Maximize our count of people

Accused in 1964 of being a sex pervert, Robert Kennedy thought that he moved to New York and ran for the Senate when he learned the state had fallen behind California in population. With a prodigious family of 11, he gave his opponent 45 days to match the record of increasing the state's population.

A three-count (later four) has barred the "Senator" from continuing a statistical project with the traditional ease by which he has used as a means of gaining greater accuracy in the count. The traditional census methods have increasingly undercounted minorities and immigrants in urban areas. The placid result brings a mix of federal funds, and political muscle.

Left Out

By Frank Capace

With the filing, New Jersey's Republican Congressional delegation has a "repeal" which the 70-page document argues that the educational charges that they put New Jersey's interests ahead of the state's in opposing statistical sampling.

Democratic leaders have pledged to take the fight to the Supreme Court. Interestingly, the members of the Democratic caucus among the belief that Congress Secretary William Doherty has the right to use sampling to get a fair count. Presumably, the bill will question the validity of a professor's report on Mayor Richard Daley of Chicago who's "condemning counting people."

Coming off the bag news on the census, Rutgers professor Greg Rock, in a scholarly paper, predicted Union County will lose influence both in terms of congressional and legislative representation when Rock, an expert on appointments, breaks the political world hags carefully.

In Rock's "occasional paper" for the state, that Union County Congressional seats held by David Paine and Robert Menendez have experienced "significant losses" in the suburban areas will enjoy increased influence.

Some basic facts need to be understood. Appointment is the process in which the state's congressional delegation is divided primarily in conformance with the 1960 Voting Rights Act. Earlier this century, the process of appointment was compared to "entry into a theater" by a Supreme Court Justice.

For more information on the 10-member "committee" which draws up the state's 40 legislative districts, in trying to gain more in the mandated 1990 redistricting of Congress, which are to be reapportioned, as well as to be reapportioned, the 1990 act can be something to recall in 1991 and 1992, observing legislative or marginal changes, signing official bills, officers of the redistricting commission like

In the path of the storm

Tornado winds fell trees, power lines, damage homes in county

By Philip Sean Curran

Staff Writer

With wind damage to area homes, property and roads estimated to be in the millions of dollars, officials throughout parts of Union County moved quickly to declare states of emergency in the towns affected by the severe storm that touched down Wednesday afternoon before moving northward.

Now affected was the county's south and southwest regions, officials said, with Rahway and Plainfield being "much of the town." The National Weather Service confirmed Tuesday afternoon that a tornado had indeed touched down and hit part of Clark. A representative from the Weather Service said it measured at 1.1 the second rating on a scale of 1-5. The F-5 is a tornado with winds as fast as 300 miles per hour.

Officials said the Lynch Airport that reported wind conditions at about 25 mph. At the airport, planes tumbled over, and a Tommy Hilger blimp crashed into a power line, destroying it. Officials said it may cost almost as much as $8 million to fix.

At least five other towns — Clark, Cranford, Fairwood, Scotch Plains and Westfield — declared states of emergency, including lower officials there could release relief money to help defray expenses. Schools, churches, and day care centers were also closed, as most people returning home from the long Labor Day weekend, found their own suburban neighborhoods turned upside down by winds that in some areas reached speeds of 100 miles per hour.

Amazingly, there were no reported deaths or serious injuries due to the winds.

Power was lost and roads were closed in almost every town where a state of emergency was declared. Appliances and traffic signals on many roads became erratic signals, the power went out. The Westwood lane in Route 22 became too long parking lot as drivers grew closer to Plainfield, drivers could not make left turns until they were well beyond Plainfield and into North Plainfield.

Thanks to other county officials, Fire Chief Chairman David P. Sullivan said crews could not begin cleaning the way the houses, getting the electric company had covered them that the downed electric wires no longer posed a direct, yellow speaking in Plainfield during an emergency meeting of the Board of Freeholders Tuesday. Said Monday's storm caused extensive damage, most of it concentrated in two towns.

Throughout the county there are hundreds, literally hundreds of tons down, and probably millions of dollars in property damage we estimate at this point," he said.

He continued, "Plainfield and Rahway seem to be the two hardest-hit towns. We are still having a great amount of difficulty restoring power. That seems to be the opportunity because the county crews cannot in or over of ing in the trees until the power is shut off in these suburban towns."

Like their Rahway neighbors, Plainfield residents say their roofs were closed, fallen tree limbs and snow, water entering every corner of the approximately six-square mile city.

Without electricity and watching that frozen food slowly spoil, many left their homes to clean as best they could — sidewalks and streets. Other residents, stood together, still trying to make sense of the ordeal.

"I don't know you can do anything, you just have to be patient," said Margaret, a resident who spoke some standing on his front lawn. "You just wait."

"I don't know," taking an unexpected day off, made the streets their backs, surrounding the area. She said Moran, 11, said he never witnessed anything like what had happened Monday afternoon.

"I saw trees falling, one was going right up the road, another was being ripped up," she said. Another resident, Harry Watson, said the ordeal reminded him of the movie "Twister."

How long the state of emergency in Plainfield exists depends largely on two variables: crews can clear the roads. Residents said they are eager to get back to work and carry on with their lives. With food becoming scarce, rescue people, reportedly, lined up outside local fast food restaurants to get sandwiches to eat.

Plainfield officials said the state of emergency will last indefinitely. "It will be like that until we can get some of the wires off the ground because we believe it's unsafe for our kids and our residents," said Walter D. McNeill, Jr., the city's business administrator.

It is unclear what relief money the ravaged areas might receive, but one Trenton lawyer said he was immediately making appeals to state and federal officials soon.

Assemblyman Gerald Green, D-Rahway, said he will call U.S. Sen. Frank Lautenberg and Robert G. Torricelli about getting federal money. "It is obvious that the city of Plainfield will not be able to undertake the financial burden that's going to be put on them," he said by phone.

On Tuesday, power was plagued many towns. Scotch Plains officials reported that 70 percent of new town's population was without power, and Fairwood, Clark, Elizabeth McClintock said power to be shut off to the 60 percent to 70 percent range.

All towns shared common problems: uprooted trees, downed power lines, debris, signs, etc. Winfield, Scotch Plains officials "gloried" that their damages will be removed sometime during the winter. Director of Public Works, Walter DiNizio said, "I've never seen anything like this before. It will probably take four months to clean up what's been done."

Winfield saw 10 houses with trees fall on them plus 13 cars hit by trees, said Kathleen B. Marsh, director of Public Works. "I've never seen widespread, total damage like this," Marsh said, anticipating clean-up efforts to last a month.

Union County Division of Public Works crews will begin clean-up efforts in some of the hardest-hit regions. Frank Dunn, the division director, said crews will work until sunlight facilitates those efforts.

Two regions were spared by the storm, which extended north into New York and then into Massachusetts. Fort Lee, Cannon in the Municipalities, sometimes occur in the far state areas, said a spokeswoman with the National Weather Service.

Jeffrey Tongue said his region averages one to two inches per year. But particularly water, he said, which officials anticipated days in advance, was caused when a cold front from the north hit, warm air masses from the southern, tropical areas, Tongue said. "Union County got whacked and we're good," said Union County Sheriff Ralph Pfenninger.

This home on Central Avenue in Cranford fell the brunt of Labor Day's storm that saw a tornado hit Union County.

Freeholders to consider health care for inmates

By Sean Dally
Staff Writer

The inmates of Union County jails will be getting a new health care center in the next few months. The Board of Correctional Health Services of Union County is planning to build a new health care center for inmates in the county.

CHS, organized in 1989, provides health care services to eight county jails throughout the state — Hudson, Essex, Bergen, Mercer, Cape May, Hunterdon, Warren and Morris — and a total of 13 detention facilities, along with a private, community corrections center in Kearny.

The inmates of Union County jails will be getting a new health care center in the next few months. The Board of Correctional Health Services of Union County is planning to build a new health care center for inmates in the county.

CHS will employ 25 employees at the jail, and 10 employees at the health care center. They will provide medical and dental services, along with ancillary services, like infectious waste disposal, X-rays and dispensing prescription drugs to the jail.

CHS, organized in 1989, provides health care services to eight county jails throughout the state — Hudson, Essex, Bergen, Mercer, Cape May, Hunterdon, Warren and Morris — and a total of 13 detention facilities, along with a private, community corrections center in Kearny.

CHS is also affiliated with St. Elizabeth Hospital and Elizabeth General Hospital, and provides mental health and psychiatric services to the county. According to County Manager Michael J. Amadio, CHS is being hired to provide health care services to the jail. CHS came up in several bids for the jail, but was the lowest bidder.

According to CEO and President Robert DeJure, CHS has never lost a lawsuit brought by an inmate. Union County would have to worry about that, anyway, he said. CHS would take over any liability with health care in the jail.

County Manager Michael J. Amadio said that CHS is being hired to provide health care services to the jail. CHS came up in several bids for the jail, but was the lowest bidder.

One of CHS' biggest selling points was cost reduction. "Our purpose is to provide health care for the inmates at Union County and cost control for the county," said DeJure.

DeJure did not have any savings figures for Union County Jail at the meeting.

Bill DeJure said, Union County Jail with about 1,800 inmates, was similar to the county jail in Mercer County, which has an inmate population of 1,472. According to DeJure, CHS on health care costs by $5 million over six years.

DeJure said CHS would lower costs in Union County with a cost containment approach. "Partly by bringing a number of services, into the jail, instead of having to send inmates to more expensive outside providers."

The inmates of CHS might also lead to inmates paying for their health care. This was discussed at the Sept. 4 meeting.

According to Sharp, inmates would have to pay $5 or more for "discretionary" medical care. For instance, an inmate wanted to see the doctor about a cold, inmates would still have to be provided emergency care.

County Manager Michael J. Amadio said that CHS is being hired to provide health care services to the jail. CHS came up in several bids for the jail, but was the lowest bidder.

Historic sites receive restoration grants

Thanks to recently awarded matching grants totaling $326,190, two Union County historic sites — the Marching and Drivers Tavern in Rahway and the Plainedge Friends Meeting House — will undergo much needed repairs. Both buildings date to the late 19th century and are remarkably intact remnants of life in the American Republic.

The 1997 matching grant awards were funded by the National Historic Preservation Program administered by the NJ Historic Trust, one of the 50 states. The program has funded work at more than 125 historic sites throughout New Jersey. With these current awards, the dollars added to the existing funds are exhausted.

The Marching and Drivers Tavern is a significant and an important transportation work. What's more, it's one of the few remaining examples of architectural masonry made of intricately cut stone and is the only one of its kind in Union County. During the early industrial period, the tavern served multiple functions. It was the site of government meetings, elections, horse racing, public entertainment and sports, celebrations and was a major stop-off site on the King's Highway between New York and Philadelphia.

By the expansion of Union County in 1852, it was one of the first 19th-century historical societies to undertake restoration of the first two years of the mid-19th century and before the first of the late 19th century. The $175,000 grant will be used to fund the structural stabilization of the building at all levels, restoration of historic materials on the upper floors which will serve as a model for the restoration of the windows, electrical system improvements and improved access for disabled visitors.

The Plainedge Friends Meeting House, built in 1788, was the first log of worship in Plainedge, the center of the early community and is now one of Plainedge's few 18th-century structures. The Meeting House's historic character has remained intact and this restoration will complement the rehabilitation of the neighboring railroad station and community development projects in Plainedge. Many thanks to Historic Trust.

The State's grant will fund restoration of a wooden shingle, window sash shutters, stone roof gutters, cupola and site retaining walls. It will also be repaired.

The Historic Preservation Council grant has brought national attention to New Jersey's historic architecture. It was showcased in the Historic Images of Historic Preservation study released in 1995 by the Billingsley University Center for Urban Research. The study showed that historic preservation benefits its communities by increasing its revenue, creating jobs and generating increased revenue from tourists. The study reports that every $1 million spent on historic rehabilitation generates $4.3 million in tourism and other business earnings and $22,000 in local taxes. To date, the NJ Historic Preservation Board Program has made available approximately $55 million in grants for historic rehabilitation, which will leverage nearly $200 million in other matching funds — nearly $40 million for the historic rehabilitation.

The NJ Historic Trust was created in 1992 to promote the preservation of the state's historic resources. Its mission is to advance the preservation of the state's historic properties through financing, educational and stewardship programs. It is affiliated with the States of New Jersey and comprised of a 15-member board of trustees. The Historic Preservation Board Program was established by the Historic Assets Culture and Center, under the Historic Preservation Act of 1987. In 1987, voters approved the Historic Preservation Act of 1987. The program and the first of its kind in the country has provided nearly $55 million in matching grants for historic sites, including the preservation of the last available under existing state bond issues — the funding source for this program.

The Marching and Drivers Tavern is a significant and an important transportation work. What's more, it's one of the few remaining examples of architectural masonry made of intricately cut stone and is the only one of its kind in Union County. During the early industrial period, the tavern served multiple functions. It was the site of government meetings, elections, horse racing, public entertainment and sports, celebrations and was a major stop-off site on the King's Highway between New York and Philadelphia.

By the expansion of Union County in 1852, it was one of the first 19th-century historical societies to undertake restoration of the first two years of the mid-19th century and before the first of the late 19th century. The $175,000 grant will be used to fund the structural stabilization of the building at all levels, restoration of historic materials on the upper floors which will serve as a model for the restoration of the windows, electrical system improvements and improved access for disabled visitors.

The Plainedge Friends Meeting House, built in 1788, was the first log of worship in Plainedge, the center of the early community and is now one of Plainedge's few 18th-century structures. The Meeting House's historic

A tale accompi

By Executive Chef Anthony Associates Editor

Looking for the best and smallest "me dining" I was fortunate that the newly rehabilitated Costa Del Sol, elegantly tucked back from Kentucky Road in Union, To take liberties, I will describe this dining experience as a "tale accompi."

As you enter the restaurant, site of many significant "simply" buildings, the lovely landscaped grounds, accented by flowing streams and fountains, will catch your eye. The interior is just a peek as dining are lapped with thought and attentive service from the wait staff while sampling the extensive and mouth-watering Continental cuisine.

Upon being seated, the can order the "meat specialty" tonight, or choose from the wine list. My dinner companion and I selected the "Morceaux White Zinfandel" which was crisp and clean. The first course brought lobster bisque, simply creamy and good. My companion ordered the "parme soup," which was a robust broth featuring a poached egg. He said it was a sign of the usual French cuisine you find in many restaurant menus.

One lecture consisted of a bit of the chef's history under Chef's management to perfection in a creamy wine sauce. I loved the milk, fish, a high's other "meat" called "Pier Man's Lobster." There was nothing more for this than with succulent fish served in a delicious garlic and wine sauce with capers.

While enjoying the meal, Costa Del Sol featured live entertainment, a guitar serenading guests with soft, fragrant Spanish music. For dessert, the restaurant offers a choice of several delicious chocolate cakes and pastries, as well as after-dinner drinks.

Costa Del Sol, the Old Cedar Mill, is located at 2443 Vauxhall Road in Union. For information, call (908) 688-4695.

Lyrice concerts plans exciting new season

In 1998-1999, second special chamber music concert, Lyrice Chamber Music, enters its second decade of bringing New Jersey audiences a fresh opportunity to enjoy classical and contemporary chamber compositions with special vocal and instrumental guest artists. The first concert of Sept. 27 at 8 p.m. features Grammy Award-winning pianist, David Barenboim, for Clarinet and Piano. The program also includes Moravian Quintet for Piano and Viola; Beethoven's Sonata No. 3 for Cello and Piano; and Brahms' "Two to Three, Bassoon, and Piano."

All Lyrice series concerts are presented on Sundays at 3 p.m. in the acoustically and visually brilliant auditorium of the Presbyterian Church of Chatham. Pastors, 240 South Boulevard, where there are excellent handicapped access and complimentary parking. Ticket prices are $12, $14, $16, and $20. Student Series subscriptions offer substantial discounts and early-subscribing incentives.

On Nov. 8, in a concert devoted to the lives and music of Haydn and Beethoven, Soprano Martha Riley, pianist Margaret Trunfin in the dramatic interludes and portions Mozart's "Don Giovanni" and "Le Nozze di Figaro," and Schumann's "The Nonesuit" with Lyrice Artistic Director, pianist Marek Bosert, Chopin's "Polonaise Brillante" for the same pianist, violas, cellist, and cello. The original Piano Trio of Igor Stravinsky's "Honeyland" (Rhapsody No. 2) completes the musical part of the program. In the dramatic interludes, Chantale Myers, Gibson Knox, and Barry Merrick play Beethoven's "Fur Elise" and "Für Elise."

On Jan. 10, renowned teacher pianist Seymour Bernstein joins Marcel Doyon on Schubert's "Fantasie in E Minor for Piano, four hands." Violinist Laura Bissler and Mariel Bissler play "Sinfonia for Violin and Piano." Laura Bissler and Barbara Meyers play "Sonata for Violin and Piano." Pianist and Lyrice Artistic Director, David Barenboim, and Violinist Virginia Sala, play Adams' "Adams' Sonata for Violin, Violin, and Harp." The Presbyterian Church of Chatham, 240 South Boulevard, is a regularly well-attended Lyrice concert. Professional critics have commented favorably on the quality of the excellent musical program. The Parish Hall, 1000 East 10th Street, includes Lyrice's traditional meet-the-artist gift reception. All the church spaces, including restrooms and parking lots, afford excellent access for the handicapped.

Devoted Lyrice volunteers continue their decade-long tradition of serving an elegant, well-attended, and well-received after each concert in the Parish Hall of the church. Lyrice artists and audiences always enjoy these informal occasions to exchange comments, preferences, and suggestions for future programs.

HEALTHY LIVING

Watch out for back strain from yard work

Before you reach for the lawnmower or reach for your rake this fall, consider the possible consequences: lower back strain, pain in the shoulders and upper back, neck strain.

Just as playing football or other strenuous sports can injure your back, bending and reaching while mowing and raking can injure your back, too.

"When you get your back over to the side, you're about to do something pretty awkward," says Dr. Robert Askey, an Eastern MD chiropractor and member of the American Chiropractic Association's executive committee and board of governors.

And like an athlete, a lawnmower and something without warning can injure and create the chances of injury are greater.

Askey recommends a stretching exercise to do in 15 minutes, spread over the course of your work. Before you tackle the lawn or the weeds, stretch, but don't bounce. Bounce stretching takes a short walk to stimulate circulation.

Do knee-to-chest pulls, trunk rotations and side bends with hands above your head and fingers locked. Work for just 10 minutes, then rest for a few minutes and stretch again. When you're finished with the work, repeat the stretching exercises.

Stand as straight as possible and keep your head up as you take steps. Avoid the heel of your foot if you're reaching, because you'll be leaning before it's with. Otherwise, avoid chores after 6 p.m.

When you're raking, use a very slight right-foot-forward lean, but not back for a few minutes, then reverse, putting yourself back toward and right foot back.

A bend of the knees over the waist as you pick up piles of leaves or grass from the grass catcher. Make the piles small to decrease the possibility of back strain.

If your mower has a full tank, don't tow it or the gas in your tank will be heated, and you'll be pulling a full tank of gas.

Drink lots of water, wear a hat, shoes and protective glasses, and avoid driving any vehicle while you're working, and if you have diabetes, wear a mask. It's easy to get dehydrated. They may look like they're not engaged, but they're not.

If you wear glasses and glasses in your back, use to stretch the back. And if there's an important in two to three days, see your chiropractor.

A doctor of chiropractic can analyze problems in your back and take steps to help you find the healthiest way to work. Ask for a free, no-obligation, 15-minute consultation. For more information, call 800-455-3084.

Pisces
Feb. 19-March 20
The problem you solve this week will lead to a bonus for you. It may not be monetary, but will be the knowledge you're worthy to solve these bank faraway. It's time for you and your partner to take a vacation. Don't delay a single longer.
