SECTION B

From The Editor's Notebook By Tom Canavan

Editor in Chief

Somebody told me this week that lawyers and journalists have a great deal in common.

Phooey, I said. Put a journalist on the telephone with a lawyer and you'll get two parties who can completely louse up a conversation. Journalists usually call lawyers, especially municipal attorneys, and ask questions without admitting how much we really know. Lawyers, on the other hand, will listen to the question posed by the journalist and within seconds, we're both talking about something completely irrelevant that has nothing to do with the story we're covering. It takes the journalist, however, to steer the lawyer back on track. Neil Cohen knows what I'm talking about.

This revelation occurred during a workshop I attended this week called "Law and Journalism: A Professional Responsibility Summit for the Two Professions." There was almost an even split between the number of lawyers in the room as there were journalists. The workshop attempted to draw similarities between the two professions and to get both professions to understand the work each does.

I don't know if it accomplished what it set out to do, but the cynic in me tells me it didn't. To me, lawyers, all 60,000 of whom have been admitted to the state bar, are one of the reasons why the country is in the shape it's in. "Sue him, sue her, sue them, sue everybody. What the hell! You want contracts? I'll give you contracts, but you have to appoint my nephew to this or that commission. Even though he's an idiot and has absolutely no qualifications for the post, I expect something in return for the work I'm doing."

Perhaps I'm being a little extreme, but I'd be naive to say it doesn't happen, especially in politics.

The part of the summit I enjoyed most was discussion of the public's opinion about the newspaper industry today. The discussion included four concerns.

 The No. 1 concern among the public about the media, according to the Journalism Resources Institute at Rutgers, is that the press would do anything to get a story. The public's concern is the press' arrogance and sensationalism, all in an effort, they say, to sell newspapers. • The No. 2 concern among the public is the media's emphasis on bad news. The public wants more positive news about their communities and the people who live in them. One way to bring more positive news into the pages of newspapers is through more reader involvement. If a crossing guard, mailman, or anyone in the neighborhood does a good deed, call the newspaper and pass along the information. Readers must realize that if a dog bites a man, that dog, and not the millions of other dogs that don't bite people, is going to get the publicity.

Newspaper people are not omnipotent. There are many stories to See EDITOR'S, Page B3

Gardeners mastery shines through

Visitors to Warinanco Park come spring will be able to tiptoe through the tulips.

Thanks to the efforts of Union County's Division of Parks and Recreation, the Master Gardeners of Rutgers Cooperative Extension and the sheriff's Labor Assistance Progam, it will be a flowery spring.

They took part in the recent planting of tulip bulbs at Chatfield Garden in Warinanco Park, named after the first Union County Park Commission President, Henry S. Chatfield, along with members of the Parks and Recreation horticulture crew, and almost 40 volunteers from the Master Gardener Program of Rutgers Cooperative Extension of Union County.

"This is truly a cooperative effort, using county departments, volunteers from a county/state agency, and alternate labor sources such as SLAP." said Freeholder Chairwoman Linda Di Giovanni. "Our aim is to do more with less, and using alternate labor, a key focus of our Total Quality Man-. agement initiative, is particularly exciting. The re-planting of the 21

tulip beds at Chatfield Garden for the annual spring bloom, which is breathtakingly beautiful, is an enormous task which usually takes at least 20 to 30 working days to complete, but by using alternate labor through TQM, we can have it finished in approximately one week."

This year, the SLAP crew and the Master Gardener volunteers were assigned to help the Parks and Recreation workers on this project. SLAP is a program for non-violent offenders who might otherwise spend a few days or weeks in the county jail, doing nothing productive and possibly losing their jobs. This way they can assist on projects like these for one day a week for the length of their sentence, be it two days, 10 days, and so on, and not take up needed space in the county jail. They keep their jobs in all likelihood, and keep costs to the taxpayers down by becoming that alternate labor source," said Freeholder Vice Chairman Ed Force.

"Using alternate labor is a great way to get things done, to continue to make our parks the showplaces they are, and to save work hours," said. Force, liaison to the Parks and Recreation Advisory Board. "The Master Gardeners of our Rutgers Extension know their stuff, and they only needed a brief explanation on planting the tulip bulbs before they were ready to dig in with the rest of us. I am truly happy with the way the county has explored using alternate labor sources to bring the services, programs, and natural beauty to our taxpayers."

"The court-sponsored SLAP is a prime example of the county using the alternate labor pool to maintain and beautify our parks," said Union County Manager Ann Baran. "There were 14,500 tulip bulbs that had to be replanted. Thank goodness we just have to do this every three years. But it is a sight to see in the spring, and now accomplished at a lesser cost."

The court-sponsored SLAP began in Morris County about six years ago. and here in Union County in late 1993. Many of the SLAP individuals were detained for having their driver's license revoked at least three times, or lack of automobile insurance gains recycling Ken Hart of DEP's Division of Solid and Hazardous Waste, said this program already has recycled more than 175,000 flourescent bulbs, resulting in a mercury reduction equal to two to three months of emissions from the Union County incinerator." Five major industries in Union County are currently participating -PSE&G, Merck & Company, Inc., Schering-Plough Corporation, Exxon Chemical Americas and the BOC Group, Inc. Other counties, such as Gloucester, Essex and Bergen, are flourescent bulb recycling programs. The pilot program, initiated about a year ago, is testing rules being considered by the federal Environmental Protection Agency and DEP which would reduce the waste disposal paperwork for flourescent bulbs, considered a hazardous waste and now requiring the same manifest and labeling procedures as toxic chemials. The program removes the bulbs from the waste stream in a cost-effective manner, reducing the amount of bulbs that go to landfills or incinerators.

looking into developing similar

The UCUA was one of four LEX award recipients during the annual dinner held in conjunction with the New Jersey Environmental Exposition. On behalf of the Expo's Board of Trustees, Shinn presented an environmental career achievement award to Richard J. Sullivan, the first commissioner of DEP, which was established 25 years ago.

Other LEX award winners were the following: Homasote Co. of Trenton for a project that established a direct transfer of waste fiber stock from consumers' residence to the plant; Sandoz Pharmaceutical Corp. of East Hanover for an innovative technology that reduces hazardous emissions, solvent usage and disposal costs; and AT&T Bell Laboration in Holmdel for its state-of-the-art upgrading of a wastewater pre-treatment plant, which also redirects discharges from a waterbody to a public treatment plant.

Register pushing bill to merge county offices

"I didn't know back then that I would be running for clerk and would he elected clerk. I still would prefer some time to have a transition because I'm limited as to what I am able to do to combine the offices," she said. "I couldn't expect anyone to take over this office without some knowledge

Heroes welcome to carry a torch

There is still time to mominate a Community Hero to carry the Olympic flame in next year's Olympic Torch Relay. In response to requests for additional time to complete rominations, the United Way of Union Couniy has extended the deadline ar additional two weeks for people to apply for the "Community Hero" torchbearer program. Entry forms must be postmarked by Dec. 15.

"We want to ensure that people who are interested in carrying the Olympic flame have ample opportunity to participate in this once-in-alifetime event," said Steve Emr. president of the United Way of Union County. "Many people have requested more time to participate in the entry process."

The Atlanta Committee for the Olympics Games as seeking 5,500 people whose service to others and meaningful contributions to their community shed light into the lives of many Americans. Community Hero torchbearers will be announced in February.

"There has been a terriffic response of compelling stories about people who are true heroes in service to others," said Hilary Hanson director of the 1996 Olympic Toron Relay. "We are responding to the public by extending the deadline for entries without compromising the integrity or timeline of the judging process."

Following are guidelines on how to nominate someone to carry the Olympic flame:

 Pick up an application at United Way of Union County, 33 West Grant St., Elizabeth, NJ, or call (908) 353-7171 from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

 Call The Arc of Union County at (908) 754-5910; YMCA of Rahway. (908) 388-0057; YWCA of Plainfield/ North Plainfield. (908) 756-3836 United Fund of Westfield, (908) 233-2113, and United Way of Summit, New Providence and Berkeley Heights, (908) 771-0717.

· Submit an entry form via the Internet at: http/www.atlanta. olympic. org.

Mirroring the spirit of the Olympic games, a Community Hero is someone who either:

- · Serves as a community leader, role model or mentor;
- Performs acts of generosity or kindness, and/or
- · Performs extraordinary feats or accomplishments, locally or nationally. Community Heroes may be nominated by themselves or others through an official entry form that includes writing up to 100 words -- two short paragraphs - describing the significance of the nominee's contribution to others in the community. People may nominate as many different Community Heroes as they like. Entries will be evaluated on content, not writing ability, by one of 147 community judging panels. Entry forms must be postmarked by Dec. 15 and received by Dec. 21. Send completed forms with essay to: 1996 Olympic Torch Relay, P.O. Box 6621, Maple Plain, Minn., 55593-6621.

Council sheds light on issue of drunk driving

In a symbolic nationwide observance to focus attention on the impaired driving issue, National Council of Alcohol and Drug Dependency of Union County is joining law enforcement, business ses, government agencies and private citizens throughout the United States in keeping their vehicle headlights on as they drive during the day on Dec. 15.

The observance is dubbed "Lights on for Life" in remenbrance of persons killed and injured in alcohol-related crashes and serves as a reminder of law enforce ment's watchitti ove on impaired drivers. "The giver value is important because with all he parties and celebrations during the holiday. impaired drivers are always a problem," says Gladys Kearns, NCADD executive director. "This event will help to focus attention on the impaired driving issue and hopefully prevent people from getting behind the wheel after drinking.

"This sends a positive message to the community and reminds the public that during the holidays, law enforcement will be cracking down on those who choose to drink and drive and place innocent people's lives — as well as their own — in eopardy," Kearns says, "I encourage all Union County residents to join us and take a stand against impaired driving by turning their 'Lights on for Life' on Friday, Dec.

"Lights on for Life" is sponsored by the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration and a coalition of government, corporate and advocacy groups - the National 3D Prevention Month Coalition.

Vivaldi Fest to feature rare opera

By Bea Smith Staff Writer

John Eric Floreen, a former Summit resident, an associate professor in the department of music at Rutgers University, Newark, and organist and choir director of St. Stephen's Episcopal Church, Millburn, admitted the other afternoon that he is as excited about conducting the Vivaldi Fest II as he was the Vivaldi Fest I. The Vivaldi Fest II concert, which will feature the later choral works of Antonio Vivaldi, will offer an American premiere performance Sunday at 7:30 p.m. in St. Rose of Lima Church in Short

Assistant conductor will be Clifford Parrish and the concert, which will feature the 50-voice all student Rutgers University Chorus and the Chamber Orchestra, will star soloists Susan McAdoo, soprano and wife of the conductor; Paula Farris, alto. and Victoria Stewart and Rick Dolan,

"Selections from Sunday's full concert will be performed in an abbreviated performance Dec. 13 on the Rutgers Newark campus," said the tail, blond, handsome Floreen, "And the Rutgers University Chorus, accompanied on the piano by Parrish, will perform at the Bradley Hall Lounge, Bradley Hall at 110 Warren St. in Newark."

Floreen, who lived in Summit for 11 years, has been with St. Stephen's Church for 11 years. "I've been with them since 1984," he said. "And I have conducted the Rutgers University Chorus since 1979. Usually a college does a national search. At that time, I was finishing up my doctor's degree in music at the University of Iowa. And I came out here, got the job, and I finished my degree during the first year that I was in New Jersey. That was about 1980.

"You know," he said with nostalgia, "it was almost like coming home for me because I was born in Jersey Floreen is the recipient of numerous fellowships and grants, including three Fulbright Awards for Research in Austria. His edition of Hummel's Mass in B-flat and published by Oxford University Press, received the 1990 American Choral Directors Association Dobn Malin Award for Excellence in Research and Editing. As part of an ongoing exchange with the University of-Leipzig Choir, the Rutgers University Chorus has sponsored guest conductors Max Pommer in 1986 and Wolfgang Unger in 1991. He admitted that he "was fascinated by music when I was barely tall enough to reach the keys on the piano.

John Eric Floreen Planning tour of Europe

I was playing whatever songs I heard on the radio or in church - without being able to read music. After all," Floreen grinned, "I was only four or five years old. It was a great opportunity for training my car. It was in high school, however, in North Western Wisconsin when I sang in the chorus and played in the high school band and regularly for the church. I was also starting to compose music - a teenager at the time. I wasn't yet thinking about what I'd do for a living. I was just having fun.

"And when I started looking for a college to attend, I remember accompanying some high school students to visit Gustavus Adolphus College in St. Peter, Minn. When I heard the choir sing - well, it was such a beautiful sound that I decided that's what I wanted to do. As a result, I went to that college, sang in the choir and loved it. I took voice lessons, studied piano and organ more, and I knew that was what I wanted to do."

After he graduated from college, Floreen explained that "I went directly to school in New York City because I was interested not only in working in a college or university but also wanted to be part of a community. So, I directed music in a church, St. Stephen's Church."

His interest in Vivaldi, he said, "really happened by accident, because I do quite a bit of music research on Europe, principally, Germany and Austria. I spent most of my time researching music there. One of the composers I had focused on was Jan Dismis Zelenka, who had been a composer at the Dresden Court in the early 18th century. I had spent a lot of time with his manuscripts. I've edited his music and also, I was asked to give a scholarly paper at an international conference on Zelenka in 1992.

"And it so happened," he continued, "one of the other participants at the conference, which took place in Marburg, Germany, was a professor, Michael Talbot fron the University of Liverpool. Sherwood's 'Forest' nearly comes to life

In a spirited production of Robert Sherwood's "The Petrified Forest," the Elizabeth Playhouse comes close to bringing a mediocre script to life.

In a production that is a bit uneven, the cast gamely try to bring some humor into what amounts to script full of stilted dialogue.

Robert Sherwood wrote many very good plays, including the Pulitzer Prize winning "Abe Lincoln in Illinois" and "There Shall Be No Night." However, this piece is not his best work; it was written before the other two and shows promise, but not the greatness that would come.

"The Petrified Forest" is set at a lonely gas stop and greasy spoon, the Black Mesa Bar-B-Que, in Arizona during the Depression. A number of characters come in and out of the restuarant, including a wandering intellectual, a rich couple, an amorous gas attendent and a gangster and his flunkies who take all hostage while waiting for his girlfriend to arrive.

The place is owned by Gramps Maple, and his son Jason Maple. It is

Theater View

Jason's daughter Gabby Maple who actually runs the place while she dreams of visiting her mother who ran away to France.

The play intends to reveal the frustrated dreams of these characters but it never quite reaches its ambitious

If I disagree with the choice of script, I applaud the talented cast who do some fine work.

Alan Benson as Gramp Maple, the rambling old man who is fond of accosting the unsuspecting with long tales of the glory days, is wonderfully funny. Benson happily rips into what could be a mundane role and steals scenes with his sharp delivery.

Bernard Weinstein as the pseudointellectual gigolo Alan Squier strikes just the right note of desperate diffidence. His one problem is his tendency to mumble.

Kurt Roinestad is funny and perfectly annoying as the hormonedriven gas attendent Boze Hertzlinger, who endlessly proclaims his love for Gabby.

The first act seems a little slow, but director Marlow Ferguson does a capable job of directing a large cast in a fairly small space.

The second acts picks up quite a bit and the play's most entertaining moments are here. Duke Mantee and his fellow gangsters bring a lot of energy to the stage.

Duke Mantee, played by an attractive and very mobbish Patrico Cahue, is just tough enough, with a touch of vulnerability as he waits for the woman he loves, risking his life and Penrod Parker as Jackie, one of Duke's henchmen, is very funny and effectively scary, bringing just the right amount of cheery cynicism to the role.

And it would be remiss not to mention a wonderful turn by Pauline Walsh as Mrs. Chisholm, half of the rich couple who happen by the station on their way to Phoenix. She and Weinstein do a good job of portraying the aging Chisholms, whose marriage is disintegrating as they realize they may never have loved each other.

The set, designed by Dennis Tillberg, makes good use of the small space and is wonderfully painted. The theatre itself is a marvel, currently being renovated by the director and artistic director Ferguson.

The production, although uneven, is good and shows a great deal of promise from this young company.

The Elizabeth Playhouse presents "The Petrified Forest" through Dec. 17. Performances are Fridays and Saturdays at 7:30 p.m. and Sundays at 2 p.m. Tickets cost $8; for students and seniors, tickets cost $6.

McLean has presented stories from the Bible at universities, places of worship and theatres, including the Stratford Festival Theatre in Ontario. Genesis was presented last year at Playwrights Theatre to capacity audiences and acclaim by the press. McLean said he feels his job as storyteller is to take this familiar material and "go beyond what we know, beyond the words, and get inside the story and live in it." Unlike film and television productions, where images are created for us, the storyteller involves the listener who must participate in bringing the stories to life. McLean describes his part of this process, "My task is to draw a deeper, more daring image of these unusual stories, stories that have been sleeping in our brain that can now wake up and be brought to life. The Kean College Concert Band rehearses for a performance scheduled for today at 7 p.m. at the Woodbridge Center Mall. The band, with the Kean College Choir, will perform holiday music as conducted by Carm Scialla of Keare number department.

Local eatery to host benefit for homeless advocacy group

The Can of Corn series will come to Good Eats in Union Saturday night as a performance of poetry and jazz to benefit homeless people.

The program will feature jazz musicians and performing poets. The Can of Com series, founded by poets Joe Weil and Deborah LaVeglia, holds benefit performances, this one for the Elizabeth Coalition for the Homeless.

The line-up for this Can of Com program will include jazz musicians Honi Gordon and Wayne Van Cortlandt Smith and poets Weil, LaVeglia and Charlie Mosler.

Weil has read his poetry on National Public Radio and at the Whitman Center with Allen Ginsberg. He's a blues and ballad singer, and a keyboard and guitar player. He's been published in a wide range of poetry magazines and been nominated for a Pushcart Prize. He is a co-director of the Poets Wednesday Series of poetry readings at the Barron Arts Center in Woodbridge. Weil is also a machinist and lives in Elizabeth.

Gordon started out in a family vocal group which performed with Charles Mingus' band. As a soloist she recorded his song "Eclipse" on "Charles Mingus and Friends in Concert." She also sang on composer/pianist Mary Lou William's album "Praise the Lord in Many Voices," and appeared with her at Carnegie Hall

Gordon, who lives in East Orange, continues to do both jazz and religious music in various contexts, often working with Wayne Van Cortlandt Smith. "Honi Gordon Sings" has been re-issued on compact disc by Original Jazz

Van Cortlandt Smith has played jazz and classical music in settings ranging from colleges to churches, to art galleries, to radio concerts. He lives in Westfield. His solo album "Confluence" is on Benay Records.

LaVeglia has been published in a variety of literary magazines, including Footwork: the Paterson Literary Review, Negative Capability, Arbella and Overview Ltd. Alan Benson as Gramp Maple, the rambling old man who is fond of accosting the unsuspecting with long tales of the glory days, is wonderfully funny. Benson happily rips into what could be a mundane role and steals scenes with his sharp delivery.

The first act seems a little slow, but director Marlow Ferguson does a capable job of directing a large cast in a fairly small space.

The second acts picks up quite a bit and the play's most entertaining moments are here. Duke Mantee and his fellow gangsters bring a lot of energy to the stage. Duke Mantee, played by an airraction a wenderful turn by Pauline Walsh as Mrs. Chisholm, half of the fich couple who happen by the station on their way to Phoenix. She and Weinstein do a good job of portraying the aging Chisholms, whose marriage is is imagrating as they realize they may never have loved each other.

The set, designed by Dennis Tillberg, makes good use of the small space and is wonderfully painted. The meane itself is a marvel, currently being renovated by the director and ztistic director Ferguson.

The production, although uneven, is good and shows a great deal of promise from this young company.

Storyteller and actor Max McLean artistic director at Playwrights Theatreturns to Playwrights Theatre of New Jersey during the holiday season to present his stagings of biblical stories from Genesis and the Gospel of St.

Billed as the "Creation and Redemption Series," McLean alternates the stories in a program running through Jan. 14.

McLean has presented stories from the Bible at universities, places of worship and theatres, including the Stratford Festival Theatre in Ontario. Genesis was presented last year at Playwrights Theatre to capacity audiences and acclaim by the press. "This return engagement will give those who couldn't get in to see those performances a chance to see McLean moving interpretation of these stories," said John Pictrowski, producing

The stories include those about Abraham, Isaac, Noah and the flood, and about the life and ministry of Jesus of Nazareth.

McLean said he feels his job as storyteller is to take this familiar material and "go beyond what we know, beyond the words, and get inside the story and live in it." Unlike film and television productions, where images are created for us, the storyteller involves the listener who must participate in bringing the stories to life. The object of the CJMEA is to promôte a spirit of fellowship among the music educators of the region, to stimulate wider public interest in music education, to seek specifically to raise the caliber of music performance and quality of music education in the schools, and to encourage the membership to continue to improve its professional status as musicians and educators.

Maraffi's responsibilities as High School Vocal chairwoman and as a member of the Executive Board include selecting nominees for the conductor and repertoire, attending and assisting with auditions, rehearsal and performance of the chorus, and overseeing budgetary and bookkeeping matters for the chorus.

Maraffi, an accomplished singer

Jeannette Ferrell Maraffi of West- and pianist, sang professionally in Europe and in the United States before coming to New Jersey to teach vocal and instrumental music in the Westfield public schools, where she taught for seven years at Edison Intermediate School and for five years at Westfield High School.

> Maraffi joined the teaching staff of Deerfield School in Mountainside in September.

> In addition to her work in New Jersey public school music programs, Maraffi maintains a vocal studio in Westfield and works every summer as the director of the Summer Opera Institute in Rome with the Rome Festival. Maraffi has been lauded by critics in the United States and in Europe for her musicianship and beautiful voice, with rave reviews from the New York Times and the Westfield Leader, and continues to make guest singing appearances in Italy and in the United States. Maraffi has appeared as soprano soloist with the Oratorio Singers in Westfield for the past several years, performing the works of Verdi, Mozart, Bach, Mendelssohn, Dvorak, Brahms, and Handel.

(Continued from Page B4) had a full house in the church because Vivaldi was a well-liked composer, and we were able to attract a good sized audience. This was a success for us, and as a result, we were invited to do the second American premiere. We brought him to America and the gave two lectures about Vivaldi at Rutgers.'

Floreen sighed, "I love my work with the Rutgers Chorus. It's a wonderful group of students who are very committed to excellent performances. And the church is a different community that I enjoy being part of. And I can also say that this St. Stephen's choir which I work with is a very talented, dedicated group of people."

When he first came to New Jersey, Floreen said he settled in Summit because "a few people I was acquainted with lived in this area. So, it was natural to want to look into that area where they were. My wife of six years, Susan McAdoo, and who is an integral part of our concerts, and I lived in Summit until we decided we needed a bigger house. You know," he smiled, "I met her in New Providence back in 1982. I hadn't come to St. Stephen's yet. I was substituting in the church in New Providence, the Faith Lutheran Church, unfil they were going to hire their organist, who turned out to be Susan McAdoo. So you can say we met each other in church. It's really wonderful," Floreen exclaimed. "We can share a profession that we both love and enjoy!"

Will there be a Vivaldi Fest III? Floreen chuckled. "I knew you were going to ask that question. I guess we could love to do a Vivaldi Fest III if we were again to be so fortunate to have the honor of giving a first American performance. but it looks as though all of Vivaldi's works have now be unearthed. edited and published.

"Actually," he reminded, "the chorus is now getting ready to make a concert tour in Europe — in May 1997. So between now and next semester, we'll be focussing on preparing the repertoire for that European tour. And of course, my wife will be with us, and the assistant conductor. Clifford Parrish also. Just about everyone has heard and knows the concerts by Vivaldi. Perhaps the most famous one is 'The Four Seasons.'

"Now the concert we will be giving in Short Hills will be a chance for people to hear some very beautiful music for chorus by the same composer. Just the chorus will be singing in Short Hills. Since we do not have a concert hall on the Rutgers-Newark campus, the chorus, each semester, performs in various communities throughout northem New Jersey. We sing in downtown corporations — everywhere that we can bring the music to the people. We even sing in museums. 'After all," he smiled, "it's art

The Israeli Festival of Union will present its 11th Anniversary Hanukkah Concert Saturday at 8 p.m. featuring comedian Jackie Jayson Exit and starring singing sensation Sandy Shmuely in the auditorium of Burnet Middle School located on Morris and Caldwell avenues.

Exit, a native of Hartford, Ct., began his career as an impressionist/comedian more than 25 years ago. He has performed throughout the world. Alongside his namesake, Jackie Mason, Jackie Jayson Exit entertained audiences at the world famous Marco Polo and Monte Carlo hotels in Florida. He is the recipient of the Jackie Mason Impersonation Award at the Concord Resort Hotel. He has made numerous appearances on television as well as having performed for many major organizations and Jewish social clubs. Exit and Mason have been friends for many years.

Sandy Shmuely, an Israeli singer and composer, originally began his professional career as a member of the North Command Entertainment Group which was stationed in the Golan Heights. He made his American debut as a participant in the Israeli Chassidic Festival more than a decade ago. Since then, Shmuely has established himself as a talented composer and recording artist in the United States, Canada, Israel, Europe and South America. In 1994, Shmuely performed at the inauguration of Mayor Rudolph Guilliani in a televised concert, as well as before 30,000 people who attended the Yom Haatzmaut Concert in Central Park.

In addition, Shmuely was a featured soloist at Radio City Music Hall for the HASC Concert and also appeared in the Chabad Telethon which was broadcast live from Los Angeles.

To date, Shmuely has recorded three albums, the most recent one is titled "B'ezrat Hashem," and was a number one best seller in the first month of its release. This album will be available for purchase on the evening of the concert.

Concert tickets are $8 each if purchased in advance and will be $10 each at the door on the evening of the performance. Special discounts for group sales are being offered. There are no reserved seats, only open seating. Doors open at 7:45 p.m. For information on ticket purchases call 687-4124.

Academy's enrollment expected to double

The enrollment of the New Jersey Performing Arts Center Dance Academy, the in-school dance residency launched last year, will reach 1,600 students in 1996 - double the number of 1995.

Sponsored for the second year by AT&T, NJPAC Dance Academy '96 will be offered in 16 schools in eight municipalities and includes a faculty comprised of Alvin Ailey American Dance Center dancers along with individual New Jersey artists and dance companies.

The NJPAC Dance Academy, developed by the NJPAC Arts Education Department, introduces third-grade students in urban and suburban schools to the discipline of dance as an art form and as a means of selfexpression. Over a 10-week period during the regular school day, participants attend two, one-hour classes per week to explore fundamentals in modern, ballet, tap or west African dance.

'The success of our inaugural year and the continued financial support and commitment of AT&T have enabled the program to expand in 1996 to additional school districts which have not been able to include dance instruction in their regular curricula." said Philip Thomas, NJPAC's vice president of arts education.

Esther Silver-Parker, AT&T's vice president for public relations, praised the results of the first dance academy program, saying "one need only have attended some of the classes and have experienced the excitement and enthusiasm of these youngsters to understand what an enriching life experience this educational opportunity was for therm."

School districts enrolled for Dance Academy 196 include Plainfield and Union. Classes begin in March of 1896.

Dance Academy instructors include Cindy Nichelson, Faul McRae, New Jersey Ballet, Karen Love, Umoja Dance Company, Deborah Mitchell, New Jersey Tap Ensemble: and Paula Yaa Franklin, Pyramyd Dance Company. A selection process is currently underway to choose additional dance instructors.

In addition to the 10-week residency. Dance Academy '96 provides several other components, including an introductory lecture/. demonstration by the Alvin Ailey Repertory Ensemble, professional development workshops for teachers, teaching artist training sessions, parent/teacher movement classes, three master classes for the local dance community, and open house school demonstrations

The Alvin Ailey American Dance Theater will also perform three performances at Newark Symphony Hall molitising one mini-performance for the students, and two public performances for the general public. At the end of the school year, children with exceptional talent or enthusiasm will be selected to continue their studies in the NIFAC Summer

Arts Camp. The NJPAC Arts Education Department is made possible by the support of the Victoria Foundation and NJPAC Arts Education Endowment

ARIES - March 21/April 20 Let your soft side show this week. A call from an old flame gives you food for thought. A close friend needs some unbiased advice. Don't turn him/her away. A favorite movie kicks off the weekend right. If you overindulge on snacks Friday, plan to put in extra time at the gym Saturday.

TAURUS - April 21/May 21 Controlling your temper brings you power at work this week. Both coworkers and friends will take you more seriously. Tie up loose ends on Wednesday. A new extra-curricular project is just what the doctor ordered on Friday. But make sure you finish what you start.

GEMINI – May 22/June 21 Love is in the air for you this week Gemini. Don't be afraid to take a chance. Doing away with stress plays a major role in romantic pursuits. Financial setbacks come to a close on Thursday. But don't get too comfortable. Going off the deep end could lead you into hot water.

CANCER – June 22/July 22 Let bygones be bygones this week. There's enough to focus on without the meaningless exchanges of days past. A Scorpio sends you flirtatious signals at work on Monday. Read them carefully. A trip to a museum proves adventurous on Saturday, Why not take a friend?

LEO – July 23/August 23 Staying on top of odds and ends Monday and Tuesday could lead to a three-day weekend. Use your keen eye for detail to stay abreast of small

Psychiatrist pens children's book

The newest children's book by Janice I. Cohn, chief of consultation and education in the department of psychiatry at Newark Beth Israel Medical Center, offers adults a way to help children cope with acts of violence. Titled "The Christmas Menorahs: How a Town Fought Hate," the book recounts the true story of how the people of Billings, Mont. came together to fight crimes against Jews and other minorities.

Published by Albert Whitman and Co., the book was written by Cohn after she read newspaper reports about the incident in Billings. The book evolved from her interviews with the families and civic leaders who played central roles in the events.

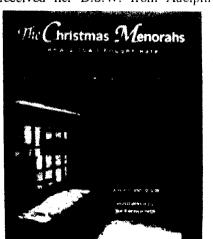

Hate speech and vandalism, aimed at Billings' minorities, began occurring during the early fall of 1993. As Christmas and Hanukkah approached, these acts increased in frequency and intensity. The spark for the community response against the criminals was the crashing of a rock through the window of a boy named Isaac, knocking down the menorah he'd had on

This crime became a wake-up call for Isaac's family, friends, and eventually, thousands of Billings residents. At town meetings, a community activist recounts the legend of how the Danes protected their Jewish neighbors during World War II. Non-Jewish Danes were said to have sewn stars on their clothes the way Jews were required to do. In the same spirit, the people of Billings vowed to display menorahs in as many homes as possilbe. Their actions ultimately stopped such crimes in the town.

"By going to Billings, I learned more about what gives people the courage to fight against hatred and the wisdom to know how important that fight is," Cohen said. "Children today are bombarded with scenes of violence and prejudice. The story of Billings helps children understand the power of courage and goodness."

Cohn also has written books on how to help children cope with a miscarriage, death and divorce. She has a private practice in New York City and Montclair and has written a book for adults on how to raise children in a violent world, which will be published April by Longstreet Press.

A graduate of Queens College in New York City, where she received her B.A., Cohn also graduated from Hunter College School of Social Work, New York City, where she received her M.S.W. Cohn continued her education at the Yale Child Study Center at Yale University, where she was a predoctoral fellowship. She received her D.S.W. from Adelphi

DR. DONALD ANTONELLI CHIROPRACTOR-

UNION HEALTH PLANS AND CHIROPRACTIC CARE

If you belong to a union whose benefits include a health plan, you may be entitled to chiropractic care. Many of the major international, national, and local labor unions include chiropractic services in their health and welfare plans. So do many of the major industrial employers.

As a healing arts practitioner, the doctor of chiropractic concentrates on a drugless or "natural" approach to health care. Through gentle manipulation of the spine, he works to correct any misalignments that may be interfering with the flow of nerve impulses from the brain to other parts of the body. Interference with the nerve supply may affect your body's organs and cells and prevent them from functioning normally.

This may be the cause of pain and discomfort not only in your neck and back but in other parts of your body as well.

The doctor of chiropractic knows that painkilling drugs only mask the symptoms of ill health. They don't cure the cause by restoring your body's spine and nervous system to normal functioning, this may be the treatment you need to feel well again.

Cranford doctor to head hospital's department of emergency medicine the Nankai Surgical Hospital in Nank-Richard Shih of Cranford has been named to the medical staff at Newark Beth Israel Medical Center, where he will serve as research director for the center's department of emergency medicine and as director of the medical toxicology fellowship for the N.J. Poison Information and Education System, the state's only poison

"I am pleased to be a member of the medical staff of a health care facility that has earned a reputation for excellence over the years," Shih said. "I am impressed with the medical center's philosophy and its commitment to the inner city community."

In his capacity with the department of emergency medicine, Shih is responsible for overseeing research and securing funds for new programs. For NJPIES, Shih coordinates the education and research of the poison center's staff. Shih earned his bachelor of science degree in 1985 from Pennsylvania State University in State College, Pa., and his medical degree in 1988 from Jefferson Medical College, also in State College, through a five-year accelerated medical Shih completed his fellowship training in toxicology at the New York City Poison Center in 1994 and his residency in emergency medicine in 1992 at the Medical Center of Delaware in Wilmington, Del. In addition, Shih completed a surgical intership in 1989 at the University of Maryland Medical Services in Baltimore. He was a visiting scholar in 1986-87 at ai, China.

He is board certified by the National Board of Medical Examiners, the American Board of Emergency Medicine and will be taking his board examination for the American Board of Medical Toxicology. Shih also serves on the editorial boards of numerous publications and professional journals, including the Annals of Emergency Medicine, Journal of the Society of Academic Emergency Medicine, AACT Clinical Toxicology Update, North American Congress of Clinical Toxicology, and Emergency Medicine Foundation.

Shih has made more than 40 presentations, contributed more than 40 articles to various professional publications and journals, and has authored or co-authored several book chapters.

Rated among the best by New Jersey Monthly magazine, the medical center's department of emergency medicine is staffed 24 hours a day by full-time emergency physicians and nurses; has an emergency medicine and pediatric residency program; and offers 24 hour-a-day, coverage for psychiatric emergencies by the Crisis Mental Health staff. More than 47,000 patients are seen annually and nearly 10,000 are admitted due to their high level of illness or injury.

Located at Newark Beth Israel Medical Center, NJPIES was created in 1983 as a source of information for the public concerning toxicological and poison situations. NJPIES, which receives more than 85,000 calls annually, is accessible through the toll-free hotline at (800) POISON-1.

Newark Beth Israel Medical Center is a 607-bed regional-care, teaching hospital affiliated with the University of Medicine and Dentistry of New Jersey. It is the only hospital in New Jersey where heart and lung transplants are performed. Founded in 1901, the medical center is a member agency of the United Jewish Federation of MetroWest. Hospital specializes in wound

An unhealed wound can be a source of severe pain and frustration that can prevent the enjoyment of activities, hobbies and professional duties. If left untreated, chronic wounds can even lead to more serious problems, including amputation.

At Union Hospital's Wound Management Center, a team of professionals, including physicians, nurses and therapists, all of whom specialize in wound care, is available to treat chronic wounds.

"The Wound Management Center is designed to restore our patients' health and independence," said boardcertified surgeon David Eisenbud, the center's director. "Through utilization

The wide range of wounds treated at the center include venous ulcers, diabetic wounds, job-related injuries or pressure sores. The physicians on the Wound Management Center staff are plastic, vascular and general surgeons who are members of Union Hospital's medical staff. X-rays, blood tests and wound cleaning services, often required by wound-care patients, are all located at the center. For those patients who need home nursing, physical therapy or durable equipment, the staff will make arrangements.

Treatment at the Wound Management Center is covered by Medicare, Medicaid and most private health insurance policies. If you are unsure if your policy will cover treatment, the center's staff will help you contact your carrier. Information regarding treatment at the Wound Management Center will be shared with your family physician.

'96 Ford trucks offer rugged durability as well as value

Following a major redesign for the 1995 model year that brought significant appearance, handling and safety improvements, the 1996 Ford Explorer is primed for a sixth year as the best-selling sport utility vehicle in the United States.

Helping Explorer achieve that goal will be the first-time availability of a V-8 engine. A 5.0-liter V-8 is available on four-door XLT 4x2 models equipped with a four-speed automatic transmission, while the 4.0-liter V-6 with automatic transmission remains the standard powertrain.

Along with the expanded engine lineup. Explorer provides unmatched ride, handling, comfort and versatility - and lit remains the leading vehicle in its class with standard dual air bags to supplement the safety belts. Other safety features include a four-wheel anti-lock braking system with disc brakes on all models, rear-seat head restraints, and a cross-car safety beam. An integrated child seat is available on four-door models.

Another safety boost comes from Explorer's sophisticated Control Tracfour-wheel-dirve system, which automatically engages when it senses that any wheel is slipping.

The Limited model will add an elegant new exterior color, as Ivory Pearlescent Clearcoat joins the lineup. Eddie Batter models also get a new two-tone color - light saddle metallto replaces pumice as the accent color.

1991 Ford Ranger

Ford Ranger maintains the value. toughness, good looks and wide choice of models that have made it America's best-selling compact pickup truck for nine straight years.

And for 1996, Ranger becomes the first compact pickup with an optional passenger-side air bag to supplement the safety belt and complement it standard driver-side air bag. The optional air bag has an added childsafety feature that's a first in the US auto industry. The passenger system can be switched off when a rearfacing infant seat is in place.

As another 'customer benefit, the 2.3-liter, four-cylinder engine joins the 3.0-liter V=6 and the 4.0-liter V=6 engines with 100,000-mile intervals between tune-up under normal driving conditions with routine fluid and filter changes.

The 1996 Ranger lineup includes two- and four-wheel-drive XL and XLT and four-wheel-drive STX Regular Cab and SuperCab versions.

The Flareside pickup box, previously available only on Ranger Splash, may be ordered on a number of XL and XLT models as well.

Privacy glass is included on the rear sliding and quarter windows of XLT and Splash SuperCab models and is optiona on the STX SuperCab. Privacy-glass pivoting rear quarter windows are optional on the XLT, STX and Splash SuperCab models equipped with the sliding rear

1996 Ford Windstar

Already highly regarded for its contemporary design, interior roominess, and car-like ride, handling and quietness, the Ford Windstar minivan adds even more customer-pleasing features for 1996.

Upgrades to Windstar's 3.8-liter V-6 engine now produce 200 horsepower, making it the most powerful engine available in any minivan. The big increase — up 45 horsepower from the 1995 version of the engine - results from a new Split Port Induction system. This engine is standard on the Windstar LX and optional on the GL model.

Windstar for 1996 also is the only minivan to offer All-Speed Electronic Traction Control with four-wheel disc brakes. Traction Control provides better traction on slippery surfaces, with superior control and steerability. This feature is available on the 3.8-liter engine Windstar. Four-wheel disc brakes also are available with the trailer towing package.

Windstar's cargo-carrying capacity has been increased, without affecting towing capacity. Gross cargo weight, GCW, on 3.8-liter vehicles equipped with the trailer tow prep package is 8,500 pounds, which is 1,000 pounds greater than the 1995 model's

For 1996, a 3.0-liter V-6 engine and a four-speed automatic overdrive transmission are standard on GL models. Both the 3.0- and 3.8-liter egines have 100,000-mile tune-up intervals under normal driving conditions with routine fluid and filter changes.

The versatility of Windstar's seven-passenger seating configurations is expanded for 1996. Low-back front-and second-row cloth bucket seats will be introduced during the 1996 model year as an option on the GL model. These seats already are available on the LX in either cloth or leather seating surfaces. When both the second and third seats on the GL are bench style, an optional seat/bed feature allows the seats to be folded

Along with the expanded engine lineup, Explorer provides unmatched ride, handling, comfort and versatility — and lit remains the leading vehicle in its class with standard dual air bags to supplement the safety belts. Other safety features include a four-wheel anti-lock braking system with disc brakes on all models, rear-seat head restraints, and a cross-car safety beam. An integrated child seat is available on four-door models.

Ford Ranger maintains the value, toughness, good looks and wide choice of models that have made it America's best-selling compact pickup truck for nine straight years.

down to form a convenient bed.

Windstar has more than 40 standard safety features, including dual air bags to supplement the safety belts. four-wheel anti-lock braking system. three-point safety belts for all outboard seating positions, side impact tions, which eliminates the need for intrusion beams and a sliding door child safety lock. New for 1996 are an Automatic Locking Retractor/ Emergency Locking Retractor feature for all outer passenger seating posicinch clips when an aftermarket child's seat is utilized, and an auto lock/relock feature that is included with optional remote entry and keyless entry packages.

Escape mall crowds this year at Fette

An auto dealership isn't necessarily the first place people think of for their holiday shopping, but, according to the folks at Fette Ford/Imports in Clifton, it's a great place to find something for just about everyone and to escape the crowds at the malls.

Fette has an array of auto accessories and services to fit most budgets. Fette Parts Department Manager John Connolly says some of their most popular selections include running boards, door edge guards, pin stripes and painted or chrome bumpers.

Cargo liners join bedliners as hot options. Bedliners have long been desired by pickup owners to protect their truck beds from damage by tools or cargo. Minivan and sport utility owners have come to appreciate cargo liners for the way they preserve the carpet in the cargo area of their vehicles. In addition to hard shell-like liners which have been available, new soft liners provide quieter, more cushioned protection for the cargo area. Security and convenience influence other options' popularity. Safe Guard window etching and a variety of traditional security systems increase an owner's peace of mind as well as providing insurance premium discounts. Fette also sells the top-rated Motorola cellular flip phone which answers both security and convenience needs.

Fette also sells the top-rated Motorola cellular flip phone which answers both security and convenience needs.

Connolly cautions gift shoppers not to wait until it's too late ... accessories not in stock could take two or three weeks for delivery. A ten percent discount is offered on purchases during the month of December.

Fette has Gift Certifictes available in values from $50 to $250 which can be applied for parts, service or even toward a vehicle purchase. Of course, the ultimate gift would be a shiny new car, truck or sport utility vehicle. It might be a little hard to wrap, but Fette promises to throw in a great big bow. Tie the keys somewhere in the middle of the bow or wrap them in a Fette Ford/Imports has earned Ford Motor Company's Distinguished Achievement Award for Quality, based on customer satisfaction. With over 600 Ford, Isuzu, Subaru and Select Pre-Owned vehicles in inventory, Fette is conveniently located in Clifton on Route 46 near Routes 3 and 80 and the Garden STate Parkway.
