Council scheduled to OK municipal budget

By SUZETTE STALKER

The Mountainside Borough Council is expected to adopt its $4.9 million municipal budget on Tuesday, March 20, local officials announced this week, pending state review and approval of the borough's tentative budget.

The proposed 1990 budget represents a $278,630, or 5.95 percent, increase over last year's figure. Of the total budget, $2.9 million falls inside the state-allowed "cap," which covers the borough's normal operating expenses.

The remaining $2 million has been allocated outside the "cap." for additional expenditures, and includes such items as borough insurance coverage, Construction Code expenses, some street repair and snow removal costs, plus a state-mandated 15 percent annual increase to the Mountainside Public Library.

A 1990 budget summary and analysis approved by the council on Feb. 26 indicates that residents with a property value of $151,000, the average for Mountainside, will face an estimated total tax increase of $256.70 in 1990.

The 1990 budget's overall effect on local taxes is reflected by increases in the municipal, local school, regional school and county budgets. Municipal taxes alone will increase by five points this year, costing residents with a property value of $151,000 an additional $75.50.

Each tax point equals $48,900, according to Roberts.

The effect of the local and regional school budgets is expected to be determined soon, through approval or rejection of the budgets during school elections on April 24. The county budget, predicted to go up by $20 million this year, is not expected to be adopted for several weeks.

Roberts maintained that the 1990 municipal budget represents one of the lowest percent increases for municipal budgets in Union County this

He emphasized that borough officials were able to accomplish this while still providing several new services to local residents, such as the leaf composting and expanded recycling programs which were begun last

Roberts explained that municipalities are faced with certain fixed costs, however, which contribute to annual budget hikes. These include salary increases, health benefits, which have risen 20 percent for all full-time municipal employees; pension plans, utilities, and state-mandated expenditures.

He noted that Mountainside utilities cover not only gas and electric costs for the borough's municipal buildings, but street lights and service from the Elizabethtown Water Company to local fire hydrants.

The borough administrator credited local department heads with helping to keep budget increases minimal by restraining expenses in their respective divisions. He added that the various departments were able to be funded during the past year "at a level that is reasonable."

Roberts stated that other factors which contributed to a low budget increase included the recent expansion of the Mountainside Department of Public Works, which eliminated the need for several outside contractors; a reduction in fees to the Rahway Valley Sewerage Authority, and broadening of the borough's investment program.

"Its really a change in what's been happening," the borough administrator explained. "We were very stringent with our expenditures in 1989," Roberts said. "A lot of things we've been doing over the years have all come together this year to produce a lower budget and more revenue to support that budget."

"I'm very happy about the budget," echoed Mountainside Mayor Robert Viglianti on Tuesday. "More communities are raising their taxes and being forced to reduce services. Mountainside is raising its taxes at a minimal and increasing services."

He added that a number of area municipalities "have been forced to dip into their surplus to dangerously low levels, where Mountainside has been able to maintain a level of surplus we feel comfortable with."

The mayor also emphasized that Mountainside officials were able to keep budget increases low despite the borough's being 97 percent developed and without having the advantage of new tax ratables being introduced into the community each year.

Three candidates vie for seats on borough BOE

By SUZETTE STALKER

Three candidates, including two incumbents and one newcomer, will be vying for two seats on the Moun-24, Superintendent of Schools Leonard A. Bacarro's office has president of the board for five years, confirmed.

JOSEPHINE COLICELLI ...

Poplar Avenue resident Josephine Colicelli is making her first bid for a seat on the board. A native of Newark, Colicelli is vice principal of the Deron School in Plainfield, a private facility for handicapped children. The mother of three has two children enrolled at Deerfield School in Mountainside.

Colicelli earned a bachelor of arts degree in education and a master's degree in special education/learning disabilities from Kean College. She previously taught elementary and special education in Newark and Hazlet, and was a school administrator in Bergen County.

"I feel that as the parent of three children and as an educator, I can contribute my experience and knowledge from a parent's point of view as well as someone who is involved in education," the board candidate remarked.

PATRICIA KNODEL

Patricia Knodel, who has served on tainside Board of Education on April the board for 17 years, is running for her seventh term. She served as vice and has chaired all board committees except for Public Relations. She is presently a member of the Building and Grounds Committee.

> A Knollcrest Road resident. Knodel, who is originally from Union, earned a bachelor of arts degree in biology and physical science from Caldwell College, and received her elementary school teacher's certification from Newark State College, now Kean College.

Knodel taught fourth grade in Mountainside, Irvington and Edison, and for the past 16 years has been a Sunday School teacher at Our Lady of Lourdes School in Mountainside. She has also been a substitute teacher at the school. Her eight children have all graduated from the Mountainside school district.

Knodel presently serves as third vice president of the Union County School Boards Association, and for the past eight years has been a member of the Legislative Committee of the New Jersey School Boards Association. She was also recently appointed to the Federal Relations Network of the National School Boards Association.

"I feel my education background has stood me in good stead for the job," explained Knodel of her decision to seek re-election. "and I do believe in giving public service."

She stated that her overall goal, if re-elected, is to help guide the Mountainside school system toward becoming a model district for all small school districts throughout the state.

She added that she would also like to see, in addition to the programs for gifted and handicapped children, increased focus upon the needs of the mainstream student population, particularly youngsters who are classified as underachievers.

District BOE hears public budget views on 1990-91 By DAVE WISE increase in this year's school budget. district. The board has not determined

The Board of Education of Union County Regional High School District 1 heard public comments on its tentative $33.5 million school budget for 1990-91 Tuesday at Governor Livingston Regional High School in Berkeley Heights.

The district includes Jonathan Dayton Regional High School in Springfield, David Brearley Regional High School in Kenilworth, Arthur L. Johnson Regional High School in Clark and Governor Livingston Regional High School in Berkeley Heights.

Jonathan Dayton enrolls students from both Mountainside and Springfield.

Parents, teachers and other district residents voiced their concerns over the board's proposal to reduce the number of district staff positions by 35 in order to achieve a zero percent A number of them stated that they feared that staff cutbacks might affect the quality of education currently offered to district students. "I don't believe that not increasing the budget while sacrificing quality is the answer," stated Alan Schwarz, a law student and Berkeley Heights resident. "I think they (residents) would rather have an increase in taxes than lose in the quality of education."

The Union County Regional Federation of Teachers has stated that it supports the proposed 1990-91 school budget as a way to "balance education needs with cost containment necessities."

Despite signs of public disapproval over the tentative school budget, the board has not abandoned its plan to cut "up to 35 staff positions" within the four high schools in the regional

"We have a decrease in enrollment," Board of Education President Natalie Waldt remarked at Tuesday's meeting. "We can't have teachers without kids."

One concerned parent, Vivian Levy, suggested that the board adopt an earlier budget proposal which called for a 2.6 percent increase in school spending. According to Levy, this increase would only cost county (Continued on Page 2) a local businessman and volunteer firefighter, will show audiences his comic side next Wednesday, March 14, when he appears at The Ground Round on Route 22 East in Springfield.

A veteran of comedy clubs throughout the metropolitan area, Gambino, 47, who owns Tire Connection in Mountainside, has performed at such establishments as Rascals in West Orange, and Dangerfield's and Rags to Riches in Manhattan.

Gambino has also displayed his talents with guest spots on "Geraldo," where he appeared with Jackie Mason, and three appearances on "The Joe Franklin Show."

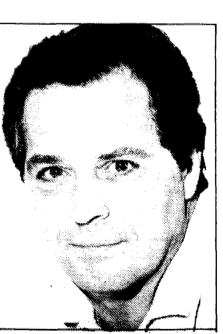

The Jersey City native has also been a member of the Mountainside Volunteer Fire Department since moving to the borough from Springfield with his family 14 years ago. He and his wife, Marie, live on Foothill Way and have three children, John, 24, Stephen, 20, and Tanya, 16.

Gambino began dabbling in comedy in the early 1970s, doing overthe-telephone impersonations of Howard Cosell and Henry Kissinger for the Don Imus radio show on WNBC.

This was followed by a stint on WABC with disc jockeys Ross Britton and Brian Wilson, who are now the co-hosts of the popular Z100 "Morning Zoo."

In 1980, Gambino began doing stand-up comedy. In his current act, Gambino does impersonations on various personalities and TV characters, as well as some unique creations of fellow comic Jackie Mason, singers Johnny Mathis, Bob Dylan and Willie Nelson, Tom Carvel, founder of the ice cream store chain; and TV characters Archie Bunker and Lt. Columbo.

"I apply my act to the audience, whether they're young or old," explained the versatile comedian, who has a repertoire of jokes on just about every topic. "If one thing isn't working, I'll just pop into something Gambino, who writes much of his own material, said he was influenced by a number of farned comedians and impressionists, including Jonathan Winters, Charley Callas, John Byner and Frank Gorshin. He noted that his greatest inspiration, however, was Sammy Davis Jr., also a talented impressionist.

In addition to his stage and television appearances, Gambino has had bit parts in the movies "Baby, It's

You," with Rosanna Arquette, and "Wise Guys," with Joe Piscopo and Danny DeVito. Gambino will also play the principal in the upcoming movie "Ghoul School," scheduled for release in May.

Gambino garnered third place in the National Lampoon Comedy Playoffs for 1989, which took place on Long Island, and was named as a runner-up in the Tropicana Comedy Play-offs in Atlantic City last November.

He has also done several cable TV commercials for Rascals and recently did an opening act for comic Judy Tenuda at the Club Bene Dinner Theater in Sayreville.

Gambino will share the bill at The Ground Round next week with comic Dave Street. One can call AR-Jae Entertainment at 376-7815 to make reservations for the show.

Families are needed

dent Exchange (ASSE) Student Exchange Program is seeking local families who are interested in having a teenager from abroad stay at their home during the school year.

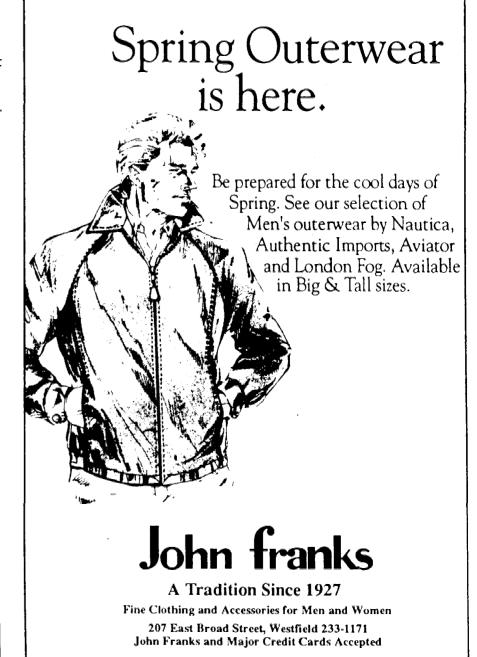

The teenagers are students from Europe, Australia and all points in between. They are 15- to 18-year-olds who want to become part of an American household, which means they pitch in on everything from chores to family discussions.

They are also enthusiastic about sharing the culture and customs of their own homelands. Most ASSE students are fluent in English, and can Explanations of Appropriations for "Other Expenses" The amounts appropriated under the title of "Other Expenses" are for operating costs other than "Salaries & Wages". Some of the Items Included In "Other Expenses" are: Materials, supplies and non-bondable equipment; Repairs and maintenance of buildings, equipment, roads, etc., Contractual services for garbage and trash removal, fire hydrant service, aid to volunteer fire companies, etc.; Printing and advertising, utility services, insurance and many other Items essential to the services rendered by municipal government. BOROUGH OF MOUNTAINSIDE EXPLANATORY STATEMENT "CAPS" CALCULATIONS Chapter 68, Public Laws of 1976, places limits on municipal expenditures. Commonly referred to as a "CAP", it is actually calculated by a method established The actual calculation is somewhat complex but, in general, it works as follows. Starting with the figure in the 1989 budget for Total General Appropriations, certain 1989 budget figures are substracted; including the reserve for uncollected taxes, debt service. State or Federal aid, cash delicit, expenditures mandated per 40A:4-45.3g, etc. Take the resulting figure and multiply it by 5% and this gives you the basic "CAP" or the amount of appropriations increase allowed over the 1989 Total General Appropriations. In addition to the increase allowed above, other increases are allowed: Increases funded by increased valuations from new construction or improvements and from new or increased service fees. Appropriations for the items subtracted in the above paragraph may be set at any necessary level and are not yet subject to the "CAP". Affairs, but the calculations upon which this budget was prepared are as folk BOROUGH OF MOUNTAINSIDE EXPLANATORY STATEMENT Total General Appropriations for 1989 $4,670,276,17 Exceptions: xceptions: Less: Total Operations Excluded from "CAPS" Total Capital Improvements Excluded from "CAPS" Total Municipal Debt Service Excluded from "CAPS" Emergency Authorizations Excluded from "CAPS" Reserve for Uncollected Taxes $920,999.84 24,000.00 381,000.00 24,111.51 565,884.77 Total Exceptions 1,915,996.12 Amount on which "CAP" is Applied "CAP" $2,754,280.05 137,714.00 Allowable Operating Appropriations before additional Exceptions per N.J.S. 40A:4-45.3 $2,891,994.05 od: Increased Valuations from New Construction or Improvements Increased From Additional Revenues; Cable T.V. A threatened college instructors' strike was avoided last Thursday when a tentative contract settlement between the state and the Council of New Jersey State College Locals was

A strike would have affected New Jersey's nine state colleges, including Kean College of New Jersey in

According to Robert Sitelman, a professor of philosophy and religion at Kean College and liaison to the union, a settlement was reached just before midnight last Thursday.

The agreement was reached two days after an original strike deadline of Feb. 27 had passed. The union on that date postponed the strike date to March 5 after Gov. Jim Florio requested that the walkout be delayed, according to Sitelman. The strike was cancelled, however, when the tentative agreement was reached last Thursday.

The contract still must be presented to the union's members for a vote. "We are going to present it to the faculty and the staff for their ratification," Sitelman said. Negotiations between the teachers' union and the state began in October 1988, according to Sitelman. The teachers have been working without a

The teachers' union represents approximately 700 professional staff members and 2,300 teachers throughout the state, according to Sitelman.

The terms of the new contract, which have not been released, are retroactive to July 1989. Sitelman noted, however, that a 4 percent firstyear salary increase is only retroactive to February. The new contract will expire on June 30, 1992.

Directory for seniors available

The New Jersey Health Products Council (NJHPC), headquartered in Union, is offering a revised public service folder entitled "A New Jersey Directory for Senior Citizens."

The 1990 edition lists more than 125 verified telephone numbers that provide a direct link between senior citizens and those state and county agencies offering information helpful in solving financial, legal, health and welfare problems.

Since 1979, when the NJHPC Senior Citizens Directory was first published, more than 500,000 copies have been distributed.

The revised directory, which is available on request, provides an additional toll-free number and a space for any state or community organization using the pamphlet to stamp its name and address.

Copies of the Senior Citizens Directory may be obtained by writing to the New Jersey Health Products Council, 1609 Vauxhall Road, Union

BUNIONS and BONE ENLARGEMENTS

By Dr. Michael Eglow

A large percentage of our population may develop a bunion. Both men, women and children can develop bunions, although it appears that bunions are more commmonly seen on women's feet. A bunion is a swelling or enlargement of the large toe joint on the inner side of the foot. As bunion deformities progress, they do become quite symptomatic and bothersome producing swelling, redness and pain.

There are many ways to treat bunions. Your Podiatrist can select from a wide range of sophisticated surgical and nonsurgical techniques which are available thanks to advanced research and scientific study of the various foot deformities. Many surgical procedures can be performed in an out-patient hospital setting. The doctor will recommend what is best suited to your needs and your particular situation.

Remember both you and the doctor are a team working toward a common goal, comfortable feet, so that you can remain active and fit in today's fast-paced lifestyle.

Petitions to Gov. James Florio and the New Jersey Legislature, asking for an investigation into the increase in the cost of health insurance and urging them to enact legislation to reduce the cost, are being distributed by the Committee For Consumer Protection, Inc., 1531 Stuyvesant Ave., Union.

"With the recent unconscionable 40 percent increase in health insurance premiums by Blue Cross and Blue Shield of New Jersey, families find the annual cost of $5,600 per year is more devastating than the escalating cost of auto insurance," Herbert Ross of Mountainside, president of the committee, said.

"At the present time, all health insurance providers in the state of New Jersey must reimburse the hospitals and the state for their provision of health-care services to the indigent and those unable to pay," Mark Ross, counsel for the committee, said.

"This has shifted the burden from the doctors and the hospitals to the consumers of health insurance in New Jersey. The citizens and employers who have acted responsibly by obtaining such insurance now find that the cost to provide health care to those who have not obtained such health insurance is included in their bill, and the insured are paying for themselves as well as the uninsured. Properly, such costs belong in the welfare system or the courts (through collection actions) and not placed on the backs of those who are acting responsibly," Ross said.

The Committee For Consumer Protection, Inc., is a New Jersey nonprofit corporation. It is a membershipbased organization with a $5 annual membership fee. Its phone number is 686-5151.

Scholarships offered

The Johanna Wilk Foundation of Union has announced it will award four scholarships of $2,500 each in 1990.

Three of the scholarships will be awarded to high school students in the 1990 graduating class. One scholarship will be awarded to a medical school student who will specialize in allergies, asthma and respiratory

High school students who reside in Union County are eligible to receive the scholarship grants.

The grants, known as the Johanna Wilk Memorial Scholarships, are the fourth annual awards made by the foundation. The scholarships recognize academic excellence and achievement and provide financial assistance to students in need of such assistance to pursue higher education.

Application forms for the scholarships are available from high school guidance counselors, or by writing to the Johanna Wilk Foundation, 1945 Route 22 West, Union 07083.

The applications must be submitted by April 15. The recipients of the scholarship awards will be notified by May 20.

Johanna Wilk was a wife, mother and grandmother who lived in Scotch Plains for more than 20 years and, in her desire to help children, she served as a teacher's aide for a number of years. As an adult, she developed allergies and asthma which claimed her life in 1985.

The Johanna Wilk Foundation was established in her name and memory to provide funds for research into allergies, asthma and respiratory diseases and for scholarships for academic excellence and achievement.

The featured speaker will be Robert E. Mulcahy III, chief executive officer of the New Jersey Sports and

The Friendly Sons of St. Patrick of Exposition Authority. Louis Browne, noted Irish television and radio personality, will provide entertainment.

> As has been their tradition for many years, the Friendly Sons will award a college scholarship to an outstanding high school senior of Irish ancestry. In addition, the Project Children organization will receive a contribution for its work in bringing school children from Northern Ireland to the United States each summer.

> Further information and tickets can be obtained from Mike Walsh or Jim Keefe at 276-1100.

Four road construction projects funded

Four proposed construction projects on local roads are among those which received grants for fiscal year 1990 from the New Jersey Transportation Trust Fund's municipal aid program recently.

The grants included $95,000 for Market Street, Kenilworth; $110,000 for Dill Avenue, Linden; $118,000 for Walnut Street, Roselle; and $106,700 for Colonial Avenue, Section 2,

According to Acting Transporta tion Commissioner Robert Innocenzi, there was $26.25 million available for fiscal year 1990 under the renewed fund, and his department received requests for projects worth more than $125 million.

Union County municipalities alone submitted 38 applications for projects totalling $5.89 million in value. Fund ing for 13 of those projects, worth $1.42 million, was approved.

Innocenzi stressed that each project must be committed to a construction contract within 18 months of its approval date, or the Department of Transportation will reallocate the grant money.

Pamela Lewis is comfortable with 2 careers

By BEA SMITH

Pamela Lewis, who plays Truvy, the ostentatious beautician in "Steel Magnolias" at the Paper Mill Playhouse, Millburn, didn't have to reach too far to achieve a Southern authenticity in her voice. She was born in a small town in South Carolina called Convoy.

"I'm Southern," she declares. "And I had done the role before this past summer at the Center Stage in Pennsylvania. So, I'm fairly familiar with it already.

"Actually," says the actress, "I did it for a total of about seven weeks. And I've enjoyed it very much. The play reminds me very much of many of the women in my family. They are very flamboyant on the outside and consider themselves very normal on the inside...with a heart of gold! And I hope that comes across to the audiences because that's what I intend."

Lewis says, "We have an excellent company here at the Paper Mill. Everybody is very well cast. We have a group of perfectionists," she sighs. "You know, it's very hard work doing hair and talking at the same time. And there's drama and comedy, and you have to have people who can handle both with ease and professionalism.

"I think," she says, "that is probably why it's so successful. 'Steel Magnolias' is being done all over the country. I understand it's going to be a TV series.

"And the movie is doing very well. I play the part Dolly Parton played in the movie. I like her very much as a performer," explains Lewis. "She's totally false on the outside and totally real on the inside.'

Lewis says enthusiastically, "The role of Truvy is just great...overdone costumes and a heart of gold. I wouldn't mind doing it again. Maybe I can play it in the summer if they decide to produce it then.

"This is Robert Harling's first play, you know. And he has an ear for Southern expressions. He has a very good handle on the way people talk. He really listens to accents and expressions. And we on stage had to make the accents very clear and loud. Sometimes, it's very hard."

About the Paper Mill, Lewis says, "I adore working at the Paper Mill. Everybody treats you like gods. There's a very professional situation there. The theater is incredible...just gorgeous. And it's very rare and rewarding when they treat you like a family. Angelo Del Rossi and the people there are concerned about everyone's comfort. And let me tell you, that's very rare. I've worked in a lot of theaters in a lot of places, and it's most unusual to come across-a theater

Lewis, who was a singer until she was 17, says, "I did my first play in high school when I was 17, and I was hooked. I was a singer up to that time. I sang with my family in a revivalist group, a gospel quartet in a Born Again circuit in the South. We toured with that group when I was a child. So, I am familiar with audiences. In my first play, 'The King and I,' I played Anna."

Lewis was graduated from Virginia Commonwealth University, where she majored in acting and minored in speech. "After college," she says, "I started my acting career in the Lort Circuit, where I toured in theaters throughout America. I did hundreds of plays and spent years in that circuit doing great plays. I appeared at the Center Stage in Baltimore, the Huntington Theater in Boston, the Coconut Grove and the Osolo Theater, both in Florida, and the Repertory Theater in St. Louis. I traveled all over the place for about 10 or 15 years. Really," she sighs, "I did an enormous amount of traveling. It was good training, but I got tired of it as I got older. I wanted a place of my own. So, about four or five years ago, I moved to Manhattan. And that's where I reside now. And I like the stability and security of living in one place.'

Among her New York credits are the role of Violet in the Tony Awardwinning "Sweet Bird of Youth," and Celimene in "The Misanthrope." seen doing Barbara Gulan's hair while Billie Lou Watt provides some juicy gossip in 'Steel Magnolias,' which will be at the Paper Mill Playhouse, Millburn, through March 18.

Lewis also played Masha in "The Three Sisters," Roxanne in "Cyrano de Bergerac," and Bananas in "The House of Blue Leaves." She also appeared on television in "End of Summer" with Helen Hayes and played the role of Karen Jensen in "Guiding Light."

And speaking of a variety of roles, different accents and voices, Lewis has another career, a very specialized career of "making noises into a microphone. Really, that's what I do," she laughs. "I am a member of a movie looping company...and I loop voices into people and things...looping as opposed to dubbing. It's not quite like being a natural mimic. It's more like a character analysis." She has looped conversation, hysteria and special effects into the mouths of film actors, babies and commercial food products.

"The public isn't too aware of looping, and that's how it should be," she confides. "What I do, for example, is this. A director will cast someone whose looks he loves but whose voice he hates. After the movie is finished, I put on earphones, watch the lips, then lip-sync. I've done it for lots of different types and sexes. I specialize in babies. I do babies who coo, who are hysterical babies, happy babies," Lewis muses. "I do background people in films. Some of those little Yiddish ladies in 'Crossing Delancey'

"This is what you call post production sound work. We blend right into the movies. I sort of specialize in the weird work. I do screaming, shrieking, and lots of growling and roaring. I do little cracker voices, such as the happy crackers in the Ritz Bits Peanut Butter Crackers, and the animation in Hershey's 'Chocolate Beastie.'" Lewis also was the voice of the Evil Sorceress for Nintendo Video Games.

"They pay very well," she explains. "And that enables me to do theater now and again. "I also do a syndicated science series. I taped it a while back. It appears everywhere. I did a six-part science series for GED. And I've learned a lot about science that I didn't know before.'

Lewis also does "talking books for the blind. It's a very special kind of work. I do talking book cassettes for children, too. I did my first talking books for the blind recently. I did twohour sessions in three sessions.

"It makes for a varied life. I've always had a good ear for these things. I do what is called the weird stuff, and it's more fun for me. After I've done a play for a while, then I do my voices. I feel that whatever you haven't done in a while, you want to do that. I still do summer stock a lot.

"Here at the Paper Mill, it's sort of a relief to be able to do my own accent rather than a Russian or Yiddish accent or a Ritz cracker."

Lewis laughs. "I have fairly adjustable vocal chords. I can stretch them or make them smaller...especially when I do babies. I also have a good ear and with training on top of it, well, I just naturally do it."

She shrugs. "It's what I do!"

Student rabbi talks

Temple Sha'arey Shalom of Springfield wil have student rabbi Barry Block speak at Shabbat services tomorrow night at 8:30. Block has been a rabbinic intern at the Touro Synagogue in New Orleans, La., at the UAHC Camp Greene in Texas, at a bi-weekly congregation in Edmonton, Canada. He is interning at the regional UAHC office in Paramus.

Block's topic will be "Tevye and Our Jewish Identity." Oneg Shabbat hosts will be Alice and Michael Keppler in honor of their daugther Lisa's Bat Mitzvah.

On Sunday at 11 a.m., the reading of the Megillah, the story of Purim, will be held at the temple. Traditionally, Rabbi Joshua Goldstein assumes a new "identity" each Purim. In the past, he has become Cookie Monster, Miss Piggy and Kermit the Frog in his reading of the Megillah.

The Megillah chronicles the story of "Esther, a Jewish woman of ancient Persia, who marries the King of Persia and saves the Jewish people from certain extinction at the hand of the villain, Haman."

Following services, the Youth Group of Temple Sha'arey Shalom will provide a Purim Carnival. Prizes will be awarded and refreshments will be available for a nominal charge, it was announced. For more information one can contact the temple office at 379-5387.

Beginning March 20 and for three Tuesday nights after, the temple adult education department will offer a course in Talmud, Judaism's compendium of tradition, law and legend.

This year, Rabbi Adir Steinsaltz. has "begun to realize his life's goal of popularizing the Talmud." The first English edition of his work will make the text accessible to all in the 20th Zentury.

Goldstein will lead the class beginning March 20 from 9 to 10 p.m. One can contact the temple office at 379-5387 before March 15.

Interfaith workshop

Children will be the focus of a workshop for interfaith couples to be held at Temple Beth Ahm of Springfield for three consecutive Sunday evenings, March 11, 18 and 25. The worshop is called "You're Jewish. Your Partner Isn't — What Will Your Children Be?" and is open to the Meryl Nadell, director of the Intermarriage Outreach Service of the Jewish Family Service of MetroWest, a clinical social worker and family therapist, will be the group's professional facilitator. Rabbi Perry Rank of Temple Beth Ahm will be available to interpret questions "from a rabbinic perspective." Sessions are from 8 to 9:30 p.m.

Participants will be encouraged "to share personal experiences and to use the group as a means for exploring issues involving children that might complicate relationships." While "maintaining respect for all viewpoints," the workshop is designed to help participants to decide for themselves how they wish to incorporate Judaism into their family life. Typically, discussions raise questions regarding how participants view the role of ritual in their home; what practices they might wish to observe and the effect having parents with different traditions can have upon children.

There is no fee for the workshop. Interested couples are requested to register with Nadell at 765-9050 or to call Temple Beth Ahm at 376-0539.

Dawn offers:

The Jewish Family Service is a beneficiary of the United Jewish Federation of MetroWest and the United Ways of Essex and West Hudson, Morris County and North Essex.

Fish dinner slated

An annual fish and chips dinner, sponsored by St. Faith's Group of St. Luke's Episcopal Church, Fourth Avenue and Walnut Street, Roselle, will be held March 16 in the parish hall from 5 to 7 p.m.

It was announced that tickets and must be purchased in advance. Take out dinners also will be available by reservation.

One can call the church office at 245-0815 or 241-0768. The reservation deadline is Wednesday.

2-day rummage sale

The United Methodist Women of the Community United Methodist Church, Chestnut and Grant Avenue, Roselle Park, will hold an annual rummage sale Tuesday from 9 a.m. to 7 p.m. and Wednesday from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. The "Bag Sale Day" will be on Wednesday.

Men's, women's, children's and infant's new and "nearly new clothing" will be available. Drapes, linens, curtains, bedspreds, washable hats, and shoes, new and unused, will be featured.

Sisterhood to meet

The Sisterhood of Temple Mekor Chayim/Suburban Jewish Center of Linden, will meet March 21 at 7:45 p.m. at the synagogue.

Guest speaker, president of Literacy Volunteers of Union County, Jean Coogan, will discuss various programs and answer questions.

Anyone in need of transportation to the temple can contact Carolyn Schiff at 245-2867, it was announced.

Deserved honors

Rick Iacono is intense and demanding, quite witty, and sometimes even a bit brash. He won't always tell you what you want to hear, but he'll always tell it like it is.

He also happens to be one heck of a wrestling coach. That's why the veteran Jonathan Dayton Regional High School coach was selected as both the District 10 and the Region 3 Wrestling Coach of the Year last weekend. And three weeks earlier, he was named Union County's co-coach of the year as well.

Over the past two years, the Springfield school has had one of the finest Group 2 teams in the state. And its combined 25-4 dual-meet record during that time can't be attributed to just talent alone — although there's been plenty of that on Dayton's mat squads. It's also because of things such as motivation, knowledge and strong leadership — things for which Iacono. also the school's head baseball coach, is best known.

It is worth noting that one young man who had never wrestled before went on to win a total of 40 matches in two vears under Iacono.

We couldn't agree more with the triple honors accorded Iacono. His time for recognition has finally arrived, and deservedly so.

Think About It

'Play ball,' or is that 'Pay ball'?

By JOHN TARTAGLINO

Ah, the first sign of spring. Baseball is back, weaving its magic on us all. How I missed the sounds of modem baseball:

The "crack" of the law books as they hit the attorneys' desks.

The excited murmur of the crowd, as they await the arbitrator's latest ruling.

And let's not forget the clouds of dust raised by players sliding into substance-abuse treatment centers.

We even have an extra bonus this year. The traditional players' strike gave way to an owners' lockout.

Who says baseball lacks innovation? It's a funny thing — first the owners want to play, but the players don't; then the players want to play, but the owners won't.

It kind of reminds me of my 6-yearold son and the kid upstairs.

Never mind, "Kill the umpire." The key phrase for modern baseball is:

"We'll see if it holds up in court!" Players sue owners. Owners sue players. Baseball is still a family game, but only if your family name is Rehnquist.

Being a baseball fan is now a lot like being a brokerage-house groupie. Contracts are negotiated, Salaries are structured. The books now list "RBI" as "Residual Base Income."

I've been a baseball fan for 30 or so years. In fact, I've been a Yankee fan, so I've learned to live with almost anything, but even I'm starting to get tired of corporate baseball.

Here's an example. Remember a while ago when the American League gave a thought to eliminating the designated hitter? Well, they decided to keep it.

Why? For one thing, the players' union protested that getting rid of it would hurt their members. Their position was that without the DH, lots of 40-year-olds with bad knees would be out on the street, replaced by 20-yearolds who'd be paid less money, and that would be bad for the pension fund.

The pension fund? Is this baseball, or the longshoremen's union?

While they're at it, why don't they hold out for the addition of a short centerfielder. That one extra job per team might help the national unemployment figures as well as the pen-

Hey, I'm not just picking on the players. The owners are no prizes, either. Every time I hear some owner gripe about "guys who hit .220 and get paid a million dollars," two things occur to me:

• Well, just who offered them the contacts in the first place?

• I don't see the guys who own teams that finish last giving their money back either.

Baseball is a business, a billiondollar business, but the key here is for the participants to at least pretend that it's a game. That shouldn't be so hard. After all, say you go to a concert, the star attraction doesn't take the stage and say:

"I'm awfully glad you're here... I have a percentage deal with the promoter, and you folks mean an additional 10 grand to my bottom line. Now, I'd like to sing a little song about current interest rates..."

Player "A"'s agent holds a news conference to announce that management's offer of $3.2 million for the next two weeks is an insult to the player's manhood, and a form of indentured servitude.

Owner "B" s media relations representative counters with a statement that the eventual realized profit from the team's new $80 million TV contract is overestimated, and besides, last year's hot dog sales were off 4

The wild thing is that I'm supposed to take sides: $2.50 for a hot dog, and they expect me to care how it's split

All I know is that I have to arrange for a loan just to go to a ball game, and even then I have to find a seat that some corporation hasn't reserved for the season. Am I at a sports event, or a General Motors stockholders' meeting?

Who'd have ever predicted that the only difference between The Sporting News and The Wall Street Journal would be that The Wall Street Journal has a correspondent in Warsaw?

letters to the editor

Budget indicates concern for students

I have been a teacher in Union County Regional High School District 1, which includes Jonathan Dayton Regional High School in Springfield, for nearly 25 years.

In that time, I have taken great pride in the quality of education that the students of my district have received.

Because of the fine teachers, programs, administrators and Board of Education members, many district students have gone on to college, or to specialized schools, or directly into jobs of all kinds.

Many return to visit their teachers after college or their first jobs and express appreciation for learning many things - how to do mathematics, prepare a mechanical drawing or write a letter. Many recall small favors a teacher did for them, favors the instructors themselves had long since forgotten.

That is why it bothers me that the quality of education, relationships and affection that many students have come to expect and appreciate from the district may be in jeopardy.

If the district's proposed budget is not supported by parents and others concerned about the education of our children, what will happen to them in the future? Will they have the same opportunities as students have had in the past? My greatest fear as a teacher and a resident of this area is that they may not.

There are many who look at educational budgets only in terms of dollars and cents. Many look at budgets solely in terms of their local property taxes. I cannot do that. I look at the school budget as an indicator of the seriousness of our communities to educate our children. I pay my taxes, and I can see the value they deliver.

I urge everyone who cares about the future of our children to inform themselves on the budget and to vote to support the maximum opportunity for the young in the April elections.

HARVEY GOLDBERG

Lock out baseball players for season

Although there are more serious issues to discuss, I would like to address the current major league baseball "lockout."

How ridiculous is it when there is a management-and-labor dispute, despite both sides earning more money than ever before in their respective histories! Many people I've spoken with feel that because the owners are supposedly earning millions of dollars each year, they should yield to the players' demands. My opinion is the exact opposite.

People enter business to earn money. An owner of a baseball team is in business to do just that. Why should he be expected to share the revenue from his successful business?

Salary arbitration is a joke, in my opinion. Why should a third party be able to require an owner to pay a higher salary? It's the owner's team, isn't it? He should decide what salary is paid.

The player is only an employee. If he doesn't like the rules, then he should go sell insurance for $30,000 a year.

Sprouting seeds is surprisingly easy. All that's needed is to gather up the following supplies: • 1 quart-size clean plastic or glass container.

• 1 6-inch by 6-inch square of cheese cloth or a nylon stocking. • 1 rubber band, large enough to go around the jar's mouth.

• 1 tablespoon-sized measuring spoon.

• 1 cup of water. • 2 tablespoons of lentil beans.

with a rubber band.

Uncooked, dried beans from your local supermarket work well.

Once you've gathered your supplies, you can start the sprouting process.

You can leave the cheesecloth on the First, put two tablespoons of seeds in your container. Cover them with water and let them sit overnight. Also, cover the mouth of the container with the cheesecloth or stocking and secure container and the sprouts in the container when you rinse them. The sprouts are ready to eat when they are about one inch long. They should be refrigerated in a plastic bag at that point to preserve them.

Sprouts can be eaten in salads or used on sandwiches in place of lettuce. They can also be stir-fried with other vegetables.

County gets $25M grant for highway map system

$25,000 federal highway safety grant to purchase a computerized mapping information system to be used in Union County and other participating counties, New Jersey Division of Highway Traffic Safety Director William T. Taylor announced recently.

The system included a desktop mapping program, digital county maps, capabilities for transferring graphics data between files and software support.

Currently, county and municipal traffic engineers lack the capability of depicting roadway data in a graphic format, which is crucial for evaluating roadways and prioritizing improvement projects.

With the computerized system, traffic engineers will be able to plot

Union County has been awarded a high accident locations, hazardous roadway segments, sign locations, speed limits, no passing and school zone locations, volume counts and other necessary data.

"There is a strong link between a given roadway segment and the operating characteristics of that roadway segment," said Taylor. He noted that examining the area in a geographic context will enable engineers to effectively examine problem roadway segments and plan appropriate improvements.

The New Jersey Division of Highway Traffic Safety, a part of the state Department of Law and Public Safety, administers the grant funds, which come from the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration, federal Department of Transportation.

Freeholders oppose bill, claiming it will cost county $1.7M annually

By SHARON CATES

Union County officials have joined their peers in Essex, Morris and Passaic counties in opposing State Senate Bill S-145, which is presently being discussed in the Legislature.

If the proposal is signed into law, Union County officials claim the county would lose $1.7 million in revenues that it presently receives from motor vehicle fines annually. Under the legislation, that money would be turned over to the county's municipalities.

Two mayor-legislators — State Sen. Frank X. Graves Jr., D-35, mayor of Paterson, and State Sen. John A. Lynch, D-17, mayor of New Brunswick - co-sponsored the bill.

Graves, however, will never see what will become of the proposal. He died unexpectedly on Sunday at the age of 66.

The bill has not yet been presented to the Senate, according to Union County Freeholder and Assemblyman Neil Cohen, D-21.

"Most of the mayors in the Legislature will probably support it, and most of the freeholders in the Legislature will probably reject it," Cohen said.

Historically, Cohen noted, the monies raised through such fines has been split almost equally between the municipalities in a county and the county itself.

representatives of organizations inter-

While historical organizations are nization interested in doing a project ested in applying for grants.

"The bill would direct monies that are now provided to the town and county and give it just to the towns." Cohen said. "The county can illafford to lose the $1.7 million in revenue it presently receives from those fines.

"One party conducts the arrests, and another party conducts the incarceration and the probation. Therefore, the distribution of funds should be shared," Cohen explained.

"The county bears the expense of incarceration, the monitoring of probation, the monitoring of first offenders, the building of a jail and the employment of corrections officers to work in the jail," Cohen added.

Cohen cautioned that if the county lost the $1.7 million, then county services would have to be reduced or taxes would have to be raised.

"It a catch-22," Cohen said. "Unless, or until, the state picks up the court costs, there has to be a partnership between the towns and the county."

The bill is presently in committee in the Senate, and it would have to be voted on in the full Senate before it is sent to the Assembly. Approval of both houses in the Legislature is necessary before it would be presented to the governor for his signature.

lease two buildings to house employees County

By SHARON CATES

In an interesting twist to almost two years of negotiations to find a better place to house the Union County Department of Social Services, the county Board of Freeholders opted to lease both of the buildings being considered.

Last Thursday, county Freeholder Chairman Gerald Green announced the board's intention to rent space in both the Albender building and Alfieri's Westminster Plaza building, both in Elizabeth.

"We haven't voted on it yet," Green said. "We have directed County Counsel Jeramiah O'Dwyer to finalize the leases."

Green noted that once a vote is taken and the leases are finalized, the Department of Social Services will occupy the Alfieri building. The Probation Department and members from the county Prosecutor's Office will occupy the Albender building, according to Green.

Although the freeholders said they are aware that the Probation Department and Prosecutor's Office had been in need of more adequate facilities, they chose not to make that information public. Green said that the board members opted to keep that information confidential so they would have better bargaining power during the negotiations.

The Department of Social Services has been located at 80 East Broad St., Elizabeth, for approximately 10 years. Over that time, employees have consistently complained about the deteriorating condition of the building.

That building is located in Elizabeth's central business district, where the Elizabeth City Council had said it preferred to keep the social services employees. The council was concerned about the potential loss of business by downtown merchants. Green said that the freeholder board took the City Council's preference into consideration, but that the board opted to move the department to the Alfieri building, which is on the outskirts of the business district.

"We had to be concerned with what is good for the 21 municipalities in the county and what was good for government," Green said. "We tried to to make sure the Elizabeth merchants would not be hurt by the move.

"It wasn't that we were ignoring the city of Elizabeth, but we had to address the concerns of the county as a whole," Green added.

Joan Hartsfield, president of Communication Workers of America Local 1080, the union representing the department's employees, noted that the workers were not concerned about moving outside of the business district.

"We are really not that far outside of the business district, so I do not see that as a problem at all." Hartsfield said. "Our main concern was moving out of this building."

Employees from the Social Services Department are not expected to begin moving into their new location until the late spring or early summer, according to Green.

In the Albender building, the Probation Department and Prosecutor's Office employees will remain close to the county courthouse. That move is expected to take approximately six months to complete.

Green explained that major renovations to the Albender building had to be completed before the employees could be moved. The Probation Department and Prosecutor's Office staff is expected to be moved in phases as the renovations are completed.

Anti-delinquency grant received

A $60,981 State Law Enforcement Planning Agency grant has been awarded to Union County for delinquency prevention.

The grant involves federal Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention Act funds.

The grant to Union County will enable the Urban League to begin the Juvenile Aftercare Alternative Program. This project will provide aftercare services to probationers, male and female, ages 10 to 17, returning to the community from the Department of Corrections field programs. Referrals will also be accepted from the state Parole Board.

The program will facilitate readjustment to the community for 53 youths by assisting with school re-entry, job placement and family stability through family and individual counseling and life skills training.

Stamler feted for anti-child abuse efforts

Union County Prosecutor John H. Stamler, co-chairman of the New Jersey Governor's Task Force on Child Abuse and Neglect, has been named recipient of the federal Department of Health and Human Services Commissioner's Award for his efforts on behalf of child abuse prevention.

The award is given annually by the department's Office of Human Development Services Administration for Children, Youth and Families at its National Conference on Child Abuse and Neglect.

Stamler is chairperson of the protection subcommittee and cochairman of the New Jersey Governor's Task Force on Child Abuse and Neglect.

Under Stamler's direction, the task force has heightened public awareness of the problem of child abuse and neglect and developed child abuse prevention programs throughout the Stamler was instrumental in putting into place training programs for the New Jersey Department of Human Services' Division of Youth and Family Services (DYFS) protective services workers, law enforcement officials, physicians, lawyers, mental health clinicians and educators.

He developed a guide titled, "Child Abuse and Neglect: A Professional's Guide to Identification, Reporting, Investigation and Treatment."

Stamler also played a major role in creation of the New Jersey Child Sexual Abuse Training Institute, which provides training and technical assistance on the multidisciplinary team approach to investigation and treatment of child sexual abuse.

He was also instrumental in establishing the child-abuse diagnostic centers in Newark and Camden and in developing a child-abuse awareness campaign with an emphasis on educating physicians and educators on child-abuse awareness and reporting.

BATTLING IT OUT — Scott Adderty of Dayton, left, and Madison's Roshone Richardson go at it in this quarterfinal-round heavyweight bout in the Region 3 Tournament last Friday night in Union. Adderty prevailed by a 7-4 score, but just missed out on qualifying for next week's state tournament in Princeton, when he lost, 8-5, to Pete Lue of Parsippany Hills in the regional consolations on Saturday.

Rams hope for advancement

By MARK YABLONSKY

North Jersey, Group 2, Section 2 title Saturday at 5:30 p.m. at the Louis game between Abraham Clark High of Roselle and Hillside at Madison Boro High School, it's safe to say that whoever lost, didn't deserve to be sent home so early in post-season play. And whoever won, has, as Ram coach Stan Kokie feels, "an excellent chance of going all the way," meaning to the entire Group 2 championship.

Roselle and Hillside this season have both been outstanding and as of now, one of them is going to be facing the North Jersey, Group 2, Section 1 champion tonight at 8 p.m. at Becton Regional in East Rutherford.

the second annual Tournament of Whatever did happen in Tuesday's Champions — is up for grabs on Brown Athletic Center in Piscataway.

> The question posed to Kokie on Monday was simple: since his team had defeated Hillside, 90-60, in the only clash between the two back on Feb. 3 in Somerville, was he worried that a proud, 24-2 Comet team would be thinking of revenge?

> "I don't think you'll look at revenge," answered Kokie, whose team, at 23-1, received a first-round bye in the section and then ousted a 21-6 Jefferson Township squad, 96-50, this past Saturday in Roselle in the sectional semifinal. "I think both teams are on a mission. Personally, I wish this was the third time because when you play them once, you don't know what to expect a second time." This time of year, there is no second chance. If you win, you're back in action just two nights later, a fact that neither Kokie nor a lot of other coaches seem to appreciate.

Led by 6-5 senior wing Craig Martin, the Rams entered Tuesday's game with Hillside in search of a 13th sectional championship. Martin averages 21 points, 11.3 rebounds, 6.3 assists and 6.5 steals a game.

Others, such as Eugene Brown and Jon Johnson, to name a few, are also putting up good numbers. Brown and Johnson combined for 39 points in the win over Jefferson, with Brown getting 22 of them, including 12 in the first period alone. Johnson also had 12 points in the opening quarter.

lacono awarded twice, as seven make states

By MARK YABLONSKY

Dayton Regional head wrestling coach Rick Iacono, who saw two of his Bulldog combatants qualify for the upcoming state tournament, received Coach of the Year citations for both District 10 and Region 3 at the regional tournament this past Saturday in Union.

In all, seven wrestlers from the County Leader coverage area, including the two from Dayton, placed high enough in region competition to reach the states, scheduled to begin this Wednesday, March 14, at Jadwin Gym in Princeton.

"The thrill of getting Coach of the Year of the Region is a thrill not only because our region has gotten so tough," Iacono said, "but because there are a lot of fine coaches in the region. I was elated.

"I won it in 1979, and who knows, maybe I can win it again in 2001," he added jokingly in reference to a possible 11-year cycle.

Already an earlier choice as co-Union County Coach of the Year, Iacono watched as 103-pounder Dante Puorro and 130-pounder Chris Moreno won state tournament slots. The five other CLN-area wrestlers to qualify were Dan Lilley, Mike Francesca, Earl Finney and Bob Kuldanek, all of Union; and John Ranieri of Roselle Park. Lilley and Francesca won Region 3 titles at 125 and 140 pounds, respectively, while Finney, Kuldanek and Ranieri all came up with consolation-round wins to nail down the third and final state berth in each of their respective weight classes.

Puorro also finished third by defeating Dennis Mulrooney of Parsippany, 11-2, and Moreno placed second after dropping a 7-5 decision to Madison's Mike Delduca in the 130-pound title bout.

Ranieri won his trip to Princeton with a well-fought 4-2 victory over James Hallick of Parsippany in the 145-pound consolation bout.

Moreno was involved in a real battle from beginning to end, and tried within the final 17 seconds to make up the two-point deficit with a "kamikaze" move — which in Dayton terms, is a move designed to counter an opponent who is in control.

Moreno did indeed get himself out of trouble with the move, but he failed to gain the necessary tying points. For Puorro, gaining entry to state competition is a fine culmination of a 25-5 season that has produced both a Union

RICK IACONO

County Tournament title and a second-place finish to Irvington's Terrance Paul in District 10.

"I felt a little bad for Chris," said Iacono. "I felt he wrestled well enough to win ...but I was pleased with the way he wrestled. And I was glad he was relaxed. I think both of those kids are going to do something in Princeton.'

Paul, incidentally, was voted as the region tournament's Outstanding

defeated in final Linden

By DAVE WISE

The Lady Tigers of Linden High advanced all the way to the North Jersey, Section 2, Group 3 girl's basketball state tournament finals by beating Cranford, 28-18, on Feb. 28 and Clifford Scott, 72-52, last Friday. But Linden's hopes of capturing a state sectional title were sadly crushed when the team, now 20-8, fell to Randolph High, 53-49, on Monday night in Cranford.

In last week's action, the Lady Tigers easily put away Cranford in a quarterfinalround game in Linden, and this victory advanced Linden to the semifinals.

"They were holding the ball and it was a very low-scoring game," remarked Eng. "Their game strategy was to hold the ball, but Linden prevailed."

And prevailed they did: Linden took an early lead in the first quarter with two three-pointers from juniors Joann Hall and Erica Reed. This was a morale-booster because after these two shots fell into the basket, Linden "did not trail" in any quarters, said

"We did the things we had to do in order to advance in the tournament," noted Eng.

Hall, who was able to occasionally grab the ball from the overly cautious Lady Cougars, had the team-high score of 10 points. Her teammate, senior Shamona Marable, finished with nine points in what Eng described as a slow-moving game.

Reed and Sharmane Koonce combined for nine points.

When Linden played second-seed Clifford Scott at East Orange in the semifinals last Friday, however, it was not a game of passing the ball. It was a game of shoot first and ask questions later.

The first half belonged to Marable, who scored 21 of her 27 points in the first two quarters. Because of her accurate shooting, the Lady Tigers, took a 37-32 lead in the first half.'

Linden increased its point-spread to 20-9 in the third quarter as it continued to dominate Clifford Scott. Helping Linden to maintain its competitive edge over their rivals, Knooce scored 13 points and Hall finished with 11.

The win against Clifford Scott then put Linden against Randolph in the sectional final. Linden began the game with a 13-12 lead in the first quarter, and outscored their foes by the exact same margin in the second period to take a 26-24 halftime lead.

It was a very slender lead, that kind which doesn't allow for mistakes but unfortunately, Linden made some costly mistakes. After leading, 37-36, at the end of the third quarter, Linden blew two lay-ups and missed six foul shots. These errors gave Randolph a chance to make "their big run" in the fourth quarter, according to Eng.

Mary Carnathan of Randolph added to her team's lead by scoring three 18-foot jumpers and "Randolph never trailed after that," said Eng.

"They cashed in on easy opportunities," Eng further noted.

One advantage which Randolph quickly seized was their shooting strength on the foul line. Randolph was shooting 62 percent from the foul line, as opposed to Linden's 27 percent rating.

Hall finished with 19 points, Knooce scored 10 points, and Marable ended the game with nine.

This was the first Linden girl's basketball team to win 20 games in one season, and also the first team to reach the state sectional finals.

In summing up his team's performance this season. Eng said, "I'm very pleased with the progress of our team. We feel confident that we'll be able to compete (next year) for the county, state and conference titles."

Croce becomes All-American

Roselle Park's Frank Croce, who is a member of the Kean College wrestling team, capped off a brilliant 37-4-2 record by placing sixth in the Division 3 national tournament as a 142-pound contestant this past weekend in Ithaca, N.Y., making him an All-American wrestler for the third straight year. The top eight wrestlers in each weight class earn All-American status.

Prior to transferring to Kean at the start of the current 1989-90 school year, Croce had been an All-American for John Sacci at Middlesex County College for each of the past two seasons.

Croce was still recovering from the effects of a rib cartilage tear sustained in the New Jersey Athletic Conference championships on Feb. 18 when he took part in the nationals. He was the only Kean wrestler placing high enough to become an All-American this year.

"I'm very happy that he got it," said Kean coach Craig Spencer, whose Kean team finished the season with a 20-7-1 dual-meet record and a final No. 17 nationwide ranking. "He had a very tough road."

'89-90 All-County Girl's Basketball team

About our '89-90 picks

By MARK YABLONSKY

For the third straight year, County Leader Newspapers is presenting its All-County Girl's Basketball Team, consisting of players from the towns within our coverage area: Springfield, Mountainside, Kenilworth, Roselle, Roselle Park, Linden and Union.

Since basketball has many less players than do other sports, we are offering an 11-member First Team, as well as Honorable Mention selections. Our choices are based on statistics, importance of a player to her team, personal observation, and also on comments and observations from each of the coaches with whom we spoke.

Our selections were not made by position, largely because a certain amount of our choices either play more than one position, or play under varying kinds of offenses.

For the second straight year, Jennifer Francis proved to be the perfect complement to Meixner up front for Dayton.

Raising her scoring average from 12.6 to 14.7 points a game this winter, the 5-9 strong forward also averaged better than four assists and two steals per game. Her presence inside made Meixner all that more effective, and her hard work was a major reason why the Lady Bulldogs made it to the North Jersey, Group 2, Section 2 playoffs for the first time in six years.

Her two best games of the year resulted in a 25-point showing in a 58-39 win over Roselle on Jan. 26, and 23 points in a 39-33 loss to Ridge on Jan. 19.

"She developed into a much improved passer this year," Krupp said. "And she had a good knack for steals."

JOANN HALL LINDEN

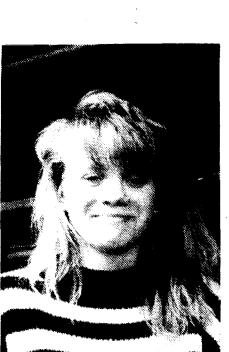

ANDREA LABONIA UNION

See next week's paper for our All-County boy's basketball team.

The first of this year's three-time All-CLN players, Kim Eagan continues doing what she does best for Brearley, and that, of course, is scoring points.

Bettering the 400-point mark for the second straight year, Eagan netted a total of 432 points in all 21 of Brearley's played games for a team-leading 20.6 average. She now has a total of 1,056 points in three years, and she should become Brearley's all-time leading scorer — including boy's and girl's competition — before the half-way point of next season.

"She's a very consistent player,"
Brearley coach Marge Egan said.
"Consistency I would say is the key word for her. She's always composed under pressure, and her head is always in the game."

JENNIFER FRANCIS DAYTON

This season, Joann Hall started at wing and moved more and more to point guard as the season wore on. And if she's at shooting guard by the time next season rolls around, it won't matter anymore. She'll hurt you no matter she plays.

Averaging 17:7 points a game with a total of 499 in all this year, Miss Hall is some 300 points shy of becoming only the second player in Linden girl's basketball history to reach 1,000 points. Her 60 three-point baskets this season are definitely a school record, and may well be a county record, too. And don't forget her 62 assists and 48 steals, either.

"This is a kid that is what

"This is a kid that is what Linden girl's basketball is all about," said Eng without hesitation. "She is the epitome of our program with her dedication and desire to make herself the best basketball player she can be."

"I'll tell you, Dayton's going to miss her competitiveness and her aggressiveness," Dayton coach Arthur Krupp said. "She was by far our most valuable player. When she isn't on the floor, we're hurting."

SHAMONA MARABLE LINDEN

Another third-time member of the CLN All-County squad, Jenny Fullman had another strong year for the Lady Rams, scoring 300 points in all 19 of Roselle's games for a 15.9 scoring average. While that is down from last year's 20.1 average, Fullman did score 20 points or more in six games, and in two more contests, she had 19—despite frequently being double-teamed.

Add on an average of 4.1 assists and just under three steals a game, and you have a better idea of Fullman's true worth. She also sank 29 baskets from three-point range, five of which came during a loss to Immaculata—the same game in which the senior guard recorded a season-high total of 28 points.

"She's our point guard and a fouryear varsity starter," Roselle coach Bob Giannotti said. "She was the best ball handler we had."

Some coaches may have plums for players, but Joe DeStephan is quite happy to have a peach on his team—or in this case, junior Michelle Piech, who is also a repeater for All-CLN kudos.

While her point total of 243 was down from her 285 of last season, Piech still averaged 13.5 rebounds per game.

"She's a good, strong rebounder inside and we hope to see more point production from her next year," DeStephan said. "She's strong inside and she should be a dominant force in rebounding again."

'Voices' has lyric insight

By MILT HAMMER Ear-pleaser: "The Voices," MCA Records.

The unrelenting sound of The Voices comes through clear and strong on the self-titled MCA debut release. This San Diego-based quintet combines a muscular rock approach with a compelling touch of melodicism and lyric insight. Produced by Andrew Slater and Niko Bolas, "The Voices" showcases a band that stands out from the pack by virtue of its musical honesty and sheer visceral Bandmates Peter Kevin, lead vocals, guitar; Tommy Andrews, lead guitars, vocals, piano; Randy Willert, drums, vocals; David Inglish, keyboards; and Todd Hoffman, bass, have avoided pretenses and gimmicks during their rise on the Southern California club scene. "When we're on stage, we don't pose or dress up in spandex," says Kevin. "It's just a real show with a lot of heart and intense energy. And that's what we went for in making this record."

The Voices' first album achieves the band's goal of capturing their galvanizing sound in the grooves. Much of the recording was done live with few overdubs - and the results can

"War," "Fallen Idol" and "Midnight Train." Other cuts have a more more textured approach without sacrificing emotional impact - "Sound of the Rain" and "China Walls," two yearning midtempo numbers, stand out among them.

"Kick It In," the LP's opening track, is an explosive war cry with a churning rhythmic thrust. "Let It Fall," an ominous, propulsive modern rocker, and "All I Wanted," melodic with a dark edge, reveal further sides of The Voices' musical vision.

The Voices speak with confidence that comes from years of seasoning from live performance. Yet the members of the group have retained the enthusiasm and integrity which have sustained them through the rigors of playing the Southern California club circuit.

While the band formally came together six years ago, its members had been working on and off in bands around San Diego since their junior high school days. Several had worked with major acts — bassist Todd Hoffbe heard on such fiery tracks as man, for instance, did a stint with call Churchill at 635-6043.

Our House benefit set

A tea brunch and dance will be held Sunday from 12:30 to 4:40 p.m. at the Hilton Hotel, Short Hills, to benefit programs serving men and women in Union, Morris, and Essex counties who have developmental disabilities.

Sponsored by the Our House Foundation, the tea brunch and dance will feature dining and dancing. Cathy Moldave, co-chairman of the benefit with Margaret Timony, says "The Our House Foundation recognizes the need to provide a more continuous, secure base of funding for these vital programs, particularly in light of recent cutbacks in state funding. The Our House Foundation is to be admired for its commitment to seeing that those people who need these services are getting the quality programs they need.'

Tickets for the event are available through tea brunch and dance committee members, headed by Judy and Al Corney of Berkeley Heights and Jack and Barbara Feeley of Roselle Park, or by calling the Our House Foundation at 464-8008.

Reservations can be made by contacting Our House Foundation Director of Development Karen Feinblatt at the same number.

REAL ESTATE

Weichert foresees new trends in '90s

Given the dynamism of the real estate industry - especially at the end of a record-setting and unprecedented decade - the country's largest independent real estate company predicts that the 1990s will be a period of

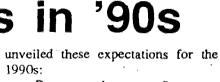

And while it's difficult to foresee what the decade may bring and what outside forces will influence the industry, one thing is certain: buyers, sellers and brokers alike will experience a shift in trends.

Weichert Realtors, based in Morris Plains, with local offices in Clark, Union and Westfield, expects the decade will bring a more stablized appreciation rate, with time for incomes to adjust to housing prices.

The real estate companies and agents that will grow during the 1990s. will be those that recognize the shift and adjust accordingly, the company predicts.

"The housing market has always been based on a cycle," said James Murray, Weichert senior vice president of marketing. "The companies that will succeed will be those that accept to the market and keep current with trends."

A recent poll of Weichert experts

· Best growth areas: Somerset, Western Morris and Warren counties will experience expansion, especially with the completion of Interstate 78. Interstates 287 and 80 have helped the business corridor develop.

• Interest rates: Rates will be less volatile in the '90s, according to Timothy Good, president of Weichert Mortgage Co., unlike the rollercoaster pattern of the '80s, More people will purchase homes for shelter and just for investment purposes. Good predicts that as 1990 begins, interest rates will be lower than average.

• Rate of appreciation: Gradually stabilizing, low through 1990, steadying at the inflation rate throughout the next few years. Some areas will fare better than most.

 Biggest challenge for buyers: Affordability. During the '80s, appreciation outpaced income levels. The '90s will be an adjustment period.

• Biggest challenge for sellers: Acknowledging current real estate conditions and pricing homes competitively and realistically.

RELOCATION HONORS - Bernadette Houston, right, sales manager of the Union office of Degnan Boyle Realtors, receives the company's Relocation Achievement Award for 1989 from Dorothy Degnan Hunt, left, vice president and director of Relocation, and Joan Wislotski, assistant director of Relocation. Houston was honored for leading the company in closed broker-to-broker referrals.

Kitchen improvements can help sell a house

In a soft real estate market, improving a kitchen can help a house hold its value, and pay off in the end for the seller, according to Weichert Realtors.

Weichert is the largest independent residential real estate company in the eountry, according to trade groups. It has local offices at 1307 Stuyvesant Ave., Union; 157 Central Ave., Clark; and 185 Elm St., Westfield.

Long considered the home improvement that gets the best return on investment, new kitchens are one way that sellers can distinguish their homes from the many others on the Homeowners who might sell in the future would be well advised to evaluate the condition of the kitchen, said Jim Murray, senior vice president of marketing.

"Think of an improvement as a way to add value to your home," Murray said, "Updating this room can help homeowners realize their full equity at sale time."

If a home has a dated kitchen, buyers rarely consider it unless it's a terrific bargain, he added.

Renovating the kitchen can turn an ordinary house into something appealing - and the project doesn't have to be expensive. It's not costprohibitive to turn a 1960s kitchen into something for the 1990s, according to Weichert Realtors.

Here are Weichert's 10 easy home improvement tips to expedite a home

· Cabinets: Use light colors and wood. A good-looking painted cabinet is OK. Adding glass doors or changing the hardware can also make a difference.

• Countertops: This is your kitchen's focal point. Choose from wood, granite, marble, Formica or tile products to give the room character.

• Back splash: Adds color to the room. Use hand-painted tiles for the customized look. Mirrors work to add light and space to the room.

• Flooring: This sets the tone of the room. Select light woods for a traditional yet updated design. Marble and tile also work well.

• Lighting: Light is right for the '90s. Add lots of recessed lighting and lighting under cabinets. Consider installing skylights.

• Windows: Up-to-date windows not only add light but are more energy-efficient than older windows. Greenhouse windows make a room look larger. The latest window designs provide a backdrop for modern window treatments.

• Appliances: Consider replacing a stove or refrigerator with a new American or European model. Two dishwashers appeal to some buyers.

• Plumbing fixtures: Opt for the newer colors. Perhaps a coral sink and counter and a new faucet will upgrade the room.

 Doors: Consider replacing your back door with some of the newer glass models. • Installing a butler's pantry will help bring your kitchen into the General Magnaplate Corporation of Linden recently completed a statesponsored program designed to help solve a local labor problem.

While thousands of residents continue to suffer long-term unemployment due to the reduced need for unskilled labor in modern industry, many New Jersey companies are suffering from the lack of employees with the skills needed to meet the demands of today's technology.

Nine employees of General Magnaplate have finished a unique, in-plant training program and were upgraded from their semi-skilled positions to become hi-tech metal finishers electroplaters, maskers, and anodizers. They are now able to process the most critical jobs that come into the factory.

According to Candida Aversenti, General Magnaplate president, the plan was worked out with Al Gallagher of the Newark Office of Customized Training (OCT), of the New Jersey Employment Service.

"The skill of electroplating and anodizing metal parts seems to be a dying craft," said Aversenti. "It's no longer taught or even mentioned in vocational or trade schools. We've been in New Jersey for 37 years, serving clients such as NASA, Boeing, McDonnell Douglas, IBM, Nabisco, Quaker Oats, and many more."

The state certified the program and contributed a portion of the salaries of the selected employees during the training period.

Trainees include Douglas Fortuna and Ricardo Gass from Linden and Manuel Concina from Roselle.

WOOLLEY FUEL CO., located at Burnet and Springfield avenues, Maplewood, has been satisfying its customers for over 65 years.

Over 65 years ago, the Woolley Fuel Company, located at Burnet and Springfield avenues in Maplewood, started in the home heating business. Their slogan then, as it is now, was "Your Comfort Is Our

In those days, Woolley Fuel delivered coal to its customers by horse and wagon.

Today, the needs of Woolley's customers are very different but the company's motto and work ethic are still the same.

To keep up with modern needs, Woolley Fuel Company entered the home heating oil business, adding new storage tanks, delivery trucks and a staff of qualified oil heating personnel who are certified under the Fuel Merchants Association of New Jersey Certification Program.

Through the years, customer comfort has been their top priority — and it still is.

With hundreds of satisfied regular customers and more new customers calling nearly every day, Woolley Fuel has been able to expand their services to accommodate a growing clientele.

Woolley Fuel stores abundant quantities of topquality fuel oil, ensuring that their customers' heating
