Democrat opens county headquarters

By Michelle Runge Staff Writer

By Mitchelle Runge Staft Writer Although Democratic gubernatorial candidate James McGrevev was not present, party faithful turned out to show their support for the man they hope will be elected governor in November. The newly-opened Union County headquarters for McGrevey officially opened its doors amadst appliates from supporters and curlous passershy wondering what all the hoopla was about. Situated across from the historic Ritz Theater on East Jersey Street, and wedged between a dentist's office and bank, the headquarters welcomed a crowd just before nown on Tuesday that was there to hear with numicipal officials had to ay in this dyed/in-the wool Democratic stronghold. Juvenile program to be funded through grant

The Juvenile Justice Commission last month announced that Union County rill receive a $533,333 grant to establish a residential treatment program with a afterater component that will serve 20 juveniles annually? These juvenile frediers would otherwise be placed in the custody of the Juvenile Justice commission due to a tack of judicial disposition options.

"The Juvenile Justice Commission is committed to working with New Jersey's counties to provide services for at-risk juveniles," Bruce Stout, execu-tive director of the Juvenile Justice Commission, said. "Our philosophy is shat local communities have a unique understanding of their youth populations. As a result, the JIC encourages local governments to design community-based ser-vices and sanctions and apply for available grants."

The JCC's newly-setablished Division of Local Programs and Services pro-vides funding for the county program through the State Incentive Program. SIP works with counties to develop and fund specific programs targeted at their individual community needs. This year, the Juvenile Justice Commission will award more than 520 million through various sources of funding to implement a continuum of community-based services and sanctions for at-risk and cour-involved youth throughout the state.

"With this grant, we will be better able to address the needs of our at-risk youth in their own communites," said Union County Freebolder Chairman Alexander Mirabella, "I congratulate the Union County Youth Services Com-mission for its dedication in winning this grant."

The program will allow eligible youth offenders to receive intensive, indivi-dualized and community-based alternatives to incarceration. The county Youth Services Commission will structure a graduated plan with constant treatment from intensive residential services to intensive aftercare in a day treatment program. The youth will participate in a balanced program of restitution, super-vision and youth-driven development and case management.

"This program wilLoffer juvenile offenders the tools and the opportunity to change their behavior while still keeping close control over those in serious rouble," said Freeholder Nicholas Scutari, liaison to the Union County Youth Services Commission and the county's Juvenile Criminal Jústice Advisory

"By providing in-county services to these teen agers, we aim to reduce the cidivism rate and provide viable choices for them as they work to turn their ves around," said Freeholder Mary Ruotolo.

The successful provider, to be identified from respondents to a request for proposal, will utilize a holistic approach involving families, counseling ser-vices, algemative schools, peer education, life skills, mentoring, vocational training, as well as drug and alcohol monitoring. This vigorous program offers a vareity of activities and strong oversight allowing youth to develop tife skills to lead more productive and acceptable lifestyles while ensuring security in the community.

ARTS & ENTERTAINMENT Community theaters rewarded with Perry nominations

Award winners will be announced next month

By Robert Coakley Staff Writer For people that rehearse at night after work and perform a weekends, and every cent from ticket sales going to the theater used, people in community theater often only get applause as a reward. Everything is relied almost excluely on volunteers.

The nominees for the Recognition for Excellence in Community Theater's Perry awards were announced at the Villagers Bar in Franklin on Saturday. Representatives from theater groups all across New Jersey were there to see if any of 143 productions from June 2000 to June 2001 were nominated.

Levine explained that two reviewers go to the performance, seach one on a different night, to review the show and fill out various forms. Levine is in charge of communications between theaters. Levine has been a part of the awards for five years beforeRECT started. She snid RECT is the only organiza-tion that handles the community theaters for the entire state state. "Our reviewers go from Canden to Sussex to review shows, anywhere that there's a theater," Levine said. "We have about 20 people on the nomination committee." The president of RECT, Andy Gordanier, has been involved in one form or another for the awards for com-munity theaters since it was started 20 years go by Perry Morgan. Morgan's idea was a celebration for the dedica-tion and hard work pople in community theater have for their work, Gurdanet said. It was a network of theater groups used for 1 nding things like props, costumes and discounts. ACT lasted three years, and when the people involved moved on, Gordanier decided to start up RECT with those

People in community theater can give top-notch produc-ons at the fraction of the cost of going into New York, Gordanier said. "It's really about getting together and really just cele-brating everybody's dedication, hard work, the art that they do, and that they really do it for no other reason than the love of theater and the desire to make it available to an awful lot of people," Gordanier said.

Fitzgerald said a great part of RECT is that members get to travel all over the state to see theaters out of the local area. "And a neat thing about that is you see wonderful, wonderful shows that you just wouldn't see normally," she said. RECT also provides a great service to theaters and the awards give them something to strive for, Fitzgerald said. This year there were about 26 categories with seven nomines in each category, with the exception of produc-tion of an original play and production of an original musi-cal. The awards are nicknamed "Perry" after the original founder of the organization. Web site can provide information to answer questions about Medicare

Almost every Medicare beneficiary or someone caring for them has had a question about Medicare at one time or another. Maybe it was about what Medicare covers, or what it doesn't. Or, maybe it was about locating a par-ticipating physician or a specific claim. Now there is help readily avail-able from Empire Medicare Services at www.empiremedicare.com. at www.empiremedicare.com.

Empiremedicare.com contains wealth of useful information for Med icare beneficiaries as well as for their icare beneficiaries as well as for their doctors and hospitals. For example, from the beneficiary section, seniors can access a variety of brochures, including Medicare Preventive Bene-fits, which provides information on Medicare coverage for important screening services. You can also find the Medicare Managed Care Compar-ison Guide, which contains impartial information on the different managed

Professor helps pen children's book about the hearing-impaired

Professor Susan Stock of the English/Tine Aris/Modern Language Department at Union County College, is a co-author of a newly published children's book about a baby with a hearing loss who eventually learns to listen and speak. Told in rityme, "Herbie Hears the Horn, The Jou-ney of a Young Deaf Child from Silence to Sound" cap-neres and holds the attention of young children and the adults who read to them. An Ilbustrated parent/teacher edities and hear the Alexander Graham Bell Association for the Deaf and Hard of Hearing.

BACK TO SCHOOL BACK TO SCHOOL SAFETY The sound of school bells will signal the end of summer vacation. For parents this means reminding students about the importance of safety. Kindergartners through college students need to change some of their summer behaviors to protect (hemselves as well as their possessions). The following ran tips for parents to discuss with their children: YOUNQ, STUDENTS: Protestmin injuries are the second leading cause of unintentional death among children ages to 14. Children who walk to school or to a bus stop must be reminded to.

- Look left, right, then left again before crossing the street, Always try to cross a street were a crossing the street, Always try to cross a street were a crossing the street, Cross in front of the bus only after the driver signals it's okay to do so. Cross in front of the bus only after the driver signals it's okay to do so. HIGH SCHOOL STUDENTS: Statistics show that leen drivers are four times more likely to be involved in a fatal crash. Teach them to always buckle up and require everyone else in the car to buckle as well. Remind them to always obey the speed limit.

Choose a safe car for teens to drive

- Enforce no-drinking-and-driving rules. COLLEGE STUDENTS: The number on crime on college campuses is theft.
 - Remind students to always lock dormitory doors. Tell students not to keep large amounts of money or jewelry in their rooms

Have students mark personal property. Check auto insurance if your child takes a car to school to be sure no additional coverage is needed

Tools For School Success

As Back to School time approaches, students face the daunting task of choosing their tools for success. From cellular phones to palm pilots, tech tools are becoming as commonplace in the domr nom as mini-fridges. And as the prices of tech tools continue to drop, students have the chaffice to equip their domr nooms with the latest technology, without breaking the bank.

Fro example, a high-quality PC can now be purchased for less than $1,000 and sometimes even under $500. Using technology wisely, students can stay organized and connected while presenting their work in the finest way possible.

Today, producing stellar reports and papers isn't just about the content, it's also about the appearance. Long gone are the days when papers can be handwritten.

The one technology tool that can directly reflect on a student's work is a printer. A poor printer will produce a poorly printed document, making a bad impression on teachers and professors atke. Even older dot matrix, or slow inkjet printers are no longer practical lot today's tech savoy student who demands higher quality documents and faster speeds. With this in mind, a quality printer may be one of the most important purchases a student makes before heading back to emore.

Like slick PDAs, affordable PCs and ubiquitous cell phones, printers are now an affordable necessity, Personal Jaser printers used to be too expensive for students, but high-quality laser printers can now be purchased for less than $200. A laser printer offers many advantages for the student - fast speeds, crisp-looking text and lower costs to operate than their inkiel brethren - a key point for the budget minded student

Back-to-sch

While helpful to students, crayons, pens and pencils can sometimes be a problem when they come in contact with clothing. Back-to-school lunch favorites such as milk and truit juice drinks as well as chewing gum can also be a challenge to clean when spilled on clothes.

plution to these back-to-school stain challenges that's getting good grades from parents nes from the experts at Rowenta, the leading manufacturer of high performance irons. Here's a sample

Crayons: The Crayola Company recommends the following: Place the stained surface on a pad of towels, spray with WD-40, and let stand for a few minules. Turn the fabric over and spray the other side. Apply liquid dishwashing detergent and work into the stained area. Replace towels as they absorb the stain. Wash in hot water using a lauridry detergent and bleach for about 12 minutes, and then rinse in warm water

Chewing Gum: Harden the gum with an ice cube. Scrape it off with a dull knife and spray prewash on the spot. Let stand for two or three minutes, then remove loose gum. Continue to apply spray and rub between fingers genity to loosen. Remove remain gum residue. Launder. ntinue to Milk: If the stain is fresh, rinse in warm water and launder. If the stain is dry, presoak with enzymatic detergent (products that contain enzymes). Also, mild hydrogen peroxide solution can be used on all fabrics, except nyion.

Fruit Juice Drinks: Rinse stains with cold water and treat with a spot stain remover.

Protection plan aids transaction

Similar to buying a previously owned car, buying a previously own-ed home, otherwise known as a resalc, can be a stressful experience for buy-ers because of the potentially unknown and unexpected repairs that can pop up during the first year of ownership, at a time when a home buyer can be in short supply of extra

To eliminate the repair worries of home sellers and buyers, ERA offers an exclusive program called The Home sellers and buyers, ERA offers an exclusive program called The Home Protection Plan for ERA, which safeguards a buyer or seller from unexpected expenses when cov-ered mechanical items break down. Administered and insured by AON Home Warranty Services inc., the Homs Protection Plan provides replacement coverage as well as com-prelensive repair of major mechani-cal systems and appliances such as air conditioning, heating, and electrical conditioning, heating and electrical systems, interior plumbing, built-in appliances, water heaters and accessi-ble ductwork. subject to a appliances, where heaters and accessi-ble dattwork, subject to a small deductible per service call. For buyers in New Jersey, the Home Protection Plan provides cover-age for a year from the date of purch-ase of a resale home. New homes are covered by the Extended Home Pro-tection Plan for ERA from the second through the fifth year of ownership, after (the builder's warranty expires, and when it is most needed. For sellers, a home protection plan

For sellers, a home protection plan covers their home until the day of sele, with a maximum of 180 days, for the sum major components, adding value to their listing and protecting them at a time when they would rather property. When a seller in New Jersey agrees to purchase the Home Protec-tion Plan for the buyer, ERA gives the seller the Home Protection Plan to cover the home until the closing date, free of charge. Considering that, on average, homes listed with a warranty sell 15 percent faster than homes listed without a home warranty, sell ers can benefit from a home protecsale, with a maximum of 180 days, for ers can benefit from a home protection plan.

Burgdorff ERA President and Chief Operating Officer Judy Receves announced the consolidation of the company's Panwood office into the Burgdorff ERA Westfield and Warren offices. The consolidation is part of Burs-dorff ERA's mon Goo orflees. The consolidation is part of Burg-dorff ERA's corporate strategy call-ing for a strengthening of the com-pany's core market area and establish-ing a leadership platform for future growth and enhanced customer service.

Service. "We are finding that the larger reg-ional office centers are more effective in serving broader territories. Today's before selecting a home. The ability of our salespeople to provide their expertise in a variety of communities. is what distinguishes us from our competition," Recves said. Fanwood sales associates were-given the choice of either joining the Burgdorff ERA Westfield office at 600 North Avenue West, or the Burg-dorf ERA Warnen office at 61C Mountain Bird.

New and exciting

This is the newest and most exciting vehicle produced by General Motors in 15 years, the Rendezvous, which can be found at Union Pontiac GMC Buick, located on Route 22 West in Union. Company President John Manganelli said, 'I want people to feel like it's their store,' and to reach this goal. Union has a service center with a comfortable waiting room and loaner cars for the busy service customer.

The Santa Fe from Hyundai is value meal among pricey SUVs

By Laura Byrd Copley News Service: Have you ever gone to a party where everyone bings an hors d'oeuvre, and among all the weird dips and mysterious triple-layer bean dishes, the fibble dha is disappearing fastesi are the barbecued meatballs on a footbale? toothpick?

a toothpolek? So, you hunt down the savvy chef and the gay grins sheepishly and says, "J just bought a 10-pound bag of fro-zen mestabils at Costoc and dumped some, sauce on them." Therein lies at the wisdom. People love the meat — and that is exactly what Hyundai has done with the Sami Pe. It's all meat, and a good value that will probably get snapped up like meatballs at a party. With a base model GL starting at Si6499 and a to or of the line from-wheel drive LX priced at $21,999, the GLS tested here is a whole lotta meat with a price tag of $19,299. Each of the three tim levels comes standard equipment that isn't avail-able from the competition in the same price range. The Santa Fe lacks the fluff-and-stuff — computerized cli-mate control system, compass, ambient temperature display, seat memory or lumbar support — and when thereis tuff stacks as a sixmemory or lumbar support - and piles on the right stuff, such as a sixpiles on the right suff, such as asix-speaker CD player, remote keyless ency, Ici-inch alloy wheels, air condi-tioning, as eparate rear window open-ing, and many other "we love it and we want it" features not typically included for less than 320,000. First impressions are that the folks at Hyundai want you to find every-thing inside easily — without fum-bling or taking your eyes of the road. The dash knobs are simple, situated up high and substantial.

The heater fan button alone, for example, is two inches across and the gear shift knob is the size of a softball. gear shift knob is the size of a softball. Two stereo speakers at ankle height are the size of dinner plates. Window and lock buttons are farger than aver-age and even the side and rearview mirrors are generous. The exterior door handles are large and easy to grasp; the rear lift is just heavy enough to close by itself with a solid "thud" when you let go. For a "small" SUV, the Santa Fe feels substantial inside and out. It is CRV and its solid construction has been a benefit in safety testing. With imposing body cladding, a distinctive grille and big fenders that actually look like they would protect occupants in the event of an impact, the entire package seems more "big" than "small," But more than one hors d'oeuvre has failed the taste test — and that's where this vehicle made good on Hyundai's promises.

Treeway and back roads is impressive. The 2.7-iiter 24-valve V-6 engine ral-lied briskly, accelerating easily for passing and maintaing' freeway-speeds. It growled and groaned a bit when demands were made on it, but the high-reving engine performed well while still getting grear gas mileage, miking that growl under the hood acceptable. Through winding hairpin ums and a steep grade, the 4-speed automatic transmission showed off its Shiftrontio, function by making guick transitions between second and third gear quietly and smoothly. The 4-speed automatic transmission didn't seem lacking; even at 75 mph, the engine RPMs sayed low facilitating a highly desir-able 26 mpg on the freeway. Handling and comering are tight
