School election date revised; state aid data due in March

By Suzette Stalker Managing Editor

The Board of Education of Union County Regional High School District 1 received word from the state Department of Education last week that the date for New Jersey school elections has been extended from April 2 to April 30 while the state attempts to determine state aid figures for the 1991-92 school year.

The state has delayed release of state aid figures to New Jersey school districts while a special commission appointed by Governor James Florio has been studying the proposed impact of the Quality Education Act of 1990, which would siphon aid to local school districts between 1992

A controversy arose last July after Florio signed the QEA, which also calls for school districts to assume teacher pension and social security costs. The governing bodies of affected communities fear they will have to raise municipal taxes to compensate for the loss in state aid.

The Regional Board has traditionally completed its tentative school budget by the third week in December, and submitted that budget to the office of the Union County superintendent of schools by January. The board typically held its public hearing on the budget at its first meeting in March.

The state was scheduled to release aid figures to school districts by Jan. 15. That date was later extended to Feb. 1 and has now been set for March 15. School districts have been stymied in their attempts to develop budgets for 1991-92 without knowing the amount of state aid they will be

"I think a lot of people are getting frustrated by the delay," remarked Regional District spokesman Thomas Long on Monday. "The board suspended formulation of its budget for 1991-92 back in December and agreed to begin again after state aid figures were received, but so far we haven't gotten them."

The revised school election date has also extended to March 7 the deadline for candidates for the Regional Board of Education to file their nominating petitions with the office of Regional Board Secretary Harold R. Burdge. The original filing deadline was Feb. 7 at 4 p.m.

Three board seats will become available this year, including those of Board President Natalie Waldt of Springfield, Board Vice President David Hart of Mountainside and board member Joan Toth of Garwood.

All three board vacancies are for full, three-year terms.

Waldt and Toth have both already filed petitions, while Hart has opted not to run for re-election, Regional Superintendent Dr. Donald Merachnik's office has confirmed.

First elected to the Regional Board in 1967, Waldt will be completing her eighth term this year. She has, along with Hart, served as board liaison to both the Union County School Boards Association and the New Jersey School Boards Association, according to Long.

A school administrator for many years, Hart was previously principal of Carl H. Kumpf and Charles Brewer schools in Clark. He will be concluding his fourth term on the board this Candidates filing a nominating petition for a seat on the Regional Board of Education must meet the following criteria: he or she must be a citizen of the United States, at least 18 years of age and have the ability to read and write.

He or she must also be a resident of the municipality from which he or she is to be elected for at least one year preceding the date of the election, as well as being a registered voter in the Regional District.

Finally, those filing nominating petitions must not be directly or indirectly interested in any contact with or any claim against the Regional Board of Education, and must not be dis-

Payroll clerk charged in forgery of checks

By Suzette Stalker

Managing Editor A payroll clerk at a Mountainside mechanical contracting firm was arrested and charged with theft last week for allegedly embezzeling $120,000 from her employer by forging checks made out to temporary workers and then keeping the money

Melanie Farrag, 41, of Plainfield was arrested Feb. 8 at 7:20 a.m. when she arrived for work at Air Con. 1148 Route 22 West, Det. Sgt. Jerome Rice of the Mountainside Police Department said Monday.

Farrag, employed by the firm since 1986, was charged with theft of moveable property for allegedly processing checks to Air Con employees who had done temporary construction jobs for the firm during 1989-90 and then cashing or depositing them in her own bank accounts.

"She allegedly endorsed the checks with the employees' names and cosigned them herself," Rice said. "When the checks came back to payroll, Farrag reportedly erased her signature from the checks and filled in a false name to cover her tracks."

Authorities are aware of three bank accounts belonging to Farrag at area banks, all of which have been frozen following a court order, according to Rice. Mountainside police are conducting an investigation in connection with the Union County Prosecutor's Westfield attorney Edward Frisch, representing Air Con, Inc., acknowledged on Tuesday that company auditors have also launched their own investigation this week into how long ago the forgery scam began.

"The company is conducting its own investigation," Frisch commented. "We have the Air Con accountants up there looking back through the checks. Right now our investigation seems to indicate that it started back in 1987."

"I believe they've found over 100 checks now," he added "Its part of the field payroll, as opposed to the office payroll. The company hires plumbers and steamfitters out of a union hiring hall and these workers are hired for particular projects."

Frisch explained that a certain number of workers would be hired out as a crew for a particular project, and that the size of the crew would typically be reduced as the project neared completion.

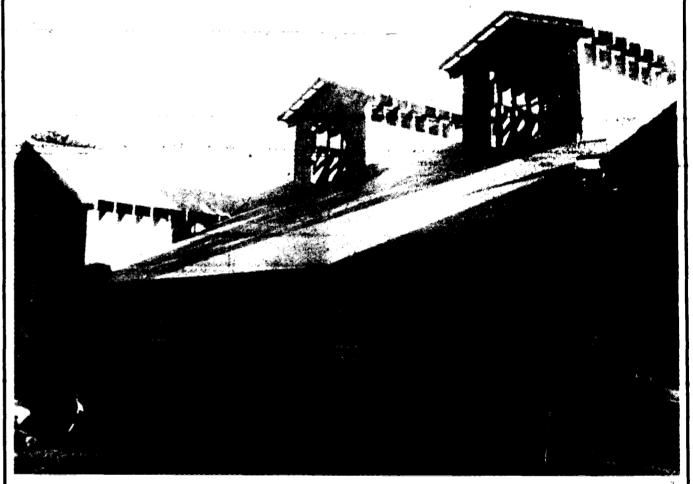

Authorities report that Farrag allegedly kept crew members on the company payroll even after they had been laid off, however. The majority of these checks were made out for four figure sums.

The clerk was reportedly able to carry out her scheme, authorities believe, because the company payroll is so large that checks are automatically stamped instead of signed.

The scam was unraveled after employees who had worked for Air Con during 1989-90 received their W-2 tax statements Feb. 6 and found that their forms included payments which they had not received, Rice acknowledged.

Authorities reported that Farrag was on vacation in Aruba, West Indies at the time the fraud was discovered and that she returned home the day before her arrest.

Superior Court Judge William L'E. Wertheimer set bail for Farrag, who was being held in Union County Jail in Elizabeth, at $25,000. If she is convicted on theft charges, Farrag faces a $100,000 and up to 10 to 20 years in prison, according to the Union County Prosecutor's Office.

A BRAND NEW LOOK — Construction on the Mountainside Rescue Squad, which began in December, is progressing on schedule. The renovation plan includes expansion of the sleeping quarters and enhancements to the interior of the building, plus the creation of a large bay for the squad's two ambulances and a smaller one for a truck and some equipment belonging to the Mountainside Department of Public Works. The entire project is designed to improve service by both the Rescue Squad and Public Works to the community.

A yellow ribbon adorns a lamppost on Parkway in Mountainside as a symbol of hope that American troops stationed in the Persian Gulf return home safe from Operation Desert Storm. Many area homes, schools and businesses are decorated with such ribbons, which have welcomed southers home for centuries.

Yellow ribbons tied to historical events

By Debbie Sacharoff Managing Editor

The practice of tying yellow ribbons on trees, houses, automobiles and elswhere as a show of support for American troops stationed in the Persian Gulf has become popular in Mountainside and many other communities, and has prompted some people to wonder about the origins of yellow ribbons. Many residents have also chosen to wear tiny yellow ribbons pinned to their clothing as a constant reminder that many Americans have loved ones in the midst of a war.

In 1973 Tony Orlando sang "Tie a Yellow Ribbon 'Round the Old Oak Tree," a melody about a man who has just been released from prison and is hoping his girlfriend has waited for him. He asks his sweetheart to tie a ribbon if she still loves him.

A flier from the American Legion Hall in Westfield states that Orlando's song from the early '70s indeed ushered in a new tradition, as all across the land yellow ribbon bows graced trees and poles, reminding Americans of the POWs and the

"The song was new, but the idea was not," the flier said. It also referred to the words of an earlier song, which proclaimed "Around her neck she wore a yellow ribbon, she wore it for her soldier boy far, far away..."

This song was sung during World Wars I and II and in between the wars as well, according to the flier. In the 1800s, there was another version of the song among the United States Cavalry, about the men going off to war and the women left behind.

The words of the song told of a yellow ribbon placed on a willow tree, so when the men returned they would look for the ribbon to see if their women were still loyally waiting for

According to the American Legion report, the use of ribbons goes as far back as the Middle Ages, more than 600 years ago, when knights and their ladies used ribbons as a symbol of loyalty. Some authorities think the use of ribbons goes as far back as Biblical

Today, the yellow ribbons still symbolize loyalty to a loved one far away and the hopes of family and friends that their father, mother, son, daughter, brother, sister, relative, sweetheart or friend returns safely

Deerfield kids 'brush up' on good dental hygiene

Students and faculty at Deerfield School in Mountainside participated in a statewide "Sugarless Day" program Feb. 5, during which youngsters received certificates for nutritious, sugarless lunches and for participation in related activities.

The purpose of this dental health program is to teach children that what they eat affects their teeth for a lifetime. In this age of fast food and junk food, schools are stressing to children the relationship between their diet and good health.

'Too often children choose snacks high in refined sugar such as soda and candy over more healthy foods," according to a statement released by Deerfield School.

"Sugar is found naturally in foods in the form of sucrose, fructose, corn syrup, dextrose, lactose, glucose, maltose and honey. Both refined and natural sugars are capable of causing tooth decay."

Deerfield students learned that good oral health depends on more than just eating a balanced diet. In fact, having an adequate amount of fluoride in water or in vitamin supplements, and using the correct amount of fluoride toothpaste are the most important factors in the control of tooth decay.

"Sugarless Day" is cosponsored by the dental health program of the New Jersey Department of Health and the New Jersey Dental Hygienists' Association.

Student Jennifer Lucyk eats a tangerine during 'Sugarless Day,' which was held at Deerfield School in Mountainside last week. The program, conducted at schools throughout New Jersey, instructs youngsters on the importance of good dental hygiene, a balanced diet and the role of fluoride in the control of tooth decay. Students received certificates for eating sugarless

On Feb. 17 at 2 p.m., the Springfield Public Library, Mountain Avenue, Springfield, will present an origami demonstration and workshop led by Emma Lampariello, a Springfield resident. Lampariello is best known for her decoration of the library's Christmas tree each year.

She attributes her inspiration for this project to the tree in the New York City office of Japan Airlines. Lampariello has travelled to various conferences where she constantly acquires new and more elaborate techniques.

"As a former first grade teacher and Scout den mother, I found that origami was a very effective way to get a child's attention," says Lampariello of her 20-year involvement with the ancient Japanese art of paper folding. "Even very young children can learn to make simple objects."

Anyone interested in attending the workshop should register by calling 376-4930 during library hours or sign up in person at the circulation desk. Participants should bring their own note paper.

The library will sponsor a Bedtime Story program on Feb. 25 from 7 to 7:30 p.m. Children ages 3½ to 5 are invited to attend. The children may wear their pajamas and bring a stuffed animal for company.

Pre-registration is required for these programs. Please stop by the library or call the children's department at 376-4930.

During the month of February, the Springfield Public Library will host an exhibit of underwater photography by local diving enthusiast Don Blair. Blair, who heads the Springfield-based Talbot agency, has travelled extensively to SCUBA dive and photograph what he observes.

His exhibit will include photographs of his excursions to such exotic places as Grand Cayman, Belize; the Great Barrier Reef in Australia; the Coral Sea; Bonaire in the Netherlands Antilles and Papua, New Guinea.

He has accompanied Dr. Eugenie Clark, the famous "Shark Lady" and head of the Marine Biology department at the University of Maryland on some of her expeditions. The display can be seen during library hours.

"I became certified as a SCUBA diver in 1973 on my 50th birthday," Blair proudly related in a recent telephone interview, "and I've been diving and taking pictures ever since."

Allies for the Tooth Brush

Your tooth brush can't do everything. That's a good starting-point for developing a successful personal dental hygiene program.

The reason is that a brush only takes care of the visible surfaces of your teeth. It doesn't get between the teeth or beneath the gum line. That's where the great enemy of your teeth, dental plaque, hides and conducts its campaign against the health of your teeth. And plaque, as you know, is the primary cause of tooth decay and gum disease.

Perhaps the best supplement to the brush is dental floss. It does take time to use it effectively, but the additional effort will pay off in enhanced protection against plaque's destructive power. Here's how you should use floss—

About eighteen inches of floss will do the job for you. Wrap the ends securely around the middle fingers of each hand, leaving a couple of inches loose between your fingers. Your thumbs should guide it between the top teeth, your index fingers for the lower.

Starting wherever is comfortable for you, slide the floss between the teeth, moving it back and forth to the gum along the side of one tooth. Repeat this for the adjacent tooth, then continue until all teeth are flossed. Don't be discouraged. You'll soon overcome the initial awkwardness.

Your gums also need stimulating, to keep the blood flowing through the tissues. Again, the tooth brush isn't enough because it can't reach between your teeth.

The answer is a gum stimulator. They are available in drugstores, resemble triangular toothpicks, and come in containers like matchbooks. Think of them as a massage instruments because that's what they do to your gums. They also help clean those inbetween places your brush can't reach.

Dental floss and gum stimulators, essential pieces of your defense against tooth damage.

Fashion student visits Europe's design houses

Mountainside resident Maria Francolino was among a group of students from the New Jersey and New York campuses of the Berkeley College of Business who recently visited London and Paris during the annual tour which Berkeley arranges for its fashion students.

A graduate of David Brearley Regional High School in Kenilworth, Francolino was enrolled in Berkeley's Middlesex campus in Woodbridge at the time she took the tour.

The students became actual participants in the European fashion scene when they were invited to try on original designs at the couture house of Zandra Rhodes. Rhodes regards herself as a textile designer rather than a fashion designer, and the students had an opportunity to see how textiles are designed.

Rhodes explained to the group that she is inspired in her work by the places she visits. The couture dresses which the Berkeley students tried on cost $5,000, $10,000 or $20,000. Beading, the students were told, is done in the orient by people who have been beading for them for 25 years.

The Berkeley visitors learned that couture lines have been negatively affected by recent world events. Middle Easterners, whose wealth comes from oil, are among those declining numbers of individuals who are still able to afford couture attire, the students were told.

The Berkeley group learned about all stages of fashion production at Burberry's of London, which is known for the plaid linings used in their raincoats, which are repeated in pleated skirts for women and scarves for both men and women.

At Kensington Palace, the students saw an exhibition of the wedding dresses of Princess Diana, Princess Anne and, from 1922, Princess Mary, the only daughter of King George V.

The Berkeley students were also invited guests at a fashion show staged at the Galeries Lafayette, where they viewed the autumn and winter collections for the 1990-91 season.

Francolino has since transferred to the Garret Mountain campus in West Paterson to complete requirements for her Associate in Applied Science degree in the fashion marketing and management program.

A SPINE OUT OF BALANCE

If you're feeling out of sorts, with a vague discomfort in your back, your spine may be out of balance.

Your spine serves a vital function in many ways. The spine and nervous system attached to it, in fact, have a direct effect on any of the functions of your body. It's important to keep the spine in proper balance.

The spine is connected to a foundation made up of your pelvis and legs. If this foundation is well-balanced and working normally, it helps to keep your spine in balance, otherwise it can cause pain and discomfort.

For example, if a house's foundation is crooked or unsteady, it will distort the walls. You'll see cracks in the plaster. Doors won't fit properly. Windows may not open. You can repair the cracked plaster and trim the doors and windows to fit again. But how long will these "cover-ups" last?

Your body also needs a good foundation. If your spine is out of balance, seek the treatment you need to put it right again.

Here we are again

When Gov. Jim Florio presented his Quality Education Act to the Legislature in June 1990, only one month after he drew the plan, the Senate and Assembly spent less than one week before they approved the measure and changed the way school districts would be funded.

In order to comply with the ruling handed down by the state Supreme Court in Abbott vs. Burke, a case which ordered the state to provide an equal education to all students, the Quality Education became the response that ensured all school districts across the state would be funded equally.

The Quality Education Act was nothing more than a display of power among the Democrats in the Senate and Assembly, which, back in June 1990, had recently regained control of the Legislature. As many recall, most Democrats backed the governor, while just as many Republicans called for more time to study the impact of the proposed measure.

The method of providing equal funding to school districts was to take from the rich and give to the poor — or take from suburbia and give to the urban and rural districts. When the method was announced, New Jerseyans who were classified as living in "wealthy" municipalities throughout the state but who felt they could not live up to the designation, revolted.

When the governor apparently did not listen to their pleas, the same New Jerseyans rebelled by going to the polls in November 1990 and wiping out many Democrats from local, county and state government. Even a very comfortable U.S. Sen. Bill Bradley escaped defeat by a narrow margin. Residents were not looking forward to higher property taxes.

That was last year.

The message hit home among Florio and the Democrats in the Legislature. Since then, the Quality Education Act — and the method by which it will be funded — has been undergoing some changes.

A plan proposed by Senate President John Lynch and Senate Majority Leader Daniel Dalton - both Democrats — would divert $395 million in funds from the new school aid to assist in lowering property taxes.

Providing an equal education to all students across the state without raising property taxes should have been considered last year when the plan was proposed. No elected official could have thought for one minute that the Quality Education Act, in its original form, would have been accepted by his or her constituents.

In 1991, the Quality Education Act is again rearing its head, almost coincidentally, at a time when a quick fix is needed.

The governor signed a bill last week that would postpone the school board elections by four weeks. That's because many school board elections include the public's vote on the current expense and capital outlay portions of the district's budget.

Because the state cannot determine how much aid will be distributed to the districts, how can the districts prepare a budget and how can the public decide if the expense is reasonable?

By March 15, local school officials should know how much their districts will receive in state aid. The figures would include funding as a result of changes in the Quality Education Act.

So here we are again. Another deadline to devise a plan that will affect millions of New Jersey residents, and the Democrats in the Legislature who acted politically with the original plan are back. Just as they voted to appease the governor, will they now vote to appease the electorate to try to regain their popularity?

As we watch the clock once again tick away, are we to be reminded that the same clock began ticking this way in 1990? Let's hope the Legislature acts more thoughtfully and more prudently when revamping the Quality Education Act to avoid changes in the future. The more a system is changed, the less credible it becomes.

Grateful to Hetfield House helpers

To the Editor:

Many people contributed to the pleasure of the recent open house at our historic Hetfield House. The reception was held to thank borough residents for their support. That support helped to obtain a certificate of occupancy for the house, listed on the National Register of Historic Places.

Vera Herrick lent antique furniture, lamps and vases as well as an oil painting of one of her ancestors. Her daughter, Maryanne Bergeski, allowed us to display her collection of dolls and doll furniture. Antique toys and a toy sleigh were displayed by Elaine Decker.

Antique furniture, dishes, games and silver were lent by the Union County Historical Society through the kindness of Ruth and Bill Froelich.

Geiger's Cider Mill and Bakery donated cookies and cider, and the Mountainside Pastry Shop and Acme Super Markets also gave cookies.

Volunteer docents were Diane Drew, Bea Hambacher, Marge Maas, Lenore Toner and Sandy Wilson.

Wants whole story printed

To the Editor:

I am writing in objection to the article regarding Jose Pires' application for a variance to build two-family houses at 548 Woodland Ave. in Mountainside.

I did not see any relevance in printing the fact that Mr. Pires is a police officer in Mountainside. The reporter neglected to state that Woodland Avenue already had two legal two-family homes directly opposite the proposed site. Also, that before Mr. Pires purchased 548 Woodland Ave. one of its two detached garages was a rented apartment for many years.

Your reporter also mentioned Woodland Avenue resident Linda Esemplare, who voiced concern over parking provisions, but neglected to mention that Mrs. Esemplare's family parks a total of eight cars, which she admitted to that night.

I can't help but feel that this reporter was prejudiced in writing this article, by showing only the negative side of this application, and not all the facts. Mr. Pires stated his intention to build two two-family structures according to code, in an existing two-family-home neighborhood consisting of many older homes. This can only raise the property value, not decrease it.

If it weren't for the many multifamily homes already existing in Mountainside, many people, including some borough employees, would never have been able to afford to live in and benefit from a town such as Mountainside.

It is very sad when a newspaper resorts to this type of reporting just to make a front page story.

Student pens a poem for peace

To the Editor:

Our soldiers are fighting for their lives, With their loving memories of their family and wives, And because of this, you can blame, A guy that's cruel named Saddam Hussein. He would not leave Kuwait, Because he expected the world to wait, But the world would not wait one more hour, Because we need control and power. People all over the world just wish for peace, And to end this war in the Middle East. We should all take the time out to pray, For our soldiers to be safe and come home to stay.

Oops, wrong board

To the Editor:

The application to subdivide a 100 by 200 foot lot at 548 Woodland Ave. is not being heard by the Mountainside Planning Board.

The applicant, Jose Pirez, is asking for a use variance to build two-family homes on this site. Therefore, this application is before the Board of Adjustment. Testimony will continue on Monday, Feb. 11, at 8 p.m. in Borough Hall. Our apologies to the Mountainside Board of Adjustment.

Maintain unity and resolve

To the Editor:

At a time when the men and women in our armed forces are facing their greatest test, we at home are facing a test as well. Our test is to maintain our unity and resolve, as our troops are doing in the Persian Gulf.

We don't want Saddam Hussein to take this country's tolerance for anti-war demonstrators as a signal he should wait out our resolve in a long and bloody

I'm outraged at the brutal treatment of our POW's. And I'm saddened to see the media give so much attention to the small number of anti-war protesters who have sprung into action. It seems that every time a few protesters pick up their signs, the cameras swarm around them, and they end up on the news.

Our soldiers have said that they have a job to do and are going to get it done. I feel I have a job to do, too. And that's to stand up in strong support to our troops. I want them to know that I and the American people are very proud of them. We are all inspired by their bravery.

I hope that you'll print my letter, and others like it, in the days ahead. Thou sands of local American newspapers are reaching our men and women in uniform every day. Your newspaper may be one of them. I want the troops to know that we hold them in our thoughts and prayers every day.

Congrats to Florio for action

To the Editor:

The New Jersey Division of the American Cancer Society wholeheartedly congratulates Gov. Florio for "doing the right thing" in vetoing bill S-2232. If passed, this piece of legislation would have elevated tobacco addiction to the level of a civil right in New Jersey. The American Cancer Society encourages the Legislature to be equally sensible and reject any override attempt. Smoking, as we know, is a matter of choice and should never be compared with a civil right. The American Cancer Society realizes that smoking is an addiction and offers programs to help the smoker during this difficult time in his

The governor further sent a message to the youth of our state, discouraging them from smokers in his statement which read in part, "The energies and resources of New Jersey should be directed toward helping people quit and toward making sure that our children do not take up this harmful addiction."

Youth reap benefits of educational/business project

By Bea Smith Lifestyle Editor

When a teenager reaches for the newspaper over the breakfast table and turns to the stock market pages rather than the comics, to the astonishment of his parents, then one knows that the Junior Achievement Program is working.

At least, this is what happened to one youngster in Union County, and the teenagers' growing interest in business and industry and the stock markets is making business and economic and history teachers very happy. And proud!

Particularly, says J. Kenneth Rodan, president of the Junior Achievement of Central New Jersey. which encompasses Union, Middlesex and Somerset counties, "with Project Business in our school system."

The Junior Achievement has been helping youngsters since 1919 to step into the future, and according to the brochures provided by Junior Achievement Inc., that helping hand today "comes from computer-based management simulations in high school Applied Economics, learning to operate a mini-company in the original Junior Achievement Company program, lessons in basic economic principles in junior high through Project Business, and an introduction bo business fundamentals for elementary school pupils in Business Basics. At all age levels, Junior Achievement is helping millions of young people to develop skills and knowlege for a future of success."

"Project Business," says Rodan, says, during a recent visit to this office, "is a partnership between the business community and schools."

He has been with the program since 1949, and he says that "the acceptance of this program by the business and financial organizations that supply the consultants as well as interest from students and teachers indicates that Project Business will continue to grow in central New Jersey. We believe that the American free enterprise system is still the best economic system in the world, and it's important that our teenagers understand and appreciate its basic principals. Project Business is one of the most effective ways to reach our young people. Not only does it teach the free enterrpise system, it lives it."

Even President George Bush, in a keynote address two years ago at the 15th National Business Leadership Conference was impressed enough to consider Junior Achievement a "phenomenally successful enterprise by any measure." And back in 1982, when he was vice president, during a dinner in Pittsburgh, he praised the Junior Achievement work in economic education. "I've been an admirer or Junior Achievement and all it's done to advance economic education for many years...There's no doubt that Junior Achievement has a positive impact."

Among the public schools in Union County that are implementing and continuing the Junior Achievement programs are Union High School, Union; Deerfield School, Mountainside; Harding School, Kenilworth; McKinley McManus and Soehl schools in Linden, Roselle Park High School, Rahway High School, Carl Kumpf Junior High School in Clark and Hillside High School.

Among the parochial schools participating are St. Elizabeth's School, Linden, and St. John the Apostle School, Clark.

And among the local businesses volunteering their assistance and personnel services are the GAF Corp., Linden; Ullrich Copper Inc., Kenilworth; The Summit Trust Co., Elizabeth and Clark; Schering-Plough Corp., Union; General Motors Corp., Linden; New Jersey Bell Telephone Co., Union and Middlesex counties; Bristol-Myers-Squibb Co., Hillside; Exxon Co., USA, Linden; Coopers & Lybrand, tri-county; American Cyanamid Co., Linden, and Merck & Co. Inc., Rahway and Clark.

Rodan, who maintains his office in Elizabeth, is credited with building the Junior Achievement programs in the tri-county area to what they are today. He is frequently commended for his efforts and his devotion to his

"I came to Elizabeth via Colgate-Palmolive in 1949," says the softspoken gentleman. "I had been active in the National Junior Achievement organization. Apparently, the Junior Achievement organization in Elizabeth was bankrupt and they needed someone to rebuild and revitalize the program.

"I was contacted, and a friend of mine and I put this thing together. So," he smiles, "I came here in 1949, and I've been here ever since. And," Rodan explains modestly, "we now have one of the best — one of the most outstanding program in the country.

"We're the only Junior Achievement organization in the country to win for 21 consecutive years the Freedom Foundation Medal for Economic Education programs, and we initiated what we called Youth Incentive Awards projects. The students were selected as winners in the projects by their leadership, ability to get along with adults and their peers, attendance at company meetings, top sales of Junior Achievement products and overall outstanding performance as a teenager. The winner was selected based on that criteria by a panel of business and community leaders. represented by the Society of Certified Public Accountants and the Young President's Organization, YPO, which is a national organization of corporate presidents doing more than a million dollars in business before the age of 36."

The winners, Rodan explains, "would get an all-expense paid trip to Germany, ireland, Great Britain, Holland, Belgium, Aruba, Puerto Rico, Nassau and Germany. And they would be guests of the Royal Family of Holland, United States Ambassador Annenberg of Great Britain and be taken to the Court of St. James in London.

"Then they spend one day with business executives or political leaders, one night with their families and the ret of the week they visit business and financial organizations," says Rodan. "There also are meetings with students and business and government leaders to get the flavor of international business and international relations "

The Junior Achievement president explains that "there are usually about 34 to 36 students with about 10 business leaders who serve as chaperons. They and the parents are there to encourage young people to participate in the administration and the business community to support the program."

Through the years, Rodan says. 'we have had celebrities, all friends of mine, to meet at the Junior Achievement headquarters in Elizabeth to talk to the students and to encourage them to to participate actively and inspire them to higher goals. Among the celebrities are Kim Novak, Maureen O'Hara, Ginger Rogers, Tony Randall and David Hartman."

Rodan adds, "there is one very important thing I would like to make perfectly clear. There are no funds used from the United Way, local state or federal tax monies. The entire cost of the Junior Achievement is borne by business, professional and financial organizations and some foundations. and some individuals."

When Rodan first joined Junior Achievement, he came in as executive director and became president 10 years ago. "During that time," he recalls, "times were changing, so we started to develop new programs. The national organization in Colorado Springs, Col., developed new programs through foundation grants, and we established Project Business, and that's for the eighth and ninth grade students. We have Applied Economics for 11th and 12th graders, and Business Bonus for the fifth graders. And we are presently working on our programs for kindergarten through sixth grade, so that we will be reaching the children and educating them with economic information and career opportunities as early as kindergarten."

Rodan says proudly, "We have a new program in a pilot stage which we will be presenting to the public shortly. The Girl Scouts have to prepare for all kinds of badges. Right? So, we're going to have business basic classes for the Girl Scouts so they can earn their business badges through a Junior Achievement basic program.

"Right now it's a pilot and we're going to do it all in one day in Union or at Kean College. The Girl Scouts will work this out. There will be about 120 of them through 10 classes of about 20 each. Then we'll make it available to the Boy Scouts."

Junior Achievement, Rodan states, "has been in existence for about 70 years, and since 1945 in the tri-county area. I've dedicated a good portion of my life to it. It's effective in giving teenagers an opportunity for a quality of life as they grow older and if they take advantage of it.

"I know of former Junior Achievers who are now practicing lawyers, ad executives, accountants, members of religious organizations. They are in all facets of our economic world."

In the Project Business and Business Basics, Rodan says, "we recommend that they be in a social studies curriculum. The school principals select the teachers he wants to participate. And that's when we come in."

Rodan emphasizes, "None of this would be possible without the support of such companies as Exxon, IBM. General Motors, New Jersey BVell, Coopers and Lybvrand, Dupont, GAF Co., PSG&E, Schering-Plough, Merck & Co., and other outstanding companies and businesses. We get lots of volunteers and lots of money from these businesses.

Joseph Guglielmo, history teacher at Roselle Park High School, has been in charge of the Junior Achievement program for the past three years, and, he says with pride, "I have 25 students in class this semester. And they are predominately juniors and seniors.

"We meet every day during the last period class. We establish a little knowledge and background material." Guglielmo explains that "we start with financing a business and how the liquidation of a business comes about. In the last three years, we've been able to give back about 20 percent of stockholders' profits plus their original investments. It's popular. And," he chuckles. "it's unique.

"We run the business," he says. "Students are actually paid to come to class because under the Junior Achievement program, each vice president receives $4 for a semester. The class makes 40 cents a production period plus 10 percent of what the students sell. We finance it with stocks and sell to the student body and faculty. What makes it so interesting is that we produce and sell our product. And we get a nice profit. We pay all our expenses that way. We also give bonuses," explains Guglielmo.

"With Project Business," he says, "we work with Michael La Brach. vice president of Harmonia Bank in Kenilworth. But Project Business is strictly elementary school, eighth graders.

"Junior Achievement is different. No only can the students learn about economics, but they have to participate in it. With the computer and our simulation of running a business, this is truly a hands on teaching or hands on learning.

"I'm in my third year," he smiles. "And it's fun. It's a little different from teaching United States History. Or even from coaching...I coach the football team...I'm one of the assistants.

"It's really a fine program!"

The Moravian Church has an open policy toward people who receive communion. "Any professing Christian is welcome at the Table of Our Lord," said the pastor. Park wins UCT; 'Dawgs 10th

By Mark Yablonsky Sports Editor

Led by its top two wrestlers, both of whom are unbeaten, the Roselle Park High wrestling team accrued 161.5 points and won this year's Union County Tournament last weekend at the Dunn Sports Center in Elizabeth.

Dayton, meanwhile, which had placed a strong third in last year's tournament, came in 10th this year with 71.5 points.

Also, Panther coach Sam Appello was presented with the Coach of the Year Award by the Union County Wrestling Coaches Association.

Park, which had also won the tournament in 1983 and 1988, got strong efforts from 152-pounder John Ranieri and 171-pounder Dave Patterson, both of whom won titles as the top seeds. Ranieri, who is 21-0, won the 152-pound title by decisioning Westfield's Chris Wojcik, 2-0, in the final round late on Saturday; Patterson, who is also 21-0, took his title by outpointing Bob Taylor Jr. of Brearley Regional, 9-6, in the 171-pound

Platt, who is now 19-1, won the heavyweight title by pinning Scott DuBeau of Brearley at the 3:13 mark. It was the only match that Platt had to wrestle; in addition to missing the preliminaries as the No. 1 seed, he also won by forfeit prior to meeting

DuBeau. In the 112-pound final, Rick Ortega won a title by injury default over Dante Puorro of Dayton, who had won a county title last year as a 103-pound competitor. Puorro, who went in as the top seed, was forced to exit at the 5:09 mark of the match due to a minor concussion. He was expected to recover fully as of press

WHO'S FIRST

This week's question: Back to basketball this week. Who is the NBA's all-time leader in steals? (We mean the total number, not his average). Interestingly, he has never led the league in that category in any one season, either numerically or by average.

Last week's answer: Billy Taylor of the Detriot Red Wings recorded seven assists in a game against the Chicago Blackhawks back on March 16, 1947. Taylor shares this record with, who else, Wayne Gretzky. The Great One, who surely must hold the record for holding the most NHL records, tallied seven assists in a single game not once, but three times, all of them as a member of the Edmonton Oilers. The first time was on February 15, 1980 in a game against the Washington Capitals. Gretzky equalled the record a second time on December 11, 1985 against the Chicago Blackhawks. He tied the record a third time on February 14, 1986 against the Quebec Nordiques.

This week, Henry Hascup of Lodi submitted a correct answer. Please have your responses in our Union offices — at 1291 Stuyvesant Ave. — by no later than noon each Monday.

High seeds go to Linden

By Mark Yablonsky Sports Editor

As expected, Elizabeth and Linden both fared well when it came down to seedings for this year's Union County Basketball Tournament.

Elizabeth, which has won six of the last seven tournaments in boys' basketball, was accorded the No. 1 seed this year, while Linden, which was 19-1 when the seeding took place, received the top spot in the 16-team girls' field.

Also, the Linden boys' squad, led by its sensational junior, Waliyy Dixon, was seeded second, while Hillside came in at No. 3. Seeding took place last Wednesday, Feb. 6, at the Stage House Inn in Scotch Plains.

"I think they're true seedings," commented Bob Shapiro, an athletics supervisor at Elizabeth who will be the site manager for both basketball tournaments. "I think the seeding committee did their homework."

The seedings are as follows:

Boys - 1) Elizabeth, 2) Linden, 3) Hillside, 4) Roselle, 5) Roselle Catholic, 6) Roselle Park, 7) Scotch Plains, 8) Plainfield, 9) St. Patrick's, 10) New Providence, 11) Union Catholic, 12) St. Mary's, 13) Summit, 14) Westfield, 15) Dayton Regional, 16) Union, 17) Oratory Prep, 18) Governor Livingston Regional, 19) Rahway, 20) Cranford, 21) Brearley Regional.

Girls — 1) Linden, 2) Governor Livingston, 3) Union Catholic, 4) Union, 5) Brearley Regional, 6) Scotch Plains.

Bears place seventh in UCT

By Bob Taylor Jr.

Sports Correspondent Led by their four upper weight classes, the Bears of Brearley Regional High bounced back from a 37-28 defeat to Elizabeth with a strong showing in the Union County Wrestling Tournament this past weekend. Brearley, which placed a wrestler in each title bout from 160 pounds and up, ended up with 126.5 team points and a seventh-place finish in the county tournament.

At 160 pounds, senior captain Vic Verno (17-2) scored two early pins on Friday night, and then edged past Justin LaSala of Arthur Johnson Regional, 11-9, early on Saturday to reach the finals later that afternoon. Verno was outpointed, 17-10, by Paul Jordan of Westfield in the title match.

Junior Bob Taylor (16-2) also opened up with a pin on Friday at 171 pounds and defeated Dorian Giles of Elizabeth for the second time in four days in the quarterfinals. Taylor avenged his only previous loss by beating Rahway's Steve Marcantonio in the semifinals, before losing the final, 9-6, to Dave Patterson of Roselle Park.

At 189 pounds, Jose Rodriguez's road to the finals was more difficult.

Rodriguez (16-0) beat John Howard of Elizabeth in the opening round and followed up with quick falls over John Tilton of Roselle Catholic and Gary Jones of Rahway. Then in the finals against Vinnie Alberto of Union, Rodriguez won it within the final 30 seconds when he engineered a reversal and then proceeded to hold on for a 7-6 decision.

Heavyweight Scott DuBeau also fought his way to the finals. Despite giving at least 20 pounds to every opponent he faced, DuBeau got pins in every bout along the way, including a 30-second defeat of Dayton's Dejohn Cataldo in the semifinals.

DuBeau then met Union's Scott Platt in the heavyweight title bout and hung tough before being pinned in the second period.

At 135 pounds, Ron Cagno lost a tough 14-12 overtime match to Roselle Park's Pat McCafferty in the semis, and senior Andy Kimmel moved up one weight class to 152 pounds and wrestled back to the consolation finals, where he lost to Scott Rossander of Scotch Plains.

Clint Kaminski, following a disqualification due to a slam, wrestled back to sixth place at 140 pounds. Brearley, which is 9-2-1 and the

No. 2 seed in North Jersey, Group 1, Section 2, was scheduled to host Butler on Tuesday in the sectional semifinals.

By Kim Eagan Sports Correspondent

The Brearley Regional High girls' basketball team played its best game of the season last Friday night in beating Manville, 53-50, thus avenging an earlier 74-42 loss to the Lady Mustangs.

This time, Brearley was ready for Manville and its top scorer, Gabika Hlinka, who had scored 43 points against the Lady Bears last month. With Karen Savage contributing strong defense, Hlinka was held to 17 points and Brearley, after trailing by a 28-22 margin at the half, rallied in the second half to pull it

Don Tre, the driving professionals

Learning to drive on the heavily traveled roadways of the New York metropolitan area, such as Routes 22 and 78, the Garden State Parkway and Morris Avenue takes a lot of practice.

More importantly, it requires an experienced teacher schooled in every aspect of driving, from the working of the car's instrument panel to navigating the busiest highways. Don-Tre Driving School, the driving professionals, can offer teachers with experience that includes giving teen-age drivers their first taste of life behind the wheel.

The school is the idea of Don Carpenter, an assistant football coach and driver education instructor at New Providence High School.

"What prompted us to start the school is the fact that school systems have done away with driver ed because of budget cuts," said Carpenter, who started the school about two years ago with his daughters, Carol and Nancy. Today, NPHS football coach Frank Bottone also teaches at Don-Tre.

One dozen area high schools currently recommend Don-Tre to their students for behind-the-wheel education, including Union, Roselle Park, Linden and Westfield high schools. Don-Tre has also been recognized and endorsed by AAA.

House features crewel

The Miller-Cory House in Westfield will feature the craft of crewel embroidery on Sunday from 2-4 p.m. Crewel is a type of loosely-twisted, worsted yarn used for fancywork and embroidery.

Virginia Morbeck of Westfield will explain this form of needlework while working on an acorn design. In early America, women generally used hand-dyed yarn and left much of the background material showing on their crewelwork, while in Europe, the design usually covered the material. Linen cloth spun from flax fibers was the material most often used.

Women skilled in crewel embroidery were sure to impress suitors at a time when wives were often responsible for making the clothes, bed linens and towels for their families.

In addition to this program on crewel, Caroline Barna of Scotch Plains will discuss the many types of herbs used in cooking during the 18th and 19th centuries. Barna is a member of the museum's open hearth cooking

Two distinguished jazz personalities will be honored by the society for their many contributions to the world of jazz over the years. They are Marian McPartland; considered by many to be the premiere female jazz pianist of her time; and Hank O'Neal, who, over many years, has — as a promoter, producer, agent and recording executive — helped keep jazz a vital musical force.

Pastels color playhouse

The Rence Foosaner Art Gallery at the Paper Mill Playhouse is presenting an exhibition featuring works by members of the Pastel Society of America. The show will be on display from Wednesday through March 23.

The Pastel Society of America is the only national pastel society formed since William Merritt Chase organized one in 1884. The society's members include some of the most famous and innovative pastelists in Pastel is pure figment, the same as used in making all fine art paints. A work of pastel art is created by stroking streaks of dry pigment across an abrasive background, embedding the color in the "tooth" of the paper, sandboard or canvas.

The exhibition can be seen one hour before performances and during intermissions of "To Kill A Mockingbird" and on Fridays from 12 to 3 p.m. Call 379-3636 for a more complete schedule.

Cranford set to stage 'monkey trial'

The Cranford Dramatic Club, a community repertory theater that has been offering live theatre for more than 70 years, will next tackle the tense courtroom drama of "Inherit the Wind." Based on the actual Scopes "Monkey Trials" of the 1920s, the play was written by Jerome Lawrence and Robert Lee.

The Cranford production is being directed by club president Maurice Moran. Doris Polito will serve as assistant director and Leslie Ricci is the production manager.

The large cast includes Bob Pells as Henry Drummond and John Duryee as Matthew Harrison Brady, the two lawyers at opposite ends of the case; they are based on the real-life attorneys Clarence Darrow and William Jennings Bryan. Mark McLane is Bertram Cates, the teacher accused of instructing his students in the work of Charles Darwin and the theories of evolution, as opposed to the teachings of the Book of Genesis. Kristen Massa is his girlfirend Rachel, the daughter of the local preacher.

Making up the rest of the cast are Dennis Freeland, Bernie Weinstein, Sohel Sachek, Terry Weinstein, Barbara Goldstein, Elaine Dooman, Judy Kawaguchi, Megan Joyce, Alan Gershenson, Ed McGregor, Matt Ruple, Julie Zatkow, Mike Burd, Dennis Batish, Ed Wittel, Marc Chandler, Marilyn Vice and Greg Weber.

In addition to the performance, an exhibition of photographs taken by Jay Smith — supervisor of art and industrial arts for the Cranford school system — will be on display in the theater lobby throughout the run of the show.

Brooks makes a return in 'Robeson'

"Paul Robeson," Phillip Hayes Dean's one-man drama starring Avery Brooks as the extraordinary artist and activist, returns to New Brunswick for a five-performance engagement at the State Theatre on Livingston Avenue Feb. 21 to March

Presented by Crossroads Theatre Company, in association with Eric Krebs Theatrical Management, "Paul Robeson" will be performed at 8 p.m. on Feb. 21 and 22, 3 p.m. on Feb. 24, 8 p.m. on March 1 and 7:30 p.m. on March 3.

This production of "Paul Robeson," which also stars New Brunswick musician Ernie Scott as the accompanist Lawrence Brown, was first produced at Crossroads in 1982 with Brooks and Scott. A revival of Dean's 1978 drama, it received critical acclaim and has gone on to be performed around the country.

In 1988, it was produced off-Broadway by Eric Krebs at the Southstreet Theatre and on Broadway at the Golden Theatre. Last year, Krebs produced "Paul Robeson" at the John F. Kennedy for the Performing Arts in Washington D.C. and last summer at the National Black Arts Festival in Atlanta. Krebs is a co-founder of the George Street Playhouse in New Brunswick.

Brooks' portrayal of one of history's most intriguing figures has been called "electrifying" and "incredibly powerful and riveting." He brings life to the mythic Robeson in a series of vignettes that capture his oratorical, musical and dramatic achievements.

The life of Paul Robeson unfolds in the brief scenes that follow him through his early achievements and disappointments at Rutgers University, where he was the school's first all-American in football in 1917 and distinguished himself in academics; his brief stint as a lawyer; his acclaimed career on stage and film; and his international political activism - and support of Communism — that ultimately led to his censure in the United

Brooks — an accomplished actor, director, musician and teacher - is widely known as Hawk on television's "Spenser For Hire" and the spinoff series, "A Man Called Hawk." His stage credits include "Are You Now or Have You Ever Been?" as Paul Robeson, "The Offering" at the Negro Ensemble Company and as Malcolm X in the opera "X: The Life and Times of Malcolm X." He is a professor of theater at the Mason Gross School of the Arts at Rutgers University where he was the first black M.F.A. graduate in acting and

Scott, who also is music director for "Paul Robeson," most recently has been appearing in August Wilson's "The Piano Lesson" on Broadway. At Crossroads, he was in "Lady Day at Emerson's Bar and Grill." Scott teaches in the city school system and has served as music director for the Sharon Baptist Church in New Brunswick and Shiloh Baptist Church in Trenton.

"Paul Robeson" is directed by Harold Scott, whose work at Crossroads includes "Sty of the Blind Pig" and "Agnes of God." He also directed

Artist makes music for his own opening

The abstract expressionist urban landscapes of New York City artist Carmen Cicero will be on exhibition beginning Friday — and continuing through March 15 — in the James Howe Gallery of Vaughn-Eames Hall at Kean College of New Jersey.

A reception honoring Cicero, who was graduated from Newark State College — now Kean — in 1951, will be held from 3 to 5 p.m. on Feb. 24 in the gallery.

The exhibit will showcase the artist's abstract expressionist urban landscapes. In addition to Cicero's pastels and watercolors, which are for sale, the reception will feature the Cicero Jazz Quartet. The artist will lead his own musical group in entertaining visitors to the gallery reception. The quartet — saxaphone, clarinet, drums, piano and bass — is noted for its repertoire of jazz standards and be-bop classics.

Cicero was the recipient of a Kean College outstanding alumnus award in October, 1990. He did graduate work at Hunter College, City University of New York.

He has been exhibited widely in one-man shows in New York City, as well as nationally and internationally. His works were part of a recent drawings exhibition at the Museum of Modern Art. He also exhibited at the New York World's Fair and contributed to three Kean College Alumni Exhibits — in 1969, 1973 and 1980.

His works are in the collections of the National Museum of American Art in Washington D.C. and the Sheldon Memorial Art Gallery, University of Nebraska in Lincoln. His works also hang in the Museum of Modern

He has taught at Sarah Lawrence College and at Montclair State College.

The reception is free and open to the public. During regular hours, admission to the gallery is free. Hours are 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. and 5 to 7 p.m., Monday through Thursday; and 10 a.m. to 12 p.m. on Friday.

Geetlein opens concert series

The first in a series of concerts to be presented by the Second Presbyterian Church of Rahway will feature a recital by noted soprano Georgyn Geetlein. This varied musical program will be presented on Sunday at 4 p.m. at the church, 1221 New Brunswick Ave.

Geetlein is returning to the area for the first time since leaving her hometown of Scotch Plains to embark on her professional operatic career. She lists among her credits 22 performed roles in Verdi, Puccini and Mozart pieces — as the leading soprano — with opera companies in both Italy and the United States.

Pianist Victoria Griswold will accopany Geetlein. Griswold has performed both as a soloist and accompanist frequently in the Plainfield area, as well as touring throughout Europe and South America. The Rahway concert will include a Mozart concert aria; lieder of Mahler, Strauss and Wolf; an excerpt from Debussy's cantata, "La damoiselle elue;" songs by Copeland, Moussorsky, Gates and Malotte; and operatic selections from "Luisa Miller" and "Cavalleria Rusticana."

Rev. Josephine Cameron, minister of the Second Presbyterian Church of Rahway, and Wallington Hankerson Jr., director of music, noted that this inaugural performance is open to the public.

another country. The restaurant is steeped in Slavic and Hungarian culture, and the perfect combination of authentic food and lively entertainment makes dinner at The Wallington Exchange a true dining experience.

My companion and I were pleasantly surprised when we walked into the restaurant for the first time. The dining room was spacious and simple, but a small stage at the top of the room shimmered with Slavic cabaret decor. Stretched across the wall to our left was a long, clean bar, at which we were quickly seated for a cocktail.

New and interesting liquors from halfway around the world stocked the shelves, but I decided to make a selection from the array of imported and domestic beers offered. The decision was difficult - should I begin with a German weiss beer? A Grolsch from Holland? Or perhaps a Czechoslovakian pilsner? Finally, the choice was made, not by myself, but by the bartender, and I started off with a tall, tasty bottle of Russkove Lager, imported directly from Russia.

After a few minutes, with the evening's show about to begin, we were seated at our table with neatly at ranged silverware and plates, and a crisply folded napkin. A basket of fresh pumpernickel and rye bread and a bowl of butter was brought to our table immediately.

Our waitress, a charming and experienced server with a distinctly Slavic accent, recommended my choice - the Slavic Food Festival for $20. This choice was a complete 10-course meal with an all-you-caneat policy attached to each genuinely Eastern European delicacy. My companion ordered the Potato Pierogi dinner with sauteed onions and sour cream for $16.95.

We began our meal with a fresh fruit cup, followed by a steaming cup of Zupy Dnia - a beef and barley soup with potatoes, carrots and light spices. My first entree plate came with two plump, deliciously seasoned Chicken Paprikas, with Nokekli dumplings and gravy to the side. I also was presented with a bowl of Bigos - juicy cubes of beef and veal smothered with zesty cabbage and onion sauteed to perfection.

Meanwhile, the evening's entertainment took the stage. This night, and for the rest of September, Dimitri Bolgar performs as a delightful singing personality, accompanied by an authentic Slavic band and, on occasion, by an Egyptian belly dancer who tantalizes the audience with an act of her own.

As I finished my first course, our waitress brought on the second heaping dish. This time, tender, thinly sliced Brisket of Beef with gravy, wrapped around a pair of pierogies tulip-shape purses of dough overstuffed with creamy potato filling and topped with browned onions. My companion's dish came with six. I was also presented with a stuffed cabbage swimming in its own tangy

We ended our meal sharing a platter of Apple Strudel, Poppyseed Strudel and Cruschikis - Polish bow-shaped cookies lightly fried and sprinkled with powdered sugar. My companion ordered an espresso, while I enjoyed a Polish Coffee made with Cracovia -

We thoroughly enjoyed our evening of dining and entertainment at The Wallington Exchange. Next time, we will order something from the a la carte menu, which boasts a number of fresh fish, veal, beef and other dishes with prices ranging from $16.95 to $26.95.

Open Thursday through Saturday from 5 p.m., Sunday from 1 p.m. Any other day, by special arrangement. Entertainment is provided every night, with a cabaret charge on Friday and Saturday nights. Major credit cards accepted.

Buy Low - Sell High!

Buy Low - Sell High!

A common goal of investors in the stock market is "Buy low - sell high" Determining what is "low" and what is "high" can be difficult yet, if you know the difference, investing can be easy.

The same "Buy low-sell high" philosophy can work when buying or selling a home too, but there is a difference. Stock market investors may buy at will when prices are "down" and sell when they are "up", while you were probably not free to determine whether the housing market was "up" or "down" before buying your present home.

Your home purchase was predicated on some event, wasn't it? Perhaps a job transfer, an addition to the family, or a strong desire to "move up" created the need to purchase. A similar event may also prompt you to sell your home, based on a time frame over which you have little control. When that happens, the price you receive may have little relation to the price you paid.

Historically, real estate has risen in value. It has also experienced periodic up and down cycles, lasting from 3-10 years depending on the geographic market. If you purchased your home during the "down" portion of a cycle, and sell during the "high" cycle, a sizeable profit may be realized. You may just as easily have made your purchase just as homes reached the peak of a cycle. This does not mean you paid too much, but only that, at the time of your purchase, you paid the going price-the highest price in that price cycle. If you sell your home just a few years later, you may find that prices are the low end of the cycle, possibly resulting in a loss.

Either way-high or low - the value of your home today is whatever a "ready willing and able" buyer is currently paying for similar homes in your area. This can be determined by asking a REALTOR® to perform a "Competitive Market Analysis" on your home. The results can help you make an informed ecision about the sale of your home.

IF YOU'RE PLANNING TO SELL YOUR HOME SOON AND WOULD LIKE INFORMATION ON ITS CUR-RENT VALUE, GIVE ME A CALL AT 605-1340 eves. THERE IS NO COST OR OBLIGATION.
