Man is acquitted on attempted murder rap

By SUZETTE STALKER

A Newark resident accused of deliberately striking a Mountainside police officer while attempting to elude authorities was acquitted of attempted murder last week, but was convicted on six other counts.

The defendant, Archie Worthy, 20, was found guilty on one count of aggravated assault, two counts of burglary, one count of theft, one count of attempted theft and one count of possession of stolen property.

Superior Court Assignment Judge Edward W. Beglin Jr. received the jury's verdict at 2:45 p.m. on Wednesday, Feb. 7, following a week-long trial in Elizabeth. Worthy, who is scheduled to be sentenced April 6, faces a possible 25 years in prison, with an option for parole after 12½ years.

Authorities stated that on July 8, 1988, Worthy and a companion had stolen a red Porsche from a Mountainside communications firm and were traveling down Route 22 east when Mountainside police began their pursuit of the suspects.

Officer Thomas McCartney, who was off-duty at the time, was standing near the highway's center divider and attempting to stop eastbound traffic so his colleagues could catch up with the suspected car thieves.

After skirting a police blockade, Worthy struck McCartney with his car, propelling the officer 12 feet in the air and approximately 100 feet away. McCartney sustained head, leg and internal injuries from the incident. He later recovered from his injuries and subsequently returned to duty.

Officer Dennis Tassie, a former Mountainside policeman now working for the Newark Police Department, fired three shots at Worthy's vehicle, one of which ricocheted off the Porsche and hit Barry Muster, 43, of Berkeley Heights, who was traveling westbound.

Muster, who was struck in the forehead, suffered brain damage and is still undergoing rehabilitative therapy.

Worthy, who fled to Georgia after the incident, surrendered to New Jersey authorities a week later.

Assistant Union County Prosecutor David J. Hancock and Defense Counsel Roxanne Gregory each called several witnesses during the trial, including several motorists who were traveling on Route 22 when Officer McCartney was hit.

Witnesses who were on the highway testified that it appeared that Worthy had purposely hit McCartney with his vehicle.

Worthy maintained throughout his trial, however, that he had attempted to avoid hitting McCartney, but Hancock noted that Worthy had told several different versions of what happened the day that he hit McCartney with the stolen vehicle.

Dr. Ira Kuperstein, a traffic and highway engineer who also serves as an accident reconstruction expert, testified on Feb. 6 that Worthy had done everything he could to avoid striking the officer.

This testimony, according to Kuperstein, was based on the position of the victim on the roadway and the speed of Worthy's vehicle when the incident occurred. Hancock had initially objected to allowing Kuperstein's testimony, claiming that the state did not have sufficient time to prepare a rebuttal.

"I was disappointed that he was not convicted of attempted murder," Hancock remarked last Friday. "I can understand the jury's verdict, though, and I was glad that they did find him guilty of running down the officer with the intent to cause bodily injury."

"I'm glad in one respect, I'm disappointed in another," Gregory commented after the trial's denouement. "I'm glad it was not attempted murder but I don't think it was aggravated assault."

Newark Attorney Alan Y. Medvin, representing Muster and his wife, Anna, filed a lawsuit last December which named the borough, Mountainside Police Chief William Alder and Officers McCartney, Tassie and Todd

Borough author's thriller to become cable TV film

By SUZETTE STALKER

Mountainside author Timothy B. Benford is about to see his award-winning debut novel, "Hitler's Daughter," transformed into a cable television movie to be broadcast on USA Network later this year.

Wilshire Court Productions, a Los Angeles-based company, is planning to film Benford's thriller during the spring, a studio spokeswoman confirmed last Friday. Both Wilshire and USA Network are owned by Paramount Studios.

The cameras are expected to roll on "Hitler's Daughter" beginning April 15 in Toronto, Canada, and will comprise 22 days of location and studio shooting, followed by approximately nine weeks of editing and post production work.

A work of fiction, "Hitler's Daughter," published by Pinnacle Books in 1983, describes how a woman, supposedly carrying a child fathered by the Fuehrer, is smuggled out of Germany in a U-boat during the final days of the Third Reich.

The female child, born in the United States, eventually acquires a position of power and influence. The principal characters are three women, but viewers do not learn until the movie's climax — during a presidential election — which one of them is Hitler's offspring.

Although no final casting decisions have been made, Benford said Monday that several top TV and movie luminaries are being considered for lead roles, including Richard Dean Anderson, Morgan Fairchild, Mark Harmon, Kate Capshaw, Harry Hamlin and Susan Blakely.

Benford himself will have a bit part in the movie.

The arrival of "Hitler's Daughter" on cable represents an important milestone for Benford's critically-acclaimed novel, which was recognized by the West Coast Book Review shortly after the book's publication as being one of the three best original paperbacks of the year.

The book, though it quickly sold 93,000 copies, soon became a casualty of its publisher's troubles. It was pulled, along with several others, from bookshelves after Pinnacle filed for protection from creditors under federal bankruptcy laws.

After legal entanglements were resolved, the company's new owners, Zebra Books, opted to reprint "Hitler's Daughter" last year. Plans for a movie version were soon under way as well.

A World War II buff, Benford has also written a second novel, "The Ardennes Tapes," which is set during

State delay won't tangle school budget process

By SUZETTE STALKER

Mountainside Superintendent of Schools Leonard Bacarro stated Tuesday that state legislation allowing for postponement of the 1990 school board elections would not drastically affect the borough's school budget process.

Governor James Florio is expected to receive a bill today which would move up the date of New Jersey school elections three weeks, from April 3 to April 24.

It would also extend the filing deadline for those seeking election to local school boards until March 1. Originally, all candidates' petitions had to be completed and filed by Feb. 8.

The proposed extension would provide the new governor with a "grace period" to prepare his state budget, including the amount of state aid which will be available this year for New Jersey school districts.

The Mountainside Board of Education's tentative $3.8 million 1990-91 budget has been approved by Union County Superintendent of Schools Dr. Vito A. Gagliardi Sr., according to Bacarro, and is presently undergoing revisions which were recommended by Gagliardi.

The tentative budget represents an approximate 8.5 percent increase over last year's figure.

"It doesn't cause a problem whatsoever," Bacarro remarked during a discussion concerning any impact the state delay might have on the Mountainside school budget. "We have everything in place, and all the basic things have been fixed."

Bacarro added that a public hearing on the budget, originally scheduled for March 6, will now probably be held the first week in April. The district's annual budget newsletter, in which the budget is discussed at length, will soon be mailed to all Mountainside residents.

Bacarro stated that the primary reasons for this year's budget increase were fixed costs, particularly a 30 percent boost in employee hospitalization expenses. He added that increased benefits represented an additional $100,000 in the budget this year.

The superintendent said other factors which brought up the budget included a state-mandated fire retrofit system to be installed at the Vail-Deane School in Mountainside, at a cost of $50,000, and a $25,000 limited asbestos removal program slated for Deerfield School in Mountainside.

Mayor Robert Vigilanti of Mountainside will be the guest on Suburban Cablevision TV-3's "Downtown: A Talk With Your Mayor," with host Richard Leonard, on Wednesday, Feb. 21, at 6:30 p.m.

"Downtown" a live call-in show, gives viewers an opportunity to call in with their questions and allows Mayor Vigilanti to discuss issues of concern affecting residents of Mountainside.

The phone number is 636-5333.

Mayor Vigilanti will be joined by Mayor Philip Kurnos of Springfield and Mayor Janet Whitman of Summit.

The program will be repeated on Sunday, Feb. 25, at 5:30 p.m.

Suspects nabbed

By DAVE WISE

Mountainside police helped apprehend a group of suspected car thieves following separate car chases on Route 22, both of which ended in crashes in Scotch Plains and Kenilworth Monday morning.

According to Springfield police, the incident started Sunday about 9:30 p.m. when two cars were stolen from the Springfield Motor Inn, located at the intersection of Route 22 and South Springfield Avenue in Springfield.

The suspected car thieves were witnessed fleeing down the highway in the stolen vehicles, identified by police as a Chevy Cavalier and a Pontiac Grand Am.

On Monday at 10:30 a.m., Springfield police were informed that the suspects had abandoned the Grand Am in Somerville and had stolen another car, a black 1988 Chevy Cavalier.

Watchung police spotted the Chevy Cavalier at approximately 11:10 a.m. and pursued the car into Scotch Plains, where it collided with a pole, according to Springfield police.

The three suspects in the stolen car were treated at Muhlenberg Hospital in Plainfield, but only one was not immediately released after treatment.

Watchung police informed Mountainside that a second car, a red Honda, was following the Chevy before it crashed. Sgt. James Debbie of the Mountainside Police Department later spotted the Honda, which was stolen from the Bridgewater Commons Mall. Debbie pursued the suspects on Route 22 east into Springfield, where the stolen car collided with an unmarked Springfield police car.

The stolen Honda was chased into Kenilworth, where it struck a tree in the intersection of Sheridan Ave. and North 18th St. One of the suspects was arrested in the car, but two others fled on foot.

The Kenilworth, Springfield, Mountainside, Union and Cranford police departments joined in the search of the suspects, who were apprehended a short time later.

The suspects, one 13-year-old and two 15-year-olds, are all from Newark. They were charged with possessing a stolen car.

First Aid Squad member calls dismissal 'unfair'

By SUZETTE STALKER

A borough resident has charged that he was unfairly expelled from the Mountainside First Aid Squad last week for failure to pull enough hours, saying he is still capable of serving his community.

The squad voted to dismiss John Meyer, 25, of Central Avenue from its ranks on Wednesday, Feb. 7, Squad Captain Steven Susman confirmed on Monday. A majority vote was taken from among approximately 16 squad members who attended that night's meeting.

Susman explained that Meyer was dismissed from the 30-member squad because he continually failed to meet his required hours, and because he did not attend regular squad meetings or drills.

A member of the squad since July 1987, Meyer said he was not able to serve his required hours during the latter half of 1989 because he was working two jobs to pay for his house, which he rented 1½ years ago when he moved to Mountainside.

He maintained that he works as a security guard for a hotel from 11 p.m. to 7 a.m. and as a carpenter from 8:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. "Between sleeping and going to work I was pulling my squad duty, or on my days off."

Last November, Meyer stated that Susman "informed me that I wasn't meeting the requirements. He wanted a minimum of 12 hours or nothing. I told him I could meet six hours but not 12, and he stated that anybody who does not meet the 12 hours is not using his credentials to the fullest."

"I was going on my third year on the squad," he continued. "My first two years, I put in more than my requirements. In 1988, I put in more than 1,400 hours, and the requirement for the year is only 720. Every year on the squad I also had one CPR save."

In addition, Meyer stated that he was a member of the Mountainside Rescue Squad crew which alerted firefighters to an arson blaze on Timberline Road on Halloween 1988.

Meyer added that he also coordinated a project in 1987 during which squad members took turns sitting with a Mountainside man who had suffered a heart attack and needed nighttime supervision.

The Mountainside First Aid Squad's Board of Directors released a statement on Tuesday which detailed the squad's position regarding recent disciplinary action against Meyer.

"The Mountainside Rescue Squad is an organization comprised of volunteer Emergency Medical Technicians serving the community. This does not imply that members may act or do as they see fit. Membership in the Mountainside Rescue Squad carries certain responsibilities," the statement said.

"Attendance at business meetings, training drills and committing to 48 hours of active duty per month are some of those responsibilities," the statement continued.

Meyer complained that he was not made a crew chief on the squad, despite being a fully-certified emergency medical technician. He noted that there is a serious shortage of daytime volunteers on the squad, and that there are not enough qualified crew chiefs to go around.

The Mountainside squad mandates that a crew chief be present on all its teams in order to transport a patient to the hospital, despite state regulations which only require that two EMTs be aboard.

 have a crew chief and need to take someone to the hospital must contact Mutual Aid, which involves assistance from neighboring communities. Susman informed Meyer in November that the latter had not been appointed as crew chief because he was not meeting the required number of hours on the Mountainside squad. Susman told Meyer, however, that the latter would be promoted to crew chief if Meyer pulled the required number of hours and passed the crew chief evaluation. The captain claimed, however, that Meyer later failed to show up for two scheduled meetings to discuss taking the evaluation for crew chief.

"In the months from June through December, 1989, Mr. Meyer failed to meet his active duty requirements, failed to attend drills and business meetings and on two occasions, failed to keep appointments for meetings he had requested," the squad statement said. Repeated efforts by several squad officers to have Mr. Meyer correct or explain his behavior during this period were ignored," the squad statement said.

Meyer said that he did not attend the first scheduled meeting to discuss his possible promotion to crew chief because he had to work, and that he missed his second appointment because he overslept.

He denied reports made by squad Vice President Frank Catena and former Deputy Captain Richard Harris that he was at Winston's, a popular restaurant/cocktail lounge on Route 22 east in Mountainside, on the night he was supposed to have been at his second evaluation appointment.

Meyer contended that several other members of the Mountainside First Aid Squad, including two crew chiefs, have also failed to pull their minimum number of hours, mostly because they are away at school during the year and are only able to pull duty during the summer.

The former squad member stated that Susman has excused other members of the squad for insufficient hours, adding that he believes that Susman wanted to make an example of him, in an effort to dissuade other squad members from not meeting their hours or skipping meetings.

Susman acknowledged that a number of Mountainside squad members are away at school during most of the year, "but that academic leave is provided for in the by-laws of the squad." He said, however, that all squad members are expected to abide by the organization's by-laws.

Meyer criticized Susman for launching appeals for more residents to join the Mountainside First Aid Squad, which has experienced a serious manpower shortage during recent years, then dismissing an existing member because he was unable to serve 12 hours.

"It's poor judgment on his part," remarked Meyer, who felt that a temporary suspension would have been a more appropriate action than total dismissal from the squad. "It hurts the community because it leaves them with one less fully-trained EMT."

Meyer reported that Susman did offer to take him back within the next several months if Meyer chose to reapply for service with the Mountainside Rescue Squad. Susman confirmed that he had made this offer.

Susman stated that the squad's disciplinary action against Meyer was not related to its on-going campaign to recruit new members. He added that the squad continues to encourage area residents to volunteer, particularly during daytime hours when manpower shortages are especially critical.

The statement by the squad's board of directors said "The Mountainside Rescue Squad appreciates the time and energy of the many responsible members who contribute to the community's Emergency Medical Services and always welcomes mature individuals interested in membership."

 the infamous Battle of the Bulge. The book blends fact and fiction to create a chilling narrative which has been likened by literary critics to the works of famed horror novelist Stephen King.

In addition, Benford has penned two volumes of "The World War 2 Quiz and Fact Book," along with "The Space Program Quiz and Fact Book" and "The Royal Family Quiz and Fact Book." The author reports that his next effort will focus upon accused mass murderer John List, who was arrested last year after an 18-year manhunt and is presently awaiting trial.

The suit charges that the Police Department was negligent in its handling of the incident which led to Muster being injured, and accuses Chief Alder of having been "reckless in his supervising, training and instructing officers...including defendants Tassie, McCartney and Turner in the proper use of firearms..."

 increase because we did not know there would be a 30 percent increase in hospitalization last May," Bacarro remarked of the budget. "So consequently, the increase we will see now will be the 30 percent plus last year's increase which we underbudgeted for."

The seats of Board President Linda Schneider and board member Patricia Knodel are scheduled to expire this spring, according to Bacarro. Both women have already filed petitions for re-election, and newcomer Josephine Colicelli, of Poplar Avenue in Mountainside, has also entered the race.

Each of the candidates are seeking full three-year terms on the board, Bacarro said. Schneider has served three terms on the board, and has been president for five years. Knodel, an 18-year member of the board, is a member of the board's Buildings and Grounds Committee.

She is also the board's liaison to the New Jersey School Boards Association.

Meeting is cancelled

The regular meeting of the Mountainside Board of Education scheduled for Tuesday, Feb. 27, has been cancelled.

The next regular board meeting is scheduled for Tuesday, March 6, at 8 p.m. in the Deerfield School Library, located on Central Avenue and School Drive in Mountainside.

There will also be a private meeting immediately following that meeting, to discuss personnel matters and/or negotiations. No action will be taken at the private session.

Restaurant gives 'sweet' gift to kids

Residents of Mountainside, Springfield and Kenilworth will have the opportunity to satisfy their sweet tooth and donate to a worthy cause throughout February.

B.G. Fields, a restaurant located at 560 Springfield Avenue in Westfield, will conduct its "Love The Child" campaign through Feb. 28. The eatery will donate a percentage of each dessert sold at the restaurant to Children's Specialized Hospital in Mountainside.

"We feel this is a good way to help the children," commented Anthony Smit, general manager of the restaurant. "Many people know of the good work done at Children's Specialized Hospital, and this is our way of helping a local organization."

Smit explained that the "Love The Child" campaign will apply to any dessert bought at any time during February. The restaurant features Geiger's homemade fresh fruit pies, a variety of cakes, torts, ice cream and other sweets.

Children's Specialized Hospital is a comprehensive pediatric rehabilitation hospital with 60 acute rehab beds and 25 long term care beds. Also, outpatient and community services are provided at the hospital's outpatient center in nearby Fanwood.

In 1991, Children's Specialized Hospital will celebrate 100 years of caring for children and adolescents.

Recyclables will be collected

The Union County Utilities Authority (UCUA), which serves Springfield and Mountainside, has released the schedule for curbside pickups of recyclables during February for the 11 municipalities participating in the Union County Regional Recycling Program.

Newspaper, glass and aluminum will be collected on Friday, Feb. 16, in Springfield and on Monday, Feb. 26, in Mountainside.

UCUA officials remind residents to set out their recyclables by 7:30 a.m. the day they are scheduled for collection. Residents should prepare their materials according to the following guidelines:

- Newspapers must be clean and tied in bundles that are no more than eight inches thick. The bundles may not include paper bags, magazines, telephone books or junk mail.

- Glass bottles and jars must be well rinsed with all caps and lids removed. Labels, styrofoam, metal rings and plastic do not have to be removed. Do not break glass. Glass must be placed at the curb in sturdy, reusable containers. Only bottles and jars will be collected — no window glass, dishes, Pyrex, mirrors or crystal.

- Aluminum beverage containers must be well rinsed and placed in a sturdy reusable container. Tin cans, paint cans and spray cans cannot be collected. Note: A magnet will not stick to the side or bottom of a recyclable all-aluminum can.

Glass and aluminum recyclables must be set out in separate containers. Materials placed in plastic or paper bags will not be collected.

For missed pickups, affected persons may call 753-7276.

Blood drive announced

The Summit municipal employees are planning on doing their duty at a blood drive on Thursday, Feb. 22, and are encouraging all area residents to join them. Health officials say that only 4 percent of the people in this country ever give blood when 40 percent are medically eligible to do so.

The need for blood can arise in any family. One out of every 10 hospital patients requires a transfusion, and the average transfusion is three pints.

The result of so little giving and so much getting is that America must import over a third of its blood needs from Europe.

The Summit municipal employees regularly hold two blood drives a year. The upcoming drive will be held at the Municipal Building, 512 Springfield Avenue, Summit, from 10:30 a.m. to 4 p.m.

People weighing over 110 pounds, who are in good health, and between the ages of 17 and 75 (under 17 with parental consent and over 75 with doctor's ok) are urged to participate.

Bieber travels around world over and over

By DEBBIE SACHAROFF

While some people merely fantasize about faraway places and foreign faring, 24-year-old Judy Bieber of Kenilworth has been satisfying her wanderlust for quite some time.

The daughter of Doris and Herman Bieber, the young woman says that she first started to travel when she accompanied her father, an Exxon engineer in Linden, on business trips when she was a child.

Since then she has been to Europe many times, taught English in Thailand, studied history in Nigeria, vacationed in Brazil, and bird-watched in Greenland.

Currently attending Johns Hopkins University on a fellowship, Bieber is pursuing a doctoral degree in history, and says she often tries to integrate travel with her studies.

"Traveling first got into my blood on business trips with my father. My mother doesn't like to travel, but my dad rotated between my sisters and me so we could each have the same amount of travel time," she says.

Because she was exposed to travel at a very young age, Bieber went on to study anthropology at Rutgers.

"I hoped that through my interest in how other cultures worked, I could incorporate travel into my life," she says.

By the time she was 18, she says, she had been to Europe with her father three times and had spent time with him in Puerto Rico, Bonaire in the Antilles, and Iceland.

Although she really enjoyed the friendly people and exciting European train rides during her childhood, Bieber says that her later independently planned trips proved to be more adventurous.

Bieber explains that she first realized how different and exciting it was to plan one's own journey after she took her first independent trip to France while in college.

While she was a student at Rutgers, she also accompanied her father to Greenland and Iceland, where he led a group from the Echo Lakes Naturalist Club on a bird-watching expedition.

"Iceland was beautiful, like Switzerland by the sea, very beautiful and unspoiled with many lovely birds."

"Greenland was different though. It's basically a Danish welfare state," she explains. "The Inuit people who live there really don't have a whole lot to do because they have lost touch with their traditional way of life."

Although there were supposed to be some birds in Greenland, the group learned that any bird there that is big enough to be noticed is caught and eaten.

After Bieber was graduated from college with a degree in anthropology, she says she wanted to see if she could live in a remote place for a long time to find out if she had what it would take to be an anthropologist.

After reading about refugee camps in Thailand and consulting with various agencies in New York about the possibilities of getting a job, Bieber says she was advised to show up in Thailand in person.

"I was told that if I went there on my own, I could probably get a job because people would know I was serious, and not just fooling around."

Preparing for her trip, she took an intensive course in Thai for 10 weeks and then flew to Thailand all by herself.

In Bangkok she found three jobs — teaching English at a language school, at a local university and at a charity school for poor city children.

"The students there were really funny. They wouldn't tell you if they didn't understand because they felt asking questions might be interpreted as disrespectful or viewed as a criticism," Bieber says. "They have a great respect for teachers there, but not knowing their learning problems was frustrating."

Bieber became friends with many of her students, she says, and was invited to their homes and even to one of their weddings.

"The wedding was crazy. It was an arranged marriage with about 1,000 people at a really big ceremony and reception out in the country," she says. It started at 4:30 a.m. because that was the time selected by an astrologer as the most auspicious time for creating the climate for a happy marriage. The bride looked happy at the wedding, but the groom looked scared. "When the relatives wanted the groom to kiss the bride following the ceremony, he was very shy and wouldn't kiss her in public," she explains.

Bieber traveled through Thailand using many types of transportation and described the country as very green and tropical. She notes that train travel was very clean and efficient and that motor scooters and trucks also were used for local transportation.

"Some of the buses had people with animals on them, and in the back of these little trucks sometimes everybody with all their chickens, baskets, vegetables and animals would pile in," she says.

According to Bieber, Bangkok had quite a night life, with big discos, clubs, night markets, a lot of street activity, people walking around shopping, eateries, little tables set up on the sidewalk and vendors.

Upon returning to the United States, Bieber says that she felt really strange, as if she were watching a movie all around her, but wasn't really present. She describes these feelings as reactions that stemmed from culture shock.

"What was going on in front of me didn't seem real. It looked familiar, but it wasn't," she says.

She notes that the differences between Thai people and American people seemed very pronounced when she returned.

"Thai people don't show strong emotions in public because this would be interpreted as a lack of self-control. Even if they were upset, they would be very quiet, in order not to appear childish. They kept a lot inside, which made Americans seem very free in comparison," she says.

Although Bieber never was able to teach in a refugee camp in Thailand, she says that she did get to visit one.

"It was depressing, to see all these people crowded into a small space when you knew that the kids, especially the young kids, had lived all their lives in these camps."

"Some were waiting to leave, to the United States or to whatever country would take them. It wasn't like they could have a real life though, because they didn't know if they were going to leave or when or if they would have to return to their own country," she explains.

Having applied to several graduate schools while she was working in Thailand, Bieber was accepted on a fellowship to Johns Hopkins University in Baltimore to pursue a doctorate in world comparative history under the direction of Dr. Philip D. Curtin, who "was renowned in the field."

She began her studies there in 1988, and since then also has studied women's history and African history.

When she learned of a research program in Nigeria sponsored by the University of Pennsylvania, Bieber says she decided to apply for admission to the summer program where she could work on a project on African marriage law. She was accepted and went to Nigeria last summer. She describes the country as "very poor and also very dangerous."

"I went to the university in the city of Ibadan, but I really didn't like Nigeria that much because it was just too difficult to live there," says Bieber.

"They don't really have a good infrastructure, with piped water only working about 25 percent of the time. You couldn't ever count on having piped water, which can get messy," she explains.

"A lot of half-finished structures had been abandoned all over town, when many of the builders had run out of money. There was a lot of poverty. They have a very inefficient bureaucracy," she says. And in addition to being poor, Bieber also notes that Nigeria "was really unsafe, and that as soon as it got dark, nobody went out because there were a lot of thieves."

Bieber says that her life was threatened in Nigeria while she was traveling from the village to the city with a group of friends.

"We got robbed at gunpoint by a gang of men with machine guns and pistols. They came up and threatened to kill me and my African and American friends if we didn't give them everything we had," she says.

The group gave the thieves their money and their possessions, including handbags and cameras.

"I thought I was going to die. I was pretty scared."

"In Nigeria armed robbery carries the death penalty, so there is really no incentive for them not to kill you," Bieber says.

"A lot of the Nigerians I talked to after this told us that we were really lucky that we were still alive."

Bieber says she felt the country was really unsafe even before this happened, although, she adds, "Many people were just so desperate because they were so poor." Although Bieber's Nigerian trip had endangered her life, she did not stop traveling alone.

Her next adventure was a two-week solo vacation to Brazil last December, where she "had a great time."

"I was interested in the history of Brazil as it relates to the slave trade, and decided before I invested time in studying it, I should go there and see if I liked it," she says.

"People were so nice there, warm and friendly, and they would go out of their way to help you if you had a problem."

Brazil is filled with every kind of music, Bieber explains, from jazz to samba, to a traditional style called capoeira.

She describes Rio as "stunning, with beautiful mountains."

"Why do I do all this?" Bieber asks. "It's worth it to me to travel, because I

George Washington's culinary weaknesses revealed

Before there was Ronald Reagan's sweet tooth for jelly beans or George Bush's penchant for pork rinds, there was Andrew Jackson's affection for a tall, cool glass of milk, Zachary Taylor's cravings for Creole cooking and Teddy Roosevelt's taste for imported teas. Through the years, presidential palates have indeed influenced culinary trends.

Although we tend to think of political history as being recorded in biographies and official records, the American Dairy Association contends that first-family food preferences shed some light on the presidents in a personal, entertaining way. We're inclined to believe, for example, that Chester Arthur is perhaps better remembered for his hearty appetite than his term in office; we know that Thomas Jefferson's presidential salary was not enough to cover his entertaining expenses; and we recall that Lyndon Johnson served as host at the first White House barbecue.

In compiling "The Presidents' Cookbook," published in 1968 by Funk and Wagnalls, Poppy Cannon and Patricia Brooks, whenever possible, went straight to the cookbooks of the nation's first ladies for their research. The American Dairy Association has kitchen-tested and adapted three of these favorite recipes from three favorite presidents — Washington, Jefferson and Lincoln — to commemorate Presidents Day, Feb. 19.

This first recipe, Mount Vernon Cornbread, was a favorite of George Washington. Our first president, while uninterested in most culinary refinements, did have a weakness for nuts. The general enjoyed a light meal before bed which invariably included nuts, this buttery cornbread, a fruit compote and cheese.

Among the recipes which Thomas Jefferson's daughters passed on to posterity is the creamy Sorrel Soup that follows. Jefferson — a gourmet, who is credited with bringing to the United States macaroni, vanilla and waffles — was a dedicated gardener who liked to grow vegetables almost as much as he enjoyed eating them.

Though indifferent to many foods — Abraham Lincoln was known to have forgotten about meals altogether — our 16th president did enjoy Mary Todd's Courting Cake on the occasions that he called on her before they were married. Abe also fancied all kinds of fruit. In 1841, he wrote to a friend, "I am living upon the remembrance of the delicious dishes of peaches and cream we used to have at your house." In keeping with the president's good taste, the American Dairy Association has teamed the burnt sugar cake with juicy, fresh sweet cherries. It's as delicious today as ever.

WASHINGTON CORNBREAD
1 cup all-purpose flour
1/2 cup yellow cornmeal
1/2 cup sugar
1 tablespoon baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 cup milk
1 egg, beaten
2 tablespoons butter, melted
Preheat oven to 425 degrees Fahrenheit. Combine flour, cornmeal, sugar, baking powder and salt in medium-sized mixing bowl. Combine milk, egg and butter in small mixing bowl. Stir milk mixture into dry ingredients. Spread evenly in well-buttered 8-inch square baking pan. Bake about 20 minutes, or until golden. Cool slightly in pan on wire rack. Serve warm with butter.

Yield: one 8-inch square pan.

LINCOLN'S COURTING CAKE
Cake:
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 cup boiling water
1/2 cup (1 stick) butter
1/4 cup sugar
2 eggs, separated
1 teaspoon vanilla extract
2 1/2 cups sifted cake flour
2 1/2 teaspoons baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 cup milk
3 tablespoons caramelized sugar
Mixture:
1/2 cup (1 stick) butter
1 cup firmly packed brown sugar
1/2 cup milk
1 1/2 to 2 cups sifted confectioners sugar
Yield: one 2 layer 9-inch round cake.

For cake, place 1/2 cup sugar in heavy skillet over low to medium heat. Stir constantly until sugar is melted and light amber in color. Remove pan from heat. Slowly stir in boiling water. If liquid is added quickly, mixture will spatter and syrup will lump. Return to medium heat. Boil the syrup, stirring constantly, until it has the consistency of molasses, about 8 minutes. Remove from heat and cool completely.

Preheat oven to 375 degrees Fahrenheit. Cream butter and 1 1/4 cups sugar until light and fluffy. Beat in egg yolks one at a time, beating well after each addition. Mix in vanilla. Combine flour, baking powder and salt. Add dry ingredients alternately with milk, beginning and ending with dry ingredients. Stir in caramelized mixture. Store remainder of caramelized mixture in a glass jar with a tight fitting lid at room temperature. It will keep indefinitely. Beat egg whites until stiff but not dry. Fold into batter. Divide batter evenly between 2 buttered and floured 9-inch round cake pans. Bake 25 to 30 minutes, or until wooden pick inserted in center comes out clean. Cool cake in pans 15 minutes. Remove from pans and cool completely on wire racks.

1 cup light cream or half and half
2 egg yolks
Yield: 8 cups.

Melt butter in 4-quart Dutch oven. Sauté onion until tender, about 5 minutes. Stir in chopped sorrel. Cook 2 to 3 minutes. Stir in flour, nutmeg and pepper. Gradually add chicken broth and cream. Bring to boil over medium heat, stirring constantly. Boil and stir 1 minute. Add a small amount of sorrel mixture to beaten eggs. Return all to Dutch oven. Reduce heat to low. Cook 2 additional minutes. Do not boil. Serve immediately. Or puree in blender or food processor. Heat through but do not boil.

OPINION

Curb car theft

Car theft has reached near-epidemic proportions along Route 22. It's obviously going to take a lot of cooperation among the many municipalities sprinkled along the highway's corridor to put the brakes on this larcenous, lucrative business.

That's why we're encouraged by a recent meeting involving the Mountainside Police Department aimed at clearing up misunderstandings with police in nearby communities in this regard.

Route 22, from Mountainside eastward to Newark, is tailor-made for car thieves. It is adjacent to many parking lots for stores and restaurants; it offers a multitude of entrances and exits; it has no traffic lights to slow down an escaping thief; and there's usually enough traffic to create serious obstacles for a patrol car in pursuit.

Due primarily to the nature of the highway, both Newark and neighboring Union, according to a recent survey, rank among the nation's top 25 cities in car-theft rates.

Despite the trend, police departments in the various municipalities haven't always displayed teamwork. Often, Newark police have complained that their counterparts in the suburbs have pursued suspects into that city without notifying them, and that the high-speed chases have endangered Newark residents. In fact, some of the neighboring departments have acknowledged Newark Police Director Claude Coleman's claim that their officers have occasionally shown "a cavalier attitude" during their pursuits.

That so many of the car thieves have been found to be from Newark, the state's largest city, should encourage that city's police department to redouble its efforts against this crime. Suburban police departments, moreover, ought to have enough confidence in the Newark police that they would feel less of an obligation to pursue suspects into the city.

But hand-in-hand with the city's effort must go interdepartmental cooperation. Improved communication among the various departments patrolling Route 22 is paramount, and we hope that the recent meeting is a starting point in that direction.

Another promising sign in the fight against auto theft is the development and increasing distribution of a sophisticated directional tracking system.

The system, called LoJack, allows properly-equipped patrol cars to pinpoint the whereabouts of stolen cars bearing the system's hidden radio transponders. The transponders emit signals that let the police track the vehicle, theoretically within minutes of the report of the theft.

LoJack, by itself, won't stop car thefts. But once fully implemented across the state, it should speed the recovery time for stolen vehicles and increase the rate of recovery. That would cut deep into the profit margins of the chop-shop specialists who thrive on sale of parts ripped out of stolen cars.

Presently, only about 50 percent of Union County's 6,500 cars stolen annually are ever retrieved. By contrast, LoJack representatives claim that in Massachusetts, where the system was first installed, 96 percent of all LoJack-equipped stolen cars have been recovered within 90 minutes.

Springfield and Union have recently obtained this system. We hope the Mountainside Police Department isn't far behind its neighbors in adding this weapon to its anti-car theft arsenal.

Better police cooperation and better technology are needed to put a dent in the auto theft rate. Yet one of the best ways to prevent this crime is not in the hands of the authorities or the inventors, but the individual motorist. Simply, locking one's car and pocketing the key is how the individual can help deter would-be car thieves.

Don't dilute high school curriculum

After listening to the response that Union County Regional High School District No. 1 Superintendent Donald Merachnik gave to Barbara Adler at Tuesday night's Board of Education meeting, I was saddened to learn that the district could no longer complete with other quality schools.

In the effort to keep the district's four high schools, including Jonathan Dayton in Springfield, open, Merachnik stated that programs would have to be cut. "We just cannot operate classes that do not have enough students enrolled in them," he said.

If the enrollment were not sufficient, the advanced placement classes offered to seniors would be an area "at risk." Students must have these courses in order to complete with comparable students from surrounding communities. Colleges on the "most competitive" list strongly recommend that their applicants have at least two advanced placement courses.

It is a shame that parents will be forced to send their children to private schools in order to receive the courses that neighboring communities like Millburn, Westfield, Summit and others offer.

There must be alternative solutions to the problems we are all facing in education today.

Perhaps a hidden agenda exists: watering down the curriculum under the guise of declining enrollment would anger enough parents in the community to them suggest that a school be closed. The remaining schools would then be able to offer a full competitive curriculum.

Perhaps the board's real plan is to make the community feel as though it were in control while doing what they had wanted to do in the first place.

The time has come for the Union County Regional High School District No. 1 Board of Education to be honest with its constituency, and to address this problem with integrity, both financial and academic. Too often, academic and intellectual rigors face extinction in light of budget reductions.

Let's slam-dunk basketball jargon

By FRANK J. KORN

Generally speaking, there are only three things that I cannot abide: clichés, ballpoint pens, and people who put ice in their wine.

Ballpoint pens, like old cars in winter, are hard to start. They skip, stall, leak, scratch. They do not glide gracefully across the page like the oldtime fountain pens or the modern flairs.

Putting ice in one's wine strikes me as being about as urbane and sophisticated as your average duck. Whenever I see some dude engaging in this practice, I have to leave the room.

But I have come here today to speak about clichés — particularly, of the basketball variety.

It seems that today's sportscasters simply cannot bring themselves to describe the action in a basketball game in conventional language.

No longer does a player linger too long in the foul lane, but rather, "in the paint." No more do shots bounce off the rim but rather "off the iron." And there exist no longer any basketball teams. For no respectable announcer or color commentator would be caught dead using the word "team." That's for squares like me. These days there are only "clubs," as in, "Seton Hall has a young club this season." Or "squads," as in, "The Georgetown squad is deep."

Incidentally, "deep" means — for all you country bumpkins out there — that the team has many good players on the bench.

Though I won a varsity letter in the sport, mirabile dictu, back in high school days, half the time I don't know what the heck these microphone jockeys are selling. It took me quite some time, for instance, to deduce that "the quarterback went downtown with that one" stands for "the point guard took a long shot."

Now don't get me wrong. I'm not opposed to figurative language. In truth, I thoroughly enjoy an occasional finely-drawn metaphor or a scintillating simile. But I stand with E.B. White who cautioned against the overuse of such rhetorical niceties.

Figurative expressions and even single words become stale with incredible swiftness, a fact Allen Upward conveys pithily in this selection from his book, "Scented Leaves From A Chinese Jar."

"The Word":

The first time the emperor Han heard a certain Word he said, "It is strange." The second time he said, "It is divine." The third time he said, "Let the speaker be put to death."

How readily I can relate to the emperor's sentiments, for I am tempted to issue such an edict myself whenever I witness someone say or write: "Fresh as a daisy" or "pretty as a picture" or "fit as a fiddle." I'll concede that whoever it was that first drew the comparison "fresh as a daisy" had to be wonderfully creative and imaginative. His or her readers must have delighted to such a clever analogy. But the pity of it is that it is usually the cleverest expression and the catchiest phrase that wear thin fast from overuse and become official clichés. From that point on, these hackneyed terms grate on the ear.

Take the word "awful," for example. If beautiful means full of beauty, awful once must have stood for "full of awe; awe-inspiring."

Perhaps, long centuries ago, the best thing a guy could say to his gal, when he picked her up for a night out on old Londontown, was: "My, you look awful tonight."

Of course, in time no woman was flattered by what had quickly become a trite term through woeful overuse.

Surely, there are other things besides fiddles that are fit. How about "fit as a marathon runner" for a change? And "fresh as this morning's newspaper" might be a welcome relief to "daisy."

Here are some other once-upon-a-time picturesque play-by-play observations:

• "Princeton is still trying to get on the board." Translation? Princeton hasn't scored yet.

• "Smith uses the glass to advantage." Smith's good at banking shots.

• "Ewing has been dismal at the stripe tonight." Ewing has missed most of his foul shots.

These days, when a player's shot is way off the mark he "throws up a brick." When he swishes one cleanly, it's "nothing but cords." When he dunks a shot into the basket, he "slams it into the cylinder."

What the...? Would it be fair to say, then, that the New York Knicks are a deep cylinderball club this year?

But here are two that always make me want to place a hurried call to Emperor Han:

• "Larry (or Moe, or Shemp for that matter) always give 110 percent." (About as clever as a mongoose, Mac.)

• And the killer: "This club came to play." (No kidding, Mac.) This is basketballese for: The team would like very much to win the game.

Give me a break! Has there ever been a team, oops, club that didn't "come to play"? That didn't want to win?

The other night, though, I heard a new one that I thought was just marvelous: "Some 'bows were flying out there on that last play." (The two centers were throwing elbows at each other under the backboard.)

"It is strange," I mused. The next time I hear it I will not doubt think, "It is divine." But everytime after that, I'm calling up Han.

Recreation Commission does good job

Too often, the efforts and accomplishments of our neighbors who serve on borough boards and agencies go without proper notice and appreciation.

Permit us this opportunity to express our pleasure and gratitude for the superlative job being done by the Mountainside Recreation Commission and its director, Sue Winans.

One has only to read the most recent issue of the Recreation Commission newsletter to comprehend the wide scope and effectiveness of the Mountainside recreation program.

"Something for Everyone" and "A Good Bang for Your Buck" must be the motivation and credo of the Recreation Commission.

Again, a big "thank you."

Legislation protects home buyers

By MICHAEL L. TESTA

A buyer of a new home in New Jersey is entitled to the protection afforded by the New Home Warranty and Builders Registration Act.

This legislation covers all new homes for which title is first transferred from the builder to the owner, or for which possession or occupancy is first given by the builder to the owner, on or after July 1, 1979.

The warranties contained in this statute apply to all new homes, except dwellings constructed for rent and units governed by the Federal Mobile Home Construction and Safety Standards Act. The warranties are effective from the date of settlement or the date of first occupancy, whichever is sooner.

There are actually three separate warranties, each covering specific defects and having time limitations:

• The first is a one-year warranty covering performance defects, appliance and equipment defects, mechanical and electrical defects, and major structural defects.

• The second is a two-year warranty that applies to all appliance, fixture and equipment defects, only if such defects are covered under a manufacturer's warranty. Mechanical and electrical-system defects and major structural defects are also included.

• The third warranty under the act is a 10-year warranty that covers all major structural defects in a new home.

The following are examples of some of the items that are covered by warranty:

• Plumbing system;
• Electrical system;
• Heating and cooling system; and

• Major structural defects, such as damages to roof rafters and trusses, ceiling and floor joints, supporting beams, columns, foundation walls and footings.

A more detailed, comprehensive list of items covered by these warranties may be found in the New Jersey Administrative Code.

The protections afforded by the act are available to subsequent owners. Purchasers of "new homes" from either the original owner/purchaser or a subsequent owner are covered by the new home warranty, subject to the remaining limitations of the warranty.

The remedy that the homeowner ultimately selects is an exclusive remedy. This means that the homeowner is effectively barred from pursuing any other remedy available under the act.

The builder's liability is limited or capped at the original purchase price paid for the new home, and liability to subsequent purchasers is also limited to the original purchase price. Subsequent purchasers of the home do not receive warranty coverage for increases in the value of the property.

Pappas' post with county made permanent

By SHARON CATES

Almost a year after being named acting director, Harry Pappas has been appointed director of the Union County Department of Central Services.

The Feb. 5 appointment, announced by County Manager Joseph A. Martin, has obviated a lawsuit that Pappas filed in October against Martin and county Freeholders James Connelly Welsh, Neil Cohen, Joseph Suliga, Jeffrey Macarelli, Michael LaPolla and Gerald Green.

In the suit, Pappas, a former county Democratic chairman, claimed that freeholder interference in the daily operations of county government had prevented his permanent appointment.

According to Pappas' attorney, Patricia Breuninger, the suit is still pending. However, there is speculation among county officials that the suit will be dropped now that his position has been made permanent.

"The appointment had to do with the settlement of his suit," Martin explained. "I have met the conditions of his March 1989 appointment."

Martin also noted that although a background check and review on Pappas had been completed in July, the appointment was not made then due to "disputes concerning Pappas."

Martin also recommended that Pappas' salary be increased almost 10 percent. As acting director, Pappas' salary stood at $58,900. Martin also recommended that the proposed raise be retroactive to July, when Pappas' background check and review were completed.

Martin noted that it is his job to set salary levels and the freeholders job to approve salary increases.

However, several freeholders said that they were alarmed by Martin's proposals.

"The recent recommendation by the county manager to increase Pappas' salary to over $64,400 is nothing more than political blackmail," Suliga said. "Numerous department heads who have many more years of experience and credentials than Pappas do not earn that salary."

"I don't understand how the county manager can recommend an increase of almost 10 percent going back to a date when Pappas had only three months on the job," Suliga added. "It just doesn't make sense."

Welsh, meanwhile, questioned why Martin had recommended a 10 percent raise despite the fact that the board had set a 4.75 percent guideline for raises in 1989.

"How does this fit into our guidelines?" Welsh asked. "I would like to find out why he would go against past policy."

"My recollection is that employees do not get any raises until they are on the job for a year," Welsh explained. "What makes this appointment so special or different?"

"Under what authority did Martin make that offer?" Welsh asked. "There has to be some justification."

Martin, however, defended his recommendation, noting that it would put Pappas in the same salary range as the directors of the county's Department of Government Property and Department of Public Works.

But according to Suliga, if Martin's raise recommendation for Pappas is approved, Pappas would make more than the county's finance director, who has more than 14 years of experience, and the public safety director, who has 26 years of experience.

Welsh said he would like to get answers to several questions before he considers Martin's recommendation. Welsh also noted that he does not expect the board to move on the matter until the board receives that additional information.

Prosecutor outlines goals for new year

Groundbreaking for a new Union County Police Training Academy tops a list of priority goals for 1990 outlined last week by county Prosecutor John H. Stamler.

Stamler said that he is hoping a construction contract can be awarded shortly so that work can begin on a 43,000-square-foot facility to be built behind Union County Vocational-Technical School in Scotch Plains.

Freeholder Chairman Gerald Green has indicated he considers the project a top priority for the board as well.

The prosecutor also discussed a wide range of plans, both internal and external, which he hopes to implement this year. That is in spite of the fact that, in the face of fiscal restraints, he has withdrawn his requests for additional staff from the current budget proposal.

Other 1990 goals listed by Stamler include:

- Initiation of a mandatory in-service police training at the police academy;
- Relocation of the forensic laboratory from Westfield to Union County College's Scotch Plains campus;
- Relocation of the Narcotics Strike Force and the Organized Crime Unit;
- Implementation of a county manual for county manual for death-by-auto investigations;
- Computerization of the records of family court and victim/witness program; and
- Review of investment strategies to increase earnings on confiscated and forfeiture money accounts.

GREAT SCOTT! — Dayton heavyweight Scott Adderty, while partially hidden here, gains the advantage over Linden's Brandon Robinson, en route to a 13-7 win in the semifinal round of the Union County Tournament this past Saturday at the Dunn Sports Center in Elizabeth. Adderty then went on to defeat Scott Platt of Union, 7-3, to win the UCT heavyweight title. Dayton placed third with a total of 155.5 points.

'Dawgs finish third in UCT; Iacono gets coaching award

By MARK YABLONSKY
The Dayton Regional High wrestling team, with a total of 155.5 points, finished a strong third in the Union County Tournament this past weekend in Elizabeth, as two members of the powerful Bulldog lineup won individual championships. The Bulldogs also watched as their coach, Rick Iacono, was presented with the Coach of the Year Award by the Union County Wrestling Coaches Association, along with co-winner Dan McDonald of Westfield.

Dayton, which had finished fifth in last year's UCT to first-place Union, this time finished just two points back of the second-place Farmers, who earned 157.5 team points. Westfield, this year's champion, came in first with a total of 184.5.

"For our kids, it's the most we've ever taken to the finals," said Iacono, whose team faced Rahway last night as the No. 3 seed in North Jersey, Group 2, Section 2 post-season competition. "I was pleased with the way we wrestled. They're starting to really reap some benefit from all of the work we've put in. And that's what makes me feel good."

"I was extremely pleased with the way we wrestled, and I'm starting to see our system coming to fruition."

Dayton, 11-1 during the regular season, entered the tournament with three No. 1 seeded wrestlers, as did Westfield and Rahway. And two of Dayton's top seeds, 103-pounder Dante Puorro and heavyweight Scott Adderty, won championships, while the other, 130-pounder Chris Moreno, came in a strong second to Glen Kurz of Westfield. Kurz, who was not one of Westfield's top seeds, prevailed, 7-4, over Moreno to win the 130-pound title.

Dayton's other runner-up was Brian Delaney, who lost to Rahway's Randy Huxford, 11-3, in the 140-pound final. Coming in third was 125-pounder Peter Carpenter. Jason Yee and John Maxemchuk placed fifth in their weight classes, and Dan Murphy came in sixth in his.

Huxford, by the way, was one of Rahway's No. 1 seeds. The Indians came in fourth as a team in the UCT overall, with a total of 145.5 points.

Puorro, who is now 19-1, tore right through a field of three foes en route to the 103-pound final, pinning Rahway's Scott Rayack in 34 seconds, Joe Tona of Elizabeth in 53 seconds, and Joe Lucariello of Arthur L. Johnson in Clark in 2:22. Once in the final, Puorro outmaneuvered Paco Gonzalez of Westfield to win by shutout, 3-0.

Puorro's only loss to date has been to Mike Miller of Hanover Park in the season-opening Sparta Tournament on Dec. 16. Puorro now has 12 pins on the season.

Adderty, meanwhile, who is 17-2-1 with five pins, had to get past some tough cookies to win the heavyweight title, but he managed to do it with style. After receiving a first-round bye, Adderty stopped Eric Klezer of Westfield by way of a fall at the 3:45 mark, then outpointed Linden's Brandon Robinson, 13-7, to gain a place in the final with Scott Platt of Union.

Adderty, an All-County Leader Football selection last fall, then beat Platt, 7-3, to win the heavyweight crown. The only losses for Adderty this season have been to Brian Steiner of Millburn, and to Chris Ingrassia of Watchung Hills.

Parade honors Reyna

Claudio Reyna of Springfield, a former student at Jonathan Dayton Regional High, was one of three players from New Jersey to be named to the 12th annual Parade Magazine All-America High School Soccer Team.

Reyna, who now plays soccer for St. Benedict's Prep in Newark, received Parade honors at midfielder, the position he once played for Dayton. In all, 37 athletes from 17 states were named to this year's Parade squad.

Williams tallies 1,000; Bears win 6th straight

By MARK YABLONSKY

Brearley senior Sterling Williams reached a major milestone when he topped the 1,000-point plateau during a 61-29 win over Manville last week, and the boy's basketball team remains red hot, having now won six games in a row.

The following is this week's run-down on Brearley Regional High School sports.

BOY'S BASKETBALL

The Bears, who had been only a .500 team as recently as Jan. 26, have suddenly gotten quite hot, winning their last six games in a row, including Monday's 52-45 decision over Summit in a preliminary-round Union County Tournament game at the Dunn Sports Center in Elizabeth.

That win advanced the Bears into last night's first-round UCT game with Linden at Arthur L. Johnson Regional in Clark.

But for Brearley, which is now 14-8, the best news was in regard to Williams, whose 15 points in last Friday's win over Manville easily put him over the millennium mark. He is now believed to be only the fourth player in the history of the Brearley boy's basketball program to score 1,000 points.

And it happened quickly enough.

After sinking a game-high 23 points to help guide the Bears past Oratory, 54-38, last Wednesday, Williams entered the game at Manville with a total of 998 career points, just two shy of the milestone. Off the opening tip, teammate John Anglim directed the ball to Keith LeBlonde, who in turn passed it to Williams. In went the 6-1 swingman for the layup that gave him 1,000 points, which then became 1,001 thanks to an ensuing free throw on the same play. Those three points began a 22-4 romp by the Bears within the first quarter that put the game comfortably away.

"I think Sterling's playing great," said Brearley coach Joe Lafferty, whose team, seeded eighth in North Jersey, Group 1, Section 2, will play host to ninth-seeded Roselle Park in a sectional preliminary on Feb. 26. "He's our leader out on the floor. He always plays for the team first, and individually second. He's just a leader on the floor. He shows a lot of maturity and a lot of discipline."

The 61-29 win also marked the debut of Chad Radzion and Matt Voorhees, both of whom sank fourth-quarter layups to give them two points apiece. LeBlonde, by the way, had eight of his 16 points in that big opening period.

And then came Monday's big win over Summit, no small achievement for a team that is participating in UCT play for the first time in several years. Down by a 39-34 score after three quarters, the Bears rallied to outscore the Hilltoppers, 18-6, over the final eight minutes of play to come away with the victory.

In that quarter, Matt Dolly had six of his nine points, while Williams had five of his game-high total of 21.

GIRL'S BASKETBALL

Marge Egan's Lady Bears, seeded 13th in Union County Tournament play, bowed out of the UCT by losing, 63-35, to Westfield this past Monday night in Clark. Two days earlier, Brearley, which is 10-8, had defeated Arthur L. Johnson, 44-23, also in Clark.

Against Johnson, Kim Eagan had 16 points, while teammate Trish Anglim recorded a season-high total of 15 as the Lady Bears, ahead only by a 15-6 margin at halftime, put it away with an 18-10 advantage throughout the third period.

While the news wasn't nearly as good against Westfield, 19 points by Eagan left her, as of press time, needing just 26 more to reach 1,000 points in her school career — as a junior. With the team having played New Providence on Tuesday, and set to play at Johnson in Clark once again today, the chances are good that Eagan will hit the 1,000-point plateau by nightfall.

Also, the Lady Bears have been seeded eighth in their section and will play host to Mountain Lakes in the opening round of state tournament play on Feb. 26 in Kenilworth. The winner will go on to oppose top-seeded New Providence.

WRESTLING

This year, the Bears placed 12th in the Union County Tournament, down three notches from last year's ninth-place finish, but still managed to see one wrestler finish fourth in his weight class. Three others finished fifth, sixth and seventh, respectively.

The Bears, who had a total of 45 points, got the fourth-place effort from Vic Verno in the 152-pound class, while Scott DuBeau finished fifth at heavyweight. Sophomore Bob Taylor, who is 18-3-1 this season, was sixth at 145 pounds, and teammate Clint Kaminski was seventh at 130.

But the big story for Brearley was last night's appointment in Roselle Park in the semifinal round of the North Jersey, Group 1, Section 2 tournament. For the third straight year, the Bears went up against Park in the sectionals, and were, of course, hoping for a better ending than in both of the past two years.

"They've wrestled real well," said Brearley coach Ron Ferraro of Roselle Park, which placed sixth in the counties with 124.5 points. "They've improved a lot over the year. We've been inconsistent. So we've really got to wrestle our best match to stay in there with them. But being that it's Park, I'm sure our kids will be fired up."

The Bears battled Park well earlier in the year, only to lose, 34-26, on Jan. 12 in Roselle Park.

Brearley's only match of the week took place last Wednesday at home against Elizabeth, with the Minutemen prevailing, 35-22. Brearley's winning bouts came from Mike Lynch, who beat Ron Menjivar, 13-7, in the 125-pound bout; Verno, who pinned Mike Graham in 5:10 at 150 pounds; 160-pounder Andy Kimmel, who beat Rubin Guevara, 11-2; Mike Ring, who beat Jose Tavera, 8-4, at 189 pounds; and from DuBeau, who pinned John Canady at 2:30 to win the heavyweight bout.

Eagan, who needs just 26 points to reach the 1,000-point level, sank 16 as the Lady Bears won, 44-23. But two days later, Brearley lost to Westfield, 63-35, to exit from the UCT.

Union resident hits mark again

By MARK YABLONSKY

Bob Pennella of Union took advantage of the recent spring-like temperatures by firing his third career hole-in-one last Wednesday, Feb. 7, on the 162-yard, Par-3 hole at the Spring Meadow Golf Course in Wall Township.

For Pennella, 72, it was the third time he's done that since he began playing the game of golf 32 years ago. His first hole-in-one came in September of 1968 at the Scotch Hills Country Club in Scotch Plains, and the second time it happened was in October of 1980 at the Rutgers Golf Course in Piscataway.

What does it take to get a hole-in-one, unquestionably one of the most difficult feats in all of sport?

"Practice, practice, practice, number one," replied Pennella, a former 32-year employee of the U.S. Defense and Logistics Agency in Springfield. "But you have to have the ability to get the ball through the green, and then the rest is luck."

Like the previous two times, this particular hole-in-one, aside from coming on a Par-3 hole, was of roughly the same distance as the others. But this time, he used a five-wood, instead of a five-iron.

And, Pennella said, "the weather was absolutely beautiful."

When he sank his hole-in-one last week, Pennella was playing in a foursome that included Don Martino of Union, and former Springfield residents Joe Afflitto and Art Fiorda.

Retired since 1979, when he was presented with a Civil Service Distinguished Award, Pennella is on the executive board of the American Society for Quality Control and remains active with the New Jersey Seniors Golf League.

And as active as ever on the golf course. How active?

"Let me put it this way," Pennella said. "If my wife spent as much money on golf as I do, I would be annoyed. I play a lot."

Soccer registration set

Registration is being accepted for the Summit YMCA Youth Soccer Association Spring League, and will continue until March 10. YSA is an outdoor soccer league for boys and girls in Kindergarten through Grade 3, providing an opportunity to learn soccer skills and experience some play.

The league stresses team sportsmanship and fair play, encourages youth fitness, and provides equal play opportunity for all.

Games are played on Sunday afternoons at local soccer fields in New Providence and Berkeley Heights, and practices are held on Saturday mornings with the help of volunteer coaches and parents. Play will begin on Sunday, April 1, and run through June 3.

The YMCA needs patrons' volunteer help to continue Youth Soccer Association. More information is available at 273-3330.

Nets offer scholarships

For the 10th consecutive year, the New Jersey Nets, in conjunction with the NBA's scholarship program, will award two local high school seniors with a $1,000 scholarship to be used at any accredited four-year college, or two-year community or junior college.

Each NBA team will award a minimum of two $1,000 scholarships to students residing within a 75-mile radius of the arena. In addition, a minimum of four $1,000 scholarships will be awarded by the NBA League Office to students who do not live within a 75-mile radius of an NBA team.

In order to apply for a Nets scholarship, a senior must submit an official NBA scholarship entry form, his or her high school transcript — with SAT or ACT scores included — a letter of recommendation from a faculty member, and an essay in 500 words or less on "The Importance of a College Education."

Winners will be selected by a local scholarship committee. All entries must be postmarked no later than March 2; winners will be announced by April 6.

Further information is available by calling the Nets at 935-8888.

LOOSENING UP — Brearley Regional wrestler Bob Taylor, who is 18-3-1 as a 145-pound contestant this year, does some warmup stretches prior to a bout in last weekend's Union County Tournament, with his football jersey serving as an adequate warmup aid.

Umpiring clinics slated

Both Union County and the New Jersey Amateur Softball Association are sponsoring a series of clinics for men and women 18 and older, who want to become registered softball umpires. Headed by Jim Powers and Dick Archer, the clinics will be held at the county administration building in Elizabeth on every Monday in March: the 5, 12, 19 and 26.

The ASA examination will be given on Monday, April 2.

Chorus seeks men

"We're looking for a few more good men to sing with us in the Jerseyaires Chorus," said John Huetz, newly elected president of the Rahway Valley Chapter of the Barbershop Harmony Society, SPEBSQSA.

The chorus gives frequent public performances throughout the year providing entertainment for various civic, social and charity affairs, climaxing its activity with an annual show early in December.

The Jerseyaires Chorus is made up of men of all ages and all walks of life, living in Union and Middlesex counties and other nearby communities. They meet weekly for several hours of singing under the direction of well-qualified instructors.

The chorus is a disciplined, self-trained singing group whose repertoire includes familiar songs, sentimental ballads and novelty numbers, all sung in the unaccompanied four-part harmony known typically as barbershop style.

The Jerseyaires Chorus, whose membership comprises the Rahway Valley Chapter of the Barbershop Harmony Society, is one of 800 such singing groups, with a total membership of over 35,000 within the society, throughout the United States and Canada, reportedly making it the largest male singing fraternity in the world.

The chorus meets throughout the year on Mondays at 7:30 p.m. at the First Baptist Church, 170 Elm St., Westfield, and "extends an open invitation to men who enjoy singing" to join them in harmony.

The program, "Love's Philosophy," will be sung by Karen Shipp of New York City, an instructor of voice and vocal repertory at Kean College. She will sing Wagner's "Wesendonk-Lieder" and Poulenc's "Metamorphoses."

The title role is played by Susan Winston, formerly of television's 'All My Children.'

3 local musicians to perform Sunday

Philip Myers, principal hornist with the New York Philharmonic, and the Essex County Chamber Orchestra, a group of talented 10- to 17-year-olds, will join the Metropolitan Orchestra at 3 p.m. Sunday, at the Jewish Community Center of Metropolitan New Jersey, 760 Northfield Ave., West Orange.

Among the members of the orchestra are Irving Starr and Lea Zuberman, violin, of Springfield, and Gerry Yoselevich, tuba, of Union.

The performance, the second in the orchestra's series of three concerts this season at the JCC, is open to the community at no charge. It will take place in the 500-seat Maurice Levin Theater. Listening devices for the hearing impaired are available at a nominal charge at the box office, it was announced.

The 65-member group, under the baton of Amy Larkey-Emelianoff, is composed principally of experienced non-professional musicians. Following a long-standing tradition, the audience is invited to meet the conductor and performers for coffee after the concert.

Further information about the concert is available by calling the JCC's cultural arts department at 736-3200, Ext. 251.

Joanne Featherstone, actress, storyteller, teacher and poetess, will bring to life the works of four African-American poets in "Hold Fast to Dreams," at 2 p.m. Feb. 22 at the Jewish Community Center of Metropolitan New Jersey in West Orange.

"Hold Fast to Dreams" is part of the JCC's monthlong celebration of Black History Month, and the third in a series of four performances sponsored by the JCC's Young People's Theater Series. The production will take place in the Maurice Levin Theater.

Musical careers endure

disc 'n' data

By MILT HAMMER

Back in the fall of 1970, word was getting around the campus of Wooster School that the headmaster's kid was a hot guitarist. To 15-year-old Craig Peyton, the resident percussion prodigy at this Danbury, Conn., prep school, where Peyton's parents also served as administrators, overseeing the art department, it seemed only natural that he and this Ben Verdery guy ought to get together.

"We only talked for a minute when we finally met," Peyton recalls, "and later, when he came over to my house, I don't think we said more than five words to each other before we started playing. But then we jammed for three hours, and long before we finished it was obvious to both of us that we had a special musical rapport."

That natural rapport between Peyton and Verdery has proven to be both fruitful and enduring. Though they have pursued contrasting musical careers — Peyton as a prolific dance music composer/producer/arranger; Verdery as a renowned classical guitarist — they have sustained both their friendship and their unique musical relationship since their teen years. When their schedules permit them time to pool their formidable resources in the same studio, this duo has produced some of the most appealing contemporary instrumental music of the past five years.

Peyton and Verdery first collaborated in 1986 under the group name Latitude and released a self-titled debut album, introducing their intriguing mix of Verdery's classical grace and Peyton's keyboards, vibraphone and percussion. In 1988, again as Latitude, they released "40 Degrees North," an album that last spring rocketed to the No. 1 position on Radio and Records' NAC, New Adult Contemporary, national radio airplay chart. That album was a top-five NAC fixture for nearly two months, and it earned high marks in several best-of surveys for 1988.

Peyton and Verdery now join a new record label, Sona Gaia, and step out from behind the name Latitude to present their most assured and involving collection of music yet on "Emotional Velocity." Peyton regards the 11 compositions that make up "Emotional Velocity" as the most ambitious music he and Verdery have crafted.

"On our first two albums," Peyton says, "I think we were a little concerned about breaking some kind of unwritten rules about instrumental music. Our parameters were much wider for this album. Neither of us felt any restrictions or any incentive to stick to a program or formula while we were writing. If we wanted to explore a jazz or rock idea, we developed it fully. Our writing style has matured and evolved very nicely over the past few years, and I think we really hit the groove on this album."

Peugeot of Union County, located in Rahway, sold more Peugeot cars in 1989 than any other Peugeot dealership in the United States.

Maplewood Peugeot, of Maplewood, is second on Peugeot's annual sales chart.

The Rahway dealership, formerly Peugeot of Westfield, moved its sales facility to 931 St. Georges Ave. and its service facility to 550 New Brunswick Ave. last year.

on the job

Howard Guss of Springfield has been named 1990 regional vice president of the National Lumber and Building Material Dealers Association (NLBMDA).

Owner of Garfield Mill Inc. in Jersey City, Guss brings a record of management experience to the NLBMDA, having served as president of G. Lynne Construction prior to his most recent 25 years with Garfield Mill.

Keyes Martin Chairman Dan Gaby recently announced the promotions of Loren Malanga and Linda Meyer and the appointment of Bill Schatten as account coordinators at the Springfield advertising agency.

Malanga joined the agency in 1988 as an administrative assistant. In her new position, she will assist on the AT&T College Market and Village of Waterloo accounts. She is a resident of Manalapan.

Meyer joined Keyes Martin in 1989 as an administrative assistant. In her new position, the Sayreville resident will be working on the AT&T military account.

PSE&G distributes hats and slippers to seniors

Public Service Electric and Gas Company (PSE&G) is continuing a partnership with the Retired Senior Volunteer Program (RSVP) to take the chill out of winter for New Jersey senior citizens.

The program — "Warm Up To Hats Plus" — will distribute more than 5,000 woolen hats and bed slippers to income-eligible senior citizens throughout PSE&G's territory.

PSE&G provides electric power to all Union County municipalities except Springfield, Berkeley Heights, New Providence and part of Mountainside. In the county, the utility provides gas service to Springfield, Berkeley Heights, Summit, New Providence, Plainfield and part of Mountainside.

According to Rosanne Huhn, energy conservation specialist, Jayne Hopkins, senior customer outreach representative and Louis Iannaccone, senior community affairs representative, the program is part of a PSE&G hypothermia/weatherization education effort.

The goal is to alert senior citizens to the dangers of hypothermia — the dangerous loss of body heat — and to distribute information about PSE&G

"SeniorSave" program, which provides free energy conservation benefits to senior citizens.

Under the "Warm Up To Hats Plus" program, PSE&G supplies wool to RSVP chapters in 12 counties and the members knit hats and bed slippers which are then packaged with educational materials.

During the winter months, the packages are distributed to other senior citizens who attend hypothermia/weatherization workshops conducted by PSE&G's customer outreach representatives. Last year more than 5,000 hats were distributed at the workshops.

Mimi Paperman, director of the Essex County RSVP, said the group's members are enthusiastic about the program and eagerly support it by volunteering their time and effort to knit the hats and slippers.

Paperman said senior citizens interested in joining the "Warm Up To Hats Plus" knitting effort should contact her at 673-0640.

Senior citizens interested in a hypothermia/SeniorSave workshop should contact PSE&G customer outreach representatives by calling the number on their PSE&G bill.

Bank gives heart to its customers

In honor of Valentine's Day yesterday, a small, solid milk chocolate heart was given to each customer who made a transaction between 9 a.m. and 2:30 p.m. at the Union Center National Bank.

The candy hearts were distributed to every lobby teller window and at all drive-up windows at the bank's five offices in Union and one office in Springfield.

"We wanted to show our appreciation to our customers for the confidence they have placed in us," John J. Davis, president of the 67-year-old community bank, said.

"Because of their loyalty, we have been able to continue our original commitment to serve the financial needs of our local community," Davis said.

Westfield firm opening

Broad View Realtors, formerly Richard C. Fisher, Inc. is celebrating its grand opening today from 3 p.m. to 8 p.m. The office is located at 270 E. Broad St., Westfield.

Rorden: Select broker carefully

Warren Rorden, president of Rorden Realty, Inc., 44 Elm St., Westfield, offers the following eight questions to ask yourself when selecting a listing broker.

- Does the firm offer price recommendations based on solid comparative market analysis, and supported with facts and figures from the market area?
- Will the firm give assistance and specific recommendations on how to market the property?
- Will the firm be available at all hours to give feedback on the current market conditions and developments that relate to your home?
- Does the firm have a specific, step-by-step advertising plan that includes some new ideas?
- Will the firm assist you in negotiating the price to a level acceptable to you?
- Will the firm assist you in obtaining bridge loan money and assist the qualified purchaser with mortgage and other financial assistance?
- Will the firm care for your home if it is vacant? Will they remove newspapers, oversee grounds maintenance, and check the inside periodically?
- Will the sales associate of this firm show the home with enthusiasm and the knowledge of what makes your home unique and worth its value?

"Get positive answers to these eight questions," said Rorden, "and you know you have chosen the right broker for you."
