From The Editor's Notebook

By Tom Canavan
Editor in Chief

Every wall in my office is a wall of memories of my more than eight years in the weekly newspaper industry. I guess I didn't discover that until Monday morning, Labor Day of all days, when I realized the amount of labor that went into all those years.

I came into the office early on Labor Day to get some work done. Most workaholics will agree that the best time to get a great deal of work completed is on a holiday, when the phones are not ringing off the hook, and — no offense to any of the personnel here — when the staff is not expected to be in the office seeking immediate answers to their questions.

But I was distracted this Labor Day by my walls.

Emanating from the certificates, sayings, thank you cards, awards and commemorative newspaper editions that have hung there so quietly for the last almost five years are the people in our communities and the stories each one had shared with me to pass along to my readers on these pages. I found that I had spent more time thinking about these people than doing the work I was in the office to do.

Forget your daily newspapers, I thought, as my eyes roamed from one plaque to another. It's the weekly newspaper that is closest to the reader. It's the weekly, community newspaper that can have more impact on a reader, a town and its quality of life than any other form of media.

Why? The answer is quite simple.

When you have the right editor and/or the right reporter, those who care about the people in the community can more than the community itself, then your words have more power — and you can effect greater change.

Daily newspaper reporters will cover a town, but a daily's responsibilities are much different from a weekly newspaper's responsibilities. Dailies have beats. Their beats are our towns. We must be in the communities we serve, producing story after story week after week.

On the wall behind me hang three newspaper editions which are special to me. One is the 100th anniversary edition of our News-Record of Maplewood and South Orange, which I completed in 1989 when I served as the newspaper's managing editor. Talk about labor.

The commemorative edition is filled with articles that appeared in the newspaper during the previous 100 years. I spent three months in the libraries in Maplewood and South Orange to find just the right kinds of stories that would trigger memories in my readers — happy memories and sad memories just the same. The response to that edition was overwhelming.

Flanking that edition are the premier editions of our Summit Observer and Elizabeth Gazette, both of which we began publishing in 1994. Researching, assigning stories and taking tours of the cities to grow acquainted with them was some of the labor. Then it came time to review the contents of the first newspapers to make sure the readers would accept us. The best feedback I received was that our Summit newspaper was "reader friendly." That came from a colleague of mine — where else but at a daily newspaper — who said I really knew how to reach my readers.

Other memorabilia include a plaque from the Maplewood PBA for their appreciation of my efforts on their behalf; a certificate of recognition from the Roselle Park Board of Education for my coverage of its school district, and a thank you note from a Union resident who thinks that I not only have a talent for journalism, but that I'm "a very nice person."

When I think of my philosophy of and commitment to community journalism, I don't have a right to take off on Labor Day. All this work comes so easily.

Watchful eyes resting on the parks

Dry weather conditions lead officials to conserve water

By Tom Canavan
Editor in Chief

Thirty-two days without a significant rainfall has prompted Union County officials to take measures in an effort to prevent damaging fires in a county park and has some local officials wondering whether or not it's time to begin conservation methods.

Dry weather conditions have prompted a fire ban in the Watchung Reservation, and although the western Union County park is the only county park in which a fire ban has been placed, a parks official this week said it is realistic that the same ban could be placed on the county's 25 other parks — if the region experiences further dry weather.

Union County issued the fire ban in the Watchung Reservation two weeks ago on the advice of the New Jersey Forest Fire Service in response to the prolonged period of minimal rainfall which the region has been experiencing. The shortage of rain has caused dry conditions throughout the area.

During the ban, according to an advisory issued by the Union County Department of Parks and Recreation, anyone using the reservation is prohibited from lighting or maintaining any wood or charcoal fires on the ground, in portable grills or in the metal or masonry fireplaces that are there for this purpose. Only propane or liquid gas-fueled stoves may be used for cooking purposes in the park — and they may be used only in officially established picnic areas.

Union County Parks Chief Dan Bernier said this week that the fire ban placed on the Watchung Reservation was not a result of any problems in the park. The fire ban was placed to avoid problems.

"The reason for the ban is because of the lack of rain," Bernier said. "We received a call from the New Jersey Forest Fire Service, who alerted us to a degree of fire danger. That happens when rainfall is minimal."

Except for a brief shower last week, today would mark the 32nd consecutive day without a substantial rainfall.

Signs announcing the ban have been posted throughout the reservation, and the ban will remain in effect until it is rescinded by the Union County Bureau of Park Maintenance.

"There is an expectation that the state may increase the severity of the ban if the lack of rainfall continues. That would mean a similar ban could be instituted in other parks in the county."

The county consists of 26 parks, including the Watchung Reservation, Warinanco Park in Roselle and Elizabeth, Rahway River Park in Rahway, and Echo Lake Park in Mountainside.

Bernier said it would be difficult to determine when the ban would be lifted.

"There is no magic number," he said, referring to the number of inches of rainfall that would be needed to lift the ban. "It would depend on how much rain falls over a certain period of time. We want to see that the ground and leaves and other things that would contribute to a fire are moist, conditions that would prevent the spread of fire."

Aileen Turner of West Scott Avenue in Rahway waters her burned lawn, a result of the lack of rainfall in the region.

Anyone seeing fires other than propane or liquid gas-fueled stoves for cooking or in any other than officially established picnic areas in the Watchung Reservation should notify the Union County police at 654-9800.

Water restrictions?

A spokesperson in the Union County Office of Public Information said the county does not mandate its municipalities to restrict the use of water during drought conditions.

Ben Laganga, director of the Union County Office of Emergency Management, said no municipalities in the county are under water restrictions, but if the dry weather continues, the office likely would take action.

"The Union County Office of Emergency Management is following the situation carefully, and if it worsens, we'll consider and take the appropriate action. But we're not involved in a situation right now," Laganga said.

After 32 days without rainfall, municipal officials may be on the alert for some form of water conservation. And that may be bad news for the thousands of county residents who have been coming out of their homes every day only to be greeted with yellow, dried lawns and deteriorating gardens.

Union Township Mayor Greg Muller said that although Union has not been restricting its use of water, he plans to meet with the township's business administrator this week to discuss the possibility of conservation.

"Since there is not much rain predicted for the near future, we should be better safe than sorry," Muller said. "I would urge citizens not to waste water. It's a precious commodity which we take for granted. There are simple things we can do to conserve water, like washing clothes only when we have a full load, limit the watering of lawns and washing our cars."

Union Township may not be so negatively impacted by water restrictions, Muller said, because of its underground springs. "But we have to start practicing some caution just the same. I don't know what the sharing process is" among the county's municipalities, "but the state will have to regulate the distribution," he said.

Elizabeth Mayor J. Christian Boll-wage is recommending that city residents begin conserving water now in the event restrictions become a requirement.

Through ads in local newspapers, Bollwage is asking residents to refrain from watering their lawns and washing their vehicles. He is also asking residents to refrain from leaving the shower on while lathering, refrain from leaving the water on while shaving or brushing their teeth, to install water saving showerheads and aerators, and to load a washing machine fully when washing clothes.

Roselle Park Mayor Joseph Delorio said residents could find a certain comfort in the recent cool weather and not think about water conservation.

"With the weather becoming somewhat cooler, people may not think there is a water shortage problem," Delorio said. "They're comfortable. All we can do at this point is to inform our residents about the drought conditions, whether through newspapers or our local access channel so the word will get out to at least conserve until we reach a point when we are in safe conditions."

Delorio said a constituent asked him this week if the region was in drought conditions. He said he had not heard from water companies whether or not to conserve.

Rose Monica of Wheatshaf Road in Roselle conserves water by using this type of can when watering her garden.

College, city to sponsor Fallfest

Union County College and the City of Elizabeth will co-sponsor a 10-kilometer run called Fallfest, which will highlight the historic elements of the city while promoting fitness, on Oct. 1 at the college's Elizabeth campus.

Preceding the 10 a.m. run will be a three-mile Historic Walk at 9:30 a.m. Both events also will be co-sponsored by the Union County Office of Cultural and Heritage Affairs and the Boxwood Hall State Historic Site.

The course for both events will span the historic midtown Elizabeth district; it will be measured accurately with a surveyor's wheel. A large, digital clock and electronic printing timer will be provided by Racetime Systems; computerized scoring and postcard results will be done by CompuScore.

Trophies will be awarded to overall male and female winners of the 10-K run, and medals will be given to the first, second and third-place male and female finishers in each age category, as well as to winners of the Historic Walk. Age categories will be 14 and under, 15-19, 20-29, 30-39, 40-49, 50-59, and 60 and over.

Pre-registrants who sign up before Sept. 25 will be charged a discounted rate of $7 for the 10-K run, with a guarantee of a customized T-shirt. Thereafter, interested parties may register up to and including the race day at a charge of $8 for the 10-K run. Fees for the Historic Walk will be waived to enable whole families to participate in the event; however, persons wishing to receive a customized T-shirt will be charged $6 and $7, respectively. Check-in and in-person registration on the race day will be held from 8 to 9:15 a.m. at the college's Elizabeth campus, with T-shirts offered on an as-available basis.

Displays will be featured at Elizabeth City Hall at the end of the race, where visitors may see exhibits of redevelopment activities and those of the historic area. Old Elizabethtown displays will be on view at the college's Elizabeth campus, while Elizabeth City Hall will show off such displays as related to modern times.

Those interested in more information should call (908) 965-6090 or (908) 820-4049.

Rape crisis center calls for volunteers

The Union County Rape Crisis Center needs volunteers to assist it and has scheduled its annual fall training for volunteers beginning Sept. 26.

Individuals receive 40 hours of training dealing with the many areas of sexual assault, trauma reactions of survivors and family members, legal and medical aspects and related areas. Volunteers also may work on the Speakers Bureau or distribute information to the community.

The Rape Crisis Center is a program under the Division of Planning, in the Department of Human Services and was established in June 1984 to provide services to meet the needs of survivors of sexual assault in the county. It is located at 300 North Ave. East, Westfield.

Crisis intervention workers on the hotline also may provide emotional support or accompany a client to the hospital or through the court process, according to Union County Manager Ann Baran.

"The volunteers for the county's Rape Crisis Center do more than answer a phone," Baran said. "The emotional support they give to the victims of sexual assault has a value which is beyond measuring. I hope that we are fortunate in getting more volunteers of the caliber of the ones who are volunteering now."

The center provides services which include: individual and group counseling, a 24-hour hotline, a speakers bureau, in-service training to hospital personnel, law enforcement and mental health professionals, consultation to professionals working with survivors and information and referral. All services are free and confidential.

"The response so far has been gratifying," said Union County Freeholder Chairwoman Linda Di Giovanni, "but there is still a need for more individuals who are interested in becoming volunteers." Anyone who is interested may contact the Rape Crisis Center from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. for an interview by calling (908) 233-7273.

Training dates are scheduled as follows: Sept. 26 and 28, Oct. 5, 10, 12, 17, 19, 24, 26 and 31; Nov. 2, 9, 14 and 16. Training sessions begin at 6:30 p.m. and end at 10 p.m.

County to sponsor annual Litter Day

The Union County Board of Chosen Freeholders and County Manager Ann Baran invite the public to join them on Sept. 16 for "Litter Day '95," when volunteers will band together to pick up litter in the Watchung Reservation.

"From 9 a.m. to noon, approximately 250 community volunteers and scouting organizations are expected to be on hand to pick up litter in this popular outdoor recreation area," said Freeholder Henry Kurz, liaison to the Environmental Health Advisory Board. "Litter Day is designed to increase awareness and to change the attitudes and habits that cause littering."

"Litter not only looks unsightly, but it can be hazardous to pedestrians, motorists and wildlife," said Freeholder Chairman Linda Di Giovanni. "This is a great idea and I hope our young people become litter conscious, so we can continue to have clean, beautiful parks for a long time."

Litter Day will be held rain or shine, so volunteers should dress appropriately. Participants will meet at Trailside Nature and Science Center, Coles Avenue and New Providence Road in Mountainside, before 9 a.m., and will be dispatched to collect litter throughout the reservation.

The Bureau of Environmental 'Litter Day '95,' is scheduled for Sept. 16 from 9 a.m. to noon in the Watchung Reservation.

Affairs provides each volunteer with a T-shirt displaying the logo "Keep Union County Litter Free," as well as gloves and garbage bags. Refreshments will be served.

"This program is another way we can show the public that we care about our environment," Baran said. "We need to become more conscious of our environment, and we need to make people understand the severity of the problem. Litter can also find its way into sewers and travel via streams and rivers to pollute areas downstream."

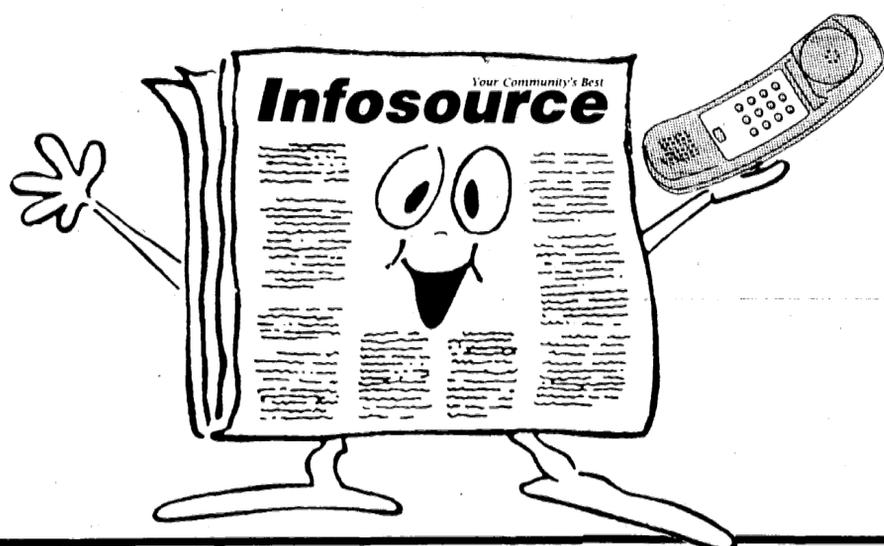

Litter Day is sponsored by the Division of Parks and Recreation and the Bureau of Environmental Affairs. For more information or registration forms, call Trailside at (908) 789-3670, or Environmental Affairs at (908) 654-9890.

The cleanup program is funded by a Clean Communities Grant from the state Department of Environmental Protection, which taxes businesses that sell litter-generating products.

ARTS & ENTERTAINMENT

Performer looks to expand his audience

By Bea Smith
Staff Writer

Marty DeRose of Mountainside, a melodious, talented and charming entertainer, has been providing his special music in his baritone voice for the past 35 years to a vast variety of people.

He has appeared in night clubs, on television, music halls, hospitals, nursing homes, churches, country, resort and supper clubs, music festivals, on cruise ships and at conventions in thousands of concerts throughout the country. DeRose has appeared in Italian festivals at the Garden State Art Center in Holmdel and Echo Lake Park in Mountainside. He even had a couple of walk on parts in movies.

He has recorded a number of albums including "Let the Music Play," "Marty DeRose Sings" and "Pope John Paul II, an American Tour." Now, DeRose is looking for the foreign market to sell his records and albums.

"I'm going to market myself with my own label," he explained during a visit to his office the other afternoon. "I have master tapes which can be made either into CDs or cassettes. It will be called 'Halfway to Paradise.'"

DeRose, whose appearance hasn't changed in more than three decades, is still the handsome and polite singer that he was 35 years ago.

"They say the markets abroad are so different from the markets here," he mused. "Here, you have to come from Nashville or Texas to sing country. Over there, I could sing country music in Germany or Australia, or anywhere in between, and your audiences don't care where you come from — as long as you can entertain them with the music they like.

"The ironic part about it," DeRose smiled, "is that I started as a cowboy singer — way back."

For the past three years, DeRose has been entertaining senior citizens from coast to coast in Florida. "I go to condos, to restaurants, to music halls," he said, "and you can't imagine how much they enjoy the old time favorites. They will sing along with me, or just sit back enjoying their memories of yesteryear."

DeRose also entertains senior citizens "from Pennsylvania, New York, Long Island, Brooklyn, Staten Island and New Jersey. They come from different organizations to a specified area in groups. They are bused, and there is usually a dance. I do Italian and Irish tunes, American standards, scenes from operas, a little stand-up comedy. I'm a one-man act. Among the seniors' favorites is when I dress as a clown, tell my story in English at first, and then sing 'Pagliacci.' That usually brings the house down," DeRose admitted.

"I do senior citizen parties for an organization called AAW, which means Autumn Age Wanderers. I do them in Brooklyn. I also entertain seniors at about 13 to 14 parties a year, for example, at the Manor in West Orange. Even the bus drivers come in to watch the show.

"I must say that about three-quarters of the seniors are women, and they just love the romantic old time songs. They're the ones who really appreciate the kind of music that I love best."

DeRose, who appears with the Dom Perry Orchestra at every performance, recalled that he was on the bill at the Garden State Arts Center's Italian Festival "every year for four years. Between 2,000 and 3,000 people have attended those concerts. I also appeared regularly at St. Ann's Church in Hoboken, and a lot in Pennsylvania. I traveled from Stroudsburg to the Catskills and I appeared at the Granie Hotel there. I even did a cruise ship to Bermuda. I do hospital parties, benefit dinners and for unions, their annual Christmas parties. I appeared in numerous concerts and in cabarets from Atlantic City, Las Vegas, New York, New Jersey; you name it, I've been there.

"And for the past seven years, I entertained at Echo Lake Park here in Mountainside. They keep asking me back." DeRose smiled sheepishly, "I guess they like me."

DeRose, who was born in Newark and educated there, has two daughters, Rosemarie La Chance and Gina

DeRose, both of Maplewood. He said he loves dressing up to entertain. "I love wearing my tuxedo — I just can't understand why some performers dress like characters out of the Dead End Boys. When I hit the stage, my clothing is part of my act. I'm always in a tux, even when I do church weddings. You know, when I sing 'The Lord's Prayer' in church, I love the feeling that I get. I think I enjoy it more than the people who are sitting in the church."

DeRose confided, "Someday, I'll get a little place, perhaps a restaurant, in Florida, singing for seniors. But that'll come later."

In 1986, DeRose did his own show on CTN Network on Friday nights. "It was on cable TV for 13 weeks and it was called 'So Let the Music Play.'" He also appeared on Jerry Lewis' annual telethon on Fox Broadcasting; the National Cerebral Palsy Telethon on WWOR-TV; the Dick Clark Show on ABC-TV; the Joe Franklin Show on WWOR-TV; the Steve Allen Show on NBC-TV; and Everything Goes on ABC-TV.

He has also appeared as an extra in such movies as "Cookie" with Peter Falk and Brenda Vaccaro and "Death Trap" with Lawrence Olivier and Michael Caine.

"Cookie" was shot on Staten Island and a lot in Coney Island. I was in a Christmas party scene with Falk.

"But I still prefer a live audience," he said. "I like to look at the people I'm entertaining. You see, if they get pleasure out of listening to my repertoire of songs, I get more pleasure. I like to watch their faces. It brings back memories of my own family members who watched and listened — with pride and tears."

The young protagonists in Larry Clark's "Kids" wander aimlessly in Greenwich Village in Manhattan. The disturbing film continues a run at state theaters.

"Kids," still running in scattered release in New Jersey, is a deep and disturbing movie released by Miramax and Excalibur Films. It will no doubt leave its viewers horrified.

Larry Clark, a director to keep an eye on, makes the cartoonish violence in Quentin Tarantino's comic underworld seem like silly antics we could easily find on "Mr. Rogers' Neighborhood." While there is only one real "fight" scene in "Kids," the brutal violence lies in the nature in which these adolescents conduct their day to day lives. We first meet Telly, a horrid little 16-year old, talking a young virgin no more than 14 into sleeping with him. With the skilled tongue of an expert ear salesman, Telly convinces the nameless girl he loves her and to trust him. Obviously, when they're done, he's out the door bragging about his latest virgin conquest with his equally vile friend, Casper.

Sex and drugs are about the only thing that matter to Telly and Casper. The unlikeable duo do nothing more than wander the streets of New York's Greenwich Village where, with their friends, they verbally bash a gay couple and beat a rival skateboarder to a bloody pulp.

The emotional core of "Kids" comes when Jennie, an ex-girlfriend of Telly's, takes an HIV test just to make her friend Ruby feel comfortable about taking her own.

It seems as though Ruby has engaged in unprotected sexual activity too many times and is quite nervous. Jennie accompanies her to the clinic as any good friend would do. The ironic moment comes when Ruby finds out she's negative while Jennie, who's only sexual partner was Telly, is positive. Quite a disturbing moment. Jennie, absorbed in denial, is lost.

The young cast is splendid. So good, in fact, that at times you wonder where this realism comes from. Are they acting or are they just displaying a extension of their lives for everyone to see on celluloid?

Well, don't worry. It seems as though Clark has done an amazing job in collecting some of the finest teen actors around that it's actually hard to like the film because there is absolutely nothing redeeming in any of these kids.

So you're probably asking yourself what's the point of "Kids?" Good question. It's certainly not a wake-up call for kids done in the "Scared Straight" vein because, funny enough, kids won't even get into the theater due to its rating.

At first the film was rated NC-17 where no child younger than 17 is allowed in — period. Then, due to the extreme graphic nature of the film, the Motion Picture Association of America decided to make it "unrated," branding it for adults only.

So the only possible reason I could see for viewing "Kids" is for the curious souls that deem themselves so out of touch that they actually believe what they see on "Beverly Hills, 90210" or "Saved by the Bell." Wrong. Very wrong. Clark's depiction will leave every parent horrified.

Leo Fitzpatrick in his portrayal as Telly, the HIV-infected "virgin surgeon," deserves probably the biggest nod of all. His docu-style performance has as much bravura as a young DeNiro. It's that scary to think this young man can capture enough intensity to make the audience hate him so much. At times, I had to remind myself that Fitzpatrick — every parent's worst nightmare — was only acting.

This is the beauty of independent cinema. While we may not agree with what is depicted onscreen, the fact there's an alternative outlet for us to glimpse into the wretched world of these street kids is refreshing. Not its content — but the film itself.

When we're caught in these dog days of summer with the crop of endless studio films winding down, it's comforting to know that Larry Clark wants to wake up a comatose film-watching audience and give them something intelligent to talk about on the way home — like where our kids our heading.

Producer ushers in new Paper Mill season

By Bea Smith
Staff Writer

To look at exceptionally attractive Angelo Del Rossi of East Orange, executive producer of the Paper Mill Playhouse, Millburn, one would think that he spends most of his time onstage.

"It's more like off stage or backstage or off to the sides," he grinned during a luncheon chat last Friday afternoon. "Everywhere but onstage. Actually, at one point, I wanted to be an actor, and I started out as an actor, but I quickly discovered that that wasn't for me. I'd much prefer being a part of things that were happening behind the scenes. That's why I decided to take this position at the Paper Mill Playhouse. That was 32 years ago."

Del Rossi explained that he learned a great deal from the original executive producer, the late Frank Carrington. "Frank was a wonderful person to work for — and with," Del Rossi recalled. "I worked with Frank as associate producer from 1963 to 1975. He was ill for a portion of that time, so that when he died, and I became the executive producer, it was a smooth transition.

"Then came the fire in 1980. It was devastating," he said sadly. "It took two years and 10 months to rebuild, but we succeeded, even though many people thought we could never do it. With the help of a lot of people who were committed, and the board of trustees, we made it happen."

This season, said the executive producer, "is going to be a very exciting one for all of us. Right now, we're in rehearsals with 'Nine,' working from 11 a.m. to midnight this entire weekend. "The play, you know, is based on Federico Fellini's '8-1/2.' It was adapted to the stage and presented on Broadway in 1982 and won the Tony Award for Best Musical. Strangely enough," he smiled, "we're doing two plays, back to back, of two plays, 'Nine' and 'Dreamgirls' — which will run from Oct. 25 to Dec. 10 — that were in competition that year on Broadway. They split the Tonys that year."

Arthur Kopit and Maury Yeston, who had created "Phantom" for the Paper Mill, are the creators of "Nine."

"They have been working with us on this one," said Del Rossi. Even though the play explores the life and libido of an Italian film director and the women encircling his life and imagination, "the concept is not what people will remember from the Broadway production," he said. "In fact, it is totally different. The concept has changed due to the combined efforts of Robert Johanson, our artistic director; Michael Anania, our scenic designer, and Jim Coleman, our musical director. Robert and Michael are truly two of the most creative and inventive people that I think the theater is privileged to have.

Producer discusses Playhouse's new season

Robert gets these really fantastic ideas, and I believe, he and Michael almost have a second sense on how to interpret each other. They did it in 'The Secret Garden.' Anything we do that comes from insight is wrenching. The creative process is very involved and never easy.
"We hadn't done 'Nine,' and it's a wonderful musical and it's not done a lot. We have a large cast, many principals in it, but no chorus. It's a hard show to do," admitted Del Rossi, "but it's been in the back of our minds to do it. We're having a kind of eclectic season and doing not what we would normally do."
For example, Del Rossi described "You Never Know," which will be staged from Jan. 3 to Feb. 4, the 1950s Cole Porter musical. "We're giving it a new look. It's a farce with music."
"And we're going to do Clint Holmes' 'Comfortable Shoes' from Feb. 14 to March 24. It's a musical which Holmes had written, and we have been working with him on it for over a year." The musical, it was reported, is about Holmes' witty and moving journey to stardom.

"And," Del Rossi said excitedly, "we have Leslie Uggams to do Irving Berlin's 'Call Me Madam.' April 3 to May 26. She's a great actress and beautiful! She's a coup for us to get her. And that musical hasn't been done since it was done on Broadway."
And "Evita" which will run from June 5 to July 21, will close the season, he said.
How are the productions selected for the Paper Mill?
"It always comes about with a lot of discussion with the staff, a lot of suggestions, and ultimately it comes down to Robert and me to decide what to do — and it always falls in place."
"I've always said that the Paper Mill is like a microcosm in that you can see a new show or an old show, or a revival, or a seldom produced show or a new concept of the already produced show."

Del Rossi explained that "We always try to prepare for the season a year from now. We wanted to do 'The King and I' and 'The Music Man.' First we were told we could do those musicals. Then we were told that we couldn't because of revival plans."
"Our plan," he said, "is to open in September 1996 with a brand new story that we're beginning to develop right now. We find that in planning ahead is part of the success that we have. We're never put in a position where we have to make quick decisions. It costs more and it makes things more difficult. The more we preplan," said Del Rossi, "the better off we are."
Born in Camden, Del Rossi was educated in Sacred Heart Grammar School and Camden Catholic High School. He also attended Rutgers University and graduated from the Neighborhood Playhouse School in New York City. He served in the Navy for three years, "performed in a small role in the play on Broadway by Anita Loos, 'Cherie,' which starred Kim Stanley. I had a short stint in some off Broadway shows, then went to California and did some TV there and did a film with Rue McClanahan, you know, the sexy lady on 'Golden Girls.' Some time later, she appeared at the Paper Mill in 'Take Me Along' with Tommy Sands.

"And then, I decided I didn't want to do it any longer. I liked all the rehearsing and putting the pieces together. But onstage, which is every actor's dream, wasn't exciting for me. I knew I wanted to be in the theater but I didn't know in what capacity. The fire in 1980 gave me a kind of respite from producing. Subsequently, I became a fund raiser. I have two separate parts to this job, producing and becoming a major fund raiser.
"Carrington had taught me the ropes, and we got along so well. I was See WORK'S Page B7

Toscana Ristorante Italiano

Chicken lovers will be happy with such dishes as pollo giambona — boneless pieces of chicken with potatoes, mushrooms, artichoke hearts, peppers and onions with marsala wine; pollo fiorentina — boneless chicken with spinach and fontina cheese; and pollo marsala — breast of chicken sauteed with marsala wine and mushrooms.

Veal can be ordered such ways as vitello caprese — pounded veal cutlet topped with fresh tomatoes, arugula and onion; rollatini silvano — scallopini stuffed with shrimp and prosciutto sauteed with marsala wine and mushrooms; or vitello della casa — veal scallopini topped with a slice of fresh tomato, slice of salami, artichoke hearts, mozzarella cheese, with white wine and shallots.

And, finally, for the seafood fan, there is filetto di sogliola alla livornese — fillet of sole with capers, olives and fresh tomato sauce; gamberi francese — shrimp sauteed with lemon and wine sauce; and calamari fra'diavolo — calamari with spicy marinara sauce.

The wise patron will take some of the meal home in order to make room for the restaurant's homemade desserts. There are Italian cheesecake, chocolate mousse cake, strawberries, sorbet and a unique confection that can only be described as an orange cloud. For those who are truly too full, there is espresso and cappuccino.

Toscana is open seven days a week — Sunday through Friday for lunch and dinner, and Saturday for breakfast and dinner. There is an extensive wine and cocktail list, and the atmosphere is casual but near

America's diversity celebrated at festivals

The hills will soon be alive once again with the sound of music, singing and dancing.

The Garden State Arts Center continues to salute diverse ethnic backgrounds, while paying homage to the melting pot which is part of Americans' collective heritage.

The festivals have a two-fold purpose: Pride and the opportunity of each ethnic community to present to the people of New Jersey the old country customs and culture. Also, to generate proceeds for the Garden State Arts Center's Cultural Center Fund which presents theatre productions free-of-charge to New Jersey's school children, seniors and other deserving residents.

The festival programs are as varied as the backgrounds that inspired them. Faith, foods, dance, music, sports, crafts, arts and entertainment are underlying aspects of all. Activities and exhibitions take place on the mall and the surrounding areas in the arts center proper. It is a time for each ethnic community to showcase their artistic, cultural and industrial contributions to society. The festivals are indigenous to what America is all about — all nationalities and races living together.

Tickets may be purchased for the professional heritage shows by calling the ticketing office at (908) 442-9200. For groups and organizations there are discounted ticket prices. Tickets are now available at the Arts Center Box Office for all festivals. Box office opens 1 p.m. daily except Sunday. For mail orders there is a $4 service charge per order.

Ted Hierl of Yardville will serve as general chairman of the 22nd Annual German Heritage Festival on Sunday. The festival will feature cultural exhibitions, food, music, traditional German folk dancing and a soccer tournament. Activities start at 9:30 a.m.

The stage show at 3:30 p.m. will star Hansl Kronauer and Edith Prock. More than 10 choirs will perform on stage and Hierl will serve as master of ceremonies.

Admission to the mall activities is $3. Theatre ticket prices range from $12 to $18. To all who purchase theatre tickets in advance, there is free admission to mall activities.

The Festival of the Arts and Heritage of African-Americans will be held on Sept. 16. Carol Washington of Princeton serves as general chairperson of the 8th Annual African-American Festival. The day includes Gospel, Jazz, Rap and Rhythm and Blues featured on the mall from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Arpeggio Jazz Ensemble, Rod Blackstone and Grace Little, Gary Shepherd, Divine Beings, Stanley Roots, Reggae Band, Storytellers and the Double Dutch Divas. In addition, during the afternoon program a Gospel Hour will take place. The Gospel Hour will feature various choirs from throughout New Jersey.

More than 100 vendors will be on hand with arts and crafts featuring many afrocentric quality items. Children's activities and games will take place throughout the day. More than 30 food vendors will participate. Also participating will be 30 food vendors.

The festival admission is $6 in advance, $8 on the day of the event. Cost for children 8 to 12 years is $3.

Oksana Korduba of Rutherford serves as general chairperson of the 21st Annual Ukrainian Heritage Festival on Sept. 23. The day begins at 9 a.m. with a soccer tournament. Traditional arts, crafts and food will be available until 6 p.m. Ukrainian dance groups from the tri-state area will be on hand beginning at noon.

The 3:30 p.m. stage show will feature Stefan Andursiak, Olya, Oleksa, Hromovytzia Dance Ensemble, and Darka & Slavko Ensemble.

Ticket prices range from $6 to $20. The mall activity fee is $4 for all over 10 years of age. To all who purchase theatre tickets in advance, there is free admission to the mall activities.

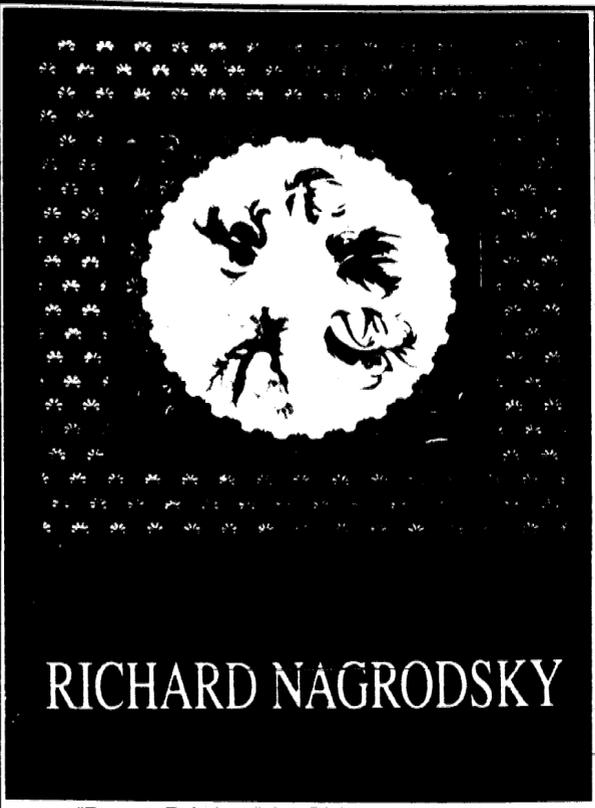

Joseph J. Talafous of Jersey City is general chairman of the 20th Annual Slovak Heritage Festival on Sept. 24. The day will feature a Slovak Trade Show. Gates open at 10 a.m.

The Rev. Bishop Frantisek Tondra, Catholic Bishop of Spis Kapitval, will be main celebrant at the noon liturgy. Assisting Tondra will be clergy from throughout New Jersey.

RICHARD NAGRODSKY

"Recent Paintings" by Richard Nagrodsky.

City artist exhibits work

Elaborate borders add new dimension to New York artist Richard Nagrodsky's dramatic and sculptural floral gouaches in his solo exhibit of "Recent Paintings," Saturday to Oct. 6, at Swain Galleries in Plainfield.

Nagrodsky, whose SoHo terrace garden contains trees, flowers and rose bushes, said he uses "elaborately patterned designs to add richness, even a baroque quality, to my paintings. While the border can be within the painting, it can also be seen both on the mat and inside." Sometimes the borders are different but compatible, sometimes enlarged or reduced versions of the same pattern to achieve what Nagrodsky describes as "a layered effect."

The exhibit will show several gouaches that represent the first time Nagrodsky has painted on chalkboard.

A graduate of the Parsons School of Design in New York with a degree in interior design, Nagrodsky first worked for Margaret Sedwick Associates in Dallas. Returning to New York, he was an illustrator for Fairchild Publications and his work regularly appeared in "Home Furnishings Daily."

Nagrodsky's illustrations were also published in The New York Times, Town and Country, House Beautiful, House and Gardens and more. As a freelance artist, he illustrated for advertising agencies with such clients as Lord & Taylor, "Pottery Barn" and "Scan," the home furnishings chain in Washington, D.C.

Said Nagrodsky, "When photography took the place of most illustration, I moved into fine arts." Principally self-taught, the artist has painted in both oils and gouaches that center on flowers and vegetables expressed with vibrant intensity. His most recent exhibits have included a show of flower paintings at the Lizan-Tops Gallery in East Hampton; "Things Natural" at the Gayle Wilson Gallery in Southampton and at the Works Gallery on Madison Avenue, a multi-media exhibit in which he was the sole painter. His work is included in the collections of the Dallas Petroleum Club, Midlantic Banks and various corporate and private collections in Dallas, Denver, New York City and the state of Washington.

The Nagrodsky exhibit opens with a reception on Saturday from 5-7 p.m. and continues weekdays, 9:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m., Saturday to 4 p.m. at Swain Galleries, 703 Watchung Ave., in the Crescent Historic District of Plainfield. For more details, call (908) 756-1707.

Singers sought for Glee Club

Male singers are invited to the first rehearsal of the Westfield Glee Club on Monday at 8 p.m. at the Presbyterian Church in Westfield. The singers will have the music program selected for the Christmas concerts to be presented on Dec. 9 and 10.

The new director, Thomas Booth, of Maplewood, extends a special invitation to male singers in high school and college to join with the adult singers. George Lachenauer, of Roselle, continues as the Glee Club accompanist.

Some of the program selections include: an opening fanfare with trumpet and trombones — the Martin Shaw "Fanfare for a Christmas Day;" "Deck the Hall" arranged by H. Whitford; a Hanukkah time song — "Pitahkta" by Cohon, arranged by Booth; a spiritual — "Go Tell It On The Mountain," John W. Work; the secular side of the season — "Jingle

All the Way," by Shayne, arranged by Hayward; Christmas around the world — "O Tannenbaum" arranged by Shaw/Parker; and the finale — "Hallelujah Chorus" by Handel.

Following an abbreviated rehearsal on Monday, Booth will have time to individually talk with members and guests in a coffee and donuts fellowship.

Interested male singers are invited to call Dale Juntilla, (908) 232-0673.

Arts Calendar

Monday

♦ The New Jersey Symphony Orchestra has announced the fifth annual NJSO Golf Classic which will take place at the Baltusrol Golf Club in Springfield. This yearly fund-raising event includes a full day of golf, lunch, and a reception and awards ceremony.

The NJSO's fifth annual golf classic will be co-chaired by Anthony R. Davis of Westfield, of the Anthony Davis Insurance Agency, and Robert M. Davies of Jersey City, vice-president, Chase Manhattan Bank. The day's events begin at 10:30 a.m. with coffee, danish and guest registration; there will be a buffet luncheon at 11:30 a.m. and tee-off time in shot gun format at 12:30 p.m. Cocktails and hors d'oeuvres will begin at 6 p.m. with an awards ceremony at 7 p.m. In the event of rain, the golf classic will be on Sept. 18.

Entry for an individual golfer is $500, which includes golf, luncheon, cocktails and prizes. A Patron's Package is available for $3,500 which includes the entry fee for a foursome, hole sponsorship, listing on patron's board at registration, 10 tickets to future NJSO performances, patron's photo and a special patron's gift for each golfer.

Sponsorship opportunities are available for the reception, the golfer's gift, luncheon, hole sponsorship and beverage carts ranging from $500-$5,000. Two fully-equipped luxury Sedans, compliments of Regency Motors, will be awarded for a hole-in-one; prizes will be given for longest drive, longest putt, closest to the pin and other categories.

For more information on participation or sponsorship opportunities in the golf classic, call Dan Zanelia at (201) 624-3713, ext. 213.

Sept. 14

♦ The New Jersey Intergenerational Orchestra, a non-profit, string orchestra comprised of 100 professional and non-professional musicians ages 8 to 84, will have its first rehearsal of the second season at 7 p.m. at Orange High School in Cranford. New members are welcome to the open rehearsal with no formal audition necessary.

Registration is now open for the fall season with three orchestra levels available — beginner through advanced chamber orchestra. Part of the orchestra program welcomes senior citizens to take up a stringed instrument and receive free instrument lessons and rentals.

Rehearsals are held in various school locations in Cranford. The orchestra registration material and information are available by calling (908) 276-3958 or (908) 561-3802.

New director selected

The Choral Art Society of New Jersey and the Westfield Glee Club have announced the selection of Thomas Booth of Maplewood as the new director of both choral groups, replacing Evelyn Bleeker who retired after the May concerts. Booth has actively participated with both choral organizations in the selection of future concert music. Rehearsals will resume on Monday for the Westfield Glee Club and Tuesday for the Choral Art Society.

Booth has had a varied career for more than 30 years as a professional musician and teacher. For 20 years he lived and worked as a conductor, pianist and vocal coach in Manhattan. From his early days with the New York City Opera to a three year stint as music director of the Western Opera Theater in San Francisco, Booth has conducted for many opera companies in the United States including the Caramoor Festival, Eastern Opera Theater of New York, New York Lyric Opera, City Center of Music and Drama, Opera Omaha and Michigan Opera Theater. Equally at home as a symphonic conductor, Booth has made guest appearances with the Baltimore Symphony, San Francisco Symphony, San Antonio Symphony and Fort Wayne Symphony.

Thomas Booth

No stranger to New Jersey, opera-goers may remember him from several appearances as conductor for Opera Classics of New Jersey in Hackensack. In addition, Booth was music director for the Hunterdon Symphony Orchestra in Flemington. Recently returned to the metropolitan area from a seven year hiatus in upstate New York, Booth is currently music director for Pilgrim Congregational Church in Short Hills and vocal music teacher for the South Orange/Maplewood School District.

Work's a stage for Paper Mill's leader

beginning to do his duties when he was ill. So the transition was not so painful after he passed away."

Del Rossi moved from West Milford to East Orange in 1988. "I love East Orange. It's a wonderful place, and it's so convenient to the theater. It's only 15 minutes away."

The executive producer explained last Friday that "this whole week we will be working 10 to 12 hours a day, right through the holiday. And we will be doing the show five or six times before we do it for the audience. It's exhausting work," he sighed, "it's intense. In addition to the actors, we have the musicians, and the stage hands are learning where everything is. It's a beehive of excitement. And the show is very extroverted — and fun."

"I have to observe all the rehearsals beginning with the rehearsals in New York on 19th and Broadway, and if something needs to be changed or needs a decision, I have to be there. I'm working with the director all the time, and with all the people connected with the show."

Del Rossi reminded that "we have 42,000 subscribers, the largest of any theater in the United States. We usually do two benefits a year. We have a tremendous outreach program, Adopt-A-School, and for the hearing impaired, the audio described facilities.

"We do the Food Bank, which was so successful when we did 'Oliver,' we are going to do on a yearly basis. Last year, we collected 1,100 pounds of food and $5,000 in contributions."

Del Rossi has served on numerous boards of trustees for theaters, and his most recent accomplishment was the F.M. Kirby Carriage House restaurant which opened last September.

"I always wanted a restaurant at the theater," he recalled. "The house that was sitting, alongside of the Paper Mill was inhabited by Frank Carrington and his sister. He died in 1975 and she died in 1989, and we then used the house for housing actors who came from out of state. But it wasn't being used very much, and Mr. Kirby was kind enough to offer us the funds to make it a restaurant. Now we have a very successful restaurant for the people who come to the theater."

Del Rossi was honored many times, the latest by the New Jersey Center for Visual Arts, with a 1995 Arts Person of the Year award. "It was really a nice even," he said modestly. "I was very grateful to the people for recognizing me. It was very kind of them to think of me."

The New Jersey Ballet's "Nutcracker" will be celebrating its 25th year, and on New Year's Eve, I will be co-producing with Carolyn Clark, its director. And," he grinned sheepishly, "I may be in it. We both may be, you know, in the first scene, when they have a party, and we will kind of be guests and do a little dance. It may come about," he said.

Yes. Full circle.

Speedy Car Wash outshines the rest

It's located in an industrial area on Lehigh Avenue — not exactly the kind of place you might expect to find a car wash; but somehow the Speedy Car Wash has managed to do quite nicely over the past 20 years.

"The thing that's been interesting is that there's no other commerce on the street," said owner Gene Rooney, "but there are people who go far out of their way to come to us."

According to Rooney, who has operated the business for the past 20 years, the customer receives the best possible service at a reasonable price.

At Speedy Car Wash, an exterior wash goes for about $2 less than the average car wash, a competitive price in a business where customers can be charged $7 simply for an exterior wash, not to mention amenities such as hot wax.

Rooney, though, at his totally "brushless" operation, provides more than just a lower price, while providing personalized service in what can be a very impersonal, high volume business.

In addition, the Speedy Car Wash offers free, self-service mat washing equipment, something many other car washes dispense only for an extra charge. Speedy also offers coin-operated, self-service vacuum cleaners.

Rooney always keeps his equipment up to date, replacing washing equipment as part of an ongoing commitment to giving the best wash for the money.

"There's no equipment in the world that will do an absolutely perfect wash," he explained, adding, however, that a little extra effort can produce a superior service.

At Speedy Car Wash, Rooney's employees take time to wash off excess dirt from every vehicle before it even enters the conveyor — and the workers must greet each customer courteously because it is their job to do so.

When the car wash is not operating, Rooney is still busy keeping all equipment in working order.

"We've really done a lot of maintenance on our equipment," he said. "I think that our assemblage of equipment is superior to most other car washes in the area."

horoscope September 10-16

ARIES — March 21/April 20
The emphasis of the week will be on business. If you find yourself preoccupied with details of work, make sure you take a step back to see what's going on in your private life. Even though loved ones may be accustomed to your aloofness, it doesn't mean they like it.

TAURUS — April 21/May 21
If you're hosting a party this week, it's sure to be a hit. Don't get stressed over the details. Instead, relax and have a good time. Make sure you're pulling your own weight in a business partnership. An uneven balance of responsibility could lead to resentment. Be disciplined when it comes to diet and exercise.

GEMINI — May 22/June 21
A new romance may seem inviting, but you must know what you're getting into before diving in. Best to take one step at a time. Office gossip may make interesting lunchtime conversation, but it could also get you into heaps of trouble. A power struggle is likely in a friendship.

CANCER — June 22/July 22
Although you may pride yourself in keeping your word, it could prove both fruitless and costly this time. Think twice before making complicated promises. A new friend could be the source of inspiration for a creative endeavor. Choose your words carefully when dealing with officials.

LEO — July 23/August 23
Although Leos are not known to be the most practical sign of the Zodiac, this week that skill will be needed — especially when it comes to dollars and cents. If you are looking for a change in career, now's the time to lay the foundation. Planning for a social event will keep you busy.

VIRGO — Aug 24/Sept 22
An unexpected source of income will come at just the right time, giving you the perfect excuse to indulge in a much-desired item. An innocent flirtation could backfire in a big way, especially if you're making eyes at a coworker. Do yourself a favor and resist temptation.

LIBRA — Sept 23/Oct 23
Setting unrealistic goals will only lead to disappointment. Remember, there's only 24 hours in each day, and you do have to leave some time for sleep. A club or association could lead you to a new circle of friends. A shift in priorities will be eminent at the week's end.

SCORPIO — Oct 24/Nov 22
You may have to do some fancy talking to get out of an awkward situation as something you said a few weeks back may come back to haunt you. An Aries in-law may try your patience, but you'll be better off if you keep your cool. Try meditation as a way to relieve tension.

SAGITTARIUS — Nov 23/Dec 21
A more carefree attitude will fill your week. With fewer worries and more free time, you'll be able to do what you've been putting off. A shift of power in the workplace could put you in a position of authority. Make sure you know what you're getting yourself into before committing to more responsibility.

CAPRICORN — Dec 22/Jan 20
News of a breakup will take you by surprise. You'll realize then not everyone's as happy as they may seem. A friend who stood by your side will need your help now. Make sure you're there for him/her. A change of procedure in the workplace will make life easier.

AQUARIUS — Jan 21/Feb 18
News from a friend in a faraway place will lift your spirits. You may decide that it's time to do some traveling. If you're looking for a new place to live, you may want to consider paying more for extra convenience. A love from your past may try to re-ignite the fire. Be cautious.

PISCES — Feb 19/March 20
Don't wear your heart on your sleeve in a romantic relationship or you could get burned. A restless mood could interfere with your productivity at work. Try to stay focused as much as possible. Good news about a family member will put your mind at ease.

YOUR BIRTHDAY THIS WEEK
The next 12 months:
A major accomplishment you achieve this fall will set the tone for the year ahead. You'll be able to face the world with a fresher, more confident approach. A romantic relationship could reach a higher level. Marriage is a big possibility. A new hobby will make your spare time more interesting. You may even find a way to turn your hobby into a profit-making side business.

Performance slated

"Putting the sophisticated music of Cole Porter into a jazz idiom is a natural thing," said Pam Purvis, expanding on the theme for her concert. "His melodies and harmonic structures are interesting and complex — and his lyrics speak volumes."

"Cole Porter and Other Art Songs" continues the popular Diva Series at the Watchung Arts Center, Sept. 30, starting at 8 p.m. Jazz vocalist Purvis is the featured diva, backed by reed player Bob Ackerman and pianist Rio Clemente. Tickets are $10.

Reservations may be made by calling (908) 753-0190, leaving a message on voice mail if necessary. Tickets will be at the door to be picked up and paid for upon arrival.

The Watchung Arts Center is "on the circle" in Watchung, reached from a three-county area via Route 22 — Plainfield overpass, or Interstate 78 — Exit 40. There is ample free parking adjacent to the center's historic building, or at the municipal lots at Best Lake and Watchung Lake.

Food poisoning is no picnic — or barbecue

Ah, summer! The days are long and the weather is warm. The smell of shish kabob, roasted corn and potato salad are in the air. It's the time for backyard barbecues, family picnics and, unfortunately, food poisoning. Union Hospital's Director of Food Services Mary Beth Sheehan wants everyone to know that proper preparation and handling of food can help protect you and your family from food borne illnesses.

The following are tips that Sheehan suggests everyone use to make this summer's feasts safe and enjoyable.

• When going on picnics, be sure to pack the cooler with ice cubes or no-leak, non-toxic gel packs. "Put any meat or poultry either in the bottom of the cooler, or, preferably, in a separate cooler to avoid bacteria containing juices from leaking onto other foods or onto rummaging hands," said Sheehan.

• Put snack items near the top of the cooler to prevent the loss of cold air while pairs of hands search for the snacks. Transporting the cooler in the car, instead of in a hot trunk, will help maintain low temperature, too. Seek out shade to store the cooler, although you may have to move it around as the shade shifts throughout the day.

• "If you will be away from running water, bring moist towelettes, or sealable bags with damp washcloths and soaps, to cleanse everyone's hands before eating," Sheehan said.

If barbecues are your idea of summer cook-out fun, we have tips that are just as important for you. Whether you are barbecuing at a park or in your own backyard, there are essential safety steps that the chef should follow.

• For starters, never defrost meat or poultry at room temperature. Instead, defrost it in the refrigerator. The same goes for marinating. Do this in the refrigerator where bacteria do not pose as great a threat.

• Do not baste cooked meat with the same marinade that was used for raw meat because this will spread any bacteria that was present prior to cooking. Instead, either separate some marinade ahead of time for basting or boil the used marinade for at least 10 minutes before basting.

• If you carry the raw meat to the grill on a platter, do not use that same platter to serve the food. "It is best to put foil or wax paper under the raw meat and then discard this protective layer so that you can use the clean platter to serve with," Sheehan said. "It is also important not to use the same cutting board or silverware for preparation and serving, unless it has been thoroughly cleansed."

• All chefs should wash their hands prior to handling any food. They should subsequently wash their hands after touching charcoal and lighter fluid and, of course, after handling raw meat and poultry.

Now that you have taken the necessary precautions to safeguard your food, proper cooking procedures are the next step. Poultry and pork are not ready to eat if they are still pink inside or if they give off streams of juice when poked with a fork. If your red meat is still red inside, cook it longer.

After the feast is finished, there are still hazards to avoid. As soon as everyone is finished eating, leftovers should be put back into the cooler or refrigerator. As a rule, food should not be left out in the sun for more than two hours. If the day is particularly hot — anywhere above 85 degrees Fahrenheit — do not leave food out for more than an hour. "So if you arrive late to an outdoor buffet, ask how long the chicken and potato salad have been in the sun," Sheehan said. "Remember, contaminated food can look and taste great, and you will not know it was spoiled until afterwards. Follow these simple guidelines if you have reason to suspect food may be bad: When in doubt, throw it out."

Enjoy summer, have fun and be sure to protect yourself from food borne illness. After all, the chef is responsible for more than just how the food tastes.

For more information about food preparation and handling safely, call Sheehan at (908) 851-7273.

Union Hospital, an affiliate of the Saint Barnabas Health Care System, is located at 1000 Galloping Hill Road, Union.

Services expand

Neuropsychological and psychological services for children and adolescents have been expanded at Children's Specialized Hospital.

The hospital's neuropsychological services include neuropsychological evaluations for learning disabilities, Attention Deficit Hyperactivity Disorder, and neuropsychological impairments such as those suffered from traumatic brain injuries, strokes and seizure disorders. Individual and group cognitive rehabilitation is also provided.

Psychology services include behavior modification, psychodiagnostic assessment, child study team evaluations, and individual and group child and family counseling. Other services include group and individual therapy for Attention Deficit Hyperactivity Disorder, social skills and self-esteem.

"The addition of highly experienced pediatric neuropsychologists and pediatric psychologists enables the hospital to provide a broader scope of services to meet the every growing needs of area families and schools," said Dr. Michael Dribbon, director of psychology and neuropsychology. "With our expanded services, including parenting education and sibling support, we are now able to not only treat the individual child but provide comprehensive treatment for the whole family."

For more information regarding the hospital's neuropsychological services, call (908) 233-3720, ext. 8449. For more information regarding other psychological services, call (908) 233-3720, ext. 297.

Consumer info

Some of the most important information never reaches the people for which it is intended because they are unaware of where to find it. Tax and charity dollars go to support many state and county holidays. The information they provide is invaluable.

• Residents who want to report safety problems with vehicles can call the Auto Safety Hotline at (800) 424-9393.

• The state Department Office of Consumer Protection has a number for information on banking and credit rights and lending laws at (609) 292-1102.

• A 24-hour, child-abuse hotline is run by the Department of Human Services at (800) 792-8610.

• The Department of Higher Education provides financial aid information at (800) 792-8670 during business hours.

• Those with consumer problems can call the Department of Consumer Affairs at (201) 504-6200.

YOUR VITAL FORCE

You may not realize, but it is your vital force is expressed through your nervous system, extending from the brain and spine to every gland, tissue, organ, and muscle in your body.

That's why the health of your spine is so essential to the health of your entire body. Any spinal strain or shock, even an awkward move, can sometimes affect the vertebrae and discs, causing irritation to the nervous system. Irritation of the nerves can disturb the body's normal function, causing pain and many other health problems.

Treatment of spinal disorders is essential to good health. Pain-killing drugs won't do the job. They can dull the pain or hide the symptoms for awhile. Pain-Killers are not curative in themselves. Given a chance, the natural healing power of the body is often sufficient to return you to good health.

If you are bothered by back pain, headaches, or other symptoms related to disorders of the spine, seek the help you need from a specialist trained to treat these disorders.

Classes set to begin

The Deutsche Sprachschule, a 61-year-old nonprofit German language school in Union, opens Saturday at 8:30 a.m. for registration and classes.

The school, which operates Saturday mornings from September to May, offers classes for children from kindergarten to the eighth grade as well as adults, said Julie Schlotterbeck, school president. Students hail from Essex, Hudson, Passaic and Union counties.

Schlotterbeck said the school, which holds classes at Franklin School on Julian Terrace, Union, also offers more than 100 students the chance to participate in German cultural activities. Traditionally, said Schlotterbeck, most students attend the Garden State Art Center's German Heritage Festival and march in September's Steuben Day Parade in New York City.

Adult classes, which begin later in September, are held Saturdays in Union and weekday evenings at Zion Lutheran Church, Clark.

"Our school was founded by German-Americans who wanted to keep their language and culture alive," said Schlotterbeck. "But it has been sustained for all these years by parents, many of whom are not of German descent, who are concerned about the decline of foreign language instruction in the public schools."

Schlotterbeck said students attending the Deutsche Sprachschule are well-prepared to enter high school German classes. The school also offers advanced placement tests in German given by the College Board.

All teachers at the school are certified instructors, added the school's president. Tuition and fees for the entire year are approximately $250 per pupil, with discounts for families enrolling more than one child.

For further information, write P.O. Box 2164, Union 07083; or call Siegel at (908) 469-2318.

Volunteers sought

The Union County unit of the American Cancer Society is seeking volunteers for its Road to Recovery Program.

Road to Recovery is a free patient service program whereby volunteer drivers escort individuals to and from cancer treatments. It is a flexible volunteer opportunity for anyone who has a car and some spare time to help someone in need.

Contact Carolyn Fabrizio, service director, at (908) 354-7373 for additional information on joining the life-saving crew of volunteer drivers.

Monthly payments are for 30-year conventional fixed rate mortgages as detailed below. Please ask about Lower Downpayments - Lower Monthly Payments - Other Options.
For purchase prices up to $250,000, monthly mortgage payments (principal+interest) stated in our ads are to qualified buyers, based upon a 20% downpayment and a conventional 30-year fixed rate loan at 7.125% with 3 points, A.P.R. 7.431%. As an example, a $100,000 loan would mean 380 monthly payments of $673.72. For purchase prices from $253,938 to $625,000, the monthly payments are to qualified buyers based upon a 20% downpayment and calculated at 7.375% with 3 points on a "Jumbo" 30-year fixed rate mortgage with an A.P.R. of 7.685%. An example of a $500,000 loan would mean 360 monthly payments of $3,453.38. Figures herein are approximate and do not include property taxes, hazard insurance, or homeowner's association dues for a condominium purchase. Interest rates quoted are as of July 12, 1995, and subject to change. Not responsible for typographical errors, while information is believed accurate, we request that the payment be validated with a mortgage provider prior to purchase.

Regular checking of front-wheel drive parts may prevent damage

One of the major reasons why most of today's new cars feature front-wheel drive (FWD) is because cars are smaller and lighter.

While smaller, lighter FWD vehicles save gasoline, the cost of repairing FWD vehicles is often much higher than for older vehicles with rear-wheel-drive.

The reason is that FWD parts are more complex and costly and are packed into smaller-sized vehicles. It takes more labor to remove and replace a part. These factors create tremendous sticker shock for the average car owner when repairs are needed.

According to the service experts at Moog Automotive, Inc. in St. Louis, Missouri, one of the nation's largest makers of FWD suspension replacement parts, periodic inspection of parts underneath the front of your car could prevent unnecessary damage and hundreds of dollars in repair bills.

A good example of preventive maintenance involves a part that delivers power from the transmission to the front wheels. It's called a constant velocity (CV) joint. It allows power to be transmitted to the front wheels smoothly as the wheels are steered into a turn or move up and down to follow the road surface.

Inside the CV joint are bearings and component parts, which are built to precise tolerances and lubricated with a special grease. These parts are protected by a plastic or rubber cover that looks like the plastic in an accordion. The cover is called a CV boot.

To locate the CV joint and boot, look under the front of your car. Between the engine and each wheel is a shaft with a bellows-like boot on each end. Inside is the CV joint.

The CV boot is critical in making sure that contaminants such as water, dirt, grit and salt don't get into the bearings. If that happens, the joint could be damaged in just a few hours of driving. The boot itself is inexpensive, but replacing a CV joint can cost hundreds of dollars.

The bottom line on preventing premature wear or damage to expensive CV joints is to make sure that the boot isn't torn or leaking. If you notice a tear or leak, take care of it immediately. It costs far less than replacing all or part of a CV joint, so have the boot inspected every time your car is taken in for service.

If the CV joint becomes worn or damaged, it has to be replaced. According to service experts at Moog four sure signs of problems are:

—"Click"—A clicking noise while cornering usually means a worn or damaged joint.

—"Clunk"—A clunking noise or feeling when accelerating also means a worn or damaged joint.

—"Shudder"—A vibration or shudder while accelerating also indicates possible joint damage.

—"Spray"—Grease spray around the boot and inner fender may mean a torn boot and possible joint damage.

If the joint itself has gone bad, your service technician may recommend replacement of just the joint, or in some cases, replacement of the entire driveshaft. A money-saving option may be a remanufactured CV driveshaft from a reputable manufacturer that your service technician knows and trusts.

A remanufactured driveshaft can save your repair costs and may carry a better warranty than a brand new part. Most remanufactured shafts carry a limited lifetime warranty and are rebuilt to exact specifications that make them comparable to brand new ones.

Besides CV joints, most FWD cars have a special type of steering system called rack and pinion. Racks take less space and are lightweight. Rack and pinion units are commonly made of aluminum, and power models are susceptible to wear and leaking—causing power steering problems. If this happens, the rack and pinion unit may need to be replaced.

New rack and pinion replacement units are very expensive, but a number of companies such as Moog Automotive offer a limited lifetime warranty on remanufactured units for as long as you own your vehicle. Remanufactured units are tested and rebuilt to exact specifications.

These remanufactured racks also use a stainless-steel sleeve to repair the worn aluminum surface surrounding the power steering control valve. This prevents recurrence of the most common cause of failure—leaking.

If you have a rack replaced, always make sure your technician inspects for worn tie rod ends. This is a part linking the steering gear and the front wheels. If it is worn, it can cause premature tire wear, handling and alignment problems.

Today's FWD vehicles offer many advantages such as greater gas mileage and better road handling, but repair costs are high. Frequent inspections and preventive maintenance of FWD parts can go a long way in avoiding high repair bills down the road.

GM features Vortec engines

Want to have your cake and eat it, too? GM truck buyers will get just that, thanks to significant upgrades to the 1996 family of Vortec engines.

Customers told GM they wanted more from their trucks — more power, more car-like feel, more miles without service and better fuel economy. That provided Powertrain engineers with a pretty sizable list of things to work on for 1996. But where to begin? Instead of wasting time discussing what they could and couldn't do, engineers decided, "Let's do it all!"

Volker Harhaus, GM Powertrain Group's chief engineer for truck engine controls, set a clear goal for the 1996 model year. "We agree to concentrate our improvement in four areas — performance, pleasability, enhanced maintenance and emissions compliance. That's what our customers told us they wanted. The challenge was to deliver in all areas — not in one or two, at the expense of others.

GM's 5.0L, 5.7L and 7.4L engines each boast higher horsepower and torque numbers for 1996, while at the same providing a quieter, smoother ride; complying with new stricter emissions requirements; and going longer and farther without servicing needs — and all on less fuel.

The secret to much of their success was the use of sequential central port injection on GM's 5.0L/5.7L engines and sequential port injection on the 7.4L. This helped engineers make dramatic leaps in the areas of power and fuel economy. Other big gains came as the result of changes to the air intake and exhaust systems,

Many cooling systems require the care of a NARSA specialist

What's the best advice for a consumer with an automobile cooling system problem? See a specialist.

Since this suggestion comes from the National Automotive Radiator Service Association, an organization representing 1,400 specialists through the United States, Canada, and 22 other countries, the perspective is admittedly biased.

However, the point is no less valid. "The use of new, lightweight materials in auto construction, proliferation of automotive electronics, and the interrelation of underhood systems combine to offer a formidable challenge when it comes time for automotive service and repair," says Mike Hribar, NARSA president.

"That is why our Association's emphasis is on getting information and training to the industry's technicians." A cooling system operating at optimum efficiency is crucial with the smaller, higher-revving, hotter-running engines in today's cars.

"Motorists could reduce repair costs by taking some relatively simple and inexpensive preventative measures, like maintaining the proper fill of fresh coolant and replacing worn hoses and belts," notes Simon Oulouhojian, chairman of NARSA's Technical Committee. "Unfortunately, the cooling system is frequently allowed to deteriorate until it fails, often leaving the motorist stuck in the road."

"When the system does fail, people often begin shopping for a new radiator, thinking that this will correct the problem, and that can be a mistake," according to Bob Duquet, NARSA national chairman. "Proper diagnosis by a trained technician may reveal a malfunctioning water pump or thermostat, a problem with the emission control system, a pinhole leak, belt slippage or a variety of other conditions that can produce overheating. Many such problems can be corrected without buying a new radiator."

Even when radiator failure is the problem, a cooling system specialist can offer the consumer some options, Duquet points out.

"On many newer vehicles, manufacturers have replaced the traditional copper/brass radiator with units constructed of aluminum and plastic. Some consumers have the mistaken impression that there are throw-away units, but a properly equipped specialty shop can offer repairs at a substantial savings to the consumer over the cost of a new replacement. Even when the radiator is too extensively damaged to make repair feasible, the specialty shop can offer the option of a recore-reusing the existing tanks with a new core—which can save the consumer some money."

In times past, radiator repairs could often be handled with a spool of solder and a soldering iron, but the cooling system service shop of today must be equipped with special fixtures to facilitate aluminum/plastic repairs, welding gear that can be used with light gauge metals, and a wide range of equipment and supplies to facilitate repairs on the various metal alloys and plastic compounds found in today's automobiles.
