Swimming Pool Improvements Will Cost $20,000

Money Authorized In New Ordinance; Ball Field Planned

Indications are that bathers at the Springfield Municipal Swimming Pool will be able to play football while their suits are drying in a new summer recreation building.

Recreation Director Ed Ruby has said that construction of a football field is among improvements authorized in a new ordinance authorizing a $20,000 appropriation for improvements to the utility from the capital improvement fund introduced by the Township Committee Tuesday.

The ordinance calls for:

1. Purchase and installation of additional lockers, $1,600.
2. Installation and construction of a ceiling entrance of lobby, manager's office and first aid room, and a roof over the dance patio, $2,000.
3. Extension of patio between dining area and filter base, installation of two additional walks between ends of bathroom and pool, and relocation of flagpole, $2,100.
4. Installation of two blacktop volleyball courts, $1,000.
5. Purchase of stack chairs, $1,300.
6. Installation of one handball court, $3,300.
7. Levelling, grading and sealing, relocating fence and ditches, and adding shrubs and trees, $4,885.
8. Installation of blacktop parking lot, $1,700.
9. Installation of curbing, $2,000.

Award Contract To Prepare Plans For Milltown Rd.

The Union Township engineering firm of Grassman, Kreh and Mixer has been awarded a $15,000 contract to prepare plans and specifications for the Milltown rd. bridge over the Rahway River.

The contract, awarded last Thursday by the Board of Freeholders, also assigned Grassman, Kreh and Mixer the job of supervising construction of the bridge, which is to be located in Union and Springfield. The project is estimated to cost $220,000 for the bridge construction.

Work had expected to begin this spring. However, Richard A. Mixer, one of the partners in the firm, said a summer start-up would be necessary. As part of the project Milltown rd. will be widened and straightened in Union and Springfield. Walter Kozub, Springfield township engineer, said that the right of way through Springfield was secured by purchase of a strip of land last spring and an easement of properties with the Union County Park Commission.

Fill and drainage for the road in Springfield will be finished this spring. Kozub said that the stone base, paving and curbing will have to wait until the county constructs the new bridge.

Funds for the project are being provided in this year's and next year's budget. Kozub said, adding that the state foots the bill for 90 per cent of the cost of the road.

He said that the job could be completed by early 1965.

Senior Citizens Schedule Own Easter Preview

By MARIAN BROWN

An Easter parade of ultra-stylish ladies and distinguished-looking gentlemen will march to the strains of "In Your Easter Bonnet" Wednesday at the American Legion Hall.

The music will be the sound of their own voices; and the outfits their own creations.

They are the Senior Citizens—a group of 84 Springfield men and women about 60 years of age or older, who meet twice a month under the auspices of the Recreation Department.

"They are the best group of all. They're just wonderful," Recreation Director Ed Ruby said fondly. A smile-brightens his face every time he speaks of them.

THE 12 MEN and women who gathered to have their picture taken in an Easter preview last week chatted affably among themselves.

A glance at the ladies' hats revealed that not only Lilly Dachee can create a striking original. Phyllis yellow chloekens perched smartly along one wide brim that was laden with green paper grass. A cardboard necktie towered over another hat made from aluminum pie pans.

"I took these artificial flowers right off my kitchen table," one woman said of her hat.

"Mine's good enough to eat," said another, whose chapeau was adorned with candy chickens and rabbits.

"The men wore silk hats or derbies and carried handsome walking sticks. All had fancy boutonnières—some of the buttonnières made from colored paper napkins."

They talked of table decorations they are planning for Wednesday's luncheon and of a visit they were planning to the home of two members who were sick. Mr. and Mrs. Albert Scherer. "We thought our hats would cheer them up," they said.

The program combines special occasion parties with talks by speakers, who have included an eye specialist, an income tax specialist, Postmaster A. V. Del Vecchio, and Springfield police and fire chiefs.

Meetings are held on the second and fourth Wednesday of every month from 10:30 a. m. to 3 p. m. at the American Legion Hall. Menus are "bring a sandwich—and we serve coffee from the kitchen. Dessert is supplied by the members and is sometimes donated by outside groups.

RUBY SAID the Recreation Department can conduct a varied Senior Citizens program because of the imagination and hard work of its "right hand." His right hand is Mrs. Ellen Carmichael, who takes charge of the many details that make up a successful program.

"We are self-sustaining," Mrs. Carmichael says proudly. "Our expenses all come out of our dues, which are 25 cents a month, plus a one dollar BONNETS

Christians Will Observe Easter With Special Rites

Various churches in the area have scheduled special services to commemorate Easter, the chief festival of the Christian year which commemorates the resurrection of Christ.

This week, ending the last seven days of Lent, concludes Holy Week. Today commemorates the institution of the Eucharist. Tomorrow, Good Friday, commemorates the day of the crucifixion.

Presbyterian

Today, Maundy Thursday, will be celebrated with the observance of the Sacrament of Holy Communion at the First Presbyterian Church of Springfield.

The service will take place in the church sanctuary at 8 p. m. with the Rev. Bruce W. Evans and the Rev. Donald C. Weber participating.

Good Friday services will be at 8 p. m. tomorrow. Guest preacher will be the Rev. Wilbur A. Thomas, pastor of the Epworth Methodist Church, Elizabeth.

A Sunrise Easter Service of the Presbyterian Church will be held at 6 a. m. in the Presbyterian Community. The service is sponsored by the Professional Youth Groups of Springfield.

Mr. Joseph Gleitsman of the Springfield Methodist Church will deliver the sermon.

An early worship service will be held at 8 a. m. in the church sanctuary, sponsored by the Westminster Fellowship group. Identical services will be held at 9:15 a. m. and 11 a. m. Rev. Evans will preach and music will be furnished by both the Senior and Girls' Choir. Church School will be held during the 9:15 service; an announcement will be held during the 11 a. m. service.

Jews Will Begin Passover Week

Jews throughout the world will begin the celebration of Passover tomorrow at sundown and continuing for eight days. Congregations in Springfield have planned special events.

At Temple Beth Ahm, the congregation will hold their annual Community Seder beginning at 7 p. m. Saturday. Next Thursday, Rabbi Reuben R. Levine will hold services for the sixth day of Passover, at 8:15 p. m.

A Lull Shabbat Passover service will be held at 6 p. m. tomorrow night at Temple Sharey Shalom. Also, Rabbi Isaac Dresner will preach at another holiday service Saturday at 10:30 a. m.

On Sunday, the Temple Youth Group will hold a Seder beginning at 6:30 p. m. with Rabbi Dresner.

Passover is one of the most ancient Jewish holidays and is considered the Jewish independence holiday, since it marks the exodus of the Jews from Egypt about 1300 B. C. E. after being enslaved there for 210 years.

The holiday is celebrated for eight days from the eve of the 15th to nightfall of the 23rd of the Hebrew month of Nisan, which falls in either March or April.

In their haste to leave Egypt, the Jews took the dough with them before it had risen and became leavened. They baked the dough into flat cakes (matzo) in the hot desert sun.

Matzo is eaten during the eight days of Passover instead of bread. On the first two nights of Passover, at the traditional Seder, or Seder, the story of Passover is recounted.

Group Endorses Nursing Home On Fadam Farm Site

The Country Oaks Civic Association has injected a new note into a controversy over a proposed convalescent home that now involves a taxpayers' suit.

A letter from Country Oaks to Mayor Robert D. Hardgrove, dated March 16, expressed this group's concurrence with the Township Committee's approval of a special exception use that would permit construction of the facility on Fadam Farm property, 285 Mountain ave. It was read at the Township Committee meeting Tuesday.

Owners of the property, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Colatruccio, have been "members in good standing" of the Country Oaks Association "since its founding 20 years ago," the letter stated. They are seeking to sell the property to Valco, Inc., which would construct the convalescent home.

The letter also contends that the group is "against" building a library on this site "on the grounds that this would be a 'substantial loss of valuable real property.'" (A letter from a different group proposing the property be purchased by the township as a site for a library was also read.)

The letter from the Civic Oaks Association was signed by Henry Guenther, president of the group.

Members of still another group, the Shunpike Civic Association, have initiated a taxpayers' suit against the Township Committee, asking that approval of the use for the convalescent home be set aside.

The Country Oaks letter also stated that the Township Committee's action was "unlawful."

The Township Committee's decision to approve the special exception use was taken at a meeting held on March 16.

The Township Committee's decision was taken at a meeting held on March 16.

Town Committee Okays Variance, Extends Another

One variance and extension of a second variance recommended by the Board of Adjustment were approved by the Township Committee Tuesday.

Approval was granted to Brook Co. 8 Mountside ave. for a variance that would permit enclosure of an existing open porch and construction of an addition four feet in the rear.

The variance is required to alter a non-conforming use, because off-site parking provisions are inadequate in terms of the zoning ordinance. Township Councilman Phillip Del Vecchio said, explaining that the building was in use before the zoning rules were formulated.

The Committee voted to extend for six months the variance for Brook Co. 8 Mountside ave. to relocate a non-conforming use. The buildings in the path of Interstate Rt. 78 must be relocated. Del Vecchio said. But negotiations with the State Highway Department have slowed the process.

In other business, the Committee voted to release bonds held in anticipation of sewer and road improvements, authorized a traffic license, authorized a variance to release bonds for the claims for recovery of delinquent taxes, and authorized a letter to the Highway Department requesting a cleanup of property it has taken.

Bonds were released to Westmark Builders of Elizabeth upon completion of road improvements, including curbing, paving and sewer, at $2,500 for Far Hills rd. and $9,000 for Juniper and Outlook ways, both in the Baltusrol Top area.

A bond of $19,613 was released to Hartog Construction Co. of West Orange for sewer installation along Mountain ave., South Springfield ave., and Dorman rd.

Grabarz Is Elected Chairman Of Redevelopment Committee

Henry F. Grabarz, a past president of the Springfield Chamber of Commerce and former chairman of a Chamber committee that studied redevelopment responsibilities for Morris ave. business property in 1962, has once again been named to head a committee to investigate revitalization of this area, it was learned this week.

Grabarz was elected chairman of the business area study committee at the first meeting last week of the seven-man group charged by Mayor Robert D. Hardgrove with investigating methods of pumping life into the area. Township Committee members Arthur M. Falkin and Philip Del Vecchio were also at the meeting.

Regular meetings of the committee have been scheduled for the third Wednesday of each month.

A building contractor, Grabarz served the township as chairman of the Planning Board in 1954, chairman of the building codes committee, 1955; of the Hungarian Relief drive, 1956; and of the Red Cross fund drive, 1957.

Residents of Springfield for 14 years, Grabarz and his wife, Betty, live at 211 Belmont av. They have two children, Hank, 22, and Judy, 19.

A spokesman for the group has said that the committee will (a) define the problem; (b) review the work of the Planning Board in this area; (c) study the future impact of Interstate Highway 78, through the area.

The study was authorized last month by the Township Committee after the Chamber reported its suggestions for a Chamber plan to construct an off-street parking lot between Morris ave. business district between Main st. and Municipal Parking Lot 2 had broken down.

All items other than spot news submitted to this newspaper, should be sent after Friday to insure publication in the next issue.

Committee Gets Library Petitions Without Comment

A letter from the committee for a new library and a petition the group is circulating requesting the Township Committee to purchase Fadam Farm property for the facility were read without comment at the Township Committee meeting Tuesday night.

Township attorney James Crowley said later that the petition would not affect the township's defense of a taxpayers' suit asking that approval by the Township Committee of a special exception use to permit erection of a convalescent home on that site be set aside.

The letter was dated March 17 and sent to the attention of Mrs. Eleanor Worthington, township clerk, Robert Starr and Mrs. Ruth Schwartz are co-chairmen of the new library committee.

THE PREFIX 'A' MEANS WITHOUT

Robert Starr, co-chairman of the committee circulating petitions requesting the Township Committee to purchase Fadam Farm property as a site for a new library, pointed out this week that his reference to his committee's "petition" was "without partisan politics."

He clarified the position of his group after it was learned that several persons did not understand the semantics of Starr's statement. (The prefix "A" means without—"apart from" means without politics.)

The letter follows:

"We are a committee of taxpayers who are seriously concerned about the obvious stagnation of our present library facility.

"We are circulating the attached petition to demonstrate to the township government the widespread desire for the facility in question, especially since it has been repeatedly, albeit informally, notified of this need for the past two years and has failed to take any affirmative steps in furtherance of this necessary and desirable goal."

"We are doubly concerned that the best possible site for a necessary new library building is about to be put to another use, one that we feel is wholly inappropriate for the town and neighborhood."

"Our members come from all parts of the township."

Delay Bond Sale For Town Pool

Sale of $540,000 in municipal bonds to finance construction and improvement of the Springfield Municipal Swim Pool, scheduled for last week, has been postponed to March 31 at 8 p. m. to allow additional time for preliminary legal advertising, it was learned.

The Township Committee last month approved the sale of bonds for the utility, which Township Committee member Arthur M. Falkin has said was originally financed through temporary bank notes.

Township auditor Frederick J. Stefany has predicted a saving of about $30,000 in interest as a result of the township's financial rating by Moody's Rating Service in New York.

MRS. LUCY J. FORSYTH "My teacher told me to read to you," a small boy said to Mrs. Lucy J. Forsyth, principal of the James Caldwell School, in her office one day last week.

MRS. LUCY J. FORSYTH

"How nice," Mrs. Forsyth said, putting aside the work on her desk to listen. "She said I should read the whole book," he said.

MRS. FORSYTH WILL retire this year after 40 years with the Springfield public schools. Although she is only 59, she and others throughout the state are retiring in order to take advantage of legislation that permits members of the Teachers' Pension and Annuity Fund to avoid integration of their pensions with Social Security by retiring early.

Sandy Hook Lighthouse—Only 5th Built in U.S.

March tides washing over the Sandy Hook shoals in 1764 frightened sailing masters' well-served reputation as a wrecker of ships had gone unchallenged since Henry Hudson first cast anchor in the bay in 1609.

Sandy Hook Lighthouse, as it appeared in engraving published in the New York Magazine, August, 1780.

look place on June 14 in the Long House at the Province Arms in New York. This time, apparently, enough money was raised, for out on the wild shores of Sandy Hook a contractor named Isaac Conro already was building the lighthouse.

Records of construction no longer exist, but the difficulties facing Mr. Conro are evident. There were no roads on the hook from the New Jersey mainland; beach plum trees, giant holly trees and ancient bayberry bushes grew together in tangled production.

The Revolution brought with it to Sandy Hook, too, but the lighthouse was never threatened (although patriots removed the oil lamps in 1778). Just after the war, George Washington wrote to the keeper of the light, directing him to keep the light burning until Congress provided money for maintenance.

Only one thing has changed materially. In 1764, when Mr. Conro finished his work, the lighthouse was only 500 feet from the point. Today more than 7,000 feet of sand are between the beacon and Sandy Hook's rocky shore.

BORN IN GREENS FARMS, Conn., the oldest of five children, Mrs. Forsyth the former Lucy Jakobsen grew up in Springfield at 266 Mountain ave., on the corner of Shunpike rd., where she and her husband, Horace, live now.

The greenhouses on the property houses the family business, a wholesale nursery specializing in Christmas and Easter plants. It was operated by her father until he died in 1952 and is continued now by her two brothers.

AT CHISHOLM SHE was thrown into a situation where she had to learn quickly to handle a variety of teaching situations. She was given a combination class of 42 third and fourth graders, many of them older children who had been left back.

"I could always take my problems to the older teachers in the school," she said, explaining that to a 10-year-old girl some of them seemed very old indeed. Some were about 24.

A LOOK ABOUT HOPEFULLY Congress, at this Easter-season pause in its schedule, presents a rather mixed picture of business completed and issues yet to be decided. A brief survey of a few highlights indicates both reason for hope and cause for concern.

There were doubts and disappointments about this legislation—many of which I shared. The bill did not go in the direction of real reform of the tax system, for instance, nor did it contribute much toward clarifying and simplifying the complex and complex tax code.

Concern is growing in New Jersey for "problem children" who fail to learn properly and leave school, sullen, angry and undereducated.

Concern Of Public Schools Growing For The Sullen 'Angry Non-Learner'

Concern is growing in New Jersey for "problem children" who fail to learn properly and leave school, sullen, angry and undereducated. Fundamental curriculum reform may be needed for these "non-learners," an estimated 10 per cent of the population, says Dr. Sol Gordon, chief psychologist of the Middlesex County Mental Health Clinic.

A PASSOVER MESSAGE

BY RABBI ISRAEL R. DRESNER

Passover, or Pesah as it is called in Hebrew, is the great spring festival of the Jewish year. It begins tomorrow night, and Jews the world over will usher it in with prayers in the synagogue and an elaborate ritual feast in the home known as a Seder.

The festival is described in Hebrew as zman he'ratenu — "the season of our liberation", and the liberation of the Jewish people (or children of Israel as they were then called) from Egyptian bondage is the central theme of the festival. The story as told in the Bible is known to almost everyone: The Israelites after the death of Joseph, were enslaved by the tyrannical Pharaoh of Egypt. The Pharaoh embarked on a policy of genocide towards the Jewish slaves, and issued a decree that Jewish male infants were to be slain. As Exodus 1:16-22. In one day, that day Pharaoh, Adolf Hitler, engaged in a similar attempt to liquidate the Jewish race.

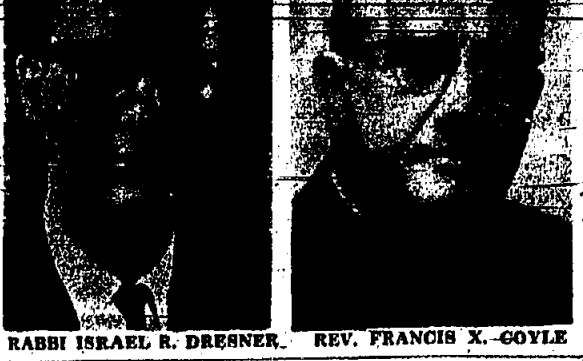

Pharaoh, the leader of the Israelites decried the Pharaoh, "Let my people go," and refused to permit the exodus. Included in the slaves, such as Khruahchev, Charles F. Fry to let the Jews of the Soviet Union, Vaux free. After Egypt had been attacked by the Almighty with a series of plagues, Moses, the leader of the Israelites, told Pharaoh, "Let my people go, for the Lord is with me." Pharaoh refused, and the Lord struck Pharaoh with the plague of the firstborn. Pharaoh then fled, and the Israelites were freed.

eating bread and other leavened foods during Passover and eat matza (unleavened bread) instead during the week long festival.

At the Seder feast Jews will recount the Passover story from a special home prayer booklet known as a Haggada, and certain ritual foods such as maror (bitter herbs) will be eaten with the matza to remind every Jew of the plight of his ancestors and of the never ending struggle to lose the fetters of wickedness, to undo the bonds of the yoke, to let the oppressed go free, and that ye break every yoke" (Isaiah 58:6). The message of Passover is as timely today as it was 3300 years ago when Moses declared "Let my people go." More than 20 million American citizens of the negro race are engaged in a struggle similar to that in which my Jewish ancestors engaged in the days of Moses and Joshua. It is incumbent upon all those who love freedom and who hate slavery, racism and genocide to do all within our power to bring down the Jericho like walls of segregation and discrimination. Let us flood the U. S. Senate with letters and telegrams demanding that closure be voted so as to terminate the filibuster and demanding passage of the Civil Rights Bill without any of its provisions being deleted or watered down. Let us stand with Moses and with those who stood in Independence Hall and signed the Declaration of Independence. Let us make a reality of the Lord's words as proclaimed by Moses which are engraved on the Liberty Bell in Philadelphia, "Proclaim liberty throughout the land unto all the inhabitants thereof." (Leviticus 25:10).

AN EASTER MESSAGE

By REV. FRANCIS X. COYLE
Pastor of St. James Church

Celebrating Easter in a world that is more like Good Friday, and hearing the pleas and prayers for peace or nitro one hand and on the other the explosions of war and the hymns of hate, makes us wonder what lesson the Blessed Feast of the Resurrection can teach us who must live in these days of trial and terror. But a moment's meditation on the Feast and what it signifies tells its own story. The resurrection of Christ from the tomb, which is what Easter commemorates, shows us that He conquered death, and that His conquest symbolizes for each of us the portent of our own life after death.

"me!" There are few of us indeed, who have not at some time or other lived through the traitorous kiss of Judas, the unkind blow of a soldier, the judgement of a Calphas, the mocking of a Herod, or the cynicism of a Pilate; these are the darker hours of our own Good Fridays. But if the Easter law holds true — and it does — so long as our sufferings are one with His there is the guarantee of our Resurrection.

One of the paradoxes of life is the unending contrast of joy following sorrow and sorrow following joy in an unending procession. But this is the story of life! This impresses us, or it should, that this world is but a vale of tears — the same one into which a banished Adam went forth from the Garden of Eden with the words of Almighty God ringing in his ears: "Work out your salvation in the sweat of your brow!" And so, as we contemplate life with its joys and sorrows — as we look at the Easter story — we can take solace and consolation in Christ's victory over death, and know that ultimately the Alleluia of our own lives will make us forget our tears. As the poet Priest, Father Alfred Barrett, so aptly puts it:

"And God shall wipe away all tears from their eyes" Apoclypse: VII, 17

"The fog of way men suffer only clears when Revelation lances down its ray; If heaven will be the banishing of tears."

There must be tears for God to wipe away!"

The season of Spring likewise teaches us a lesson: Unless the seed falls into the ground and dies it will never see the light of day when it springs forth into a new life. We see all about us these days the Resurrection of nature as it springs forth into the bloom of a new life — a new Easter! Unless one day we die to this world and the things of this world we can never waken to a new and better life. Unless there had been a Good Friday Sunday — unless Christ had died he could never have risen from the dead!

"Adversity, pain, suffering, hardship, these are all a part of life. These are the crosses we must carry on the way to our own personal Calvary. "Take up your Cross daily", Christ said, "and follow me!"

me!" There are few of us indeed, who have not at some time or other lived through the traitorous kiss of Judas, the unkind blow of a soldier, the judgement of a Calphas, the mocking of a Herod, or the cynicism of a Pilate; these are the darker hours of our own Good Fridays. LET'S PLAY IT SAFE
Governor Hughes, acting at the request of the Medical Society of New Jersey, has proclaimed the week of April 6-12 as "Child Safety Week" in New Jersey.

It is the duty and responsibility of parents to safeguard their children, through all the years of their growing-up, against all possible hazards. Lower animals are protected by instinct against the things that would harm them, and from very shortly after birth are able to fend for themselves. Not so with children. They must be taught to distinguish between what is good and what is evil, or they will not advance safely to healthy maturity.

parents are called upon to give thought to a duty and a purpose which is important the whole year through. They are invited to affirm that duty by planning to take whatever measures are necessary to protect their children effectively against injuries and exposures of all kinds that could jeopardize their physical, moral, or social well-being. Safe children become safe adults, and safe adults create a sound society. Let's play it safe!

Both Hands On Wheel-- Or Else!

The Garden State Parkway is worse for no hands on the wheel.

He cited as possible culprits those men who have electrical hair curlers in transit as well as the young and old lovers, embracing on the go.

Executive Director D. Louis Tontl of the Authority, which operates the parkway, said all such one-arm activities can be pursued in the service or picnic areas along the road -- but not in travel. "Please recognize that it is dangerous to drive with a diverted mind and only one arm at the wheel," he warned.

Two Irvington teenagers were hurt Sunday morning, when their vehicle in which they were riding struck a utility pole on St. Vincent ave. at Everett circle, Union police reported.

The injured were George Piaggio, 17, and Mark Fullman, 17, of 14 Arvona terrace, who suffered a cut on the forehead, police said. Both said they would see their own doctors.

The driver, Norman T. Holling, 18, of 342 17th ave., Irvington, told police he was traveling toward Irvington and succeeded in avoiding hitting another car. In so doing, the car struck the utility pole and a sign pole, police said. The car was towed away.

Applications Up 44% NCE Officer Reports

Applications for admission to Newark College of Engineering for the Fall of 1964 have shown a 44 per cent increase this year, according to Dean Frank A. Grammer, the college's dean of admissions.

Dean Grammer said these figures may indicate an increasing interest in engineering education at the high school level or they may merely reflect the tremendously large group of high school students who will be graduating this June.

Ask Amy

BY AMY ADAMS

Dear Amy: I'm sure many other girls have this same problem so I am hoping you will have an answer to help me and all the other girls. I'm 14 and I like a certain boy very much. I've known him ever since I was 4 years old. We grew up together but I don't think he ever realized that I was a girl.

Dear Amy: My husband works for the government. He always told me about his job and exactly what he was doing. Lately, he doesn't say a word. When I ask him he refuses to tell me. He says he can't tell anyone what he is doing right now - not even me. I don't see why he can't tell me. We are not at war, and of course I wouldn't breathe a word of it to anyone. Do you think I'm wrong? Mrs. A. W.

Must admit he is handy to have around the house. He left home and stayed away 11 months. Last week he returned. Our television set was broken and I gave him money to buy tubes for it. He used the money for transportation and disappeared again. I later found out he was living with his cousin's wife and her two children.

I couldn't let it go on. He had never done anything like this before. The children missed him so much I went after him and brought him back home. I told him that I was tired of working and it was time he look over. But I don't think he will change any after 18 years. What should I do? He says he loves me. Hastyman's Wife.

Dear Mrs. A. W.: I certainly don't A government employee who is asked to keep his work a secret so... and it requires no explanation. Dear Amy: I have a problem and sincerely hope that you can help. I have a bad case of "midriff-bulge". It's just pitiful. Everyone tells me I have a good figure but everytime I see myself in the mirror and what looks like a man's beer belly, I just get sick. What can be done to get rid of it? A Girl With a Bulge.

Dear Amy: I have been married 18 years and have three children. I have always had to go out and work and support my family. My husband always stayed home and he never cared if he worked or not. When he got a job it didn't last long and he would never give me the money he made. He is a jack-of-all-trades and I

Chronically Ill At Runnells Get Team Care For Their Varied Ailments

ROOMMATES — These two patients enjoy their new quarters at the county-supported, John E. Runnells Hospital in Berkeley Heights. The double rooms are part of the hospital's new 50-bed "nursing home" unit for chronically ill patients. A second 50-bed unit is now under construction.

By BARBARA GIBBONS
What does a hospital do when it runs out of patients? That's the question that could face the John E. Runnells Hospital for Chest Diseases — if it stuck to its name. But "chest disease" — tuberculosis — becomes increasingly rare each year in Union County.

But there are other categories of disease where no such shortage of patients exists, categories expanding so rapidly that no combination of public and private facilities can begin to meet the need. Once the tax-supported county hospital opened its doors to these patients it found itself racing just to keep pace.

One such category — the mentally retarded — was discussed here last week. The county hospital houses approximately 50 severely retarded youngsters for whom there is no room in state institutions. These children are not the county's responsibility, but if Runnells didn't respond to their need there would be no place for them to go.

The chest category is one which is becoming a national problem — the chronically ill. These people, usually of advanced years, are suffering from degenerative diseases for which there is little hope of cure. They are the people who would be in nursing homes — if they had any money and if nursing homes were available.

"NURSING HOME CARE is one of the critical shortages of our area," maintains Louis Glascos of Union, a member of the Runnells' board of managers. "People in this category can't be kept in hospitals. Conventional hospital care is too costly and, because of the nature of their disease, they can't profit from it."

One of the facets of caring for the chronically ill is the variety of attention they need, Glascos continued. Each patient has his own unique set of problems requiring a separate course of action. The average elderly inmate has, not one disease, but many. He may, for example, have hardening of the arteries, high blood pressure, partial paralysis as a result of a stroke, overweight, all this complicated by diabetes. Such a combination of major afflictions is more the rule than the exception. The treatment of any one facet of his disease must be coordinated with all his other physical problems.

The Runnells staff uses a team approach in caring for the chronically ill. The doctor, nurse, the physical and occupational therapist, social worker, dietitian, volunteer and clergyman all work together to care as many ill as possible and to help the patient make the best adjustment possible to what is not curable.

Physical therapy is particularly important in this process. Physical therapy helps able limbs to overcome the work of limbs disabled by paralysis or degenerative disease. Sometimes the goal isn't improvement, but the prevention of further disability due to lack of exercise. "The physical and occupational therapist work closely together," Occupational therapist is not necessarily related to job skills, as its name may imply, but the whole range of self-care activities such as "occupations" — dressing oneself and combining one's job, as are recreation and hobby skills. Painting, weaving, knitting and woodworking not only occupy the ill person's mind, but force him to exercise certain muscle groups. A group of patients around a work table may seem to be merely amusing themselves, but in fact each activity has been carefully worked out to suit a special purpose.

THE WAITING LIST of chronically ill patients seeking admission to the county hospital is long, and growing longer, a situation which sparked Runnells' medical director Dr. Eugene Nargallo to admit in the 50th annual report: "It may be true that this type of patient will always exceed the available bed space."

Notwithstanding, the County Board of Freeholders has seen fit to light a few million-dollar small candles by expanding the present facilities. Last year Runnells opened a 50-bed motel-type "nursing home" structure to accommodate chronically ill. A second 50-bed unit is now under construction and should be ready later this year.

The board of managers claims confidence that the "patient care is second to none," yet is proud of the many economies it feels have been effected. The last annual report noted that it costs an average of $22.35 per day to care for patients — markedly less than average per diem hospital care. The actual cost to the taxpayers is about $18.37 daily, after payments and state aid is deducted.

Admission to the chronically ill section is based on priorities established by the diagnostic team. Such factors as the ability of the patient or family to care for him at home are considered, along with the availability of other types of nursing care: private nursing homes and the like. Minimum and maximum payment rates are established and the social service department, after investigation, decides what the patient or his legally responsible relatives can pay. Those who cannot pay the minimum rate may apply to the County Board of Welfare for help in meeting the bill.

Also elected to the Board of Trustees was Albert Caruso of Freshfield, a building contractor in Roselle Park.

Retiring from the Board is Mrs. Harlan Pratt of North Plainfield. She was one of the founders of the organization.

The program of the evening was presented by the staff of the Union County Psychiatric Clinic in which five teams presented a disguised case from the type of work done by the clinic's staff.

EAST-LER GROUND-BREAKING: Clinton Hill Baptist Church, located at 2815 Morris ave., Union, near the Springfield line, will break ground at 11 a.m. Sunday morning for the new sanctuary, the second unit in a long-range three-building complex planned by the congregation. The completed sanctuary, which will seat 350, is pictured above in the architect's rendering joined to the existing rectangular all-purpose building. Construction of the new building, which was designed by Stephen Potters of Union, will start the first week in April.

Clinton Hill To Break Ground Sunday For New Sanctuary

Ground-breaking for an addition which will provide a Sunday school and additional classroom space for the Clinton Hill Baptist Church will be held Sunday at 11 a.m. in conjunction with a religious service. Rev. John D. Fassel, pastor of the church, will officiate at the ceremony. The new building, the second unit in a long-range three-building complex planned by the congregation, will be located at 2815 Morris ave., Union, near the Springfield line. The completed sanctuary, which will seat 350, is pictured above in the architect's rendering joined to the existing rectangular all-purpose building. Construction of the new building, which was designed by Stephen Potters of Union, will start the first week in April.

Heating of Butler and Purdy Electrical of Lippert, Inc., will be of colonial architecture with red brick exterior. A small steeple will be placed on the roof. The entrance will carry out the architectural design. The interior will have laminated arches supporting an exposed beam roof. The sanctuary will be raised and centered at the back of the church. The church will feature a raised platform which will seat a choir of 35.

Overall plans of the congregation include the addition of a third building in the foreseeable future, Pastor Fassel said. The history of the Clinton Hill church goes back 115 years to Sept. 7, 1849, when it was first organized as the First German Baptist Church of Newark.

Beware Of Poison! Some Helpful Hints

Overlook household in Summit put out a special warning to parents with toddlers last week concerning poisons.

Every third day some youngster is hospitalized in Summit because he has taken poison, said a health officer in his own home. There were 127 such cases last year alone, the hospital said.

Other poisons household items are often concentrated in the kitchen. Cleaning compounds and poisons. The cellar or garage can harbor dangerous painting materials, insect poisons and other chemicals. Even cosmetics can be harmful. All such items should be put safely away in a central locked cupboard or a cabinet out of reach of small children.

What to do in case of poisoning: First, call your doctor, next call the poison control center. In the state equipped to deal with all types of poisoning, the hospital said.

Other rules for the wise parent include the following:

1. Non-edible products should never be stored with food.
2. Poisonous liquids should not be poured into bottles which children can mistake for palatable liquids. In other words, don't pour the weed killer into an old soda bottle or dilute the bleach in a cup or drinking glass. Both should be locked up as usual.
3. Discarded poisons should be disposed of safely and permanently.
4. Among medicines, aspirin and oil of wintergreen are the most inviting. Pills may be mistaken for candy, which no medicine should ever be called even if it tastes good.
5. Medicine should not be given in the dark. Check the label twice.
6. Be sure paint on toys, furniture and accessible parts of house does not contain lead.

Summit Y Offers 8 Guitar Lessons

"Beginners Guitar," an eight-lesson course in the fundamentals of playing the guitar, will be offered by the Summit YWCA beginning April 13, at 6 p.m.

The single-note approach, progressing to three-string chords, will be used to teach familiar melodies and folk tunes. The class is open to both men and women.

Joseph Hument, the instructor, has been playing the guitar professionally for 15 years and has taught the instrument privately for many years.

Since the size of the class is limited, early registration is urged. For further information, telephone Mary Ida Gardner, young adult program director, at the YWCA, CR 3-4242.

UNIQUE KITCHENS TO BE INSPECTED BY YWCA GROUP

A tour of unique kitchens in three homes in Summit and Clinton Township is scheduled for the Summit YWCA's Kuffel-Kitchensch program next Wednesday morning.

RABBI REUBEN R. LEVINE

Tells Of Holiday Of Passover

Passover in the Jewish religious calendar. Rabbi Reuben R. Levine, spiritual leader of Temple Beth Ahm said, "When the Passover holiday begins tomorrow evening, Jewish families will gather to observe the festive 'Seder' meal together with friends and relatives. This family approach to the observance of Passover has made it one of the best remembered holidays in the Jewish religious calendar. The fact that the Seder encourages full participation of children has also served to impress its delights upon young minds. However, the meal and the special symbolic foods associated with Passover are only an introduction to the deep spiritual message of the holiday. As a remembrance of the Biblical account of the Exodus of Israelites from Egypt where they were enslaved, it speaks to us also in contemporary terms. The ultimate purpose of the observance is to remind us that as long as man is capable and desirous of inflicting oppression upon his fellow man, we must never cease in our striving to eliminate such evil in the world. The upsurge of freedom's love which impelled the ancient Israelites to seek release from the Pharaoh's tyranny has been an emotion active in the hearts of many groups of men in many ages of mankind's history. It was present in the hearts of the heroes at Concord and Lexington and instead of colonial Springfield... no less than in those in antiquity who set forth into the wilderness behind their leader Moses. Nor was the urge toward human liberty any less in evidence on the beaches of Normandy or the hills of Korea where American lives were lost in the hope of preserving freedom. Passover then, in its fully appreciated impact, is much more than a celebration of an ancient event or a time for family gathering and prayer. It is God's way of reminding those who observe it that man's striving to preserve each person's right to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness must never cease; that the battle for universal human freedom has yet to be won."

FAMILY LIFE TODAY

by PHYLLIS GREER

Specialist in Human Relations at Rutgers
OVERPROTECTION
 The overprotective parent is to blame. This is no doubt the one who says, "I love you truly true."

In reality, it means that instead of love and care for the child, the parents want to protect a life of his own. The parent who does everything for a child never permits the child to learn and have fun by doing things for himself.

When parents understand the developmental needs of their child, they will realize that he needs freedom to grow and to develop independence and responsibility. It is helpful for parents inclined to overprotection to ask: "Will this help my child become a self-sufficient person, or am I doing this because I want to do it? Will this satisfy my child's need for growth, or will this satisfy my desires to keep him a little boy?"

Tips for
TODAY'S HOMEMAKER

From MARY ARMSTRONG, County Home Agent

PORK MAKES A WORTHY REPEAT, EASY AND EASY ON BUDGETS
 A fresh ham makes a more impressive appearance on a luncheon table and for a large crowd it is a good choice. A young roast of pork with a stuffing center makes an elegant appearance for a smaller group.

The holiday pork roast should sit well on the food shopper's list for supply are now plentiful and prices reasonable, says the U. S. Department of Agriculture. The 1963 fall pig crop was a record 2.9 billion, which means also considered abundant, and marketings are now heavy.

PICKING PORK
 Here are a few pointers to help you in judging and maintaining pork quality.

For high-quality pork, look for firm, fine textured lean that is grayish-pink in color. Firm, white fat on the outside of the cut and some fat well distributed through the lean.

Store fresh pork in the refrigerator, loosely wrapped, and plan on using it within a few days. Ground pork and the variety cuts are highly perishable and should be used promptly. You can store precooked cured pork loins, but fresh cuts, but the fat will become rancid if the meat is held too long. Bacon and the variety cuts and tenderloin cured hams require refrigeration. Bacon should be eaten within a week for best quality. Quick-cure half hams should be used within 5 weeks. Whole quick-cure hams keep a little better than the half hams, but they should be used within 2 weeks for best quality.

As for long-cure ham, they can be stored without refrigeration, the length of time depending on the care. To prepare your pork, use an uncovered shallow pan with a rack in the bottom. Add no more than the roasting liquid. Baste the meat with the fat that drips up so it will be self-basting. Use low or moderate oven cooking temperature—325° to help conserve nutrients and prevent loss of weight during cooking.

Remember, iron-pork must be thoroughly cooked. The best way to judge that it's properly cooked is by using a meat thermometer. When these cuts such as hams and shoulders are cooked, insert the thermometer in the thickest part of the meat, where it does not touch either bone or fat. When done, the internal temperature of the meat should be 160°.

When roasting cured pork, the internal temperature should read at 160° for whole or half hams, and 170° for shoulder portions.

If the meat is frozen or very cold at the beginning of the cooking period, allow extra time for cooking.

PORK CROWN ROAST
 A crown roast is a partly roasted ham from the rib end of the loin. It is heat and tied to form a circle or crown with the ends of the ribs exposed. Be sure the backbone is completely removed to aid carving. The exposed rib bones should be covered with bacon or salt pork, or waxed paper, while roasting. Heavy foil may be used at serving time. AMOUNT 30

GLAZE FOR PORK ROAST
 Here's a trick for a very attractive brown coating for a pork loin, leg, or shoulder roast. Cover the surface of the uncooked roast with a mixture of 1/2 to 1 cup brown sugar, 2 to 3 tablespoons vinegar, 1 teaspoon dry mustard, 1/2 teaspoon powdered cloves or ginger. During the roasting, spoon the drippings in the pan over the roast two or three times.

Wright Pulls Top
GOP Ballot Spot
For Freeholder

Henry S. Wright of 53 Colfax rd., Springfield, has won the first position for "Regular" Republican candidates on the April 21 primary election ballot. The drawing was held last Thursday in the Union County courthouse.

Wright is running for one of three Republican nominations for a three-year term on the Board of Freeholders. His ballot slogan will be "Regular Organization Republican."

Following Wright for the GOP nod, on the ballot are Eugene F. Daly of Summit, and the three incumbent Freeholders bracketed as "Regular" Republican Organization: Henry P. Wester of Mountainside, Matthew J. Rinaldo, Jr. of Union, and George Forrester of Elizabeth. In the last spot is C. Bruce De Camilli of Plainfield.

Two insurgent Democratic Freeholder candidates, also seeking the nomination for a three-year term, won the top line on the Democrats' ballot. Listed first is Milton Davis of Linden, followed by Anthony W. Belluscio of Clark.

On a line below the insurgents will be the "Regular Democratic Organization" candidates in this order: Frank T. Cichie of Cranford, John V. Donohue of Roselle and Edward J. Wilusz of Elizabeth.

Irene Velinsky of Plainfield is listed first among GOP candidates seeking the unexpired term of Miss Mary C. Karate, now surrogate. Hugh Caldwell of Plainfield will be unopposed in his bid for the Democratic nomination for the unexpired term.

Doerr, Miss Cox
In Delegates' Bid

Elizabeth L. Cox and Charles A. Doerr opened their campaign this week with letters to all members of the Union County Republican Committee. The two are seeking election in next month's Republican primary as district delegates to the National GOP convention. They are opposing organizational candidates Mayor F. Edward Fitzsimons of Union and Robert E. McPherson of Fanwood.

Doerr and Miss Cox appear on the ballot as "Unpledged Republicans - Not Ultra-Conservatives."

In their letter to GOP committee members, Doerr and Miss Cox state "We believe with State Chairman Webster Tread that the Republicans of the sixth district should not be forced to vote for committed delegates. Contrary to that principal, somehow, McPherson and Fitzsimons got the nod despite being chairman and supporters of Goldwater."

Mac Pherson is an avowed Goldwater supporter. Fitzsimons, however, is a registered Democrat, he is a pledged Goldwater supporter.

Miss Cox is from Summit; Doerr, from Westfield.

Start Next Month On-Pilot Program For Drug Addicts

Freeholder Matthew J. Rinaldo of Union announced last week that a pilot rehabilitation program for Union County drug addicts is scheduled to start next month.

Rinaldo, who initiated the program, said he was in the process of interviewing psychiatrists experienced in working with addicts. The psychiatrist would guide and direct the program, supervise a full-time trained caseworker, and administer a weekly two-hour group therapy session to cooperative addicts, Rinaldo explained.

The Board of Freeholders voted early this month to appropriate $6,000 to launch the program, which is designed to aid jailed addicts and provide post-institutional care. Noting that the narcotics rehabilitation program adopted by Union County coincides with steps recommended by a special state commission studying the drug addiction problem, Rinaldo said he considered the county plan "a step in the right direction."

"Anything we can do to help cut off the frightful increase in the use of narcotics and barbiturates by our youth is worthwhile," he declared. He said his rehabilitation plan "would provide aid to the addicts in a program shaped to their needs. These unfortunate individuals need help in readjusting to the realities they have known by taking narcotics. After studying many aspects of the situation, I am convinced that group therapy, such as we will employ, is part of the answer. This at least represents an honest and sincere effort to solve the problem."

Schedule Canoe Trip, Hike This Weekend

Charles Trelease, Earl Orange and George Sedmont, Cranford, will lead an all-day Rockaway River canoe trip on Saturday. The group will cruise through Morris County to the Bonton reservoir and continue around through Hanover Township until they reach the Passaic River in Livingston. It was announced.

A Saturday afternoon ramble through the Watchung Reservation will be conducted by Mike Irma Meyer, Elizabeth, at 1:30 p.m. The hike will pay a visit to the Trallice Nature and Science Center and take a circular walk of four to five miles including a stop at Seeley's Pond.

New Methods To Preserve Fresh Foods

By MARY W. ARMSTRONG
Today we have become used to high quality fresh foods preserved by a variety of methods, but the future promises still more. Improvements have been made in older methods as the development of freeze-drying, a combination of dehydration and freezing with advantages over both. But one new method of food preservation may soon supplement canning, freezing, drying, pickling, or combinations of these. Radiation is the first completely new method of food preservation since the development of the canning process 150 years ago, report Extension Specialists. Extensive research on radiation of food has been conducted by the U. S. Army and other organizations. The new process may become commercially feasible in a few years. Research on the wholesomeness of cobalt irradiated foods has shown that they are safe for human consumption. The U. S. Food and Drug Administration has approved for public consumption radiation sterilized bacon. Several other foods, including potatoes, chicken, pork, fish, oranges, and fruit, continue to be submitted for approval. Successful radiation of food offers several marketing advantages. It reduces spoilage, which increases cost; it retains original fresh quality; it extends the marketing season for fresh foods.

Highly perishable foods are also subject to insect damage. The resulting waste adds to the cost of foods. Marketing waste in peaches, grapes, strawberries, and tomatoes amounts to from nine to 15 per cent of the retail value. Radiation treatment would reduce waste by extending the refrigerator storage life.

Successful radiation food processing aims at retaining the natural fresh characteristics of foods. Taste tests in the U. S. Army indicate acceptable quality retention through radiation.

Radiation also makes possible the harvesting of fresh fruits and vegetables in a more nearly ripe, mature condition without loss of quality.

Not only would quality be maintained and spoilage be reduced, but the marketing season would be lengthened as a result of extended storage life through successful radiation processing of foods.

High costs and large capital outlays for commercial production are delaying the availability of irradiated foods for consumer use. But a committee of the U. S. Government indicates that a start of commercial processing for civilian use may be feasible in about three years. The Director of the Food Division of the U. S. Army Natick Laboratories predicts that eventually costs of radiation preservation of foods will become competitive with canning, freezing, and freeze-drying.

Of the many types of dehydration of foods, freeze-drying is likely to become the most popular. As the name indicates, the food to be freeze-dried is first frozen and the moisture present in the form of ice crystals is removed. The process is relatively slow and must be carefully done to insure that the temperature of the food during the period of moisture is being removed does not become so high that it affects food flavor. The freeze-dry process is proving particularly successful with chops, shrimp, lobster meat, crab meat, and mushrooms. These have been judged excellent in flavor and texture when the foods were rehydrated; also retention of nutritive values is high.

The cost of freeze-drying is greater than freezing, but when long term storage or long distance shipping is involved, the cost is comparable.

'Peep, Peep!' Becomes 'Cluck, Cluck!' As Dad Turns Chicken With Gertrude

(Another commentary on modern living by photographer Bob Baxter) to whom the unusual seems to happen usually.)

By BOB BAXTER
I swear that everything happens in my house.

The latest uproarious event in the Baxter household occurred last weekend. My daughter Barbara, with typical Baxter luck, had won the door prize at a Sea Scout dance in Roselle to which her Girl Scout troop had been invited Saturday night.

The door-prize had bigger feet than she has — and claws to boot. Barbara had won a full-grown chicken (hen, I think).

Having retired early, I was unaware of my daughter's misfortune. The wife, napping on the couch, had heard only the words "Mom, I won a chick as a door-prize." No doubt, she had visions of a fluffy yellow thing that "Hansy Scratched Yet." So she told Barbara, "That's nice. Now go to sleep."

I have a habit of going to the basement kitchen for a glass of ginger ale during the night. I never drink beer after 2 a.m. As I stumbled into the kitchen Sunday morning, I almost tripped over a cardboard box. I muttered some minor oaths at my son Kevin for leaving his toys about. My foot slid the box out of the line of traffic and a momentary panic gripped me when the sound of "Cluck" shattered the stillness. Taken aback, I fearfully flicked the light switch hesitantly toward the box. Then in the full beam of 20 watts, the saddest, ugliest naked head I have ever seen looked me straight in the eye and again said "Cluck."

Now, my previous experience with chickens had been limited to drooling over them on the radio. So the sight of this very much alive animal left large doubts about the nature of the beast and its true origin.

Its sudden invasion of the basement posed something of a mystery. Although it was 6:15 a.m., I was too curious to wait.

"Would you care to explain?" I asked my wife.

After shaking a few night-time cobwebs from her head, she matter-of-factly replied, "Oh, the chick."

"Chick?" I shouted. "This thing is huge. It's big enough for dinner, if I could find out what it is."

Quickly donning a robe, she hustled down to the basement, whence a shriek was forthcoming a few seconds later.

My daughter, who had been awakened by the commotion, bounced from her room beaming. "What do you think of the door-prize? Only sheer fortitude kept me from telling her."

By that time, the two boys had joined the chicken inspectors in the basement. "Isn't he cute," one said. "You dope," he older-and-wiser-in those-ways brother remonstrated. "That HE is a hen."

In the meantime, Barbara volunteered the information that ITS name was Gertrude.

So there we were on Sunday, with pork chops defrosting for dinner and a live chicken loose in the basement, laying everything but eggs.

"Get rid of it," I boomed. So my youngest boy ran to his room, with tears in his eyes.

"But I won it," Barbara pleaded. "Right," I said, "then you clean up after it." So ended the great chicken debate.

While I was sharpening a carving knife, the oldest son asked for a reprieve from the death sentence I had imposed. "So, sell it," Judge Baxter ruled on the appeal.

After several neighbors had refused the offer, the price dropped from $1 to 25 cents. Even a farmer with a small spread, refused to take the refuge into his fold.

On the way home, the bike slipped in the snow, and Gertrude fell loose onto a playground. The dazed bird would have to be shown white. Gertrude flew off into the wooded area and blended neatly with the surroundings.

At my boy's side told me of Gertrude's escape. I couldn't help but remember that the Easter Egg Hunt would be held there on Saturday. And I visualized some tyke coming home from the egg hunt, lugging a chicken with the saddest, ugliest naked head you ever saw, and telling his mother, "Look, what I found at the egg hunt."

As the horrified parent stares at the bird, it would probably look up with those beady, knowing eyes and say, "Cluck."

My Neighbors

"Well, I haven't found any that like me."

Riding Sessions Now Under Way At Watchung Site

A program for organized adult horseback riding groups is again being conducted by the Union County Park Commission this spring at the Watchung Stable, Glenside ave., Summit.

The groups, comprised of novice, intermediate, and advanced riders, are supervised by a competent staff of instructors. In addition to instruction, the groups enjoy trail riding through the Watchung Reservation, picnic rides and gymkhana.

Weekday rides are being held on Tuesdays at 9:15 a. m. and a second group at 1:15 p. m., Wednesdays at 9:30 a. m. and Thursdays at 1:15 p. m., at a fee of $3.25 per ride.

Evening groups riding on Tuesdays, Wednesdays, and Thursdays at 7:30 will begin riding early in May. For further information and application contact Thomas N. Tully, director of troops, at the Watchung Stable.

Hughes To Speak Before Chamber

Gov. Richard Hughes will be the principal speaker at the Annual Progress Dinner of the Chamber of Commerce of Eastern Union County to be held Thursday, April 23, at 7 p. m. in the Elizabeth Carver Hotel in Elizabeth, it was announced.

John Roll, chairman of the dinner committee said the dinner is the chamber's most important event of the year. The trade association this year will combine the event with the celebration of the 300th anniversary of the state.

Roll said that reservations will be honored in the order of their receipt and tables will be set in the company representative.

Small-Fry Lakers New Champions

The final game of the season in the Caldwell Small-Fry Basketball League was a game for the championship. In this contest the Lakers met the Pistons. The Lakers were victorious in a tight battle by the score of 17-16. Bruce Jefferys with seven points paced the victory for the Lakers. It was one foul shot by Jefferys and two by Mitch Wolff in the final period which provided the Lakers with the victory. The Pistons put on a final period rally in this game but their effort fell short. Dan Silverman, James Gaoon, and Reid Hagerly paced the Pistons.

In the consolation game for third spot in the league, the Pistons defeated the Aggies by the score of 9-7. Billy McDonald and Jimmy Shoch paced the Pistons with four points each. Bobby Planner with four points was high scorer for the Aggies. By virtue of this game the Pistons finished third for the season.

The championship game in the Sandover Small-Fry League was a thrilling overtime affair. In the contest the Pirates turned back the Raiders, 14-11. The Raiders look an early lead in this contest. The Pirates however, rallied in the fourth period to tie the score. Two foul shots with but a few seconds remaining in the ball game tied the score for the Pirates. Cley Week scored these two shots. Dave Miniman was high for the Champion Pirates throughout the game. Dave ended with a game high of 16 points. The Pirates won the game in the overtime period on a foul shot by Miniman and a basket by Billy McDonald. The Pirates came from the league cellar to win the Playoff Championship.

Tryouts Scheduled
By Marauder Girls

The Union Little League will hold tryouts Saturday at Elastic Stop Nut Field with the Central League scheduled at 9 a.m. and the Western League at 1 p. m. In case of bad weather the trials will be held the following week, April 4.

Youngsters who are accepted for teams should be assigned during the coming week, and they will be notified by next Thursday or Friday. Names and assignments of all new Little Leaguers will appear here in the near future.

Sure Tastes Like Potato Chips! Rutgers Scientist Dips Into Flavors

Popeye beware!
Rutgers food scientists who are working on the development of synthetic potato chip flavor compounds could well displace the comic strip character as the champion of spinach fanciers.

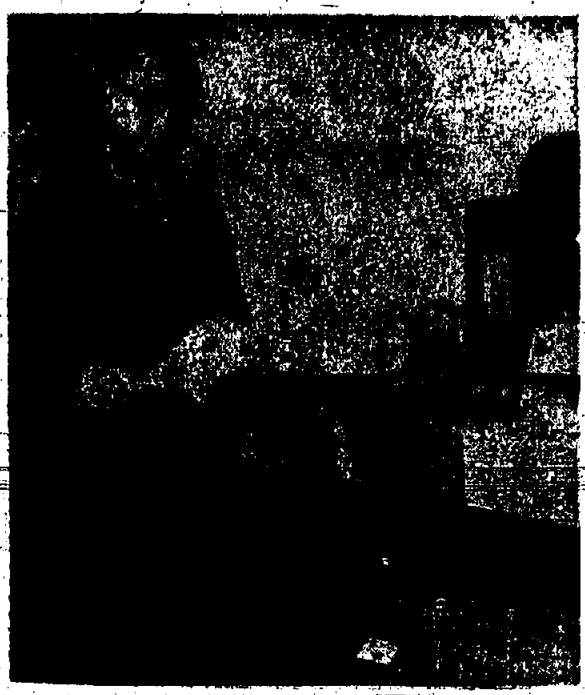

According to Dr. Stephen S. Chang, a professor of food science at Rutgers University's College of Agriculture, it may be possible one day soon to produce a plate of spinach or any other nutritious food or beverage — which will have the flavor of crunchy potato chips.

In their attempts to isolate the flavor from potato chips, Dr. Chang and his research assistants have so far isolated several compounds, including "2,4 decadienal," the fresh flavor component of potato chips.

"We have found that as the potato chip becomes stale, the amount of 2,4 decadienal decreases," said Mr. Chang, who has received more than $200,000 in public and private grants in support of his research on flavor chemistry and the chemistry of food fats.

He is studying chemical reactions involved in deep frying, mechanisms in the development of off-flavor in soybeans and hydrogenation of oils and fats.

Dr. Chang hopes to isolate all the flavor components of potato chips and develop synthetic compounds for them. He believes this achievement would lead to methods of improving the flavor of chips, of devising guidelines for breeding better potatoes and, if desired, "publicizing" the use of using potato chip flavors in various foods and beverages.

FLAVORED RESEARCH — Dr. Stephen S. Chang, professor of food science, checks results of experiments on the isolation of flavor from potato chips in his laboratory at the Rutgers College of Agriculture. He hopes to develop synthetic compounds of potato chip flavor components for the purpose of improving the flavor of chips and possibly using the flavor in other foods and beverages.

ACRILAN AND CUMULOFF NYLON

BELOW ARE TWO OF THE
MANY WONDERFUL
CARPETS AVAILABLE

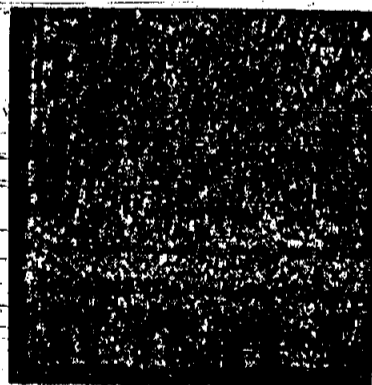

IN BOTH ACRILAN AND CUMULOFF NYLON

Wherever the traffic is thickest — that's where these carpets belong. These Acrilan or Cumuloff carpets are made to take the busy rush — their bounce-back beauty shows a wonderful resilience; resist soiling and fading; liquids don't penetrate, no stains are easy to wash, and soil can be cleaned away easily because it remains on the surface. Moth and mildew-proof too. These are the advantages you'll enjoy for a long, long time — carpets by Magee. STOP IN TODAY. Choose from our wide collection of patterns in Magee's True Nature Collection.

Magee's Pebble — Thick, crisp, level-loop carpet of multi-level loops forming a pebble pattern against a ground of lower loops. Just $8.95 sq. yd. (Installation arranged)

Magee's Dunes — A deep, plush pile carpet made with Acrilan yarns in the pile. This out-pile beauty is sheared and finished to bring out all of the subtle richness of color and texture. Just $8.95 sq. yd. (Installation arranged)

BROWN ALSO COORDINATES the physical education program at the school. He is also in charge of the school's athletic facilities and equipment.

Brown, who is middle-aged, stands for MacPherson in the development of our youth and his rich and colorful background as a student, teacher and administrator.

He received his first taste of American sports in Hillsdale when he went on to become a star half back in football and a forward in basketball.

Thanks to an athletic scholarship, Brown got to go to college. He graduated with honors from the University of Florida with a degree in physical education.

His first job was at Caldwell High School where he not only coached football but also coached basketball.
