SECTION B

Editor's Notebook 1 By Tom Canavan

When I was assigned to cover Union County in 1991, one of the first impressions I got was that Union County was cohesive. I had been raised in Essex County and even covered several municipalities there from 1987 to the beginning of 1991, and was amazed to find that the two counties were in stark contrast to each other in many ways.

In Essex County, towns share very little with their neighbors. Regionalization of services certainly ties communities together, but that seems to be the extent of the bind that ties.

It also seems that the relationship between the county and its municipalities is similar to a family setting in which very little communication takes place.

Conversely, in Union County, many programs and services offered by the county have an impact on more than one town at a time. It seems that when Union County officials devise a plan for its future, all the characteristics of all its municipalities are taken into consideration.

One of the forces behind this cohesive county is the Union County Economic Development Corporation, which recently offered a boat tour of the waterfront to inform county officials of redevelopment plans in Elizabeth and Linden and how they will impact the rest of the county financially.

The UCEDC also sponsors zoning and planning board seminars for officials in all 21 municipalities to give new members of those boards an opportunity to perform to the best of their abilities when they hear applications. The UCEDC also provides loans and financial incentives to businesses interested in locating or relocating to Union County.

The most recent effort by the UCEDC that defines keeping Union County cohesive is its magazine about the county called Union County Enterprise: Your Guide to Business Growth. I had the opportunity this weekend to read the magazine and, although I knew much of the information and data presented about the municipalities we cover, there was just as much that I didn't know about them.

The magazine provides geographic and demographic information about municipalities, business profiles, business resources, recreation services and everything anyone would want to know about transportation in Union County.

It's a source of information I'm sure I'll refer to as often as the "Associated Press Stylebook and Libel Manual," and I thank the UCEDC, in particular, Elaine LaMonica, for the effort that supported the publication of the magazine.

If businesses are interested in locating or relocating to Union County, and wish to see a copy of the magazine, they may call the EDC at (908) 527-1166.

County crime figures continue to decline

By Chris Gatto Regional Editor

Union County communities have seen a reduction in crime for the third consecutive year, according to figures contained in the 1994 Uniform Crime Report.

The crime statistics, made public last week, show a decrease of 3 percent in violent crime countywide and 3 percent in all other areas of illegal activity, and Prosecutor Andrew K. Ruotolo Jr. says he is rather pleased.

Increased citizen involvement, better trained officers and a criminal justice system that moves much quicker were some of the key factors cited by Ruotolo.

In 1994, violent crimes were down roughly 3 percent from the year before, with murders dropping 44 percent and sexual assaults some 19 percent, according to the figures compiled by the New Jersey State Police.

"No one should be lulled into a false sense of security since we live in an urbanized county in a very crowded state," Ruotolo said. "But the overall results are indeed encouraging."

When all the minor offenses and disorderly person complaints are totaled up, police from the 21 municipalities and the sheriff's office and Union County police actually arrested more persons last year than the year before, an increase of 6 percent to 24,402

First Assistant Prosecutor Michael J. Lapolla said residents have been very supportive of the police, pointing out that in recent weeks neighbors actually came out on their porches and cheered as law-enforcement teams came to arrest suspected drug dealers.

In addition, Ruotolo said he believes the neighborhood "Safe Haven" and Violent Offender programs in Elizabeth and the "Quality of Life" initiative in Plainfield are examples of good pro-active police/ community partnerships.

Overall crime throughout the state has dropped steadily since 1991, and Ruotolo said he is particularly proud of the efforts of the Essex-Union Auto Theft Task Force whose members he credits with being responsible for a 20 percent drop in motor vehicle thefts.

Other factors contributing to the decline might well be educational programs, modern ignition systems and anti-theft devices and tougher sentencing by car thieves. "We are particularly fortunate to have the juvenile judges in our county take auto thefts by teen-agers very seriously," Ruotolo said, referring to Family Court Judges Rudolph N. Hawkins Jr. and James Walsh.

All but three municipalities in Union County — Hillside, Summit and Winfield — experienced a reduction in vehicle thefts from 1993 to 1994. In Winfield, the figure went from none in 1993 to two in 1994, while Summit and Hillside saw more legitimate jumps. Summit's vehicle thefts went from 35 in 1993 to 80 in Hillside Police Chief Frank DeSando saw the figure in his township go from 360 in 1993 to 498 last year, and he's not quite sure why. While the chief noted statistics can be quirky, hesuggested the Auto Theft Task Force may have had an impact on Hillside and other communities bordering Newark.

"I hate to say it, but we're doing a lot of Newark work with the task force," said DeSando, who suggested car thieves were taking their business elsewhere. The ATTF's presence in Newark may cause offenders to look to surrounding communities as more enticing car-theft sites, because the crime may be carried out with less of a challenge. DeSando suggested this may have been the case with Hillside.

Other possible factors responsible for that rise, he said, may be attributed to a reduction in the township's police force in recent years, said DeSando. With the force now up to 73, DeSando noted that car thefts are actually down 18 percent for the first six months of 1995 compared to what those numbers were a year ago.

Burglary may be a persistent problem, Lapolla said, explaining more couples work and so more homes are left vacant during the daytime hours. Countywide, though, burglaries fell from 4,907 to 4,765 in 1993.

Other facts in the annual report covering crime in the county include murders, down from 32 to 18 last year, aggravated assaults down from 1,147 to 1,096 or 4 percent, and larcenies down 2 percent from 12,645 to 12,360.

Of the last amount, police recovered more than half of all the stolen property in 1994 and more than twothirds of all the vehicles taken.

Trio of well-wishers

Union County officials recently were joined by a trio of well-known sports figures who congratulated the county's second graduating class of the AMER-I-CAN Academy, Inc. at the county's correctional facility in Elizabeth. The program, spearheaded by football legend Jim Brown, left, focuses on overcoming a 'general lack of self esteem' and stresses taking reponsibility for one's self. Joining Brown are Freeholder Daniel Sullivan, second from left, former Chicago Bears' running back Walter Payton, welterweight boxing champion Buddy McGirt and Jack Rafferty, facility director.

Division reaches out to aging

Union County's Department of Human Services Division on Aging has planned an assortment of events for its Outreach Services Program during August.

This program provides isolated elderly persons with help in applying for vital services such as pharmaceutical assistance, gas and electric support, grocery supplies counseling on health insurance for Medicare enrolles, home energy assistance, and supplementary security income, according to Freeholder Elmer Ertl, liaison to the Advisory Council on Aging.

The schedule is as follows: Aug. 17, 9:30 to 11:30 a.m., Elizabethport Family Center, Pioneer Homes 32C, Elizabeth; Aug. 17, 1:30 to 3:30 p.m., Roselle Borough Hall, 210 Chestnut St., Conference Room, 2nd Floor.

Private interviews will be conducted by senior staff from the Department of Human Services' Division on Aging and Division of Social Services.

Joint Meeting resolution opens door for late entry

By Anthony Puglish Staff Writer

Any member of the Joint Meeting of Essex and Union Counties would be able to submit a candidate as a finalist for the executive director's position of the sewerage authority, according to a phrase in the resolution, although members contacted are not concerned about foul play.

The Joint Meeting unanimously approved July 20 a resolution which outlines the qualifications, salary and hiring process for the executive director's position, which became vacated in March when Michael Brinker resigned amid a political controversy.

Upon receiving an updated copy of the resolution and report, it was discovered a phrase in the report allows members of the Joint Meeting to submit a candidate's name at any time during the hiring process, including after a short list of finalists is compiled.

The enabling phrase which allows this is found under the "Resume Review theading and reads: "A candidate recommended by a member will be added to the list."

Specific procedure and timetables allowing members to submit candidates' names are not included, leaving the meaning and intention of the phrase up to the interpretation of the members.

Millburn representative Joel Weingarten, who is a member of the four-member ad hoc committee that drafted the resolution, issued a warning during the July 20 meeting that the Joint Meeting should adhere to the hiring process and base its decision on merit and not politics. He said the phrase in the report enables a candidate to be "shortlisted" based on who they know rather than qualifications. Union representative Jerome Petti.

who also sat on the ad hoc committee with Weingarten, Ann Lord of Hillside and John McKeon of West Orange, said the phrase keeps people from being "excluded" from the process. Members should be allowed to name a "second level finalist" after the subcommittee wades through the resumes to ensure a "shining light" is considered, he said.

Edward Olcott of Summit said the phrase was not discussed much July 20 and no one had any partisan

"I just want to keep an open mind and look for a highly qualified person," he said, adding some qualified candidates may not make the "short list" for whatever reason. Olcott reiterated he believes the Joint Meeting has developed a good review process to find Brinker's permanent replacement, who will make between $95,000 and $110,000 annually, and he expects as many as 300 candidates to apply for the position.

"If a member knows of someone who is qualified, he can put the name in the hopper," said Gerry Ryan of Maplewood. "I do not think, and hope it is not the case, any name" can pass by the process.

"This is to make sure you cast a wide net," said Ryan, who interpreted the phrase to mean he would be able to submit a candidate's resume along with all the others by the deadline of Sept. 7.

Beverly Williams of East Orange said she would "want to follow the process" and would not recommend anyone "after the fact" because that's "not how to play the game."

Andy Cooney is one of the up and coming stars of the Irish music scene in America. Recently christened by The New York Times as Irish America's Native Son, Cooney has been wowing audiences from coast to coast since 1986. On Aug. 23, the Andy Cooney Irish Show will be bringing its musical magic to the Union County Summer Arts Festival.

Beginning at 7:30 p.m., the public can relax and enjoy the show, which will be presented free of charge in Echo Lake Park, Mountainside, by the Union County Board of Chosen Freeholders and Elizabethtown Gas Co.

Rose Baum Senerchia of Springfield and William Hickey team up in the feature film 'Twisted.'

'Twisted' character finds a new outlet

By Lisa Ann Batitto Arts and Entertainment Editor

A Springfield resident who hit the right notes in opera is turning her sites to a new creative venture. Rose Baum Senerchia, formerly of Union, has a part in the upcoming feature film "Twisted," which stars William Hickey and Anthony Crivello. Although Senerchia had no prior film experience, she nabbed the role because of her years as a diva. "They were looking for an opera singer and a conductor from the Metropolitan Opera House recommended me," she said. "I met with the director and sang to him and 24 hours later he called and said the part was mine.

"In opera, you act because you become the role you are singing. The only difference between it and film is you sing rather than say the lines," she said. "Also, in opera if you forget your part, you have the music to remind you. In film, you are on your own. You can't help but feel a bit nervous when you hear the director say 'action.' '

"Twisted," which is inspired from the Charles Dickens classic "Oliver Twist," is about a city boy who flees his abusive foster family, only to get caught up in the New prostitution.

" 'Twisted has no sex or violence in it, so it is very refreshing. The director, Seth Michael Donsky, said the movie celebrates the human spirit and unconditional love," Senerchia said.

Donsky has directed several plays including "The Storyteller" Off-Off Broadway. The star of "Twisted" is Hickey, who can currently be seen in "Forget Paris" with Billy Crystal and Debra Winger, and who was nominated for an Oscar for his role in "Prizzi's

"I play Hickey's mother in flashback scenes," Senerchia said, "My character dies in her 30s when her son is 7 or 8 years old; she was an opera singer in Germany, Now, her son is in his 70s and he has gone the wayward way and I come back to warn him and try to get him to get his act together. It's quite a major acting role because we represent the entire theme of the movie.

"Hickey is wonderful to work with. This was my first film and I was extremely nervous; I didn't know what to expect. He put me at ease," she said.

The movie wrapped up filming July 18 in New York City, after which it goes into editing for three months. The director would like to have premieres in New York, Los Angeles and Cannes, France, and Senerchia said the advance buzz on the movie has been positive.

"There's talk that Donsky and Hickey will get Academy Award nominations. And, one of the songs York underworld of drugs and I sing, 'Tree of Tragedy,' which was supposed to be in the movie 'Philadelphia,' could be nominated in the song from a major motionpicture category," she said.

Senerchia already has her next film role scheduled, having been cast in Donsky's adaption of the play "The Storyteller."

Mystic players perform work of Christ

Staff Writer

An enthusiastic, talented, dedicated group of young people who call themselves the Mystic Vision Players will be giving their all to an energetic ambitious production called "Jesus Christ Superstar." The rock opera, with music by Andrew Lloyd Webber and lyrics by Tim Rice, will be staged today, Friday and Saturday at 8 p.m. in the Dwyer House, Pearl Street, at Elizabeth High School.

Four attractive people associated with the Players came by the other afternoon to discuss their "wonderful theater company" and their "future in the theater.'

They were Tim Fiorello, artistic director; Khy Garner of Roselle, vocal director; Barbara-Jude Greco of Linden, choreographer and lead dancer, and Greg Bock of Union, a chorus member. Bock is remembered as playing the role of Professor Higgins with such professionalism in last season's Union High School production of "My Fair Lady."

"Our star, Joe Masiello, who plays the title role, couldn't come today because he's auditioning for a new show," explained Greco. "'Jesus Christ Superstar' is our most important offering," said Fiorello, "And we all certainly worked hard to make it a success," added Bock.

"We've been rehearing Tuesdays and Thursdays at the Zion Evangelical Church and on Wednesdays and Fridays at the Linden Presbyterian Church on Orchard Terrace. Both churches are off St. George Avenue in Linden. * explained Greco. "We've been incorporated for two years," she said, "and we began our idea back in 1992 when 15 of us did 'Godspell' and toured New Jersey."

The group mentioned that 13 of the original 15 are still with the Players, in addition to some band members and directors. Greco explained that "Tim and Khy and I are original members, and Greg is spending his first year with the group.

"We were all doing a show at that time with other theater groups, and we were all friends, you know, hanging out, and one night we began talking about certain shows we wanted to

"And," added Fjorello, "we thought we could put together a show."

"That show," said Greco, "was the easiest show we could do. 'Godspell.'

We did it as fund-raisers in churches." "We didn't know what we had stumbled upon," said Garner.

"So, the following summer," declared Greco, "in 1992, we went around to churches through Union County and we did 'Godspell.' We did three shows after that, and a benefit called "If You Loved Me...' We also did 'Leader of the Pack' that same summer."

"And last summer," said Garner, "we did the musical 'Hair.' That was in 1994. We also did 'Yuletide Carol.' A group of singers that I had gotten together broke away from the traditional and in December 1994, we did a formal Christmas Carol concert and we sang Christmas carols and sacred music. It was a fund-raiser, and the men were dressed in tuxes and the girls in gowns."

"Yes," agreed Greco, "we like to be out there. And after that, we started doing dinner theater at El Bodegon in Rahway, and our first show was 'Vanities' this May. Then we did the 'Fantasticks' in June of this year at the Linden Presbyterian Church. Our two big numbers this year will be staged at the JCS in Elizabeth in August, and in September, 'A Chorus Line' in Linden. This will be a joint project with the Linden Cultural and Heritage Committee."

Fiorello explained that "they recently called us to be their resident theater company, 'A Chorus Line' will open the fall season and will be staged Sept. 14, 15 and 16."

"When we first talked about having a theater company," said Garner, "we realized that the JCS was the big thing to shoot for. It's a different show to do - not the typical musical theater. I said, 'what is an opera?' And we took it from there. We staged it as an opera rather than theater. It's a real embodiment of human emotion."

Garner exclaimed that "now that our small family has grown, we have so many talented people."

"This is Khy's first directorial project for the Mystic Theater," said Fiorello, "and Khy's first in this large scale production.'

Greco, who admitted that she has "choreographed every show," said "everybody has a different look, and a little bit to offer. And we don't do the same types of shows all the time. We're trying to break out in different

Among those in "Jesus Christ Superstar" from local areas are Nick Basile, Doc Burkhardt, Kevin Glackin, Nancy Mayfield and Christina Vazquez, all of Union; Pete Ciliberto and Megan Lahiff, both of Elizabeth; Derrick Baker and Sherrie Tyler, both of Rahway; Kelley Duff, Brian Tighe, who plays Peter, both of Linden; Rebecca Dolan of Springfield, J. C. lungerman of Roselle Park and Rob Hansson of Roselle.

Also in lead roles are Anne Brummel of Westfield, who plays Mary Magdelane, Michael Ciuffo as King Herod, Michael Ferentinos, executive director, who also plays Judas; Chris Livsey of Irvington, who plays Simon and Rob Moore of Cranford as Pilate. Tony Greco will play bass guitar and

"We're a non-profit organization," said Greco, "and we do fund-raisers to help raise money. Our staff is composed mostly of volunteers, and we have members who keep the involvement up with a guarterly newsletter. Michael is very business-oriented," she said. "He wants to be a performer, but his forte is doing business. If it wasn't for Rita Greco and Emily Lahiff and Michael 'Jesus Christ' wouldn't have happened. It would still be a mystic vision."

Fiorello explained that "our parents are in it because of the business end of it, as members of the board of directors, while the co-founders are still involved with the artistic end."

"The nice thing about us as a mix of people," said Garner, "is that we are aware of 99 percent business, and 1 percent takes place on stage. Those of us who want to be directors and creative, it is important for us to realize the restraints that are placed on us financially, etc."

Greco said that "it is interesting to look at us just as any corporation everything is run exactly the same. I used to dance professionally, and everything is the same. There is a common ground." "Each band member," added Garner, "has something special to offer to the band, to make us all connect, because we are all different." The four admitted that they do their

Garner said "I make my living as a singing traveler. I have an associate's degree from Kean College. I attended the original Westminster Choir College and majored in voice performance and music education. I will be doing freelance singing this September and will perform in the Chicago Lyric Opera Co. in 'The Merry Widow.'

Fiorello said he works for 7-Eleven in Mountainside and Menlo Park. He is in the process of completing a bachelor of fine arts in theater and acting concentration at Montclair State University. He also attended Westminster Choir College where he studied music education and was a piano principal there. "I play out of a theater company in Montclair called Luna Stage. Jane Mandel runs the show with her husband, Frank Faison," he said. "We did a lot of improvisation. We work on important things in the theater. I will be directing for Montclair State in its regular fall lineup."

Garner said, "we never expected to have such a multi-talent of young men and women. We had a lot of high school students come to our performances, and sometimes our audiences See MYSTIC, Page B5

I have strict views on shows. We're aspiring semi-professionals. We're still a non-profit theater company, but we run it with a professional attitude."

"What we did for the show," said Garner, "is that we took 'Jesus Christ Superstar' out of the religious context and put it into the political one, plus the spiritual end of it."

Fiorello explained that "it's written from the view of Judas Iscariot what was really happening politically between Rome and an oppressed race of people, and a man who is torn between his love for religion and his love and friendship to Jesus. Dining Review August 10,1995

By Pia Wilson Staff Writer

Great steak and good times are a mere hop, skip and a jump away at Charlie Brown's Steakhouse on Route 22 West in Union.

Families and friends will feel right at home in the cozy restaurant. The decor is inviting, and the service is so good the Union Charlie Brown's has been rated the number one hospitality restaurant in the steakhouse chain, which boasts 25 locations.

The house specialty and a customer favorite is the certified Angus Prime Rib. With Angus Beef being the best in the beef business, Charlie Brown's serves it exclusively - and you can taste the Another customer favorite is the Lobster Shore Dinner, which is offered on Fridays only, after 5 p.m. The entree, which includes a whole lobster, half of a barbecued chicken, corn on the cob, a baked potato, combread and a caesar or house salad for $15.95 is so filling that, according to General Manager Wayne Honore, customers often wind up taking some of the huge dinner home with them.

Charlie Brown's offers a wide variety of soups and appetizers, including everything from baked French onion soup to barbecued baby-back ribs.

Not to be missed is the classic shrimp cocktail, nicely priced at $4.50. The shrimp is tickled pink by its own fine quality. They taste so fresh, you'd think there is an ocean directly behind the restaurant, and the tangy marinara sauce is a perfect complement.

The caesar salad at Charlie Brown's is more than worthy of its regal title. The lettuce is vibrant and crisp, and the croutons are crunchy.

What more could you ask for?

Patrons who are not big on beef need not despair — fair is fowl and the fish isn't half bad either.

The Nantucket fried shrimp is something to write home about. It's something to bring the whole family out to eat. The New England shrimp is cooked until magnificently crunchy, and when combined with a well-done, half-pound top sirloin steak that is so tender it melts in your mouth, this shrimp is about as close to heaven as you can get — until you taste the chicken teriyaki.

You wouldn't think something so skinless could taste so great, but Charlie Brown's grilled chicken breast, covered in a tangy, yet sweet sauce, served with a side of seasoned rice does more than hit the spot, it blows the spot away.

If your eyes are in fact not bigger than your stomach and you have some room left in there, the strawberry pound cake comes highly recommended. This popular dessert costs a mere $2.99 and is a great, light way to top off your evening.

Dinner is served at Charlie Brown's until about 10:30 p.m. A more restricted lounge menu is available until 11 p.m.

Recipe for losing weight: reduce Losing weight can be a difficult task. According to new research, published in the New England Journal of Medicine, the human body has a natural tendency to resist losing

When you try to lose weight, your body burns calories more slowly and efficiently. This makes losing weight difficult, especially if you try to lose it

"The basic formula for losing weight is simply this: You must burn 3,500 more calories than you consume to lose one pound of fat," said Union Hospital Coordinator of Clinical Dictitians Leslie Killeen. "This may seem 'easier said than done;'

however, by breaking down the weight loss into smaller, more manageable goals, it can be achieved." A deficit of only 500 calories each day would mean one pound of fat lost each week, Killeen said. "Even though it may take a while to attain your overall goal, the more gradually you take off weight, the more likely you are to keep it off."

To accomplish this 500 calorie deficit. Killeen said there are three time-proven methods: diet, exercise or a combination of both, by far the best choice.

Government dictary guidelines recommend that less than 30 percent of total claories come from fat and less than 10 percent of the total should come from saturated fat, Killeen said. "This is relatively easier to keep track of considering packaged foods items are now required by federal law to provide nutritional information," she said. "Just take note of the average serving size listed, and make sure it is realistic."

Because fat (9 calories per gram) has more calories per gram than protein (4) and carbohydrates (4) combined, it makes sense that cutting fat intake can help cut calories. "You may find that you consume a lot of fat in such items as cream cheese, whole or 2 percent milk, meat and poultry with the skin on," Killeen said.

Combining a low-fat diet with physical activity will make losing those 500 calories per day even easier. For weight loss, Killeen said it is ideal to start an exercise program beginning with a 15 to 20 minute routine two to three times a week and then working up to four or five times per week tor 30 to 60 minutes.

"Even if you hate to exercise, you can lose those calories by walking, dancing, working around the house or the yard," she said. "For example, 15 minutes of vigorously scrubbing floors can burn over 100 calories." During this process, Killeen advised against becoming a "scale watcher." Losses in half-pound increments are hard to see on a scale. "Take pride in your healthy lifestyle changes instead. For example, if you cut your fat intake and increase your physical activity, you lower your risk of heart disease," she said.

Killeen also said: "Before starting your diet, visit your doctor or a registered dietitian, and always consult your physician before beginning an exercise program."

For more information on low-fat dicting, call Killeen at (908) 851-7277.

Medicaid cuts threat to young patients

Proposed cuts to Medicaid designed to assist with balancing the federal buget severely threaten services to the state's youngest patients during the next seven years, according to Richard B. Ahlfeld, president of Children's Specialized Hospital, Mountainside.

Children's Specialized, founded in 1891, is the state's only pediatric rehabilitation hospital. About 70 percent of impatient days at CSH are

"With an uncertain economie the state, and the turmoil in the medical insurance system under managed care, the demand for Medicaid coverage can only increase," said Ahlfeld.

Nearly 60 percent of the families who rely on Medicaid are working people who either do not have medical insurance at work, cannot afford the co-pay required by employers, or have reached the coverage limits on increasingly stringent policies. In New Jersey, the average spent on children for covered services was $1,354 in fiscal year 1993, compared to $11,135 for the elderly.

Recently, the media has focused on reports of alleged abuse under the SSI Medicaid system, with little acknowledgement of the number of families who must rely on this program to deal with the problems of a child with a cronic illness or disability.

Ahlfeld expressed concern for the families in need of the services at Children's Specialized, with almost 70 percent of inpatient days and 35 percent of outpaitent visits on Medicaid. About 50 percent of CSH patient families receive SSI benefits.

"At CSH, we are committed to quality care, delivered in the most efficient and cost effective way possible," Ahlfeld said. "In the first five months of 1995, we have served more children than ever before, with an increase of almost 5 percent in our inpatient rehab, day hospital and longterm care areas. All of this has been accomplished while continuing to Ahlfeld explained that with the proposed cuts, children will be bearing a disproportionate share of the burden to balance the federal budget. Children are 50 percent of Medicaid recipients in this country but account for only 20 percent of the dollars spent. The Medicaid program is targeted to save 18 percent of the total amount needed to balance the budget, from a segment which represents 6 percent of the budget at current spending levels.

"In addition to these cuts, the concept of block grants for Medicaid poses a further threat to access and ongoing competition for limited dollars on the state level," said Ahlfeld.

Two videos featured matinee

On Wednesday at 1:30 p.m., children ages 4 and up can view two videos, "Earth Creatures" and "Songbird Stories," as part of the Trailside Nature and Science Center's Wednesday Matinee series.

According to the Union County Board of Chosen Freeholders, the videos will be projected onto a large screen in the Visitor Center's auditorium, utilizing a newly purchased video projector.

The videos have been obtained from Bullfrog Films, a company dedicated to promoting environmental education. "Earth Creatures" is a series of three wildlife documentaries — 45 minutes in length. Hosts/producers Martin and Christopher Kratts travel with their audience to remote places to get "up close and personal" with creatures: to Costa Rica for sea turtles and sloths; and to Madagascar for lemurs.

The Kratts have a sense of play and relate well to their young audience. The videos include viewers as their adventures unfold. The films encourage children to get out and experience nature on their own. At the same time, the Kratts teach respect and empathy for other living creatures.

"Songbird Story," a 15 minute film, makes viewers aware of the fact that many migratory songbirds, including tanangers, buntings and orioles are disappearing. What does it mean? Where have they gone? In backyards all across North America the songbird's nesting habitats are being lost to development. Two children out for an afternoon of fun and adventure discover some answers. This animated film will educate young viewers.

Tickets are sold only at the door for $2.50 per person and group discounts for 25 or more are available. For more information, call Trailside Nature and Science Center at (908) 789-3670.

Trailside is a facility of Union County Division of Parks & Recreation.

Motorists should properly dispose of used motor oil at local outlets

Strauss Discount Auto and Valvoline are encouraging motorists who change their own motor oil to "Do It or Drink It" — that is, to bring their used oil to any Strauss store for proper disposal. Improperly disposed oil will leak into the ground and eventually end up in drinking water.

"Since one quart of motor oil can ruin 250,000 gallons of drinking water, it's vitally important that we keep used motor oil out of landfills, sewers and backyards," said Bill Dempsey, Valvoline's vice president of sales and customer relations.

Strauss is encouraging consumers to bring their used oil and batteries to its 100 stores located throughout the New York area. Consumers can take their used motor oil and batteries to all Strauss locations for disposal at no charge.

Valvoline, through its First Recovery division, provides Strauss stores with collection containers, an employeetraining video, manager's guide and in-store signage. First Recovery also arranges to pick up the oil. The used oil is burned as a renewed energy resource, an EPA-approved method of recycling used oil.

"Each year more than 220 million gallons of used motor oil are improperly dumped by do-it-yourself oil changers in the United States, posing a serious threat to the environment," Said Like Beshar, president of Strauss Discount Auto. "We are proud to offer this service to our customers and grateful to Valvoline for being the leader in the proper disposal of used oil."

Consumers should bring their containers of used motor oil, up to 5 gallons, to any Strauss stores and expect to sign a used oil log. The only products that will be accepted are used motor oil, hydraulic oil and transmission oil. Strauss cannot accept any other substance, because it contaminates

Making a deposit at any participating Strauss Discount Auto store is easy. Anyone who wants to bring used motor oil in for disposal and recycling should follow these simple

1. Used motor oil must be in a clean plastic container, such as an empty milk jug or a gallon motor oil jug. Non-motor oil containers should be thoroughly washed and rinsed before used oil is poured into them. Up to five gallons of used lubricant will be accepted for disposal at

2. Depositors must sign a log with their name, address. the date and the amount of lubricant they are depositing.

3. Customers must confirm that the container they are dropping off contains nothing but acceptable used lubricants. Store personnel will refuse to accept anything that they believe contains a substance other than approved lubricants.

4. Only these substances are acceptable: Motor oil. Transmission oil, Hydraulic oil.

5. These substances are unacceptable: paints, lacquer and thinners, varnishes, household chemicals, antifreeze. oil filters, gasoline, carburetor, solvents, insecticides, any conbination.

Strauss Discount Auto used oil collection sites are at 26-48 Bloomfield Ave., Bloomfield; 829 South Orange Ave., East Orange; 370 Elizabeth Ave., Newark; 100 Washington Ave., Belleville and 539 Martin Luther King Blvd., East Orange.

Saturn — the car that makes a difference successful car companies, is regarded as a "different kind of company; a different kind of car." One of the reasons is because of its commitment to safety for its customers.

So, in 1995, all Saturn cars feature airbags on both the driver and passenger side. But, these are airbags with a difference.

Saturn devised a new electronic Sensing Diagnostic Module, SDM, that determines when you really need an airbag. A scenario: If you swerve

This time you don't. You're going to need it for the tree. The 1995 Saturn airbag knows the difference. The new SDM has been compared to an airplane's 'black box' flight recorder on a more limited scale. It records how quickly the car decelerates; when deployment was commanded and whether the driver's seatbelt was fastened. It also records near-

Maintenance is a big factor in the amount of pollution that your automobile emits

In New Jersey and many other urban areas througout the country, motor vehicles are the single greatest contributor to the formation of ground-level ozone or smog, the most serious air pollution problem that we face in the Northeast. But not all cars pollute equally. Maintenance is a major factor in the amount of pollution that your vehicle emits. Poorly maintained cars and other vehicles contribute a majority of the millions of tons of pollutants that motor vehicles send into the air each year, threatening the quality of air we all breathe.

A poorly maintained vehicle, in fact, can emit up to 10 times more pollutants. These pollutants include those that lead to the formation of ground-level ozone, which can cause breathing problems, particularly among the very young, the elderly and those with existing respiratory ailments, such as asthma. Air pollution also can lead to permanent lung damage.

Fortunately, there is a simple way to turn a "dirty" car into a cleaner-running vehicle. Regular maintainance, including tuneups and replacement of the air filter and other parts at specified maintenance intervals, can greatly decrease the pollution your car produces. Aside from helping to improve air quality, proper maintenance also can increase your vehicle's fuel economy, improve its performance and give it a longer life and higher resale value.

All cars, old and new, require some type of regular maintenance. Read your owner's manual to determine exactly what should be done and how often, since many newer cars require less frequent maintenance than older ones. Cars that are driven under severe conditions, such as in stop-and-go traffic and on dirt roads, may need to have more frequent oil and filter changes than standard recommendations indicate. Additionally, you should be award of the maintenance requirements under the manufacturer's warranty.

A typical tuneup will include replacement of the vehicle's air filter, hoses, belts, spark plugs, oil filter, and oil and other fluids. Tires, the fuel injection system, brakes, and the transmission and emissions control system also should be checked or replaced regularly throughout the life of your car. One of the most frequently overlooked maintenance items on today's vehicles is the oxygen sensor. This sensor, which is critical to the proper operation of the emissions control system, brakes, and the transmission and emissions control system also should be checked or replaced regularly throughout the life of your car. One of the most frequently overlooked maintenance items on today's vehicles is the oxygen sensor. This sensor, which is critical to the proper operation of the emissions control system, must be checked and replaced, if necessary, at prescribed maintenance intervals, typically every 50,000 miles.

The improper functioning of any of these parts of systems can result in additional emissions and a loss of fuel economy or damage to your car's emissions of harmful pollutants, including carbon monoxide and pollutants that lead to the formation of ozone. Changes in the way your car performs, such as hesitation or stalling, a decrease in fuel economy and dashboard warning lights all can indicate problems in your engine or emissions system.

Whether you have your car repaired by a professional or you do it yourself, be sure to recycle or properly dispose of all fluids and parts. Improper disposal can lead to other types of pollution, such as surface water and groundwater contamination.
