The last few weeks has seen a number of stories about political lawn signs being stolen. In a time of lingh-tech campaigning and massive fund-raising, it's actually fun to see the old campaign staple is still important.

Among the political proc. he deserves praise for his ability to get "No" signs up at key locations in his city. Along with the usual signs for candidates, this year Elizabeth faces a chatter tranger which throught forth the question if Elizabeth fall continue to be a major player in electoral politics in the county. A no vote would continue Elizabeth's key role.

The Oct. 22, 11-day pre-election report was not available by presstime but according to the Oct. 4, 29-day pre-election report, the Republican candidates have raised $23,000 and spent slightly more than $5,000. 'Fight Club' director takes off the gloves

How does a man go about reassert-ing his masculinity in an increasingly femilized society? Why, he joins an direr-hours tell or an by Brad Pitt, of course, where he can have the pri-vilege of being pummelled so he can go to bed feeling better about himself. The next moming, he wakes up feel-ing refreshed and ready to start the new work day.

the lick anoming in evacts up rec-ing refershed and ready to start the new work day. Unfortunately, things don't always move along this sensibly in "Fight Club". As it does tend to get a blic car-ried away in the end. However, it does provide a rather thnilling ride along the way, and it's another strong effort from director David Fincher, the high-ly butted director of "Severi" 1995, which I found to be excellent. If "Fight Club" talls just a bit shy of excellence, it's still a vast improv-ment over Fincher's highly disap-pointing "The Game," 1997, which, le't face it, two pretty dreadful. pointing "The Game," 1997, which, let's face it, was pretty dreadful. In "Fight Club," Edward Norion plays an insurance adjustor for a major automobile company. He knows that his company produces shoddy merchandise, but that's neither here nor there. He just goes through the motions and does his job, which Fearing that he has narcolepsy wille on the job, he sees a doctor who tells him that if he wants to know what real problems are, he should go visit a support group for men with testicular cancer. It's here that he meets a fellow. by the name of Bob Paulson, played by the rock singer Meat Loaf, who understandably assumes that Norton is there for the same reason he is. He encourages Norton to let out his pain by crying, which he does. Norton finds this to be so cathartic that he goes home feeling so emotionally drained that he goes right to bed and sleeps like a baby, thus curing his night-time insomnia. He finds this experience so fulfilling that he starts attending other sup-port groups for AIDS, sickle-cell anemia, etc. It becomes addictive, but anemia, etc. It becomes addictive, but his insomnia appears to be perma-mendy cardo, utili he begins noticing a mysterious woman attending ail of his support group meetings. He finds out that her name is Marla Singer, played by Helena Bonhum Curter, who follows him around as if she were some kind of ghost or phantom. Whever she is, he finds her presence to be axtremely disturbing. One night while flying on one of his many business tirps. Nortion strikes up a conversation with a young man named Tyte Durden, played by. Brad Pitt, an iconcelast who works as a projectionist a movie theater but a projectionist at a movie theater but who nonetheless hands Norton a busiwho note the sease hands for the user of the sease card that reads, "Paper Street Soap Company." Pitt correctly deduces that Norton's problem is an unhealthy obsession with consumerism, and that he spends too much time thinking about what he's going to order next from the Ikea catalog and the Horchow Collection.

When Norton returns home, he find that he has no home to return to, as a mysterious explosion occurred in his apartment. Finding nowhere to stay mysterious explosion occurred in his oparment. Finding nowhere to say for the night, he at first treas to call fourter, bui is unable to reach her. He then calls Pilu, who invites him over to his place. Home for him is a gohle, dilipidated of mansion with no locks on the doors and a ceiling that con-stantly leaks when it rains. It's at this point that, Norton's problems really beein.

Phit displays a Hemingwayasque swagger as Noron's dark alter go, and deliv-ers a bravura performance, while Nor-ton himself is billiant as always. "Fight Club" was dataped for the screen by Jim Uhals from a novel by Chuck Palabniuk. The cinematogra-phy is by Jeff Croneweth, whose somer, alter-hours fight club scenes suggest something from a Goorge Bollows carves, perticularly "Club Night," 1907, and "Stag at Shark-oy's," 1909. In this case, however, the gloves are definitely off.

Buick's 2000 LeSabre has a safety-cage design consisting of a rigid cen-tral survival capsule guarded with welded tubular members. Key ele-ments of the LeSabre's safety-cage construction are: • Use of structural adhesives along with sport welds to provide a continu-ous grip between upper joining

Extensive crash tests assure LeSa-br's body structure passes not only government-mandated asfety stan-dards, but also General Motors' rigor-ous instemal performance goals. For example, a 50-mph car-to-car rear impact is used to evaluate structural and fuel-system integrity. Offset from-lacolitions are used to evaluate structural and fuel-system integrity. Offset from-tighty concentration impact is used to evaluate as high-testemion front sease with self-atigning head the seast system performance in rear impact collisions. In addition to the supplemental air bags mounted in the steering wheel and atop the instu-meni panel on the front passenger's side, the new LeSare has side-impact air bags built into the outboard surface of each front seat backrest bolser. This integrand with the exclamation, allows it the seat-mounted side-impact air bags to keep the bag aligned with the exclamation. These ide air bags built increase the available crutch space between the ourse surface of the door and a front seat occupant. When you compare the new Old-smobile Alero with others in its class, it shines as a nice little car. It is snug, sensible and reasonably stylish.

Alter is a new compact-lass mod-el for Oldsmobile. It comes in four trim choices: GX, GLS and a slightly sportier GLS fitted with Goodyear Eagle performance tires and a sport-tuned supersiston instead of the stan-dard "touring" rate.

The base GX coupe and sedan have a starting price of $16,850, which is clearly a price leader that comes with crank windows — but also some sig-

The standard engine is General Motor's 150-horsepower 2.4-filter our-cylinder. It has strong power away from the traffic light and easily will tote a carboal of poople. The GL Model has the option of a 170-hp 3.4-filter Y.6. which is the standard motor for the GLS. The only trans-mission offered is a four-speed auto-maile, which is an other considerable perk for the base model. Among the interesting mechanical features is a Tire Inflation Monitoring system, which uses the ABS wheel speed sensors to detect a tire rotating at a different speed than the other
