

County seat

By Chris Gatto
Regional Editor

It's been more than two weeks since football great O.J. Simpson walked out of Los Angeles County District Court a free man. While some may have become bored of the topic, many others are just as fixated, if not more so, on the O.J. frenzy as they were in June 1994.

Many people are asking what can possibly be left to address on the Simpson matter that has not already been addressed. While there are probably more possible offshoots than either you or I could ever imagine, there was one item which I have heard and read little about.

It is a matter I find compelling, and many other people — including all of the so-called experts who have jumped all over themselves to give us their view on the Oct. 3 verdict — have been silent on.

O.J. and defense attorney Johnnie Cochran are using the services of the Nation of Islam. That's right. Louis Farrakhan's group is providing bodyguards to protect O.J. and company from anyone who would do either of them harm.

When I heard they had accepted Farrakhan's offer, I wondered if O.J. and Cochran knew what they were doing. In so many words, I thought, "If that isn't the pot calling the kettle black..." The use of the term black is in no way meant as a racial slur or anything close; instead, I mean this exactly as the phrase is intended, and that is to suggest there's a little hypocrisy going on.

Farrakhan's group, as many of you familiar with the situation that took place a few years back at Kean College may recall, is not exactly paving the way for good race relations between African-Americans and those of European descent. In fact, after listening to Farrakhan, it would be logical for anyone hearing him for the first time to reach the conclusion that he and Randy Weaver, the white separatist whose son and wife were killed during a shootout with federal agents, have some things in common — their belief that blacks and whites cannot live in harmony together. Do O.J. and Cochran endorse this view?

Many people undoubtedly have not forgotten Farrakhan's March 1994 visit to Kean for a talk he billed to ease tensions on campus. It, however, brought hate groups of all types to the campus, as well as activists hell-bent on condemning the controversial Nation of Islam leader.

Farrakhan agreed to come to the campus from an invitation by black students in an effort to calm spirits following a speech by Nation of Islam spokesman Khalid Muhammed. In the fall of 1993, Muhammed delivered a hate-filled speech on Kean's campus, attacking Jews, whites, Catholics, gays and just about everyone else who walks on two feet.

As the result of public outrage about the spokesman's words, Farrakhan suspended the speaker. With little public fanfare, however, Muhammed reportedly was recen-

Community Access bash to honor DiFrancesco

By Bea Smith
Staff Writer

Community Access Unlimited, based in Elizabeth, will hold its annual dinner Nov. 1 at L'Affaire, Mountaintop. The organization serves developmentally disabled individuals of all ages and has planned an event for about 500 people.

State Senate President Donald DiFrancesco, R-Union, will be honored as Humanitarian of the Year, and among the guests will be Jack Davis, president and chief executive officer of Union Center National Bank. He is a chairman and a member. Parents of the young people in the various programs will attend and the young people themselves.

"The members of the Transitional Opportunities Program called TOP will be there," said Deborah Krauskopf, coordinator of community education and public relations, during a recent luncheon in Union Township. She brought along a member of TOP, Dhanisha Jarecha, 19, who resides in Elizabeth and attends Union County College where she is studying criminal justice.

"Dhanisha," said Krauskopf, "also will be there. Her young years have been unhappy, but now, with this program, she is adjusting beautifully."

"I've been with the TOP program since last year," she said. "I had a little bit of a hard time at the beginning, but a lot of people helped me. I got a lot out of this program," said Jarecha, "and I'm organizing my life in a better way. I graduated from Elizabeth High School and I'm not only going to college, but I will be working as a radio dispatcher for a security agency."

There are about 75 people in TOP, explained Krauskopf, "with four different sites. There are four levels of service, and there's always someone there to help them."

"Each site has a capacity of eight members. The TOP Intake Department screens all referrals for the program. In addition, the Intake and Community Services Department provides services to members in the community. On Level I, particular emphasis is placed on establishing the member in an appropriate educational vocational or job placement. Members on Level 2 are in a stable, full-time program and does not need 24-hour supervision. Members will move to Level 3 after about a year and will receive intensive services in the community to assist their continued independence. Members on Level 4 are interviewed every three months and receive a minimum of monthly contact, financial planning, counseling, recreation and a weekly community support group. There are After-Care Services and workshops. These are for adults with disabilities in developmental and emotional problems. A lot of them come out of the institutions, and we have employment opportunities for them."

There also are independent living skills workshops offered to residential facilities throughout New Jersey and are "tailor made to suit the needs of the individual facility."

The organization, which had been called Association for Advancement of the Mentally Handicapped and now Community Access Unlimited, holds fund-raising events, such as golf tournaments and other sports events. It also has an awards night, which "is our way to get members of our community more integrated into the community. We also have a talent show," said Krauskopf.

Krauskopf, who has been coordinating public relations for three years, explained that when parents have a disabled child, they receive aid from the state. And when the children reach 40 or 50 years old, the parents don't know who's going to take care of their child, we have a special program. The parents call us for counseling, and we come to their home to teach the disabled how to live in their community. If it all works out, they move into one of our housing sites and continue to receive services and live independently.

"There's no reason," she added, "why anybody with a disability shouldn't live in the community without the proper services."

Jarecha, who has been looking forward to the annual dinner, "will help to greet guests at the door," said Krauskopf, "just like an ambassador. And she will answer questions."

Jarecha said that "many members are planning to come. They're all very excited about it."

"It's like having all the holidays rolled up into one gala," said Krauskopf. "Some have been taking dance lessons for a year, so that they can be ready for the gala. I'm an advocacy trainer. We have a group of advocates, very active members, promoting the cause for the better. The name of our advocacy is Helping Hand, and the president is Sid Katz of Elizabeth, who also is president of all the advocates in New Jersey. I try to be a role model for them, teach them how to be assertive, about their rights and responsibilities and how to get the most out of their community."

"They have a transitional opportunity program, right out of the DYFS program — the Division of Youth and Family Services," said Katz.

"All the people in our programs," she said, who have had no one to speak out for them, have now without programs. The state should realize that this is a portion of society that really needs these services. The results of the program show they can be saved and be a contributing citizen."

Register mapping out new strategy

A new technologically advanced system in the county register's office is expected to improve the procedure and reduce staff costs for copying maps for homeowners, title searchers, architects, environmentalists and others conducting property surveys.

Union County Register of Deeds Joanne Rajoppi announced the inauguration of the new, self-service map system, which will be activated within the next month. The system includes more than 5,000 original maps, some dating from 1853.

Several months ago the Register's Office initiated a procedure to restore and microfilm the maps, reduce them to scale and transfer them to index cards. The index cards, catalogues in sequential number, allow clients to select a specific map and make a larger, to scale reproduction on a reader-printer.

"This is a customer friendly system based on the same method lending libraries use," Rajoppi said. "The self-service process will allow customers to determine what they need, make the necessary copies and return the card to the register's map desk when they are finished," she said. "Staff will refile the cards at the end of the day to maintain integrity in the catalog system."

Rajoppi said her office is one of the pioneer counties in the state for such advanced technology. "We are excited by the increased customer-accessibility the map system will provide," she said. "It also is cost-efficient allowing us to deploy staff to other work areas." She added that staff will be available to those customers who need assistance in using the system.

The Office of Register is the record keeper for all recorded municipal and subdivision maps within the 21 municipalities of Union County. The register also records, preserves and files all property transactions within the county including deeds and mortgages.

Union County Register of Deeds Joanne Rajoppi holds an original map. The small microfilmed index card she holds contains all the information on the large map and will produce a map copy in several different sizes for customers.

Rajoppi added that the new system also highlights an important archival consideration. "Presently," she said, "original maps are filed in specially designed drawers which necessitate rolling the maps. Over time this process damages the map along with the stress it receives through frequency of use. The new system allows us to keep the original maps stored in flat, archival-standard drawers for better preservation. Daily map use will be contained completely in the aperture index card system."

"Maps," Rajoppi said, "are regularly used in surveys, title searches, legal proceedings, architectural drawings and for environmental purposes."

Froehlich gains backing of Union County police

The Union County Board of Police Benevolent Association Delegates has endorsed Ralph Froehlich in his bid for re-election to the Office of Union County sheriff.

Detective Wayne Smeaton, who is the Union County Board of PBA delegates chairman and state delegate from Hillside Police PBA Local 70, notified Froehlich of the endorsement. The endorsement vote was taken during the organization's August meeting.

Smeaton stated that he personally endorsed Froehlich because of his continuing efforts to assist other Law Enforcement Agencies. "Since becoming sheriff, Ralph Froehlich has developed new innovations in law enforcement that have helped police departments throughout Union County. He is responsible for the creation of the Sheriff's Search & Rescue Unit that has proved an invaluable asset in searching for fugitives, drugs and missing persons. He is a career law enforcement officer who does not sit back on his reputation but seeks new ways to improve services."

Detective Frank King, state delegate from Elizabeth PBA Local 4 and parliamentarian for the New Jersey State PBA, also voted to endorse Froehlich. Frank stated that "Ralph Froehlich comes from the Elizabeth Police Department. He has always made himself available to us and has never denied us any help anytime we asked for any type of assistance. He was an instrumental force in the development of the Mobile Domestic Violence Unit, a joint venture between the Elizabeth police and the sheriff's office that assist domestic violence victims in the City of Elizabeth."

Detective Joseph Bonafide, state delegate from Union County Sheriff's PBA Local 108, stated that his local endorsed Froehlich for a number of reasons. "Ralph Froehlich has taken a progressive approach to the office of sheriff. He has been open to new ideas and is constantly searching for new ways to serve the community. Ralph Froehlich has always been loyal to his staff, recognizing them for their achievements and correcting shortcomings through constructive readjustments. Our members are happy with the job that Ralph Froehlich has done as sheriff and are proud to continue working for him."

Froehlich expressed his appreciation to the Union County Board of PBA Delegates for their vote of confidence in his administration.

"Any candidate for political office appreciates a public endorsement. This endorsement is very special to me because it comes from career law enforcement professionals who have evaluated my performance and feel that I am deserving of their support and re-election to office. I thank them for their confidence and assure them that I will continue to strive to improve the office of the sheriff."

'Chippy' the Mouse to boost recycling

Union County K-3 students are introduced to "Chippy the Mouse" in the Union County Utilities Authority's "A Kid Guide for Environmental Shopping" booklet.

The UCUA has developed this booklet to teach children early on about the amount of waste that is discarded, to support recycling efforts and save money and the environment at the same time.

The UCUA booklet will be distributed to all Union County principals and K-3 teachers to encourage them to teach a recycling unit on environmental shopping.

For more information call the UCUA at (908) 852-6470.

tly reinstated as spokesman for the Nation.

Those who thought the tapes in which Los Angeles Police Detective Mark Fuhrmann used the "N" word 40 times and acknowledged manufacturing evidence against blacks should listen to the tapes of Muhammed's visit to Jean. Muhammed's words are just as startling as those used by the retired LAPD officer.

Despite all of this, O.J. has affiliated himself with Farrakhan. The ironic thing is that O.J. and Farrakhan live in luxurious homes — built with more money than most of us will ever see — and yet claim to relate to the poor, downtrodden African-Americans of this nation. What a joke.

There's no way O.J. or Cochran could say they were unaware of the anti-white sentiment expressed by Farrakhan because his statements — including those of his spokesman — have been widely publicized. This is part of the reason so many people have elected to take the laissez faire approach concerning the Million Man March on Washington. Although Farrakhan was only one of those involved in organizing the march on the nation's capital, many chose to stay away out of fear their involvement would be perceived in the wrong light.

O.J. at first was expected to participate in the march, which for those unfamiliar with its purpose was to encourage black men to come out and say "I am a man," along with Cochran. The two balked at the last minute. This is a good move on their part, but sadly their decision probably has more to do with concern over O.J.'s ever-decaying public image. (They both, however, still owe an explanation as to why they failed to refuse Nation body-guards.) It's not only a good move because they are at least partially attempting to disassociate themselves with Farrakhan; but also because their appearance would take away from the march's message.

What kind of message would their involvement have sent to today's youth? First, there is O.J., who at least beat, if not murdered, his ex-wife, and then there is Cochran, who also is accused of striking his wife ... can you imagine these two endorsing family values? I think they'd be better off with Farrakhan. Hey, wait a minute! maybe it's Farrakhan who should disassociate himself from O.J. and Cochran. At least the Nation's leader has no problem letting us know how he feels. And we can make our own judgment based upon those truths. Too bad the same cannot be said about O.J.

Freeholder hopefuls backed by assemblymen

Assemblymen Richard Bagger and Alan Augustine, both R-Union, have endorsed Union County Republican freeholder candidates Jim Fulcomer, Joe Safaryn and Nick Guiditta.

"I know that Jim Fulcomer, Joe Safaryn and Nick Guiditta will work hard for the residents of Union County and I am confident that they will keep their pledge to keep the cost of county government down," said Bagger, a Republican.

Fulcomer is a former Union County freeholder who is seeking to return to that position. Fulcomer currently serves as a city councilman in Rahway.

Joe Safaryn is a business executive who currently serves as mayor of Roselle, where he is the first Republican to serve as mayor in 20 years.

A life-long resident of Union County, Guiditta resides in Cranford. Guiditta is a first-time office-seeker, who has indicated he is interested in streamlining Union County's budget, in order to put more money back in the taxpayers' pockets.

Cast members of "Nunsense" rehearse in preparation for the Oct. 27 opening. The musical comedy will be presented at the Union County Arts Center in Union for a two-weekend, five-performance stay, wrapping up Nov. 4. Tickets are $16, $19 and $23 and are available at the Arts Center box office, located at 1601 Irving St. in Rahway, or by phoning (908) 499-8226.

Day of visual and folk artistry continues 'humanities month'

During Free Arts and Humanities Weekend, "A Celebration of Traditions," a one-day folk arts festival, will take place from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Saturday at Union County College in Cranford.

This event, commemorating the cultures found in the diverse ethnic communities in New Jersey, is a continuation of Arts and Humanities Month in Union County.

The program, which is co-sponsored by the Union County Office of Cultural and Heritage Affairs and Union County College, showcases more than 200 visual and performing artists, highlighting their talents and community traditions.

"The festival is a wonderful opportunity for the many cultural groups in Union County to share the significance and value of their heritage with the community," said Freeholder Linda-Lee Kelly, who also is liaison to the Cultural and Heritage Affairs

Programs Advisory Board. "The Board of Freeholders has proclaimed this Free Arts and Humanities Weekend as "Celebrating Traditions" Weekend in Union County."

Open to the public and free of charge, the festival overflows with musical and dance performances, art and craft demonstrations, workshops, storytelling and more.

Visitors will be able to witness musical and dance performances by participants from Ireland, Haiti, Ecuador, the Philippines, India, China, West Africa, Bulgaria, Colombia, Puerto Rico, Portugal, Greece, eastern Europe and America.

Folk artists from Poland and the Ukraine will demonstrate egg decorating, dolls from Africa and Japan; paper crafts from Poland, Korea and Germany; quilts from Africa and China; and weaving from Korea and the Ukraine will be on display.

Works by the artists will be available for purchase.

Storytelling and puppetry presentations will be provided for visiting children, as well as dance and music workshops.

Another feature of the festival is a special art exhibit, in the college's Tomasulo Gallery, curated by Hortense Green of Westfield.

The exhibit will remain on display through Dec. 8. Many of the works selected for exhibition were displayed at the Newark Museum as part of the "Celebrating Diversity in Crafts" show.

The Folk Arts Festival is supported by a grant from the New Jersey State Council on the Arts and Department of State.

For further information on the Union County Folk Arts Festival, contact the Union County Office of Cultural and Heritage Affairs, 24-52 Rahway Ave., in Elizabeth or call 558-2550.

'Nunsense' to open at Arts Center

Musical-comedy to begin five-performance run Oct. 27

On Oct. 27, "Nunsense" arrives at the stage of the Union County Arts Center in Union for a two-weekend, five-performance stay, wrapping up Nov. 4.

Except for a 3 p.m. matinee on Oct. 29, the only Sunday performance, the curtain for all performances is 8 p.m.

"Nunsense," the musical comedy that has delighted audiences across the country for nearly a decade, actually began as a line of humorous greeting cards. The show inspired by the immense popularity of the greeting cards opened to rave notices off-Broadway in New York in December 1985, and has since enjoyed countless presentations in venues large and small.

"Nunsense" is set in a fictitious Roman Catholic nunnery in Hoboken, where the five survivors of a deadly botulism outbreak decide to stage a benefit talent show to help offset burial expenses for the deceased sisters. Included among the humorous skits is a hilarious quiz in which the audience is called upon to participate.

Tickets for the Union County Arts Center production are $16, $19 and $23 and are available at the Arts Center box office, located at 1601 Irving St. in Rahway, or by phoning (908) 499-8226.

The Union County Arts Center is a restored vintage 1920s vaudeville-movie palace with 1,300 seats in an elegant auditorium, upgraded to host professional stage presentations. The facility is situated at the junction of Central Avenue at Irving and Main streets in the heart of Rahway's historic preservation district.

Linden man pens children's story

By Bea Smith
Staff Writer

Five years ago, Michael Hertz of Linden wrote a book titled "Does Santa Claus Get a New Reindeer?" He believed in the book so much that when publishers turned him down or said, "Get an agent," Hertz decided to have it published by Vantage Press of New York City.

"There have been a lot of children's stories about Christmas on television," he said during a recent visit to this newspaper's office. "But I don't know if they have all the qualities necessary to touch a child. I wanted to give children something that's immortal, something that would last. So, I said, 'I'm going to do it myself. But I don't want to waste my time getting a literary agent.'"

Hertz, who is a custodian in the Linden school system, said that "it took about five weeks to write the book. I used to go around with a notebook and jot things down. Then I would write, and rewrite, and finally, I had my book."

Hertz has written other books, "but this is my first published book. Actually," he said, "I wrote about a childhood Christmas of mine. You see, when I was a child in the foothills of Pennsylvania, we had a winter wonderland. It was like a utopia for us in the community provided to us by a coal-mining tycoon. He supplied everything: an extravagant Christmas party, a fresh turkey dinner and a toy for each child.

"I wrote an article about that party, and that really encouraged me to write Christmas stories. I will always treasure the memories of the party, the singing, the eating — and the happiness of it all."

The author explained that "from out of the anthologies of my Christmas stories, I figured that the one that had a chance to attract the attention of children was this one, and that it might blossom into success and perhaps become an immortal story, just like "Rudolph, the Red-Nosed Reindeer." Maybe the young and old alike will find it an enchanting phenomenon.

"I wanted something unique, something out of the ordinary," he said. "Well, it came to my imagination — why not give Santa Claus a brand new reindeer. It sounded real good in my mind. But how was it going to develop after the conception of the idea. That was the hard part. After pondering and pondering — for the new reindeer had to be extraordinary — I gave him a special calling."

Hertz smiled. "Now it became relatively easy, because I used my own calling to the priesthood and incarnated it into the new reindeer. It's like divine providence; send the reindeer on a special mission. The reindeer also needed special qualities and attributes — young and spotted like a fawn — to look like a typical reindeer, to have an inborn and keen sense of direction, to have his antlers light up whenever necessary, and a will to follow his calling, regardless of the outcome."

Story of new reindeer should make gift list

By Bea Smith
Staff Writer

There's a new, delightful little book for children about a young deer who becomes destined to lead Rudolph and Santa's reindeer to glory in "Does Santa Claus Get a New Reindeer?" by Michael Hertz of Linden.

Hertz had the book — or because of its 25 pages, booklet — published by Vantage Press, Inc. in New York City. And youngsters, who believe in the miracle that is Santa Claus and in the adventures of his reindeer, will have a fun time reading the words and finding special pleasure in the drawings accompanying the story.

With the assistance of Hertz, a new reindeer has emerged. The book describes his growing years in which he aspires to the North Pole, much to his parents' chagrin, and his indifference to every day things. His parents cannot name him properly, so they call him Everything.

One day, Everything takes off to the North Pole to see Santa, and to attempt to join Santa's elite reindeer. His adventures throughout the book are wonderful and funny, and ultimately, even Santa's reindeer accept him as a companion. His goal, however, is to lead Santa's team with antlers that light up during an upcoming Christmas Eve.

And how Everything manages this should prove that there is more than one miracle on Christmas Eve.

The Hertz book should be in children's hands before Christmas — no matter what age. Moreover, it could make a really nice package for a child on Christmas Day.

New artists' works to be exhibited

The YM-YWHA of Union, located on Green Lane, is noted for creating an annual Russian Concert Series which promotes new American talent. Less publicized, however, is the addition of a "New American Artisan Exhibit" that precedes and follows each concert.

"This is a wonderful opportunity for recent new American craft people to show their wares to a large and varied audience," said Myrna Friedman, coordinator of the program. The Y seeks moderately priced items such as pottery, quilts, dolls, crafts, jewelry, etc.

New American Concert dates slated for the 1995-96 year are Saturday evenings, Nov. 18, Jan. 20, and March 16 at 8 p.m. For further information contact Friedman at (908) 289-8112.

Union band to begin concert season

The Union Municipal Band will present the first program of its 1995-96 indoor concert season on Monday at 7:45 p.m. in Union's Burnet Middle School auditorium.

The band, under the baton of John Bunnell, director, and Casey Bork, assistant director, will open the season with a program titled "Festival of French Melodies."

Music from Broadway on the program will include selections from both "Les Miserables" and "Gigi," including "The Night they Invented Champagne," "I'm Glad I'm not Young Anymore," and "Thank Heaven for Little Girls."

Other features will include the French National Defile March, among other marches, and selections from "Carmen" and ballet music from "Faust."

Burnet Middle School is located on Caldwell Avenue in Union. Admission is free.

The show is sponsored by the Township of Union Recreation Department.

Art exhibit

Courtesy of Westfield Art Association

Members of the Westfield Art Association display several of the works the group will include in its 71st annual exhibition of oil, pastel and sculpture. The show will run Nov. 4-17 in the Westfield Municipal Building's community room. The opening reception is scheduled for Nov. 4 at 2 p.m.

Union County Arts Center to begin season Saturday

Live orchestral concerts, stage musicals, professional touring children's and family stage shows and wide-screen film classics dominate the bookings for the Union County Arts Center's 10th season Saturday.

In addition, popular country music artist John Berry will perform; the arts center's famous "mighty Wurlitzer" pipe organ will be featured in at least three concerts; there will be two dance events, including the ballet "Romeo and Juliet"; and a local talent show early next year.

The new season opens with an evening concert by the popular Westfield Symphony, which will return for an encore performance next April. On March 2, the New Jersey Symphony will perform a gala benefit concert, and in the interim there will be performances by the New Jersey Pops, the Orchestra of St. Peter by the Sea, and the Count Basie Orchestra.

The New Jersey Pops engagement will feature former "Miss New Jersey" Heather Hertling as vocal soloist.

The stage musicals "Nunsense" and "Phantom," and the Gilbert and Sullivan opera "Pirates of Penzance" will be presented in multiple performances, with "Nunsense" starting later this month.

"Phantom" will be performed eight times in February. "Pirates" is scheduled for five performances in mid-April.

Children's and family theater presentations by the award-winning American Family Theatre include "Sleeping Beauty" on Oct. 22; "Tom Sawyer" on Nov. 19; "A Christmas Carol" on Dec. 17 and "Beauty and the Beast" and "Aladdin" scheduled for next year.

Charles Dickens' "A Christmas Carol" will be this year's holiday presentation for the entire family.

The first of the season's wide-screen film classics is the Oscar-winning blockbuster of 1957 "Bridge on the River Kwai," to be shown at a Sunday matinee on Nov. 12.

Symphony will begin new season with Mozart

The Summit Symphony Orchestra will present its first concert of the season Nov. 5 at 8 p.m. at the Summit High School on Kent Place Boulevard.

The orchestra will perform music by Rossini, Mozart, and Beethoven. The featured soloist will be singer Iya Speranza performing Mozart's "Exsultate Jubilate." Under the direction of James Sadowitz, the orchestra will also perform Beethoven's Symphony No. 6 and Rossini's "The Barber of Seville Overture."

Admission is free and the audience will be seated on a first-come first-served basis.

The Summit Symphony Orchestra is a community orchestra drawing players from a wide area.

Local residents who will participate in the Summit Symphony include: from Mountainside, Annette Mansfield (violin), from Clark, Gloria Adler (cello), Judith Koehn (violin), and Edward Zilberstein (bass violin); from Roselle Park, Ron Califano (violin); from Cranford, Jane Fitzgerald (cello); from Roselle, Gary Morgan (bass violin) and from Union, Holly Truack (violin) and Jules Vebians (violin).

Iya Speranza is at home in both opera and concert performance. She was recently seen in New York City singing the role of Amina in the Branderburg Opera's concert performance of Bellini's "La Sonnambula," for which she received great acclaim. Also this season, Speranza created the role of Ondine in Seymour Barab's new opera "Ondine" for the Center for Contemporary Opera and sang Marenka in Smetana's "Bartered Bride" with the State Repertory Opera of New Jersey.

A graduate of the New England Conservatory and Juilliard schools, she sang the premier of Anthony Davis' "Tambora" with the American Music Theater Festival in Philadelphia and later went on tour singing Frasquita in Bizet's "Carmen" with the New York City Opera National Company.

In New York she sang the Queen of the Night in the Joseph Papp production of Mozart's "The Magic Flute" at the Academy, and won critical praise for her portrayal of La Principessa in the Vinograd Theater's revival of Donizetti's "Gianni di Parigi."

She has appeared as a featured soloist with the Lake Charles and Alexandria Symphony Orchestras and was the soprano soloist for the Bucks County Symphony Orchestra performance of Carl Orff's "Carmina Burana."

Dining Review October 19, 1995

By Douglas Miller

Summit's newest best restaurant, Il Sapore D'Italia Ristorante, located deep in the Enterprise Mall on Maple Street, is a small, hidden, off-the-beaten-path gem. For those who love great Italian cuisine in a really elegant setting, it is worth the adventure of trying to find it.

Of course, if you are not the adventurous type, or are content with mass-produced pizza-food, it is as exciting as the place in which it is served, then this is not the place for you. Il Sapore offers food that is pleasing to the eye, pleasing to the nose, and just simply tastes palatable. It is among the best in the area to offer.

Before we even order, the table is set with fresh baked bread, complementary bruschetta and giardiniera — both are tangy, spicy little morsels that fire all an enticing dining experience to come. And it stays only just below the surface.

The first course consists of the variety of antipasto dishes served. The portions of mushrooms were nearly drowned in a balsamic sauce that was very good, while the stuffed mushrooms had in a tangy sauce, were the finest I've had in years, and certainly the best made my professional palate — it is a really held conception that stuffed mushrooms are made best by someone cooking for their family. Il Sapore has set that theory back 20 years.

Il Sapore can also boast the best $4.50 bowl of soup this side of Mount. The pasta and fagioli — or bean soup with noodles for the non-vegetarian — usually had a semi-sweet tang to it, but in not delicacies, while the spaghetti — chicken, beef, or egg noodles and vegetables — was appropriately spicy and tangy. The water visibly warmed when I reached for the salt shaker, and I am relieved that I needed his non-verbal advice: it was perfect as is.

There is a wide variety of salads offered at this ristorante, and there is no shame in sticking to the old favorites such as the antipasto, which offers a variety of different goodies, some wonderful, some good but unfamiliar. There was a scene when I informed my slightly naive 13-year-old brother and dining companion that those little, moist, brown strips were, in fact, mini-strips of bacon. He would not be fooled, however, and it now seems likely that, despite my best efforts, he will see his 21st birthday without ever having tried an anchovy. I downed one, being the adventurous type, and am no worse for wear.

We also tried the mozzarella caprese, which is chunks of cheese, tomatoes and olive oil with a smattering of basil. Is there any finer taste in the world than fresh basil? The caprese offers more than your recommended daily allowance of it, but not so much that you will still be tasting it on the ride home. Yes, it is possible to have too much basil, and the chefs at Il Sapore seem to be trying to push the envelope on this one, but they just avoid going over the line.

Finally, the entrees arrived. Do yourself a favor, and try the veal ravioli, which is served in a vodka sauce. The ravioli, which is hand-made and also is stuffed with peppers, is so light and flaky that it can barely hold itself together under the weight of its filling. It was a masterpiece. The sauce itself is creamy and thick, but not lumpy. It, too, is to rave for.

Il Sapore is located in the back of the Enterprise Mall. It is somewhat costly, but the quality of the food makes it a bargain in any language.

This column is intended to inform our readers about dining opportunities in the area.

October 22-28

ARIES — March 21/April 20
A strange turn of events this week will make you believe in fate — even if you're the most cynical Arian. A health concern should be addressed before it becomes a real problem — no matter how minor it seems. The old saying "prevention is the best medicine" applies.

TAURUS — April 21/May 21
A misunderstanding in the workplace could put a strain on a professional relationship. Clear things up before it's too late. A yen for excitement will be satisfied this weekend — especially if you pursue it. A Libran of the opposite sex could lead you to a golden opportunity.

GEMINI — May 22/June 21
Not a good time for taking risks or gambling of any kind. This is a week for sticking with sure things. Use diplomacy when dealing with those who are hot tempered — especially Scorpions and Arians. A Leo will play an instrumental role towards the end of this week.

CANCER — June 22/July 22
Frustrations in the workplace will only get worse if you give in to them. Fight back and you will come out on top. A lucky break on Wednesday could lead you to unexpected income. Use that extra cash to treat a loved one to a special time. A younger family member may need your help.

LEO — July 23/August 23
A situation at home that doesn't seem right probably isn't. Look into it instead of overlooking it. Go the extra mile if you're working on an important project. Hard work now pays off later on. A change in weekend plans gives you the quiet time you've been craving.

VIRGO — Aug 24/Sept 22
Watch what you say to anyone you're introduced to this week. You can't assume that newcomers will understand your cutting sense of humor. Remember, first impressions are often lasting ones. A surprise phone call from an old friend could set the stage for a carefree weekend.

LIBRA — Sept 23/Oct 23
Single Librans may be in for a disappointment this week. Be on your guard. Don't wear your heart on your sleeve, especially if you're falling for a Capricorn. On the work front, there may be some good news. However, don't divulge any confidential information to coworkers — no matter who it is!

SCORPIO — Oct 24/Nov 22
A new project may seem overwhelming at first, but will turn out to be quite enjoyable. Overreacting to a difficult domestic situation will only make matters worse. Be patient when you are handling sensitive issues with those you love. Keep tabs on valuables this weekend.

SAGITTARIUS — Nov 23/Dec 21
Innovative thinking will be essential if you want to get out of a bind early this week. Go beyond "business as usual" and you'll succeed in a big way. If you are a parent, this will be an extra-special week. Quality time together will be just what you need to lift your spirits.

CAPRICORN — Dec 22/Jan 20
An innocent discussion with a friend could get out of hand and lead to a full-blown fight. Before this happens, you'd be better off changing the topic. Remember, everyone's entitled to their own opinion. At work, a new approach to an old problem will prove effective.

AQUARIUS — Jan 21/Feb 18
A strained relationship will weigh heavily on your mind. You may find that time heals all wounds in this sticky situation. A friend's surprise visit will lift your spirits this weekend. Sharing your problems with a good friend will help you see things in a different way.

PISCES — Feb 19/March 20
Look before you leap when it comes to financial investments. Something that seems too good to be true probably is. Health-related concerns will prove to be unwarranted. A flirtatious episode in the workplace could put you in an unfavorable light. Resist that type of temptation.

YOUR BIRTHDAY THIS WEEK
The next 12 months:
A year of change. A situation that's been stable for some time will finally come to an end. This will happen around December. But with one door closed, another will open, and you'll have something very exciting to look forward to in the coming year. Someone from your past will re-enter your life this year and you could form a much closer and more meaningful relationship. You'll see how time brings some closer and makes others drift apart. This coming spring will be a very lucky time for you. This is the time to take risks and make changes. Fitness will be more of a concern than before.

Westfield Symphony Orchestra opens new season

Returning to the Union County Arts Center, the Westfield Symphony Orchestra will open its 1995-96 season Saturday at 8 p.m.

Conducted by Brad Keimach, the orchestra will focus its season opener on the music of Rossini, with soprano Melody Johnson performing "Rosina's Aria" from "The Barber of Seville."

The program, sponsored by Merck & Company, will be rounded out with Mozart's "Exultate Jubilante" and Brahms' "Symphony No. 4". This appearance at the county's arts center in Rahway will be the Westfield SO's fifth and also will mark the orchestra's 99th performance. The orchestra was formed in 1983 and the new season will be its 13th.

The Union County Arts Center is one of few theaters built in the era of movie palaces that has been saved intact. Beginning in 1985, the structure, with its spacious interior and fine acoustics, has been undergoing almost continuous restoration. It is located at the junction of Central Avenue and Irving and Main streets in the city's historic restoration district.

Concert tickets are priced at $19 and $23 and may be purchased at the box office, located at 1601 Irving St., or may be reserved by phone at (908) 499-8226.

The symphony will return to the arts center in April for an encore performance.

Speedy Car Wash outshines the rest

It's located in an industrial area on Lehigh Avenue — not exactly the kind of place you might expect to find a car wash; but somehow the Speedy Car Wash has managed to do quite nicely over the past 20 years.

"The thing that's been interesting is that there's no other commerce on the street," said owner Gene Rooney, "but there are people who go far out of their way to come to us."

According to Rooney, who has operated the business for the past 20 years, the customer receives the best possible service at a reasonable price.

At Speedy Car Wash, an exterior wash goes for about $2 less than the average car wash, a competitive price in a business where customers can be charged $7 simply for an exterior wash, not to mention amenities such as hot wax.

Rooney, though, at his totally "brushless" operation, provides more than just a lower price, while providing personalized service in what can be a very impersonal, high volume business.

In addition, the Speedy Car

Wash offers free, self-service mat washing equipment, something many other car washes dispense only for an extra charge. Speedy also offers coin-operated, self-service vacuum cleaners.

Rooney always keeps his equipment up to date, replacing washing equipment as part of an ongoing commitment to giving the best wash for the money.

"There's no equipment in the world that will do an absolutely perfect wash," he explained, adding, however, that a little extra effort can produce a superior service.

At Speedy Car Wash, Rooney's employees take time to wash off excess dirt from every vehicle before it even enters the conveyor — and the workers must greet each customer courteously because it is their job to do so.

When the car wash is not operating, Rooney is still busy keeping all equipment in working order.

"We've really done a lot of maintenance on our equipment," he said. "I think that our assemblage of equipment is superior to most other car washes in the area."

Study shows increase in breast cancer

A study of trends in breast cancer diagnosis and treatment, conducted at St. Barnabas Medical Center, proved that early detection of breast cancer increases survival rates. That study was awarded the best scientific poster presentation at the recent National Cancer Registrars Association Meeting.

The study revealed a 98 percent, five-year adjusted survival rate for the St. Barnabas patients diagnosed with Stage I breast cancer, compared to the national five-year relative survival rate of 82 percent as reported from the National Cancer Data Base.

Stage I breast cancer is an early stage where the cancer cells have not spread beyond the breast and the tumor is no more than about an inch across.

"St. Barnabas Medical Center began a breast conservation program in the mid-1970s. As a result, we have seen younger patients, a higher percentage of earlier stages and performed more breast conserving surgeries," said Andrew Zablou, a radiation oncologist and co-author of the study. "We attribute our success rate to an aggressive community relations program that targeted all socioeconomic levels to educate our patients about early detection and self-breast exam."

The study looked at trends in breast cancer at St. Barnabas from 1985 to 1992 and compared the data to national statistics from 1985 and 1991. It traced 266 patients who were initially diagnosed at St. Barnabas and/or whose first course of treatment was administered at the hospital.

"We began to question why we were seeing a higher incidence of breast cancer compared with national rates, and why younger patients — women less than 60 years old — were presenting with breast cancer," said co-author Lesley Duncan, director of the cancer registry at St. Barnabas. The study showed an increase in the number of young women presenting with breast cancer, from 53 percent of women less than 60 years of age in 1985, compared with 62 percent in 1992. This was contrasted to national rates of 45 percent in 1985 and 44 percent in 1991.

"Part of our success is due to our outstanding diagnostic capabilities and state-of-the-art radiation-therapy, medical oncology treatments, and surgery. We concluded that our survival rates were also better because of the public awareness of early detection in our hospital community," Duncan said.

According to the National Cancer Society, one in nine women will develop breast cancer at some time in their lives, and nine-and-a-half out of 10 women treated for early breast cancer will be alive five years later.

"This year, more than 46,000 women will die from breast cancer. Early detection could save as many as one-third of them. Mammography plays an important role in saving lives because it can find a breast cancer tumor as early as two years before it can be felt. Far too many women die because they did not find their breast cancer soon enough," Zablou said.

St. Barnabas is one of the few hospitals in the United States to use and conduct research on Magnetic Resonance Imaging to determine whether breast abnormalities indicated on a mammogram are cancerous. MRI breast-imaging is most significant for women with dense breasts where plain film mammography can miss about 10 percent of cancers and approximately 10 percent of manually-detected lumps.

Although researchers at St. Barnabas do not believe MRI breast imaging will replace plain film mammography, they do believe it will be used for questionable recurrent cancer in reconstructed breasts, post lumpectomy follow-up and imaging of very dense breasts.

St. Barnabas has one of the country's most comprehensive hospital-based breast cancer programs, providing a spectrum of educational seminars, support groups, advanced surgical and alternative treatments, complete mammography services, nutritional counseling and clinical research. Each year, during the month of May, the Medical Center offers low-cost mammograms as part of an annual Breast Cancer Detection Awareness Program.

St. Barnabas Medical Center is New Jersey's oldest and largest non-profit, non-sectarian hospital, with 620 beds. The hospital's newly constructed Cancer Center features state-of-the-art facilities, including a dedicated 36-bed Oncology Unit, a renovated radiation oncology department and private chemotherapy treatment rooms. The Cancer Program is one of the older approved cancer programs in the nation, originally approved by the American College of Surgeons' Commission on Cancer in 1933. It has had continual approval and is currently designated as a Teaching Hospital Cancer Program.

For information or scheduling of mammography, call the Radiology Center of Saint Barnabas Outpatient Centers at (201) 325-6587 or 6597. For information on the Cancer Center of St. Barnabas, call (201) 533-5827.

Cold and flu season starts need for shots

Flu is an illness caused by influenza viruses. It generally affects people of all ages. Usually, people with influenza have fever, chills, headache, cough, muscle aches and may be sick for several days to a week. Most people recover fully. A small proportion of cases are particularly severe, and patients may develop pneumonia or other complications.

In some past epidemics, about one case out of every 1,000 was fatal. The risk of complications and death from influenza is highest for people with chronic health problems like diabetes; disease of the heart, lungs, or kidneys; severe anemia; or who have chronic illnesses or are taking medications which lower the body's resistance to infection. It is also high for older persons, particularly those about 65 years old or older.

Influenza viruses frequently undergo changes in their chemical make-up. These changes make it possible for persons to catch influenza even though antibodies may have been developed against previous strains of influenza. Thus, having had influenza or an influenza vaccine in past years may not prevent another influenza infection.

Because influenza usually is mild and most people recover fully, routine vaccination of healthy children and adults is now recommended. However, people of any age with the chronic conditions described above, and those 65 years of age and older, should consider vaccinations if they catch influenza.

If you are in a risk group, visit the Care Station or your primary physician to receive you flu vaccination. Care Station, Health Services are now available at two locations: 328 W. St. Georges Ave. in Linden; and 90 Route 22 West in Springfield, seven days a week from 8 a.m. to 10 p.m. to provide you with all your health-care needs.

Patients and doctors should discuss drugs

Misuse of medicines can be prevented

Every year Americans take approximately 1.6 billion prescriptions, costing $30 billion. Unfortunately, most patients do not ask questions about these medications. This can lead to serious problems, including misuse of medications.

In recognition of October's designation as "Talk about Prescription Month," the New Jersey Poison Information and Education System, located at Newark Beth Israel Medical Center, in conjunction with the Society of Health System Pharmacists, suggested patients ask their health-care providers:

- What is the name of the drug, and what is it supposed to do?
- How and when should the medication be taken and for how long?
- What foods, drinks, and other medications should be avoided?
- What activities should be avoided while taking this medication?
- What are the most common side-effects of this medication?

To avoid complications due to the mixing of medications, it is recommended patients inform their health-care providers of the following information:

- The name of all prescription and non-prescription medicines being taken.
- Any allergic reactions the patient may have toward a medication.
- If the patient is pregnant.

For information about medications, call your health-care provider. If this is not possible, the NJPIES is available for assistance 24-hours-a-day at 1-800-POISON-1.

NJPIES was created in 1983 as a source of information for the public concerning toxicological and poison situations. Staff members who answer hotline calls are able to dispense advice and direct victims needing hospital care to nearby emergency rooms. NJPIES receives more than 84,000 calls annually.

Health departments unite to fight influenza spread

Union County's health departments have been providing free flu shots to residents in an effort to see that every person aged 18 years and older is immunized.

The health departments are joining local physicians, pharmacists and Visiting Nurse and Health Services to fight the flu.

The flu, a viral infection of the nose, throat, bronchial tubes and lungs, is most prevalent in the United States from November to April.

People with the flu are usually bedridden for a few days, some may be hospitalized and thousands of people die each year in the United States from the flu and related complications. Although the most vulnerable population are those 65 years and older, the flu takes its toll on everyone, including those in the workforce, parents of young children and caregivers of the elderly.

VNHS, part of a 16-member Visiting Nurse Association of New Jersey coalition, are in alliance with area supermarkets and drug stores for the third year in a row to offer low cost flu immunizations to individuals 18 years and older. VNHS clinics with morning, afternoon and evening hours provide an opportunity for young and middle aged adults to be immunized. Seniors unable to attend health department clinics have the option of attending VNHS clinics. Flu shots are free for those individuals with Medicare Part B coverage.

SEVERE BACK PAIN

If you've been suffering severe back pain, maybe you've had a bad fall, or some other recent accident has caused it. Or maybe the pain has come on gradually because of misalignments in your spinal column that have been there for a long time without your knowing it.

Over a period of time, faulty spinal alignment will cause a gradual weakening of the disc fibers and other ligaments that your spine depends on to operate with comfort and flexibility. But there's more to the problem. Misalignments in your spine may also be interfering with the normal functioning of your nervous system. Nerve impulses travel from the brain through the spinal column to all of your body's vital organs and cells. They need an adequate supply of nerve impulses to function properly. Misalignments in your spine may be interfering with that supply.

Doctors of chiropractic use gentle manipulation and other techniques to correct the misalignments that may be causing pain and discomfort. With proper treatment, the pain can be relieved and your body returned to normal functioning.

Weichert Commercial Realtors has been selected to market this 100,000-square foot office complex on Park Avenue in Linden.

Weichert to market Linden project

Weichert Commercial Realtors has been selected by Linden Park Associates to market a 100,000 square foot office complex on Park Avenue in Linden.

The property is available for sale or lease and is divisible into lots as small as 5,000 square feet, announced Weichert Commercial Realtors from Ronald M. Malin.

David M. Fisher, president of Weichert Commercial Realtors, said the marketing effort.

Formerly a parking garage, the Linden Park office building is being converted to a modern office building. The building features a full service building including a heating system and backup generators. A state-of-the-art security system with a central monitoring station is also included. The building's location in Union County offers excellent access to Routes 1 and 26, the New Jersey Turnpike, Newark Airport and the New Jersey Turnpike in minutes.

According to Fisher, the property is for a user who requires good quality office space at a below-market price. "The building configuration affords a great deal of flexibility for the corporate user," he said. "After accommodating the requirements of a large banking institution, it provides a good combination of private offices and bullpen areas. Abundant parking will serve an operation with many employees."

Fisher also noted that the building's location near Newark Airport and the ports makes it appropriate for an air freight or water borne company, or any corporation that requires frequent national or international travel. The proximity to Manhattan of this large block of corporate office space could bring a user across the bridge to Union County and its diverse labor pool.

During the past few years, Weichert Commercial has helped several New York companies relocate to New Jersey into Hudson and Union counties.

Weichert Commercial Realtors, New Jersey's largest and fastest-growing commercial real estate organization, is wholly owned by Weichert Realtors, the largest independent real estate company in the nation.

County market sees positive changes

The Union County real estate market has seen many positive changes during the last 12 months and, currently, there is less office and industrial space on the market and prices have begun to stabilize and in some cases increase, according to JGT Associates.

At present, there is short supply of Class "A" space available for sale or lease which has put the owner in a unique position. Companies looking for space are seeing less flexibility on price and fewer concessions — such as free rent or building improvements.

The Industrial Market has seen a 5 percent decrease in the vacancy rate in the last quarter, with the greatest demand for warehouse properties with ceiling heights of 16 feet or higher, located in proximity to major highways, Newark International Airport and the seaport.

Lease and sale prices vary depending on the size, age of the building and square footage. Buildings in excess of 20,000 square feet are leasing between $3 and $4 per square foot, on a triple-net basis and selling prices range between $25 and $33 per square foot.

The Union County Office Market, comprised of approximately 3 million square feet, has an overall vacancy rate of 12.5 percent. As the Class "A" space has been almost entirely absorbed, Class "B" and "C" properties are now beginning to experience stronger activity levels.

Average asking prices are $21.26 per square foot for class "A" properties, $20.96 per square foot for Class "B" properties and $16.37 per square foot for Class "C" properties.

JGT maintains an extensive inventory of both industrial and office properties for sale or lease in Union County. Specific information can be obtained by contacting Ian M. Grud or David A. Simon at JGT at (908) 750-4000.

Chrysler's new autos gear up with great values for '96

Chrysler's brand strategy for 1996 is on track as the company's flagship nameplate keeps in tune with changing values in the premium vehicle market.

"The most important trend in the premium vehicle market today is that the notion of what luxury is all about has changed dramatically," said Steve Torok, General Manager of the Chrysler-Plymouth Division.

The success of innovative design and a complete revamping of its product portfolio in the last three years — Concorde is now the oldest vehicle in Chrysler's line — are already evident in the company's flagship brand. In the last three years, the average age of a Chrysler brand buyer has dropped 15 years, while annual household income has risen by more than 40%.

That doesn't mean consumers are willing to pay more for luxury car amenities which have little practical, everyday use. "People have become a lot more aware of what they pay and what they get," said Torok. "They are less interested in all the jewelry, or pretentious add-ons, and more interested in a vehicle's inherent qualities such as balanced blend of comfort, performance and style."

'Practical' luxury

Gradually changing consumer attitudes toward luxury cars led Chrysler several years ago to redefine its role among all premium vehicle segments, including minivans and smaller cars. "Our strategy is not to just duplicate other luxury cars," said Torok. "With each new vehicle introduction, regardless of market segment, we must ask ourselves exactly what are the features buyers want and use."

By today's definition, a 'true' luxury vehicle — whether it be a sedan, minivan, coupe or convertible — must include:

- a well-appointed, comfortable interior with practical, not pretentious, features that are easy to use

- a stylish, provocative exterior design

- a balanced blend of performance, handling and fuel efficiency

- high value that exceeds customer expectations in every area

Every vehicle in Chrysler's portfolio, including the all-new Sebring Convertible and short-wheelbase Town & Country minivan for 1996, has these attributes.

"Instead of having a single flagship luxury vehicle such as our LHS sedan, we aim to have a flagship vehicle in a variety of segments," said Torok. "That's because comfort, style and performance are desired by more than just luxury sedan buyers."

Chrysler's brand strategy for 1996 is a logical extension of the initiative started almost three years ago with the ground-breaking "cab forward" designs seen in the Concorde and LHS sedans. Engineering advances and constant refinement are now being highlighted to expand the message beyond design expertise, and further bolster the Chrysler brand as the company's flagship nameplate.

All-New Showroom

An orderly phase-out of older vehicle lines such as LeBaron and New Yorker, combined with new offerings such as the sleek Sebring convertible, have transformed the Chrysler brand into one which has the most contemporary lineup of cars and luxury minivans of any automaker for 1996.

"A new kind of contemporary, affluent buyer is emerging for us," said Ron Hein, National Marketing Manager for the Chrysler brand. "They are bringing with them a completely different set of values which extend from their tastes in clothing and music to the kinds of vehicles they want to drive."

Specifically, Chrysler's latest 'Brand Report Card,' which tracks demographic and psychographic profiles of its buyers, shows that the average customer age in the second quarter of 1995 dropped to 47 from 49 just one year earlier — and from an average age of 62 in 1992. Average household income of Chrysler brand buyers, meanwhile, has risen to $64,000 from $55,000 one year earlier.

Moreover, the Chrysler brand is now attracting twice as many import car intenders than three years ago, according to the latest Consumers Attitude Research (C.A.R.) study.

U.S. retail sales of Chrysler-brand vehicles are now forecast to climb to about 220,000 for the 1995-model year, and to 300,000 for the 1996-model year. Helping drive the sales increase for 1996 is an expanded lineup of Chrysler's Town & Country minivans which have once again leapfrogged the competition in luxury, design and innovation, and the all-new Chrysler Sebring IJ and IJi convertibles, which will set new industry standards in interior room, driving enjoyment, safety and value.

To increase consistency throughout the brand, all models in the Chrysler portfolio except the LHS will have one of two series designations for 1996: the well appointed LX series, which provides a long list of standard features found optional in competitors' products, or the premium LXi series, which has the highest level of equipment and features.

"The message is clear," said Torok. "The Chrysler brand is now attracting younger, more affluent buyers thanks to new offerings such as the Cirrus and Sebring. With the all-new showroom for 1996, we have raised our quality, refinement and design leadership to premium levels."

Chrysler Dealerships Among Most Desired Franchises

The success of the Chrysler brand's redefined product philosophy which began in the early 1990s is also evident throughout the dealer organization.

Completely redesigned for 1996, the Chrysler Town & Country is the perfect answer for buyers who need more space and utility in a vehicle without sacrificing luxury car features.

The Chrysler Concorde, through its innovative cab-forward architecture, is one of the most stylish and well-appointed family sedans offered.

"Chrysler-Plymouth has been among the Top 10 most desirable franchises for the last two years," said Tom Peyton, Chrysler's National Marketing Plans Manager, in citing data from J.D. Power & Associates.

"The recognition of new luxury buyer values by Chrysler has not only attracted new buyers, but new sellers."

Sales per dealer increased to 561 this year, from 492 in 1990 — a 14 percent jump. Moreover, dealers have been at the highest profit levels in several years.

Chrysler now has 2,950 U.S. dealers. The long term goal is to keep the dealer count at about 3,000.

The LSC's monochromatic look, which can be accented by optional chrome wheels, gives it a more nimble appearance. In combination with a revised axle ratio, its 290 horsepower InTech 4.6-liter DOHC V-8 engine gives it even higher performance than the regular Mark VIII. And the standard high intensity discharge headlights provide improved visibility. LSC will be available later in the model year.

A special Diamond Anniversary Continental model celebrates Lincoln's 75th Anniversary. It is offered in a choice of either Cordovan or Silver Frost exterior colors. The front floor mats and the rear door glass carry the Diamond Anniversary designation. Eight of the Continental's 15 exterior paint choices are new for 1996.

Lincolns for the new year look elegant, classy and refined

The full-size Lincoln's Diamond Jubilee with a luxurious Diamond Anniversary model offered in a choice of two exterior colors — Cordovan or Silver Frost.

The special edition Town Car's supple leather seating surfaces are embroidered with a distinctive anniversary emblem, which also appears on the rear quarter windows.

In addition to the leather seating surfaces, the anniversary model has standard equipment as a cellular telephone system.

The three conventional Town Car series — Executive, Signature and Cartier — also are offered in the 1996 model year. Six of the 13 exterior color selections for these series are new for 1996.

Every Lincoln Town Car is powered by a 4.6-liter V-8 engine linked to a four-speed automatic overdrive transmission. A dual air bag supplemental restraint system and a four-wheel disc anti-lock braking system head a long list of standard safety features.

An anti-theft system and a steering-effort control that allows the driver to select the preferred amount of power assistance also are standard.

The Lincoln Mark VIII luxury sports coupe offers a full complement of sophisticated occupant comfort and convenience features coupled with advanced powertrain and suspension technology.

Mark VIII's high performance centers on its 4.6-liter InTech DOHC V-8 engine, rated at 280 horsepower, which is linked to a precise-shifting, electronically controlled four-speed automatic transmission. The computer-controlled ride and suspension system automatically adjusts vehicle level and height, based on speed.

The LSC, for Luxury Sports Coupe model, made its first appearance late in the 1995 model year, will become a full-fledged member of the Mark VIII line during the 1996 model year.

The LSC's monochromatic look, which can be accented by optional chrome wheels, gives it a more nimble appearance. In combination with a revised axle ratio, its 290 horsepower InTech 4.6-liter DOHC V-8 engine gives it even higher performance than the regular Mark VIII, and the standard high intensity discharge headlights provide improved visibility. LSC will be available later in the model year.

Inside every Mark VIII's cockpit-like passenger compartment, both front seats provide six-way position adjustments plus dumbbar support. A garage door opener located in the driver's sun visor is programmable to the owner's individual codes. A dual air bag supplemental restraint system and a four-wheel anti-lock braking system also are standard, along with a remote keyless entry/anti-theft alarm system and electronic temperature control.

Options include a JBL Audiophile Sound System, a compact disc player with 10-CD capacity, automatically dimming inside/outside mirrors, power moonroof and Electronic Traction Assist for increased stability on slippery road surfaces.

The 1996 Mark VIII also is offered in a special version that honors Lincoln's 75th anniversary, the Diamond Anniversary Feature Car.

The Lincoln Continental luxury sedan advances its technological leadership for 1996 with a breakthrough in personal safety and security.

Continental becomes the first automobile in the world to offer a personal protection system using global positioning satellites and cellular phone technology to signal for emergency aid — all at the touch of a button.

Known as Lincoln RESCU — for Remote Emergency Satellite Cellular Unit — the system provides two signal buttons on Continental's overhead console, a positioning transmitter in the trunk, an antenna and a cellular phone. Pressing one button summons roadside assistance. The other button calls for appropriate help for crime or medical emergencies.

The system pinpoints the vehicle's location, typically within 100 feet, through a network of orbiting communication satellites, and puts the driver in voice contact with a response center. When appropriate, a trained operator at the Westinghouse Emergency Response Center stays in phone contact until help arrives.

Lincoln RESCU is one element of the optional new Continental Personal Security Package, which will be available later in the model year. A second is Securitive with Pressure Alert, a system that is designed to keep motorists from being stranded with a flat tire in an unfamiliar area or on the shoulder of a busy freeway.

Drivers can safely drive up to 20 miles at 55 mph with a totally deflated Securitive — a Michelin ZP (for zero pressure) with reinforced sidewalls, mounted on a specially engineered chrome wheel. Driving at lower speeds increases the distance the tire can travel.

To head off the need to use the tires' run-flat capability, a tiny Pressure Alert sensor in each tire signals a warning light on the overhead console when tire pressure is getting low. A message also appears in the vehicle's message center if the tire pressure continues to drop.

The 1996 Continental also provides an anti-theft alarm system as standard equipment.
