ON PARADE — The Mountainside Little League's Opening Day Parade kicks off last Saturday as members of the Little League and Girls Softball Team lead family members, friends and supporters to the Deerfield School ballfield, where traditional Opening Day ceremonies were held. Several games were also played afterward. Mountainside's Borough Council, Board of Education, Police and Fire departments and Volunteer Ambulance Squad were among those represented at the event.

Three race for two seats on borough school board

By Suzette Stalker
Managing Editor

The campaign season for those seeking election to the Mountainside Board of Education will wrap up this week, as the three local candidates prepare for school Election Day on Tuesday. Borough voters will have an opportunity to cast their ballots at Deerfield School in Mountainside from 2 to 9 p.m.

In addition to filling two vacant seats on the Mountainside school board, the elections will bring a new borough representative to the Board of Education of Union County Regional High School District 1 and decide the fates of both the local and regional school budgets for 1991-92.

On the Mountainside Board of Education, incumbents Linda Esemplare and Raymond Fisher are being challenged by newcomer Frank Geiger. Esemplare, who has been on the board since 1978, will be seeking her fifth term. Fisher, elected in 1988, is running for his second term. Geiger is an area businessman.

For the Union County Regional Board of Education, Mountainside resident Carmine Venes is running unopposed to succeed Board Vice President David M. Hart, who is not seeking a fifth term. A guidance counselor and former elementary school teacher, Venes is making his first bid for a Regional Board seat.

The development of the Mountainside school budget, like the Union County Regional budget, was a long and frustrating process for the respective school boards as they waited for state aid figures to be released. These figures, originally due in December, were not released until March 15.

The 1991-92 Mountainside school budget of $4,482,358, unanimously adopted by the local school board April 15, marks a 6.5 percent increase over 1990-91. Of this total, $3,445,910 will have to be raised through municipal taxes, with the remainder derived from various revenue sources.

Chief budget expenditures this year were fixed charges, which increased 114 percent, and instructional costs, which rose by 8.9 percent. Instructional costs include previously negotiated salary increases for Deerfield teachers as well as provisions for expanding the fifth grade and several other classes.

The huge increase in fixed charges was due to a state requirement this year that New Jersey school boards reflect in their budgets teacher pension and Social Security costs. These costs will be picked up by the state, however, for another two years under the amended Quality Education Act.

The Union County Regional Board also recently adopted its $36 million budget for 1991-92, which represents a 5.51 percent increase over last year's figure. Like Mountainside, instructional costs and fixed charges comprise the largest budget categories.

Instructional costs, which represent 43.73 percent of the budget, rose by 6.02 percent from 1990-91, while fixed charges, which encompassed 14.16 percent of the budget, increased by 14.98 percent. The latter increase is reflective of teacher pension and Social Security costs.

Parents expected to oppose Watchung stable bids

By Suzette Stalker
Managing Editor

Parents of children who participate in riding programs at the Watchung Stable in Mountainside are expected to appeal tonight to the Union County Board of Chosen Freeholders not to convert the facility to private ownership. The meeting begins at 7:30 p.m. at the Union County Administration Building, Elizabeth.

A bulletin announcing the county's decision to take bids to lease the stable to a private concession was distributed among parents of children enrolled in riding programs at the facility, urging them to attend tonight's freeholder board meeting to protest any privatization action.

The bulletin urged parents to bring along their children in riding uniform as a show of support for keeping the popular stables under county ownership. Parents are concerned that privatizing the stable will compromise the availability of riding programs to area residents.

Charles Sigmund, assistant director of the Union County Department of Parks and Recreation, confirmed that the freeholder board has advertised for bids to lease the stable to a private concession, with bids scheduled to be opened on May 23. He emphasized, however, that this would only be a lease and not a sale of the stables to private ownership.

The concession would staff and manage the facility and derive revenue from the arrangement, Sigmund said.

Deputy Union County Manager Harold Gibson commented last Friday that in the course of its budget development "the county is looking at the cost factor involved in a number of operations and the stables just happens to be one of them."

"In order to make adequate decisions on budget problems we are facing, we need to know what it would cost and would there be any feasibility in privatizing some of our operations," the deputy county manager explained.

Gibson stated that he did not believe any concrete decisions would be made tonight regarding any future privatization efforts. "People are welcome to come and comment during the public portion of the meeting, but I wouldn't want anyone to think anything imminent is going to happen."

The Watchung Stables, located on 32 acres of land on Summit Road, offers various activities during the year for both children and adults. These include the Fall and Spring Troop riding programs and a Summer Camp program for youngsters 9 years old and up.

In addition, stable staff members instruct youngsters on how to properly care for horses through grooming, tacking and untacking and other procedures. Children enrolled in the camp program also have an opportunity to participate in other summer outdoor activities sponsored by the facility.

Gibson emphasized that Union County would not easily be able to sell the Watchung Stables under any circumstances since the property was purchased through the state Department of Environmental Protection's Green Acres program, which preserves land for recreational use.

He noted that "many requirements" would have to be met before any sale proposals were ever considered. One of these would be that the county would be obligated to provide an alternate site of equal size and recreational capabilities to the Watchung Stables property.

Volunteers sought for Litter Day

By Suzette Stalker
Managing Editor

One hundred people are expected to help spruce up the Watchung Reservation in Mountainside on Saturday in celebration of Litter Day '91, an annual event designed to educate the public, and particularly children, about the importance of environmental protection to the future of the Earth.

"There are a lot of people already registered," Kathy Harth, spokeswoman for Litter Day, confirmed on Tuesday. "We have whole families coming, and we also have the Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts. I'm sure we'll have even more people coming out on Saturday."

The reservation will be one of four sites around New Jersey which have been targeted for a spring cleanup this weekend by Litter Day, an organization headquartered in Hopewell which promotes public awareness of environmental issues among New Jersey residents.

The other three locations include the Delaware and Raritan Canal in Princeton and Community Park in East Brunswick, as well as Monmouth Battlefield State Park in Freehold. All four sites, including Watchung, were also cleaned up during last year's Litter Day.

In Mountainside, volunteers will be concentrating their efforts on the Trailside Nature and Science Center property, a popular recreational facility. From 9 a.m. to noon, workers will collect debris which has accumulated during the winter months to ready the grounds for spring and summer activities there.

Litter Day is still seeking additional volunteers to participate in Saturday's event, including children and adolescents, young adults and senior citizens who have a few hours to spare to help their community.

Volunteers should report to the Trailside Visitor Center, Coles Avenue and New Providence Road, at 9 a.m. on Saturday. Biodegradable bags will be provided to volunteers and coffee and doughnuts will be served. Every volunteer will receive a T-shirt in appreciation of their participation.

Anyone interested in participating in Litter Day '91 can obtain a registration form at Eastern Mountain Sports of Union, chief sponsor of the event, or at the Trailside Nature and Science Center. One can call 466-4333 for further information.

READING CLUB — Students in Jeanette Turley's third-grade class at Deerfield School in Mountainside recently participated in a classroom reading club. Each youngster brought home reading coupons to be signed by a parent after the child read or was read to for 10 minutes. After 20 coupons were returned, students received awards for having read for 200 minutes and were commended for establishing positive reading habits.

Policewoman enjoys serving hometown

By Suzette Stalker
Managing Editor

Patrolwoman Dorothy Sullivan of the Mountainside Police Department has discovered that there really is no place like home. As the borough's first female police officer, Sullivan has achieved a milestone both professionally and personally by giving something back to her hometown.

Sullivan, now living in Roselle Park, said she joined the Mountainside force in December 1989 because for her it meant "going home again. My parents still live there and I feel I'm doing something for them." She said she also appreciates the "personal touch" which local officers employ in their work.

A native New Yorker, Sullivan, 27, moved with her family to Mountainside when she was 11 years old. She graduated from Deerfield School in Mountainside and Jonathan Dayton Regional High School in Springfield, and in 1985 was awarded a bachelor's degree in biology from Seton Hall University.

Sullivan subsequently became

involved with law enforcement after learning from a friend that the Union County Police Department was seeking applicants, "and since I'd always been athletic, I just thought, why don't I give it a shot."

It was not until a year and a half later, however, that the department called her, Sullivan, who by that time was working as a lab technologist at the Progressive Allergy Center in Colonia, decided that she wanted a career change.

After successfully passing the required tests, Sullivan entered the Union County Police Academy, then housed at Union County College's Cranford campus, in September of 1986. She graduated three months later. The academy has since been moved to the college's Scotch Plains location.

As a full-time member of the Union County Police Department, Sullivan's primary duties involved patrolling park areas in Rahway, Elizabeth and Plainfield, as well as the Watchung area in Mountainside. She joined the Mountainside Police Department's Patrol Division in December of 1989.

"It's a service-oriented department," she said of Mountainside Police Headquarters. "They do the best, I think, as far as what the residents' needs are. Here in Mountainside, we actually have residents who know us by our first names. When residents need us, we help them out, whatever it may be."

In addition to being Mountainside's first female officer, Sullivan, who is engaged to be married, has also made her mark by carving out a law enforcement career despite a moderate hearing loss which requires her to wear two hearing aids. The hearing aids, she said, have become her "trademark."

Sullivan credits early diagnosis and speech therapy with helping her to overcome her handicap and to lead a normal life. "No matter what your handicap, you can do whatever you want in life," she explained. "I've had a lot of roadblocks, but I've been able to overcome them."

"I consider myself to be a symbol to other handicapped people," the officer continued. "I have a lot of people, particularly older people, come up to me to talk about it. A lot of people feel less enthused about wearing a hearing aid than they do about getting glasses."

Sullivan reports that she has developed loped a comfortable rapport with her fellow officers and believes that she has earned their respect through her job performance during the past 16 months.

 "I think they've gotten to accept me for what I am," the officer remarked. "I wouldn't say I'm one of the guys; let's face it, there are always going to be differences; but they accept me for me and that's really all I can ever ask for. I think everything's coming along pretty beautifully."
 "I think she does a fine job and interacts well with other members of the department," Police Chief William Alder commented. "She's energetic and carries out her duties in an appropriate manner. Women will always have an opportunity to be hired by the Mountainside Police Department."

 On a typical day, Sullivan's duties involve checking out her patrol area to ensure that everything is in order, conducting motor vehicle checks and periodic arrests, and making regular housecalls in response to everything from criminal mischief to a mailbox to actual burglaries and medical emergencies.
 She recalls having once pursued two juvenile theft suspects through the winding roads of the Watchung Reservation into Scotch Plains during the early evening, and her fear that an innocent motorist or pedestrian would be injured by the chase. "I kept praying to God that no one would get hurt," she said.

 Sullivan attributed her success in eventually apprehending the suspects to her knowledge of the Union County roads, particularly after losing her backup, who was not as familiar with the roads as she was, along the way. "You never know what to expect when you're in a situation like this," she said.

"I'm enjoying my law enforcement career, and I may go back to school," Sullivan remarked, when asked what her future aspirations might be. "I have more interests now in law enforcement than I did in science a few years ago. I'm quite happy where I am right now, though, and I'm not looking around for anything else."

Police report jewelry stolen

The Mountainside Police Department reported that a burglary took place at an Old Tote Road residence April 18 sometime between 8 a.m. and 6 p.m. An initial investigation conducted by Officer Kenneth Capobianco revealed that $3,300 in jewelry had been taken during the robbery. No suspects had been identified as of Tuesday afternoon.

□ Raymond Powell, 20, of North Plainfield was arrested April 22 at 11:26 p.m. by Officer Thomas McCartney on Route 22 East and charged with driving while intoxicated. The suspect was later released on his own recognizance, with a court date set for today.

□ Cranford resident Donald Chapman was arrested April 21 at 4:30 p.m. by Officer Richard Weigle on Mountain Avenue and Parkway and charged with possession of three packages of fireworks, which are in violation of Borough Ordinance 3-5.1.

Chapman was also charged with driving with a suspended license, operating an unregistered vehicle and not having valid insurance. He was released on $250 bail and has a May 30 court date.

□ Jeanette Casey, 25, of Plainfield was arrested April 23 at 2:08 a.m. on Route 22 West by Officer Thomas McCartney and charged with driving with a suspended license. She was released on $250 bail pending a May 1 court date.

Three race for board seats

 The greatest crisis facing the Mountainside and Union County Regional school boards, like their counterparts throughout New Jersey, is the specter of the Quality Education Act of 1990, which calls for a reduction in state aid to school districts by 25 percent annually between 1992 and 1996.
 Municipal leaders and school boards are concerned that the QEA will force local governments to raise taxes to compensate for the loss in state aid, particularly after school districts begin to assume the cost for teacher pension and Social Security costs in 1994.

During the 18-week course conducted at Surface Warfare Officers School, Pacific, San Diego, Truncale was taught how to perform as a watch and division officer aboard Navy ships.

He received extensive instructions on the duties of an underway officer of the deck, which included shipman-dling and maneuvering in formation under simulated battle conditions.

He also studied radar detection, tracking and plotting of enemy aircraft, ships and missiles, communications, damage control and shipboard organization.

A 1984 graduate of Oratory Preparatory High School, Summit, and a 1988 graduate of Seton Hall University, South Orange, Truncale earned a bachelor of science degree from the university. He joined the Navy in February of 1989.

PARTY TIME — Springfield resident Annette Jordan, left, and Jaqueline Redden of Westfield, who are members of the Auxiliary of Children's Specialized Hospital in Mountainside, prepare for the auxiliary's annual Spring Party and Fashion Show, which will take place tomorrow at the Short Hills Hilton. This year's event will benefit a four-bed room in the hospital's long-term care wing.

Hospital to present speech and hearing programs

A series of free educational events marking Better Speech and Hearing Month in May will be sponsored by Children's Specialized Hospital, New Providence Road, Mountainside throughout next month.

On May 2, the hospital will present a lecture for parents titled "The Detection and Prevention of Hearing and Speech Problems in Young Children," beginning at 7 p.m. There is no fee to attend. Refreshments will be served.

Professionals in the Speech and Hearing Department of Children's Specialized Hospital will describe the normal acquisition of speech, language and hearing development and signs of potential speech-language and hearing impairments in young children.

The presenters will also outline steps that parents and teachers can take to recognize and remedy these problems.

"If hearing impairment is undetected, the result can be delays in speech and language development," explained Ellen Hansen, supervising pediatric audiologist in the hospital's Speech and Hearing Department. "Both of these factors can affect learning skills and subsequently academics."

Free speech, language and hearing screenings for pre-school children, ages 2-4, will be conducted four Tuesdays during May at the hospital's Outpatient Center, South Avenue, Fanwood. The sessions will be held May 7 and 21, from 9 to 11:30 a.m. and May 14 and 21 from 3-5:30 p.m.

Each screening is approximately 20 minutes in length and will be presented in a play format. The child's ability to hear and understand instructions, as well as speak clearly with the use of appropriate language, will be tested.

Recommendations, suggestions and referrals, if needed, will be made immediately. The screenings will be conducted by an audiologist and a speech/language pathologist.

"Early identification of speech, language and hearing problems can help children avoid serious learning and social problems when they reach school age," explained Ellen Kandel, director of the hospital's Speech and Hearing Department.

"Our programs will assist parents and teachers in recognizing potential problems," she added.

Printed literature and resources will be available to all who attend any of the special events. Pre-registration is requested for the events, especially the screenings. One can call 233-3720, extension 254 to register.

Children's Specialized Hospital houses 60 rehab beds and 25 long-term care beds at its Mountainside headquarters. The hospital, which is marking its 100th anniversary this year, was recently awarded re-accreditation by the American Speech-Language-Hearing Association.

Dumping ordinance helps to protect environment

By Sharon Cates
Staff Writer

Assemblyman Neil Cohen, whose 21st Legislative District represents Springfield, has reported that a 1990 ordinance against illegal dumping has become the foundation for a partnership between Union County and municipalities regarding violations and protecting the environment.

Cohen, who drafted and sponsored the ordinance in 1990 when he served on the Union County Board of Chosen Freeholders, noted that the monetary benefits derived from fines charged to violators will be split between the county and communities where the dumping incidents have taken place.

"The ordinance provides for a partnership between the county and the municipalities," Cohen said. "The county provides the prosecution in a town's municipal court. The fines are shared between the township where the incident occurred and the county."

Union County prosecutors were recently busy tracking the person responsible for dumping approximately 40 cubic yards of trash on East Hazelwood Avenue in Rahway last October. The culprit, Kim Qui Paster, 36, of Rahway, was finally located and has now been convicted.

Following a two-month investigation, Paster pleaded guilty to violating the county's illegal dumping ordinance. She now must pay $2,500 in fines and is required to complete 10 hours of community service. It is expected that she will complete her service in an "environmentally sensitive" area, according to Assistant County Counsel Christopher Howard.

In addition, Paster's license was suspended for six months and the 1979 pickup truck used to discard the debris has been forfeited.

Cohen explained that a civil suit may be filed against Paster to recoup the cost of cleaning up the debris. That has not yet been decided, Cohen said.

The former freeholder noted that Paster is the first suspect to be prosecuted under the law, which is the first county ordinance of its kind in the state.

According to Cohen, Paster was charged with violating the ordinance after investigators from the Regional Environmental Health Commission tracked the debris to Paster.

Paster was reportedly questioned about the debris after public Health Investigators Kevin Monahan and William Sleight found that Paster's 1979 pickup was used to dump the trash.

The Rahway woman informed the investigators that her vehicle was stolen. She also told them that she owned five Union County homes and none of Hart has served the Borough of Mountainside since 1979, and was council president in 1989. A professor of educational psychology at Kean College in Union, she received her undergraduate degree from Seton Hall University and her master's degree and doctorate from Rutgers University.

Former Attorney General Cary Edwards will be the principal speaker for the evening.

Tickets, priced at $25, are available through the honorees or through club officers Virginia McKenney at 353-4253 or Ginger Heald at 233-0605.

LOCKED UP — Springfield Mayor Marc Marshall goes behind bars to benefit the Muscular Dystrophy Association of Union and Middlesex counties, which will be holding a 'Jail-A-Thon' on Tuesday to raise funds for research, patient care and other needs. Seminar warns about alcohol abuse

By Chris Smith
Staff Writer

"James Bond has a license to Kill/ At seventeen/So will I." — (From a poem written by an anonymous teenager)

The Union County Juvenile Officers Association sponsored a seminar April 10 that sought to heighten the awareness of local teens to the dangers of drinking and driving.

Every year, thousands of teenagers acquire that most sacred rite of passage into young adulthood, the driver's license. Sadly, many young people simultaneously assume the additional pressures imposed by the consumption of alcohol, a responsibility which their age does not merit. Scores of traffic accidents, and more than a few deaths, occur with each passing season as a new generation of youngsters try their hand at managing this potentially dangerous combination.

With another season of proms and graduation parties looming on the horizon, the Association, comprised of more than 75 juvenile officers, school officials, probation officers and court support employees, is increasing its efforts to save young lives and limbs from the debilitating effects of alcohol-related car accidents.

As the school year winds to a close, the potential for alcohol use and driving fatalities increases in direct relationship to the festivities that arise as the young and seemingly invincible become accustomed to new freedoms, such as driving privileges and other responsibilities corollary to burgeoning adulthood, for the first time.

"The idea is to make these magic moments, not tragic moments, for the young people," said Assistant Prosecutor Robert P. O'Leary, supervisor of the Family Court Unit in the Prosecutor's Office.

A presentation made by Officer John McGuinness of the Morris Township Police Department provided the highlight of the program. The Morris Township DWI-prevention program was inaugurated 16 years ago, when local authorities became fed up with the annual traffic fatalities that usually occurred during the party-oriented prom season.

"We were losing at least one kid per year in Morris Township alone," said McGuinness, who has led the "Fatal Attraction" DWI program for the past six years. "We've given this presentation in 75 schools across the state, and in each town, for that year that we give it, no lives have been lost, so I'd say that the program has been pretty successful."

McGuinness' multimedia program consists of a slide projector that is synchronized to an audio-cassette player in a manner that simulates motion for the viewing audience.

With this capability, the program takes the audience through the harrowing ordeal of what an actual accident would be like to a passenger.

Prior to this mock tragedy, the audience, compelled to imagine themselves in a moving automobile, passes by a billboard that advertises a popular alcoholic beverage. "When the kids first see it, they always hoot and holler and think of it all as being pretty cool," McGuinness said. "But when we show them the same sign after the accident, when they see someone actually die, you can hear a pin drop."

The slide show also simulates the procedure that a police officer enacts when he goes to the scene of an accident, and the traumatic response that is elicited when an officer must relay to a family information regarding the death of a relative.

"We also show them what an officer looks for when he suspects someone of driving under the influence, so that they will realize the virtual impossibility of hiding the fact," McGuinness said. "We want the kids to know that 95 percent of all arrests eventually lead to a conviction."

Harry Bernstein and Woodbridge Police Officer Jim Thorn, representing the Middlesex-Union Chapter of Mothers Against Drunk Driving, also attended the program and provided local school authorities with suggestions on how to implement alcohol-free graduation celebrations.

Some local communities, such as Roselle Park, have already conducted similar events successfully in the past

Our choices

On Tuesday, Mountainside residents will cast their ballots for candidates for the local and the Union County Regional boards of education, as well as either approving or rejecting the 1991-92 school budgets.

In the race for two available seats on the Mountain-side Board of Education, there are three capable candidates. Incumbents Linda Esemplare and Raymond Fisher, however, possess the experience board members will need to face the financial crises caused by the Quality Education Act and tough financial times. Their experience and their desire to maintain quality education in Mountainside warrants their return to the board.

Esemplare, who has been a member of the Mountainside school board since 1978, is a member of the board's education and policy committees and a member of its Special Education Task Force. She also has gained valuable experience working on many school budgets during the past 13 years.

Fisher, a trial attorney who has served on the board for three years, has proven to be a very able representative. He will be the only member of the Mountainside school board who will have children enrolled in Deerfield School — a factor which will make him take a personal interest in the board.

This year, Carmine Venes is running unopposed for the Regional Board seat held by board Vice President David M. Hart, who has opted not to seek reelection.

We believe that Venes, a guidance counselor at Rahway High School and former elementary school teacher, as well as being his school district's representative to the New Jersey Education Association's Legislative Action Team, is highly qualified to serve on the board and we wish him luck.

In addition, we support the Mountainside and the Union County Regional school budgets.

The Mountainside budget of $4.5 million and the regional budget of $36 million represent months of hard work, careful deliberation and frustration by the boards as they struggled to control costs in the shadow of the QEA. Each of the budgets were made as lean as possible without compromising the quality of education on either the local or regional level.

Get out and vote

We can't emphasize enough how important your vote is in the annual school board election on Tuesday.

Voters will elect members of their local school boards of education and, in some cases, regional school boards, and will approve or reject school district budgets for 1991-92 on that day. Elections will take place in approximately 550 of the state's 604 local school districts.

There's a far-reaching impact that local boards of education have on the education process in New Jersey.

School board members have a direct effect on the spirit and character of the American education system. Statewide local school board members oversee the expenditure of some $10 billion of the public's tax dollars. They develop policies in areas that are vital to the operation of public schools.

Informed, concerned school board members are vital to the smooth operation of our public schools. To select these people we need informed, concerned voters. By learning about candidates in your school district's election, by voting on Tuesday and by continuing to voice your view on education issues, you can help to ensure a quality education for Hillside's children.

Polling hours for the Mountainside Board of Education and the Union County Regional District Board of Education elections are between 2 and 9 p.m. Please get out and vote.

Letters to the editor

Vote no on the budget

To the Editor:

Mountainside residents are being asked to approve a 5.5 percent increase in the regional budget and a 6.5 percent increase in the local Mountainside school budget on Tuesday.

A yes vote on these budgets is a yes vote for more wasteful spending of our hard-earned tax dollars. Has the regional board closed any schools? Of course not — the enrollment continues to decline and still no action in closing two schools or even one. Four schools once housed 5,500 students. In September there will be approximately 2,150 students.

The local Mountainside board raised the superintendent/board secretary's salary to $85,000 and gave the teachers an 8.3 percent raise at a time when the Social Security recipients received a 5.4 percent increase based on the CPI. Now they want more money. What for — so they can raise the superintendent/board secretary's salary to $90,000 next year?

The only way to stop this wasteful spending is to vote no on both school budgets.

Vote yes on the budget

To the Editor:

We are writing to urge every registered voter in Mountainside to go to the polls on Tuesday and vote yes in support of the 1991-92 school budget.

The Mountainside Teachers Association believes the budget is a fair one which, if passed, will continue to provide quality education to the children of Mountainside. Passage of the budget will guarantee that established educational programs will not be compromised. Please vote yes for the local school budget.

Passes on opening day remarks

To the Editor:

Editor's note: The following are excerpts from Ray Fisher's remarks on behalf of the Mountainside Board of Education at the Mountainside Little League's official season opening on Saturday.

As we gather today to celebrate a new beginning, a new spring, and the opening of the Mountainside Little League ball season, I ask that all our ballplayers and their parents take time to stop and think about all the people who volunteer to help organize and successfully run this program each year.

Some people say that volunteerism is dead in America. Well it is certainly not dead in Mountainside. The only reason we have a little league program here in Mountainside is because of the many hours donated by the coaches, assistant coaches, the officers and others closely affiliated with the Mountainside Little League program.

What makes all of this possible is their dedication and commitment, from that pre-season mysterious meeting called "The Draft," right through the final awards ceremony and banquet — when George Serio wonders whether they can really pay for all those trophies. So let us support them; and, most important of all, let us take the time, sometime during this season, to say "thank you."

You know the incredible thing about Mountainside Little League is not only that the program exists, but that it is run by a caring group of individuals who teach our children good citizenship, good sportsmanship and team spirit. Equally important, the coaches are concerned with the development of the individual player's talents, which varies from person to person.

Certainly, if there is any truth to the saying that we learn by example, then as parents we can be justifiably hopeful that our children will learn good citizenship and caring from this program.

After the close of our baseball season last year, there was an incident which brought all of this home to me. As you all know, Graham Miller, the "God-father" of this program, who we will all miss dearly, passed away after the close of our baseball season last year.

If ever there was an example of caring and good citizenship, Graham Miller, who devoted many years to the program, was it. Late last summer Graham was hospitalized again in his long fight with cancer at Overlook Hospital in Summit. At the same time, my son, Ken, was in the hospital recovering from a bout with Lyme Disease.

Despite all the turmoil in his own family, Graham's son, Matt Miller, my son's All-Star coach, took the time to come and see my son and wish him a speedy recovery.

That unselfish act made me realize once again the caring and devotion of people like Graham Miller and how, by example, it is passed on to our children. Matt Miller is certainly a credit to his father, to this program, and to himself. It is that kind of devotion and caring which exists throughout this Mountainside Little League program.

Thus, as we start another season, on behalf of the Mountainside Board of Education and on my own behalf as one parent whose child is in this program, I say thank you to all the people who make this program possible. And to you as ball players, I say be thankful, learn well and good luck!

Regionalization fits into the county's plans

On March 14, you published an editorial titled "Seek a Partnership" in which you support the concept of regionalizing solid waste incinerators. On behalf of the Union County Utilities Authority, the agency designated to implement solutions to Union County's solid waste problems, I would like to explain to your readers our plans concerning solid waste management in Union County and how regionalization fits into those plans.

The Authority is in complete agreement with the state's new solid waste policy based on a priority system of waste management techniques, namely: source reduction, recycling, waste-to-energy and lastly state-of-art landfills.

The Authority must be innovative and aggressive to reduce the waste stream through source reduction efforts which will become the base for all other waste management programs. Source reduction will be a key component of the Authority's efforts to conserve energy and preserve our resources. We are developing a public education program and will be providing technological assistance to help households, businesses and governmental units reduce the waste they generate. In this way the ultimate cost of recycling will be reduced by eliminating some of the waste materials altogether.

The next priority is recycling. The state of New Jersey recently estimated that Union County is already at a 44 percent recycling level. Our goal is to reach 60 percent through a variety of programs likely to include separation of recyclables at the source (home, business, school) as well as mechanized recycling facilities where construction/demolition waste and commercial waste can be separated into recyclables destined for market and non-recyclables remaining for disposal. Composting facilities for yard waste are also an important component of this plan. The Authority is developing a revised recycling plan to achieve these higher levels and we welcome public comment. A series of meetings will be held to receive this necessary and important public input.

Be Our Guest

Our third priority for management of the solid waste stream, projected to be significantly reduced by source reduction and recycling, is to develop a resource recovery facility at a site the Authority owns in the city of Rahway. This facility will have the most extensive air pollution control system of any such facility in the country and has passed every environmental and health risk test required by the NJDEP. This facility will safely and economically process most of the solid waste which remains after source reduction and recycling. The significant projected reductions in the quantity of solid waste remaining after source reduction and recycling efforts results in available resource recovery facility capacity for the region. This fully permitted facility is intended to serve the needs of Union County and a neighboring county. Discussions are under way with several interested counties with the goal of solving a regional solid waste problem.

Some of your readers are aware of Essex County's available capacity at its resource recovery facility and its apparent inability to attract a partner. Questions have been raised as to why the Authority proposes to build its facility when Essex has unused capacity. The reasons are threefold: 1. The Essex facility, due to the nature of its existing contracts, is vastly more expensive for Union County taxpayers than the cost of building its own facility. We project up to tens of millions of dollars per year in savings through the construction of the Authority's facility; 2. The Essex facility cannot provide guaranteed capacity to Union County at sufficient levels to solve our disposal needs; and, 3. Central and northern New Jersey, at 60 percent recycling levels will recycle 5.4 million tons annually, out of a total waste stream of 8.5 million tons. This leaves 3.1 million tons for disposal. The combined capacity of both the Essex and Union resource recovery facilities is 1.2 million tons, or less than 40 percent of the region's disposal needs. The region currently relies almost entirely on expensive and uncertain out-of-state disposal and, therefore, both projects are critically needed.

The last element of our waste management program involves landfills for the disposal of inert ash residue and non-burnable recycling residue. Landfill needs will be a fraction of their former requirement due to source reduction, recycling and waste to energy. New landfills will meet New Jersey's extremely rigid requirements including four liners to prevent the migration of leachate, two leachate collection systems to back up the liners, clay caps to minimize leachate formation, and gas collection systems to minimize emissions and recover methane for energy production.

Integrated waste management systems of the '90s are coming about due to years of serious effort brought on by demands of an environmentally conscious population. The Authority encourages citizen input to these programs and will work even more diligently to provide safe and efficient systems at the lowest possible cost.

Health chief's testimony was embarrassing

"How someone could get paid so much and know so little."

That was the assessment of one observer of New Jersey Department of Health Commissioner Frances Dunston's dreadful testimony before the state Assembly's Appropriations Committee. Every year, the commissioners of each department are supposed to go before the budget committee to address specific questions regarding the fiscal status of their organizations.

Last year, in an unprecedented action, state Treasurer Doug Berman testified for all 19 departments. It was a curious move by Jim Florio that was roundly criticized by political observers across the state. But after Dunston's recent performance before the committee, the Berman idea doesn't look so bad.

One high-level legislative staff person told me, "It was embarrassing for Commissioner Dunston, the Department of Health, the legislators on the committee and the public of New Jersey."

Dunston, who was surrounded by her highly-paid top staff, was unable to answer even the most basic questions about the Department of Health's finances.

Ironically, many of the questions Dunston and her colleagues couldn't or wouldn't address were questions budget committee members already had the answers to — answers that were provided to them by their staffs, who in many cases got much of their information from the Department of Health data.

Some readers may think I'm being too tough on the commissioner. After all, she and her staff can't be expected to have all the answers, couldn't they? Maybe a couple of examples will give you an idea of how embarrassing it really was.

Newark Assemblyman Jackie Madison asked why Union County was getting $14.8 million in Department of Health AIDS funding, while his Newark district, with one of the highest number of AIDS cases in the country, got about half that amount.

Dunston was dumbfounded. She said, "That's a very good question."

But it really wasn't a good question. It was a typo in the Department of Health's budget, which Dunston, after conferring with her staff over lunch, would later clarify for the committee. Union County actually got only $321,599 in AIDS funding.

Of course that's all they got! Forget that she's the state's top health official, anyone with even the slightest understanding of the state's number one health priority, AIDS, would know that a mostly suburban county like Union couldn't possibly get as much as Newark, much less twice the amount. So when the AIDS question was asked, a red flag should have gone up, but Dunston didn't have a clue, and neither did any of her deputy and assistant commissioners who were there to support her testimony.

In fact, her assistant commissioner of management and budget just sat there during her entire testimony and, according to sources, didn't speak up once and barely offered the commissioner any verbal advice.

But if the AIDS example doesn't convince you, maybe this one will: As just about anyone in New Jersey knows, we have a serious problem with our uncompensated health care fund. This is the money that's supposed to pay for the hospital bills of poor people who can't afford health care, or leeches who can and just don't pay the bill. The committee wanted to know how many hospitals have a "surcharge" for indigent care above 30 percent, which is an extraordinarily high figure. This is an issue of critical importance to those of us who can and do pay hospital bills.

Dunston and her staff struck again. They had no idea as to how many and specifically which hospitals were levying such prohibitive surcharges. The committee member who asked the question, Rodney Freylingheusen, a Morris County republican, had a list of the hospitals right in front of him. The list was provided by his staff, who supposedly got the information from Department of Health records. The fact that he had the list of hospitals and the commissioner didn't speak for itself.

"To have that much brass from the department there and for them not to be able to answer what I consider routine questions is astounding," said Assemblyman Richard Kamin, a Morris County republican.

Frustrated Committee Chairman John Watson said to Dunston, "You've got 11 assistant and deputy commissioners dealing with such a small budget, and no one there is able to give us any answers. I am very upset with that."

In defense, all Dunston could say after the hearing was, "I think the chairman was disappointed he did not get specific responses from some of my staff. I know the reason he needs (the information) is because of the dire times we are now in, where everyone is looking for dollars to support very needed services around the state."

Banal generalities just won't cut it, commissioner. We need straight answers to very specific fiscal questions regarding your department.

If it weren't so disgraceful, this scene might have been funny. As the day wore on, one committee member took an unusual tack with Dunston. After every correct answer she gave to his questions, he sarcastically responded "that's right."

One observer said it was like Alex Trebek hosting a "Jeopardy" game. Unfortunately, the dollars and cents being discussed before the budget committee were ours. It was no game show. It was very real and very scary.

Finally, Committee Chairman Watson mercifully ended the Department of Health budget charade when he said to Dunston, "We're going to call your department back. We are going to adjourn because these are important issues."

Shame on Dunston and her knowing nothing staff. Shame on the entire Department of Health, and shame on our self-professed "hands-on" governor, Jim Florio, for allowing such an embarrassing situation to take place. If this is what we can expect from the Florio cabinet, then I say bring back Doug Berman. At least he had some answers.

Worthy investment in public health

Millions of older American women suffer the effects of osteoporosis, the loss of bone mass. The costs in terms of pain and anguish are impossible to measure, but the expense of medical treatment for 28 million victims with bone-related disorders is estimated at $10 billion a year.

As the nation's elderly population increases, the costs to Medicare and private health insurance will continue to escalate. Osteoporosis is responsible for more than 1,300,000 bone fractures annually, including 250,000 hip fractures and 500,000 vertebral breaks. Women have a one in two lifetime risk of developing fractures because of osteoporosis. For men the risk is one in five.

Despite the fact that it is one of the major debilitating diseases of old age, and is responsible for many patients being admitted to nursing homes, the prevention of the disease receives only scant attention. Many of the cases go undiagnosed until it is too late for women past the age of 65.

Technology now exists, however, that will permit early diagnosis and prevention of the loss of bone mass. One of the more promising treatments that has been used for Paget's disease has shown evidence of rebuilding lost bone mass and is now prescribed by physicians. However, it takes time to rebuild the lost bone mass, and some physicians claim that at least two years of treatment is needed before the bones become strong again and can withstand the stress of activity.

It is clear from the medical data that more research is needed in order to prevent osteoporosis. Current funding for research on bone disorders is severely restrained at the National Institutes of Health. An additional $36 million is needed at the Arthritis Institute, another $24 million for research at the National Institutes of Aging, and $2 million by the National Institute on

Report From Washington

By Matthew Rinaldo

Aging over the next two years. I am a sponsor of legislation that would amend the Public Health Service Act to coordinate research programs in osteoporosis and related bone disorders. It would also provide for education and health promotion to encourage the elderly to supplement their diets to avoid bone loss.

The legislation also would establish an advisory panel of five biomedical research scientists who would annually review the program and report on its progress to Congress. The advisory panel would recommend the most promising areas of biomedical, clinical and behavioral research for federal funds.

In order to encourage early detection of the loss of bone mass, I also am sponsoring a companion bill to allow Medicare to cover the cost of bone mass measurements among high risk groups by means of radioisotopic procedures performed in a clinic or qualified physician's office.

At a time when the costs of new programs must be carefully evaluated, this is one investment in public health that would more than pay for itself many times over. Estimates by the National Osteoporosis Foundation are that it would cost Medicare from $5.6 million to $11.2 million in each of the first three years. But after about five years, the savings to Medicare would begin to accrue and would reach an estimated $233 million, assuming a 25 percent reduction in bone fractures.

Social Security makes retirement planning easier

I have long noticed that while Social Security seems to work for so many people, others end up disappointed when they start receiving retirement benefits. They feel that their retirement check falls short of their expectations.

In general, I find it necessary to explain that their Social Security benefits were never intended to provide all of their retirement income or to replace all of their pre-retirement earnings. Social Security is designed to provide a base of income on which they can build to achieve their personal lifestyle.

Be Our Guest

By George Dearness

Most experts agree that a person needs about 75 percent of pre-retirement income to maintain his or her lifestyle in retirement. Social Security replaces about 65 percent of pre-retirement earnings for low earners, about 40 percent for average earners, and about 25 percent for high earners.

The difference recognizes the lower earner's dependence on earnings and relative lack of access to other sources of retirement income. With proper planning during working years, a person can use insurance, savings, investments, and other types of retirement income to supplement Social Security and provide for the later years.

Social Security now makes retirement planning a little easier. We provide a Personal Earnings and Benefit Estimate Statement that shows the earnings credited to your Social Security record and an estimate of the retirement, disability, and survivors benefits payable on those earnings in today's dollars. This permits you to plan what else you need to provide financial security.

You can get a copy of the statement for any Social Security office. We will give you a form that you can complete to send for the statement. It usually takes about three weeks to receive your personalized benefit statement.

George W. Dearness is the Social Security manager in Elizabeth.

Dedication weekend

Temple Sha'arey Shalom of Springfield has announced that construction on the new addition has been completed.

This marks the first addition to the temple since the original building was dedicated in 1962, it was announced. The original temple was built with members of the congregation performing most of the work themselves, from contracting to masonry to painting. "Notables," says that committee, "such as Martin Luther King, Sen. Wayne Morse and Norman Thomas have addressed the Sha'arey Shalom congregation in this building, giving it significance to Temple members and to the community."

The new wing includes a new 100-student nursery, six new classrooms, a youth lounge, new offices for the administration and the rabbi, a permanent sanctuary with seating for more than 250 people expandable to 800 and a large social room. The temple expects the 250-capacity social room with adjacent kitchen to be popular with the public for catered affairs and parties.

The temple plans a dedication weekend, tomorrow through Sunday to celebrate the completion of the wing. Rabbi Israel Dresner, Rabbi to the congregation from 1958 to 1970 and now of Temple Beth Tikvah, Wayne, who dedicated the building in 1962 will return for a guest speaking engagement tomorrow at 8:30 p.m. Also planned is a performance by the Avodah Dance Ensemble Saturday at 7:30 p.m. The New York-based dance company uses Jewish themes as an impetus for movement.

Finally, a special service of dedication will be held at the Temple Sunday at 11 a.m.

More information can be obtained by calling Beverly Schwartz at 687-7157, or the temple office at 379-5387.

Director is honored

Renee Kahn, director of the Nursery School in Temple Beth Ahm, Springfield, will be honored at a Sabbath morning service at the temple May 4 at 9:30. At that time, nursery school parents and children, past and present, will pay tribute to Kahn who will be retiring in June after 12 years as a nursery school teacher and director at Temple Beth Ahm.

A kiddush luncheon and program will follow the service, including a presentation to Kahn. Yeda Fish and Anita Millman, co-chairmen, have invited temple members and others involved in the Nursery School to attend.

Kahn, is a certified elementary education teacher. In addition to a nursery school license, her educational background includes a bachelor of arts degree in elementary education from Queens college and a master of arts degree in health, physical education and recreation from New York University. She has been a permanent and substitute teacher in elementary and pre-schools in New York and New Jersey for 34 years.

After a brief respite, Kahn plans to be a volunteer in children's hospital wards.

A pre-Hebrew orientation will be held May 5 at 10 a.m. in Temple Beth Ahm. Parents of children in kindergarten through third grade are invited.

Miriam Lagin, religious school principal, Rabbi Perry Rank, and a full staff, will be available to answer questions regarding the religious school program.

Refreshments will be served. For further information, one can call the temple office at 376-0539.

May Fellowship Day

Church Women United Roselle/Roselle Park Unit, will celebrate May Fellowship Day on May 3 at the Church of the Assumption, 113 Chicago Place, Roselle Park at 12:30 p.m.

This year's May Fellowship day experience, "Journey Toward Jubilee" reclaims Church Women United's heritage in this year of its 50th anniversary and heralds CWU's accomplishments as a "major player in shaping the churches' role within the Civil Rights Movement, the Peace Movement, and the Women's movement, since its founding in 1941."

Guest speaker for the event will be Sister Jacinta Fernandez director, St. Joseph's Social Service Center in Elizabeth. Ethel M. Pulley, president of Church Women United Roselle/

Roselle Park, will welcome the group. Jean Hayner is in charge of the program, and the luncheon will be under the direction of the Assumption Rosary Society. The Fellowship Club will have a display table of handmade items. It was announced that there is ample parking. Tickets can be obtained from the Church Women United representatives of the various churches in Roselle/Roselle Park.

May Fellowship Day is a worship even sponsored annually by Church Women United (CWU) that "brings women of faith together from many diverse Christian denominations to build and strengthen bonds of community within an ecumenical environment." It is one of the major events to mark the celebration of CWU's jubilee year. The service was written by Sharon Rezac Andersen of Grand Forks, N.D., with the assistance of an ecumenical group of women from the Houston, Texas, Church Women United unit.

The author drew on her own experience as well as the "rich legacy of the many women who journeyed for half a century with Church Women United living out their faith in action, and their commitment to the continuous struggle for peace with justice, human rights, and Christian unity."

May Fellowship Day 1991 is one of three ecumenical days of celebration sponsored by CWU. The other are World Day of Prayer, the first Friday in March, and World Community Day, the first Friday in November.

Church Women United is the ecumenical movement that brings Protestant, Roman Catholic, Orthodox and other Christian women together into one community of prayer, advocacy, and service. It represents a broad spectrum of religious tradition, race, age, economic status and ethnic background and functions through a national unit, 52 state units, including greater Washington, D.C., and Puerto Rico, and 1,750 local units throughout the United States.

Unified by a "common faith in Christ, the women of church Women United work for the elimination of poverty of women and children and issues of peace with justice."

Earth Day '91 seemingly 'lost in space'

This is the final installment of a three-part series dealing with environmental issues affecting the Worrall Community Newspapers area.

Earth Day, observed Monday, has come and gone, and unlike the multitude of events which occurred in 1990 in celebration of the 20th anniversary of the event, only a smattering of citizens were aware of the issue. Television broadcasters ended their news shows with the event, while a year ago, it was the lead story.

An indication of the lessened public awareness can be seen in the brochure listing events scheduled across the state.

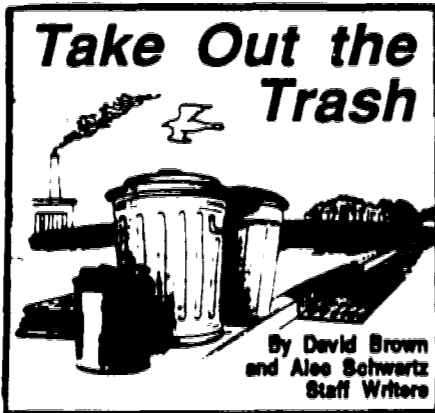

Not one event is listed for Union County, nor is a contact provided.

"The bulk of the phone calls I have received are asking what's going on in Union County," Marie Toohey from the Bloomfield-based Earth Day New Jersey office, said. "There is an event at Union County College in Cranford, but we don't know of anything else."

There were a few other local events, but nothing near the magnitude of 1990.

According to Toohey, environmental issues are concerns which do not just occur once every 20 years, or once a year. And, she stressed there are ways in which individual citizens may make a positive impact on the global problems.

"I can't believe people are still talking about recycling," Toohey said. "That's an issue which should have been tackled years ago."

Toohey, instead, turns to ways in which a single person can make an impact. She said that people should stop letting water run while they brush their teeth. Instead, use small quantities of water in a cup, and shut off a faucet when it is not needed.

Toohey also said that lawn chemicals are dangerous for the environment and said that homeowners use chemicals which are just as dangerous as those used by farmers if not more so.

Toohey also dispelled some rumors that Styrofoam is not dangerous.

"It's rumors like those that hurt our cause," Toohey said. "Styrofoam and plastics don't break down."

Toohey suggested not using disposable coffee cups at all and recommends glass mugs as the best alternative.

Toohey said that the effort this year was to encourage citizens to make one permanent change and is using the slogan, "Mother needs a favor." The mother, of course, is Mother Earth. Shoppers can do their part by purchasing environmentally wise products, according to state environmental groups.

The New Jersey Environmental Federation is urging consumers to think before they shop. "Environmental shopping means buying and using products which are, or can be, recycled, which have minimal packaging, which are made in an environmentally safe manner, and which do not produce unnecessary garbage for our landfills," said Deborah Keller, NJEF director.

The Union County Board of Chosen Freeholders passed a resolution designating this week as "Environmental Shopper's Week."

The resolution reads in part: "... Each time we purchase a product, we are sending a message of support to the manufacturer. Consumers' decisions to purchase convenience items, disposable products, quick-fix household goods and an array of items in non-biodegradable packaging contribute to the pollution of air, soil, and water. The consumer can have a significant impact on the development of less toxic and safer packaging."

Freeholder James Connelly Welsh said the resolution is intended to "make the citizens aware of the fact that when they go to their shopping centers and buy products, they have a choice and can buy in an environmentally safe way."

The federation's environmentally sound shopping guidelines steer consumers away from the use of plastic trash bags, which are made of non-renewable petroleum products and are not biodegradable. Instead, it recommends the use of waxed paper or special cellulose bags made of plant fibers.

Borax and hot water has been suggested as a safe alternative to "all-purpose" cleaning products, which are typically packaged in non-recyclable containers. Also, certain ingredients in these products have been determined to be cancer causing when released into the atmosphere.

One category presenting a dilemma to environmentally aware shoppers is personal care products, such as shampoo. Consumers cannot avoid these items, which are packaged in non-recyclable containers. The federation therefore recommends purchasing these items in bulk to avoid the amount of plastic going into the waste stream.

"We as leaders of the county have to start here," said Tom Moritz, northern region coordinator for the federation's environmental shoppers campaign. "It's really going to be a concerted effort on everyone's part if we're going to make this project work," he said. So far, five counties including Union and Essex have declared this week Environmental Shopper's Week.

The county resolution endorsing

Environmental Shoppers Week offers "eight easy steps" to becoming an effective environmental shopper:

At the checkout counter, you should bring your own shopping bags; canvas bags are best suited.

Choose products packaged with materials that can be recycled in your community and those with minimal packaging.

Avoid polystyrene and single-use disposable products.

Buy in bulk.

Choose no, or low, phosphate laundry and general cleaning products.

Avoid aerosol cans — choose pump spray instead.

Buy rechargeable batteries. Make your environmental shopper's preference known to the store manager.

Toohey added that simply purchasing toothpaste in a tube, rather than a pump could make an immediate impact. She said that pumps are bulkier than empty tubes and therefore worse for the environment.

Just a 5 percent dent in a manufacturers market will cause them to change their ways, Toohey concluded.

Houston to chair benefit

Grammy Award Winner Whitney Houston will be the honorary chairperson for the American Diabetes Association, New Jersey Affiliate Bike Ride Plus.

Bike Ride Plus is the major spring fund raiser for the association and is scheduled in six sites across the state.

Reflecting on her participation in the event, Houston said, "I am proud to be the honorary chairperson for the ADA Bike Ride Plus. Money raised from this event will help people all across New Jersey."

The ADA estimates that approximately 14 million Americans have diabetes, 400,000 in New Jersey. It is estimated that more than 150,000 people will die from diabetes this year alone. The ADA is the nation's leading voluntary health organization concerned with diabetes. Its mission is to prevent and cure diabetes and to improve the lives of all people affected by the illness.

The ADA will conduct Bike Ride Plus in the Union/Essex and Hudson Area on June 8, beginning and ending at Union County College in Cranford. Bike Ride Plus will offer 5-mile, 20-mile and 40-mile loops to accommodate all levels of riders. A bike ride party will await riders at the end of the ride.

The Joslin Diabetes Clinic at Saint Barnabas Medical Center in Livingston is the major corporate sponsor of the event statewide. "We are happy to lend our support to this effort," said Ronald J. Del Mauro, president and chief executive officer of Saint Barnabas. "All of us who work with diabetes patients have one ultimate goal — to find a cure for this devastating disease."

The American Diabetes Association urges everyone to take a ride and help put an end to diabetes. For more information about Bike Ride Plus, call the ADA at 908-815-7838.

Supporters donate commemorative video in honor of Gulf troops

A coalition of veterans and patriotic groups called "New Jerseyans United to Support Our Troops" launched a campaign to donate a commemorative video to New Jersey schools and libraries that honors New Jersey servicemen and women who have served in Operation Desert Storm.

The television special, "NJ Salutes Our Troops," will be airing on Suburban Cablevision's channel 32 on Friday at 6:05 p.m.

The documentary features U.S. Senator Frank Lautenberg, Reps. Robert Torricelli and Frank Guarini, state veterans leaders, families of New Jersey soldiers in Desert Storm and a New Jersey version of "Fire Power" consisting of a seemingly endless convoy of fire trucks from all across the state, all of whom participated in the "Support Our Troops Rally" held during the war on Feb. 9 at Liberty State Park.

RoseMarie Peterkin, president of the American Freedom Coalition of New Jersey, a sponsoring organization, said, "The purpose of the campaign is to keep the memory of the sacrifice of our soldiers and their families alive, as well as to remember how much New Jerseyans pulled together to support our brave Desert Storm soldiers."

"Such sacrifice and unity are things not to be forgotten and exemplify the true American spirit. We believe this TV special records an important part of New Jersey history. We want any returning veteran to be able to go to the local library to see how so many wanted to show their support. And the same for the school children of our state."

The campaign is to be supported by veterans and civic groups, local businesses and the general public. Groups and individuals who would like to donate to the special or to their local schools or library, or seeking more information, should call 325-7776 or write the American Freedom Coalition, 395 Pleasant Valley Way, West Orange, 07052.

The 20-kilometer, or 12.5-mile, walk will begin and end at Kean College and will travel through the towns of Union, Cranford, Roselle and Roselle Park.

Rebate extension deadline OK'd by committee

Legislation sponsored by Assemblyman Neil M. Cohen, (D-Union), which would extend the filing deadline for the state's new Homestead Rebate until the end of the calendar year, was reviewed and approved Monday by the Assembly's Appropriations Committee.

The Cohen measure would allow New Jersey homeowners and tenants to file their rebate applications until Dec. 31, for tax relief rebates of up to $500.

The appropriations committee released a version of Cohen's legislation along with similar measures sponsored by Assemblymen Fred Scerni (D-Atlantic), John Paul Doyle (D-Ocean) and Assemblywoman Marlene Lynch Ford (D-Ocean).

Under current law, the deadline for filing for the Homestead Rebate is April 15, and even though the rebate applications are attached to the state income tax forms, the extension would apply only to the rebate program.

Cohen observed that the state has publicized the changes in the rebate program, including the new April 15 deadline, but that "any time you institute a new program, some people are bound to be misinformed or unaware of the changes."

"We're dealing with the state's first major property tax relief program in decades, and I don't want residents missing their opportunity for tax relief just because they were unaware of the program's requirements," Cohen said.

Cohen said he was particularly concerned about the many senior citizens and disabled people whose taxable incomes are below the state minimum for filing, and "who no doubt missed the deadline simply because they were unaware of the new program's filing procedures."

"These people may not have much taxable income, but they are eligible for and entitled to their Homestead Rebate. In many cases, we're talking about a $500 rebate," Cohen said.

"If they're not used to filing an income tax return, they may not know that the rebate application is on the reverse side of the NJ 1040 form. So if they've missed the April 15 deadline and we don't pass an extension, then they're out of luck. I don't want that. This tax relief program is designed to help everyone, not just those who file income tax forms," Cohen said.

Cohen reiterated that the legislation would only affect the Homestead Rebate program and not the state income tax. He also noted that the extension would only be in effect for 1991; 1992's deadline would remain at April 15.

Furthermore, the rebate program which was passed by the Legislature last year mandates that rebate checks be sent to residents by Oct. 31 each year. Cohen's legislation would keep that deadline intact for applications made prior to Sept. 17, 1991. For applications received after that date, the state would be required to send rebate checks within 45 days.

The legislation will now be considered by the full Assembly.

Leyrer's HR sparks Dayton

By Mark Yablonsky
Sports Editor

Laura Leyrer is a sophomore shortstop on the Dayton Regional High softball team, who, in the words of head coach Art Krupp, has "a gun for an arm." It appears as though Leyrer has an explosive bat as well.

Leyrer, who is also a key member of the Dayton swim team, stepped to the plate in the seventh inning of last Tuesday's game in North Plainfield and belted a grand slam home run to deep left field, giving Dayton a 14-13, come-from-behind win. The Lady Bulldogs, whose record jumped to 2-2 with the victory, had been trailing by five runs entering the seventh inning.

Leyrer's blow came after two walks and two singles had accounted for Dayton's first tally of the five-run outburst.

"She really clocked it," commented Krupp. "It was a home run, a legitimate home run. That's probably the best ball she ever hit for us."

Starting pitcher Jen Minieri, who worked all seven innings, got the win, which was her first of the season against one defeat. Dayton's other win was credited to junior Holly Olarczuk, who pitched a complete game in beating Roselle, 20-3, on April 2.

OPEN GYM — That's the case here for Dayton Regional High students Sharod Wright, left, Terrence and Stephan Burke, after winning a 3-on-3 basketball tournament during a recently-held Open Gym Night at the Springfield-based school. Open Gym Night is a monthly event sponsored and organized by 'Alternatives,' the Dayton student group that stresses the importance of a drug-free and alcohol-free lifestyle.

The 1991 season marks the 26th year of Pop Warner football in Kenilworth. The Jets field teams in three separate age and weight categories: Junior Pee Wees, Pee Wees and Midgets. The teams compete in the Raritan Valley Conference, which includes teams that also compete at the high school level. Some of the teams on the 1991 schedule include Roselle Park, Manville, Clark and Bound Brook.

Park defeats Brearley, 21-7

By Mark Yablonsky
Sports Editor

In a game that was dominated by walks and impaired by damp, chilly conditions, Roselle Park prevailed, 21-7, over Brearley Regional in a regular-season, Mountain Valley Conference softball game last Thursday afternoon in Kenilworth.

In all, a total of 27 batters reached base on walks, with Park batters getting 24 of the free passes. Also, a combined total of 14 errors were committed by both teams.

Park, now at 7-1, was trailing by a 4-3 count entering the top of the third inning, but a four-run outburst by the Lady Panthers put them in front to stay. Dawn Skebeck began the rally with a booming triple to right-center field, the only extra base hit of the game. Along with two key errors, Park scored four times, with two of the runs coming in on a single to left by catcher Maura Geoghegan.

Geoghegan, a hard-hitting senior, ended the day with three walks and

Panthers take 2

By Mark Yablonsky
Sports Editor

The weather may have postponed Thursday's big baseball game with conference rival Brearley Regional, but the Panthers of Roselle Park High still managed to get in two games this past week. And Park, which is now 5-2, won them both: 11-3 over St. Mary's on Friday, and 7-5 over Cranford the next day.

Against St. Mary's, the Panthers were trailing by a 3-1 score entering the bottom of the fifth inning, but a run-scoring single from Scott Bermingham and a fielder's choice grounder from Dan Serretti produced the tying runs. And then in the sixth, Park broke it open with an eight-run outburst.

In all, the Panthers sent 12 batters to the plate in the sixth and got seven hits and a walk for their efforts. While Mike Baker's two-run single was the one that really made the difference, Serretti and Bermingham made sure by delivering a two-run single and two-run triple, respectively. Jon Price came on in relief of Park starter Chris Hartzler in the fourth inning to pick up the win, his first of the year against no losses.

Price allowed just one hit over the final 3 1/2 innings, while walking out none and striking out three.

And once again, the Panthers put together two strong innings to defeat Cranford. Trailing by a 1-0 count entering the bottom of the third inning

Baseball

Saturday, Park scored three runs to take the lead for good on run-scoring singles from Andres Alarcon and Scott Bermingham, and a steal of home by Alarcon, the team's second baseman.

Bermingham belted a two-run double in the fourth inning for Park, which also got a two-run single from Derek Vanderkooy to make it a 7-2 game.

Bermingham came on to work the last 1 1/2 innings in relief to gain his first save of the year, allowing one hit while walking one and striking out four.

Lady Bears lose three

By Kim Eagan
Sports Correspondent

The Lady Bears of Brearley Regional High lost three softball games during the past week, including a tough 10-9 defeat to New Providence last Wednesday.

In that contest, Brearley held a 9-8 lead going into the bottom of the sixth inning, but a two-run double from Elaine Spigle in the bottom of the sixth inning spoiled everything. Because of rain, Brearley never got its turn at bat in the seventh.

The day before, Brearley was held hitless through six innings in a 17-0 loss to Middlesex, but Karen Savage broke up the no-hit bid against Jen Jenkins with a two-out single up the middle in the seventh.

Brearley's other loss was a 21-7 setback to Roselle Park on Thursday.

McKune takes fly for national crown

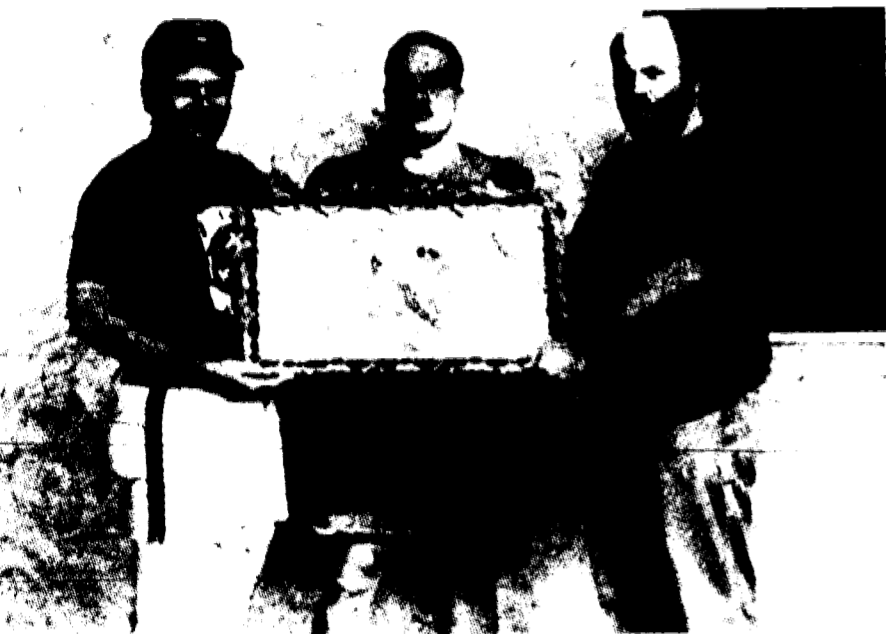

KEITH MCKUNE

Keith McKune of Union became the YMCA's national champion in the 100-yard butterfly last week at the Orlando International Aquatic Center in Orlando, Fla. McKune, who represented the Westfield YMCA, was the oldest competitor present at the event, which attracted YMCA swimmers from different parts of the country.

McKune also came in sixth in the 100-yard freestyle event, and was part of the 400-yard freestyle relay that placed fifth in the nation. The relay team also included Union resident Kevin Smith, who later teamed up with McKune and two Westfield swimmers to place fifth in the 800-yard freestyle relay.

Overall, six of the 16 swimmers to represent the Westfield Y were from Union. That includes Carol and Donna Restivo, ages 17 and 14, respectively, as well as Leslie Hendricks and Scott Stephenson.

Malfa, Knox lead Kean lacrosse team

Gregg Malfa and Tyece Knox have been the leaders of the Kean College lacrosse team for four seasons. In that time, the Cougars have posted an outstanding 45-17 record which includes three post-season appearances.

This season, the two seniors are serving as captains of the Kean squad that was the pre-season favorite to capture the Knickerbocker Conference title.

Malfa's contribution to the Cougars' success is easy to measure. In his four seasons, he has led the team in scoring three times and finished third on the squad once. The Cougars' all-time leading scorer, he now has 226 points in his illustrious career.

A two-time, First-Team all-conference selection and a one-time second-team selection, Malfa has twice been named as Most Valuable Player of the team on offense.

As a freshman midfielder, he scored 34 goals and 12 assists as the team finished 13-6 and received a bid to the ECAC Tournament.

In his sophomore campaign, Malfa led the squad with 24 goals and 36 assists as the Cougars completed an 11-5 campaign, one that was also capped by a bid to the ECAC's.

AROUND THE BASES — Dave Melia of Union High heads toward third base in last Friday's game against Kearny in a game that Union won, 6-2. Earlier in the week, Melia had three hits and two RBI in a 16-0 rout of Plainfield.

This week's question: This one goes out to all Met fans. Who was the very first player ever selected by the Mets in the National League's expansion draft of Oct. 10, 1961?

Last week's answer: The goaltender who holds the NHL record for the best goals-against average for playoff action in one season is Tiny Thompson of the 1928-29 Boston Bruins. Thompson fashioned three shutouts en route to an 0.60 goals-against average for the Stanley Cup champion Bruins.

In that era, the Stanley Cup final was a best-of-three event, following a somewhat complex, even bizarre, format in which both first-place champions — of both the Canadian and American Divisions — met each other first, while the second and third-place teams in each division crossed over to oppose each other in a separate, yet related, tournament. Eventually, the winner of that latter event would advance to meet the survivor of the first-place battles to determine the Cup winner.

By 1938-39, the NHL had reduced itself to just seven teams; and by the 1942-43 season, only six teams remained — and that's the way it stood until the great expansion of 1967-68 added on six new teams (including the Philadelphia Flyers and L.A. Kings) in a separate West Division. Today, of course, that is no longer the case in a 21-team NHL field.

Also, beginning with '42-43, only the top four teams in a single, six-team league made the playoffs; and the semifinal round had the first-place team team opposed by the third-place team, and the second and fourth-place squads meeting as well.

By the way, Terry Sawchuk, considered to be one of the NHL's all-time greats among goalies, had four shutouts and an 0.63 goals-against average in eight playoff games for the 1951-52 Detroit Red Wings. This week, Henry Hascup of Lodi submitted a correct answer.

Other Saturday match ups include: Dayton at Union Catholic, Governor Livingston at Westfield, Brearley at Cranford, Scotch Plains at Rahway, New Providence at Union, Elizabeth at Johnson and Roselle Catholic at Linden.

Quarterfinal round games will be played May 4 at the site of the team with the higher remaining seed. The semifinal games are scheduled for May 11 at Memorial Field in Linden. The first semifinal will begin at 6:30 p.m. and the second at 8 p.m.

New relay mark set

The Union High boys' 4 x 200 meter relay team of Kahsime Simmons, Brian Leschinski, Derrick Cannon and Cameron Chadwick won their events and set a new Union record of 1:31.9 on Saturday at the Morris Hills Relays in Rockaway. Overall, Union placed sixth in a field of 21 teams.

Also the 4 x 100 team of Simmons, Chris Jackson, Cannon and Anthony Purcell placed second in 45 seconds flat. The 4 x 800 team of Spencer Mell, Jim Romeo and Chris Geck and Lou Romeo came in second in a season-best time of 8:36.9.

Leschinski, Jackson and Chadwick were joined by Darin Gerdes to capture third place in the shuttle hurdles relay in 64.3 seconds, yet another season best.

Also, Union's 125-5 victory over Kearny raised the team's dual-meet record to 3-0.

Simmons won two events: the 100-meter dash in :11.2, and the 200-meter run in :22.9. Leschinski won the 400-meter hurdles in :62.3 and the high hurdles in :14.8. Purcell took the 400-meter run in :53.4, and Lou Romeo took the 800 meters in 2:09. Field event winners were Giorgio Alfano in the shotput (40-3/4), Nick Karadimas in the discus (121-3), Rob Schiff in the javelin (142-3), Jackson in the high jump (5-8), Chadwick in the long jump (18-7/8) and Cliff Sangster in the pole vault (10-0).

Union netters now 4-4

The Union High boys' tennis team, which saw two scheduled matches postponed by rain last week, is now 4-4, following Friday's 3-2 loss at Scotch Plains.

The Farmers were slated to play Irvington last Monday and then Summit two days later, but wet weather in both instances interfered.

The team's most reliable points have come from the second doubles pairing of junior Jack Mascarenhas and senior Flavio Lourenzo, who are 6-1 to date. Union has won three of its matches by 3-2 scores, and in each of those instances, Mascarenhas and Lourenzo have meant the difference for the Farmers.

In a 3-2 verdict over St. Benedict's Prep on April 4, Mascarenhas and Lourenzo defeated Billy Fox and Louis Periera, 6-0, 6-1; and in Union's 3-2 decision over Kearny on April 10, the Union duo outpointed Chris Smith and Bret Hogan, 6-1, 6-3.

Also, in Union's 3-2 triumph against Roselle Park on April 11, Mascarenhas and Lourenzo prevailed, 6-3, 3-6, 6-1 against Anthony Procopio and Paul Gibeault.

And in the loss to Scotch Plains, the Union duo prevailed, 6-2, 6-2, over Jim Dougherty and Amit Dogra.

Actress, 7½, makes a splash on college stage

By Bea Smith
Lifestyle Editor

Ronit Hasson, the 7½-year-old daughter of Robin Yvonne of Union and Yom-Tov Hasson, can't make up her mind whether she'd like to be an actress or a pediatrician when she grows up. She seems ready for either career.

Ronit, who is in the second grade at the Jewish Educational Center in Elizabeth, and who has appeared in a Purim play in school, a musical skit and a play about Abraham Lincoln, recently found herself performing on stage at the Wilkins Theater at Kean College of New Jersey, Union.

Ronit played Princess Ying Yaowalak, one of the king's children in "The King and I."

"Last month Mom found out that they were auditioning for the musical and they asked me if I wanted to audition for it, and I said, 'Yes.' After the audition, I found out I had the part," she said. "If you saw the play, I was the one who ran between the king's legs during 'The March of the Siamese Children' number."

'I wish 'The King and I' would last for the rest of my life, not just seven days.'

— Ronit Hasson

"I just put the child on stage for the first time," laughed her mother, "and she hams it up. I didn't think they did that anymore."

Ronit became involved in the project when Yvonne, who is a part-time marketing major and communications minor at Kean, took Ronit and her sister, Ya'el, 5, to school with her. "When my drama teacher saw Ronit, he suggested that she audition for the role of Princess Ying Yaowalak," she said.

"Ronit never really expressed much of an interest in appearing in the theater, although she does make up her own dances, you know, just for fun. But my teacher insisted that she'd be perfect for the role," she said. "So, I took her to an audition, and the director, Holly Rhoades-Logue, whom I knew as a communications instructor, had Ronit sing a little. And that was it. Originally, they had picked another girl for the role. So, they switched. Ronit did four performances out of seven, and the other girl did the other performances and the monologue."

"We had a lot of rehearsal," explained Ronit.

Did the rehearsal interfere with her school work?

"Yes, it did, a little," she said. "But my daddy gave me a test today and I got 100 percent."

"Rehearsals started in January on Saturdays. And dress rehearsals were held from 6 p.m. to 10:30 p.m. And during the performances, she had to be at the theater at 7 p.m. for warm-ups. And since she was the last one to get out of her costume, we never left the theater until midnight," her mother said.

"Everything was done so professionally," Yvonne said. "I think they did an incredible job. There were 65 people in the show, and the children's ages began at 5.

"I had to comb out Ronit's hair, braid it and roll it up so she could wear her crown. And it was perfect. They also showed us how to use the eyebrow pencil and makeup so that she would look like an Oriental."

Ronit was very excited about the whole thing. "I was in front," she recalled. "And I wasn't shy, but my heart was beating fast."

She was in three scenes, the "Getting to Know You" scene with Mrs. Anna — "I was the one in the dark purple and black slippers" — "The March of the Siamese Children," and the "Death Scene."

"What I liked about the show was the fan dancer," Ronit said. While the children were backstage waiting to go on, they played games. "And when we got too noisy," she giggled, "they said 'Shut up!' While I waited to go on, I wrote a letter to my Aunt Marla, who had an operation, and I wrote to my Aunt Helen to tell her I miss her."

During the middle of rehearsals, Ronit saw the movie "The King and I," starring Yul Brynner and Deborah Kerr, twice. "It was fun. My favorite scene is the 'Shall We Dance' number, and I liked it when the king told Mrs. Anna that her head had to be lower than his. And I liked the king," she said.

"She more than liked the king," mused her mother. "She had an incredible crush on him. The actor who played the king is Todd Dowdy Sloane, who is extremely talented. I like the atmosphere of this kind of theater," she said. "It's very electric...even in rehearsals. Rehearsals went calmly and the performers were at their professional best."

Ronit, who may even become a choreographer when she grows up, said, "I'm always making up all these nice dances. I see all these dances on television and in the movies, and I make up all new dances. My sister tries to do it, too, but she just makes funny poses. Everybody likes my dances, even Mommy and Daddy and my grandfather and grandmother, Enoch and Shirley Trencher, who live with us in Union."

"Now that Ronit is so interested in the musical theater," said her mother,

"I'm trying to find a workshop for her."

"I said to my mother," Ronit said, "I wish 'The King and I' would last for the rest of my life, not just seven days."

"She's a true extrovert, my daughter," Yvonne said. "And an ambitious one at that."

Forum focuses on tax revolt, freedom of expression

A public forum on the First Amendment and the New Jersey tax revolt will be at Kean College at 8 p.m. today in the Wilkins Theater.

Funded by a grant from the National Bicentennial Commission on the U.S. Constitution and co-sponsored by the Union County Chamber of Commerce, the forum will focus on debate over the proper mechanisms for the expression of popular grievances within the framework of democratic government.

Panelists include two legislators, a representative from Gov. Jim Florio, businessmen, a taxpayer advocate and a professor. The forum will be moderated by Kent Manahan, a news anchorman for New Jersey Network News. The participants are:

□ Harry Busch, chairman and chief executive officer of All-State Legal Supply Co.; past chairman of the board of the Union County Chamber of Commerce; and member of the board of directors for the New Jersey State Chamber of Commerce.

□ John H. Dorsey, R-District 25, Senate Minority Leader. He has been active in efforts to get legislative support for initiative and referendum.

□ Kenneth Grasso, professor of political science, St. Peter's College. Grasso is a specialist in the constitutional issues surrounding political protest movements.

□ John J. Finn, assistant vice president of support service, Bellcore. A member of the current Jersey City Board of Education, Finn has a long history of civic and political work in Jersey City.

□ Sam Perelli, founding member of United Taxpayers of New Jersey. A registered Democrat, Perelli has been a leader in the New Jersey tax revolt and advocates limiting the terms of public officials and is a proponent of initiative and referendum.

□ Richard Roper, director of the Program for New Jersey Affairs at Princeton University's Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs. Roper is active in a number of civic and public interest organizations and is the author of many articles and reports on New Jersey public policy issues.

□ Gerald R. Stockman, D-District 15. Stockman has been active in property tax reform and sponsored legislation to create the State Planning Commission.

A representative of the office of Florio will also join the panel.

Elsa Gomez, president of Kean College and Clifford Peake and president of the Union County Chamber of Commerce, will welcome the guests. Robert Hunt, assistant professor of political science at Kean, directed the project.

Issues such as the nature of deliberative government, populist responses, recall, initiative, referendum and the framing of public policy in the face of heated public controversy will be examined from the different points of view on the panel. The aim is to shed some light on the practical, philosophical and constitutional implications of the New Jersey tax revolt. The broader nature and the limits of populist response to controversial public measures will be a major focus of this forum, including the history of such issues in New Jersey.

The forum is free and open to the public. For further information, contact the College Relations Office at Kean College, 908-527-2371.

Hamilton stars in performance

Maplewood resident, tenor David Hamilton, will sing the role of Don Ottavio in the Westfield Symphony's concert version of Mozart's "Don Giovanni."

Hamilton has won vocal competitions, among them the Paris International Voice Competition and the Eleanor Steber Award, and has appeared with such opera companies as the Metropolitan, New York City Opera, Opera Company of Philadelphia, Opera/Columbus, San Diego Opera, Wolf Trap and Opera Theater of St. Louis. Following this performance, Hamilton will be singing the lead role in "Romeo and Juliet" in Toledo.

Having made the transition from baritone to tenor, this will mark Hamilton's first appearance with the Westfield Symphony. The performance, led by music director Brad Keimach, will include a cast of Hamilton and other American singers and will be presented on Saturday at 8 p.m. at the Westfield Presbyterian Church, 140 Mountain Ave. The program will be preceded by a pre-concert discussion of the opera at 7 p.m. in Westminster Hall. Tickets are $17.50, seniors, $15 and students, $10. For reservations, call 232-9400.

WHERE TO DINE

A Guide to Find the Finest Dining In New Jersey

By Lillian Abbracciamento and Dennis Schaal

It's a testimonial to Fulton Restaurant's new-found success that its two dining rooms, complete with a warm, old world, country-style charm, were bustling with non-stop activity as early as 6:30 p.m. one Saturday evening. Several patrons eagerly asserted their approval with the ultimate compliment, noting they have standing, weekly reservations. Fulton Restaurant, located at 1353 Fulton St. in Rahway, is a continental restaurant specializing in Italian fare. From its heavenly appetizers to its satisfying entrees, the customer will not be disappointed with this gastronomic experience.

Restaurant review

The restaurant opened on this site in downtown Rahway some 80 years ago as a bar that served pasta and sandwiches. Co-owners Tom DiRusso and Lou Mavrookas took over the spot last July and they have managed to win back a loyal following as everyone is made to feel a part of this big restaurant family.

The owners have brought in chef Peter as the new head chef. He has a classical European training and, among his qualifications, is a stint at Manhattan's world-famous Tavern on the Green restaurant.

Tom DiRusso is without a doubt one of the prime secret ingredients to the new success of this casual, comfortable establishment. As customers stream in — reservations are recommended because the word is getting out — he greets them on a first-name basis. Fathers introduce the owner to their sons, and a new generation takes its place. Hostess Christine continues to charm as she seats patrons in romantic booths surrounded by lace-curtain windows, pastoral pictures and old European-style oak-paneled walls.

The appetizers, including a presentation of tender, fresh shrimp enveloped in the creamiest pink champagne sauce, were exquisite. And the clams casino were the freshest and tastiest we've had in a long while.

One of chef Peter's most interesting preparations was the cheese ravioli alfredo with filet mignon tidbits in a light bordelaise sauce ladled over the top. Also, the broiled veal chop, a house special, was moist, tender and deliciously flavorful.

All of the seafood entrees we sampled were especially fresh. The broiled seafood combo was brimming with flounder, shrimp, clams, mussels and lobster tails. It was a perfect dish.

The prices of the dinner entrees seemed quite reasonable ranging from $12.95 for fettuccine alfredo to $18.95 for the broiled seafood combination.

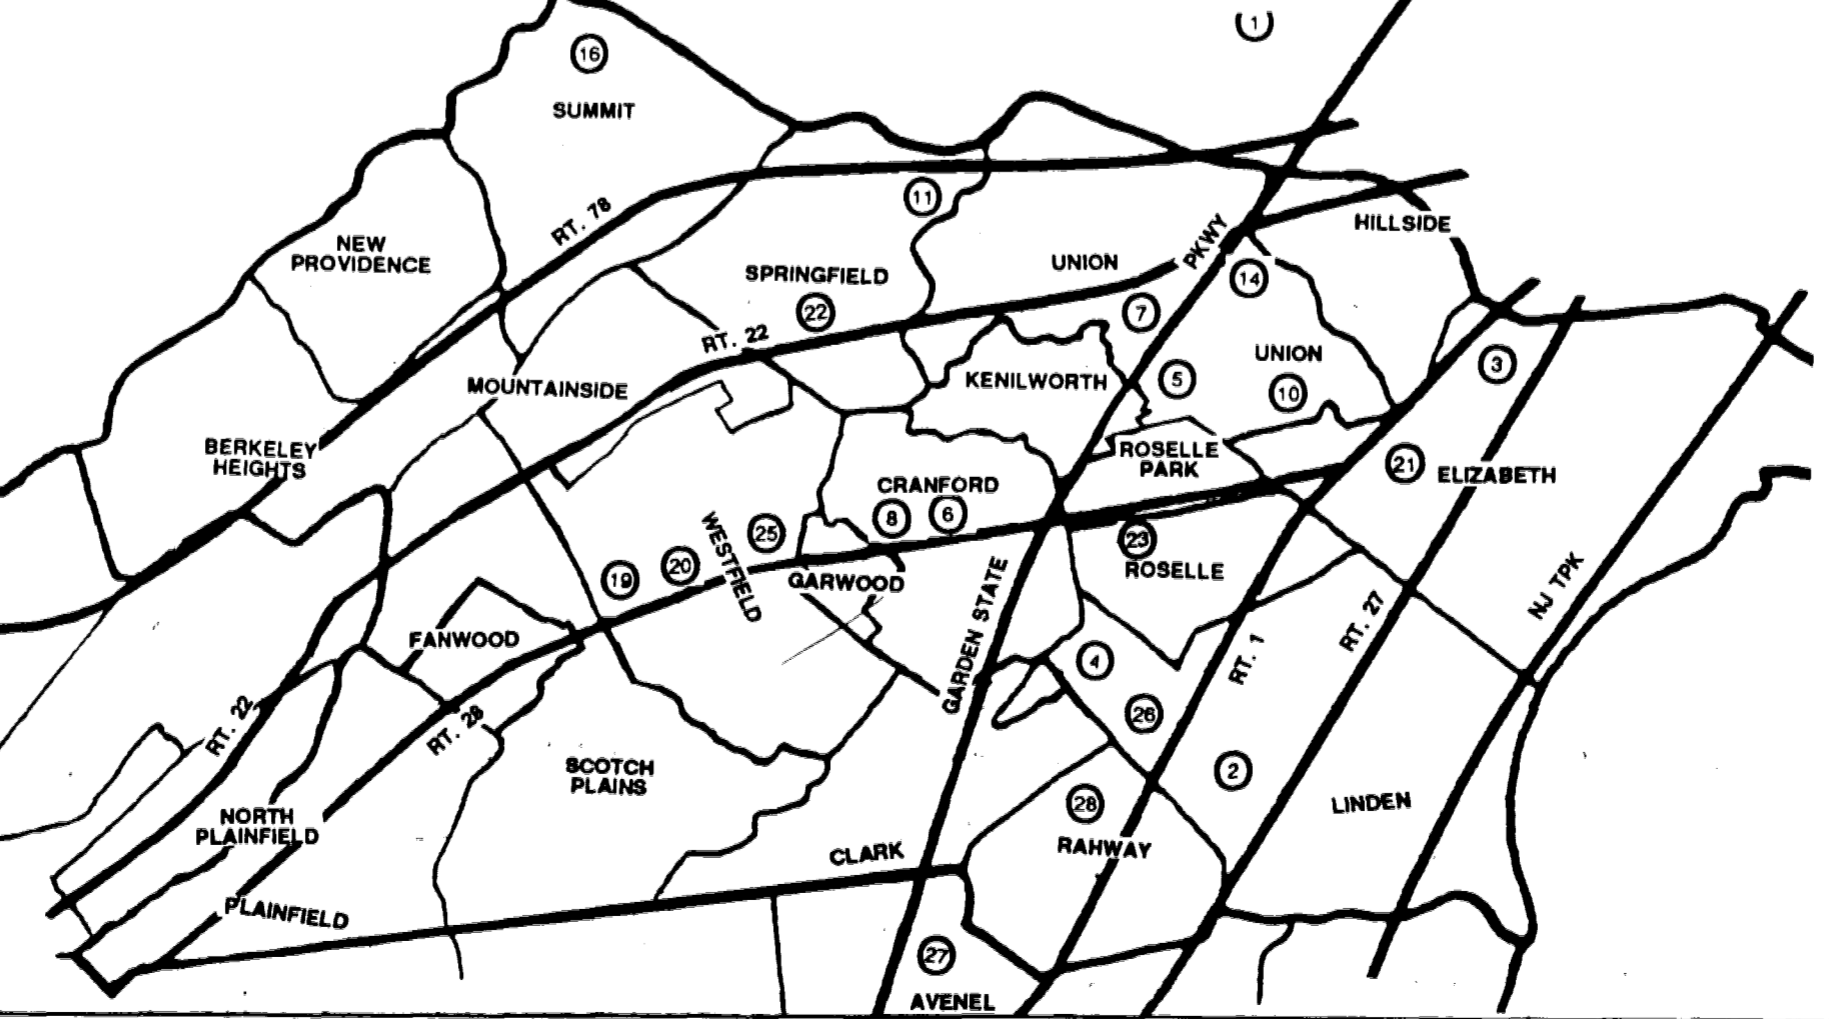

Despite the healthy business that was in evidence throughout the evening, this was not a chaotic scene. From waitress Ann White to busboy Mustapha, the staff was well-trained, friendly and professional.

The desserts were wonderful, but the real icing on the cake was pianist and vocalist Mary Ann, who knew every request from "Ain't Misbehavin'" to "Someone to Watch over Me" — and watch over us she and the staff did. Mary Ann performs Friday and Saturday evenings.

From the food to the people, the soft, warm glow of Fulton Restaurant is suitable for the most formal affair to the most casual occasion. What a treat to discover an 80-year-old treasure hidden away in Rahway. This is a rare gem not to be missed.

The Fulton Restaurant, which is closed Sundays, is open Monday through Thursday, 11:30 a.m. - 9:30 p.m.; Friday 11:30 a.m. - 11 p.m.; and Saturday 5 p.m. - 11 p.m. Reservations are recommended, especially weekends.

Gomez will speak at Brown installation

Elsa Gomez of Cranford, president of Kean College of New Jersey, Union, will be the guest speaker at inaugural ceremonies on Friday, installing Thomas H. Brown as the seventh president of Union County College.

Brown, a resident of Plainfield, joined Union County College on July 7, 1990. Gomez became the 15th president of Kean College on July 1, 1989. She is the first Hispanic woman to head a four-year liberal arts college in the United States.

Gomez, a graduate of the College of Saint Elizabeth, received her M.A. in Italian from Middlebury College and her Ph.D. from the University of Texas. She has also studied at Harvard, Stanford and New York universities. She has received numerous awards and honors, including a graduate fellowship from the Ford Foundation and was a fellow in administration for the American Council on Education.

Before coming to Kean College, Gomez was dean of arts and sciences and director of the graduate program at Lock Haven University in Pennsylvania. She had previously served as director of academic programs for the Massachusetts Board of Regents of Higher Education.

Gomez began her teaching career at the University of Puerto Rico-Mayaguez, where she rose to the rank of full professor, served as director of the humanities department and then was associate dean of the college of arts and sciences.

Strollers wrap up season

The Strollers completes its theater season with Rupert Holmes Tony-Award-winning musical, "The Mystery of Edwin Drood."

The show has a joyously rousing musical score, while the script is written to tease the audience into participation. In fact, this "musical with a twist" asks the audience to decide who is the murderer, so that each night the cast must be ready to play a different scene — and sing a different closing number.

The show is directed by Robert Longstreet. Musical director is Jane Erickson. The cast includes Bob Bales, Ross Brochhagen, Kathleen Cogan, Mary Jane Frankel, Douglas Fredman, Judi Gajary, Gale Cross, Janine Guida, Ray Masterson, Bruce Peterson, Thomas Pitt, Fred Sitter, Betty Slevin, Linda Spencer, Marci Yale and Gene Zielinski.

Based on Charles Dicken's unfinished novel, this English Music Hall fare will be presented at the Burgdoff Cultural Center, 10 Durand Road, Maplewood, on Friday and Saturday and May 3, 4, 10 and 11. Evening performances are at 8 p.m. Curtain for the Sunday matinee is at 2 p.m. Ticket prices are $10. Seniors and children 13 and under pay $6. For more information or reservations, call The Strollers at 761-7453.

Student work displayed at Kean art exhibition

Eight fine arts master's thesis candidates of Kean College of New Jersey in Union will exhibit their works in the James Howe Gallery, Vaughn-Eames Hall from Sunday to May 23 with the opening reception on Sunday from 3-5 p.m. The exhibition will include the works of two ceramic artists, three painters, one photographer, one printmaker and one woodworker.

Patricia Ann Cockburn of Rahway, formerly of Roselle and currently the art teacher at Washington Academy in South Orange, will be the featured printmaker. A 1980 graduate of Rutgers University with a B.A. in art and certification in art education, she has been enrolled in the masters of fine art education program since 1987, where she has been studying in-depth the area of printmaking for the past three-and-one-half years under the guidance of Professor Michael Metzger. Cockburn, whose etchings and aquatints deal with subjects from nature, has put together from her collection of prints a group of works that she feels best represents her style which focuses on using a combination of texture, contrast and detail. The artist intends to continue her work in the area of printmaking after completing her graduate studies in May at Kean.

The Master's Thesis Exhibition, which is made possible by a grant from the Graduate Student Council of Kean College, is the final part of the graduate program of study in the area of fine arts education. Students enrolled in the program, which is made up of 11 courses, concentrate on creating art in one area of specialization, from which they will choose and exhibit works at the end of the program of study. In addition to doing their studio work, the eight students whose works will be presented in the upcoming exhibition have been working together in the advanced seminar course with Professor Zara Cohan, gallery director of the James Howe Gallery, in which they acquire the basic knowledge necessary in order to properly promote and exhibit one's works of art in the future.

Further information on the Master's Thesis exhibition can be obtained by calling the fine arts department at 527-2307/2347.

The exhibition can be viewed Monday through Thursday 10 a.m.—2 p.m. and 5-7 p.m. and on Fridays 10 a.m.—noon. Admission is free.

Gallery talks will be given by the artists on three Wednesdays, May 1, 8 and 15 at 6 p.m.

During June, July and August, a selection of works from Master's Thesis '91 will be on view at the Schering-Plough Corporation, Kenilworth, Building #5.

Valentino film to be unreeled

It is hard for the present generation to comprehend the popularity and adulation enjoyed by matinee idol Rudolph Valentino at the height of his silent film career in the 1920s. The size of the crowd at his funeral in 1926 — an estimated 100,000 (mostly women) — was a measure of it, as is the fact that, to this day, his Los Angeles gravesite remains a tourist mecca.

On Saturday at 8 p.m., the Union County Arts Center on Irving St. will offer an opportunity to discover what all the fuss was about. The 1925 United Artists film, "The Eagle," said by some to be Valentino's best work, will be shown in its entirety with live pipe organ accompaniment — the way most people saw it during its first run at the height of the silent film era. Vilma Banky and Louise Dresser co-star.

Accompanying the film at the console of the theater's vintage Wurlitzer pipe organ will be former radio-TV organist and composer, Lee Erwin, who was commissioned in 1968 to furnish "The Eagle" with the new score he will be heard performing on this occasion.

Nix indoor air pollution with steam

Air Duct Cleaning
carpet cleaning

Steamatic steam cleaning service, located on East Elizabeth Avenue in Cranford, is a full-service cleaning company specializing in a wide range of services many other cleaning companies do not offer.

While literally thousands of customers rely on Steamatic for steam cleaning their rugs, upholstery and drapes every year, most of the company's business comes from clients who want to improve the efficiency of their home's heating and air-conditioning systems.

Among its many "regular" services, Steamatic offers air duct cleaning service, which helps reduce indoor pollution and improves the efficiency of most forced-air heating and cooling units.

"We're not just a carpet-cleaning business — we do a lot of jobs that many other companies in the business won't touch," says Bruce Goldstein, a partner in the family-owned and operated franchise branch. "Many of our clients are interested in fire and flood restoration, or need their home's air ducts professionally cleaned."

Goldstein, who runs the local Steamatic office with his father, Jack, said the company uses patented equipment to provide their clients with the most efficient service available. The Steamatic company holds nine original patents, according to Goldstein.

Steamatic offers its specialized services to commercial, industrial and residential customers, and offers free estimates for all prospective clients. The company, and its 250 other international franchises, are all fully insured and bonded.

For healthier, dust-free air, interested customers can call Steamatic at 272-8989.

Musical history of the violin is explored

On Sunday at 4 p.m. violinist Mark Zaki will present an unaccompanied violin recital entitled "The Violin: Yesterday, Today and Tomorrow," at the First Unitarian Society of Plainfield, 724 Park Ave., Plainfield. This program examines the history of the violin, from period instrument performances through the most recent technological advances, and features performances on the baroque, modern and MIDI violin. The program includes the "Partita in E Major" by Johann Sebastian Bach, "Sonata No. 2 (Obsession)" by Eugene Ysaye, and two pieces for MIDI violin and computer Mr. Zaki — "Fables" and Machine "Dances."

Zaki holds graduate degrees in violin and viola performance from Rutgers University's Mason Gross School of the Arts where he studied with Arnold Steinhardt, viola with Michael Tree and composition with Charles Wuorinen. As part of his doctoral work at Rutgers, he presented a lecture recital on the MIDI violin and computer-synthesizer networks with a performance of "Fables."

Presently living in New York City, Zaki is on the faculty of the Westminster Choir College Conservatory in Princeton, and was also a member of the New Haven Symphony for five years. As a chamber musician and soloist, he has performed throughout the United States. This past season, he has returned from his first tour of South America with Nina Bellina and the New York Bach Festival, and from Poland, where he was soloist with Rutgers University's Voorhees Choir. He has also performed with the period instrument ensembles, Clarion, and the Grande Bande in New York City. Zaki is currently a member of the Classical Band, which performed concerts at Lincoln Center's Mostly Mozart Festival and at the Schleswig-Holstein festival in Germany this summer. Plans for this season include presenting a program of music for the MIDI violin, and the tours of the Soviet Union, Germany, Italy and South America with the New York Bach Festival.

The third concert in the Friends of Music Chamber Concert Series, "The Violin: Yesterday, Today and Tomorrow," is funded in part by a grant from the New Jersey State Council on the Arts. Donation is $6; students, $3. The First Unitarian Society of Plainfield is wheelchair accessible. For further information, call 754-0783.

AIDS benefit concert slated

The William Paterson College Coalition of Lesbians, Gays and Friends will host Rock Aid, a benefit concert for AIDS organizations in northern New Jersey.

It will be on Sunday at 6 p.m. at the William Paterson College Student Center Ballroom, 300 Pompton Road in Wayne. Tickets are $5 and are available from Joan Barry at Hyacinth Foundation, 908-246-0204.

"Let me tend my flowers, please!"

by Dianna Effner

"Mary, Mary" wants to take care of her "garden"—a little pail of flowers that's hers alone—all by herself. Interrupt her, and she'll pout a bit and act "quite contrary," but only for a moment.

"Mary, Mary, Quite Contrary" is the first issue in the Dianna Effner's Mother Goose porcelain doll collection, and she is certified Premiere Grade. Bring a favorite nursery rhyme to life in your home for only $78.00. Act promptly... "Mary, Mary" is issued in an edition ending forever in 1991, after which models

Mary Mary

Is Certified Premiere Grade

At the Ashton Drake Galleries, our experts have evaluated "Mary Mary" against The Uniform Grading Standards for Dolls developed by us to determine artistry and craftsmanship. Because "Mary Mary" has met all ten standards, she has been certified Premiere Grade—the Standards' highest rating.

"Mary Mary" is handcrafted with head and limbs cast of bisque porcelain, hand-painted in soft, lifelike colors. Her wide green eyes are hand-set. Over her floral print dress, "Mary" wears a dainty pinafore highlighted by smocking, pintucking, threaded ribbon, and embroidered eyelet trim. Her enameled metal watering can and pail full of flowers both match her costume.

Each doll is hand-numbered and comes with a matching numbered Certificate of Authenticity. As a final touch, "Mary Mary" bears the signature of artist Dianna Effner.

A Collectible Doll With Investment Potential

The doll you buy today may be a wise investment for the future. Once an edition is sold out, those who want a doll from the edition must pay whatever the market will bear. That's why fine collectible dolls often sell for more than their original prices.

Of course, not all dolls increase in value; values can go down. But bear in mind that "Mary Mary" is an important nursery rhyme doll like the exceptional dolls shown below. When we recom-

Doll	Edition End	Issue Price	Average Market Value*	% Change
Little Bo Peep	1989	$125	$175	40%
Mary Had a Little Lamb	1989	$125	$175	40%
Little Jack Horner	1989	$125	$175	40%

mended those dolls, we felt they had the right credentials for market success. "Mary Mary's" potential also seems promising.

"Mary Mary" is a porcelain doll with a wide-eyed, lifelike expression. She wears a dainty pinafore highlighted by smocking, pintucking, threaded ribbon, and embroidered eyelet trim.

OUR ONE-YEAR UNCONDITIONAL GUARANTEE

You may, without hesitation and for any reason whatsoever, return "Mary Mary" to us at any time within one full year after you receive her. We will refund or credit your account if you pay by credit card your full purchase price, including postage, with no questions asked.

Dianna Effner

A rising star among doll artists.

"Mary Mary, Quite Contrary" captures all the emotion of the beloved nursery rhyme, as only artist Dianna Effner could interpret it. Her work has won a wide following for its lifelike qualities. An earlier Effner doll we recommended—"Little Red Riding Hood"—was nominated for a 1989 Award of Excellence from Doll magazine.

"When a little girl acts 'contrary,' she's more appealing than when she's well behaved," says Ms. Effner. "I wanted 'Mary Mary' to reflect a child's fleeting emotions. She's a real little girl who reminds us immediately of the nursery rhyme."
