Fugett, Bob LoAlbo, and Terri Broeg. Plaques of Appreciation went to Scoutmaster Broeg, Eileen Voorhees, past treasurer, and Alex Vannauker, past committee chairman.

The troop was re-chartered as a "quality unit" and Rev. Carol Spellman from the United Methodist Church accepted the charter.

Boy Scouts Chris LoAlbo, John Fugett, Andy Fletcher, Eric Chase and Frank Krazer took part in a weekend camping trip in December at Camp Winnebago. Upcoming events include a spaghetti dinner which will be held in February.

Manor Care helps needy

The residents at Manor Care of Mountainside Nursing and Rehabilitation Center, under the guidance of the recreation staff, recently sponsored a food drive to benefit needy families in the area during this holiday season.

The residents and recreation staff decided to do this service project during the month of December not only to benefit needy families, but the residents themselves, according to Arlene Menza, activities director.

"This food drive has instilled the holiday spirit in the residents", she says.

"We don't have the opportunity to go out and help like we used to, so this food drive helped to raise our self-esteem," said Frank Marano, a Manor Care resident.

Manor Care of Mountainside is a 150-bed skilled nursing, rehabilitation, and residential living facility located on Route 22 West in Mountainside. It is owned and operated by Manor HealthCare Corp., which is the fourth largest, publicly-held provider of longterm care in the nation.

It currently operates 160 skilled nursing centers under the Americana, Four Seasons, Leader and Manor Care names. The food drive is one of many service projects held annually by members of the Manor HealthCare Community.

The food was distributed to needy families through Westfield Pantry.

Fundraiser event is held

The Mountainside Newcomers Club reported having a very successful fundraiser luncheon on Dec. 6. Although attendance was down from previous years, the club raised more money than last year.

The annual presentation to the beneficiaries of the holiday luncheon, including children's Specialized Hospital, the Mountainside Rescue Squad, and the Baby John Fund will be made at a luncheon at Throckmorton in Westfield on Wednesday, Jan. 10, at noon.

The club extended its appreciation to the merchants who donated items for the benefit activities, the crafters, and the attendees.

The Newcomers will hold their annual holiday gala at 8 p.m. on Monday, Jan. 13. Anyone interested can write to P.O. Box 1126 for information.

The club's "Mommy and Me" program will be held on Friday, Jan. 19, and will feature a tour of the Westfield Firehouse at 11 a.m.

at the library

In response to popular demand, the Springfield Public Library recently added five new subscriptions to its large magazine collection.

"American Craft," a serious periodical for the collector, craftsman, artist and student of U.S. and world crafts, tops the list.

For the bicycling enthusiasts, the library has purchased "Bicycling." This publication rates equipment and gives training tips and other advice to the cyclist.

"Business Journal of New Jersey" is now available at the library. The latest issue features the "New Jersey 50," the 50 wealthiest individuals in New Jersey.

For the latest trend in the fast-paced lifestyle of the '80s and '90s, the place to look in the library is "Cosmopolitan." The magazine features fashion news, career advice and health and money issues, among many other topics.

For the more serious observer of modern culture, "Vanity Fair" features in-depth articles on well-known personalities as well as shorter commentary on cars, wine, theater and movies.

All but the latest issues of magazines may be checked out for seven days.

Dayton athlete is named as Student-of-the-Month

Lauren Meixner of Springfield, a senior at Jonathan Dayton Regional High School, has been named as the school's most recent "Student of the Month."

During her scholastic career at Jonathan Dayton, Lauren has proven to be a true student-athlete by setting high standards of achievement — both in the classroom and on the athletic field.

She has attained a grade-point average of 3.83, out of a possible 4.0, and is ranked third academically out of 160 students in this year's senior class at Jonathan Dayton.

Lauren has been named as a Commended Student in the 1990 National Merit Scholarship Program and has also been recognized as a Distinguished Scholar through the Garden State Scholarship Program.

Last June, the 17-year old Springfield resident was presented with two prestigious academic citations — the Rensselaer Polytechnic Medal for Excellence in Mathematics and Science and the Bausch and Lomb Award for Achievement in Science.

Outside of the classroom, Lauren serves as vice president of the

LAUREN MEIXNER

Jonathan Dayton chapter of the National Honor Society; the secretary/treasurer of the school's Spanish Language Club and as a member of the Spanish Language Honor Society. Since the fall of 1986, Lauren has been a mainstay in the athletic program at Jonathan Dayton.

She has already earned a Gold Letter as a four-year varsity letter winner in soccer, and is currently participating in her fourth season as a member of the Dayton Girls' varsity basketball team.

By the time she graduates in June, 1990, Lauren will probably have earned a total of 11 varsity letters, including Gold Letter (four-year) awards in soccer and basketball and three varsity letters in softball.

She has been named to several different all-star teams for her accomplishments in all three sports and, last winter, Lauren was selected as one of the 15 best Girls' High School Basketball players in Union County by the county's basketball coaches association.

After her graduation from Jonathan Dayton in June, Lauren plans to attend the University of North Carolina and major in statistics and/or actuarial science. She is the youngest of five children of Arthur and Maureen Meixner.

The Student-of-the-Month program, which is held at both Dayton and David Brearley Regional High School in Kenilworth honors one outstanding student every month based on that student's academic achievements, character and extracurricular activities.

BLOOD DONOR MONTH — Maryann Wojcicki, left, Supervisor of Blood Donor Services at Overlook Hospital in Summit, chats with Richard Dennis of Basking Ridge as he donates blood for his own scheduled surgery. January has been designated as National Blood Donor Month, in recognition of those who regularly donate blood to save lives.

Overlook marks January as Blood Donor Month

This month, Overlook Hospital's Blood Bank will recognize those who regularly donate blood to save lives in celebration of National Blood Donor Month.

Last year, eight million blood donors in the United States supplied over 13 million pints of blood to four million patients suffering from cancer, leukemia, severe anemia, bone and joint problems, heart disease and trauma, and to persons undergoing organ transplants.

At Overlook, more than 20,000 units of blood and blood products were transfused to patients in 1989.

Overlook Hospital's Blood Donor Recruiter, Bonnie Heaven, says, "The need for blood is constant, and volunteer blood donors contribute at least 95 percent of blood used in this country. If all those eligible would donate regularly, blood needs would be met and shortages wouldn't exist."

For three years, Overlook's Blood

Bank has offered autologous and directed blood donation programs. In an autologous donation, a patient gives blood for his or her scheduled surgery. With a physician's approval, one or more pints may be donated.

In a directed donation, a family member or friend donates blood specifically for a patient.

Overlook's autologous and directed blood donation programs have been very successful. However, those donations cover only a small percentage of the number of patients who receive transfusions of blood products at the hospital.

Because of the tremendous need for blood in our patient community, Overlook Hospital's Blood Bank urges people to assist in maintaining a safe and adequate blood supply.

To ensure blood donation safety, donor room staff members evaluate every prospective donor's medical history to determine whether he or she is a qualified candidate. A "mini-physical" is also performed before donation.

These measures safeguard the health of the donor as well as the health of the patient who will receive the blood. All blood donated at Overlook's Blood Bank is used for the hospital's patients.

Overlook's Blood Bank donors are offered a free cholesterol test, and a free pre-marital blood test if one or both members of a couple donates blood.

Community businesses and organizations who donate blood as a group will be recognized by the hospital for their service at the end of the year.

Those interested in donating blood as individuals — or as representatives of a group — should contact Bonnie Heaven, blood donor recruiter, at 522-3509.

HOLIDAY VISIT — Second-graders from Harding School in Kenilworth recently visited the Cornell Convalescent Center in Union, where they distributed holiday pins that they had made for the residents of the home. Jaime Ravaioli, left, and Amy-Lynn Frankshun, right, flank several residents of the home, while Ankur Patel kneels in foreground.

Maternity program is available

Overlook Hospital offers a free maternity orientation program each month. Expectant parents meet in the hospital auditorium, where a registered nurse from the maternity unit shows a slide of the maternity area, a film of labor and delivery and answers questions.

Family-centered maternity care, plus other services offered by Overlook, will be explained. Overlook's Parentcraft Program can satisfy all participants' childbirth and parenting educational needs. The hospital offers a comprehensive series of classes which are taught by qualified health educators.

Classes include Childbirth Preparation and Lamaze Review, which include a tour of the maternity unit. Other classes available are Cesarean Birth, Breastfeeding and Infant Care. Parents expecting an additional child can select a Sibling Preparation class appropriate to their child's age, all of which include a maternity unit tour.

Another class offered by Overlook helps before and after the baby arrives. This newly updated, two-night Infant Care class meets to discuss adjustments to parenthood, baby care demonstrations, feedings, diapering and many other practical matters of infant care.

After the baby's birth, Overlook's Mothers' Exchange program gives mothers and babies an opportunity to get together and for parents to learn infant cardiopulmonary resuscitation, nutrition, growth and development, and share ideas on many other topics.

For information on starting dates, fees and registration, one can call Overlook's Department of Health Education at 522-2963.

Extra prints

Copies of photographs taken by the staff photographer are available for $12 each. All requests for photographs must be made within three months of publication of the picture. To request photographs, call 686-7700, ext. 34, between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. daily except Tuesday.

Epiphany program

An Epiphany Celebration, featuring "The Lords and Ladies of the Calvary Choir" in a concert of Yuletide Madrigal Music, will be held at 4:30 p.m. Sunday in the First Congregational Church, Burnet and Doris avenues, Union.

In announcing the annual program, which will conclude with the "Twelve Days of Christmas," the Rev. Nancy E. Forsberg, host pastor, has invited the participation of the community. Under the direction of Mary Lou Stevens, the choir members, dressed in medieval costumes, will transport the listeners to "Merrie Olde England" in the 15th century, as they share madrigals, carols and Yuletide customs of that period. The Rev. C. Paul Strockbine, pastor of the Calvary Lutheran Church, Cranford, to which the choir belongs, will be the narrator. Accompanying the singers will be instrumentalists and handbell ringers.

"Epiphany," says Rev. Nancy, "is observed by the Christian Church as the time when the Three Wise Men visited the baby Jesus, having followed a special star from distant lands. It has come to symbolize the universal significance of the Nativity of Jesus Christ."

In secular terms, Epiphany is known as Twelfth Night, "falling as it does 12 days after Christmas, and most of the traditions associated with this holiday are rooted in England during the Middle Ages. It is an occasion of fun and joy."

Following the concert, everyone will gather around the Wassail Bowl to join in singing "Here We Come A' Wassailing" and "The Twelve Days of Christmas."

A free will offering which will be received during the concert will be for the benefit of the Union County Interfaith Coalition for the Homeless, of which Calvary Church is a member and for which it serves as a host center.

New pastor is set

The Rev. Dennis Miller will preach his first sermon as new pastor of Word of Life Family Church of Union Sunday. The service will be held at 9:30 a.m. in the Alban Room of the Town and Campus Motor Lodge/Banquet Center, 1040 Morris Ave., Union.

Assuming a pastorate in eastern Union County is a "coming home" experience for Dr. Miller. He lived in Roselle as a child, was graduated from Harrison Avenue School and Abraham Clark High School, both Roselle. His prior ministry included that of founding pastor of Loveanother Church of the Nazarene in 1972 in Roselle Park, now the Nazarene Church of Springfield. He also founded the Grace & Peace Fellowship which originally met in Elizabeth and which has had its own permanent worship and education center at 950 Raritan Road, Cranford, for about 10 years.

Miller, a Plainfield resident, comes to his new position after three years of service at Faith Fellowship Ministries World Outreach Center in Edison, a congregation with about 8,000 members and adherents after less than 10 years of existence.

At Faith Fellowship, Miller was the staff minister, who directed the publications department. He served as editor of "The Paper," the church's bi-monthly, 24-page tabloid, and he also was in charge of internal fund raising for missions. His wife, the Rev. Patricia Miller, joined him at Faith Fellowship in directing more than 250 volunteer workers manning the eight departments making up the Children's Ministry. He also served the FFMWOC-affiliated ministry, Covenant Ministries International, as its missions director and served as minister in Jamaica, Brazil and Argentina.

Miller's academic preparation for the ministry included a bachelor of science degree in theology from Nyack College, 1966, a master's degree in education and theological studies from Union Theological Seminary in Manhattan, 1969, and a doctor of education, Ed.D., granted through the external program of Honolulu University, 1988.

Show some guts

Nobody knows whether they'll have the guts to stick to it. But the Union County Regional High School District 1 Board of Education's recently adopted a budget proposal that would chop 35 staff positions in the 1990-91 school year, and it's a step in the right direction.

The district includes four high schools, including Jonathan Dayton in Springfield, which enrolls Mountainside students.

A month after the first New Jersey Schools Report Card confirmed longstanding suspicions that the district's per-pupil costs were the highest of any academic district in the state, the regional school board passed a tentative $33.5 million budget that held the line on expenditures. To achieve the zero percent increase, however, the school board members had to agree to eliminate 35 unspecified positions for the next school year.

Attrition is expected to take care of up to 15 of the positions, but that means at least an additional 20 employees will get unwanted pink slips.

Major staff cutbacks are certainly in order. Consider that Mountainside residents annually must pay $16,731 — nearly triple the state average — to educate a single high school student, and that officials project a decline of approximately 100 students in the regional schools next year.

Still, we cannot forget how, last May, the regional school board buckled under pressure to retain staff positions it had originally intended to cut. A stated intention to dismiss 25 teachers became a decision to fire only nine of them, after demonstrations were staged by teachers and students.

No doubt, the latest proposed dismissals will evoke similar howls of disapproval. But the members of the school board must realize they owe more to the taxpayers, for whom they work, than to the school staff members, who work for them.

The district absolutely must make some tough decisions if it wants to lose its dubious distinction as the state's costliest.

Money Management

Know your life insurance needs

If you're looking for a shortcut to determining how much life insurance you need, stop wasting your time.

The New Jersey Society of Certified Public Accountants (CPAs) cautions consumers against using pat formulas that apply the same standard to totally different circumstances.

To get an accurate estimate of how much insurance you need to preserve your family's current standard of living, you must assess your personal assets and liabilities, and your family's unique circumstances and concerns, as well as such external factors as inflation.

Start by segmenting the years ahead into several different phases related to specific events or circumstances in your family's life.

For example, you may want to divide the years to correspond with stages in your child's life: birth, adolescence, college years, marriage and births of grandchildren. Alternately, you can base the groupings on changes in your survivors' eligibility for Social Security benefits.

Keep in mind that from the day your children turn 19 until the day your surviving spouse retires, there are no Social Security payments.

After you have divided the future into distinct phases, you can begin estimating how much annual income your survivors would need during each of the time periods you have mapped out. As a basic guideline, aim to provide your family with at least 75 percent of your annual take-home pay.

Next, review your family's income-producing assets — such as cash, CDs and securities — and determine the approximate annual income you can reasonably expect to generate from these assets.

Add in Social Security benefits for your spouse and children, plus your surviving spouse's salary and any miscellaneous items — such as rental income.

For each stage of your family's life, list the annual amount of income your family will need. In another column, list the annual after-tax income you expect your assets to generate. From the total amount that your family needs, subtract the total amount of expected income. The difference between these two figures represents the "gap" you need to fill with life insurance.

At this point, there will be two final adjustments you may need to make.

First, subtract any insurance you may already have — such as a group policy from work and/or any employer-sponsored pension or profit-sharing plan that is payable upon death. On the plus side, you might want to add an additional sum for any "big-ticket" extras that you did not provide for when you determined your annual needs, such as paying off your mortgage or another large debt, or providing for children's college educations.

The resulting figure shows how much life insurance you require to close the gap between the amount of money your survivors will need and the amount they will have available from other financial sources.

Determining the amount of insurance you need is a complicated, but very necessary, exercise. And because your family circumstances change over the years, CPAs suggest that it's the kind of exercise you should re-assess on a regular basis.

Money Management is a column on personal finance distributed by the New Jersey Society of Certified Public Accountants.

Renew energy independence fight

By MATTHEW RINALDO
Congressman, 7th District

The forgotten war for energy independence needs to be revived as one of the most crucial domestic challenges of the 1990s.

At stake are nothing less than America's economic and political stability, our ability to compete in the world markets against Japan and Western Europe, and whether or not the United States can protect the environment at a reasonable cost to the public.

The fight for energy independence has all but unraveled, as consumption has skyrocketed and the United States has become more dependent on foreign energy imports than at any other time in our history.

In the event that the Soviet Union and other Eastern European countries manage to climb out of their economic graveyards and adjust to market-style economies, the competition for oil and natural gas will become even more intense, with global scarcities of fuel. The present trend of consumption does not inspire much confidence that we have an energy policy that can avoid future shortages.

The U.S. Office of Technology Assessment estimates that by the end of 1990, the United States will be importing from 9 million to 10 million barrels of oil per day. This is approximately 60 percent of our total daily consumption, or almost twice as much as we imported in 1985.

This reliance on imported fuel is crippling domestic exploration, drilling and production of oil and gas.

Today there are fewer than 800 drilling rigs operating in the United States; the independent segment of the industry has been virtually wiped out. Where there were once 60,000 wildcatter companies drilling for oil and gas, last year there were fewer than 1,000, and the number of major energy companies in the United States has dwindled from more than 40 to less than a dozen.

Clearly, the United States is in retreat on the energy front. Even energy conservation has been slowing down as energy prices have dropped.

But look what conservation has already achieved.

Energy efficiency improvements since the Arab oil embargo in 1973 now deliver the equivalent of one-fifth of U.S. energy services. Energy efficiency measures have replaced 14 million barrels of oil per day, or twice last year's foreign imports. The savings in buildings, vehicles, appliances, commercial equipment and manufacturing is estimated at $150 billion per year.

Seven of the most successful government-sponsored research efforts into energy efficiency are expected to save consumers $68 billion over the next 25 years. The cost of that research investment was only $16 million. This represents a staggering payback of 4,400-to-1 for the taxpayers. But it still needs a stronger push into the future.

Both government and private independent studies claim that several hundred billion dollars per year remain to be recaptured in energy savings. It can also relieve a number of serious environmental problems, such as acid rain and global warming.

On the productivity side, the less waste and cost of energy, the better able we will be to compete with Japan and countries in Western Europe where the energy efficiency rating is much higher than ours.

It still takes twice as much energy to produce a dollar of our gross national product in the United States than it does for Japan and the countries of the European Economic Community. That means they can out-price our goods on the world market.

A strong case has been made that energy efficiency research and development should receive as much funding as the other energy resources projects — such as the $603 million passed by the House for nuclear fission research, the $145 million approved for atomic vapor laser enrichment technology, or the $623 million okayed for clean-coal demonstrations.

But legislation to renew the drive for energy conservation and development is bottled up in 10 committees in Congress.

To break this logjam, I am urging President Bush to lead a bipartisan effort to forge a workable energy and environment policy for the 1990s that can boost the United States into the next century.

As a senior member of the House Energy and Commerce Committee, I am urging the president to make energy conservation and development one of the top domestic priorities of his administration. It means jobs, a cleaner environment, savings to consumers of as much as $500 billion over the next 25 years, and an economically stronger United States.

Involved in accident? Investigate!

By THOMAS J. VESPER

What should you do if you or a member of your family is involved in a serious accident?

I have been asked this question many times by my clients, and unfortunately the advice is sometimes too late: Investigate immediately!

Whether you are in an automobile, a fall-down, a slip/trip and fall, or a work-related on-the-job accident, you or someone on your behalf must immediately gather as much factual information as possible.

The two most important facts to be gathered are: 1. Witnesses; and 2. Physical evidence.

• Witnesses: The names, correct addresses, and telephone numbers or points of contact — such as work numbers or phone numbers of friends or relatives — of any and all eyewitnesses or so-called "bystanders" should be obtained so that they can be located, and their observations recorded and preserved.

This should be done immediately, since memories or accurate recollections, and sometimes the whereabouts or residences of witnesses, often change or disappear shortly after an accident.

• Physical evidence: Some photographs of the scene of the accident, any property damage, and any and all personal injuries, should be taken.

The reason for doing this is that many times insurance companies or those defending accidents will try to claim that the person injured did not hurt his arm or leg in the accident.

Sometimes, hospital and police reports do not make correct or totally accurate notations of all the injury sites. Documentation of how the accident happened, who witnessed it, and the exact nature of the injuries or damages are critical to the ultimate proof of the claim.

In the event that you or your loved ones are physically incapacitated, unable or un-equipped to investigate, do not fall into the trap of relying upon the local or state police to do an in-depth accident investigation.

You must remember that the police have many demands on their time. They are not interested in, nor required by law, to investigate or decide who will be legally responsible to pay for the civil damages resulting from an accident.

The police are primarily interested in public safety and making sure that people who are injured receive immediate care and treatment, and that there is a motor vehicle code violation or a criminal violation, that the perpetrator or "criminal wrongdoer" is charged. However, the existence of a criminal or motor vehicle violation is not necessarily evidence that there was "civil" or non-criminal negligence or carelessness.

Also, do not fall into the mistaken belief that if you have an accident on your job that your employer or supervisor will do everything possible to find out who, what, when, where and why it happened.

I have seen many seriously-injured workers who, after they have recuperated, return to work only to find that the safety inspector on the job, or the firm's safety committee, has done little or nothing to identify the cause or causes of their respective accidents.

I recommend to all my clients that they immediately investigate any accident if they or their families are physically able to do so. If they are not, they should contact an attorney who is known by reputation to specialize in the thorough investigation and professional handling of accident cases. Such an attorney should have a reputation in the community for properly preparing and investigating accident cases.

Where does one find a good attorney to investigate an accident?

If you do not have a personal family attorney in whom you have the trust and confidence to refer you to a reputable trial attorney, please refer to the Association of Trial Lawyers of America — New Jersey Lawyer Referral Service. The toll-free number is 1-800-367-0089.

This service will refer you to an experienced and qualified trial attorney in your area, who will do what must be done following any serious accident: Investigate!

Salvation Army appreciates donations

The Salvation Army, New Jersey Division, would like to extend a heartfelt "thank you" and "God bless you" to all the generous people of New Jersey who made donations of money, food, clothing, building and rescue supplies to help the victims of Hurricane Hugo and the earthquake in California.

More than $60,000 has been donated to The Salvation Army's New Jersey Division for relief efforts in both of these devastated areas. One hundred percent of this money will be used to help rebuild the lives and homes of those who have suffered as a result of these two natural disasters.

In addition to the monetary donations, more than 50 tons of relief items were sent to The Salvation Army in South Carolina by the people of the Garden State.

The New Jersey Division of The Salvation Army would also like to extend an extra special "thank you" to the many hard-working volunteers throughout the state who gave so much of their time and themselves in organizing, collecting and packing items sent to South Carolina. May God richly bless each of you.

Trenton Report

Here's my list of legislative priorities for new year

By C. LOUIS BASSANO
State Senator, 21st District

The marking of a New Year is always an extremely important event, whether one is viewing the occasion from a professional or personal perspective.

Working in government, I believe it's critical that people in public service must firmly assess their goals at the beginning of each year and set definite priorities and objectives.

As we approach the challenges of 1990, the importance of this process is greater than ever.

The beginning of 1990 means that we are entering a new decade — and not just any decade. This is the closing decade of the 20th Century. The decisions and achievements that we undertake over the next 10 years will become important building blocks, and perhaps major cornerstones, in determining the direction the state will take in the 21st Century, and even beyond.

I am personally grateful to have a better opportunity than ever to participate in helping shape the course of the Legislature's future agenda. My role, and to some degree my influence, has been expanded as a result of being recently elected by my colleagues to the position of assistant Senate minority leader.

In this capacity, I will participate in helping formulate the Republican delegation's legislative goals and agenda. I may also have the opportunity to work more intensively in negotiating key pieces of legislation and major state issues with leaders in the Senate majority, as well as with ranking leaders on both sides of the aisle in the Assembly.

In tackling this new responsibility, I would identify several main areas of concentration which I foresee as major priorities for both myself and the Legislature as a whole.

- The state must enact a satisfactory plan to overhaul the state's auto insurance laws and abolish the debt-ridden Joint Underwriting Association.

While the Legislature has attempted to tinker with the auto insurance system in the past, the bottom line is that the only acceptable reform will be one that provides New Jersey motorists with coverage that is both readily available and affordable.

In the past, I have been a staunch supporter of measures to enact a mandatory verbal threshold — similar to the successful reform program adopted in Michigan — but this initiative was repeatedly blocked by the Democratic majority in the Senate. Given the incoming Florio Administration's pledge to tackle the problem, I am committed to cooperate in whatever way possible to work with the special auto insurance study commission recently empanelled by the governor-elect to develop solutions to the auto insurance rate crisis.

- We must enact ceilings on state spending comparable to the caps placed on expenditures at the municipal level. The spiralling growth in government programs and payrolls must also be curbed.

A package I introduced in the Senate in October and am actively working to enact would provide for strict limits on state spending to an annual amount no greater than the three-year average percentage growth in statewide per-capita income. In conjunction with that, I am calling for the creation of a surplus revenue fund into which half of any funds collected beyond the level of the anticipated budget surplus would be deposited. Such unanticipated revenues would be used to bulk up the level of home-stead rebates, provide additional tax refunds to homeowners, and finance gross income tax credits for tenants.

The surplus revenue fund would help protect the taxpayers of New Jersey by making sure that a reserve is created during periods when revenues boom and come in well above projections. Instead of simply being used to finance increased expenditure in the next budget year, half of any unanticipated revenues that come in would automatically go back to the taxpayers.

- The state must develop creative ways to build and enhance state revenues. Raising taxes does not have to be the only means the state can use to raise resources.

Among a package of bills I recently introduced in the Senate was a proposal that would legalize sports gambling in the state of New Jersey. Currently, New Jerseyans bet tens of millions of dollars on sporting events with bookmakers, money that only goes to fueling the growth of an underground economy.

My proposal would ask voters to amend the constitution by allowing wagering on sporting events, including boxing. The same money now wagered with bookies could go to the state and be dedicated to property tax relief for senior citizens.

- It's critical that we maintain the state's roads and infrastructure while keeping a lid on further toll increases. The authorities that run the state's roadways should also be subject to much greater accountability.

I have been a leading advocate of a plan that would do away with toll-booths on the Garden State Parkway and finance maintenance of that highway by enacting a minimal two-cent increase in the gasoline tax. Raising the gas tax by only two cents would ensure that the state's motor fuel prices remain among the most competitive in the nation and generate $62 million a year that could be dedicated exclusively to operating and maintaining the parkway.

Eliminating the tolls would also prevent continued transportation delays which snag commuters and the pace of New Jersey commerce.

In addition, I firmly oppose toll increases on the New Jersey Turnpike and in the Hudson bridge and tunnel crossings operated by the Port Authority of New York and New Jersey. Before such toll hikes should even be considered, the agencies that operate these road and transit systems should be subject to intensive financial scrutiny to isolate possible efficiencies and cost reductions.

- The state must continue to upgrade and improve our educational system to ensure that our young people develop the skills they need to compete for employment in a future job market dominated by high technology, science and computers.

The state is already addressing this need to some extent under funds provided by the $90 million Jobs, Science and Technology Bond Act, which led to establishment of a series of advanced technology centers at our leading universities. But this upgrading effort must be initiated at a much earlier stage so that we reach New Jersey students during their critical educational years.

Under the New Jersey Futures Initiative in Science and Mathematics Act, a proposal I introduced last fall, each New Jersey high school student would be required to complete two additional years each of math and science over and above the existing requirement. Current law only requires state high school student to complete three years of mathematics and two years of science — not even close to what will be needed if our young people are going to remain competitive with youths being educated in Western Europe or Japan.

- Environmentally, the two biggest tasks at hand are the need to establish a permanent fund to protect the state's dwindling supply of natural resources and the implementation of a program to aggressively protect open space.

The Democratic majority in the Senate has repeatedly blocked enactment of a sensible natural resources trust fund proposal by advocating a program that would raise two taxes and only generate $37 million a year. The Republicans have remained steadfast to a plan — that I adamantly support — which would raise $50 million for environmental preservation through use of a combined increase and a portion of dedication in the existing-realty transfer fee. Enactment of the latter package remains a critical environmental need.

- No legislative agenda would be complete without addressing the need for affordable health care, particularly in helping cushion the impact of medical costs on senior citizens.

The Legislature recently made dramatic progress toward this goal by providing final legislative approval to a bill I sponsored requiring Medicaid to cover the cost of services provided by certain hospice programs. The measure, which is now awaiting the governor's signature, addresses an inequity in the current law which provides that Medicare, but not Medicaid, reimburse patients receiving hospice care.

For those seniors in nursing homes, major reforms and improvements are needed. We need stricter regulation of the operating and treatment practices of nursing homes and better training for nurses aides. In the future, we must examine ways of shielding seniors from the threat that their life-savings could be drained during a long-term illness in a nursing home.

New freeholder chief eyes youth services

FREEHOLDER CHAIRMAN GERALD GREEN

By SHARON CATES
Newly-chosen Union County Freeholder Chairman Gerald Green vowed to make youth services a top priority after being sworn into his new post on Monday.

During the annual New Year's Day reorganization meeting, held at the county courthouse, Green formally succeeded 1989 chairman Brian Fahey, who last year chose not to run for re-election as a freeholder. In November, Fahey was defeated in a bid for state Assembly.

Also at the reorganization meeting, Freeholder James Connelly Welsh was named the board's vice chairman and new members Casimir Kowalczyk, Walter McLeod and Elmer Ertl took seats on the freeholder board.

Monday's ceremony gave the Democrats complete control of the nine-member freeholder board. The only Republican member of the 1989 board, Paul O'Keefe, lost a bid for a third term on the board in November. One of last year's eight Democratic freeholders, Michael LaPolla, chose not to seek re-election.

Also on Monday, County Sheriff Ralph Froehlich was sworn into his fifth three-year term.

After being unanimously selected by the freeholders as the board's chairman for 1990, Green stated that his number one priority would be to examine all of the youth services that are provided by Union County.

His plans include the appointment of a youth services task force, comprised of representatives of county government, the courts, law enforcement agencies, educational institutions, businesses and social services. Green said that Patricia Smylie, director of the Division of Youth and Family Services, will co-chair the task force with him.

"From day education to the juvenile detention center, we must develop a comprehensive plan that will take us into the next century," Green said. "If we don't deal with the youths of today, then we will lose the adults of tomorrow."

"We haven't made this a top priority at the state or county level," Green added. "We must begin to use this talent, so that in the future they will be a help rather than a liability."

In addition to the county's youth, Green also noted that he hopes to focus his attention on opening day-care facilities for county workers, upgrading the facilities in county parks and offering assistance to local areas.

Green noted that he hopes that the county will be able to supply the "start-up" money needed to open daycare facilities for county employees. He explained that the facilities will not be paid for by the county, but rather by the employees benefiting from the services the facilities will provide.

This proposal will provide the option of quality day care to our employees and allow government to be more competitive with the private sector," Green explained.

Green also noted that he plans to direct his attention towards park conditions in the county.

"I am asking the county's Department of Parks, in conjunction with the county's Parks and Recreation Advisory Board to develop a plan to demolish the old stadium at Warnance Park in Roselle and replace it with a state-of-the-art track-and-field facility," Green explained. He added that bonds would have to be sold to finance the reconstruction project.

The construction of the stadium will challenge Green's budget. Green said he hopes to receive grants which will be administered by the county Office of Cultural and Recreation Affairs with the assistance of the state's Department of Community Development.

He further stated that the grants would be used to reconstruct the stadium as well as to reconstruct the board in the new year.

Finally, Green noted that the county residents are expected to be more involved in the new year.

It is obvious that many problems are facing the county," Green said. "I hope that the board will deal with those problems and I encourage that the residents of Union County realize that they have a government that is new and in the best interests of the county residents."

Official's dad gets $31G raise

By SHARON CATES
A $31,329 raise to First Deputy County Counsel William Maccarelli, father of Union County Freeholder Jeffrey Maccarelli, that was invalidated in September was reintroduced and approved by the freeholders last Thursday.

The six freeholders present at the board's final 1989 meeting voted 5-1 in favor of the controversial raise. The motion needed the backing of a majority of the full nine-member board, so the five affirmative votes represented a bare majority.

The resolution, sponsored by Freeholder Gerald Green, called for William Maccarelli to change his employment status from part-time to full-time while changing his salary from $47,871 to $79,200.

On Aug. 10, the board voted 4-3 to approve the raise and extension of hours and responsibilities for William Maccarelli. Freeholders Joseph Suliga, Neil Cohen, Michael LaPolla and James Connelly Welsh voted in favor of the resolution. Freeholder Chairman Brian Fahey and Freeholders Walter Boright and Gerald Green voted to oppose the motion. Freeholders Paul O'Keefe and Jeffrey Maccarelli were absent from the meeting.

However, state Deputy Attorney General Daniel P. Reynolds later ruled the Aug. 10 resolution invalid because a majority of the full board had not approved the pay boost.

Reynolds explained that the board, however, could appeal the decision or reintroduce the resolution in order to gain the necessary majority.

Last Thursday, the freeholders discussed the resolution at length prior to the vote.

O'Keefe, the Democrat-dominated board's lone Republican, questioned why the board waited until after 11 p.m. at 1989's final freeholder meeting to vote on the resolution.

Cohen, in turn, asked O'Keefe why he was ignoring William Maccarelli's competency.

"William Maccarelli's credentials as an attorney are impeccable," Cohen stated. "I do not think this resolution is inappropriate. The increase in hours and responsibilities are commensurate with the increase in salary."

Green, Suliga, LaPolla, Welsh and Cohen voted in favor of the resolution. O'Keefe voted against the measure.

Jeffrey Maccarelli abstained from voting on the raise for his father. Fahey and Boright were not present.

Union County Counsel Jeremiah O'Dwyer defended the expansion of duties for William Maccarelli, who was a member of the Union County Law Department since 1972.

"The law department has a critical need for adequate staffing," O'Dwyer said. "There are not that many people willing to leave a private practice. William Maccarelli is able to and willing to take this position.

"I have good people, but I do not have a good right arm," O'Dwyer added. "I need a good right arm, as would any other department head in the county."

In a prepared statement, Jeffrey Maccarelli explained his position on the resolution, on which he abstained due to a possible conflict of interest.

"I will not be placed in the position of responding or defending the appointment of my father," Jeffrey Maccarelli said. "I would point out that no one has questioned his qualifications. My father has been a member of the bar for 22 years. His legal experience in county and municipal government has been extensive and preceded any political activity on my part."

"While it makes good political fodder, the simple fact remains that he is qualified and should not be penalized or rewarded because of any political activity on my part," Jeffrey Maccarelli added.

William Maccarelli, who has served as first deputy counsel for each of the county counsels since the county manager form of government was adopted in 1976, also claimed that he was qualified and willing to take on the new responsibilities afforded him.

"I intend to fulfill all of my obligations under my expanded position," William Maccarelli added. "I look forward to the challenge."

English tests today at county college

Tests to determine a potential student's level of English proficiency for study in Union County College's Institute for Intensive English will be conducted today for those enrolling in its third cycle, which begins on Tuesday, Jan. 23.

The institute is composed of students who originally come from 56 different countries. The institute prepares them in appropriate grammatical and conversational usage of the English language.

Students are grouped according to their levels of English proficiency and placed appropriately. Upon successful completion of the sixth level, students receive certificates.

Students may be tested at either the Elizabeth campus or Plainfield Center, depending upon which of the two locations they wish to attend classes. Test times are at 12 noon or at 6 p.m.

Classes for the third cycle will meet from 9 a.m. to 11:50 a.m. or from 6:30 p.m. to 9:20 p.m. on Mondays through Thursdays. The cycle ends on March 14.

Those interested in further information should call 965-6031.

Labor council helps county's needy

The Union County AFL-CIO Labor Council held its third annual holiday food drive recently and raised $1,608 for needy families throughout the county.

The money was raised through several trade locals, as well as contractors and individuals in the area.

Central Labor Council Food Drive Chairman Edward Zarnock, business agent for Local 68 of the Operating Engineers, said that the drive "proves to be more successful each year. We are very appreciative of those who contribute to the cause, and are pleased to be able to provide some assistance to people in the community during the holiday season."

Bob Vreeland and Jonathan Levine, AFL-CIO community services representatives to United Way of Union County, helped coordinate the distribution of food to United Way member agencies.

ONE ON ONE — Linden's Dwayne Myers works the ball around a Seton Hall Prep defender during a game between the Tigers and Pirates last Thursday in the annual Joe Silver Holiday Boy's Basketball Tournament in Hillside. Myers scored 14 points as Linden won, 50-44, to advance to the tournament's title game this past Sunday, where the Tigers dropped a tough 66-64 decision to Hillside, the host club. It was Linden's first defeat of the season. Turn to the next page for the story.

Bears take tourney; Ladies win twice

By MARK YABLONSKY
There were certainly no post-holiday blues for either the Brearley Regional boy's or girl's basketball teams this past week. In fact, both squads were victorious twice, with the boy's team knocking off St. Pius X and Bayley-Ellard Catholic to win the former's tournament in Piscataway, while the girl's crew defeated both Roselle and Chatham to remain unbeaten at 5-0.

The following is this week's rundown on Brearley sports.

BOY'S BASKETBALL
In two very different contests, the Bears came out on top to come home with a tournament title, as guard Matt Dolly became the man of the hour. In both games, Dolly netted 25 points but it was the latter 25-point effort that drew the most attention.

In the opener, a 74-50 win over the host club, both Dolly and Sterling Williams combined for 25 points in the first half as the Bears jumped out to a 37-31 lead, even though St. Pius did outscore Brearley by a 21-19 margin the second quarter. But a 19-6 run throughout the third quarter by Brearley left no doubt as to who the winning team would be.

Two nights later, on Dec. 29, however, it wasn't quite so easy. In fact, the Bears found themselves down by eight points with about three minutes left against Bayley-Ellard — until Dolly and his mates got going. Dolly, who netted 16 of his game-high 25 points in the final eight minutes, first sank a layup, and then a three-pointer — following a steal by John Anglim — to cut Bayley-Ellard's lead to 50-46. Alex Hermes then got through for a layup to make it a six-point game with some two minutes remaining, but those were the final points of the evening for the home team.

First, Sterling Williams dropped in two foul shots. On the next trip down-court, Keith LeBlonde netted a layup. Soon after, Anglim went to the line and converted both opportunities, forcing a 52-52 tie with one minute to go.

In the final minute of play, a strong full-court press forced Bayley-Ellard into three turnovers, two of them leading directly to Brearley baskets: one by Dolly, and the other by Williams with 19 seconds showing on the clock.

GIRL'S BASKETBALL
As coach of a Group 1 girl's basketball team, Marge Egan doesn't have a lot of depth to work with. So she gets the most that she can out of the talent she does have. And so far, it's working.

After a 29-point effort from Kim Eagan led to a 56-41 win over visiting Roselle last Wednesday, the Lady Bears made the trip to Chatham two nights later for a game that seemed to be a disaster from the very start — as in Chatham grabbing an 8-0 lead right away.

But after rebounding to make it only a 13-12 halftime deficit, Brearley overcame some of its sluggishness to outscore Chatham by a 14-4 margin in the third, and then by a 7-3 count in the fourth to win, 33-20. Actually, the home team could score no more than 11 points throughout the final three quarters, after taking a 10-6 lead in the opening period. It's just that Brearley was cold offensively, sinking only 12 of 55 shots from the floor for a weak 22 percent.

But the Lady Bears won anyway, due largely to the performance of senior forward Maria Pascarella, who, in addition to nine points, also collected eight rebounds and six steals.

"Well, that's the important thing," explained Egan the coach in regard to the comeback on what was clearly not a good night for her team. "I just asked the girls at halftime to come back and play Brearley basketball... So in the third quarter, we went out and scored 14 points, which is what we should do. We used a press and we slowed down. It was a win, but it wasn't pretty."

"We're going to pull out some games just on smarts. We're not loaded with talent, but we use the most out of the talent we have. They really, really know the game well."

Farmers roll in tourney

In one of its biggest early-season challenges, the Union High wrestling team won the Parsippany Tournament by more than 20 points last Thursday, with five members of the Farmer lineup winning individual championships.

Union, which is 1-0 in dual-meet competition because of an earlier win over Plainfield, also had three wrestlers finish as runners-up. The Farmers topped the eight-team field with 179.5 points, well ahead of second-place North Hampton, which had 158.5. Morris Knolls (129.5), Parsippany (104), Morris Catholic (86), New Providence (60), Wayne Valley (53), and Cedar Grove (28) closed out the list of participants.

The winners were Dan Lilley in the 125-pound class, Scott Hubbard at 130 pounds, Mike Francesca at 140 pounds, Bob Kuldaneck at 171 pounds, and Scott Platt at heavyweight. Lilley, Kuldaneck and Platt all won their final-round matches with pins, while Hubbard and Francesca took their titles in hard-fought decisions, 10-5 and 14-8, respectively. Francesca was named the tournament's outstanding wrestler.

BOB KULDANEK

Earl Finney at 119 pounds, Dom Acque at 135 pounds, and Rob Vieira at 160 pounds were Union's second-place finishers.

Against Plainfield, a 48-23 decision on Dec. 20, the Farmers received two quick pins, as Finney downed his opponent in 13 seconds, and junior Vinnie Alberto being even quicker at 12 seconds in a 189-pound match.

And Lilley has won six of his seven bouts so far by pins.

The Farmers now will begin the dual-meet calendar in earnest, wrestling tonight at Cranford after meeting Irvington yesterday. Then on Saturday night comes the first big one of the year — a 7:30 p.m. home match with neighboring Roselle Park.

R.C.'s record misleading

By MARK YABLONSKY

After only five games, it may still be a little early to take an accurate gauge of what lies ahead for the remainder of the 1989-90 boy's basketball season, at least as far as Roselle Catholic is concerned. Because after five games, while the Lions are only 2-3, they could just as easily be 4-1.

That's because two of the losses — season-opening defeats to St. Patrick's and Bridgewater-Raritan East on Dec. 15 and 16, respectively — were by the combined total of three points. Only in a 78-52 loss to cross-town rival Abraham Clark of Roselle on Dec. 20 were the Lions thoroughly outplayed.

"I think we're doing fine," replied Lion skipper Pat Hagan who asked to sum up the season so far. "I thought we played well enough to win the St. Patrick's game and the Bridgewater East game... We played well enough to win, we just didn't get enough points. I'd like to have more wins."

Through the team's first five games, shooting guard Tim Zawacki of Linden emerged as the leading scorer, with 59 points for an 11.8 average. Eighteen of those points came in the final eight minutes of the game as the Lions fought 56-54 defeat to St. Patrick's, and 17 more came in a 69-51 win over Dayton Regional on Dec. 22 in Springfield — the last time the Lions have played.

Actually, since Hagan's crew was not scheduled to resume play until a home game last night with Central of Newark, might there be some concern about the two-week layoff?

"No, not at all," the coach answered. "Because we had played enough games early, and we used that layoff to work on things constructively. I don't think we'll have people rusty. We've been in five tough games... so I don't think it'll hurt us at all."

Encouraging about the win at Dayton was the fact that the Lions, two days removed from its humbling loss to Roselle, turned a 34-30 halftime lead into iron with a 16-0 spurt to begin in the third quarter. Zawacki, Fenence Pearson and Andy Smalera of Linden each netted four points during that time, while Pat O'Halloran and Don Herring each had two. Dayton finally broke the run with two free throws by Andy Huber with 1:24 remaining in the period.

However, the loss to Bridgewater-East was keyed by a 23-7 outburst from the Minutemen in the final quarter — and 16 of those points came from the foul line. Both Bill Meeblings and Tom Ciesla sank three free throws apiece during the final eight minutes of play.

Lion's Den — The Lions' second-leading scorer is Smalera, whose 53 points in five games gives him an average of 10.6... O'Halloran's 6.6 rebounds per game is tops on the squad... During an 88-31 romp over Good Counsel on Dec. 18, 10 of the 11 Roselle Catholic players in the lineup that day scored, including O'Halloran, who netted nine of his 11 points in a 33-point explosion in the second quarter that put the game completely out of reach for the visitors.

Brearley — Dolly 25, LeBlonde 9, S. Williams 27, Anglim 9, Kistler 3, K. Williams 1, Gaeta 0.

St. Pius — Gooden 2, Solis 2, Robinson 5, Klimkiewicz 2, D'Angiohillo 10, Fowler 3, Ivory 8, Cumiskey 14, Madison 4.

Brearley — Dolly 25, LeBlonde 10, S. Williams 7, Anglim 11, K. Williams 3, Gaeta 0.

Wrestlers capture tourney; Boy's B-ball team loses 2

By MARK YABLONSKY
Dayton's wrestling team had a grand time in winning last week's John F. Kennedy Memorial High Tournament in Iselin, while the boy's basketball team endured two tough defeats in the Cranford Tournament.

The following is this week's rundown of Jonathan Dayton Regional High School sports.

WRESTLING

The Bulldogs said goodbye to 1989 with a convincing first-place finish in the Kennedy Memorial Tournament last Wednesday, with a total of 180.5 points. In so doing, Dayton beat out second-place Elizabeth, which settled for 155 points; and third-place Bishop Ahr of Edison, which garnered 98.

West Windsor, Monroe Township, Kennedy, South Hunterdon, St. Joseph's of Metuchen, Metuchen, South River, Lawrence, St. Peter's of New Brunswick, Spotswood and St. Mary's rounded out the remainder of the 14-team field.

The 'Dawgs crowned six champions, including 103-pounder Dante Puorro and 112-pound senior Jason Yee, both of whom won fairly easily with three pins and one technical foul between them. The other champions were senior Chris Moreno of the 130-pound weight class, John Max-emchuk of the 135-pound class, Brian Delaney of the 140-pound class, and heavyweight Scott Adderty.

Senior Peter Carpenter was the runner-up at 125 pounds, and teammates Mike Masi at 145 pounds and Mike Price at 189 both came in third.

Puorro got Dayton off to a flying start by stopping South River's Ray Guindi with a technical fall, and then by pinning Rynel Hicks of JFK at the 2:43 mark. Puorro later defeated Keith Yarnall of Monroe, 10-2, to win the title. It was even quicker for Yee, who pinned both Doak Walker of West Windsor and Milton Yangyow of South River in respective times of 1:16 and 1:05. Yee later won the title by stopping Bob Duffy of Bishop Ahr, 4-0.

Moreno, following pins over Bernie Cereve of Spotswood and Dave Lonienski of Bishop Ahr, beat Elizabeth's Osvaldo Ramos, 9-1, for the title. Maxemchuk topped Stan Mark of St. Joseph, 10-0, before pinning both Len DePinto of Bishop Ahr and Jason Atlas of West Windsor to win the 135-pound class.

Delaney sandwiched pins around Rob Santargelo of St. Mary's and Eric Morilino of JFK with a 2-1 decision over West Windsor's Brian Lyczarcz to win at 140 pounds. At heavyweight, Adderty had a tougher time of it, pinning Stewart Pheiffer of Spotswood in 1:27, but then battling into overtime before pinning Tom Beardsley of Metuchen at the 2:53 mark.

Adderty later outpointed Chris Long of West Windsor by a 4-3 margin for the crown.

BOY'S BASKETBALL

For the third straight year, the Bulldogs took part in the Cranford Tournament, but for the first time, they finished fourth in losing to St. Mary's 55-43, on Dec. 27, and then by a 44-38 score to Cranford the following night in the consolation game.

Dayton, which is now 1-4, didn't exactly get stomped on, though. Actually, the 'Dawgs took an early 8-2 lead on St. Mary's within the first two minutes of play on three baskets by Brandon Giordano, and another by Andy Huber. But St. Mary's, the eventual tournament champion, turned on its defensive vacuum and the 'Dawgs did not score again for the rest of the period.

And by the time it was over, the Hilltoppers had forced their opponents into 25 turnovers. Meanwhile, Mas Chirichiello dropped in 15 of his game-high 23 points in the final quarter when St. Mary's outscored Dayton, 20-14, to seal the win. St. Mary's, it should be mentioned, then beat North Brunswick, 38-25, the next night to win the tournament — by allowing just 10 points in the final three quarters!

Against Cranford, Dayton kept it close throughout and trailed by only a 40-36 margin with less than a minute to go. But two free throws from Mike Lightcap and a layup off of the press by Jim Wagner put it out of reach from Dayton, which got its final six points from Andy Huber. He had 14 in all.

Tigers lose to Hillside

The Linden High boy's basketball team suffered its first defeat of the season against the Hillside Comets, 66-64, on Sunday in the title game of the Joe Silver Hillside Holiday Tournament.

The Linden Tigers, now 6-1, opened strongly in the first half, outscoring the Comets by two points in the first quarter and four points in the second quarter.

Senior Tariq Saunders scored 13 points and Dwayne Meyers dropped in 10 points, but it still wasn't enough. Linden saw its six-point first-half advantage melt away, especially when James Mazyck of Hillside scored a tie-breaking jumper in the fourth quarter.

Linden improves to 2-2

By DAVE WISE

By beating the Cranford Lady Cougars on Saturday, 75-50, the Linden High girl's basketball team improved its record to 2-2, after losing to Union-Catholic, 40-36, and Rahway, 56-54, and winning their bout against Shabazz, 54-40.

In the match against Cranford, Linden outscored the Lady Cougars in all but the second quarter. Senior guard Sharmona Marable led the scoring with 12 two-pointers and three foul shots for 27 points. And junior center Joann Hall helped by scoring four two-pointers, two three-pointers and two foul shots.

Ty Gaines contributed to the offense with 12 points, and close behind was Erica Reed with eight points. Caryn Flowers and Zandra Morales also added six points each.

R.P. matmen place 5th

The Roselle Park wrestling team took fifth-place honors at the Westfield Tournament last Thursday, while Howell and Westfield placed first and second. Roselle Park won two matches and had an overall score of 92.5.

The winners for the Panthers were Dave Patterson at 145 pounds, who pinned Rob Taylor of Piscataway at 3:37; and 152-pounder John Ranieri, who decimated Dan Corcoran of Morristown, 3-0.

Eugene Belle finished as the 171-pound runner-up to Howell's Judd Stanberry.

UHS track teams begin

The Union High winter track program is underway, with the boy's squad having defeated Cranford, but losing to Elizabeth in a recent tri-meet at the Dunn Center; and the girl's team dropping two close meets to the same schools.

The top effort for the boys was from sophomore Anthony Purcell, who won the 60-yard dash in 6.7, a Union sophomore record. Purcell also won the 440-yard dash in 56.9 seconds. Rob Schupansky finished second in the mile in 5:08.

Spencer Mell placed third in the two-mile run in 11:16. Andre Maksimow and Jim Martielli took second and third place, respectively, in the shot put. Third-place finishes also went to Brian Leschinski in the hurdles and high jump, and to Lou Romeo in the 880-yard run.

Junior Viterose Wiltshire was the girl's top scorer, winning both the 60-yard dash in 7.4 and the 440 in 66.1. Carla Fernandes won the two-mile event in 14:25 and was second in the mile. Freshman Danielle Miller placed third in the two-mile and fourth in the mile. Kira Jo Baskerville and Anna Dominici came in second and third in the 880.

At the Nutley Field Event Invitational last Thursday, Union placed fourth out of 26 teams, as Maksimow's toss of 46-10 in the shot put placed him third individually. Abdul Osborne, Leschinski and Terrance Bell all set personal records in the high jump.

Park tops Ridge, 58-57

The Roselle Park High boys' basketball team beat Ridge, 58-57, in the holiday tournament played in Basking Ridge last week.

For the 4-3 Panthers, the hero of the game was Scott Sexton, who won it with a three-pointer with three seconds remaining in the game. Scott Birmingham led the team by scoring 22 points.

A 'self-taught' artist creates from 'photos'

By BEA SMITH

Even though Kathleen Kukich of Union took art classes in Union High School and majored in art and English at Fairleigh Dickinson University, Madison, from which she was graduated summa cum laude with a bachelor of arts degree, she declares that she is "self-taught when it comes to painting."

Thirty of her paintings are being exhibited at the Les Malamut Art Gallery at the Union Township Public Library on Morris Avenue through Feb. 3. They are an exhibition of oils and feature such selections as "Reflections of Ireland," "Ducks" and "People in Imaginative Scenes."

During a recent visit with the young red-haired, blue-eyed artist, one could feel her intensity when she discusses her work.

"Actually," she says, "I was 2 years old when I first picked up a pencil, and I haven't been without one since then. However, it was only at FDU when studying drawing with Arie A. Gales, a good teacher, who shows regularly in New York, where I was to begin fully to develop my drawing skills. As far as painting is concerned, I am entirely self-taught."

Kukich insists that "a lot of hard work is involved. I have a little bit of creativity, but a lot of it is hard work. Most of what I know is through hard work, learning and through mistakes, and the best way is especially through the arts. I was thrown into it by a little bit of talent...just sort of fell into it. There was no lightning bolt," she grins.

"I suppose my painting technique is different from others because I research, sometimes read up on my subject, then I choose the material I will work from, either models or photographs — my own or clippings. Working from life would be easier in some cases," she says, "but it's not always possible and only absolutely necessary in portraiture."

"After a few thumbnail sketches, which is the artistic term for tiny stick drawings, I begin drawing directly on white canvas, then I block in the forms with oil color, returning later to develop tonalities. The painting rarely completely follows my original thumbnail sketch. Most of the time I end up adjusting size of forms and introducing new ideas as the painting progresses. This whole technique, I realize, is unorthodox," she says, "but it works for me."

The artist says that "all my energies are in the creative field. I also like to write. My ultimate goal is to be a screenwriter and hopefully a director. By combining creative writing skill and art, I can become a screenwriter."

"I'm pursuing an art career right now, and I've put aside my writing for the moment," she says. "For myself, art is like any other type of business. I have other jobs that I do," Kukich admits. "Right now I'm working in the sales department of the Carroll Reed chain in the Short Hills Mall. It's part-time. And I also do real estate illustrations for different companies. I do proofreading for theatrical plays among other things."

"But most of all I live, sleep, eat and drink art in a finished recreation room in our basement. I have a television set there, a telephone, a table. I love it down there. I also practice my fiddle there. I'm a fiddler who specializes in Irish ballads, jigs and reels. I really like to paint pub scenes with people, to bring to life images of good friends, laughter and music and the comradeship of the Irish people. Music is my main hobby and I hope to form an Irish music band to play the local bars. My other enjoyment is Irish dancing. It's a great form of exercise for those in sedentary professions like mine. And I'm always working on ideas and paintings in my finished basement."

"Basically, I'm still just getting started," she says. "I had a one-person show at Fairleigh Dickinson. I exhibited at Temple B'nai Abraham in Livingston and at the Festival on the Green in Union. I've exhibited at the Washington Square Art Exhibit in Greenwich Village. I have one painting in Westchester Country Club in Rye, N.Y. That's my claim to fame there," she laughs.

"The Les Malamut Gallery gives me a great opportunity to exhibit. I feel honored and privileged to exhibit my work there. My aunt Frances Kornish of Union originally told me about the gallery and I inquired about it, and here I am."

Some of Kukich's paintings are "about 5 feet high by 4 feet wide. These are the ones I want to get into a New York gallery, which is my lifetime ambition," she says. "I like to do paintings of people. I work from photographs most of the time...and my models are my mother and myself...My mother, Florence Kathleen Kukich, is a non-professional artist and photographer. She's a great help to me. She has an eagle eye with the camera. In fact, both my parents were artistically inclined. My father died several years ago, and my mother, who was graduated from Arts High, a division of the Newark School of Fine and Industrial Arts, has offered her sensitive, artistic expertise."

"We find that a camera is an invaluable aid to an artist. You don't have to be in a cold atmosphere to paint a picture. This way, you can do it right from a photograph. I know that lots of artists don't approve. But as I said, I'm self-taught, and I think photos are a great help. I even have my own 35mm camera."

Kukich, who "toured some of the major museums of London, Dublin, Glasgow, Paris, Rome and other Italian cities," says "I love doing people...and I love painting the seascapes and landscapes which include a few cities, such as scenes of Dublin, a bar scene...and bagpipers, which I just love to do."

She says that "although my own ethnic background is diversified, I've always felt drawn to the culture and beauty of Ireland. I'm strictly American, but the Irish countryside is truly lovely to visit...and to paint. I'd like to go again."

"And I find inspiration everywhere I look. Something will strike me and I take notes. Even in dreams, a few things come to me, and I wake up and take notes."

The artist explains that she "prefers oils. I can work in watercolors. But oils have a strength and a depth, and I like the luminosity of the colors too. They're easier to work with."

Kukich is inspired by the "surrealists, and the most awe-inspiring group of artistic titans, Michaelangelo, Leonardo and Raphael...and particularly the Venetian Renaissance painter, Titian."

She says that she has "sold some work, so I can call myself a professional. I have a long way to go," Kukich muses. "But I have high ideals. I have to be a dreamer, but I also have to be a bit of a realist as far as marketing goes. I have to listen to what the public wants, but I also must be true to myself. I feel," she says seriously, "that I was put on this earth for the sole reason to entertain people through my art or my music or later through my writing. And if I can accomplish this, I'll be a happy person!"

Beans rich in vitamins and protein

recipe file

"Rabbit food," "nuts and berries" — such vegetarian diets are notoriously high in fiber, but may lack sufficient protein. Vegetarians can find a convenient and dependable, year-round protein source in canned beans. More than 40 varieties of beans, including black, kidney, pinto, and garbanzo beans, are available cooked and ready-to-use in cans.

At a slim 135 calories per 100 gram serving, approximately 1/2 cup, beans are an efficient energy source, rich in iron and B-complex vitamins. They also are very low in fat and contain no cholesterol.

Nutrition analysts recommend that, when possible, canned beans be used with their canning liquid, since some nutrients migrate into the liquid during processing. Canning liquid may be used in chili or soup — or in any recipe calling for extra liquid. Professional chefs also suggest pureeing canned beans with their liquid to retain nutrients.

Beans are an important ingredient in many ethnic dishes now popular in the United States. Hummus, a high-protein dip popular in the Middle East, is easy to prepare by pureeing garbanzo beans — also known as chickpeas or ceci beans — with garlic, olive oil and lemon juice. Hummus may be served with toasted pita bread, crackers or fresh vegetable sticks. Whole garbanzos also add flavor to salads, soups and stews, including the North African stew, Couscous.

Perhaps best known for their prominence in Mexican cooking, beans are finding their way onto the pages of American cookbooks as well. Tangy black bean soup is an "adopted" favorite from the Yucatan area of Mexico, the Caribbean and Cuba. Often seasoned with dry sherry or red wine, black bean soup can be served hot or chilled, and garnished with crumbled cheese, hard-cooked egg, minced chives, a slice of lemon or fried tortilla chips. The following heart-healthy recipe features low-fat yogurt in place of a more traditional sour cream garnish.

BLACK BEAN SOUP

- 1 cup coarsely chopped onions
 - 1 cup thinly sliced celery
 - 2 cloves garlic, minced
 - 1/2 teaspoons dried oregano leaves
 - 1 teaspoon ground cumin
 - 2 tablespoons olive or vegetable oil
 - 2 cans (15-oz. each) black beans, drained
 - 1 can (16-oz.) whole tomatoes, drained, coarsely chopped
 - 1 cup canned chicken broth
 - 2 tablespoons lemon juice
 - 2 tablespoons dry sherry
 - 1/2 teaspoon black pepper
 - 1/2 teaspoon cayenne pepper
- Saute onions, celery, garlic, oregano and cumin in oil in medium saucepan until onions and celery are tender, about 5 minutes. Stir in remaining ingredients; heat to boiling. Reduce heat and simmer, covered, 15 minutes. Process mixture in blender until smooth; return to saucepan and heat until hot. Serve in bowls; garnish with dollops of low-fat yogurt. Serves 6-8.

Solve secret to losing weight

With the arrival of a new year and a new decade, millions of Americans will pledge to lose weight. Recent studies have shown that more than 20 percent of Americans are currently on a weight-loss diet. What's the secret to losing weight? There is no secret: it's just a matter of eating less and/or exercising more. Listed are tips for lasting weight control from Dairy Council Inc.

Get to know your eating and exercise patterns. To do this, keep a food and activity diary for a week or two. How much do you usually eat? What and where do you eat, and what is your mood at that time? How often do you exercise? Look for specific patterns or bad habits. Once they're identified, you can work on changing them.

Try not to skip meals to save calories. That way, you'll minimize eating more than you would normally eat because of extreme hunger. And try to eat your meals and snacks at the same time each day, so that your body knows when to expect food.

Keep plenty of low-calorie, nutrient-dense snacks around, such as fresh vegetables, fruit, whole wheat crackers and plain yogurt. Eat them instead of high-calorie foods. If you can't resist the temptation of candy or chips, buy only mini, individual-size servings which have built-in portion control.

Stay away from fat diets. Although they promise quick weight loss, it is usually only temporary.

Try to exercise at least 20 to 30 minutes three to five times a week. In addition to burning calories, exercise relieves stress.

Finally, weigh yourself once a week, rather than every day. Body weight fluctuates from one day to the next. Often, inches are lost while pounds stay the same.

Further questions about weight control can be obtained by seeking the advice of a physician or a registered dietitian.

Dairy Council Inc. is a non-profit nutrition education organization serving communities in New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania.

Educational movie about elder care is available

The SAGE, Summit-Area Association for Gerontological Endeavor, recently produced an educational movie, "Making Their Days Brighter." The production was made possible through a grant obtained from Educational Cable Consortium Inc. of Summit, and will provide information to family and friends who care for elderly persons.

Dr. Mary Madigan, executive director of SAGE, said, "Our research indicates most elderly persons and their families need instant access to community health and social service agencies when there is a change in the health of an elderly person. Very often the family member arranging for these services is a working person responsible for the care of their immediate family and their parent. Often referred to as the 'sandwich generation,' they need instant education as to the eldercare resources available to them."

The film will be available through the SAGE Speakers' Bureau in February 1990. It will provide information about SAGE programs and its newly computerized information and referral service that has access to local and nationwide eldercare resources. SAGE is a United Way Agency.

Professor featured in magazine article

Professor Alan Barwielek, who teaches American Sign Language studies at Union County College, in Cranford, was featured in an article, "Signs of Life," published in the December issue of Pittsburgh Magazine.

The article focuses on the deaf professor's avocation as a comedian who satirizes the deaf community in a way that educates the hearing public about deaf culture. The article includes some photographs of the 37-year-old professor performing various facial antics that help dramatize the message he conveys through American Sign Language.

The author of the article describes Barwielek and his partner, Charles McKinney, as "comedians who will never hear laughter," and outlines the underlying messages communicated through their humor. These messages include how the deaf community marks its turf through a cohesiveness that is unveiled delicately to the hearing public. The article incorporates biographical data with a personality depiction and "translates" a few of the jokes in the Chalb Productions act.

Barwielek also teaches interpreter training at the college and previously was a deaf/blind specialist with the New Jersey Commission for the Blind and Visually Impaired. He has been active in coaching and in serving as a consultant in American Sign Language and deaf culture theater groups nationwide, and has brought his comedy act to all corners of the globe. Among his coaching engagements was for Paramount Pictures in filming the Oscar winning movie, "Children of a Lesser God," for actors, William Hurt and Philip Bosco.

A graduate of Gallaudet University with a bachelor's degree in drama, Barwielek earned a master's degree in educational theater from New York University.

A theater milestone for the Crossroads

Crossroads Theater Co., New Brunswick, an American theater company, achieved a milestone in its 11-year history recently when ground was broken for a new $3 million theater. The ceremony took place at the new site at 7 Livingston Ave., adjacent to the existing New Brunswick Cultural Center complex, of which Crossroads is a resident company.

The event also marked a milestone in the renaissance of the city of New Brunswick. Since its founding in 1978 by two Rutgers University graduates, Crossroads "has been a key component in the revitalization of cultural life in the city."

"Great theater deserves a great theater," declared New Brunswick Mayor and New Jersey Senate President John A. Lynch during the groundbreaking ceremony.

Other dignitaries present included Elizabeth Christopherson and Jeffrey

Kesper, chairman and executive director, respectively, of the New Jersey State Council on the Arts. The council is a principal funder of Crossroads' work and has designated the company as the first African American arts organization to reach the artistic focus level.

The company offers five productions each season, with an emphasis on new works by Black playwrights. The 1989-90 season is the first to feature all premieres. The theater company's mission focuses, in part, on presenting "honest and positive portrayals of Black life, culture and art, thereby helping to build bridges of understanding between people in this society and the world."

Crossroads attracts a multi-racial, multi-cultural audience and now has 2,000 subscribers from throughout the state, it was announced.

'Kline album pleases ear

By MILT HAMMER
Ear-Pleaser: "Patsy Cline, Live Volume 2," MCA Records.

No matter what your musical taste is, you'll enjoy listening to this LP album by the queen of country music, the late Patsy Cline, who never gave less than her best whether it was on records or on her live performances.

Patsy Cline had taken her place during the past few years as one of country music's legendary figures, a superstar of a magnitude rivaled only perhaps by Jimmie Rodgers, Hank Williams and Jim Reeves. During her tragically brief lifetime, she won hard-fought acceptance as a country star when female headliners in the field were as scarce as hen's teeth. Her later recordings crossed over, as they say, racking up sales and radio airplay in the wider pop market. So, it was an entire nation that mourned the tragedy when a plane crash on March 5, 1963, claimed her life and those of singers Cowboy Copas, Hawkshaw Hawkins, and her manager, Randy Hughes. Patsy was only 30 years old. Country fans will never forget her; she was inducted 10 years after her death into the Country Music Hall of Fame, the first female soloist so honored.

This album is not a greatest hits package; not a single Patsy Cline charted hit appears among these tracks. But they are treasures nonetheless. This collection supplements "Patsy Cline — Live at the Opry," with performances not heard since originally broadcast between 1956 and 1962. Of these 12, five are songs that Patsy never recorded commercially.

Despite the applause tracks you hear from the 1956 shows, these are studio cuts, transcribed strictly for later radio broadcast and not performed before live audiences. They come from three series of 15-minute military recruitment programs: "Country Music Time" for the U.S. Air Force. For whatever reason, the U.S. Marine Corps preferred using pop music in their recruitment shows.

All three shows were originally transcribed onto oversize 16-inch records in the mid-1950s. Independent producers worked by contract with the Department of Defense to arrange the country sessions in Nashville, usually with the help of local pianist-producer Marvin Hughes. Four songs and two ads were just about all that the recruiting offices could squeeze into 15-minute programs. Normally, the cast consisted of one star as host, another as guest, and a serviceman to read the ads, although the performers sometimes handled the ads themselves. The musicians constitute the only studio audience for these performances. Their applause and occasional exclamations of "That's fine, Patsy!" add at least a semblance of a live feel.

Concert set

A concert in the chamber series, "Afternoon Music," at the Unitarian Church, Summit, 4 Waldron Ave., will offer an innovative program of contemporary music with new music by New Jersey composers. There will be an open rehearsal before the concert Sunday at 4 p.m.

The New Jersey Percussion Ensemble will perform under the direction of Raymond Des-Roches. Under the auspices of the Composers Guild of New Jersey, the New Jersey Percussion Ensemble has performed in New Jersey and throughout the United States and has recorded for Nonesuch and CRI records.

Each year, "Afternoon Music" includes in its series performances of new or seldom-heard works along with familiar classics, it was announced. Those interested in learning more can be present between 2 and 3 p.m. "to take advantage of the give-and-take between audience and musicians during the open rehearsal. Students are encouraged to come."

For more information one can call 273-3245 or 277-3327.

Lucky brown cows

Some lucky cows are now being fed a bovine food mixture that incorporates unsalable chocolate and candy into the feed. The feed is cheaper than the more conventional corn or hay and the cows seem to enjoy it. In the future, we may see chocolate milk from brown cows!

Train actor workshop

Project Return Players of New Jersey, a volunteer, educational program, sponsored by The Mental Health Association in New Jersey, will sponsor a "Player Training Workshop" Saturday. The all-day workshop training will take place in the Social Services building, 60 South Fullerton Ave., Montclair, in the auditorium from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Project Return Players' Sharon Kolker is offering open membership in the educational program to any former or current consumer of mental health services, it was announced.

Project Return Players, a 1988 Public Education Award winner for "innovative community education techniques," has celebrated its second anniversary of community service and has become a part of the state's newly organized Speakers Bureau and self-help movement. With a membership of more than 20 people, Project Return has completed more than 80 performances and has written more than 30 sketches dealing with mental illness.

Additionally, the Players have been seen on cable TV and have performed in major psychiatric hospital and community mental health centers in northern and central New Jersey. Civic, religious and community organizations, and schools have benefited from the educational messages.

The workshop training planned for Saturday will incorporate sensory exercises, theater games and several unique improvisational techniques. No previous theater training is necessary to register for the workshop. The deadline for registration is tomorrow. Those interested can call 744-2500.

Percussion group to perform Sunday

The Composers Guild of New Jersey in cooperation with the Summit Unitarian Church, will present the New Jersey Percussion Ensemble Sunday at 4 p.m.

The Summit Unitarian Church is the site of the concert and is located at 4 Walden Ave. More information can be obtained by calling 273-3245.

The program will feature works by Stephen Peles, David Kowalski, John Cage and Edgar Varese.

"This program is financially supported by the Composers Guild of New Jersey, Inc., and is a pertinent component of the CGNJ strategy to promote New Jersey composers and

New Jersey music composition, uncensored and professionally presented."

The Composers Guild of New Jersey Inc., reportedly is a non profit, chartered New Jersey corporation, with federal tax-exempt status, whose objectives are endorsed by the New Jersey State Council on the Arts through general operating support, and by the National Endowment for the Arts, ASCAP, the BMI Foundation, Mid Atlantic Arts Foundation, Meet the Composer, Inc. and others.

Further information about the Composers Guild of New Jersey, Inc., and additional Guild events, one can call (609)494-8513.

'Mrs. America Pageant'

Applications are available for women, one of whom will go on to represent the state of New Jersey in the 1990 Mrs. America Pageant, it was announced. The nationally televised ABC special is viewed by millions, with prizes such as a mink coat, 1990 automobile, and TV and personal appearance contract to be awarded to the winner.

The Mrs. New Jersey and Mrs. America Pageant system is designed to "recognize America's married women." As a pageant devoted to the 56 million American wives, it serves as a showcase for married women, and focuses national attention on the "versatility and attributes of the contemporary American wife."

Entry into the Mrs. New Jersey America Pageant "is the first step for married women to achieve their goals and take advantage of state and national prizes."

Married women interested in becoming a part of the event "must be 18 years of age, married for a period of at least six months, a resident of the state of New Jersey, and a United States citizen." Prospective contestants "must send a current snapshot, write a brief biography and tell why she decided to enter the pageant" and a stamped, self-addressed envelope for an official pageant application.

Further details can be obtained by contacting the Mrs. New Jersey America Pageant State Director, Lillian Lehman, P.O. Box 1033, East Brunswick, 08816, or by calling 536-9023.

The Pageant will be held at the Raddison Newark Airport Hotel, March 25 at 8 p.m.

Kislak selling Regina facility

Robert Armanda, president of The Kislak Company's Corporate Real Estate Division, based in Woodbridge, has announced its appointment as exclusive broker to represent TRC Acquisition Corporation, a wholly-owned subsidiary of the Electrolux Corporation, in the sale of the 258,000-square foot Regina facility on 13.4 acres in Rahway, one of Union County's outstanding industrial buildings.

The Kislak team of Jim Bogris and Paul V. Giordano will coordinate the sale and marketing efforts on behalf of the TRC/Electrolux Corporation, which recently acquired the Regina Company.

Kislak's marketing strategy will focus on the Regina facility's flexibility for the user/investor, who appreciates an excellent walk-to-work labor pool, a network of major highways, Amtrak train service as well as public bus and train service nearby.

Located between Regina Avenue and East Inman Street, Regina's modern, one-story building was constructed in 1956, with additions made thereafter.

The property features 13,000 square feet of air-conditioned office space, ceilings ranging from 14 feet to 16 feet in the manufacturing space, and 16 feet to 28 feet in the warehouse space.

"The Regina facility is one of the most recognizable names in the country," Giordano and Bogris said.

"It rates with the likes of Loreal/Lancome, Merck, Schering-Plough, Emerson Quiet Cool and General Motors, all located in Union County as well."

The Regina Building, they said, is ideal for warehouse, manufacturing, light assembly or packaging purposes. Perhaps the most significant feature is that the building is minutes from Routes 1 and 9, Garden State Parkway, Exit 13 off the New Jersey Turnpike, Newark Airport and New York City, they added.

Joseph Hartnett, Rahway's business administrator, agrees that geographic location is important. "The Regina site certainly has a long tradition in Rahway. It is an outstanding property with an excellent image," he said.

Hartnett said he and other Rahway officials look forward to working with Kislak to bring a big name into town. "Chase Manhattan Bank recently came into town and the company is very pleased with the location and amenities Rahway provides," he said.

Armanda said the exclusive appointment represents another excellent opportunity for Kislak. "We appreciate the display of confidence in Kislak by the Electrolux Corporation and TRC Corporation. We look forward to bringing our marketing campaign to a successful conclusion," he said.

Kislak's Corporate Division continues to achieve major results.

Kelly Estates reminiscent of elegant era

Tucked away in a wooded enclave of western Union County is a private community of homes that evokes the grandeur and style of the turn-of-the-century manors.

"The spectacular homes of Kelly Estates at Scotch Plains are reminiscent of another era... an era which held the work of craftsmen in high regard, and placed a premium on privacy," said Daniel Siegel, a principal of American Properties, the community's builder/developer.

"Each of these 11 spacious homes is set on a huge one-acre wooded lot in a manner that assures the utmost in privacy and security," he said. "The combination of spaciousness and privacy, plus a comprehensive list of luxury features and a highly convenient Union County address, creates one of the most desirable and exclusive communities of luxury homes in the entire state."

Priced from $649,000, Kelly Estates is the only enclave of new homes in this price range in the Scotch Plains area. Buyers can select from traditional or colonial styles of two different models, or American Properties will custom-build to suit.

With magnificent masonry fireplaces in the family rooms, fully-equipped kitchens and elegant bathrooms, the five-bedroom estates at Kelly Estates come with the most complete list of features to be found in any new home.

The first floor features nine-foot ceilings and soaring cathedral ceilings in selected areas. The elegant entry foyer floor consists of either ceramic tile or wood, while floors throughout are a tasteful combination of hardwood and wall-to-wall carpeting.

Each home also features two-zone heat and air conditioning, a radio intercom system, a burglar alarm, stained wood railings, a treated wood deck, a separate laundry room, a built-in vacuum system, a full basement and abundant closet space. Additional standard amenities include a mirrored wet bar, separate maid's quarters, crown dentil molding, a separate study, chair rail moldings and a three-car garage with electric door openers.

The expansive Kelly Estates kitchen features a full pantry, custom-crafted wood cabinets, double-porcelain kitchen sinks, an upgraded sheet vinyl floor, a Jenn-air cook top, a trash compactor, a garbage disposal, a Jenn-air electric eye level with microwave, a Jenn-air dishwasher and a Subzero refrigerator.

The master bath comes with a whirlpool tub on a built-in tiled platform and double shower heads in a stall shower. All bath areas feature ceramic tiling, designer mirrors and cast-iron tubs.

The exterior of the Kelly Estate home is as impressive as the interior: a timberline roof, cedar siding and a complete landscaping package which includes an underground sprinkler system.

Approximately half an hour from tunnel crossings to Manhattan, Kelly Estates is convenient to Route 22, Interstate 78, the Garden State Parkway and the New Jersey Turnpike. In addition, residents will be just minutes from suburban Union County's extensive list of shopping, dining and entertainment opportunities, as well as hospitals, houses of worship and schools.

First-time home buyers still two-fifths of market, firm says

Rising home prices and higher mortgage interest rates have not significantly reduced the percentage of first-time home buyers during the last five years, according to statistics compiled by Century 21 Real Estate Corporation.

Century 21, the largest real estate organization in the world, has local affiliates in Clark, Cranford, Elizabeth, Roselle, Union and Westfield.

The national percentage of first-time buyers has remained steady at approximately 40 percent for this five-year period, based on more than 150,000 sales per year to first-time buyers by the Century 21 system.

"It is a myth that the first-time home buyer is out of the market," noted Monte Helme, vice president of public information for Century 21 Real Estate Corporation, at a recently-concluded seminar of the National Association of Real Estate Editors.

"In some areas of the country, such as the Chicago area, first-time buyers purchased 45 percent of the homes in the first quarter of 1989," he said.

"The profile of the average first-time buyer is certainly changing," Helme noted. "Spot surveys of our brokers indicate the average first-time buyer is a few years older, buying a smaller house or purchasing a townhouse or condominium instead of a single-family home. The first-time buyer may also be purchasing farther out and in less expensive neighborhoods."

The percentage of first-time buyers has remained basically stable for the last five years despite a rise in the average price of a starter home to $77,800 in March 1989 from $63,000 at the beginning of 1985.

Effective interest rates have fluctuated between 9.3 percent and 12.4 percent during this time period, according to the National Association of Realtors.

"There seems to be a general perception that rising prices and interest rates have squeezed the first-time buyer out of the real estate market," Helme noted. "We see no direct correlation between interest rates, home prices and the activity level of first-time buyers during the last five years."

Century 21 Real Estate Corporation is a wholly-owned subsidiary of Metropolitan Life Insurance Company. Approximately 11 percent of all residential real estate transactions completed in this country are handled by a Century 21 office. Collectively, an estimated $60 billion worth of real estate has been sold by the Century 21 system.

Speedy Car Wash

Union's car-cleaning expert

SPEEDY CAR WASH, located at 515 Lehigh Ave., Union, provides the best car-cleaning services in the area.

It's located in an industrial area on Lehigh Avenue — not exactly the kind of place you might expect to find a car wash; but somehow the Speedy Car Wash has managed to do quite nicely over the past 17 years.

"The thing that's been interesting is that there's no other commerce on the street," said owner Gene Rooney, "but there are people who go far out of their way to come to us."

According to Rooney, who has operated the business for the past two years, the customer receives the best possible service at a reasonable price.

At Speedy Car Wash, an exterior wash goes for about $1 less than the average car wash, a competitive price in a business where customers can be charged over $.55 simply for an exterior wash, not to mention amenities such as hot wax.

Rooney, though, at his totally "brushless" operation, provides more than just a lower price, while providing personalized service in what can be a very impersonal, high volume business.

In addition, the Speedy Car Wash offers free, self-service mat-washing equipment, something many other car washes dispense only for an extra charge, as well as coin-operated, self-service vacuum cleaners.

Rooney always keeps his equipment up to date, replacing washing equipment as part of an ongoing commitment to giving the best wash for the money.

"There's no equipment in the world that will do an absolutely perfect wash," he explained, adding, however, that a little extra effort can produce a superior service.

At Speedy Car Wash, Rooney's employees take time to wash off excess dirt from every vehicle before it even enters the conveyor — and the workers must greet each customer courteously because it is their job to do so.

"I won't permit my helpers to take tips," said Rooney, who can be seen right alongside his workers washing cars. "I want them to do a good job because it's their job, not because they're getting a tip."

Once inside, every vehicle is treated to a wash where every part of the car is cleaned more than once with fresh water and fresh detergent.

Each part of the car is cleaned at least twice, with the lower, dirtiest sections receiving four complete wash applications. No detergent or water is ever reused.

When the car wash is not operating, Rooney is still busy keeping all equipment in working order.

"We've really done a lot of maintenance on our equipment," he said. "I think that our assemblage of equipment is superior to most other car washes in the area."

Rooney makes a point of trying to spend as much time as possible at Speedy Car Wash.

"You don't have an absentee ownership here," Rooney explained. "The ownership is always present."

Speedy Car Wash is open from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. every day of the week, weather permitting.
