Board of Adjustment KOs townhouse plan

By SUZETTE STALKER

The Mountainside Board of Adjustment rejected a proposal by two Westfield contractors Monday to build townhouses at 940 Mountain Avenue, claiming the planned multi-family dwellings would contrast too sharply with the surrounding community.

Contractors Joseph Scalzadonna and Vincent Marvosa had sought a variance from the board to construct two buildings on the site, containing nine townhouse units altogether. A variance was needed since the property, slightly larger than one acre, is designated exclusively for single-family residences.

The Adjustment Board had postponed its vote on the application last month while referring the matter to the borough Planning Board for the latter's comments and recommendations. The planners' report, dated May 11, was reviewed by the Adjustment Board Monday just prior to a full discussion of the proposal.

Adjustment Board members, as well as a number of Mountainside residents, ultimately rejected the proposal on the grounds that the townhouses would conflict with the borough's single-family residential nature. Mountainside currently has no regulations regarding multi-family dwellings.

Board of Adjustment Chairman George Hancock emphasized that the buildings' foundation alone would exceed the 15 percent maximum building coverage allowed by the borough, adding that supplementary buildings, driveways and parking areas could increase that coverage to as much as 50 percent.

Board member Albert D'Amada stated that he believed that the majority of Mountainside residents do not favor development of townhouses and that the community's wishes are reflected in the borough's current master plan, which holds no provisions for multi-family dwellings.

The contractors' Westfield attorney, James Flynn, said on Monday that his clients' proposal called for "single-family cluster dwellings," rather than an apartment complex, and that the contractors would have attempted to make the project mesh with the needs of the community as much as possible.

Flynn denied that the townhouse proposal would lead to mass development of multi-family dwellings in Mountainside, a concern expressed recently by some borough residents because of 3 1/2 acres of vacant land adjacent to the property.

Flynn said that his clients "would be happy" to gear the project toward senior citizens, though board members questioned whether seniors could afford the projected $200,000 cost per unit. Flynn responded that the townhouse specifications could be adjusted to bring down the price.

"This is a good application," Flynn remarked during the meeting. "Someone is going to build on that land, and I think we made a very nice proposal. It wouldn't be out of character with the neighborhood. It would be a very nice, high quality project."

"There is a need for this in the borough," Flynn continued, claiming that he had received calls from several Mountainside residents in favor of the project. "It doesn't have to be a $200,000 project. It can fit the need of the community."

Several board members also speculated on whether the townhouses would generate a sufficient market, noting that the "village square" concept, or individualized dwellings, has recently become popular in area communities as Chatham, Bedminster, Warren and Murray Hill.

The proposal was rejected by all Board of Adjustment members except for Daniel Falcone and Patricia Connolly, who abstained from the voting, citing conflict of interest. Each of them own properties which are within 200 feet of the Mountain Avenue site.

Regional BOE discusses new grading proposal

By SUZETTE STALKER

The Board of Education of Union County Regional High School District 1 discussed a new grading policy proposal Tuesday which would change the current system of grading by numerals to a letter grade system by the start of the 1990-91 school year.

Jonathan Dayton enrolls students from both Mountainside and Springfield, while David Brearley serves the communities of Kenilworth and Garwood. The high schools in Clark and Berkeley Heights enroll students from their respective municipalities.

An ad hoc committee established by the district developed the proposal in an effort to achieve greater "clarity" in the district grading system, according to regional district spokesman Thomas Long.

A group of approximately 20 parents and educators who attended the meeting at Arthur Johnson responded positively to the proposed change, which will be further discussed at the regional board's June 5 meeting at David Brearley.

A first reading on the proposal is also expected to take place at that time.

During several recent regional Board of Education meetings, a number of parents had expressed concern over the numeric grading policy, which they felt did not always reflect their youngsters' true rank. They were especially concerned over the way colleges would evaluate the numeric grades.

In other news, the regional board welcomed several incumbents to another term in office last week during its annual reorganization meeting at Arthur L. Johnson.

Regional Board of Education President Natalie R. Waldt was re-elected by fellow board members to her fifth consecutive year as president, while board member David M. Hart was re-elected to his position for the fourth year in a row.

A board representative since 1967, Springfield resident Waldt was elected to her eighth term on the board in 1988. She has served as president of the board since April 1986. Hart, of Mountainside, has represented his borough on the board since 1979 and has served as board vice president since April 1987.

ARBOR DAY PLANTING — Student Council representatives from Deerfield School in Mountainside, from left, Mark Sieffert and Lawrence Chiswick, prepare the soil for Deerfield's annual Arbor Day planting recently. The tree was donated by the Mountainside Lions Club. The school's week-long celebration of Earth Day and Arbor Day helped teach Deerfield students about the importance of environmental preservation.

Four are honored for boro service

By SUZETTE STALKER

Four municipal employees were honored by the Mountainside Borough Council Tuesday through its brand new Merit Bonus Program, whereby non-union workers are recognized with a bonus for their contributions to local government.

Borough employees cited included Finance Officer Janet Krommenhoek, Borough Clerk Kathleen Toland, Sandra Burdge, secretary to the Recreation Commission, and Director of Public Works and Facilities Walter Dinizo.

Borough Administrator James Roberts explained that there are four basic criteria on which Merit Bonus nominees are selected, including:

- A successfully realized recommendation which saves the borough a significant amount of money, beyond the amount which would normally be saved through merely doing one's job properly.
- Development of a concept for a significant new service or program which is implemented by the borough.
- Development of a recommendation, implemented by the borough, for new management, organization or financial policies which positively and significantly affect the efficiency, economy and effectiveness of borough government operations.
- Undertaking major responsibilities not considered under his or her normal duties and having completed them successfully with significant benefit to the borough.

A borough employee for 10 years, Krommenhoek began her municipal career as an account clerk; later earning certification as chief financial officer and deputy tax collector.

She received a merit bonus of $2,500 for her participation in several financial endeavors, including implementation of the borough's new computer system; assistance in special analysis of financial institutions for the borough and analysis of the municipality's entire insurance plan.

In addition, Krommenhoek assisted in finding a new carrier for municipal health benefits programs, which is expected to save the borough $40,000 annually, according to Roberts.

Toland has also been employed by the borough for 10 years, and has served as borough clerk since 1982. Roberts reported that Toland

Boro skips gypsy moth spraying

By SUZETTE STALKER

The Mountainside Borough Council has opted not to participate this year in the New Jersey Department of Agriculture's program of spraying areas which are heavily infested with gypsy moth eggs, a common occurrence during the summer months.

Mountainside Director of Public Works and Facilities Walter Dinizo confirmed Friday that officials declined to participate in the program following a recent survey of gypsy moth egg infestation by the Union County Park Commission, which revealed that the problem was not prevalent on borough-owned land.

A recent report issued by the Association of New Jersey Environmental Commissions stated that gypsy moths lay their eggs in clusters containing 100 to 1,000 eggs each during the months of July and August, which hatch as caterpillars the following May.

The caterpillars, or larvae, devour the leaves of various types of trees, and are capable of causing extensive defoliation. The creatures favor oak, apple, linden and willow trees, but are known to attack several other varieties as well.

Once their feeding cycle has ended, the caterpillars form a cocoon and enter a resting stage, from which they finally emerge in mid-June and July. The moths subsequently mate and lay eggs, after which they die, according to the report.

The section of borough land which the state would have sprayed comprises 430 acres, from Old Tote Road to the neighborhoods adjoining the Watchung Reservation, and would have encompassed Deerfield School and Our Lady of Lourdes School on Central Avenue.

"The area the state would have sprayed in we didn't feel was a critical area," Dinizo explained. "We were also concerned about the safety of the product. It's not supposed to be toxic, but some people have allergies or very strong reactions to it."

"The egg masses are not as serious as the state anticipated," the DPW director continued. "We did decide, however, that if we saw problems with borough trees we would address them as problems came up."

The Mountainside Shade Tree Commission had advised borough officials that while gypsy moth caterpillars had caused "some defoliation" of borough trees, they did not create a serious infestation and were not expected to this year either, according to Dinizo.

Carol Shipp, a Department of Agriculture spokeswoman, confirmed on Monday that of Union County's 21 municipalities, only five were presently expected to be participating in the state program. These include the communities of Summit, Scotch Plains, Cranford, Fanwood and New Providence.

Dinizo recommended that Mountainside residents who encounter gypsy moth eggs and caterpillars on their own trees follow these guidelines, established by the state Department of Agriculture, for getting rid of the creatures:

- Destroying Eggs
• Destroy the egg masses, which resemble patches of tan suede, by scraping them off with a penknife or putty knife. Collect them in a container filled with ammonia and water, or kerosene or used motor oil, or half household bleach and water.
- Do not leave the eggs on the ground after scraping them off, or they will hatch into caterpillars.
- Don't throw untreated egg masses in the garbage. It is illegal to transport agricultural pests across state lines, and Union County garbage is sent to Ohio.
- Destroying Caterpillars
• Create a barrier to prevent caterpillars from crawling up trees to feed. Wrap a piece of burlap, 12 to 18 inches wide, around each tree trunk. Tie it in the middle, and fold the top part down. Remove any caterpillars caught in the middle.

• Put a sticky band of material around the tree trunks. A band can be made from cotton batting covered with tar paper and coated with a sticky substance. The cotton batting is needed to fill in the spaces in the bark to prevent the caterpillars from crawling.

Vets present dinner

The Mountainside Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 10136 recently held a dinner for hospitalized veterans from Lyons Veterans Hospital in Lyons.

The dinner for the 32 veterans and staff attendants was held at the Mountainside Elks Club meeting hall on Rt. 22 in Mountainside, and featured entrees and desserts of American and European origin, all of which were prepared and served by members of the post and their spouses.

The visiting veterans were treated to games and other entertainment after the dinner. The Mountainside VFW post sponsors the dinner on an annual basis and the attendees from Lyons Hospital are rotated each year to permit all those in residence the opportunity to partake in the dinner.

PTA will elect officers

The Mountainside Deerfield Parent Teacher Association will hold its last general membership meeting for the school year on Thursday, May 24, at 7 p.m. in the Deerfield School gymnasium on Central Avenue and School Drive.

Election of the Nominating Committee's proposed slate of officers for 1990-91 will take place.

The nominees are: Jane Davenport, president; Sally Rivieccio, executive vice president; Maryann Kasporeen, vice president for grades 6-8; Joan Whritenour, vice president for grades 4-5; Tracy Criscitiello, Moppet-grade 3 vice president; Cheryl Kress, recording secretary; Judy Segall, corresponding secretary; Sara Meissner, treasurer.

Bike helmets to be sold

The Mountainside Deerfield Parent Teacher Association and Pro Tour Bicycle Shop of Westfield will co-sponsor the sale of bicycle helmets for $25 during Deerfield School's open house on Thursday, May 24, from 7 to 9 p.m.

These helmets come in assorted colors and can be ordered to size that evening. Quantities are unlimited.

received her $1,900 bonus for her "overall superior performance which cuts across all four criteria."

Toland has distinguished herself, according to Roberts, by taking on both administrative and back-up duties, as well as putting in regular overtime. She also recently completed a Certified Public Management Program out of Rutgers University.

A member of the Recreation Department for several years, Burdge, who received $500, was recognized for having implemented a new computerized system for the department, which also required extensive overtime.

Although he has only been employed by the borough for four months, Dinizo received a $1,000 bonus for successfully implementing several new programs.

These programs included last year's expansion of the Public Works Department and the borough's recycling program, as well as his development of the Clean Communities Program and the recent leaf composting program.

"The borough is fortunate to have some very fine employees and they've been given the opportunity to do good work," Roberts remarked. "As a result, we have a very economical and efficient government and people stay here for a lot of years."

A teacher and several students at Jonathan Dayton Regional High School in Springfield and the Vail-Deane School in Mountainside were among the recent recipients of academic awards given through the Tandy Technology Scholars program administered by Texas Christian University.

David C. Van Hart, a teacher at Jonathan Dayton, was an Outstanding Math/Science/Computer Science Teacher school awardee, while Dayton student Stephen Fowler, was named as Outstanding Math/Science/Computer Science Student school awardee.

In addition, the top 2 percent of each participating high school's senior class was recognized for overall academic excellence. Dayton students who received this honor were Tatiana Alzenberg, Lauren Melxner and David Schlosser.

Nicole Czarniecki of the Vail-Deane School received the Outstanding Math/Science/Computer Science Student school award, as well as being honored for being in the top 2 percent of her class.

Jeffrey S. Ginsberg of Springfield, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Ginsberg, was among those students at Lafayette College in Easton, Pa., who were honored recently during the school's All-College Honors Convocation in the college's Morris R. Williams Center for the Arts.

Ginsberg, a senior metallurgical engineering major, also received the American Society for Metals Prize in metallurgical engineering.

Paul Muir of Mountainside was among those students who were named to the Headmaster's List for the winter 1990 term at the Delbarton School in Morristown. He is in the eighth grade at the school.

Eric Gruszecki, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jozef Gruszecki of Springfield, has been named a finalist in the 1990 National Merit Scholarship Program, according to an announcement made by Brother Michael Mullin, F.M.S., principal of Roselle Catholic High School in Roselle.

He is a senior student at Roselle Catholic.

This accomplishment places Gruszecki in a group representing less than half of one percent of American high school seniors. He is now among those being considered for one of 1,800 National Merit Scholarships.

Approximately 4,300 other Merit Scholarships will be offered to finalists who meet criteria set by corporate sponsors and by colleges and universities that participate as sponsors in the National Merit Program.

BUENO! — These students, from left, Michelle Rozan, Gina Millin and Shari Handler, were among those youngsters from Florence M. Gaudineer School in Springfield who recently participated in a competition at Drew University's Spanish Day. The team made the finals in the vocabulary section.

Students to govern

"Youth in Government Day" will be held in Kenilworth on Tuesday, May 22. The winners of the "Youth in Government" essays who were selected by the faculty members of Harding and St. Theresa's schools in Kenilworth will act as honorary municipal officials and will preside at the regular Borough Council meeting.

The selection of the officials was done by a drawing at Borough Clerk Margaret Adler's office.

The 13 winners will be treated to a luncheon and a presentation of the new products of Schering-Plough at Galloping Hill Road in Kenilworth, along with a tour of municipal offices.

Representation will be as follows: Doris Cooper, mayor; Frank Krazec, council president — fire, rec., ecology; Ida Comerci, council member — finance; Lisa Barr, council member — planning, zoning, ordinances; Edward Sudnik, council member — public safety; Stephanie Kovac, council member — public works; Lynn Kelly, council member — Health, Education and Welfare; Rachael Hutchens, borough attorney; Kurt Conrad, magistrate; Monali Patel, police chief; Ariela Borgia, fire chief; Christopher Toma, borough clerk and Susanne Dorst, tax collector.

The magistrate and borough attorney will also partake in municipal court on Monday evening, May 21. Parents, teachers, classmates, friends and relatives are welcome to attend.

Dayton play announced

The Student Theatrical Group of Jonathan Dayton Regional High School in Springfield will present "Director's Copy," an original play by Dayton senior Joshua D. Brinen, tomorrow, May 18, at 8 p.m. in the school's Halsey Hall auditorium.

Jonathan Dayton students Brinen, Jen Arthur, Dana Williams and Ryan Arthur headline the cast for "Director's Copy." Also featured in this student production will be Florence M. Gaudineer School eight-graders Aaron Brinen and Amy Foley. Jonathan Dayton freshman Chris Treglio is the assistant director of the production.

Tickets for the show cost $2, and may be purchased at the door on the night of the performance. For more information, one can call Jonathan Dayton at 376-6300.

Spring concert is slated

Our Lady of Lourdes School in Mountainside will present its annual spring concert on Wednesday, May 23, at 7 p.m. in the school auditorium, located on Central Avenue and School Drive in Mountainside.

These songs include "I Got Rhythm," "Someone To Watch Over Me," "Let's Call the Whole Thing Off," and "Summertime."

The entire student body will participate in the concert, from pre-kindergarten through grade 8. In addition to songs performed by each grade, there will be duets, small ensembles and the Boys and Girls Chorus.

All are invited to attend. For further information, one can call the school office at 233-1777.

Fishing derby planned

The East Central District Elks and the Union County Department of Parks and Recreation have scheduled their annual Fishing Derby for Handicapped Persons on Saturday, May 19, from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Handicapped persons of all ages are invited to come and enjoy a day of fishing and outdoor fun, rain or shine, at the Lower Lake area of Echo Lake Park in Mountainside.

Lunch, prizes and fishing equipment will be provided for all pre-registered participants.

For further information, one can call the Department of Parks and Recreation at 527-4930.

Golf benefit scheduled

The Greater Eastern County Board of Realtors will hold a golf tournament Monday, May 21, at the Shackamaxon Golf and Country Club in Scotch Plains to benefit Children's Specialized Hospital in Mountainside.

"Children's Specialized Hospital appreciates the on-going support of this county-wide group, and is honored to be participating with the Board of Realtors in the golf tournament," commented Phil Salerno, director of development for the hospital's foundation.

The cost of the event is $135 and includes brunch, carts and dinner. The fee for those wishing to attend the dinner portion only is $55 and includes a pre-dinner fun-putting contest.

For registration and tee-off times, one can call Donna Gnapp at 245-3155.

Child seeks Guinness spot

The Children's Wish Foundation of Atlanta, Ga., is asking area residents to help make a wish come true for Craig Shergold, a terminally-ill youngster seeking to earn a place in the Guinness Book of World Records for receiving the most get well cards.

Anyone interested in sending a card should address it to Craig Shergold, c/o the Children's Wish Foundation, 32 Perimeter Center East, Atlanta, Ga., 30346-1202.

Springfield pupils tour compost site

Students from James Caldwell and Florence M. Gaudineer schools in Springfield recently toured the Union County Leaf Compost Facility at the Houdaille Quarry in Springfield, where they learned about the county's leaf compost program.

"This is a great opportunity for our youngsters to understand the natural process by which leaves decay," stated Union County Freeholder Chairman Gerald Green. "Through education in our schools and by tours like this, they will come away with a better understanding of our environment."

The tour took place because of a letter sent to Springfield Mayor Philip Kurnos from Leah Demberger and Chris Behar, fourth-grade students at James Caldwell School. They sought an interview and a tour of the facility for a project they were doing on the environment.

Kurnos contacted Pat White, director of the Union County Department of Public Works, and the tour was set up. Kurnos figured more students should see the facility, so he contacted the eighth-grade class at Gaudineer Middle School.

Almost 10 students, some parents, Acting Union County Manager Ann Baran and Springfield Deputy Mayor

Marc Marshall toured the facility in a mini-bus and a van.

The composting facility serves 15 of the county's 21 municipalities and over 80,000 cubic yards of leaves were brought there during the 1989 season, according to White.

The municipalities and then the county can use the compost for fertilizer, and what is left is sold, said White.

"This is another example of recycling available resources," he added. "Materials once used to fill landfills can now enhance the capabilities of your garden."

Deerfield carnival on tap

LOWER BACK PROBLEM

If you've been treated for lower back problem and the pain and discomfort are still there, you may be able to benefit from chiropractic treatment.

If your spine is out of alignment, this may be causing other problems in addition to lower back pain. Because the body's nervous system is closely integrated with the spine, any misalignment can cause painful irritation. Abnormal nerve function may affect whatever organs, glands, or tissues that are supplied by that nerve.

The nerves of the lower back, for example, are connected to certain organs and other structures in that area. If lower back spinal misalignment is putting undue pressure on the nerves, you may be suffering from more than lower back pain. It may be having a direct effect on other areas of your body.

A thorough examination can disclose exactly where the problem is and how it can be corrected.

AAA offers driving tips to seniors

During May, the AAA New Jersey Automobile Club celebrates Older Americans Month by offering flexibility tips that can help older drivers maintain or improve their driving skills.

"Do you have trouble backing your car or checking your car's blind spot? Are you often tired or tense while driving? While age isn't a determining factor in a person's ability to drive, the physical changes that come with age—like reduced flexibility—affect our driving skills," said Paul Kielblock, the Club's safety manager and an older driver. "In addition to walking, swimming, and other activities, we can improve our health and flexibility by regularly performing several simple stretches."

Although these stretches can be performed while driving, AAA's Kielblock strongly recommends putting your car in park or pulling to the side of the road:

- Slowly turn your head as far as possible to each side. Do this about ten times. Then try to touch your ear to your shoulder several times. Flexible neck muscles help you turn your head further when scanning your car's blind spot;

- You can stretch the muscles in your torso by turning the upper half of your body as far as possible to each side while seated. This exercise relieves tension and aids in your ability to turn and look when changing lanes or backing;

- Roll your head forward until your chin touches your chest and then backward as far as possible. Do this several times. Then try keeping your eyes level while pushing your head forward and back slowly, like a pigeon or duck when it walks. These exercises help ease tension in your neck;

- To relieve fatigue in your shoulders and upper back, pull your shoulders forward toward your chest and then push them back and together. Do this about ten times;

- Before leaving your home, try the following exercise several times: lie on your stomach on the floor placing your palms under your shoulders. Push your chest off the floor to stretch your back. This prevents tense back muscles and aids in your ability to turn and look when changing lanes or backing.

These exercises improve flexibility and are quick and simple tension relievers for anyone who drives. To request a free "flexibility tip" pamphlet for older drivers, send a self-addressed stamped, business-size envelope to: Older Drivers Pamphlet, AAA New Jersey Automobile Club, 1 Hanover Road, Florham Park, NJ 07932.

Senior hotline will provide legal answers

Assemblyman Neil M. Cohen, D-Union, announced today that the New Jersey Department of Community Affairs', Division on Aging, and the New Jersey State Bar Association will be co-sponsoring a toll-free telephone hotline on Thursday, May 24, to answer basic legal questions from senior citizens.

"I hope all the senior citizens in Union County who have questions about their legal standing in a certain situation, or who just want to know what their legal rights are concerning pensions, wills, Social Security and other matters, will take full advantage of this opportunity to have their questions answered," Assemblyman Cohen said.

The hotline, 1-800-792-8820, will be manned by attorneys from the State Bar Association's Aging and the Law Committee from 11 a.m. to 7 p.m. on May 24, which has been dubbed "Senior Law Day."

Ex-politician is now writer by profession

By BEA SMITH

From the Army Air Corps in World War II, to half-a-lifetime of employment with Exxon in Linden, to municipal and county offices in Roselle Park, to novelist and poet, Robert Arthur Lehr of Roselle Park says he has no regrets. He has enjoyed every phase of his life, and now, in retirement, he has decided to delve deep into the literary world.

More than two years ago, he completed a weird and wacky novel called "Anything Grows in Brooklyn," which he had published by Vantage Press Inc. of New York City. It was written from yellowed notes and dog-eared diaries that he had compiled during his war years. He is now at work on the history of the Metropolitan Opera, and he also is gathering many of his poems and plans to compile them into a published book.

An ever-smiling, jovial, former politician, Lehr explains, during a recent chat, how a man who has lived most of his life in New Jersey can write so knowingly of Brooklyn.

"My grandparents came from Brooklyn," says Lehr. They were Andrew and Anna Chesney. They came to Elizabeth with the Singer Manufacturing Co. My mother, who also was the former Anna Chesney, used to tell my sisters, my brother and me all about Brooklyn, so much that I really believed I knew the city. During the Second World War, I met fellows in the service who came from Brooklyn. They said they never wanted to leave it. And what else inspired me was the book 'A Tree Grows in Brooklyn.'"

It all stemmed from World War II, according to Lehr. "You see," he says, "during service when I was overseas, I started to keep diaries. I was stationed in the Philippines as a flight controller in the 5th Air Force. I had spare time and I kept a sort of a diary. "We were the first Air Force troops into Manila, and we helped to clean up the streets of Manila, which had been bombed. We were at Clark Air Force Base, and we helped to straighten out the runways so the planes could land. We made way for advanced ground troops. And we helped to bury some dead Japanese people," Lehr shudders.

"I was honorably discharged on Feb. 12, 1946. Then I had to settle down working at Exxon Bayway Refinery in Linden."

Lehr, who was born in Elizabeth, says he moved to Roselle Park in 1918 at the age of 2. "And I've lived there ever since...in different homes, of course," he grins, "but always in Roselle Park."

He has seen many changes in his hometown through the years. "There were streetcars back then," Lehr recalls, "and horses and wagons. I grew up not just in Roselle Park but with Roselle Park. Homes were illuminated by gas and heated by coal. Meanwhile, I attended and was graduated from Sherman Public School and Roselle Park High School and Union County College, which at that time was situated in Roselle in the old Abraham Clark High School. It was occupied at night by UCC before it went to Cranford," recalls Lehr.

"After I attended UCC for two years, I went to work at Exxon, where I had a 32-year career as an accountant.

"I also became active in Roselle Park politics," he says. "I was a councilman for nine years, from 1949 to 1954. And from 1954 to 1960, I served as county coroner. I went back in 1961 as Roselle Park councilman and served until 1963. I was a part-time evening politician," he muses.

Lehr says he watched the expansion of practically everything after the war...from war economy to peacetime economy. There was the great school expansion, and radio had advanced, and computers started to come in. New homes were being built in Roselle Park, and servicemen came home and started their families and Roselle Park grew...just like all the other towns in Union County...in the state...in the country!"

Lehr sighs. "There was an expanded population. Old homes were torn down and large building complexes went up. All East Westfield Avenue became large apartments. I was on the council then. I was finance chairman in Roselle Park and was involved in taxes and properties. We converted from a community of single families to multiple housing."

He was active in civic and political affairs all during the time he worked for Exxon. "Exxon encouraged their employees to become civic minded," he recalls. "And all during this time, I served as commander of the Roselle Park American Legion and was a member of the VFW of Roselle Park. I'm also a life member and chaplain of the Disabled American Veterans in Elizabeth. My disability was hypertension and mental strain as a result of the war. I lead the prayers. We are a religious veterans organization."

Although Lehr has been retired from Exxon for the past 12 years, he still keeps in touch as president of Exxon Annuity Club of Eastern Union County. He also is president of the Rotary Associates of Roselle Park. "I am now vice president of the Roselle Park Community Senior Citizens and also a member of St. Paul's Lutheran Evangelical Church of Elizabeth.

"And of course, I'm president of the Roselle Park Historical Society."

"Actually," Lehr says, "I didn't do anything about the book until an incident occurred in 1978. I came across my old, faded yellow notes and diaries. And I was unaccustomed to a lack of activities," he laughs. "I'm used to a 12-hour day. So, I went to Brooklyn to research some of the streets. I loved Brooklyn then, and I love it now. I like to walk the streets and talk to the people."

"I have a natural sense of humor," he grins. "So, I began compiling my notes and writing my novel. All the 'Joes' in the book come from the G.I. Joes I met in the service. It took about a year from the time I sat down to write it until the time I submitted it to the publisher. Of course, I made several trips back and forth for corrections."

Lehr also has been taking time out to travel. "I've been traveling extensively," he says. "I've been to all 50 states and every continent except the Antarctic."

"Right now, I'm determined to become a successful writer," Lehr declares. "I belong to the Book of the Month Club and also subscribe to Forbes Magazine and Reader's Digest. I'm writing many poems, and I've received some prizes for my poems. I'm hoping to publish my poems in a book.

"I'm also working on the history of the Metropolitan Opera House in New York. It's going to take a lot of research."

"But believe me when I say I'm all set," he laughs. "I have a workshop in the basement of my house...with bookcases. It even has a fireplace."

Now, with all the tools of his trade at his disposal, Lehr is comfortably ready to make his new literary career a definite reality.

Weird and funny

By BEA SMITH

Robert Arthur Lehr of Roselle Park has combined slapstick comedy, science fiction and wacky characters right out of Damon Runyon in his book "Anything Grows in Brooklyn." Lehr, a former Roselle Park councilman, has an exceptionally funny sense of humor and a weird sense of what Brooklyn and Brooklynites were like back in the 1940s.

Now in his retirement years, Lehr has decided to become a writer and historian. After hearing all the stories members of his family told him about their lives in Brooklyn, and the tales from his Army buddies during World War II, this budding writer put them all in a book and had the book published by Vantage Press Inc.

Actually, the tales told by Lehr's buddies originally were jotted down in diaries and on notepaper, and about 10 years ago were brought out, deciphered and compiled in one of the funniest, craziest books this reviewer has ever read.

In "Anything Grows in Brooklyn," Lehr calls most of his characters "Joe," which, he says, was derived from "GI Joe." Even the parakeet and the goldfish are named Joe.

The story is set in a place called Brooklyn during World War II. Because of the housing shortage, a kind-hearted, pregnant young woman named Josie, whose sailor boyfriend is away but about to return, has allowed two unworlly and naive musicians, Big Joe and Little Joe, to borrow her apartment. What happens after that to the temporary residents, all the Joes in the book, including the parakeet and the goldfish, and all the neighbors, the police and the politicians, a reviewer dares not reveal. By accident, the musicians even manage to grow a crop of corn in the carpeted living room of Josie's apartment. And everyone gorges himself on corn on the cob, hot from the pot, dripping gobs of butter.

on the shelf

"Anything Grows in Brooklyn" is a sort of tongue-in-cheek, fun-poking view of the old Brooklyn. It has impossible characters and even more impossible situations, some sexy, some strange, and some innocent. Reading the book is like taking a ride on the roller coaster in Coney Island for the first time. It's fun, but it kind of knocks the wind out of a person.

"Anything Grows in Brooklyn" is not the classic that "A Tree Grows in Brooklyn" was, and Robert Arthur Lehr is not quite in a class with Betty Smith, but still, it's a fun trip to nowhere...not even Brooklyn anymore...and who turns down a little fun and a whole lot of laughter?

Let us build

Since April 6 the state has been bound by Governor Florio's Executive Order 8. This order imposes a moratorium of 120 days on the further construction of county-based solid waste incinerators.

The directive appoints a "task force" to study the trash situation and to consider, principally, two things: ways to reduce the volume of the waste stream by recycling, and the feasibility of regionalizing certain incinerators. By regionalization the governor means that if, for example, Warren and Sussex counties are found to produce an amount of solid waste that does not call for an incinerator in each county, then perhaps one incinerator servicing both counties — or three or four counties, as the case may be — can do the job.

As far as Florio is serious about dealing with our gargantuan garbage dilemma in a rational, economical and environmentally-sound fashion it is difficult to fault him. However, in Union County something else must be considered.

Through the Union County Utilities Authority, the county has already displayed a commitment to rationality, economy and environmental sanity in going through the long, complicated and costly process of obtaining permits for a solid waste incinerator in Rahway. The governor's executive order has stalled this process. The moratorium may stymie the county for no good reason and at great expense to residents.

With landfills closed and the incinerator not yet built each of the county's 21 municipalities must pay approximately $140 per ton to have the trash trucked out of the state. This, according to the UCUA's Executive Director Joseph Kazar, amounts to about $54 million in costs per year. Kazar estimates that having an operative incinerator would cut that yearly total by $20 million.

The Union County Economic Development Corporation — a private, non-profit organization that has been designated by the Board of Freeholders as the official economic development arm of the county — estimates that it costs the county taxpayers more than $100,000 per day for each day that the Rahway incinerator is not burning trash. The UCEDC also notes, in a recent letter sent to Florio, that more than $16 million has already been spent by the UCUA on planning and permits for the Rahway plant.

The DEP has already granted the necessary environmental permit for construction. The UCUA needs only a few more financial and contractual permits to move to groundbreaking.

In other words the Rahway incinerator has been judged to be environmentally safe. Also, its location and construction, according to a 1985 non-binding referendum, has been approved by the citizens of Rahway. Furthermore, the question of regionalization does not — or, at any rate, should not — apply to Union County.

The Rahway incinerator — to be located on a 23-acre site off the northbound lane of U.S. Route 1 — is already designed as a large facility and leaves very little space for expansion. Even in the unlikely event that the state forced regionalization on Union County and, thus, mandated an enlargement of the Rahway facility, the new round of planning and permits which would then ensue, with all the additional costs, would soon negate any marginal savings that such a regionalization might mistakenly promise.

As for recycling, we are in favor of removing whatever we reasonably can from the waste stream. We should go forward with any sound plans for recycling additional items. But we, as a people, are nowhere near recycling the bulk of our garbage. The incinerator will give us a chance to remove both the garbage and a significant portion of the enormous tax burden of county residents.

There is no rational substitute for the Rahway incinerator. We therefore agree with the UCEDC that, although the moratorium is in effect, the harm it might do can be averted if, during this 120 days of non-issuance of permits, the state government will allow the review process of state regulatory agencies to go forward. If this were allowed very little time would be lost. If, however, the regulatory agencies postpone reviews during the moratorium then much time, very costly time, will be lost indeed.

So far, Trenton will neither confirm nor deny whether the review process will go forward during the ban.

We join with the UCEDC in urging the governor to allow the review process and to do all else he can to allow the Rahway facility to be constructed as soon as possible. We also urge all Union County's members of the state legislature and anyone else who can turn an ear in Trenton to intercede with the governor on behalf of the people and in the name of common sense.

letters to the editor

Grateful for man of music

My husband and I would like to express our sincere thanks to Paul Krauss, director of the "Music Man," for his many hours of dedication and hard work on the production of this year's school play.

Krauss' very special talents have brought together an entire community in a most extraordinary way. He has provided young and old, participant and spectator, with a truly enriching experience, and wonderful memories that will last a lifetime.

Krauss and the Krauss family will always be warmly regarded by Deerfield School and the residents of Mountside.

Thanks, once again, for bringing "The Music Man" to our town.

ROBERT KUPERMAN
Bayberry Lane

And further bravos

Strike up those seventy-six trombones for the dedicated students, staff, and community members who participated so enthusiastically in Deerfield's rendition of "Music Man."

The spirit of shared enthusiasm and community that was generated throughout the production was exciting and rewarding for all. Special thanks to director, Paul Krauss and his assistant director, Libby Leadbeater for such a professional production and the Mountside Board of Education and Superintendent, Leonard J. Baccaro for their financial and moral support!

All letters must include a written signature, a complete address and a phone number where the writer may be reached during daytime hours, for verification purposes.

This newspaper reserves the right to edit or reject letters and to publish only one letter from any one person within any four-week period.

State we're in

Let us not build in the wetlands

By DAVID F. MOORE

Is there a long-standing quirk in our society's system of law which only now has surfaced, indicating a knee-jerk favoritism for development over preservation of environmentally precious wetland areas? The question arises to me and others through action of the New Jersey Supreme Court, which we think may illustrate such a subconscious stance.

If so, it has surfaced because of the near-arrival of the day when every bit of open space is spoken for, and it surely favors short-term private gain over the long-term public interest. This thought follows the Supreme Court's April 9 decision on a case involving the state Freshwater Wetlands Protection Act.

The New Jersey Audubon Society and my organization, the New Jersey Conservation Foundation, contested rules created by the state Department of Environmental Protection (DEP) to activate the wetlands law.

There were three points of disagreement. One was settled by negotiation. A second point, on which there were ambiguous words in the law, was settled by the lower court, the Appellate Division, and conservationists decided the decision was acceptable even though we disagreed with it.

The third point was decided in our favor by the Appellate Division, but the New Jersey Builders Association opposed the ruling because it would sharply limit construction in wetland areas.

In an unusual move, the Supreme Court allowed the builders to appeal the lower court ruling, even though they were not involved in the original suit and the state had agreed not to appeal the decision in which it "lost." As a demonstration of the dominance of construction and building interests in this state we're in, this situation can't be beat.

The question admittedly is complex. Under the law, wetlands — areas harboring vegetation at home in soils saturated with enough water to create low-oxygen conditions — could not be filled, drained or altered in any way without DEP permits.

The state was given a year from July 1, 1987 (when the law was passed) to prepare rules and staff to enforce the Act, so developers who wanted to beat the deadline thus had that year to submit development applications and gain local approval for them. Nearly 1,000 such applications were indeed approved prior to July 1, 1988, when the Act went into effect.

Protective fringe areas buffering wetlands were to be regulated too. The Act said that the same cutoff date for long-term exemptions should apply for these drier land strips alongside wetlands, but that the state DEP should be given another year (until July 1, 1989) to prepare regulations for the buffers, or transition areas, as they are called in the Act.

The DEP, not under any mandate to do so, decided to interpret the effective date of the Act in a peculiar way, giving builders until July 1, 1989, to gain local approvals for buffer areas. That's what the builders wanted — another year to lock in plans that compromise natural resources — and that's what the Supreme Court just gave them, by overturning the Appellate Court decision.

The court said it wasn't fair to developers for the DEP to take the extra year to publish regulations for buffer areas, and therefore it couldn't have been what the legislators wanted in the first place. The justices used an internal legislative committee memo, rather than the law itself, to provide the basis for that extra year. Finally, the court gave the legislature 30 days to make the wetlands law clearer before the DEP's regulations become the law.

As of this writing, that extra 30-day period for legislative clarification was about up, and Sen. John Lynch of Middlesex County had withdrawn a bill making the same changes the Supreme Court made.

Such is the nature of the word compromise, with its two meanings: the compromise of the public interest in natural resources with resource destruction always results in the compromising of Mother Nature.

Moore is executive director of New Jersey Conservation Foundation, a private, non-profit organization.

Money management

Ways to wisely use a tax return

The New Jersey Society of CPAs urges you to remember that a tax refund is not found money — and most certainly not an open invitation to spend recklessly. Used properly, a tax refund can go a long way toward improving one's financial fitness.

Pay off a credit card bill: Take a look at your credit card balances. If you have outstanding debt, one of the smartest moves you can make is to use your refund to pay off all or part of your credit card bills. For instance, if you owe approximately $1,600 in debt and pay 19 percent interest, that level of debt can cost up to $304 a year. To make matters worse, only 10 percent of the interest, or $30.40, is tax deductible in 1990.

Build on it: If you have already cut your credit card bills, it's time to start saving. But don't settle for an account paying six to seven percent interest. At those rates, you will barely keep up with inflation. Instead, shop for an investment that offers the best yield — and the best match for your risk tolerance. With $1,000, you can begin investing in many all-weather, no-load mutual funds. For a more secure return, consider investing in a certificate of deposit with an effective annual yield of at least eight percent (depending on maturity).

Start a college fund: A tax refund can also be small but significant toward building a college fund for your newborn. For example, you can purchase U.S. Series EE Savings Bonds for a modest sum. As an added bonus, any interest earned on EE Savings Bonds purchased after 1989 will generally be tax-free if you redeem the bonds to finance your child's educational expenses, including tuition and other required fees. However, bear in mind that the break is phased out for joint filers with an adjusted gross income (AGI) of $60,000 to $90,000 and for single filers with an AGI of $40,000 to $55,000.

Make a contribution to an IRA: Individual Retirement Accounts (IRAs) are alive and well — and may be just the place to stash your tax refund. By contributing to an IRA, you can fortify your retirement nest egg. In addition, you may still be able to deduct the contribution on your 1990 tax return if you (and your spouse) do not actively participate in an employer-sponsored retirement plan. If you are covered by a retirement plan at your job, all is not lost. Single taxpayers with an adjusted gross income (AGI) of $25,000 or less may continue to deduct up to $2,000 for an IRA. Likewise, married taxpayers with an AGI of $40,000 or less can still deduct up to $4,000 if both spouses work and each earns at least $2,000. A partial deduction is allowed for single taxpayers with an AGI between $25,000 and $35,000 and married couples with an AGI between $40,000 and $50,000.

Build an emergency fund: Finally, your tax refund can be your first step to building an emergency fund which can minimize the financial devastation of an unexpected emergency, such as an extended illness or lost job. CPAs recommend that you have savings equal to at least six months of living expenses.

Whatever you decide to do with your tax refund, remember that the money you are spending is money you earned by working long, hard hours.

Spend it or invest it the same way you would any other hard-earned income — with care and intelligence.

Congressman tries to shield Social Security funds

In introducing legislation to protect Social Security beneficiaries from Federal income taxes, Rep. Matthew J. Rinaldo (R-NJ) said today that over a quarter of a million individuals each year are forced to pay higher taxes because the law doesn't protect them from inflation.

Under the 1983 Social Security Amendments, up to one-half of an individual's benefits are subject to Federal income tax once adjusted gross income (AGI) exceeds a certain amount. The threshold for a single person is $25,000 and for couples it is $32,000. Those figures have not changed since the law was enacted; the Rinaldo bill would index the AGI levels to inflation.

Rinaldo, the top ranked Republican on the House Committee on Aging, pointed out that he had strongly opposed taxation of benefits when it came to the House floor in 1983 and has since defended the Social Security program from being used as a "cash cow" to help bring down the budget deficit.

"Unfortunately, there isn't enough support to repeal the tax on benefits," he said, "but I think my legislation strikes the middle ground and is a matter of simple fairness to retired and disabled individuals."

He pointed out that the Social Security trust fund is in excellent financial shape and is predicted to be able to fully meet expenditures for the next several decades.

Of the 39 million people receiving Social Security benefits, 62 percent are retired workers and 7 percent are disabled. Rinaldo pointed out that the annual cost of living adjustment has been partially offset by increases in the monthly Medicare premiums deducted directly from their checks. The 4.7 percent benefit increase in January boosted the average retired worker's pension by $25 a month.

Rinaldo explained that indexing the taxable income levels to the inflation rate was discussed in 1983, but the House and Senate were under a deadline to bail-out the Social Security system and the bipartisan leadership in Congress and the White House opposed any amendments to the plan, which had been developed by the Greenspan Commission.

Even with annual cost-of-living adjustments, Rinaldo said that the real value of incomes for senior citizens has eroded by 20 percent since the 1983 Social Security Reform Act. "Each year the tax thresholds are not adjusted for inflation," Rinaldo said, "and more people find themselves paying back more of their Social Security benefits. In effect, the government is giving them a modest boost with one hand and taking it back with the other."

He added that the taxes on Social Security income were aimed at wealthy people but that each year they are biting deeper into the middle class.

"An elderly person with $25,000 a year in total income from pensions and Social Security is lucky to break even and be able to pay New Jersey's high property taxes, the sales tax and health insurance premiums. They cannot be considered rich by any means, and it makes no sense to require them to pay back the cost-of-living adjustment in the form of a tax," Rinaldo said.

Tennis class open

The Union County Board of Chosen Freeholders has announced that there is still space available in tennis classes for handicapped persons being sponsored by the Union County Department of Parks and Recreation and the Association of Retarded Citizens of Union County. All handicapped persons ages 6 and up are invited to attend.

Cedar Brook Park, Plainfield will be the site of the program. All classes will be outdoors on Fridays. The dates are June 8, 15, 22 and 29. Two time slots are available, 3—4 p.m. or 4—5 p.m. Individuals may register for their chosen time slot but assignments will depend upon availability.

Information and materials are available by calling the Department of Parks and Recreation at 527-4930. The registration deadline is May 23.

University seeking diabetics and anemics for eye research

Diabetics and sickle cell anemia patients are needed by the University of Medicine and Dentistry of New Jersey (UMDNJ) for research to identify early indicators for an eye condition that can lead to blindness.

Eye researchers in the Department of Ophthalmology at the UMDNJ-New Jersey Medical School in Newark will attempt to create a profile of those most likely to develop severe retinopathy, an eye condition that often leads to blindness in diabetics and sickle cell patients.

All patients will undergo a comprehensive 90-minute eye exam to search for early indicators of vision problems.

"We want to determine what health factors are present in patients who will eventually develop severe cases of retinopathy," said Dr. Monique Roy, assistant professor of ophthalmology at the UMDNJ-New Jersey Medical School. "From there, we can be developing preventive measures to stop the condition early on."

Retinopathy, which affects most diabetics and sickle cell patients in some form, is a disorder of the retina, the membrane that lines the inside of the eye. The condition involves bleeding of the retinal blood vessels.

Most of the time, retinal changes have little effect on vision. But in 15 to 20 percent of the cases, vision loss results when either the changes occur in the center of the retina or when abnormal blood vessels form.

Laser surgery is used to stop the bleeding of existing vessels and slowing the growth of new ones. However, it is not effective in all patients.

Patients in the study who show early signs of retinopathy will undergo three eye tests and blood tests. They are:

- An examination using a "vitreous fluorophotometer" to assess retinal damage and the amount of leakage from the retinal blood vessels;
- A color vision test, in which patients place small colored chips in order according to color. Retinal damage can be judged from the misplacement of chips;
- An electroretinography test, in which lights of different colors and intensities are shined into the eye while a computer records how well the retina transmits light to the brain.

Patients will be followed by yearly eye examinations.

In addition, participants will receive blood tests to determine insulin dependency and to obtain genetic information. Other health factors such as blood pressure, body weight and diet will also be assessed. These factors are important, Dr. Roy explained, because they all can be controlled through lifestyle changes or medication.

"None of these eye tests is uncommon in the evaluation of retinopathy," said Dr. Roy. "But the information we are seeking — the common factors among patients with advancing eye conditions — could point the way to earlier diagnosis and blindness prevention."

For more information about the diabetes study, call 268-8036 between 9 a.m. and 4 p.m. For information on the sickle cell study, call 456-6230 during the same hours.

History group will honor students

The Union County Historical Society will presents its 1990 memorial awards for excellence in studying social studies to six high school seniors Sunday, June 3, at the Abraham Clark House, West Ninth Avenue in Roselle.

The winners are: Cynthia Brennan, Union Catholic Regional High School, Scotch Plains; Kyle Williams, Plainfield High School; Christine Lavornia, Governor Livingston High School, Berkeley Heights; Theresa Di Maio of Roselle Park High School; Donald McGuire of Cranford High School, and Jonathan Petersen from the Vail-Deane School in Mountainside.

This year's presentation concludes the presentation of memorial awards to students. Each year five schools are selected for the annual awards which include a plaque and a monetary gift.

The awards are given in memory of trustees of the society who have died. They will be presented by Michael Yesenko of Union and Thomas D. Quinn of Spring Lake, co-chairmen of the event, of Elizabeth with Charles L. Aquilina of Roselle. The group will be welcomed by Stephanie E. Laucius Roselle and Charles Shallcross of Elizabeth will lead the pledge of allegiance to the flag. Sidney Olson will give the invocation.

Bassano's bill will foster Lyme disease prevention

A bill that would provide legislative authority to the Department of Health's Division of Community Health Services Lyme Disease Prevention Program was released from the Senate Institutions, Health and Welfare Committee today.

According to the sponsor of the bill, Senator C. Louis Bassano, R-Union, the legislation makes the creation of the Lyme disease program written into state law.

"The Department of Health already set up a program that addresses the problem of Lyme disease. However, without my legislation, the agency could decide at any time to cancel the program. I think Lyme disease is a much too serious health issue to take that chance. My bill would provide the people of New Jersey with a guarantee written in law that the state will continue Lyme disease education and prevention efforts," Senator Bassano said.

Lyme disease is contracted from the bite of tiny deer ticks, that are often the size of a pin head. If left untreated, it can result in neurological disorders and severe arthritis in its advanced stages.

Senator Bassano's bill authorizes the testing, treatment, education and prevention of Lyme disease within the Division of Community Health Services.

The Commissioner of Health would be required to report to the Governor and the Legislature every year on the effectiveness of the Lyme Disease Prevention and Control Program throughout the state.

"Lyme disease was first identified in this state in Monmouth County in 1978. Since then, cases have been reported in municipalities all over New Jersey. One of the reasons why a Lyme disease program is so vital is that the condition is often misdiagnosed. There are a variety of symptoms and each victim reacts differently to the bacteria that is injected into the skin by the tick bite. The longer a person remains untreated, the worse the condition becomes. Lyme disease is also thought to cause birth defects," Senator Bassano said.

Lyme Disease is the most common tick-borne illness in the United States and New Jersey is one of the states in which the disease is most prevalent. About 90 percent of the reported cases of Lyme disease nationally having occurred in New Jersey, Connecticut, Massachusetts, Minnesota, New York, Rhode Island and Wisconsin.

The bill now goes to the full Senate for a vote.

National Sight Saving Month focuses on protective glasses

Nearly one million Americans have a vision impairment due to an eye injury according to Jordan Burke, MD, FACS, ophthalmologist at the Suburban Eye Institute, who calls for increased public awareness about preserving sight during May, National Sight Saving Month.

"Appropriate use of eyewear and taking eye safety precautions will help to prevent eye damage," says Dr. Burke, a board certified ophthalmologist. The National Society to Prevent Blindness suggests wearing protective face masks or goggles when participating in sports, wearing safety glasses when working around the yard or at the work bench and regularly visiting an eye care specialist to have eyes examined and vision tested.

"Parents should be especially aware that nearly half of all eye injuries occur in the home," warns the physician. "The chief culprits in household eye accidents are the chemicals contained in many cleaning products." He suggests that if eye contact occurs, immediately flood the eye with water and continue for at least 15 minutes. Then see a doctor.

Another area where eye safety is crucial is on the game field. "Baseball injuries are the most frequent, accounting for 20 percent in the 5 to 14 year old age group," says Dr. Burke. The ophthalmologist advises sports enthusiasts of all ages to wear protective eye-glasses/goggles to prevent eye injury.

He also recommends special eye safety precautions in the work place. "Every day an estimated 3,500 eye injuries occur in industry. With the proper precautions, eye injuries and loss of sight can be avoided in most cases."

horoscope

For week of May 20-May 26

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) You are a "steady-Freddy" for friends in need. Do not forget to pamper yourself, though. Career takes a backseat. Break out the toys — it is playtime. Enjoy.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) Set domestic worries aside. Read a book, get a backrub, try vigorous exercise. Love will happen only if you let it happen. Expect a surprise gift to come your way.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) Why are you bored again? Not enough fingers in everyone's pie? Take it one step at a time. A jack-of-all-trades mentality limits this week. Concentrate.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) You are unusually perky. Become the center of attention. Throw an offbeat dinner party. Call old friends. Chicken Littles will give you a laugh this week.

LEO (July 23 to Aug. 22) Whoa — who turned up the heat? Your fire burns this week. Unkitt those furrowed brows. Penetrate the scene with gentle humor. Roaring lions will limit their options.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 to Sept. 22) Career concerns become a heart on your sleeve. Friends want to help in this situation, so let them. Sometimes two steps prepare you for the big leap forward. Take pals into dinner — on them.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) There you go again — never satisfied. Plan a short trip and relax. Do not bring a mate, though. This holiday away is just for you. You need it. A chance meeting may mean money.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Someone is playing games with you. Become a detective. Legal affairs will dominate, but be sure that you read the fine print. Postpone those major purchases. Show your mettle through dynamic action.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Why are you not being understood this week? Folks around you just are not listening, that's why. Let it roll off your back. Hard work will pay big dividends. Indulge yourself.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 19) What you have been looking for is looking for you. The connection is only a matter of time. Use your sixth sense. Avoid laziness or self-doubt.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 to Feb. 18) Make your money the old-fashioned way — earn it. Buckle down and get back to business. Avoid those flights of fancy. Record your dreams. An inadvertent warning becomes a godsend.

PISCES (Feb. 19 to March 20) Cultivate faith. Listen intently; someone says "There is no limit to how far you can go." The quickest route between two points is a straight line. Do not hesitate.

Original art

A show featuring original artwork by Union County College students is being held at 8 p.m. through May 31 at the Tomasulo Gallery on the college's Cranford campus.

Drawings, paintings, illustrations, and graphic designs are on view as professional judges rank works prepared by students enrolled during the current academic year in the college's art classes only.

The show is co-sponsored by the college's Art Society, it was announced by Professor Antony Nicoli, art gallery director.

For further information one can call 709-7155.

Unionite is selected

Five original, one-act plays by New Jersey teen-agers have been selected as winners by the New Jersey Young Playwrights Festival Committee. The winning plays will be awarded a professionally staged reading before an anxiously awaiting public of peers and professionals at the State Theater, New Brunswick, today at 10 a.m. The winners were selected by the committee of theater professionals from American Stage Co., South Jersey Regional Theater, Paper Mill Playhouse, Loaves and Fish Theater Company, Foundation Theater, Passage Theater, McCarter Theater, George Street Playhouse and the New Jersey Theater Group.

From Union County, Winifred P. Phillips, 17, of Union, who attends Union High School, will be honored for her play, "Waiting for the Ride."

About 200 one-act plays written by New Jersey teens, 13-19, were submitted in this year's competition, according to Julia Craven and Jim Peskin, co-ordinators of the New Jersey Young Playwrights Program and staff members at Playwrights Theater of New Jersey.

The Young Playwrights Festival, a project of the New Jersey State Teen Arts Program in cooperation with the Playwrights Theater of New Jersey, Madison, is the culmination of a year of activity for the student playwrights. Students participate in playwriting residencies which bring theater professionals into New Jersey schools for student workshops. The playwriting competition invites teens, ages 13-19, excluding college students, to submit original scripts for professional critiques. Selected plays are performed in professionally staged readings at a New Jersey theater.

On June 7, the Young Playwrights Festival winners will receive the Governor's Award in arts education at a special function held at the State Museum in Trenton.

Reservations for the festival are free and can be made by calling Lian Farrer at 247-7200.

Restaurant review

Trumpets

By KATHERINE BROOKS

This is a place to go to not just for dinner, but for jazz entertainment at its best! Trumpets, in Montclair, should be frequented again and again. The food is excellent and provides live jazz nightly from 8-12 p.m.

Trumpets also has a Sunday brunch. This is something the area needs and it should do very well. The strains of a flute playing jazz riffs is soothing for morning sleepyheads.

For brunch, an a la carte menu is available as well as buffet. I can't wait to attend because I am sure that breakfast will be every bit as delicious as dinner was.

The owner is always on the premises. A lovely woman, she visits every table for a quick chat while offering helpful menu suggestions. It seems as though she truly makes an effort to get to know all of her guests. Anyone experiencing Trumpets will surely become a regular visitor.

A separate lounge area, on the side, is there for those who do not want to eat dinner but have stopped by only to have a drink and enjoy the music. By the way, great jazz bands are booked every night. The dance floor is a beautiful touch for slow dancing.

On first entering the restaurant, one is greeted by a huge, dimly lit, square bar. I think it would be a great place to come after work for a drink, or maybe just a simple nightcap.

The service is wonderful and professional. Our waitress was so courteous. I was never rushed and was able to fully enjoy my dinner as well as the dance floor.

For an appetizer, I loved the baked Brie with fresh fruit and almonds, $4.95. It was a meal in itself, with a beautiful presentation. The stuffed mushrooms with crabmeat, $4.95, **** TRUMPETS, 6 Depot Square, Montclair. Closed for lunch. Dinner 6-10 p.m. Late night menu available until 12 a.m. Jazz entertainment nightly 8-12 a.m. Casual dress. Major credit cards. 746-6100.

were filled with pure crabmeat — no corners were cut here.

Also available are spiced Southern-fried chicken fingers with honey mustard, $4.95, and barbecued shrimp with roasted chile peppers, $6.95.

The Caesar salad, $4.50, was great. Overall, any of the appetizers would make a great snack in the lounge.

Frequented Trumpets for dinner will be a pleasure. The main courses are well thought out, offering a wide mix of tastes. This is a menu that I would not find boring if I stopped by for dinner every other week.

I chose to have the grilled North-western salmon, $16.95, with a mustard dill sauce. Perfectly filleted, it was heavenly! I also sampled the medallions of filet mignon, $16.95. It was accompanied by a green peppercorn sauce which was very spicy, but a pepper-lover's dream.

The California Cobb salad, $12.50, is filled with grilled chicken, avocados, bacon and blue cheese.

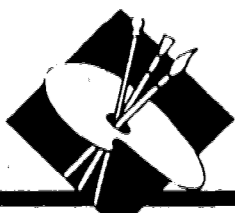

The breast of chicken is sauteed with wild mushrooms at $14.25. The grilled veal medallions is served with an herb lemon butter for $16.95. Sautéed bay scallops are with a shrimp and lobster sauce for $14.50.

Dessert ended my evening on a perfect note. The house specialty is Trumpets' chocolate Jazzberry, $4. Consisting of a chocolate terrine that is served with a "jazzberry" sauce, it is a rich, dense chocolate delight.

The place is fun. It is delicious. It is entertaining. I really did not want to leave, and I cannot wait until I visit Trumpets again.

LAURA A. GAGLIARDO

SHERYL E. JACOBS

2 Pre-Teen finalists

Two Union girls were selected as finalists in the 1990 Miss New Jersey National Pre-Teen Pageant, which will be held Aug. 16 and 17 at the Ramada Renaissance Hotel, East Brunswick. They are Laura Ann Gagliardo, 11, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Giuseppe Gagliardo, and Sheryl Elizabeth Jacobs, 10, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry T. Jacobs III.

Gagliano is being sponsored by her parents and by Union Central National Bank, 2003 Morris Ave., Union.

Jacobs is being sponsored by the Miss New Jersey National Pre-Teen Pageant as a result of being first runner up at the 1989 pageant. Her original sponsors were P.D. Morris Avenue Sunoco, Pizza Villa, Townley Market and Northeastern Pavement Marking Co., all of Union; M. and C. Food Market Inc., Alliquippa Glass and Mirror Co., Mr. and Mrs.

William Wroblewski and Diane Niceforo. She is a student at Cathy Karosick's Dancers Pointe in Roselle Park and a client of New Talent Management in Bricktown for commercials and modeling.

As contestants, the two girls will be judged on personal interview, talent, poise and personality. The winner of the New Jersey Pageant will receive a savings bond, tiara, sash and trophy and a roundtrip flight to the National Pageant to compete with other state winners for the title of Miss National Pre-Teen of 1990, ages 9 to 13.

Miss New Jersey National Pre-Teen Pageant is the official state pageant for the Miss National Pre-Teen Pageant to be held in Florida in November. This year marks the 10th anniversary for the pageant. It is affiliated with the Miss National Teen-Ager Pageant, now in its 19th year.

BUSINESS

on the job

ANNE RAFTREE

Anne Raftree of Westfield, formerly of Roselle, has been appointed director of resources at Coleman & Pellet Inc., a Union-based public relations firm.

An employee of the firm since 1978, Raftree previously served as office manager. In her new position, Raftree will be responsible for overseeing the activities of the firm's accounting department and administrative support staff.

Gerald Zwelman of Linden has been chosen Secretary of the New Jersey Association of Plumbing, Heating and Cooling Contractors.

The association provides legal, legislative, educational, insurance and code services for nearly 1,000 members. It is the oldest and largest plumbing, heating and cooling association in New Jersey and is affiliated with the National Association of Plumbing, Heating and Cooling Contractors.

Roger L. Barker of Hoboken has been appointed the new executive director for Priority Systems of Mountainside, an employee assistance program affiliated with Overlook Hospital in Summit.

Barker was vice president of operations at Managed Health Network, a national organization specializing in mental health and chemical dependency treatment.

FRANK SANTOS

John J. Davis, president and chief executive officer of The Union Center National Bank, has announced the appointment of Fred A. Santos as Assistant Cashier.

Santos has been in the banking industry for eight years. He formerly was with First Fidelity Bank, N.A., and resides with his wife, Lani, in Hillside.

Barbra Marech of Colonia has been named Computer Graphics Specialist for Garden State Brickface Windows & Exteriors of Roselle.

Marech is responsible for computer renderings of GSB projects. The state-of-the-art graphics equipment allows a home or business owner a glimpse of their new building's "look" before any work is done.

Magnaplate to use non-toxic cleaners

The focus of attention on environmental issues generated by Earth Day 1990 has led a local New Jersey manufacturer to switch to non-toxic, biodegradable cleansing products at its plant site.

General Magnaplate Corporation of Linden, a leading producer of synergistic and high technology coatings that protect metal parts against wear, corrosion and friction, was awarded a Certificate of Commendation from Shaklee Corporation today in recognition of their efforts to safeguard the environment.

Michael Collins, senior vice president of sales for Shaklee Corporation, and Marilyn Beer, a local Shaklee sales representative, were on hand to present the award to Candida Aversenti, president of General Magnaplate Corporation. "We believe strongly in instituting responsible environmental practices in our business," said Aversenti. "We have long been concerned about New Jersey's waterways and have installed a state-of-the-art water processing system in our plants to meet EPA standards. Using biodegradable cleansing products is a further extension of our commitment to a clean, safe environment."

Beer, a Shaklee distributor in Morris County for the past 13 years, introduced the Shaklee line of products to representatives from General Magnaplate Corporation.

"It's exciting to see our community start to take positive action toward saving the environment," said Beer. "Towns are subscribing to new recycling regulations and companies. Like General Magnaplate Corporation, they are making a conscious choice to use biodegradable products. The message is we can all do our bit towards making New Jersey environmentally sound."

Local firms win awards

Firms from Union and Roselle won major awards at the annual Asphalt Paving Conference sponsored by the Rutgers University Department of Civil Engineering and the New Jersey Asphalt Pavement Association.

Paving Materials and Construction Company of Roselle won the top award for a Commercial/Industrial New Construction project at Maher Terminals in Port Elizabeth for the Port Authority of New York and New Jersey.

Paving Materials and Construction Company, owned by Paul F. Boeckel, was recognized for outstanding performance in resurfacing of the Maher trucking terminals, which involved the use of over 100,000 tons of hot mix asphalt.

The award for State Highway System Construction or Resurfacing went to Della Pello Contracting Company of Union and its president, Val Della Pello.

The award-winning project was the resurfacing of Route 130 in South Brunswick for the New Jersey Department of Transportation (DOT). Della Pello Contracting Company was cited for the high quality of its work in the hot mix asphalt repaving of a three-mile section of Route 130.

The awards judges included representatives of the state DOT, the Port Authority of New York and New Jersey, the New Jersey Turnpike Authority, county and municipal engineers, consulting engineering specialists and the Asphalt Institute.

Earnings

Elsie Sokol, chairman and president of Central Jersey Bancorp, announced operating results for the first three months of 1990.

Total assets on March 31 were $1.49 billion, compared to $1.41 billion at the same date last year.

Over the same 12-month period, total loans decreased from $1.05 billion to $1.03 billion.

Per-share book value is $14.83, an increase of 8.5 percent from $13.67 on March 31, 1989.

Primary and Equity Capital ratios are 9.40 percent and 8.53 percent, respectively, on March 31, 1990.

For the first three months of 1990, net income was $3.29 million or 38 cents per share, on a fully diluted basis, compared to $4.78 million or 54 cents per share for the first quarter of 1989.

Central Jersey Bancorp is the parent company of Central Jersey Bank and Trust Company, which has local offices in Mountainside and Westfield.

The board of directors of Schering-Plough Corp. today declared a two for one stock split and increased the company's regular quarterly dividend by 24 percent, from 45 to 56 cents, on the pre-split common shares.

Distribution of the additional shares will be made on May 30 to shareholders of record at the close of business on May 4. Payment of the increased dividend will be made on May 21 to shareholders of record at the close of business on May 4.

Merck & Co. Inc. has announced that earnings per share for the first quarter of 1990 were $1.03, an increase of 20 percent over the first quarter of 1989.

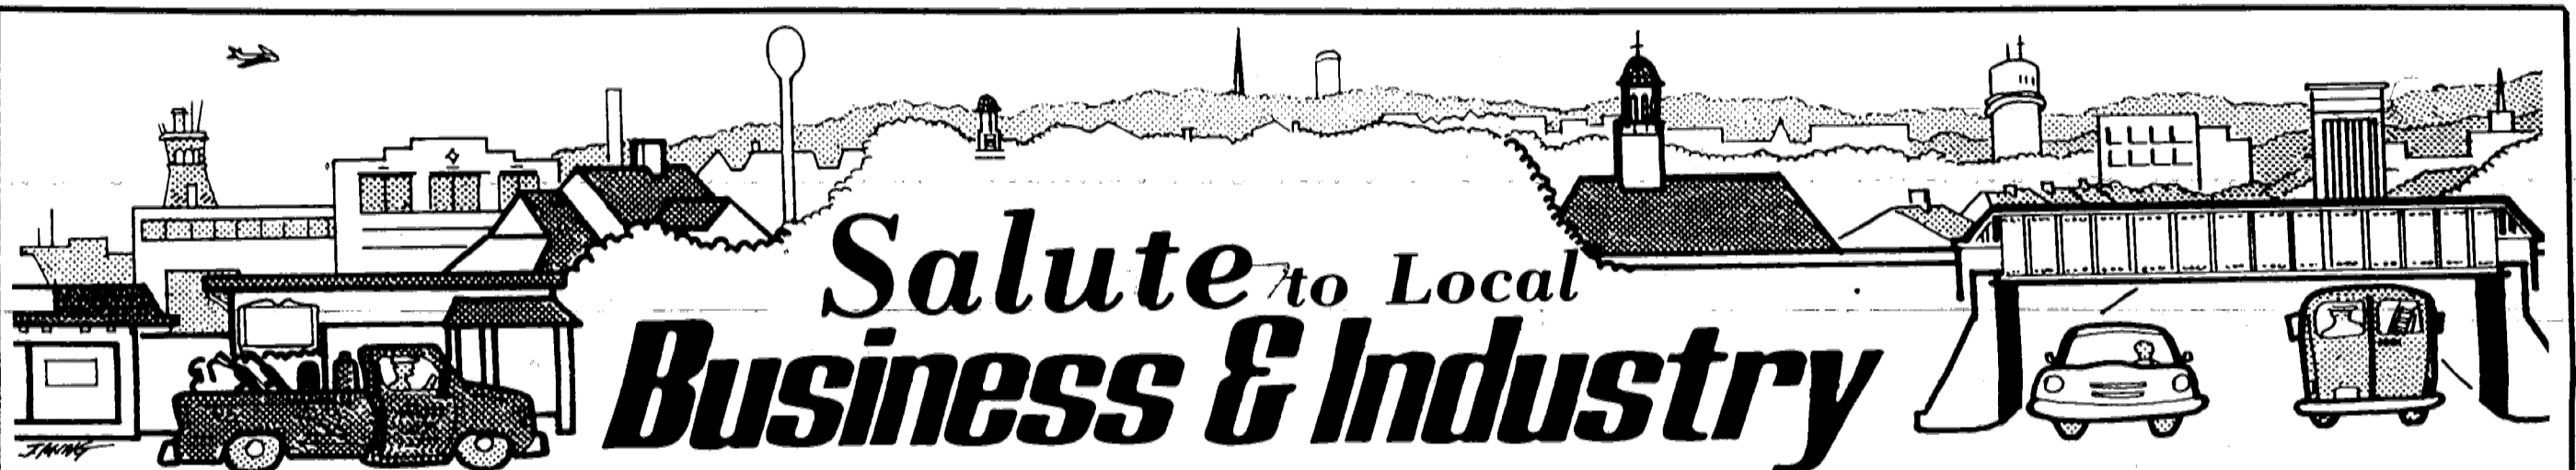

First quarter net income increased 19 percent to $403.8 million. Sales for the quarter were $1.8 billion, up 12 percent from the same period last year.

Sales growth for the quarter was led by new products, according to Dr. P. Roy Vagelos, chairman and chief executive officer of the health products firm. Both domestic and international operations reported unit volume gains. Excluding exchange, which had a negative effect of 1 percentage point, sales for the quarter were up 13 percent.

The Summit Bancorporation released first quarter earnings at its Annual Meeting of Shareholders held on April 17, reporting earnings of $10.1 million, representing a 4.9 percent increase over 1989, before the effect of an accounting change.

Per share earnings were 49 cents, a rise of 4.3 percent.

Total shareholders' equity was $294 million. Total assets were $3.8 billion, of which over $2.6 billion were loans. Deposits were $3.2 billion, an increase of 12.4 percent over a year ago.

Puerari Electric is tops

Joseph Puerari, owner and proprietor of Puerari Electric Inc., operates one of the area's most successful electrical contracting businesses out of his home, located at 315 Boulevard in Kenilworth.

Keeping his overhead low and customer satisfaction high, he says, are the keys to his success.

"I would say the biggest difference between myself and other contractors is lower prices," says Puerari. "Our overhead and expenses are lower and that helps keep prices down."

An experienced and licensed electrician for the state of New Jersey, Puerari has had his own contracting business for over four years, and services Union, Essex and Middlesex counties.

Prior to owning his own business, Puerari worked for other contractors, where he gained the experience needed to establish a successful business of his own.

His training also includes schooling at the Lyons Institute in Newark and Union County College.

Puerari still continues his education by attending various monthly seminars held by the Union County Electrical Contractors Association.

During the monthly seminars, tradesmen in the field discuss new merchandise, supply costs and values, and new and efficient methods of improving productivity of equipment and manpower.

"I offer a full array of high quality, state-of-the-art merchandise and services," says Puerari. "We contract for all types of renovations, new home construction and upgrading of services within a 50-mile radius."

INTERIOR VIEW — The living room of the furnished model at River's Edge, the new townhome community situated at 833 Valley Street, off Vauxhall Road, in Union.

Realtor offers buying 'tool'

Before you can even begin to sell your home, you must know what it is worth in cold cash in today's bumpy real estate market.

Pie-in-the-sky prices don't work anymore. You have to be realistic and think about what other homes are selling for.

A very handy tool, provided by a top notch realtor, will meet that need. Called Comparative (or Competitive) Market Analysis (CMA), it analyzes your property by mixing in facts, statistics, features and amenities of similar homes. Equally important are how your family has used the home and in what life style.

The CMA also reflects the present market by including other homes for sale now, those with expired listings or those withdrawn, and properties sold.

It is important to know what the competition is doing. What are the sale prices of other homes in your neighborhood of comparable property elsewhere.

Information on sold homes let you know what transactions are being completed to create appropriate market pricing. Also, you have to study homes whose listings have expired or been withdrawn. Why didn't that property sell? Was it price, condition or location?

This CMA is a multi-paged report prepared by an experienced and well-qualified real estate sales associate, someone who is looking out for his client's best interests. A CMA is prepared just before a listing is signed with the sales associate.

Besides aiding the seller, the CMA is very valuable to buyers. In these roller coaster real estate times, the CMA can help reinforce the true market value of properties.

A typical CMA starts out with a property study covering all features of your home, from room size to taxes to location. Next are current listings, comparable properties sold and the expired or cancelled properties.

In the Market Analysis Summary, the market is evaluated, and the items requiring the seller's attention in preparing the home for marketing are covered. Then, the report estimates the seller's equity after all fees, commissions, and mortgages have been paid.

At RE/MAX, a marketing plan is included. This guarantees how a property will be entered into the Multiple Listing Service (MLS), open houses, and specific type and frequency of advertising.

Without a CMA, marketing a home

River's Edge: plush, convenient

Only one new townhome community offers luxurious two bedroom residences with a whole host of amenities included as standard with the affordable purchase price, as well as a convenient location that's just minutes from Manhattan and other north Jersey employment centers. River's Edge, an elegant enclave of spacious townhomes situated at 833 Valley Street (just off Vauxhall Road) in Union, is emerging as the best value choice for first-time buyers in our region. With prices starting from $134,900, River's Edge is the new home opportunity that New Jersey's young would-be buyers have yearned for.

"Until now, first-time buyers in our area have had very little to celebrate. However, with River's Edge available and within reach of many people previously locked out of the market, it's no wonder that our community is becoming quite popular," explained Michael Romanelli, the developer of River's Edge.

Romanelli noted that prospective buyers are drawn to the community by the affordable price and great location — only two blocks from the Millburn shopping district. But, he added, they are sold on River's Edge after visiting the lavishly-decorated model residence.

Michael Romanelli and the entire River's Edge team heartily invite you to visit this new community today and discover a Garden State first-time buyer's dream — an exciting and well-built new home prices from only $134,900. For information, please call or visit any day (except Wednesday) from 12-6 p.m. or call 964-6253.

HOLY SPIRIT: You who make me see everything and who shows me the way to reach my ideals. You who gives me the divine gift to forgive and forget all that is done to me and you who are in all the instincts of my life with me. I, in this short dialogue, want to thank you for everything and affirm once more that I never want to be separated from you no matter how great the material desires may be. I want to be with you and my loved ones in their perpetual glory to that end and submitting to God's holy will. I ask from you (whatever your request may be) Prayer should be said for 3 consecutive days, after the 3rd day, the request will be granted no matter how difficult it may be. Promise to publish the entire dialogue as a condition of having your request granted. L.C.

PRAYER AND supplication to the Holy Spirit: "Holy Spirit, you who solves all problems, who lights all roads so that I can attain my goal. You who gives me the divine gift to forgive all evil against me and that in all instances of my life you are with me. I want in this short prayer to thank you for all things and to confirm once again that I never want to be separated from you, even and in spite of all material illusions. I wish to be with you in eternal glory. Thank you for your mercy toward me and mine. The person must say this prayer for 3 consecutive days. After 3 days the favor requested will be granted even if it may appear difficult. This prayer must be published immediately after the favor is granted without mentioning the favor. Only your initials should appear at the bottom. L.C.
