Council adopts temporary budget; awaits state OK

By Suzette Stalker
Managing Editor

The Mountainside Borough Council on Tuesday adopted a temporary budget to cover municipal expenses for the month of May, while still awaiting state approval to adopt its tentative $5.3 million municipal budget for 1991. Adoption of the yearly budget has been delayed while the borough awaits approval from the New Jersey Department of Community Affairs.

Borough Administrator James Roberts confirmed that the governing body will continue to adopt these temporary budgets, which it has done since January, on a monthly basis until the state approves its 1991 budget. Temporary budgets cover municipal expenses for 30-day periods which would normally be included in the overall budget for the year.

The state has delayed its approval of municipal budgets while determining the municipal aid component of the Quality Education Act of 1990. This component provides property tax relief to New Jersey municipalities who face additional tax burdens because of the QEA.

The QEA mandates a reduction in state aid to New Jersey school districts by 25 percent annually between 1992 and 1996, and for municipalities to begin carrying the cost for teacher pensions and social security two years from now. Municipalities would therefore be compelled to raise property taxes to compensate for the loss in state aid.

The state is still in the process of establishing regulations to govern how property tax funds will be distributed among New Jersey municipalities, as well as how communities will have to account for the aid on the revenue side of their budgets, Roberts acknowledged.

"The state has not approved any budgets and until we get that approval, we can't adopt our budget," Roberts remarked. "The state has told us that they have over 400 municipal budgets which have not been approved."

Last week, the borough administrator confirmed that Mountainside is expected to receive $211,000 in property tax relief, which would result in a reduction of $60, or 4 tax points, for borough residents whose property has been assessed at $151,000.

Mountainside's 1991 municipal budget calls for a $388,038, or 7.84 percent, increase from last year. According to Roberts, the budget hike was due primarily to new federal regulations which prohibit agencies like the Rahway Valley Sewerage Authority from dumping sludge into the ocean.

The RVSA was obligated to develop a more expensive program for disposing of sludge on land, the cost of which has been passed on to authority customers.

Mountainside school board adopts 1991-92 budget

By Suzette Stalker
Managing Editor

The Mountainside Board of Education on Monday unanimously adopted its $4,482,358 budget for 1991-92 following a public hearing at Deerfield School attended by approximately 25 borough residents, many of whom expressed support for the budget and the board's efforts to control costs.

The budget, which marks a 6.5 percent increase over 1990-91, calls for $3,445,910 to be raised by municipal taxes, with the remainder provided by various sources of revenue. It will now go before voters on April 30, when candidates for local and Union County regional school boards will also be chosen.

Before taking their vote, board members appealed to members of the audience to support the budget, maintaining they had kept it as lean as possible without compromising the quality of education in the Mountainside school district. They also recounted their difficulties developing the budget created by the late arrival of state aid figures.

The categories which represent the largest portion of budget expenditures are fixed charges, which rose 114 percent from $543,397 in 1990-91 to $1,162,388 this year, and the instruction category, which rose 8.9 percent from $1,869,787 in 1990-91 to $2,036,305 for 1991-92.

Fixed charges include the board's share of expenditures to Social Security for members of the Teacher Pension Annuity Fund and for non-TPAF employees, retirement funds, insurance and tuition for special education students. The last of these categories rose by approximately 70 percent since last year.

Board member Raymond Fisher explained that the hefty increase in fixed charges was due primarily to the state's requirement under the amended Quality Education Act that New Jersey school budgets reflect the cost of teacher pension and Social Security, even though these expenses will be picked up by the state for another two years.

These costs — totaling $494,538 — will be deposited in teachers' pension accounts as of July 1. This amount includes $144,813 toward Social Security for members of the TPAF and $349,725 for expenditures to the TPAF retirement fund. After two years, these costs will have to be assumed by the board.

Fisher advised that the fixed costs reflected in the 1991-92 budget "represent such a whopping increase that unless the QEA is changed, we'll be required to pick up nearly $500,000 in two years. However, that is a matter of concern for the future, not for this year's budget."

The instruction category covers the salaries of principals, supervisors, teachers and other instructional staff, clerical and miscellaneous salaries, textbooks, library and audio-visual materials, teaching supplies and other instructional expenses, board member Richard Kress said.

Into this category fall the negotiated salary increases for Deerfield School teachers, who are in the second year of a two-year contract, plus provisions for a 1.6 percent increase in staff members. The board is planning to add a third section to Deerfield's fifth grade, as well as to its social studies and science classes for sixth-, seventh- and eighth-graders.

The board will also be receiving various other sources of revenue total-

Regional school board adopts $36 million budget

By Suzette Stalker
Managing Editor

The Board of Education of Union County Regional High School District 1 last week adopted its $36 million budget for 1991-92 following a public hearing held at Governor Livingston Regional High School in Berkeley Heights. The new budget represents a 5.51 percent spending increase from 1990-91.

District 1 includes Jonathan Dayton Regional High School in Springfield, which enrolls Mountainside students; David Brearley Regional High School in Kenilworth, Arthur L. Johnson Regional High School in Clark, and Governor Livingston. There are approximately 2,132 students enrolled altogether at the four high schools.

The 1991-92 budget will now go before Regional District voters on April 30, when school elections are held throughout the state. Voters will also cast their ballots that day for three candidates seeking two available seats on the regional school board this year.

Regional Superintendent of Schools Dr. Donald Merachnik told about 25 members of the public on April 9 that the board, in developing this year's budget, took into consideration the concerns of district taxpayers, needs of the district and the pending impact of the Quality Education Act.

The Regional District will lose all of its transition state aid of $1,220,000 at a rate of 25 percent annually between 1992-93 and 1995-96 until it is eliminated completely.

A budget cap has also been imposed by the state which prohibits school boards from increasing their budgets by more than 7.5 percent from the previous year unless placed on a ballot and approved by voters.

In addition, any surplus or unappropriated balances, which in past years were used to offset the amount of money to be raised through taxation, will be limited. School districts will no longer be able to maintain large amounts for this purpose.

Although the state has assumed the cost of teacher pensions and Social Security for the next two years, New Jersey school districts will be obligated to pick up these expenses by 1993-94. Pension and Social Security costs will also be considered under the 7.5 percent budget cap.

These costs, which have been estimated at $3.6 million for next year, are expected to rise by 11 percent annually, meaning that by 1993-94 the Regional District would likely have to assume an additional tax burden of $3 million unless additional aid from the state is received.

"We have only two years to get ready for this severe fiscal crunch," Merachnik remarked. "Your Board of Education must, therefore, begin in 1991-92 to take down our spending wherever possible. We may be in the beginning stages of a 'downsizing' of activities, services, staff and programs in this district." The Regional Board has developed several strategies by which it hopes to compensate for the loss in state aid while still maintaining as many existing services and programs as possible. One will be to continue consolidation of administrative and supervisory positions wherever it is practical.

Parade to start season for Little League teams

By Suzette Stalker
Managing Editor

Mountainside Little League will celebrate the start of a new season Saturday with its annual Opening Day parade, which will begin at 9 a.m. at the corner of Wood Valley Road and Stony Brook Lane and conclude approximately an hour later at the Deerfield School ballfield, Central Avenue and School Drive.

Little League and Recreational Girls Softball players — 250 children in all — will be joined by family members and friends, plus representatives of the Mountainside Borough Council, Recreation Commission, Police and Fire departments and Rescue Squad, as they travel the parade route.

The PTAs of both Deerfield School and Our Lady of Lourdes School are also expected to participate in the Opening Day festivities, which have been a popular tradition in Mountainside for 38 years, according to Mountainside Little League President George Serio.

An Opening Day ceremony will be held at the Deerfield School ballfield, Central Avenue and School Drive, following the parade. The Deerfield

School band, under the direction of Sandi Wagner, will perform the national anthem.

Representatives from the various municipal departments participating in the event are also expected to offer their best wishes to the teams.

Mountainside Little League comprises 18 teams. There are six teams in the American League, for players ages 7-9; six teams in the Major League, for players ages 10-12; and six teams in the Pony League, for older adolescents. Three of the teams in the Pony League are from Springfield.

Recreational Girls Softball includes youngsters in grades 4-8.

Lt. Joseph Mazur, who will be retiring in August from the Mountainside Police Department, will throw out the ceremonial first pitch, Serio said. Seven games altogether are scheduled to be played on Saturday, plus a T-ball game for 6- and 7-year-olds.

"The whole town turns out for this," Serio commented on Monday. "It's really the only event which has a parade. It gets parents and children involved, and we get a good turnout. We even have people who don't have kids in Little League anymore come out and cheer us on."

GOP candidates unopposed

By Suzette Stalker
Managing Editor

Mountainside Borough Clerk Kathleen Toland has confirmed that three Republicans will be running unopposed for the mayor's position and two vacant seats on the Mountainside Borough Council this year. The deadline for filing nominating petitions to run in the June primary ended last Thursday at 4 p.m.

Mayor Robert Vigilanti, who declined nominations to the Union County Board of Chosen Freeholders and state Assembly in order to concentrate on his mayoral duties, will be seeking a second term. He has been a member of the governing body for 12 years.

Councilman Robert Wyckoff, a governing body representative for eight years, will be seeking his fourth term. The candidate currently chairs the council's Public Works and Facilities Committee and also serves on various other committees.

Robert Beattie, a member of the Mountainside Board of Adjustment for two years, is making his first bid for council. He is running for the seat now held by Councilwoman Dr. Marilyn Hart, who is not seeking reelection. Hart has served on the council 11 years.

Board OKs budget

The board is also planning to reduce the number of district staff members by not replacing faculty who are scheduled to retire; by operating fewer classes with low student enrollment; by increasing class size in courses with several sections; and by reducing from the curriculum staff and programs no longer required due to changes in course preference by students.

Although the classroom phase of Driver Education will continue to be offered, behind-the-wheel instruction for high school students will be eliminated from the daytime curriculum beginning in September. This course will be offered through the Regional Adult School program paid for by student tuition.

The Regional Adult School, formerly held at all four high schools, will be consolidated at Jonathan Dayton and Arthur L. Johnson, which currently house the majority of the programs.

This process, while it will save the district $11,000, will not diminish the number of course offerings. However, Adult School students will be charged an additional $4 registration fee to enroll in the programs.

The Adult High School, which provides classes for those who never earned a high school diploma, will close after June 30, 1992, because the QEA contains no future provisions for adult high school programs.

Transition aid which the district will receive next year will include funds for adult school enrollments which took place in 1989-90. All staff and students currently participating in the Adult High School programs will be notified of the closure a year in advance.

Finally, the Summer Cultural Arts Program for students, graduates and adults will be discontinued after the summer of this year due to "these times of fiscal restraint and the need to concentrate on our programs and services for students in grades 9-12," according to Merachnik.

If voters reject the 1991-92 regional school budget, as happened last year despite the board's having formulated a budget with a zero percent increase in spending, the budget will be reviewed by the mayors and municipal governments of the six communities comprising the Regional District.

Municipal officials from the six communities — including Springfield, Mountainside, Kenilworth, Clark, Garwood and Berkeley Heights — will subsequently convene with the Regional Board of Education at a public meeting to discuss prospective reductions in the budget.

"Hopefully, the voters will recognize the fine job completed by your board in keeping this budget to a sound and reasonable level," Merachnik remarked. "We have tried to balance the needs of our students for a solid and comprehensive education required today with the urgent concerns of our taxpaying residents. And, I believe we have accomplished this."

"I urge every parent and resident of this district to strongly support the board's decision and the budget on April 30 whether the budget includes everything in it that you wanted or not," the superintendent added.

Credit card theft is reported

police blotter

An Avenel resident employed by Children's Specialized Hospital reported on April 11 that her wallet containing eight credit cards and the victim's vehicle registration was stolen from her purse in her office at approximately 2 p.m. on April 3, according to Mountainside Police Chief William Alder.

Police suspect that a person who was interviewed by the victim that day may have been responsible for the theft, Alder said. The suspect later allegedly attempted to use one of the stolen credit cards to purchase jewelry from a Springfield store.

Four people were arrested recently and charged with driving while intoxicated, according to Mountain-side police. Harold Persaud, 30, of Jamaica, N.Y., was arrested April 10 at 12:53 a.m. at Milepost 48.8 of Route 22 Westbound.

Nicholas Hilar, 22, of Springfield was arrested April 13 at 1:09 a.m. on Sheffield Street and Route 22 Westbound. William Keaveney, 28, of Scotch Plains was arrested at Milepost 48.8 of Route 22 at 1:09 a.m. George Monarque, 25, of Westfield was arrested April 13 at 2:55 a.m. on Mountain Avenue.

Candidates Night slated

The Mountainside Parent-Teachers Association will hold a Candidates Night for the three individuals running for two seats on the Mountainside Board of Education on Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. in the Deerfield School cafeteria, Central Avenue and School Drive, Mountainside.

Candidate Raymond Fisher will make opening comments first, followed by fellow nominees Frank Geiger and Linda Esemplare. The floor will then be opened to questions from the audience. The election for the Board of Education seats and the Mountainside school budget will be held April 30.

The Mountainside PTA executive board voted unanimously to support the school budget at its March meeting.

1991-92 budget adopted

ing $1,036,448, board member James Pascuiti explained. This figure includes teacher pension and Social Security costs paid by the state, as well as $276,010 in state aid and $30,900 in federal aid.

In addition, a total of $50,000 in surplus from 1990-91 has been appropriated toward this year's budget. The board will also be receiving $75,000 in rent from the Vail-Deane School, though several members of the audience questioned how future budgets would be affected after Vail-Deane closes in 1992.

Leonard Bacarro, superintendent of Deerfield School, reported that the board is currently seeking educational tenants to possibly take over the Vail-Deane building after the private school's lease expires next year.

Mountainside health program planned

The Mountainside Board of Health has announced that it will conduct a Health Day on May 11 from 9 a.m.-11 a.m. at the Mountainside Municipal Building, 1385 Route 22 East, Mountainside. It will be open exclusively to residents of Mountainside, Westfield, Fanwood and Garwood.

The Health Program will offer an extensive blood screening, consisting of a SMAC 26, a complete blood count and a high density lipoprotein.

SMAC 26 is an elaborate blood analysis monitoring several bodily functions. The CBC test is a proce-ducing which includes a red blood cell count, a white blood cell count and a differential count. The CBC test may indicate the presence of infection, anemia, allergies, lung disease and other test indications.

The HDL test measures factors protective against coronary heart disease. SMAC 26 is used in assessing total cholesterol results, to determine possible coronary risk factors.

Robert M. Sherr, director of health, has advised that anyone taking the blood test must fast 12 hours before taking the test, with the exception of water.

Pre-registration for the blood test is mandatory and will be conducted by the Westfield Health Department, 425 E. Broad St., Westfield, weekdays between 9 a.m. and 4 p.m. beginning April 29.

The registration deadline is 4 p.m. on May 9. However, registration is limited and may be discontinued if program capacity is reached prior to the scheduled deadline. The cost associated with the blood test is $14.

School elections to decide budget fates

The school election being conducted by Union County Regional High School District 1 on April 30 is just one of approximately 550 school district elections being held on that day. These elections will decide the fate of school budgets for the 1991-92 school year and, in many districts, there will be contests for seats on the board of education.

In the Union County Regional High School district, which includes the municipalities of Springfield, Mountainside, Kenilworth, Clark, Garwood and Berkeley Heights, voters will have the opportunity to approve a 1991-92 budget of $36,049,840 for the four Regional high schools.

The Regional high schools include Jonathan Dayton Regional High School in Springfield, which enrolls Springfield and Mountainside students; David Brearley Regional High School in Kenilworth, Arthur L. Johnson Regional High School in Clark and Governor Livingston Regional High School in Berkeley Heights.

The 1991-92 budget represents a 5.51 percent increase over the current Regional District school budget, yet it is still nearly $1.7 million under the state-approved budget cap for school districts. All six Regional District communities share in the total budget appropriations.

The Regional school budget vote is different than the elections being held by the elementary school districts of the six constituent communities which are served by the Regional high schools. Therefore, Regional District residents will be asked to vote in two school elections April 30, both for the Regional Board of Education and their local school board.

Voters in Springfield, Mountainside and Garwood will have an opportunity to choose one person to fill a three-year term on the Regional Board of Education.

In Springfield, voters will be asked to vote for one candidate, either Board President Natalie Waldt, the incumbent, or challenger Charles Jordan

Levy. In Mountainside, newcomer Carmine Venes is running without opposition to become that borough's representative to the Regional Board.

The polls will be open April 30 from 2 to 9 p.m. Regional District residents may vote in the Regional and local school elections at the following polling places:

In Springfield: Residents of Districts 1 through 6 will go to James Caldwell School, Caldwell Place; Districts 7 through 10 will go to Florence M. Gaudineer School, South Springfield Avenue and Districts 11-14 will go to Thelma L. Sandmeier School, South Springfield Avenue.

In Mountainside: Residents of all school districts will go to Deerfield School, Central Avenue and School Drive.

For additional information, one can call 376-6300, extension 328.

CAN'T SAY NO — Springfield resident Chris Treglio, left, playing Will Parker, and Mountainside resident Jill Mennella, right, portraying Ado Annie, rehearse a scene from 'Oklahoma!' to be presented at Jonathan Dayton Regional High School in Springfield on Friday and Saturday at 8 p.m. There will be a special performance for senior citizens tonight at 7 p.m. For ticket information, call 376-6300.

LITTLE ARTIST, BIG TALENT — Colby Tiss, second from right, a first-grade student at James Caldwell School in Springfield, was a finalist in Channel 13's Student Arts Festival. The youngster's painting, 'Fun at the Beach,' was one of 100 chosen to be exhibited at Sothebys New York from more than 4,000 entries. The painting will be shown on Channel 13 TV on May 29 at 4:58 p.m. and then will travel in a tri-state exhibition this year. Pictured with the young artist is her father, Gary, her mother, Debby, right, and art teacher Marilyn Schneider.

Springfielder is a trustee

Margaret Rosario Rivera of Springfield, manager of budget and space for the Personnel Computer Resource Center at Bellcore, has been appointed by Gov. James Florio to Montclair State College's board of trustees for a six-year term.

Rivera joins eight other board members in providing oversight to every area of Montclair State's academic, administrative and student services programs.

Following a year of service as a probation officer in Middlesex County, Rivera entered higher education as an admissions counselor for the Rutgers University Colleges of Engineering and Pharmacy, specializing in recruitment of minority students.

In 1976, she was promoted to senior counselor within the overall undergraduate admissions office at Rutgers' New Brunswick campus, where she worked closely with the university's Educational Opportunity Fund Program. She was named director of Admissions at Livingston College in 1979.

Rivera joined Bellcore's Piscataway Office as an associate director of university relations in 1984. In that capacity, she administered the company's Graduate Fellowship Program for Minorities and Women and its nationwide technical summer employment program. She now works in Bellcore's Livingston office.

Trailside volunteers wanted

Trailside Nature and Science Center, Coles Avenue and New Providence Road, Mountainside is seeking capable volunteers to assist staff naturalists with summer programs. Volunteers are needed to work with children ages 4-6, first and second graders and third, fourth, fifth and seventh graders.

Anyone wishing to volunteer should be reliable and have some experience working with children and enjoy working in the outdoors. Volunteers will have an opportunity to meet new people and gain valuable experience and skills while working at a Union County facility located in the Watchung Reservation.

To volunteer one's time or to obtain more information, one can call Betty Ann Kelly, assistant director, Tuesday through Friday at 789-3670. Trailside is a facility of the Union County Department of Parks and Recreation.

Trailside invites area residents to explore Earth's nearest star on Sundays at 2 and 3:30 p.m. at a planetarium show titled "Everyday Is Sunday." Participants will find out how the space craft Ulysses will offer people a three-dimensional perspective on the sun as never before revealed.

Springfield postmaster reports theft of mail

Postmaster William G. Daniels of the Springfield Post Office reported the theft of United States mail from the Morris Avenue area on April 9 at approximately 3 p.m. The pieces of mail were subsequently recovered intact and placed back into the mail-stream with minimal delay.

However, some of the recovered mails were tampered with and are being redirected back to the senders with a letter of explanation enclosed. If anyone has any information or questions regarding the mail thefts, they are requested to contact Postmaster Daniels at 376-1138. All calls will be kept strictly confidential.

Recycled newsprint lessens solid waste

This is the second installment of a three-part series dealing with current environmental issues affecting the Worrall Community Newspapers area. Next week Earth Day activities will be dealt with in this space.

For newspaper readers the difference between virgin and recycled newsprint is almost imperceptible.

It may feel a bit heavier. It may look a shade darker. And, it may constitute just half the pages of the newspaper. But to cost-conscious public officials and environmentalists across the state, it is the critical difference between budget-busting and affordable dumping fees, and between bleak and optimistic environmental forecasts.

According to a report published in January, more than six newspapers in 10 are recycled in New Jersey and the rate is steadily increasing. With a rate approaching 70 percent and constituting more than 4 percent of the entire solid waste stream in New Jersey, newspaper is just one of over 25 items targeted by private and public organizations to contribute to the recycling stream in what the Department of Environmental Protection has called "the challenge of the '90s."

Challenge of the 1990s
According to this report, published by the governor's Solid Waste Assessment Task Force, the state is meeting this challenge with such success that it recommended the state more than double its recycling rate by 1996.

The task force based its recommendations on an assessment of on-going state and national recycling efforts and subsequent projections. All 21 counties in the state have mandatory programs of varying magnitude in place, and, according to the report, the 500 municipalities in New Jersey with curbside programs "constitute over 25 percent of all the curbside programs in the nation."

According to the task force analysis, using 1988 figures, 5.4 million tons, or 39 percent, of the solid waste stream was recycled. Twenty-four percent of the stream consisted of recycled municipal solid waste including paper, glass, metals, plastic, yard waste, asphalt, concrete and demolition waste. Industrial sources accounted for an additional 2.7 tons. Union and Essex counties each reported rates of 43 percent and 49 percent respectively. The DEP is estimating a recycling rate of 42 percent for 1990.

A reasonable goal
Forecasts for increasing the recycling rate to 60 percent by 1996 have been generally optimistic. Despite questions regarding methods of data compilation and analysis, the public and private sectors are in general accord about ways of improving and accelerating the recycling campaign.

Areas including education and monetary incentives to recycle are being examined, where not already in place. Businesses and governments — local, county and state — have been called on to act as the catalyst for development of a recycling market by full conversion to the use of recycled paper.

Education, the lone qualitative factor in the recycling equation, has been called the key to meeting the 60-percent goal.

"People are going to have to change the way they think," said Union County Recycling Coordinator Joan Buhrendorf. "We're going to have to see items like newspaper and aluminum cans as raw materials, as commodities. We're going to have to change the American habit of throwing things away after first use, and change our buying habits in order to create a market for these raw materials."

According to Buhrendorf, Union County is scheduled to introduce an education program covering "all facets of recycling" this summer. Union County handles collection for some of the towns in the Worrall Community Newspapers area.

The Occupational Center, which collects recyclables for 13 communities including parts of Newark, West Orange, Bloomfield, Glen Ridge, Irvington, Maplewood and South Orange, also is optimistic about reaching the 60-percent level and, through mailings, has educated residents about the need to recycle.

But, because of the reluctance of some people to recycle, a number of proponents have suggested teaching by example.

"I think the government will have the greatest multiplier effect on establishing a viable market for recycled items," said Marie Krizan of the Association of New Jersey Recyclers. "They use tons and tons of paper. Their full participation would double the acceleration of the market place."

At the other end of the loop, the government has gotten involved. The state is currently required under the Mandatory Source Separation and Recycling Act to spend 45 percent of the amount they allocate for paper products for the purchase of recycled paper and paper products. According to the task force report, the state is encouraging counties and municipalities to reach this goal.

The state has also attempted to stimulate the free market through the 1985 Recycling Act, which provides for a 50-percent credit for businesses purchasing recycling equipment in New Jersey. Most recently, the Marcal Paper Company received a $3 million low interest loan for development of its New Jersey-based recycling facility. The state is currently engaged in market development and research studies for the benefit of the private sector, including analyses of composting methods and environmental assessments of the manufacture and disposal of disposable packaging.

According to Jeanne Clark of the Recyclers Forum, the government example should remain just that — an example. The increased quantity and quality of the final product — whether newsprint, glass, aluminum or construction and demolition waste — has been identified as a critical component to the completion of the recycling loop.

"If we are to meet the new expanded goal set by the task force, we're going to have to upgrade the quality of the final product and expand markets for such materials as glass and paper," Clark said.

However, because manufacturers do not always see a cost benefit to using recycled materials, their participation is motivated by a non-monetary concern — the will of the people. McDonald's, for instance, switched to recyclable packaging for its food when pressured to be "environmentally correct."

A savings to taxpayers?
Overall, by reducing the volume of solid waste which must be hauled to landfills or burned, municipalities are reducing their tipping fee bills. But for many communities the savings ends there.

The graphic illustrates the flow of recyclable materials, such as aluminum through an entire loop. Household products enter the stream and are picked up by a collector, who delivers the materials to a processor who turns the items into a usable form. From there the product is used by a manufacturer and then returned to the household.

According to Dick Menkes, who serves as an intermediary between towns and manufacturers which use recyclables, politicians in many cases instituted short-cut recycling programs, which in the long run will cost the taxpayers money.

Menkes said that politicians instituted programs which did not require source separation because it was hypothesized that a larger percentage of recyclables would be collected commingled. But Menkes added that towns need to pay for co-mingled paper and other recyclables to be disposed of while separated materials are receiving top-dollar.

"None of these politicians has any fiduciary responsibility to the people," Menkes said. "They do it because it's mandatory. Anyone who has any association with the way politicians talk knows that when it's mandated by the state, local politicians don't care."

Menkes said that when newsprint is separated from other paper, domestic companies will pay $20-$25 per ton. However, co-mingled paper must be sent overseas at a cost to the municipalities. Towns are willing to pay this price because the paper is removed from the garbage stream, however if the paper were sorted before being picked up, it could be a revenue for the town.

ADJUSTING THE SPINE
If there are any misalignments or structural imbalances in your spine that may be causing health problems, your doctor of chiropractic will make adjustments that may be needed to restore you to good health.
"Adjustment" is a term used to indicate treatment given to vertebrae in your spine that may be displaced or are failing to function normally. They may be out of alignment, causing a disturbance to your nervous system by interfering with normal nerve supply.
The treatment may begin with palpation or examining your spine by touch. Gentle manipulation may then be used to correct the defect causing the misalignment. As you lay comfortably on a specially designed adjusting table, the doctor will apply a gentle pressure to the areas of the spine that are out of alignment or do not move properly within their normal range of motion.
It is the premise of the chiropractic profession that many ills are the result of improper nerve supply. By using his highly-trained manipulation techniques he works to restore proper nerve function to your body.

Tax-deferred annuities reduce taxes and build assets.
You'll earn retirement income that's guaranteed. A Tax-Deferred Annuity* is a powerful way to build your assets for the future. It postpones taxes until you make withdrawals,** so your money grows faster. In fact, in twenty years, it can yield almost twice as much money as a fully taxable investment opened at the same time.†
In addition, a Tax-Deferred Annuity can offer guaranteed monthly income that starts and ends when you choose... 10 years, 15 years or for life.** And your principal and interest are fully guaranteed by one of the highest rated insurance companies in America.
You'll get a high rate on your opening balance... plus a 1% bonus for the first year. For example, as of April 1, the current annual market rate†† was 7.95% which makes your bonus rate 8.95% for the first year. After that, your opening balance will earn the current annual market rate. What's more, every time you add $50 or more to your annuity you'll receive a 1% bonus over the current annual market rate, guaranteed for one year.

Student is recognized

Seventeen-year-old Kathy McCabe of Springfield, a senior at Jonathan Dayton Regional High School in Springfield, has been named as her school's "Student-of-the-Month" for April based upon her outstanding academic record as well as her involvement in athletics and her extracurricular activities.

McCabe has attained a grade-point average of 3.5 on a scale of 4.0 and is ranked sixth academically in this year's senior class at Jonathan Dayton.

She serves as the president of the Jonathan Dayton Key Club; editor-in-chief of the Dayton Journal, the school's newspaper and secretary of the Dayton French Club.

She is also an active member of the National Honor Society, the French Language Honor Society, the Varsity tennis and track teams and the staff of the "Melopoeia," the Jonathan Dayton student literary magazine. McCabe has also found time to volunteer at Children's Specialized Hospital in Mountainside.

After graduating from Jonathan Dayton in June, McCabe is planning to attend either Amherst College, Northwestern University, Tufts University, Rutgers University or George Washington University. Once in college, she intends to pursue a major course of study in international relations.

Judith Wickline, right, principal of Jonathan Dayton Regional High School in Springfield, presents a plaque to Jonathan Dayton senior Kathy McCabe which signifies the student's designation as her school's 'Student-of-the-Month' for April. McCabe was recognized for her academic and athletic accomplishments at Dayton as well as for her extracurricular activities.

Global responsibility

Remember Earth Day? Inaugurated 21 years ago, Earth Day generated a great deal of interest with the general public last year and its 20th anniversary coincided with an unparalleled public awareness of environmental issues that hadn't been seen before, or, sadly, since.

Earth Day 1990 was supposed to usher in the Decade of the Planet, powered by a growing global awareness of the damage that human "progress" has done to the world around us — from the oil-fouled beaches of Alaska to the ozone hole over Antarctica, from Japanese whaling vessels to the burning Amazon rainforests.

But Earth Day 1990 passed, and the environmental momentum seems to have subsided, with Americans now more concerned with the recession and saving their own economic hides.

Nevertheless, the flurry of environmental concern during the past few years has effected a substantial change on segments of the population, a very important change that represents a shift since the first Earth Day.

Twenty years ago, environmental advocates demanded government action and legislation to reduce pollution and put an end to environmental wreckage. Now, people have turned toward introspection, realizing what each of us can do to protect the world, and how each of us shares in the blame for the environmental ills that persist.

In realizing our own guilt, we also have acknowledged our ability as consumers to effect — to demand — positive change. With such knowledge comes power, and we must learn to use that power more forcefully and more often.

The tuna boycott is a fine example of what consumer power can do. Faced with a growing tide of animosity about dolphin deaths as a result of tuna fishing practices, the top three U.S. tuna producers adopted "dolphin-safe" policies.

But, the voluntary decision by Chicken of the Sea, Bumble Bee and Star-Kist to become dolphin-safe also resulted in a stalling of the Marine Mammal Protection Act, federal legislation that would have enforced such dolphin-safe practices. In the absence of legislation, we have to trust the tuna companies to comply with their own lofty standards. And then, generic and supermarket brand tuna, as well as restaurant and food service suppliers, and foreign importers offer no guarantees, allowing dolphin poignants to continue.

The ecological-war waged in the Middle East is wreaking such devastating environmental damage that we can imagine some people giving up. When hundreds of oil wells are burning in Kuwait and endangered dugongs and sea turtles are dying in the oil-contaminated marine world of the Persian Gulf, who can care that each aluminum can we recycle saves energy enough to power a television for three hours? It seems futile.

But by taking individual, personal responsibility for the environment, and for the effects, positive and negative, that our very presence has on the world, we can impact upon our environment, especially on a local level, by taking steps, some simple, some tough, to change our lives.

Above all on Earth Day this Sunday, we each should make an effort to be more aware of the world around us. Think of how much time we spend indoors. By making a conscious effort to spend time out and in the world around us, we are likely to benefit from a resulting increase in concern for and understanding of our world and our place in it.

candidates corner

The following statements were written and submitted by the candidates running for the Mountainside Board of Education. Elections will be held on April 30.

Linda Esemplare

Educational excellence for each child can be affordable for the taxpayer.

The Quality Education Act of 1990 was passed to improve the quality of education and give the relief to the taxpayer. We all know there is no real relief. The quality of education children receive has not been identified nor has anyone mentioned how it is to be measured. There is no accountability.

The biggest problem that we in Mountainside will be facing in a couple of years because of the Quality Education Act is possibly paying for pensions and Social Security. This year we will be getting approximately $19,000 in transition aid. We will lose about $5,000 of this aid each subsequent year. If the state mandates our paying for pensions and Social Security in 1991, we will need to budget an additional $500,000.

According to a Daily Journal editorial on April 9, "A National Education Association survey shows that no other state in the country spends more per pupil than New Jersey — $8,439 per year in 1990. One legislator said, New Jersey Schools spend twice the national average for administration costs." Mountainside's cost of education per pupil for 1989-90 was $6,763, according to the New Jersey School Boards Cost of Education Index — ranking ninth in the county.

A high cost of education per child does not insure quality education. We must establish what children should learn and put money in the accounts that will guarantee children a quality education.

Philosophies differ on educational excellence — I firmly believe that every child from the highest to the lowest needs to be exposed to a variety of materials and offerings. Children have to be able to read, write, do arithmetic and think for themselves before they can rely on machines. They need to build a strong foundation based on their own skills before they can master higher levels of competency. I want to see our out-of-district children brought back to our schools and educated in the mainstream with whatever additional help is necessary.

During my tenure on the Board of Education, I was instrumental in reducing the number of buses used in the district. I continue to look for ways to reduce expenditures — consolidate positions where possible, cap administration salaries, freeze or reduce expense accounts, etc. — while providing quality education.

I am running for re-election to the Mountainside Board of Education to insure that our tax dollars will be spent wisely and prudently — on the education of our children.

Candidates night, sponsored by the PTA and League of Women Voters, will be held Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. in Deerfield School. Plan to attend.

Raymond Fisher

Next September when school reopens, only three currently sitting school board members would have children at Deerfield — Mr. Pascutti, Mr. Kress and myself. And of these three, only I will have new children at both the elementary and middle-school levels at Deerfield. Quite simply, I see myself as a strong advocate for a continued high quality education for all the children at Deerfield. Because I have two children who will continue enrollment at Deerfield, I obviously have a vested interest in maintaining — indeed improving — the high quality of our educational system here in Mountainside. Thus, first and foremost, the best education for all our children at Deerfield is and will continue to be my first priority.

The times we are entering upon are fraught with peril for high caliber but relatively small school districts like Deerfield. As a businessman and taxpayer, I too am sick of the ever increasing spiral of federal, state and local taxes. I also sense in the electorate a disgust with "politics" in general and "politicos" in particular. In such a climate, public office holders must be especially responsive to the needs of their taxpaying constituents. However, I strongly believe that for a local school board candidate, that responsiveness cannot be to the detriment of our children's education.

I am a strong believer in local control over Deerfield School. Thus, I would not favor any dilution of that control, for instance by merger or regionalization, since I strongly believe that as a community we will be judged by our commitment to the quality of our children's educational future. I further believe that the only way we can guarantee that educational future is through strong local control.

Finally, I believe that the greatest challenge facing us in the near future is Governor Florio's so-called Quality Education Act. The QEA, as presently formulated, purports to pump an additional $1.1 billion into local school districts. Deerfield's share is a pittance, less than $20,000. However, as presently formulated, the QEA also requires all local school districts in two years to "take over" the pension and Social Security costs for our teachers, a cost traditionally paid for completely by state government. On a statewide basis, this cost currently exceeds $900 million annually. Here in Mountainside, it is currently about $500,000 annually, which represents approximately 13.5 percent of our current operating budget. This amount dwarfs every local school tax increase which we have had here in Mountainside in recent history. By the same token, the QEA puts a tight cap on our local school budget — this year a meager 7.65 percent. Thus, the QEA threatens to squeeze the "quality" out of our high caliber educational programs here in Mountainside, the same as California's tax revolt in the late 1970s, which is generally given credit today for ruining and almost bankrupting one of the best educational systems in the country.

To survive and, indeed, thrive will be a great challenge. We must be prepared to become an activist school board, educating our citizens to our concerns and petitioning and lobbying our legislators as necessary. We must also pursue and encourage alternate funding sources. Our Community Playground Project, which will primarily benefit present and future Deerfield students, is a good example. In the future, we will have to be even more creative — perhaps through business-school partnerships and the like.

Frank Geiger

A college professor I once had required of me to use a pencil (only a pencil) for my entire course in creative writing. I questioned him as to why I was not able to use my electric typewriter. "Mr. Geiger," he explained, "an electric typewriter is a fine writing instrument, but you can't take it with you. I want you to be able to write away from your desk whenever the idea strikes you."

I was reminded of Dr. Roberts when I began to think about the unique task we in Mountainside have in giving our children a proper education. Unlike other districts whose children continue onto a local high school, we are compelled to give them an education that they must be able to "take with them."

Even beyond high school, our children will face a truly global college experience. Indeed, the educational foundation they receive here in Mountainside will be the determining factor in whether or not our children will face each obstacle of learning and living with a sufficient eagerness to succeed. Our goal as Board of Education members should be to assist in providing the tools and teachers necessary to equip these students of the '90s. I sincerely believe that I can be a valuable asset on such a board.

As I'm sure many are now aware, the recently enacted Quality Education Act has put an added burden upon our local citizens to be responsible for an even larger portion of our schools' budget. I know Mountainside will accept this challenge and continue to offer its student population the outstanding educational reputation that we have enjoyed (and fulfilled) for many years. As a local businessman for the past 13 years, I know what it is to face the hard decisions that are associated with operating within a budget. It is a job that requires strength as well as creativity.

I have three children, one of whom is now attending the first grade at Deerfield; the others will follow. The same commitment I make to them as a parent, I will make to each student if elected as a member of the Board of Education. That is to see that they are offered a quality education in a facility that is equal to, or exceeds those of their peers.

I do not believe that in order to accomplish this we need to fear our educational tax bill. I would like to present to the public for each year I'm on the board a budget they will pass with the idea that the budget is a necessary responsibility, not a burden they must bear.

We have the makings of a terrific team. A talented student body, a motivated and concerned public group of both parents and other homeowners, a very active PTA and a highly skilled staff and administration. Now you will choose your Board of Education. It would be easy to not vote, or to just re-elect the incumbents, but a vote for me shows you are making a real decision, that perhaps you would like to see some changes. I hope you will vote for me, and I encourage you to come down to the meetings so you can tell me why, and so I can thank you.

The following statement was written and submitted by Carmine Venes, who is seeking a seat on the Union County Regional District 1 Board of Education. From Mountainside, he is running unopposed. Elections will be held on April 30.

Carmine Venes

1. Why am I running for the Board of Education?

I am running for the Board of Education because I want to see the continuance of quality education in the Regional School District.

I have been an educator for 29 years and have been involved in local, county and state level educational organizations. I feel that my knowledge and experience could be put to good use in helping to direct the educational process in the regional district.

2. What major concerns will face the Board of Education in the years ahead?

I feel that the major challenge the Regional Board of Education will face in the next year will be the continuance of quality education despite the limited funds and caps mandated by the state by the way of the new Quality Education Act. The Board of Education will have to investigate the effectiveness of operating four high schools and at the same time provide a comprehensive program that is cost effective.

3. What are my opinions about the Quality Education Act and the effect it will have on the Union County Regional District?

Under the Quality Education Act, which was enacted last June and will go into effect July 1, suburban school districts such as the regional district will be at a great disadvantage considering the way the law was written for disbursement of state aid.

The Quality Education Act will favor urban districts at the expense of suburban districts. Therefore, this will force the Regional Board of Education to examine many of its programs and to evaluate the efficiency of operating four high schools with a declining enrollment.

Our goal is to offer quality education at an affordable cost to the taxpayers of the regional district. I believe that the Board of Education and the citizens must continue to press our Legislature to revise the Quality Education Act to make funding fair for all the districts in the state.

Calls freeholders to account again

To the Editor:

Has Union County government returned to the Dark Ages? Perhaps you can answer this question. On Dec. 10, 1990, Jan. 4, Feb. 28 and on March 14, I requested the answers to the following seven questions from Freeholder Elmer Ertl, who served as chairman of the finance committee and is presently vice chairman of the board.

1. How did you and the board justify raising the salary of Ann Baran on Dec. 13, 1990, retroactive to Jan. 1, 1990, when Ms. Baran became acting county manager in February and was not made permanent until May?

2. Are raises in any given year based on the previous year's performance?

3. Was Ms. Baran's $99,700 salary set at the time of her appointment?

I received the following response from Jeremiah O'Dwyer, county counsel. It read in part: "It is not the practice of freeholders to prepare written narrative communications to individual members of the public relative to the basis or motivation of their legislative acts. Since all members of the public would be entitled to identical treatment, it is not difficult to envision that such a procedure would not be feasible."

There is little doubt that the voters have been making it a "practice" in Union County to elect new freeholders who do not agree with this concept of government.

Energy independence can begin at home

Just as New Jersey quits dumping sewage sludge into the Atlantic Ocean, with New York to do the same next year, along comes a push by the Bush administration to resume ocean oil drilling off our shore.

A few big oil companies gambled and lost money that way off New Jersey in the last decade, with barely a sniff of hydrocarbons. But the proposed Bush energy policy boosts more deepwater wildcatting to our east, to say nothing of invading the fragile and for-the-moment-protected ecosystem along Alaska's north slope for the same gamble.

Much has been noted about the Bush energy policy's calling for extraction of whatever oil we may still have, while not being too much interested in curtailing escalation of Detroit's gas guzzlers, or encouraging mass transit, or solar and other innovative non-petroleum energy sources.

Some cynics see government by oil barons orchestrating such an energy plan while public emotions are preoccupied with a "glorious wartime victory" against a man who very luckily turned out to be nearly a paper tiger.

Be that as it may, the proposed energy policy continues to encourage lust for any oil at all, regardless of its source.

A recent story in the New York Times emphasized, however, yet another potential by-product of administration energy planning: a possible resurgence in nuclear power plant construction.

This could come from easing of laws keeping nuclear electric generation in the hands of electric utility companies. The idea is to make it easy for anyone to build a power plant and sell the output to utility companies.

It would be a national version of New Jersey's current burst of "cogeneration" production, and could see companies like Westinghouse and General Electric building nuclear plants for themselves instead of the utilities.

The right federal lawmaking, or unmaking, could erase ability of a

State We're In

By David F. Moore

state's public utility commission to say where or whether a nuclear power plant could be built. As the public memory span continues to shrink about Three-Mile Island and Chernobyl, controversy no doubt would shrink.

Here in this state we're in, it seems a trash-burning and electricity-producing incinerator can raise as much uproar as a proposed nuclear plant. Adroit PR for and against incineration has left the public, as well as state government, in a state of confusion, albeit credit is clearly due for setting new recycling goals. That reduces the need for incineration substantially.

Whether or not a nuke plant in our neighborhood is a future prospect is just one of many questions which may arise in energy terms. More imminent is an increase of controversy about cogeneration production of electricity.

Here in New Jersey we need to foster mass transit, recession or no recession, since cars are the biggest hole in the energy budget. We also need to encourage recycling and getting to the bottom of the incineration problem.

For starters on that last subject, let's bear in mind that nothing comes out of an incinerator that we don't put in. Household waste needs cleaning up clear back at the supermarket, with availability of products which are less polluting, whether destined for recycling, landfilling, incineration or composting.

To a greater degree, energy independence begins at home!

David F. Moore is the executive director of the New Jersey Conservation Foundation.

Clean water is a public investment

The end of ocean dumping of sewage sludge 106 miles off the New Jersey coast is one of several steps being taken at the federal and state levels to keep New Jersey's beaches and waters clean of debris, toxic chemicals, oil spills and medical waste. Along with California, New Jersey is waging one of the most intensive programs to safeguard its beaches and the $8-billion-a-year tourist industry.

An international treaty prohibits commercial ships from dumping garbage overboard in coastal waters. Coast Guard and state marine patrols are attempting to curb the litter problem. So are the regional sewerage authorities that are spending hundreds of millions of dollars to upgrade sewage treatment plants to prevent the runoff of toxic chemicals into tributaries and coastal waters.

New York City, which produces millions of tons of waste, is operating under court orders to carefully monitor waste removal to prevent accidental and deliberate dumping in the New York Bight, where currents carry the effluent to New Jersey waters.

Over the last few years, New Jersey has been getting bad publicity due to stringent testing of coastal waters and the closing of a few beaches. A variety of pollutants, including sewage, medical waste, plastics and other debris have fouled the Atlantic coast. In response, Congress has banned ocean dumping, set up a medical waste tracking system, banned shipboard disposal of plastics, and taken other steps to deal with the problem.

For too long, cheaper ways of dis-

Report From Washington

By Matthew Rinaldo

carding waste, such as ocean dumping, were tolerated and even encouraged on the grounds that there were no feasible alternatives. But technological breakthroughs, ranging from recycling to thermal treatment that renders sludge and other waste harmless and even useful, remove the excuse to dump our waste at sea.

Although the Environmental Protection Agency is charged with enforcing federal laws to prevent ocean dumping, the EPA lacks the manpower and technical resources to patrol the vast coast of the United States. It must rely on the U.S. Coast Guard and state regulators, such as the New Jersey Department of Environmental Protection.

With thousands of ocean-going vessels, fishing fleets and pleasure boats plying our coastline, the enforcement of these laws is at best a hit-or-miss proposition. Public cooperation is needed to report incidents of illegal dumping at sea and to develop a clean water ethic in which every boat owner feels responsible for restoring marine life and keeping the ocean clean. There is not much pleasure in sailing a pleasure boat or swimming in garbage-strewn waters.

But the law also requires more muscle to discourage illegal nighttime dumping off the New Jersey coast by waste haulers and commercial vessels. All too often these commercial trawlers are registered to foreign firms that make a practice of skirting the law and dumping short of their ports.

In order to force these ship owners to take our anti-dumping laws more seriously, I am a sponsor of the Illegal Dumping Prevention Act. It would give the EPA and the Attorney General additional authority to seize vessels found guilty of deliberately violating the law. The current fines for vessel owners are often less than the cost of compliance and disposing of wastes legally.

The public has strongly supported state and federal efforts to clean up our oceans and protect marine life, and it has supported that commitment by paying higher sludge treatment and waste removal costs. It is only fair that boat owners respect that public investment in clean water.

Rep. Matthew Rinaldo represents the 7th Congressional District, which includes Springfield, Mountainside, Kenilworth and Roselle Park.

library notes

The Mountainside Library board of trustees has announced that it will be holding a work session on Monday at 7:30 p.m. at the library, Watchung Avenue, Mountainside.

The library also wishes to remind area residents that artwork done by students at Deerfield School in Mountainside will continue to be on display in the Emma Weber meeting room throughout the remainder of the month.

Volunteers needed for wheelchair meet

Children's Specialized Hospital, New Providence Road, Mountainside, is seeking volunteers to serve in a variety of posts at its eighth annual Junior Invitational Wheelchair Meet to be held April 27 at Roselle Park High School, West Webster Avenue, Roselle Park, beginning at 9:30 a.m.

The public is invited to attend the meet anytime throughout the day to cheer on and support the athletes, who will be representing New Jersey, New York, Connecticut, Pennsylvania and Maryland. There is no admission fee.

Registered to compete are some of the best junior athletes from the five-state area, including national champions and many up-and-coming champions, according to Andy Chasanoff, director of the meet.

"These young athletes, all between five and 18 years old, have been working hard and looking forward to this competition," explained Chasanoff. "This Invitational, and others like it, allows children and adolescents with disabilities to learn from the motivational influence of sports."

The Invitational will feature track events such as the 60, 100, 200, 400, 800 and 1,500 meters, and field events including the shot put, javelin, discus and club throw.

Children's Specialized Hospital has sponsored a junior wheelchair athletic team for more than 10 years. In honor of the hospital's centennial celebration in 1991, Children's Specialized will be sponsoring the National Junior Wheelchair Athletic Games this summer.

"Many of the athletes who will be participating at our Invitational will be part of the national competition this summer," Chasanoff noted. "The Invitational Meet will give these young athletes a taste of the nationals."

Pre-registration for the Invitational is required for participating athletes. No registrations will be accepted the day of the event. To register, athletes and coaches should call Chasanoff at the hospital's Recreation Therapy Department, 233-3720.

Children's Specialized Hospital is New Jersey's only comprehensive pediatric rehabilitation hospital. In addition, the hospital provides extensive outpatient services at its outpatient facility in Fanwood and is developing a 30-bed unit in Ocean County.

Gulf vets to be honored

Springfield will honor its returning Persian Gulf veterans and celebrate Earth Day with special ceremonies on Sunday at 2 p.m. at Veterans Park, located at the corner of Mountain Avenue and Shunpike Road, Springfield.

To commemorate the veterans' return and Earth Day, an American Beech tree donated by Springfield Rotary will be planted and dedicated in honor of Springfield residents who served with coalition forces in the Persian Gulf.

Returning veterans and their families will participate in the dedication ceremonies at Springfield's Veterans Park.

Celebration coordinator Bob Blitzer, of the township's Environmental Commission, said "It's appropriate to plant one of America's favorite trees to both celebrate Earth Day and welcome home our own veterans. It should be a stirring tribute. We want everyone to join us."

Veterans groups, civic and cultural organizations and public officials also will participate. Everyone is encouraged to attend.

New Jersey releases revised report cards

In the continuing effort to bring accountability to New Jersey schools and give taxpayers the information they need to make informed decisions, Gov. Jim Florio announced that a revised, user-friendly school report card are being mailed to some 555 school districts throughout the state during the month of April.

The report cards mark an unprecedented partnership between the state and the business community.

"This new school report card has been designed by business people," Florio said. "Business people know how to get at the bottom line, and this new report card does just that. They also know that it's one thing to look at your profit sheet, it's another to compare it with similar companies. The same should go for schools."

The report card is a joint effort of the Public Education Institute, a non-profit organization dedicated to increasing New Jersey citizens' involvement in public education, and the Business Roundtable Education Initiative of New Jersey, a consortium of nine major corporations which are working cooperatively with Florio and the Department of Education on a number of education reform efforts in the state.

Last year the state took dramatic action to provide schools with the resources they need to give New Jersey's school children the quality education they deserve, according to Florio. "Now we're going to give taxpayers a tool to make sure that their investment in our schools and in our future isn't going to waste," he said.

P. Roy Vagelos, chairman and chief executive officer of Merck & Co. Inc. and chairman of the BRT Education Initiative of New Jersey, said the report cards should help focus public attention on the performance of the education system in New Jersey.

"New Jersey spends more per student than any other state in the union on education. Given our resources, and the high level of cooperation between the business community, the governor and the commissioner, we should be able to forge a truly world class education system in New Jersey. But first," he added, "we will need a much higher level of public involvement, which is the primary objective of the 'District Report Cards Project.'"

The report card was funded by an $85,000 grant from the Business Roundtable to the Public Education Institute to cover the costs of production, printing and distribution. McGraw-Hill provided free technical and design assistance. The New Jersey Department of Education will distribute the report cards to libraries, parent groups, education organizations and individuals requesting copies. The total cost to the state will be less than $5,000.

Commissioner of Education John Ellis said, "I'm enthusiastic about this project. I'm enthusiastic not just because of the valuable information the report cards provide, but also because of the spirit of collaboration they represent. The involvement of PEI and the BRT illustrates clearly the broad support for educational excellence that exists throughout New Jersey. The 'School District Report Card' is an exciting example of the good things that can happen when we all work together to improve our schools."

Report cards are being mailed to school districts alphabetically by county. It is expected that all districts will have received their report cards by the end of April.

Herbert T. Green, PEI executive director, noted that the Public Education Institute was established to stimulate the discussion of issues in education based on good information. "We remain committed to that objective," he said, "and this report card is an important step in the right direction. We are grateful to the Business Roundtable and the New Jersey Department of Education for providing the necessary resources and data."

One of the major differences in the 1991 report card as compared to the first one in 1989 is that the current one is a profile of an entire school district as opposed to a school-by-school assessment. The focus on districtwide summaries this year is intended to give taxpayers a clearer sense of district policies and priorities since school budgets and board members are voted on by residents of an entire district.

ARC prepares for candlelight ball

In a gala salute to the generosity of Woolworth Corporation, the Association for Retarded Citizens/Union County will present the corporation with its highest honor, the Humanitarian Award, at the ARC/Union County Candlelight Ball, May 4, at L'Affaire, Route 22 East, in Mountainside.

The event begins at 8 p.m. with cocktails. Dinner will be served at 9.

The annual candlelight ball, a glittering social event, celebrates the achievements of individuals with mental retardation and those who help make those achievements possible. Woolworth Corporation was chosen to receive the Humanitarian Award because of its staunch support for the programs and goals of the ARC/Union County.

Through the involvement of three of its senior executives — Floyd Huff of Mountainside, executive vice president of Kinney Shoe Corporation (a subsidiary of Woolworth); Larry Schaefer of Berkeley Heights, retired vice president/corporate expense director with Kinney Shoes, and Fred Williams of Normandy Beach, senior vice president of Kinney Shoe Corporation — Woolworth Corporation has taken the ARC/Union County under its wing.

All three executives have sons with mental retardation or other developmental disabilities, and all have been actively involved in the ARC/Union County. Following its corporate ethic of bolstering the organizations where its associates volunteer, Woolworth Corporation has thrown its support behind the ARC/Union County in myriad ways.

For example, over the years, Woolworth Corporation, through its Kinney and Susie Casuals stores, has donated more than $750,000 worth of merchandise to the ARC/Union County's Thrift Shoppe. In addition, when the Thrift Shoppe was moving from Fanwood to larger quarters in Plainfield in 1980, Schaefer, the retired Kinney vice president, organized a work crew of more than 10 Kinney executives to help manage the move. For the annual fund-raising candlelight ball, Woolworth covers the cost of several tables, treating many of its executives to an evening of dining and dancing as well as donating gift certificates to be raffled off at the dinner-dance.

According to its corporate literature, Woolworth has a strong corporate commitment "to give something back to the communities that have been good to us." The commitment is exemplified in its unflagging support for the ARC/Union County.

The theme of this year's candlelight ball, "Family: Building a New Dream," highlights how important families are in achieving goals. Both the families of the ARC/Union County and the "family" of Woolworth Corporation have worked together in tandem to make the future brighter for many of the people with mental retardation and other developmental disabilities in Union County.

The ARC/Union County is a full-service agency offering such programs as early intervention, adaptive recreation, adult training, supported employment and group homes in the community.

Tickets to the gala candlelight ball are $65 a person. For further information about the candlelight ball, call Vicki Hart at 908-322-8504.

200 attend health fair

More than 200 youngsters from 12 public and private schools throughout the county attended the seventh annual Youth Health Awareness Conference, sponsored by the Union County Board of Chosen Freeholders, and held at Union County College.

The two-day "Go To Health" conference is presented by the Union County Council on Alcoholism and other Drug Addictions Inc., and is designed to help the students develop a positive self-image, an important step in preventing alcohol and other drug abuse, according to Louis Santagata, Union County freeholder and liaison to the local advisory committee on alcoholism and drug abuse.

"The students participated in workshops on family relationships, sexuality, personal growth and interpersonal relationships," Santagata said. "The workshops are designed to aid the teen-agers in exploring values and decisions, and their consequences. I was impressed by the willingness to learn which these teen-agers showed at this conference, and extremely impressed by the fantastic job done by Gladys Kearns and her staff."

"Each conference day began with a short play and discussion on the problems that can result from alcohol and drug abuse," said Kearns, director of the council. "Throughout the conference, students are encouraged to discuss issues with their peers under the guidance of knowledgeable and sensitive professionals."

These professionals, in the fields of health, education, alcoholism and drugs, focused on developing coping skills to help the youngsters deal with day-to-day problems.

"It is hoped the conference will be an uplifting experience which will help the students feel good about themselves," Kearns said. "The conference is planned based on the philosophy of recognizing the importance of a positive self-image as a prerequisite for making sound decisions."

The Union County Council on Alcoholism and Other Drug Addictions Inc., is a private, non-profit voluntary health agency, serving Union County. Its major goal is the prevention of alcohol and other drug misuse, alcoholism and addiction. The "Go To Health" Youth Health Awareness Conference is one of the ways the council meets this goal.

Union County announces poster contest winners

Union County Dental Society sponsored its fifth annual countywide poster contest in conjunction with National Children's Dental Health Month. Fourth-grade students throughout Union County were invited to participate, and more than 3,000 children took part in the contest.

The contest was coordinated through the work of the co-chairman Dr. Lee Kaswiner, an orthodontist in Springfield, and Dr. Douglas Chester, a general dentist in Union.

Working with art teachers and nurses throughout Union County, 52 winners from 26 schools were selected as poster contest winners. The winners received invitations to an awards ceremony at the Towers Steak House in Mountainside.

Before members of the Union County Dental Society and friends and relatives, the 52 fourth-graders received ribbons and gift certificates. From the field of 52, two grand prize winners received grand prize ribbons, $100 U.S. Savings bonds and four tickets to a New Jersey Nets basketball game, where they will be honored (in conjunction with other statewide winners) with a half-time, court-side award presentation.

Salvatore Milone, who attends Battle Hill School in Union, was one of two grand prize winners selected. The other was Jessica Nucifora of Connecticut Farms School, also in Union.

Other winners from Union included Benny DeMauro, second prize, from Battle Hill School; Matthew Matera, second prize, from Connecticut Farms School; Jason Krok, first prize, and Anais Lavalli, second prize, from Franklin School; Laurie Wade, first prize, and David Andriola, second prize, from Hamilton School; Jessica Sileo, first prize, from Livingston School; and Jashue Lipsea, first prize, and Jessica Rajs, second prize, from Washington School.

Winners from Mountainside at Deerfield School were Lauren Kobel, first prize, and Chris Schnakenberg, second prize.

Winners from Springfield were Danny Riva, first prize, and Michael McNair, second prize, from Caldwell School, and Maria Ferguson, first prize, and Michael Powell, second prize, from Sandmeier School.

Union County Dental Society members are all members of the New Jersey Dental Association and the American Dental Association. As members of organized dentistry, these dentists use events such as this poster contest to work with children and adults to provide education and the best in quality care.

Golf Classic slated

Joseph Coleman, president of Coleman & Pellet Inc., located in Union, has offered to participate on the planning committee for the Kessler Golf Classic IX, an annual fund-raiser conducted by the Henry H. Kessler Foundation for the benefit of the Patient Services Fund at Kessler Institute for Rehabilitation and its affiliate, Welkind Rehabilitation Hospital.

This year's tournament will take place on June 24 at the Canoe Brook Country Club in Summit. As a member of the planning committee, Coleman is looking for individual golfers and corporate sponsors to compete in the tournament, the proceeds of which will benefit patients who cannot afford the full cost of their treatments.

According to Coleman, the day's events will begin at 10 a.m. with registration, followed by brunch and a 12:30 p.m. tee-off. Tournament winners will receive an award and have their names engraved on the Billye D. Rubenoff Memorial Plaque, which is displayed at Kessler's West Orange facility.

Tickets for the 18-hole tournament are priced at $400 per golfer and $4,000 per corporate sponsor. All tickets will cover the cost of valet parking, brunch, greens fees, caddy or cart and a cocktail reception. Corporate sponsors will receive a sponsor's identification at designated holes, four complimentary golf passes and four additional cocktail hour invitations for guests.

For more information or to obtain golf or raffle tickets, call the Henry H. Kessler Foundation, (201) 731-3600, Ext. 730.

Utility authority taking action for hauler violations

By Debble Sacharoff
Staff Writer

A Linden recycling company has been charged with numerous violations, for allegedly operating as a solid waste transfer station, without having gone through the proper procedures, or having obtained the proper approvals.

M & F Recycling Inc. of Linden received nine summonses from the Union County Utilities Authority for the alleged violations.

But according to UCUA Deputy Director Jeffrey Callahan, the Linden company is one of many facilities that violate waste flow regulations. He said that UCUA will be taking similar actions with other companies in the future.

While a hearing on the M & F Recycling case has been scheduled in Rahway Municipal Court for May 14, Callahan explained that the many companies, the "legitimate haulers," who dispose of waste properly, are hurt by those who do not.

He stated that while many haulers comply with regulations, some do not in order to get cheaper rates for disposal. A spokesperson for M & F stated in previously published reports that the company has 10 clients in Roselle, Linden and Roselle Park.

"Facilities were set up by the government to make sure each county's waste stream could be handled in an environmentally sound manner. Counties build and staff the facility for the waste they expect to receive.

"Then they have a number of haulers who refuse to go to the proper facility, and go out of state to save money," Callahan said.

"This deprives the county of revenue. The illegitimate hauler is pocketing the money, charging local prices and then disposing of the waste for a lower rate," he said.

There are a lot of legitimate haulers; the majority of the haulers obey the rules and send wastes to the proper disposal system, he said.

"It is they who are hurt the most by those who bypass in an unacceptable manner," he said.

Haulers who go out of state to dispose of trash can tell facility operators there that they come from nearly any credible location. Union County trash, for example, is not recognizable and looks like any other when it is brought to an out-of-state facility.

"The Pennsylvania landfill, for example, is just a commercial site, open for whoever wants to use it," he said. "Out of state you can say whatever you want."

Though reports from M & F Recycling contend that the company is not a solid waste facility, and merely picks up recyclable material, Callahan noted that UCUA has followed M & F Recycling vehicles and contends that the Linden recycling company is illegally operating, without proper approval as a mini-transfer station, similar to AMS, where legitimate trash haulers deliver trash.

"They claim to be a recycling company. We see them processing materials, some which are suitable for a recycling facility and some which are not. These include wood, roofing materials, brush, leaves, grass, plastic sheeting. We see a wide range of materials," Callahan said.

"But even if they did have all recyclable items, they haven't gone through the proper procedures. With the other materials they could not be classified as a recycling company. They are operating a smaller version of a transfer station. They should have made an application to the county and to the state as a solid waste transfer station," he said.

In addition to what has been observed by UCUA at the Linden facility, Callahan said that UCUA had followed M & F trucks and "put them under surveillance, following their containers to the waste management landfill, Grows Landfill in Pennsylvania.

"They are in violation of the waste flow regulations as an unregistered solid waste facility," he said.

An Elizabeth attorney, Anthony Rinaldo, will be representing M & F Recycling, but never returned phone calls placed to him when messages were left.

According to utility authority reports, if the Linden company were dealing entirely with recyclable materials, they would have to be part of the solid waste plan in order to be legal. This would require a resolution and a public hearing by the Board of Chosen Freeholders to amend the district's solid waste plan to officially list the facility.

"M & F Recycling are saying they are a recycling facility which processes glass. To become part of the solid waste plan as a recycling facility is the easiest for getting approval," Callahan explained.

To illustrate a difference in cost, it was reported that an average truck in Union County with 10 pounds of material would pay $100 per ton, or $1,000 to drop their load at the AMS station.

But if an illegitimate hauler goes to Middlesex County, to Edgeboro Landfill, for example, and claims he is from a town in that county, he would be asked to pay $68 per ton, or $680, and would save $320 per load.

"Every time anybody goes down to Edgeboro or other facilities they may put $400 in their pockets; they pocket the difference. But they continue to charge the customers based on local rates," Callahan pointed out.

According to UCUA reports, there is not much non-compliance of this type on a municipal level, but this does occur with small stores who may have three dumpsters in the back, industrial parks, warehouses, commercial establishments, construction or demolition companies.

Stressing that this problem causes a loss of revenue to the county, but does not involve most haulers, Callahan noted, "Everybody is getting slandered by a few bad apples, particularly the legitimate haulers."

Earth Week is observed

Students and faculty at Deerfield School in Mountainside will be celebrating Earth Week, April 22-26, while developing respect for the natural environment.

The week's activities were developed in concert with the PTA Environmental Education Committee and are in keeping with the district goal of the development of values.

The objectives of the activities are from the New Jersey State Department of Education's report on Developing Character and Values in New Jersey students, which are:

- Care for and conservation of all living things.
- Care for and conservation of land, air and water.

- Conduct recognizing environmental interdependence.

Students will discuss information on Earth Day, explore ways to limit disposable materials for "Trashless Tuesday," prepare entries for display for "Rainforest Wednesday" and donate children's books for children in another school for "Recycle for Literacy."

In addition, they will analyze behaviors which contribute to the problem of endangered animal species while viewing a PTA display of "Animals Need Help, Too!"

Arbor Day will also be celebrated with a ceremonial tree-planting ceremony for students in kindergarten through eighth grade.

calendar

The Civic Calendar is prepared each week by the Springfield Leader and the Mountainside Echo. To avoid conflicts in scheduling local events, please post dates, times and places as early as possible and send to P.O. Box 3109, Union, N.J., 07083.

Tuesday
 □ The Mountainside Women's College Club will meet at the Mountainside Library, Watchung Avenue, at 8 p.m. Lila Girard will present a program titled "Using Antiques in Your Home." Small articles may be brought for discussion and guests are welcome.

Cable offers Earth Day program

Earth Day 1991, environmental safety in the home and ocean dumping, will be discussed on "Earthwatch: a local view", a live cable series which examines environmental issues of interest to New Jersey residents, airing Wednesday at 8 p.m. on Suburban Cablevision's TV-3.

Viewers' phone calls will be taken in the studio at 908-636-5333.

The program will highlight Earth Day activities taking place throughout the area. Margaret Ann Behrends of Earth Day-New Jersey will discuss the long-term goals of the organization and what has been accomplished since Earth Day's inception in 1970.

A representative of the New Jersey Environmental Federation will offer "Home Safe Home" information and tips to help curb environmental and health threats caused by use of chemicals, pesticides and other toxics in the home.

Also, Clean Ocean Action, a coalition of citizens concerned with degraded waters in the New York/New Jersey area, will discuss their action plans and educational awareness campaigns to reduce ocean pollution.

The April "Earthwatch: a local view" program, produced by Suburban Cablevision, will be repeated on Tuesdays at 3 p.m. through May 21.

Directory for seniors now available

The New Jersey Health Products Council is offering a revised public service pamphlet titled "A New Jersey Directory for Senior Citizens."

The 1991 edition lists more than 125 verified telephone numbers, including toll-free numbers, that provide a direct link for senior citizens to state and county agencies. These agencies offer helpful information in solving financial, legal, health and welfare problems.

Since 1979, when the NJHPC senior citizens directory was first published, more than 500,000 copies have been distributed. The 1991 revised directory has larger type for increased legibility.

Something to sell? Telephone 763-9411.

There is a space for any state or community organization using the pamphlet to stamp its name and address.

The directory is available upon request. Copies may be obtained by writing to the New Jersey Health Products Council, 2700 Route 22 East, Union, 07083.

The New Jersey Health Products Council is a nonprofit trade association sponsored by the state's health products manufacturing industry. Together its 15 corporate members spend more than $2 billion annually in the search for new medicines.

New staff director

Temple Beth Ahm, Springfield, has announced that Miriam Sussman of Millburn will join its staff as Nursery School director on Sunday.

Sussman has background in both religious and secular education. She has served as a teacher and a supervisor in Hebrew day schools and in congregational religious schools. She also has taught in the public education system, where she currently is employed. Her experiences range from working with nursery-age children through 13-year-olds.

Sussman, who was graduate from Queens College, City University of New York, where she received a bachelor of arts degree in education and a minor in Hebrew and English, also has a master's degree from SUNY, Stony Brook, N.Y.

Sussman will attend an open house on Sunday in Temple Beth Ahm, 60 Temple Drive, from 11:45 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Parents and children can view the school facilities, hear a presentation by Sussman about the program and ask questions.

It was announced that the Nursery School is still accepting applications from summer camp and fall registration. Further information is available by calling the temple office at 376-0539.

Independence Day

'Imaginary Journey'

Members of the Trinity Fellowship will take "an imaginary journey into the next century through the courtesy of New Jersey Bell," on April 26. The program, "Welcome to the Future," will be held in the fellowship hall of Holy Trinity Lutheran Church, Union.

Karen Smith, a member of the New Jersey Bell Speakers' Society, will give a presentation "outlining scientific advancements which will have an affect on how we will be living in the 21st century." The narrated slide and demonstration lecture will focus on "energy alternatives, nutrition forecasts, outer space exploration and tele-communications as a barometer to marketplace supremacy." A hands-on, audience participation segment will acquaint the group with the "possibility of controlling home environmental services, such as heating, air-conditioning and security from a remote location."

"Welcome to the Future" is one of several programs presented as a public service by New Jersey Bell. Organizations interested in booking programs can do so by calling 1-800-252-7469.

'Israel Night' is set

The Rev. Nancy E. Forsberg, pastor, has invited the community to an "Israel Night" to be held April 25 at 7:30 in the First Congregational Church of Union, 1340 Burnet Ave.

One of Israel's top guides, Yair Harlap, will be guest speaker and "Rev. Nancy," pastor of the host congregation, who has traveled to Israel 24 times since her first study tour in 1957, will describe how Israel has enriched her ministry. Forsberg has led many groups on tours which she personally planned and she also has worked and studied in Israel during several summer periods, including experiences in a kibbutz and at an ulpan.

The program will mark the first of a series of special events in conjunction with the celebration of Forsberg's 40th anniversary of ordination to the Christian ministry.

Entertainment will be provided by the Amrani Brothers, Shalom and Barak, two of Israel's musicians.

Further details can be obtained from Forsberg by calling the church office at 688-4333. The program is being coordinated by Ceil Shar and Marilyn Zienke, founders of the Israel Travel Advisory Service, who will be present at the April 25 program to describe "further details of this opportunity."

Enrichment event

Panthers win 2

By Mark Yablonsky
 Sports Editor

Bouncing back from a dismal 9-1 defeat to Middlesex, the Roselle Park High baseball team won two games last week, an 11-10 decision over Pingry on April 8, and a 6-1 verdict over Arthur L. Johnson Regional last Thursday in Clark.

In the win over Pingry, the Panthers were actually trailing by a 10-8 count when they came to bat in the bottom of the seventh. But Dan Serretti belted a game-winning, three-run home run to bring the win to Park.

Serretti began this week as Park's leading hitter, having collected 9 hits in 16 at bats for a lofty .563 batting average.

Then against Johnson, the Panthers rode the one-hit pitching of Scott Bermingham to a 6-1 win. Bermingham, who is batting .500, struck out nine and walked three in gaining his second win of the spring against no losses.

Offensively, Derek Vanderkooy and Joe Arena both went 2-for-4. Vanderkooy, a junior outfielder, helped get Park going with a run-scoring double in the top of the first inning off of Johnson hurler Anthony DeMarzo, who, like Bermingham, pitched a complete game. The hit scored Bermingham, who had walked earlier.

Baseball

Arena's two hits were both singles. Johnson's only run came in the last of the second inning when Andy Johnson's sacrifice fly plated catcher Matt Woods.

The only hit the Crusaders got was a second-inning single from DeMarzo.

"Considering that it's early in the season and that we only had one practice game, we're playing pretty well," commented Park skipper Jack Shaw Thursday night. "I still feel we can improve as a team, and I think the kids will get better as they play, too."

"Everyone's in the same boat, but we're very pleased with our start."

Brearley Regional pitcher Tim Kaufmann heads for home plate following a single by teammate Peter Accomando during Brearley's 10-run outburst in the second inning that led the Bears to a 12-8 victory over Manville last Thursday. Kaufmann was also the winning pitcher.

Bears stun Manville

By Mark Yablonsky
 Sports Editor

Ever the optimist, Brearley baseball coach Ralph LaConte, after watching visiting Manville explode for seven runs in the top of the first inning last Thursday at Ward Field, told his team that there was still plenty of time to catch up.

And so the Bears did. Because thanks to a 10-run bonanza in the bottom of the second inning, the Bears and pitcher Tim Kaufmann recovered nicely for a 12-8 decision over the Mustangs, who remained winless at 0-5.

Certainly, a win of that magnitude seems bright enough now, but even more importantly, it may have served as a gauge for what other local baseball teams can expect throughout the 1991 season from Brearley.

Without doubt, this comeback ranks as one of the finest of LaConte's tenure at Brearley, which now reads as a 71-26-1 mark, if you throw in this season's 4-1 start.

"I think as a team effort and the kids sticking together, we showed what we're made of," commented LaConte Monday night, after his team's scheduled game that day with New Providence had been postponed until April 29 because of the weather.

"As I said earlier, they had their inning and we had our inning."

True enough. Behind a key two-run triple from pitcher Dennis Sidorski, Manville greeted Kaufmann and the Bears with a seven-run outburst in the first. And then came Brearley's turn.

In the last of the second, a total of 14 Brearley batters strode to the plate.

Baseball

and the first 11 reached base — with the first 10 scoring. Here's what happened.

Jose Rodriguez singled, took third base on Don Sammet's single, and then scored on Kaufmann's double to right-center. Peter Accomando doubled in two runs to make it a 7-3 contest, and the Bears filled the bases on a bunt single by Ron Cagno and a hit batsman, which was Chris Parkhill.

On the very first pitch to him, a high fastball, in fact, Don Dayton blasted a grand-slam home run to deep center, tying things up at 7-7. Then, after Chris Carey walked and Mike Archibald was hit by a pitch, Mr. Rodriguez stepped to the plate again and slammed a two-run triple to left-center. The 10th and final run of the inning — in the form of Rodriguez — came in when Sammet produced a run-scoring single.

And there you have it. "Hey, you don't pull too many of those off in high school ball," LaConte added, "but we're capable of doing that."

And now everyone knows it.

'Dawgs place 8th

The Jonathan Dayton Regional High boys' track team, which is 2-1 in dual-meet competition, recently placed eighth in the Union County Relays, and sixth in the Mountain Valley Relays one week earlier in Bound Brook.

Dayton sent two teams to Plainfield this past Saturday for the county meet, and saw both squads — the intermediate hurdle and the shuttle hurdle teams — place second. The IM trio of Joe and Sean Roughneen and Peter Keunzel was second in a time of 3:02, while the shuttle hurdle grouping of both Roughneens, Keunzel and Seth Eisen did well in their event.

On April 6, Joe Roughneen, Scott Meisner, Brian Carson and Brett Wilkins joined forces as the school's sprint medley squad in the conference relays. A third-place timing of 3:08 by Dayton's intermediate hurdle team of Roughneen and Neal Lynch enabled the Bulldogs to place sixth overall.

Ladies win 1st, 32-22

By Kim Eagan
 Sports Correspondent

The Lady Bears of Brearley High, despite dropping games to Bound Brook and Linden last week, did win their first softball game of the season by beating Manville, 32-22, in a game that took more than four hours to play — and a game in which there was a total of 25 hits, 44 walks and 12 errors.

Nineteen of the hits went to Brearley, with five alone going to Stacy Bober, who also collected four RBIs. Kim Eagan had four hits and four RBIs, and Faye Pappandrea had three hits and five RBIs. Pitcher Tina Kaufmann earned her first victory of the season for the Lady Bears.

Then against Linden, Brearley made a game of it in losing, 7-4. Eagan, whose double (along with Sharina Western's single) was the only offense the team could muster in a 24-0 defeat against Bound Brook, came through with three hits. Kaufmann absorbed the loss, bringing her record to 1-3.

Little League to begin season

The 38th annual Mountainside Little League season will begin Saturday with the traditional parade and a full day of baseball.

The Mountainside Little League sponsors competition at several different age levels.

Dayton loses

The Dayton Regional High girls' track team is now 0-2 on the season after a tough 68-54 defeat to Hillside last Thursday in Springfield.

Dayton, which lost to Roselle, 83-39, on April 4 in the season-opener, saw junior Karen Auer win the 1600-meter run against Roselle with a time of 6:37, and then place first in the same event against Hillside.

Sophomore Lydia Lake ran a 16:07 in the 3200-meter run against Roselle for second place. In the half-mile run, junior Samantha Young placed second against Roselle in a time of 2:53, and second against Hillside in 3:01.

Memberships

The Westfield Recreation Commission is now accepting memberships for the 1991 Memorial Pool season. The 1991 season, which begins on June 8, features new membership categories and discounted rates for early registration.

New membership categories include Resident Family with Full-Time Child Care and Resident or Non-Resident Husband and Wife Without Children.

Regular registration fees for non-residents who sign up after April 1 are as follows: Family membership, $360; husband and wife without children, $300; individual membership, $215; and Senior Citizen membership, $95.

Registration for swimming lessons is also being accepted at this time. Swim teams are available for both beginner and experienced swimmers.

Further information is available by calling the Pool office at 789-4085, or by stopping by the second floor of the Westfield Municipal Building.

Tourney set

Champion bodybuilder Rich Gaspari will be present at his own bodybuilding tournament on April 27 at Union High School.

The event, named in honor of the Spotswood resident, will begin at 5:30 p.m. with a free question-and-answer session conducted by Gaspari.

The competition will begin at 7 p.m. Further information is available from (908) 964-7400.

WHO'S ON FIRST?

This week's question: What goaltender holds the record for best goals-against average during playoff action (for one particular year, that is). Last week's answer: Believe it or not, Willie Mays never once led the National League in runs batted in, which is a little funny when you consider that Mays is seventh lifetime on the list for RBI leaders (with 1,903 of them) — and first among all players who have never won an RBI title in either league.

The third-highest all-time leader in home runs (660), Mays is a Hall of Famer who is near or among the leaders in virtually every offensive category. He came closest to winning an RBI crown in 1962, when he drove in 141 for the San Francisco Giants, who beat the L.A. Dodgers in a three-game playoff to win the pennant that year. But Tommy Davis drove in 153 runs for L.A. in '62.

This week, Henry Hascup of Lodi and Bob C. Dilly of Springfield submitted correct answers.

Kean wins 5 in Florida

The Kean College softball team started its recent Florida road trip with five victories in their first six games. The Cougars then cooled off a bit, losing their next three games in the Sunshine State, but returned to New Jersey as the 16th-ranked team in the country with a 5-4 record.

"We had a good trip," head coach Renee Clark said. "Especially in the first six games, the team showed me what they were capable of accomplishing."

Sophomore pitcher Kim Tompkins started the squad off in the right direction by defeating St. Norbert College and Wisconsin Stevens-Point in the first two games of the year. Tompkins gave up just one run combined in those games as Kean won, 1-0 and 4-1, respectively.

The Cougars were defeated by a tough Muskingham College squad, 4-3, in the third game. Pitcher Darlene Cunningham reversed the trend and started them off on a three-game winning streak the next day.

The squad defeated Baldwin Wallace College, 5-4, Defiance College, 3-0, and Hope College, 7-1, as they upped their record to 5-1 on the year.

Those would be the final wins of the trip as they lost three tough games to the NAIA schools from Chicago.

Kim Herron was named the New Jersey Athletic Conference Player of the Week. Herron was the force that sparked the squad for the entire trip. The senior captain batted .333 and drove in nine runs, including four game winners.

Cunningham finished the week with a 3-1 mark as she gave up just four earned runs in four starts.

Man converts a beloved hobby into full-time work

By Bea Smith
Lifestyle Editor

It took open heart surgery and forced retirement for Louis Anastasio, 75, of Clark to realize his lifetime dream — to paint faces full time.

"I used to paint as a hobby all of my life," he said. "I always wanted to go to Paris or live in Greenwich Village and paint, paint, paint. But I finally gave up that dream forever because, like everyone else, I had to work for a living."

However, Anastasio's working life was cut short when he suffered two heart attacks within a four-month period. "When I had my first heart attack at the age of 61," he said, "I had been working as an office manager in Cranford. My doctor advised me to go back to work. But four months later, I had another attack and that was it!"

Anastasio explained that he had open heart surgery six years ago in March. He had a new valve installed that the doctor termed a "piggy valve."

When Anastasio recovered, he turned a room in his Clark apartment into a studio and began painting the faces of family members, tradespeople and neighbors. "I am fully paid when the subject says, 'I love it,'" he said.

"I've always had an interest in doing faces," he said. "I like to see something develop from a plain sheet of paper or cardboard. I guess every child likes to create on paper. First we start out with crayons and colored pencils. As we grow, if our interest grows with us, we try to get into art schools."

Despite Anastasio's love of art, he realized that he couldn't support himself with his paintings and that he had to go to work. "But I did go to Brooklyn's Pratt Institute for three years. I took up advertising design," he said.

Born in New York City, Anastasio began working when he was in high school. "Luckily, I went to work for the Pollack family on 42nd Street in Times Square as an office boy. It was supposed to be a temporary job and it lasted 42 years. Finally, the company moved to New Jersey. It was a small company which became a big company," he laughed. "I worked in various departments and I was being developed as I went along. Also, I used to sketch my fellow employees with chalk."

When Anastasio lived in New York, he played baseball in Central Park with a group of friends who used to challenge interns from nearby hospitals.

He was living in New York when World War II broke out. "I served in the Army for one year as a classification clerk in headquarters in my outfit," Anastasio said.

Anastasio was married to Sally Terranova, a seamstress from the Bronx. "We had two boys. One is an artist, Louis Jr., who also is a lawyer for Selective Insurance Co. of America in Branchville, and the other, Philip, works for Rickel Brothers in South Jersey. We lived in New York for a while, then my boss, bless his soul, said, 'Why don't you move to Jersey?' So, I did. I built a house in Livingston. In fact, we lived in three different homes in Livingston. Then my poor wife passed away in 1961. So, I sold my home in Livingston and rented an apartment in Rahway. I lived in Rahway for two years, then moved to Scotch Plains, and after 20 years moved into this gorgeous section in Clark which gave me an opportunity to set up a studio. That was in 1989. I converted a dining room into a workshop."

Anastasio started painting faces from baseball cards. "My son, Philip is a baseball nut. He would give me baseball cards and say, 'Do this one... do that one...' I enjoy doing all the baseball players because they have caps on. I'm extremely interested in faces. They are a real challenge," he said.

Anastasio gives away some of his paintings but he takes photographs of the ones he parts with. "I did Rep. Matthew Rinaldo from a circular that came to my home. I did it in color, sent it to him and he sent me a letter of thanks. I've done my two doctors, the one who saved my life, Dr. Rakesh Sahni, a cardiologist, and Dr. Victor Bruno, a surgeon, and his dear wife, Dr. Kathleen Murphy. I take their photos and paint from there."

Anastasio said enthusiastically, "I recently finished one of President Bush. I've done about 100 paintings plus Valentine cards for my grandchildren, Allison and Kimberly, the children of Louis and Linda. They live in Madison. And Philip and Roswita live in New Brunswick."

The energetic senior citizen, whose paintings adorn the walls of his apartment, said, "I'm always excited about the various types of faces. I was told there are seven forms of faces. I find more. The smiles vary. I just love to see them develop from the canvas. Did you know," he mused, "that my relatives and friends are my critics? My paintings are all done with watercolor even though I find it a little tough."

Anastasio said he had "three shows here in my apartment and I served finger sandwiches and a buffet. I don't offer to sell them... I just want to show them."

"I love being an artist. But truly," he sighed, "to be an artist, you need more than one lifetime."

WHERE TO DINE

A Guide to Find the Finest Dining In New Jersey

Hunan Spring

By Katherine Brooks

Before you read this article, clear your mind of any preconceived notions that you may already have regarding Chinese restaurants. Hunan Spring of Springfield cannot be compared with any other Chinese restaurant I have ever been to. It is the best.

The owners, Ping and Jim Wen, painstakingly have chosen every sauce to give each dish its own unique

Spring of Springfield is 4 years old.

The owners believe in good, healthy food with meats free of fat and sauces free of oil. Some of their dishes are 100 percent cholesterol free. Their reputation is solid. The owners never worry about competition. Their prices are even a couple of dollars less than other local Chinese restaurants.

The regular customers at Hunan Spring already know this. It is evident, particularly on a Friday or Saturday night when one passes by and sees the line of people waiting at the door. Reservations are recommended but not necessary. A typical half-hour wait is not unusual because the food is that good.

Anyone who visits Hunan Spring once will definitely return and become a regular customer. The owners tell me that their customers travel from as far as 45 minutes away to enjoy their quality Chinese food.

Prices at the restaurant are very reasonable. Except for Hunan Spring's specialties, most entrees are about $7.95. I sampled several appetizers and enjoyed them all. The Honey Baby Ribs, $6.25, were in a honey sauce with sesame. The ribs were cooked to perfection. The owner claims to have found the secret to cooking a rib so that meat falls clean from the bone — and it did.

The shrimp toast (4), $3.95, were shrimp all the way through and were not at all greasy. The barbecued beef sticks (4), $4.95, had not a trace of fat. It was pure beef. The cold noodles in a sesame sauce, $3.95, is tasty and is a great summertime favorite. The bean sprout roll, $3.95, is cholesterol free. With a strong mustard sauce, it was very spicy, but not overwhelming.

Hunan Spring never uses egg yolks in their soups — another health-conscious decision. I highly recommend the egg drop soup, $2.30, and Eight Treasures with Winter Melon soup (for two), $5.95.

The house specialties are delicious. The owner urges those returning to Hunan Spring never order the same thing twice! The crispy-coated, tender steak, $13.95, is flank steak, dried red hot pepper, and orange peel cooked in a special sauce. It was excellent.

Tray-Mee-Gee, $10.95, is sauteed minced chicken, prepared with vegetables, cooked with a garlic sauce that you wrap in lettuce leaves. What an interesting way to eat and what a treat! The chicken with orange flavor, $8.25, was crunchy because of the way it is fried. It was superb.

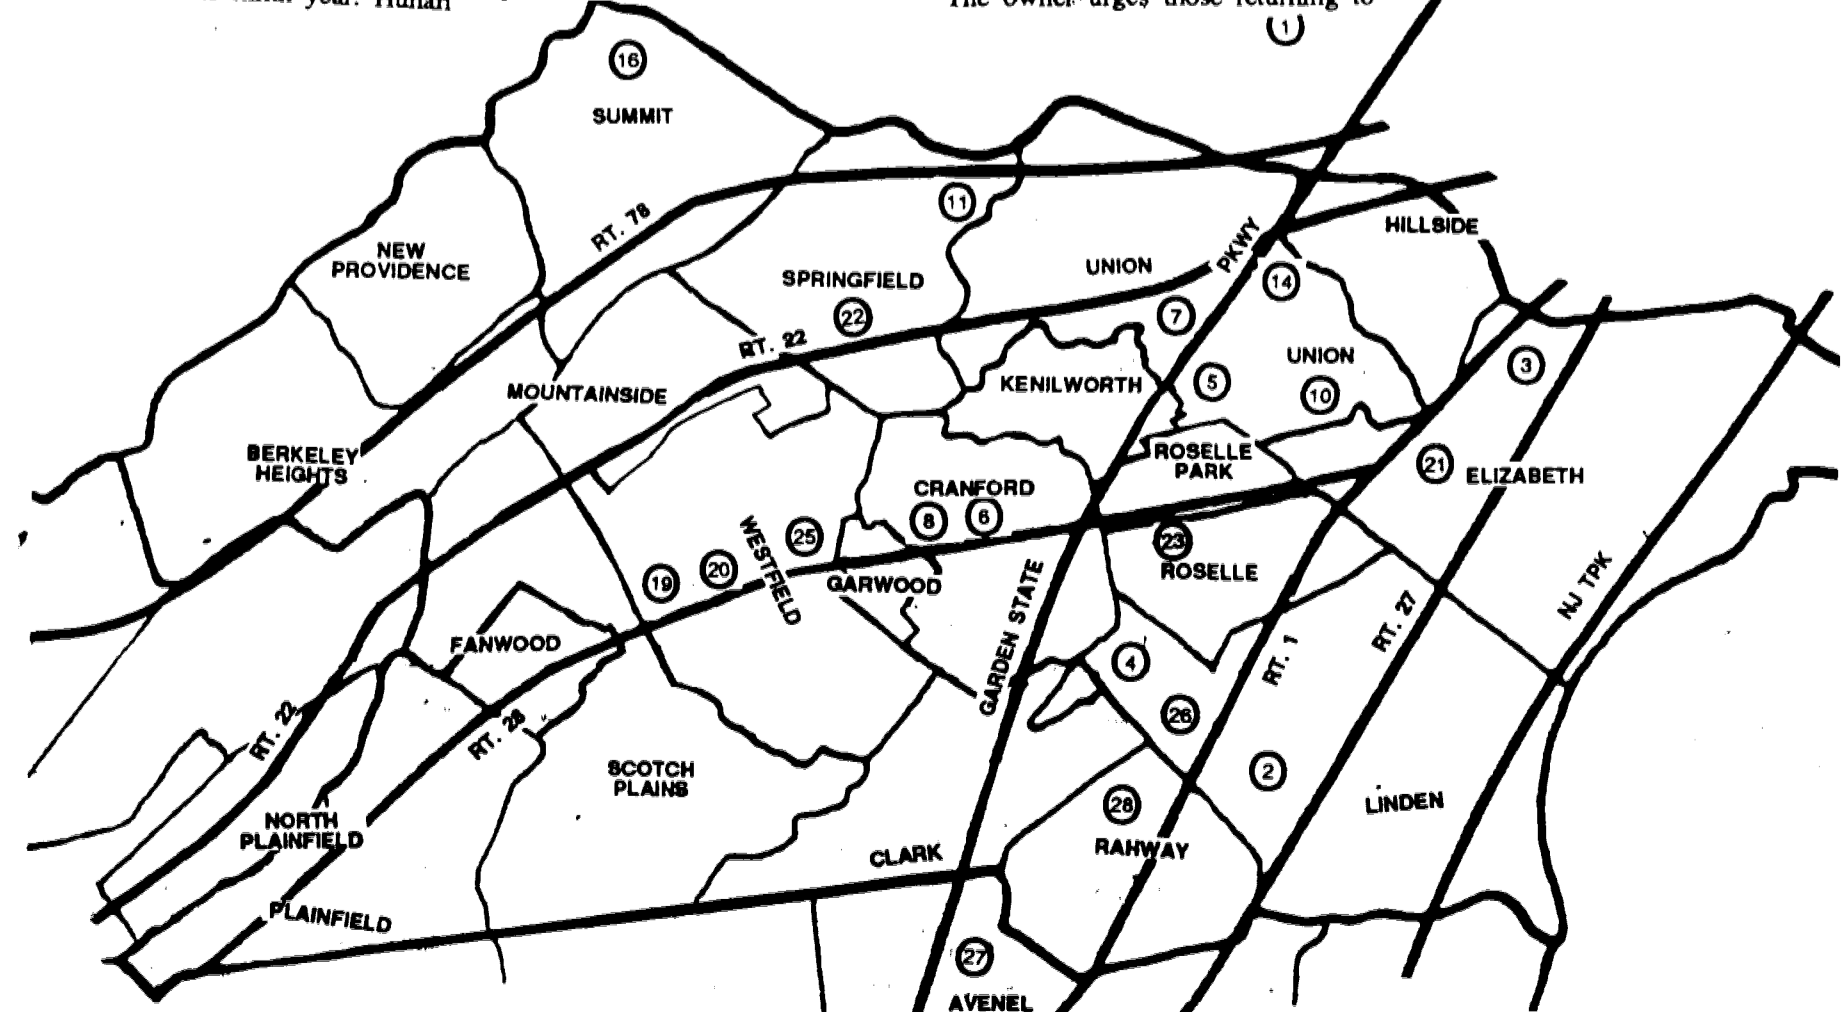

Most people do not have dessert at Chinese restaurants. Have the fried banana! Do not be deterred from visiting Hunan Spring because of fear of parking at its Morris Avenue location. Plenty of parking is available behind the restaurant.

Hunan Spring, 288 Morris Ave., Springfield. Open daily, Monday through Thursday, 11:30 a.m. - 10 p.m.; Friday, 11:30 a.m. - 11 p.m.; Saturday, noon - 11 p.m.; Sunday, noon - 10 p.m. Casual attire. Phone: 379-4994 or 379-4996.

flavor. They carefully select all their meats and produce. Either Jim or Ping oversees the chef at all times, constantly tasting the sauces to ensure consistency. Top it off with a beautiful American-Asian decor and a well-groomed staff and what Hunan Spring has is a class act.

The owners have years of experience as a result of operating their two extremely successful restaurants. Their other restaurant, Hunan, 255 Speedwell Ave., Morris Plains, recently celebrated its ninth year. Hunan

Union orchestra will celebrate Mozart

The Mozart Bicentennial will be celebrated in Cranford on April 27 at 8 p.m. in the auditorium of the Orange Avenue School. Under the direction of its music director and conductor Ira

Kraemer, the Concert Orchestra of Union County will perform three of Mozart's celebrated masterpieces, "The Overture to the Marriage of Figaro," "Sinfonia Concertante for Violin and Viola" and "Symphony No. 35, The Haffner."

The Concert Orchestra of Union County is a unique ensemble in that it is comprised entirely of New Jersey resident musicians and promotes the feeling of pride in its "Jersey musicians." A 40-member symphony will perform for this special event.

The "Sinfonia Concertante for Violin and Viola" will feature sisters Corinne Stillwell, violin and Denise Stillwell, viola. They hail from Somerville, are currently pursuing musical studies at the Juilliard School of Music in New York and have performed extensively throughout the metropolitan area.

Partial funding for this concert has been provided by the New Jersey Council on the Arts administered by the Union County Office of Cultural and Heritage Affairs. Tickets will be available at the door. Call 862-0877 for further information.

Denise Stillwell and Corinne Stillwell practice for the upcoming concert at Orange Avenue School in Cranford.

Uncle Floyd brings his show to town

"After years of playing taverns and nightclubs, it's time to bring 'The Uncle Floyd Show' back to the big stage where we belong," Uncle Floyd Vivino, star of New Jersey's longest running television show, said. "It's time for our little show to have some class."

While "The Uncle Floyd Show" has always been known for cheap gags, off-the-wall humor and loud laughter, "high class" is not a term often associated with its trademark brand of comedy/variety entertainment. "This night should be something very special," Vivino said.

Vivino began "The Uncle Floyd Show" as a kiddie television program back in 1974. On Saturday, after 17 years as New Jersey's favorite uncle, Vivino and a cast of wacky characters will take to the stage of the restored Union County Arts Center in a special cast reunion performance for their loyal fans.

The former Rahway Theatre was built in 1928 during the heyday of vaudeville. In the late 1970s, local citizens succeeded in acquiring landmark status for the aging stage, which had become a second-rate movie house. Rahway Landmarks had not quite completed the $1.2 million restoration project when "The Uncle Floyd Show" first played there in May 1980.

Uncle Floyd's performance set the record for the largest audience in the re-opened theatre's first season. "We drew a line two blocks long," Vivino said, "but then we ran out of chalk."

"The upcoming show has evolved into a reunion of sorts. Over the years, my cast has stuck by me through some pretty tough times. Some of the guys drifted in and out, went on to other things. They were always welcome to come back," Vivino said. "But we've never gathered everybody all together in one place for a big show like this." The cast reunion is planned to include show regulars Scott "Hey Buddy" Gordon, Charlie Stoddard, Michael Townsend Wright, David Burd — a.k.a. Artie Delmar, Jim Monaco, "Looney" Skip Rooney and the two men known only as "Mugsy" and "Netto." There are also surprises promised with unexpected guest stars making appearances.

"An extra added attraction in the original Wurlitzer pipe organ which has been restored to like-new condition. This is the big one," Vivino said.

"The Uncle Floyd Show" is unique as a comedy show in that they don't generally perform in comedy clubs. We're not stand-up comedians," he explained. "We belong on a full stage, in a theater. Our show is rooted in commedia dell'arte, a 16th century Italian form of comedy. We don't go out of style because we were never in style."

Uncle Floyd is almost a show business legend in New Jersey, having produced more than 4,000 episodes of his local television show. In addition, he produces a weekly radio program of Italian music, make numerous guest appearances, performs frequently in nightclubs and has had numerous parts in film, including "Good Morning, Vietnam" with Robin Williams and "Crazy People" with Dudley Moore.

From his humble beginnings on UHF Channel 68 to a one-year stint in national syndication — the show aired on WNBC, Channel 4 in this area — to three years on NJN, the New Jersey Network Public TV Network, Uncle Floyd has weathered the storm of a changing television market. To this day, "The Uncle Floyd Show" is still going strong, running five nights a week on CTN, the state-wide cable interlink in New Jersey.

Uncle Floyd and his crew will be at the Union County Arts Center in Rahway for two shows. For reserved seating, call 908-499-8226.

Maplewood Nursery in bloom

"It's more than just a nursery," says Wayne Maudsley, owner and proprietor of Maplewood Nursery in Springfield. "In addition to flowers, trees and shrubs, we also sell an entire array of lawn and garden care products, topsoil and mulches, and paving stones."

Maudsley says business is as good as ever this season, and more and more people are coming to Maplewood Nursery, located at 160 Springfield Ave., for a variety of items to make their homes and yards look fresh for the coming season.

"This is the time of year people like to start making their homes look nice," says Maudsley, who is the third generation of nursery operators in his family. "That's why a lot of people come to my nursery to pick out decorative stone or gravel for walkways, or new trees for their yard."

Maplewood Nursery also carries at least nine different styles of paving stones from which to choose, and all are easy to install and reasonably priced.

"They don't need mortar so the homeowner can do the installation easily," says Maudsley. "They are already cut to fit together like puzzle pieces, and once they're down, they stay put."

But while most customers know they need something to give the exterior a facelift, many are lost as to where to begin.

"It seems like everyone needs at least a little help," he says. "They usually want to know how much of something they need and where it will grow best."

Maudsley stays on top in the highly competitive nursery business by keeping prices low and selling products in bulk.

Maudsley added that although his stock moves out at a quick pace, he does a few extra things with his live shrubbery to keep it fresh.

"We are one of the few nurseries that water the stock in the ground. We plant the trees and water them there."

Another unique feature he offers is the sale of items in bulk, which drops the price considerably.

"We can sell things by the cubic yard instead of the bag," he says. "Selling items by the truckload can mean big savings for the customer."

Of course, the nursery business isn't the type of industry that stays open all year long. Maplewood Nursery sells Christmas trees in December, but right after the holidays Maudsley has a two-month vacation until the weather warms up again.

With summer already upon us, homeowners may think a little gravel along the driveway or a few bushes under the bay window may be just what the old house needs.

But before you pick up a rake or shovel, it may be a good idea to stop at the Maplewood Nursery and pick up a few hints from Wayne Maudsley, or call the nursery at 376-7698.

River's Edge residents enjoy new lifestyle

The first delighted residents of River's Edge, a private community of 28 two-bedroom, 2 1/2-bath townhomes, have settled into their new lifestyle of affordable luxury.

Gerald and Atrayee Banfe, both 25 and financial analysts, were the first to move to the new Millburn-area community. Atrayee Banfe summed up the River's Edge concept perfectly when she stated, "Our home has the structural layout and quality features that you'd expect to find in a much bigger house, at a much higher price."

"We have all the room we wanted and a long list of standard features that you would have to pay extra for somewhere else," she continued. "Such things as Andersen doors and windows, Moen faucets and oversized ceramic tile in the bath."

"I especially love the kitchen cabinets," she confided. "They're just beautiful and very expensive-looking. They're solid wood throughout, with raised panel doors, adjustable shelves and there's even a handy, built-in lazy susan unit."

"Another important selling point for us was that River's Edge offered an exceptionally convenient location. Jerry and I both cut our commuting time down by one hour, and now I'm only 10 minutes away from work," she explained happily.

While the quality, exquisite design and remarkable price, (from $129,900), are the key to the popularity of these homes, the community's location is a significant factor in its overall appeal.

Nestled in a quiet residential neighborhood, the private compound is just two minutes away from prestigious Millburn Center and its superb shopping, dining and convenient transit services. River's Edge residents can catch the Lackland bus one-half block from their doors and arrive at the Port Authority Bus Terminal in just 30 minutes. Or, if they prefer, the trains leaving from the nearby Millburn or Maplewood stations reach New York City in 45 minutes. Easy access to all major highways and an excellent school system are also benefits of this most desirable location.

New neighbors Cecilia and Steve Rosenberg, ages 33 and 34 respectively, echo the Banfes' appreciation of the community's location. "We love to go into New York City, but we didn't want to live there," explained Cecilia Rosenberg, a legal secretary working in Manhattan.

"Here it's so easy to get into the city, plus it's very affordable. We also enjoy the little town centers of Millburn and Maplewood — both are very quaint and have everything we need. In fact, within walking distance from our house is Millburn Plaza, which has a nice mix of essential shops and services."

Gerald and Atrayee Banfe, first residents to move into River's Edge, relax in their new home.

In addition to its advantageous location, the Rosenbergs chose River's Edge for its maintenance-free lifestyle and its spacious rooms. Steve Rosenberg is a busy government lawyer with the Office of Thrift Supervision in Jersey City and has little free time available for lawn care.

The couple also appreciates having a second bedroom with bath for use as a guest room and lots of storage space.

"We've both moved a lot over the years and naturally have accumulated more and more possessions," Cecilia Rosenberg continued. "That we were able to find room for everything and still have ample storage space is a real testament to how well thought out these homes really are. Inside and out, River's Edge achieves a very favorable, quality impression."

Builder Michael Romanelli assured the community's curb appeal by constructing these traditionally styled townhomes from the finest building materials, including brick, stone or stucco siding. Beautifully landscaped and sodded front lawns and distinctive Belgian block curbing enhance the property's overall charm. The backyard areas are generous enough to accommodate an entertainmentsized deck. Add the planned 1.5-acre park that will back up to a branch of the Raritan River, and you have all the elements of a private residential compound any family would be proud to call home.

Adding to the affordability of these homes are a number of creative financing plans for qualified buyers — some requiring as little as 3 percent down!

The River's Edge sales office and models are open Friday from 2 to 6 p.m., Saturday and Sunday from noon to 6 p.m., Monday from 2 to 6 p.m., and by appointment. To make an appointment or obtain further information, call (908) 964-6253.

Directions: Take the Garden State Parkway to Exit 142. Proceed to I-78 West to Millburn Exit 50B. Go to third traffic light and turn right onto Valley Street and River's Edge is on your left.

How to Pick an Agent!

Planning to sell your home? How will you find the right agent to represent you? What traits should that person exhibit?

When choosing an agent, expect excellence! That's right, "excellence." An individual who consistently outperforms others as a real estate representative will display certain characteristics or traits, all of which add up to real estate excellence.

What are those traits? Commitment, superior knowledge, empathy, enthusiasm, consistency, and stick-to-it-iveness are but a few. Here's why they are so important when selling your home.

Commitment is evidence of the desire to achieve an objective. When you list your home for sale the objective is favorable sale. Would you want anything less than your agent's total commitment to that objective?

Superior knowledge is the direct result of two things: 1) formal education, and 2) daily contact with buyers, sellers, attorneys, lenders, title companies, fellow agents and others directly involved in real estate. Look for an agent who regularly pursues additional training and who is active in the local real estate market.

Empathy and enthusiasm can be found together in the successful agent. Look for an agent who listens carefully to what you say, and responds with energy, a good attitude and a smile. Such an agent will attract buyers too.

Consistency and stick-to-it-iveness can usually be found together also. Look for an agent willing to repeat the same tasks over and over without quitting. Locating a buyer for your home is not a simple task. It is accomplished through the exercise of determination in the face of rejection. It means not giving up - no matter what.

When choosing an agent to sell your home, ask questions - lots of them. Look for the traits mentioned here, and you can enjoy the benefits of an early sale at a favorable price.

If you're planning to sell your home soon and would like information on its current value, give me a call at 686-1340 at no cost or obligation.

Weichert THE BUYERS ARE BACK!

"Timing is everything, and NOW is the time to put your house on the market. Sales are up dramatically, thanks to low interest rates and an upsurge in consumer confidence. The buyers are back, and your best bet is to list now. Call your nearest Weichert Office."

Troupe sings the sounds of Broadway

A newly-formed theater group, WestRidge Productions, has announced the second production of its premier season: "Broadway: The Best of Times." Billed as a potpourri of Broadway hits, the revue features four local performers and some of Broadway's most memorable tunes.

WestRidge Productions is the joint venture of Paul Goldie of Basking Ridge and Peter Bridges of Westfield who formed the group based on their shared belief that quality theater is a combination of professionalism, caring and fun. Their first production of the season, "Annie," involved actors from 14 local communities and ran for nine performances.

"Broadway: The Best of Times" will be presented at the St. Joseph Hall on the College of St. Elizabeth in Convent Station on Friday, Saturday, and April 26 and 27 at 8 p.m. Tickets are $6.

For information and ticket reservation, call WestRidge Productions at 908-232-3219. Tickets can also be purchased at the door.

PUTTING ON THE GLITZ — Saks Fifth Avenue in Springfield was the setting for "Images," the 10th annual gala to benefit the N.J. Center for Visual Arts in Summit. Three hundred guests enjoyed live music, mimes, an art exhibit and sale, a buffet, dinner and dancing. Participating in the festivities were, from left to right: Wendy Burke of Maplewood, Robert Burke, general manager of Saks in Springfield and Judy McLendon of Summit.

THE PROTECTION YOUR DECK NEEDS!
NEW OR OLD

The misconception that pressure-treated wood does not require any additional protection has caused many problems. Home-owners have built beautiful decks only to watch the wood crack, split and warp as it weathers.

What many home owners are discovering - often too late - is that pressure treatment protects lumber from rot and insects but it needs help periodically to battle the elements effectively.
