Borough creates, gives Good Neighbor Award

With the help of the Mountainside Historical Preservation Committee, the Echo continues its walk down memory lane. Using historic documents, antique photographs and residents' personal recollections, we resume recounting the borough's 100-year history. This week, the origin of the Mabel G. Young Good Neighbor Award is traced.

Throughout its history, Mountainside has had many volunteers who have contributed much time and energy to the progress of the borough. Sometimes these efforts go unnoticed except perhaps in the group for which they are expended.

In 1982 however, the borough recognized the contributions of Mabel Young, a 45-year resident. In a reception attended by 125 of her friends, during which she was acclaimed for her many years of volunteer service to the community, the Mabel G. Young Good Neighbor Award was established.

Each year since 1982, it has been awarded to citizens whom have helped "make Mountainside a fine place to live."

Young was the quintessential volunteer. A teacher in the borough's public school for many years, she found time to participate in many civic groups. She was a member and past president of the Women's Club, a member of the board of trustees of the United Way of Mountainside, a lifetime member and officer of the Parent-Teacher Association, a member and past president of the Mountainside chapter of the American Association of University Women, a member of the Senior Citizens Club of Mountainside, a member of the Mountainside Music Association, a member and officer of the Mountainside Teachers Association, and a member of the Republican Club of Mountainside. She also worked with Mobile Meals and in her spare time served as a library volunteer.

Young was a long-time member of the Community Presbyterian Church and served as an elder, clerk of sessions and Sunday school superintendent. She was also a member and past president of the United Presbyterian Women. At the ceremony honoring Young, dubbed "Hats Off to Mabel," then-Mayor Thomas J. Ricciardi presented her with a proclamation passed by the Borough Council. Former Mayor Fred Wilhelms, the master of ceremonies, unveiled the Mabel G. Young Good Neighbor Award. As each organization in which Young participated was announced, it was proclaimed by a person wearing a hat with the name of the organization.

Since that time the following people have been awarded the award: Thomas and Barbara Knerim, Joseph Komich, John and Ruth Keuler, Dora Haupt, Jeanne Wilhelms, Fred Wilhelms, Larry Cutiss, Lew Stroymeyer, Dottie Unchester, Ruth Goense, Allen J. Hambacher, Sr., Bob and Cathy Hanson, Joe and Judy Hakucha, Jean Pascuiti, Bobbie Weeks, Jean and Joe Beierle, and Arthur Brahm.

In 1983, 1989, 1991, 1992 and 1993 there were more than one individual or couple designated.

The plaque with the names of the award recipients hangs in the Council Chamber of Borough Hall.

Members of the committee to honor Young were Fred and Jeanne Wilhelms, William Biunno, Betty and Bill Van Blarcom, Sandy Burdge, Tom Knerim, Peggy Wilson, Doris Julian, and Sue Winans.

Members of the current committee for the award are William Biunno, Helen Borchert, Sandy Burdge, Camie Delaney, Pat Hanigan, Doris Julian and Peggy Wilson.

At the reception honoring Young, she spoke briefly and invited everyone to visit her at her new home in Winter Park, Fla. She has continued to contribute to her new community in many ways and still keeps in touch with many friends in Mountainside, and visits about once a year.

Mabel G. Young accepts the first Good Neighbor Award, named in her honor, from William Biunno and then-Mayor Thomas J. Ricciardi during a ceremony in 1982. Young, a leader and member of many civic groups in the borough, now is a resident of Winter Park, Fla.

police blotter

• Police report two men were arrested Aug. 21 when they were stopped by police on Route 22 and drugs were found in their backseat.

The suspects were identified by police as Marvin Brody, 30, of Plainfield and Dwayne Lake, 25, of Raligh, N.C.

When the suspects' 1984 white Oldsmobile passed Patrol Officer Andrew Sullivan at 2:18 p.m. on the westbound side of the highway, he noticed it was missing a front license plate, according to police. Sullivan checked the back license plate number through the computer in his patrol car and learned the plate was registered to a white Mazda.

Brody, who was driving, told Sullivan that he had no credentials on him because he'd purchased the car recently.

Sullivan then walked around to the passenger side, according to police, at which time he spotted on the back seat two small plastic bags containing a substance that looked like marijuana.

Both Brody and Lake were charged with possession of marijuana. Brody also was charged with possession of a vehicle with false license plates.

They posted $250 bail and were released. Lake will appear in court Sept. 7, and Brody will appear on Sept. 14.

• A Toyota was stolen from an industrial building on Sunday morning, according to police.

A 1993 Toyota Camry was parked in a lot on Sheffield Street when it was taken between 3:30 and 10:07 a.m., said Police Chief William Alder.

The car, valued at $16,500, has not been recovered.

• Traffic was backed up on Route 22 this week, as the state Department of Transportation performed roadwork.

The DOT closed one lane in each direction at the intersection of New Providence Road and the highway to do masonry work on the center divider, Alder said.

The chief said traffic, which was backed up for a mile in each direction, was not "tremendously" delayed.

The work began in the morning each day and went into the afternoon.

Interviews slated

• The Union County Rape Crisis Center is interviewing for a group for teenage female survivors of rape age 13 to 17; a group for adult female survivors of rape. For more information, call (908) 233-RAPE.

Juvenile arrested after chase

What started as a routine attempt to pull over a driver ended with a chase and a crash on Route 22.

A 15-year-old Irvington resident was arrested after being chased by police — first in a stolen car and then on foot — on Aug. 18. His identity was not released by police due to his age.

Patrol Officer Kevin Betyeman was at the emergency turn-around on Route 22 West, near the Springfield border, when he spotted a 1984 Dodge van pass him around 11 a.m., said Police Chief William Alder.

When the van went by, Betyeman noticed it was missing an inspection sticker and the left tail light was broken.

The officer followed the car before attempting to pull it over near 1450 Route 22 West.

Police said the driver continued for half a mile in the right lane. When traffic slowed down in front of him, he switched to the shoulder and sped.

Betyeman pursued the car to the Blue Star Shopping Center in Watchung. At that location, the shoulder ended and became a grassy area, called a berm.

The driver attempted to drive on the berm, but lost control of the car, according to police. He hit several trees on the side of the road before hitting another car.

Firemen's local plan Baltusrol golf outing

The Springfield Fire Department's Firemen's Mutual Benevolent Association Local No. 57 is sponsoring a fund-raiser golf tournament on Nov. 13 at the Baltusrol Country Club's lower course. This course has been the site of many U.S. Open men and women's tournaments as well as other professional golf tournaments.

The FMBA is aiming to raise funds in part to support the St. Barnabus Burn Center, local youth programs, as well as the FMBA's Tot-Finder program, which provides residents of Springfield with a Tot-Finder decal that is placed in their children's bedroom windows. This gives the fire fighter a visual insight that in the event of a fire an infant or juvenile may be trapped in that room and unable to exit the home. The infant smoke detector program provides a smoke detector free to the child's parents.

Springfield and area residents and businesses wishing to participate in this tournament may do so at a cost of $250 per golfer. Availability is limited to 120 golfers on a first come, first served basis.

All golfers will be eligible to win a Ford Sports truck in the hole-in-one contest. This truck is being donated by the Flemington Car and Truck Country dealership/Ditschman Ford of Flemington. In addition, all golfers will receive a tournament golf shirt, driving and putting green privileges, a buffet brunch, the use of a golf cart or caddy, invitation to the locker-bar and a post-tournament cocktail reception.

To obtain sponsorship or golfer tournament information, call (201) 376-8558 or visit the Fire Department's headquarters in the back of the Springfield Municipal Building on Caldwell Place.

The meeting and election of officers for 1995-1996 will begin at 1 p.m.

A generous backhand

Laurence Chapin, chairman of the 1995 National Platform Tennis Championships, and Sandy Chapin, NPTC's liaison to Children's Specialized Hospital, present a check for $10,042 to CSH Vice President Philip Salerno. High schools get new curriculum, personnel

By Cynthia B. Gordon
Staff Writer

The school year in the Union County Regional High School District will begin Tuesday, as the freshman and new student orientation is held at Jonathan Dayton, Arthur L. Johnson and Governor Livingston regional high schools.

Classes begin for all students on Wednesday.

Numerous changes in the regional district have been planned for the 1995-96 school year.

Due to the budget defeat and consequent reduction of funds from the budget, there will be continued efforts at cost containment during the new school year.

The administrative structure of the district continues to be altered by a reduction in positions. In addition to the elimination of the positions of assistant superintendent, assistant board secretary, director of pupil personnel services, assistant for public relations and three guidance direction positions made during 1994-95, additional administrative changes will be made.

Three positions of directors of health, physical education and athletics have been reduced from 12-month positions to 10-month positions.

The vacant 12 month position of supervisor of adult and occupational education will be modified. A separate part-time director of the adult school program has been employed. And, a 10-month position of supervisor of business education, home economics, industrial arts and vocational education will be staffed for one year only. A review of this position will be conducted prior to the 1996-97 school year. Changes in all supervisory positions in 1996-97 have been contemplated.

District to send out survey
A regional district survey will be sent to all residents of Berkeley Heights, Clark, Garwood, Kenilworth, Mountainside and Springfield via the September issue of the Regional Review.

This survey will focus on preferences and concerns regarding the goals and objectives of the district. The survey will attempt to ascertain the major education priorities of area residents.

Results of the survey will be reviewed by the Board of Education and will be used in planning future programs and activities. Curriculum planning for the 1996-97 school year will be influenced.

New staff

Jonathan Dayton Regional High School will open with a new principal. Charles Serson of Clark, district supervisor of adult and occupational education has been named principal after the resignation of Judith Wickline earlier this year.

Serson is a former principal of the Regional District Adult High School. He will be introduced to the community at a special "Get to Know the Principal" reception at the high school on Sept. 14. James Dougherty, assistant director of the adult school at the Arthur L. Johnson Regional High School, will also serve as the part-time adult school director.

Changes in curriculum

Various curricular changes will be implemented in September. Students will be given the opportunity to enroll in an extra course by starting the school day earlier, and enrolling in health and physical education before the traditional starting time. Limited bus transportation will be available to the students participating in this earlier start.

More course offerings will also be available to students: English electives titled "Shakespeare and Society" and "Creative Writing/Poetry;" a new honors course in physics at each high school; and a cooperative business education work-study program, located at the Jonathan Dayton Regional High School.

The addition of a concert band to each high school and a program for orthopedically handicapped high school students will be reinstated at the Arthur L. Johnson Regional High School.

A new advanced placement course in English, specifically for juniors, will also be introduced. The course will emphasize reading and writing expository essays, in addition to the study of American literature from all historical periods.

Students who complete the new advanced placement English 3 offering may decide to pursue a second year of AP English in their senior year by talking to the advanced placement English 4 course.

Revised curriculum courses of study, which have been upgraded by regional district teachers include: English 3 and 4; world history and cultures and United States history; earth science; geometry, mathematics analysis and most of the special education courses in the district.

The regional district's program for gifted and talented students is undergoing changes for the next school year. The program will now offer enrichment opportunities for ninth and 10th grade students. Heretofore, students were accepted into the program only at the end of 10th grade.

The Junior Army ROTC program will commence at the Governor Livingston Regional High School.

Artists needed for library exhibitions

The Donald B. Palmer Museum of the Springfield Free Public Library is accepting applications for artists who wish to exhibit their works during 1996.

Applicants are asked to submit a current resume, 10 slides representative of their work and a stamped self-addressed envelope. Applications will be reviewed by the museum committee in the fall.

The Palmer Museum opened at its current site in 1975. The Palmer Collection was started in 1939 when the Library Board of Trustees appropriated $25 to Springfield resident Donald Palmer to purchase pictures of Springfield.

The collection grew to include historical mementos, antique guns, toys, tools, glass, china and other items. Portions of the permanent Palmer Collection are on display throughout the year.

Since 1992, the museum has provided space for the exhibit of art and historical works and for the presentation of cultural programs. The museum has just completed a series of programs that included presentations of Shakespeare, poetry readings, and demonstrations of quilting, pottery and print-making all funded by the Union County Department of Cultural and Heritage Affairs.

During the past year, the museum has exhibited the works of many local and regional artists.

Applications should be mailed to the Donald B. Palmer Museum of the Springfield Free Public Library, 66 Mountain Ave., Springfield, 07081.

Trailside seeks artisans and crafters

The Trailside Nature and Science Center is seeking artisans, crafts people, and food vendors to demonstrate Colonial crafts and work skills, or to sell their Colonial products at its 14th annual Harvest Festival.

The festival, on Sept. 24 from 1 to 5 p.m., will be a celebration of Colonial and Native American life, and will feature demonstrations, live period music, a Revolutionary War encampment, children's crafts and Colonial games, food and more.

Examples of craft and work skills being sought are blacksmithing, kick wheel pottery, broommaking, shoe-making and quilting.

Participants who wish to sell their products will be charged a fee.

For more information about how to participate or volunteer, call Betty Ann Kelly at 789-3670, Tuesday to Saturday.

A score (board) to settle

When someone buys a home, in Mountainside or elsewhere, they do so with the understanding that certain privileges and responsibilities come with it. It's a trade people learn in the lessons life offers.

The obligation to pay taxes, maintain an aesthetically pleasing landscape and be a good neighbor goes with the right to live peacefully and undisturbed in one's environment. Homeowners in Mountainside enjoy measures of peace and quiet unavailable in communities only minutes away; we sometimes forget that.

In exchange for this tranquility, residents should grant a certain neighborly leeway. Children under age 13 represent approximately 10 percent of Mountainside's population. Being a good neighbor, in part, means not being a curmudgeon, losing your cool when the neighbor's 9-year-old belts a hanging curveball into your marigolds. Diplomacy is key to all relations; kids are, after all, kids, so keep in mind that a 9-year-old's parents may be ones who have loaned you that power-saw you forgot to return.

Which is why we find it surprising, and more than a little disheartening, that there is a movement in town to silence the sounds of the borough's Youth Baseball League. Sure, the joys of home-ownership include the benefits of peace and quiet, but most people who move here do so to take advantage of the safe, rewarding opportunities available to their children.

This is a baseball game, not an airport.

First, everyone got upset that C&M Refrigeration and Air Conditioning, the local business that generously donated the $5,000 scoreboard, demonstrated the "poor taste" to put their name and telephone number on it. We all should be thanking them, not criticizing them. After all, it's not as if they're promoting the use of beer or cigarettes.

True, Major League Baseball did away with advertising on outfield walls years ago and, yes, the practice does add a tint of sports commercialism to what should be an innocent game. Until recently, New Jersey was not blessed with Minor League Baseball, but the ads in the outfield are as much a part of the charm of a minor league ballpark as are hot dogs and souvenirs. Outfield ads sponsored by local companies are expressions of Americana.

It will be a shame when one of the players hits the winning homerun, makes a diving catch, or strikes out the side, and the announcer is prohibited from calling out the player's name for all to hear.

To the neighbors of the ballpark: If you signed the petition to remove the public address system, shame on you. Those who haven't but are considering it should remember that Mountainside is a small community that cannot spare the square footage to exile its noisy youth-activities to remote corners. This has been done in Springfield, where the Roessner Field is not too far from Mountainside's borders.

Parents in Mountainside have a right to raise their kids with America's pastime — replete with the cultural trappings. An integral part of any sport is the opportunity for achievement, which should be encouraged at every opportunity. Announcing the kids' names upon their making the play is recognition of such accomplishment.

While there are laws prohibiting breach of peace — laws necessary to protect the individuals' right to quiet — we all benefit when the borough's children are afforded the chance to excel in a constructive environment, where accomplishment is welcome. That is a crucial message far too many communities fail to send to their youngsters.

If the price of that nurturing setting is a few hours of baseball noise, then let's keep it in perspective, remembering it's only for a few weeks a year. More importantly, let's keep in mind that this is for the kids.

They're too young to understand enough of this issue to thank you for it now, but as they learn the lessons of cooperation inherent in team sports, we'll find our satisfaction in the character built into each player when they grow older.

"We seem to have lost touch with our audience. I speak of all major media. Instead of looking to us to protect them from big government, they [the public] seem to be looking to big government to protect them from the excesses of the press."

A THEATER NEAR YOU — Sony Theaters wants to build a 10-screen movie theater at the former Echo Lanes site. Representatives of the company will appear before the Zoning Board next month, when a vote on the matter will be taken. The company already has permission to construct an eight-screen multiplex. The proposed 10-screen theater would feature a 968-slot parking lot, rather than a garage, as shown here at Sony's theater on Route 10 in East Hanover. Public safety is a key issue the zoners will address; at the East Hanover theater, Sony hires off-duty policemen to direct traffic. Spokesmen for the company have said no such need is evident in the borough.

Liberals don't let public have say in court

Right To The Point

By Joe Orlando

In the wake of the O.J. Simpson case, the nation is in a heightened state of awareness, this time getting expert instruction on domestic violence, DNA testing, and of course race. We are being treated to news specials, a host of confusing and often incredible statistics — "one woman is battered every 15 seconds, etc." — and a wave of activists declaring their's is the most important and underreported issue in America.

In our TV, instant-judgment culture, we become fixated on an issue for a few and make rushed policy decisions based on misinformation and the emotions of a few victims. This is done primarily in an effort to "do something," the battle cry of the trendy. In the midst of all this, however, one issue that lost its chance at a spotlight is the death penalty, a popularly supported, if little-used, sanction. It would do us well to take this opportunity and demand why even the few criminals who are sentenced to death are not executed.

For a hint, we need look no further than Jack Newfield's column a few months ago in support of former Gov. Mario Cuomo. "All over America," writes Mr. Newfield, "liberals realize that 75 percent of the people favored capital punishment and endorsed that simplistic remedy — a remedy that does not deter crime...Dianne Feinstein endorsed death. So did Andrew Young. Mr. Cuomo has not."

First of all, there exists today no consensus on whether the death penalty is a deterrent; nor is that the only

ACLU lawyers and human rights groups should be allowed to impose their will on the rest of us?

Frequently, these critics argue the death penalty is not a deterrent, innocent people will be put to death, racial minorities bear a disproportionate burden, etc. But these statements, rather than buttressing a sound foundation of logical reasoning, simply serve as elaborate distractions because even if a person's guilt could be established conclusively, even if the defendant were white, even if all criminals were to announce that they would give up their trade if the death penalty were regularly employed, these people would still be opposed to the death penalty. Thus, these other factors are irrelevant.

Often, opponents of capital punishment will acknowledge that they simply oppose the death penalty on moral grounds, because they do not think the government should play God. But in what legal basis is this sentiment founded? Our Supreme Court has ruled on two occasions that the death penalty is not cruel and unusual punishment and, therefore, constitutional. So how is it, if well over 70 percent of the population supports the death penalty, that since 1976 it has been used only in 5 percent — 220 out of more than 4,000 — of the cases in which the death sentence has been handed down?

Is it because of the myriad of groups who do not think the people have a right to see their wishes fulfilled. They render the costs of appeals prohibitive by the number of cases in which they participate, and then they argue that keeping a person in jail for life, without these costly appeals, is actually cheaper for the state.

It is clear that their intention is not to see that innocent people are set free or that guilty persons' rights to due process are not abridged, but to abolish the death penalty, period.

Judges are a problem also, and here in New Jersey, Robert Wilentz, Supreme Court chief justice, has a notorious reputation of being one of the most liberal to don the judicial robes in the entire nation. He has spared all but one of about 40 from the death penalty. Due to a state law in the Garden State, at age 70 Wilentz must retire.

This happy and long-awaited event should take place during Governor Whitman's term, but opponents of Wilentz would be well advised not to stock up on champagne. Judging — no pun intended — on Whitman's past performances, of fiscally tight-fisted but socially soft, it would not surprise this writer if the governor appoints another "criminal friendly" judge like Wilentz, possibly wearing a dress under those robes.

The issue of the death penalty, like some others, is one where the will of the majority is thwarted by the influence and power of a few.

Glossing over behavior won't help newcomers

As I See It

By Norman Rauscher

Ever since we were little kids, we were always taught never to speak ill of the dead and "He who is without sin, let him cast the first stone."

Ironically, both these time-honored homilies cropped up in the news within the last week.

The death last week of Jerry Garcia, the driving force behind the "Grateful Dead," is another example of a talented person who died young. He was 33 and for the last decade or so, battled the bottle, drugs and led a life that slowly rakes the body with a variety of illnesses, neuroses and depressions.

A few days later, New York Yankee hero Mickey Mantle died at 63 of cancer of the liver, lungs, abdomen, you name it. Here again, Mantle all but literally committed suicide from years of heavy drinking that destroyed his liver. The new one came too late to save his life.

Garcia was an icon in the cult world of rock and roll, and his guitar was his life. His style defined rock and roll and more than anything else was at the core of his music and the impact of the "Grateful Dead" sound.

Mickey Mantle was another icon to a generation of baseball fans. He etched out a career by hitting home runs, triples, doubles and lots of singles; he hustled, was a tremendous outfielder and was a guiding force for keeping the New York Yankees the powerhouse it was for so many years. In a way, Mantle was a role model to a generation of kids and grown-ups alike. He was everyone's friend, on and off the diamond. Unfortunately, off the field he was his own worst enemy, for it was there, with his buddies in a hotel room or a bar, where he would drink himself into a stupor, but could pull himself together and play a whale of a great game the next day.

Garcia and Mantle are just two examples of talented people who could not handle fame without a crutch, in their cases, drugs for Garcia like taking a steep curve in a car going 100 miles an hour and not making it because a tree was in the way. Sometimes I have the feeling that some of these people have a death wish and although they don't think anything will happen to them, they push fate to the wall and the next link in the chain of events is tragedy.

Perhaps Garcia and Mantle didn't realize that the danger they were participating in would have little or no consequences on their health. It took Mantle nearly 50 years to finally realize that enough booze over a period of time would have tragic results. I'm sure Garcia did the same. What's a little snort of drugs going to do? He found out the hard way.

We are not speaking ill of these famous dead. We are just trying to understand why some feel that drugs and booze are needed to augment a career. Luckily, Mantle's was over and Garcia's was headed toward a setting sun.

We would hope that up-and-coming stars would study hard the cases of Mantle and Garcia and realize the danger that lurks if you throw caution and common sense to the wind. I also want to make clear that "He who is without sin, should throw the first stone." We all fit into that category whether we like it or not.

Mountainside is someplace special

To the Editor:

Earlier this month, the Community Presbyterian Church housed and fed 12 homeless women and children. It was a big job, but one that we considered important. We learned things about the homeless. We learned things about ourselves, but we also learned things about our community.

We asked some local stores and organizations for help and the response was overwhelming. Our homeless guests were given food, movie theater tickets, and ice cream. We were given money to buy food.

I would like to publicly thank Drug Fair, the Rialto Theater, Haagen Dazs, and J&M Market, Bayberry Gift Shop, the Mountainside Pastry Shop, Acme, the Mayfair Supermarket, the Supermarkets General Corp. and Friendly's for their generosity.

The Mountainside Recreation Commission invited our homeless guests to use the Community Pool throughout the entire week. Sue Winans, Scott and Todd Karaman and Beverly Mather welcomed the homeless women and children with smiles and greetings.

Our guests told us that they had never been invited to use a pool in other communities.

Homelessness is a serious problem that threatens to be with us for years to come. It is wonderful to know that in our own small way we were able to make life better for some. We are grateful to those who were so willing to give of themselves and to be part of the solution.

Put the politicians to work

To the Editor:
 Angry about that pothole that hasn't been fixed? If you are, and live near the Delaware River in Pennsylvania, then you would call your mayor, who'd then go haul some hot tar to that inflicted road mark.
 Out there the local elected officials are called "supervisors," and they work for their money. I discovered this form of government through the local papers as I was up there for the nearby celebration in memory of Jerry Garcia.
 Can you imagine the local officials actually working?
 Since Deputy Mayor Herb Slote is the Township Committee's liaison to the Public Works Department, he would drive the garbage truck, while Mayor Marcia Forman empties garbage cans into the back of the truck.
 In fact, let's have Greg Clarke, JoAnn Holmes and Roy Hirschfeld all empty garbage cans, fix the roads, chop down the dead wood and whatever else. This year don't elect a politician. Vote for a garbage man or a dog catcher or whatever.

Bradley is a deserter

To the Editor:
 On "Meet the Press" on Aug. 20, Sen. Bill Bradley paraphrased a line from an old TV show titled "You Asked For It." He asked those listening to give him "ideas how to help make a better America."
 So here I am giving to him: For openers, the way he is deserting the badly floundering Democratic Party is certainly not helping any. What a way to repay all the loyal voters who kept him in the Senate for 18 years — through good times, and bad.
 As best as I can figure it out, for fear of not being re-elected in 1996, he chose the flimsy excuse to become an independent candidate for the presidency of the United States.
 He has as much of a chance winning that election as you can see snowflakes in July.
 Speaking for myself, someone who will reach his 96th birthday on Oct. 4, I don't have many more chances to pull the lever in the voting booth, but speaking for my children, grandchildren and great grandchildren, I hope and pray that they will not waste 18 years supporting a politician who'll desert his party like a captain deserts a sinking ship — sorry as I am to have to admit that.
 You asked for it Bill Bradley, so I am giving it.

 Springfield

Will Arlene Newman ever address an issue?

Arlene Newman again has shown her true colors as she tried to grab the spotlight at last week's Township Committee meeting. Ms. Newman has been very quiet during past five months as a candidate because her handlers are concerned she will make a blunder; they had good reason.

Last week, Arlene joined more than 100 concerned residents who wanted to be heard on the issue of Stop & Shop. As Ms. Newman looked on, resident after resident went to the microphone.

As emotions started to peak, the Democratic candidate struck, approaching the microphone to say she's against "ShopRite."

The audience laughed and Ms. Newman sat down.

Regardless of the mistake, we were happy that Ms. Newman has almost become an active candidate for the position she is running for. It has taken her five months, but better late than never.

Now that she is committed to campaigning, she should speak on many other issues facing Springfield, rather than transparently seizing a political opportunity to favor votes.

Let's hear Arlene's position on affordable housing. Does she fully support the position of running-mate Marcia Forman, who voted twice for the plan?

We have been, and will continue to be against the current plan. Bill Ruocco, as a member of the Springfield Planning Board voted against the plan. Judy Blitzer makes no bones

Be Our Guest

By William Ruocco and Judy Blitzer

about her displeasure with affordable housing in Springfield.

How about the total lack of planning over the library's air-conditioning, and the fact that Springfield has spent more than $85,000 in 1995 for air-conditioning.

This project should have been completed last May and we would not have had to close the public library due to heat. The Forman/Slote administration must be very proud of their accomplishment in this area. No word from Arlene Newman on this touchy subject either.

We have yet to hear from her regarding the massive increases given to two Democratic Party officials — Gary Nissenbaum, attorney to the Planning Board, and Nancy Lem-Nissenbaum, attorney to the Library Board of Trustees.

During the same Township Committee meeting, the Democrats tried to push through an ordinance that would have increased the costs charged to residents to hold a garage sale, purchase a parking permit or request a copy of a tax bill, among other services. Those increases ranged from a 100 percent increase to a 1,150 percent increase.

When Bill Ruocco spoke at the microphone, he insisted that the Township Committee pull this ordinance as being unfair to our taxpayers and residents. Committeewoman JoAnn Holmes moved to table the ordinance for additional review, and Committeeman Roy Hirschfeld quickly seconded that motion.

Mayor Forman and Deputy Mayor Slote were not happy, however they realized they didn't have the votes to pass it and it was tabled.

Perhaps the most upsetting item in this entire process came up when Mr. Ruocco asked Forman and Slote to explain a clause in the ordinance titled "other" increases.

Those increases were slated to be increased some 200 percent. Sadly, but expected, they both could not answer the question and asked Township Attorney Bruce Bergen for the answer.

He couldn't answer the question either. Both Forman and Slote had no idea what they were voting for.

Our question is, where was Arlene Newman to object to the massive raises in these fees? Perhaps she was trying to remember if she was against Shop & Stop or ShopRite.

Arlene, your public is waiting to hear from both you and Mayor Forman on the many issues facing Springfield. Everyone is fed up with everything, and they want to see the truth exposed so Springfield once again may have an honest and open government. Arlene, will you please come out of hiding and discuss issues.

William Ruocco and Judy Blitzer are the Republican candidates for Springfield's Township Committee.

Thanks for all your help

To the Editor:
 The National Association of Letter Carriers, branch 1492 and the United States Postal Service would like to thank all the residents and businesses of Mountainside and Westfield, the students of Deerfield School, and the Holy Trinity School in Westfield for their charitable donations during our 1995 food drive. Nearly 17,000 pounds of non-perishable items were collected by your local letter carriers.

Nationwide, 44.5 million pounds of charitable contributions were collected. A total of 1,130 branches of the National Association of Letter Carriers helped feed our hungry neighbors.

New members advise NJPIES

The New Jersey Poison Information and Education System, located at Newark Beth Israel Medical Center, has named four new members to its advisory council. The 21-member volunteer council is charged with the task of establishing policies that guide NJPIES.

The new members are:

- Joseph H. Carbello of Montville, president of CPR Medical Marketing and Communications in Teterboro.
- Julie L. Greely of Summit, a senior product service manager at Roche Laboratories in Nutley.
- Johnny R. Larsen, D.O., of Shamong, divisional director of the Department of Emergency Medicine at Kennedy Memorial Hospital in Stratford.
- Steven H. Solomon of Springfield, director of public relations at Newark Beth Israel Medical Center.

"The new members bring a broad range of expertise and diverse perspectives to NJPIES," said Dr. Steven Marcus of Montville, executive director of NJPIES and associate director of pediatrics at the medical center.

NJPIES was created in 1983 as a source of information for the public and professional community concerning toxicological and poison situations. Staff members who answer hotline calls are able to dispense advice and direct victims needing hospital care to nearby emergency rooms. NJPIES, which received more than 85,000 calls in 1994, is accessible through the toll-free hotline at (800) POISON-1.

Besides his role as president of CPR Medical Marketing and Communications, Carbello has been responsible for the development and marketing programs of several health maintenance organizations, including the Health Care Plan of New Jersey and Oxford Health Plans. Carbello also served as a consultant to the Office of Health Maintenance Organizations of the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services on Marketing HMOs. He is also a member of the board of directors of the Group Health Association of America.

Greely has been senior product services manager at Roche Laboratories since 1993. In this role, she is responsible for assisting in the development of AIDS/HIV related programs within the product communications department. In addition, she assists in the development and review of promotional material and maintaining scientific accuracy. She received her pharmacy degree from Wesleyan University in Lincoln, Neb. Greely earned her doctor of pharmacy degree from Creighton University School of Pharmacy in Omaha, Neb.

Larsen has been divisional director of the department of emergency medicine at Kennedy Memorial Hospital since 1992. Larsen earned his bachelor of science degree from New York Institute of Technology and his medical degree from New York College of Osteopathic Medicine, both in Old Westbury, N.Y.

He completed his residency training at Albert Einstein Medical Center in Philadelphia and his internship at Delaware Valley Medical Center in Langhorne, Pa. Larsen is a member of the American Osteopathic Association, American College of Osteopathic Emergency Physicians, American College of Emergency Physicians and Wilderness Medical Society. In addition, he is a clinical assistant professor at University of Medicine and Dentistry of New Jersey in Newark. Larsen has been certified by American Osteopathic Board of Emergency Medicine.

Solomon has been director of public relations at Newark Beth Israel Medical Center since 1993. Before that, he was director of public relations at Hackensack Medical Center. Besides his experience in the public relations field, Solomon has an extensive background in journalism that includes positions at The Record in Hackensack, Herald News in Passaic, The Ridgewood News and the North Jersey Suburbanite in Cresskill.

A Trusted Name In The Window & Door Business for Over 35 Years

First Night offers New Year's Eve fun

Although many families are preparing for back to school, some are making plans for New Year's Eve.

First Night Summit, a non-alcoholic community celebration of the arts on New Year's Eve, hopes to attract 7,000 people of all ages. This year's entertainment is scheduled to include art exhibits, bands, country, classical, clowns, fireworks, folk dances, jazz, magic, procession, story tellers, symphony, teen events and vocalists.

An extravaganza that big needs about 200 volunteers to help run it smoothly. Volunteers can help with artistic groups at indoor and outdoor events in downtown Summit. People do not have to work all evening and can work in shifts.

The First Night planning committee works nearly year-round to make one evening successful. Plan to attend Summit's celebration or share some time to make the third First Night a success. To volunteer, call the First Night office at (908) 522-1722.

Cellular phone company wins approval for tower

Bell Atlantic Nynex Mobile won approval from the Springfield Planning Board Aug. 16 to construct a 120-foot monopole at One Cornell Parkway, off Route 22 East. Two public hearings were held before the board granted the company's request.

Board's decision because the new facility will enable us to meet the growing needs of cellular customers in the Springfield and Mountaintown areas," said Richard Enright, regional director of network engineering. Today, one out of 10 Americans rely on cellular phones for their personal safety, and to keep in touch with their offices, clients, patients and families. Last year the number of cellular customers in the United States increased by 50 percent. Additional facilities are needed to provide service and handle the steadily increasing demand for cellular communications. Plans call for the new site to be in service before the end of the year.

Bell Atlantic Nynex Mobile, headquartered in Bedminster, is the largest wireless service provider on the east coast, serving 3 million customers in the Northeast, mid-Atlantic, Southeast, and through a separate subsidiary, in the Southwest regions of the country.

RVSA adds new member

The Rahway Valley Sewerage Authority has welcomed the township of Scotch Plains as a voting member, according to Ralph DeVino, RVSA chairman. The township of 21,000 has long been serviced by RVSA and has been accepted as a voting member after the authority settled litigation brought by the township.

As a result of the lawsuit settlement, Scotch Plains has agreed to install one new meter and make their existing waste water flow meter compatible with RVSA's metering system. The township has also paid RVSA $250,000, representing the financial commitment that other RVSA members made in building the trunk lines and treatment facility in the 1920s.

"We're pleased to welcome Scotch Plains aboard," said DeVino. "We're confident that RVSA will benefit from their involvement, as will Scotch Plains residents."

Joan Papan, who has served as mayor and deputy mayor of Scotch Plains, has been appointed the township's RVSA commissioner, and is presently the only woman on the 10-member commission.

Each commissioner is appointed by the member municipality's mayor and serves a staggered five-year term.

Scotch Plains Mayor Robert Johnston, who appointed Papan to the position, said, "Joan will do a terrific job representing Scotch Plains on the authority. Her government experience and knowledge of how government works will make her an asset to RVSA."

Yes, Mountainside's Butler was the archer that did it

Advances to Olympic Training Team semifinals

By J.R. Parachini
Sports Editor

Claire Butler is an athlete that is used to coming in first and being recognized as the best.

Although the Mountainside resident was one of four New Jerseyans to advance to the semifinal round of the archery Olympic Training Team Trials, her 19th-place finish in the women's competition held last Sunday at Bloomfield Archery Range was far below her usually high standard.

"I had some equipment failure," said Butler, an accomplished archery athlete who will celebrate her 78th birthday Sept. 8. "My arrows were going to far to the right and I didn't realize it until it was too late."

Other New Jerseyans who advanced were men's competitors Gerry Pylypchuk of Bloomfield, third; Brad Fiala of Chatham, eighth and David Kronengold of Short Hills, 14th.

"It was exciting and an honor to be with the top performers on the east coast," Butler said.

Butler, who practices her craft three times a week at Brookdale Park in Bloomfield as a member of the Bloomfield Archers, is now focusing on her next competition. The New Jersey State Outdoor Championships loom at Brookdale Park the weekend of Sept. 9-10.

Butler will try to repeat the success she attained at the competition last year when she won a gold medal.

After that, Butler will be competing in the New Jersey Senior Games for national qualification. She will first participate Sept. 16 and 17 at Toms River North High School in basketball, table tennis and one-mile walk events.

The archery competition will take place at Brookdale Park on Sept. 24, a qualifier for the United States National Senior Olympics. An archer must get a minimum of 850 points to qualify for the next Senior Olympics that are scheduled for Arizona in 1997.

Butler has already been to four Senior Olympics and has won four gold medals, including her fourth this past May in San Antonio, Texas. Her first came in St. Louis in 1989, second in Syracuse, N.Y. in 1991 and third in Baton Rouge, La. in 1993.

Butler not only won her fourth gold medal this year in San Antonio but her score of 1,152 broke a record.

Springfield fisherman Quinton proves no fluke

Springfield's Louis Quinton must have selected the right bait when fishing off Captain George Bachert's Fisherman. Quinton reeled in a three-pound fluke that claimed the cash pool as the biggest fish caught on the trip.

Berkeley Heights PAL football registration for Mountainside residents

Registration will be held at the Community Center on Park Avenue in Berkeley Heights as follows: 8th grade — Wednesday, Sept. 13 from 7 to 8:30; 7th grade and grades 3 and 4 — Thursday, Sept. 14 from 7 to 8:30 and 5th and 6th grades — Friday, Sept. 15 from 7 to 8:30.

The program begins Saturday, Sept. 16 at 9 a.m.

Each participant is required at the time of registration to bring: completed registration form, proper registration fee and a copy of birth certificate. Registration forms are obtainable at the Mountainside Recreation Department.

Congregation Israel schedules lecture

On Sept. 17 at 8:30 p.m., Congregation Israel will offer its annual Teshuva lecture in preparation for the High Holy Days. It is the practice for Jews to reflect on their actions and activities to prepare for the New Year. Thus, an individual may make positive changes and repent or do Teshuva for those negative aspects of the past year.

Feigie Safrin, a professor at Stern College of Yeshiva University, will discuss the Rambam's — Maimonides' — systems of Teshuva. The lecture will be understood by those at all levels of learning and familiarity with Judaism.

Congregation Israel is located at 339 Mountain Ave., Springfield. Call the synagogue office at 467-9666 for further information.

The public is invited and there will be no admission charge. Refreshments will be served.

Stop for buses

Some motorists may be unaware of the law regarding schools buses. Following are guidelines provided by the Division of Motor Vehicles.

If you are approaching or overtaking a school bus and it shows a flashing red light, signaling a stop, you must:

- Stop at least 25 feet away. This is required by law if you are on a two-lane road, or on a multi-lane highway where lanes are only separated by lines, or on a privately-maintained road.
- Slow down to 10 miles per hour on a dual highway, if you are on the other side of a safety island or raised median.

School buses are equipped with yellow, or amber, and red flashing lights. The yellow, or amber, lights go on before the bus stops, and the red lights go on when it has stopped. Don't depend on these lights if you are driving behind a school bus. They may be malfunctioning.
