Zoning Protests Raised Tuesday At Town Session

Speakers Criticize Changes In General, Variance For Alsom

Township Committee chambers were packed Tuesday night as two groups protesting zoning changes in general and a particular variance made their objections known to the governing body.

Present were members of the South Springfield Betterment Civic Association and the newly formed Springfield Homeowners Association. They said they had come to protest a variance recommended for approval by the Board of Adjustment for property at 733 Mountain ave.

The variance requested of Alsom, the far construction of an office building on Mountain ave. and construction of a parking lot to the rear of the building in a residential zone, was held for further consideration by the Committee.

On hand to protest were Milton Marcus, president of the Homeowners' group, and Emanuel Magid, president of the SSCA. Also among the protesters was Seymour Margulies, an attorney, of 29 So. Derby rd., who said he was speaking in behalf of himself and eight other area property owners.

Not 'Sworn Testimony' Margulies charged that the application is "ineffective and cannot be granted." He said that testimony taken from Sam Piccone, who is seeking the variance, was not "sworn testimony." He said that no testimony during the Board of Adjustment hearing on the case was taken under oath.

The attorney said that under the present zoning laws even if an encroachment is allowed in a residential area, it cannot be over 50 feet into the residential zone. He pointed out that the application asks for almost 200 feet.

Springfield Man Elected To Head State Educators

Dr. Randolph T. Jacobsen of Springfield was elected president of the N. J. Association of Secondary School Administrators at the annual meeting held last week in Camden.

Dr. Jacobsen was principal of Jonathan Dayton Regional High School here from 1956 to 1962 and is now assistant superintendent of the Regional High School District. The state group is composed of more than 600 secondary school administrators.

A native of Manassas, Pa., Dr. Jacobsen is a graduate of Dickinson College in Carlisle, Pa., and holds master's and doctor's degrees from Rutgers University. He taught in Point Pleasant and Somerville and was principal of Somerville High School before coming to Springfield.

Dr. Jacobsen has been active in the Middle States Association of Secondary Schools and Colleges and the National Secondary Schools Principals Association. He is a member of five educational advisory boards of Union Junior College and of Fairleigh Dickinson University and a former board member of the N. J. Schoolmasters' Club.

Dr. Jacobsen has served as a deacon and elder of the Presbyterian Church.

He is married to the former Lois Griggs of Short Hills. They have two children, Mrs. Barbara J. Allen of Staten Island and Thomas, a senior at Jonathan Dayton.

3 Committee Seats On November Ballot

Robert G. Planer has been named to fill the Township Committee vacancy left by the resignation of Carmen Catapano. The new committeeman is expected to be seated at the May 26 meeting.

Planer, who was not present due to a previously planned vacation, was voted into office by unanimous committee vote at Tuesday night's meeting. He will serve until Jan. 1. Planer was named chairman of the administration committee.

The new committeeman is expected to be the third Republican candidate to seek office for Catapano's one year unexpired term in November. Although no announcement as to candidate choice was forthcoming from the Springfield Republican County Committee, it was reliably reported that the man named to succeed Catapano would be the Republican choice in November.

By virtue of Planer's appointment, the November state would seem to share into Township Committeeman Arthur M. Falkin and Mayor Robert D. Hordgrove for three-year terms, plus Planer for one, on the Republican side, vs. Democrats Jay B. Bloom and Douglas Matzke for three-year terms and a so far unknown candidate to oppose Planer.

The new Committeeman is a 42-year resident of the township. He is 40. A member of the Board of Adjustment until resigning Tuesday, he was formerly director of Civil Defense Disaster Control for Springfield.

A graduate of Irvington High School, Planer is a civil engineer with a degree from Newark College of Engineering. He is a partner in the firm of Graham Inspection Bureau, Orange, where he is married and the father of two children, Patricia, 14, and Robert, 11. He is a Navy veteran. The family lives at 125 Short Hills Ave.

As members of the Township Committee voted to seat Planer, Springfield Democratic Chairman Alex Blackman was still maintaining that appointment of a Democrat to the post until November would have been advisable.

Blackman, in a letter to the Committee this week, had urged the return of "bi-partisan flavor and content" to the governing body of the township by naming a Democrat to the vacant seat.

Fadam Litigants Slate Depositions For This Monday

Depositions will be taken from township officials Monday by Attorney Brian Weinberg, representing the taxpayers who are bringing suit against the township. The suit opposes granting a special exception use for construction of a "convalescent home" on the Fadam Farm property. The practice, common on the Fadam, has been set for May 27 in Superior Court, Elizabeth.

Weinberg was given permission to take the statements, early in April, by Superior Court Judge Walter T. Herfield III. The Attorney says he will call all the members of the Township Committee, all the members of the Board of Adjustment "including their attorney" and "certain members of the Planning Board."

Depositions will be taken in Weinberg's Springfield office. Weinberg said he was permitted to take the depositions because one of the charges in the matter is "conflict of interest."

Representing Attorney James M. Cawley, who is representing the township in this action, said he will be present Monday and plans to take depositions from the plaintiffs on Tuesday. "We will begin to take their depositions on Tuesday," Cawley said. "It will probably take several days to complete the taking of statements." He said there are 12 complainants involved.

The suit brought by the Springfield Association in February 1963, is a similar situation when the government seals were available because of the resignation of one Democratic member.

"Springfield citizens are in a mood of watchful waiting," Blackman alleged. "The responsibility for filling the seat left open falls upon all of you gentlemen, collectively."

Baseball Has 'Great Value For Small Boys'

Effect Seen Depending On Adult Leadership

By ABNER GOLD
Little League baseball can be of tremendous positive value in a boy's development, or it can leave deep and lasting scars. The judgment which will settle one of the heated debates over the subject, which flared every spring, is the opinion of Dr. Robert Miceli, Springfield school psychologist and coordinator of special services.

The wide range of effect, which organized baseball can have on boys aged nine to 12, Dr. Miceli says, can be traced directly to the goals of each league and the attitudes of the men who direct each team.

"If we are working to develop each child to the limit of his potential ability," he explains, "we can do a great deal of good with little leagues. We can train a boy in skill and physical coordination and in sportsmanship. We can help him desire to be a good loser and a good winner. We can teach him to respect and understand strength and weakness in himself and in others."

"A MAJOR ASSET is that little leagues gives the boy a taste of masculine identification just when he is ready to start growing out of a world operated by women."

Just as far-reaching, however, Dr. Miceli stresses, can be the damage inflicted on a youngster if a little league program is not run with great care.

"If we try to make every youngster into a perfect athlete," he declares, "we subject him to a pressure which must be harmful."

Change In Zoning Requested For Rt. 22, S. Derby Rd. Area

The Springfield Planning Board will take "under advisement" a request to recommend a change of zone that could permit construction of a garden apartment, a shopping center and commercial buildings on a 22.5-acre tract fronting on Rt. 22.

Frank E. Cardinal, real estate developer, represented Mr. and Mrs. Mykola Boychuk, owners of the property, in making the request to the Planning Board last Thursday.

The property is on the north side of Rt. 22, bounded by the Echo Plaza Shopping center and garden apartments fronting on Mountain ave. on the west, Shafermoth pl. on the east, and homes fronting on S. Derby rd. on the north.

The property is now zoned business and residential. Cardinal said his client asked that the business zone, which varies in depth from 250 to 350 ft. be adjusted to an even depth of 400 feet and that the residential portion of the property—about 15 acres—be zoned for garden apartments.

Was Approached
Planning Board member Averlio Paganini, said later that he has been approached as an architect for the proposed construction but that contracts have not been signed. Disappointed himself from the discussion and left the room.

Students Map Action On Trolley Tracks

While the condition of Theresa Gargalowitz remained poor yesterday, her college mates at Fairleigh Dickinson University stood firm in their position to get action on removal of the trolley tracks from Morris ave.

The students can get action on removal of the tracks if they can get a petition signed by 100 persons, which would be presented to someone else.

Donna Reina of 204 Richardson, Newark, a close friend of the injured girl and also a student at the university, said that some 300 signatures had been affixed to petitions asking the governor to take action in removal of the tracks.

Mrs. Reina said that she and Patricia Kenny of 2532 Standish ave., Union, another close friend, had taken on the job of circulating the petitions. "They are in circulation at Douglass College, Rutgers and Fairleigh Dickinson and have also been taken by parents of some of the students."

The Township Committee Tuesday approved a variance for erection of one sign and held action on another until the applicant could be heard.

The Committee held action on the recommendation of the Board of Adjustment for approval of a sign at Panzer's Station, Morris Ave., on request of Jay B. Bloom.

Bloom moved to ask questions regarding the application and was told by Mayor Robert D. Hoffmann that the matter could not be discussed unless the applicant was present, but committee action could be postponed on Bloom's request. Bloom so requested and action on the application for erection of a seven by nine foot sign for the establishment was held until the next meeting.

Permission was granted for erection of a 7-9 square foot sign for the Springfield Motor Inn on Rt. 22. In other action the Committee also approved a variance for expansion of the Hoffman and Boyle store on Morris Turnpike.

Evergreen Case Tried On Monday

Division in a taxpayer's suit seeking to upset a special exception use granted for an addition to Evergreen Lodge is expected by the end of the month, according to Township Attorney James M. Cawley. The case was argued Monday before Superior Court Judge Milton Feller in Elizabeth.

Springfield Attorney Irwin Weinberg presented the case for five township residents who are suing the Township Committee, Building Inspector Otto Fessler and the Board of Adjustment, and asking that the court rescind the ruling of the municipal bodies for the erection of a shell for staging on an Evergreen Lodge property. Cawley acted in behalf of the township.

The suit, which was instituted on June 14, was brought by Frank G. Baroff of 2 Christie Dr., Travis Bross of 85 Evergreen Ave., Sol Waldman of 21 Christie Dr., Mrs. Selma Porter of 21 Twin Oaks Rd., and Mrs. Zelia Goodman of 16 Surrey Dr.

FAMILY LIFE TODAY

of Rutgers... the State University
Specialist in Human Relations

EXASPERATED MOTHERS
"Sometimes I think I'm not a good mother because I get so exasperated with the children," says a mother.
Just because people are parents, it doesn't follow that they are no longer human beings. Any parent can be expected to get exasperated, irritated or annoyed at times with the children.

Loving children, giving them security and promoting their growth and development can be done much better when parents act like the human beings they really are.
Adults have their own needs for love, achievement, and recognition. When parents really are adults, they realize that their needs must be satisfied and that it is not only the children who have needs. It is really much better for both parent and child when the parent remains a person and does not submerge his whole being into parenthood.

The possessive and demanding parent is usually trying to satisfy his own needs through the children and this is harmful for both.
Everything cannot always be sweetness and light, and it is a mistake for parents to try to create that impression. Sooner or later youngsters find out that their parents are human. It's much better for them to grow up with an acceptance of this fact. Then children love their parents because they are the kind of people they need, not because they are perfect.

Tips for Today's Homemaker

From Mary Armstrong, County Home Agent

SAY PRUNES AND SERVE PRUNES ESPECIALLY

"Say Prunes," many photographers have addressed their patrons. We suggest saying prunes for reasons other than producing a good facial expression. We go farther and say, "serve prunes." The reason is the very good eating offered — apart from health or nutritional value or the fact that prunes can be always on hand.

Perhaps this availability has caused many to overlook the possibilities for varied and interesting meals they offer. One need not eat prunes just because they are "good for you." In fact, they make such interesting salads, desserts and other food accompaniments as to commend them if health value was nil.

Have you had a prune apricot upside-down cake recently? It's really an elegant dessert. Do you serve puffy prunes stuffed with cream or cottage cheese topped with walnut halves as a special salad offering? Do you know about tangy spiced prunes as a meat accompaniment? Can you whip up a light prune soufflé to serve with a smooth custard sauce when you want an easy, not too heavy dessert? Have you been introduced to the famous Norwegian Prune Pudding that does so much for low budgets while providing taste delight.

Prunes are like the "poor that we have always with us," and so jokes are made about them — not entirely complimentary. Some say you're "full of prunes" meaning you're "off the beam." But the slang phrase was originally used to denote lots of pep and energy.

As an excellent source of Vitamin A, an important source of minerals, a quick energy snack and a relatively low calorie food, prunes have real appeal.

There are five ways to plump prunes. One of these — soak and cook — suggests overnight soaking. Then after bringing to a boil, turn flame low and simmer for a few minutes. Another — the cold water method — lets the prunes soak in a covered jar — a quart of water to a pound of prunes — for 24 hours and then stay in the refrigerator until needed.

Try Norwegian Prune Pudding soon. Here is the recipe:
1 cup steamed prunes
1 cup prune juice
1/2 cup granulated sugar
1/2 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons lemon juice (or to taste)
1/2 cup boiling water
1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
1/2 cup cold water
Put prunes and cut in four or five pieces. Add juice, sugar, salt, cinnamon, and boiling water. Simmer five minutes. Mix cornstarch with cold water until smooth. Add to prune mixture. Cook and stir until thick. Cook 10 minutes longer in double boiler. Add lemon juice. Chill. Serve with cream. Serves four to six.

Alabama's Governor Branded Liar By Thomas In Address

Alabama's Governor George C. Wallace perpetrates a lie when he maintains that he is fighting for state's rights, Norman H. Thomas, six-time Socialist Party candidate for president, stated last week in an address at Union Junior College, Cranford.

"It is a lie to say he's fighting for state's rights; he's fighting for racism," Thomas told the JJC students.

Calling the substantial number of votes in Wisconsin and Indiana received by the demagogue from the South "disgraceful and shocking," Thomas said there are no moral or intellectual reasons to oppose the fight for equality.

The long-time figure on the American political scene stated: "It is a chronically bad lie that we provide liberty for all, as we profess in our allegiance to the flag. There was no genuine equality for the Negro even after the 14th Amendment was adopted."

Thomas said America has "a chance for a peaceful revolution" because of the non-violence of the Negro movement, which, he said, has no parallel in history.

The speaker urged the students to seek answers to the basic questions of our times in the areas of poverty, war and peace. He stated:

"Intellectually we must examine what excuse there is for poverty in our times. We owe much to President Johnson for his war on poverty. Many of his plans are good as far as they go. It will be an expensive war, but a war that will bring immediate repayment."

The former Socialist president-

AT WAIRAKEI, in the center of the North Island, underground steam is tapped by deep bores and its great heat and pressure converted into electricity. Concrete cylinders of the type shown are used as silencers to deaden the tremendous noise of the escaping steam. (The noise, even so, still is impressive.)

Commentary on a recent National Editorial Association Round the World Newspaper Study Mission

Number Seven
A HEATED SUBJECT

Besides the Glow-Worm Grotto, two more highlights of a trip through the New Zealand wonderland, are the geothermal area in the North Island and the Mt. Cook area in the South Island.

The thermal area is similar to the U. S. Yellowstone area, and consists of geysers, hot lakes, hot springs, hot pools, warm pools, cool pools, fumaroles, live steam and bubbling mud.

The steam can hover over the roads like so much playful fog; the bubbling mud can splutter in pits like so much horrid porridge; the hot springs can be next to cold springs; some springs can be hot in one part and cold in another; whole lakes can be boiling hot or icy cold, and columns of steam and boiling water can be found in odd and unexpected places.

Besides all this thermal activity there are broad translucent lakes of jade green or azure blue, in gaze at rushing waterfalls, lovely springs filled with succulent trout, wooded glens, forested sections, pink, white, yellow or red terraces of silica from the geyser-blowhole sprays, and vast Lake Taupo, 25 miles long and 17 miles wide and fringed at one end with three great volcanoes.

BUT IT'S REAL WONDER of the area is the geo-thermal activity itself and the limitless, potential power it possesses.

The geo-thermal, the dictionary says, is "of, or pertaining to, the internal heat of the earth;" and here, in New Zealand, is one of the spots on earth where it shows, in certain sections of Wairakei, one devising their own equipment to cope with it.

THERE PROBABLY ARE thousands of hot mineral springs and thermal muds in the north half of the North Island from around Lake Taupo to the North Cape a distance of over 300 miles. Some also are in the South Island at Hanger and in some of the valleys of the Southern Alps.

Many of the springs are medicinal and therapeutic and bath houses and pools have been built in many of the places for sufferers of certain ailments.

The Maoris use the springs for cooking, laundering and bathing, choosing the one with the appropriate temperature for the desired task.

At the springs and geysers at Rotorua our guide was a Maori woman named "Rangi," and Rangi was a character. She had been a guide for over a generation and knew her subject well. But she sounded bored and bitter with it, and the tourists, and ended up lecturing as she guided. The subject was how the white man, of course, spoiled the Maori race, and facets thereof. She spoke excellent English so the verbal scolding came through unhampered.

But perhaps she only really was tired, or perhaps her feet hurt. It was about four in the afternoon and it might have been later than we thought. The Maori shoes might have been lighter than we thought too.

Anyway, we survived the Rangi "attack."

We also survived the landing at Mt. Cook, which was even more—amazing—use thought.

THE MAORI GUIDE, Rangi, at the thermal region at Rotorua, giving a lecture on the sights and the sounds of geo-thermal activity — AND of life in general.

of the towns in the heart of this, you can feel the very earth quiver with the power of it all.

It is almost as if the whole province would blow off for space at any moment.

The Hotel Wairakei was a lovely, modern, comfortable hotel, but the noise was so great around it, that it seemed like jet planes were warming up right in the closets.

The pressure of the hot air and steam in the ground is so immense that the government has capped it to utilize the power for electricity and has consequently added several hundred thousand kilowatts to its power capacity.

Kapiti Blowhole alone, the Maori natives say, has erupted steam continuously at a pressure of about 180 pounds per square inch, for at least 500 years before Europeans entered the region. And it is still doing it. Even greater forces exist deep down underground where there are vast reserves of super-hot steam at temperatures several times greater than that of boiling water, and pressures reaching 1,000 pounds per square inch. The hazardous work of taming these immense forces has lately been tackled by New Zealand engineers who have met and overcome unprecedented problems, many times working out their own techniques and

BY AMY ADAMS

Dear Amy:
The "little girl" next door has separated my husband and me. But not without his help and mine! When we moved here, she was a very small child (10 years old). Her dad was 20 years her mother's senior and was unable to work and earn a living. Consequently, this young girl had very little. I thought lots of her and felt sorry for her.

I had her over many times and asked her to go places with us. My husband teased her and treated her as he did our own. I was too blind to see what was happening. Now she is 19 and my husband is 39.
On Halloween when I was at a party with our four children, he had the gall to bring her into my house . . . and you know what happened! This is the thanks I got for trying to be good to a "little girl." (It sure makes you wonder if charity always is advisable).
When I found out, my husband, naturally, left home. He got a job in another town and now writes, begging forgiveness, and asking that I come with the children to live there with him. Is it possible to forgive and forget? Tell me, please, is a second chance worth a try?
I really don't expect to ever see this in print, but as hope is all I have left, I'll hope this makes it.

Dear Undecided:
Make no mistake, I do not condone your husband's actions, but from the beginning of time, man has not been immune to the weakness of temptation. His strong regrets and his genuine desire for a second chance are worth more than a try. Go to him!
Dear Amy:
I used to bite my nails until I met my wife. She got me out of the habit by making me drop a dollar in her piggy bank every time she saw me put my fingers in my mouth. I had to marry her to get my money back but she cured me.

Article
Dear Amy:
I'm 11 years of age. I love a boy so much and want to write and tell him so. But every time I do, my parents tear my letter up. What is your opinion? Should I do as they wish or do you think I should let me write to him?

A Girl In Love
Dear In Love:
Young ladies shouldn't send love letters if they want to hold a boy's friendship. Nothing will scare a boy away faster than mushy words of love. Listen to your parents. They are saving you from future embarrassment. Girls your age write their thoughts in a diary. Later on it becomes good reading . . . for laughs.

A LOOK AT THE UN with Trudina Howard

Kashmir: Still No Answers... Secretariat: A Good Answer

Kashmir Again
While the United Nations may be in a state of seeming quiescence because the General Assembly is not currently in session, there are still a number of important subjects to be attended to that keep it humming.

Last week, for one, the Kashmir question again came before the Security Council. B. N. Chakravarti of India had asked the council to adjourn its discussions in March to early May, when the budget session of India's Parliament would be over and the Minister dealing with Kashmir would be able to attend. After some discussion and another meeting late in March, the Security Council president for March, Liu Chieh of China, (the Council gets a new president each month) announced that the Council would agree to this.

Will The Real Kashmir... Please Stand Up

Briefly, the dispute concerns both India's and Pakistan's claim to Kashmir. The Indian position is that the two-thirds of Jammu and Kashmir state that is now held by India must remain in part of India. (Jammu is the capital city of the province of Jammu in Kashmir state and is frequently mentioned in connection with the other third and does not find the Indian claim acceptable.)

Thus, predominantly Moslem Pakistan claims predominant Moslem Kashmir as hers, and ancient land-owner India claims Kashmir as hers. The dispute has been raging since 1947 when India was divided into Hindu India and Moslem Pakistan. At that time Kashmir was an absolute monarchy, but the Hindu Maharajah of Jammu-Kashmir, for one reason or another, sided the state to India.

Both countries have state fought and debated over this as well as over the placing of Indian troops in Jammu-Kashmir; and both have claimed they would welcome a plebiscite in order to permit the people to make the choice. The people, however, do not have the choice of Kashmir for Kashmir — only Kashmir for Pakistan or Kashmir for India. At any rate, in all the years since 1947, no voting has taken place. The UN stand is for a cease-fire and a plebiscite but so far (May 6) only an uneasy cease-fire exists and no date for a plebiscite has been set.

Pakistan's Foreign Minister, Zulfikar Ali Bhutto, stated in March that the "uneasy cease-fire" was more troubled than "cease-fire" and asked if India was contending that "if resolutions on a plebiscite in Kashmir were now obsolete, was the cease-fire order also obsolete?" He asked the Council to "adopt a formula for setting in motion a process which would result in settlement of the dispute."

When I was in Pakistan last February on a newspaper study mission, many Pakistanis had an uneasy and bitter feeling toward the U. S. about "the large shipments of arms to India. It will help India over-run us!" they claimed. "You are on India's side!" they said. I also spoke with a man there who was from Kashmir. He seemed well-educated, fairly well-to-do and quite elegant. After controlling himself for about two hours through dinner and polite talk, he finally gave way and spoke excitedly and heartily about Kashmir. But the very essence of his entire discourse was just one thing: "Why don't you two big powers (the U. S. and the USSR) sit over there and 'over-see' and LET US SETTLE OUR PROBLEM OURSELVES!"

Other heated problems currently besetting the world and the United Nations, and coming and going on the agenda of the Security Council, are the problem of South Africa with its system of apartheid, and the tragic problem of Cyprus. There is much ado, of course, about Cyprus, but more on that next week.

A Friend In Need
So, such is the "quiet" of the United Nations. There is just no such thing. Nevertheless, come dispute or come debate, come Pakistan or come India, there is still time to do thoughtful, considerate things. On May 1 there was an extraordinary, voluntary collection for the sufferers of the Alaskan earthquake disaster. All the workers at the UN secretariat — and that is 39 staffers worth — and all United Nations civil servants throughout the world — donated to the cause and came up with $2,148.47!

It was all the idea of a very

It was endorsed by the United States Mission to the UN and approved by Ardubal Saksamendi of Uruguay, the deputy chief of the UNESCO office.

"Not many people think Americans need help," Mrs. Haight noted, "but in a tragedy such as occurred in Alaska, the sufferers can use all the help they can get. It is not the first time UN secretariat workers have raised funds for disaster victims, but it is the first time that such funds will go to Americans. Manhattan School Orchestra Will Play May 23 In Madison

The 85-piece Manhattan School Orchestra of the Manhattan School of Music in New York City will appear in a concert for young people May 23 under sponsorship of The Masterwork Foundation, which will also hold its Annual Festival Ball May 30 at the Governor Morris Hotel in Morris-town.

The concert will be at 8 p.m. at the Madison High School in Madison. The conductor will be Frank Hartz, who is also conductor for the New Haven Symphony and Bach Aria Group.

The program will consist of Handel's "Water Music," Prokofiev's "First Violin Concerto" and Tchaikovsky's "Symphony No. 4."

Mary Lou Galen, a Phoenix, Ariz., native, will be the featured violin soloist for the Prokofiev work. She has studied with Felix Slatkin in Los Angeles, Calif., and in 1955 won a scholarship to the American Conservatory in Fontainebleau, France. She also studied with Yehudi Menuhin, William Kroll and Raphael Bronstein. She has played recitals throughout this country and has been soloist with many symphony orchestras. She also was a member of the U.S. Information Service music group that toured Mexico, where she appeared before President Lopez Mateos.

"Masterwork Salutes the New Jersey Tercentenary" will be the theme of the ball, at which a continental buffet and music by the Masterwork Music and Art Foundation is best known for its Masterwork Chorus, which has just completed a successful year with three major concerts in New York City. In addition, the foundation sponsors a Festival of Music and Art each Spring. This year the festival is offering sketching classes, an exhibit and illustrated art lecture, the Young Artists series of three concerts, a carillon concert, the Turnou Opera Players "The Barber of Seville," a Cantor's Institute and Summer Sing.

Reservations for the ball may be made with Mrs. Joseph Panitch, 70 W. McClellan ave., Livingston.

Deborah Will Honor Youthful 'Guest' At Membership Tea Monday Evening

The Suburban Deborah League will hold a membership tea on Monday with a special guest of honor — in absentia.

'Meet Me At The Fair' Is Fashion Show Theme

"Meet Me At The Fair" will be the theme of the annual fashion show to be presented by the Evening Group of the First Presbyterian Church at 8:35 p.m. Wednesday in the Presbyterian Parlor House.

LEADER PROFILE

FREEMAN WAS BORN in Manchester in 1914, one of seven children. His father was a shoe repair man. After graduation from high school Freeman was apprenticed to his uncle, a trader, for six years, learning the trade, he now practices.

Presbyterian Church of Springfield were honored last week at the group's annual May luncheon for long terms of service, according to Mrs.

The affair will be held at the home of Mrs. Howard Siegel, president, at 712 Willow St., Canford, Monday at 8 p.m.

"The guest" will be four-year-old Anne Gibson of Cranford, who is now recovering from heart surgery at the Deborah hospital in Browns Mills. Doctors say that little Anne will be home soon, able to run and play normally for the first time in her young life.

Godfrey A. Durand, president, Mrs. William Quinlan, secretary for 15 years and its chairman for four years.

the group for 38 years and its secretary for 15 years and its chairman for four years.

Fifty dollars was donated in the name of each and they were awarded honorary memberships in one of the church's three boards: national missions, Christian education, and commission on ecumenical missions and relations.

Mrs. Durand said that the group has a membership of 155 women who meet the first Wednesday of each month at the parish house for Bible study, workshop and to hear a speaker discuss the group's current study topic.

They are now studying the new nations of Africa. Previous topics have included the role of youth in a troubled world and various books of the Bible.

Benevolent Society stages as its primary fund-raising event.
This year $3,200 was earned by the three-day affair, which was attended by over 800 persons on its first day alone.

Another popular fund-raising event is the group's annual turkey dinner in November.

FUNDS ARE USED to contribute to national and ecumenical missions and world service, to provide articles for the church — this year it was a piano — and to support the group's 12-year-old adopted daughter in Korea. They have sent gifts and support money to the child for about five years and receive regular letters from her in return.

Besides Mrs. Durand, club officers are Mrs. Clifford Zimmer, vice-president; Mrs. Douglas secretary, and Mrs. Henry Brucker, treasurer.

Mrs. Durand is completing her second term as the group's 31st president. Her first president, Mrs. Henry Grabes, was installed in 1872.

"The work of this group is serious, but its members find time for fun, too. Right now they're planning their annual June picnic to be held this year at the summer home of Mrs. Zimmer at Lavalette.

hospital in Browns Mills. Doctors say that little Anne will be home soon, able to run and play normally for the first time in her young life.

She was born with what is known as a patent ductus condition, an opening between blood vessels near the heart so that blood passed needlessly back and forth between her heart and lungs.

Anne underwent surgery on May 10 to close the opening. Mrs. Siegel, president of the Suburban Deborah League, was informed by the hospital last week, "Successful heart surgery has been completed, and Miss Gibson is recovering splendidly."

The hospital specializes in tuberculosis, heart surgery and all diseases of the chest.

Deborah Hospital facilities are available, without charge, to all who can be helped, without regard for race or religion. The hospital is supported by funds raised by local chapters. Suburban Deborah League serves the Union County area as both an information and admissions center.

Mrs. Ted Strauss of Springfield is membership chairman. Details on the tea this Monday are available from Mrs. Strauss at DR 6-5859 or Mrs. Alvin Schneider at DR 9-9094.

Report to the People

From Your Congresswoman
FLORENCE P. DWYER (6th District N.J.)

THE VOICE OF UNION COUNTY
Once again, the thousands of regional questionnaires have been returned and counted and the results carefully tabulated, and a new and quite accurate, I definitely reject the idea of diplomatic recognition of communist China and just as definitely support a school prayer amendment to the U. S. Constitution and a requirement that a higher-level Government official make public their sources of income, business interests, etc., as a means of preventing conflicts-of-interest.

No matter how close the results or how one-sided, each issue has its own special fascination, so I am happy to refer you to the detailed results which follow. Meantime, my thanks and appreciation to all of you who have helped to make this annual experiment in representative government so worthwhile.

Roosevelt To Speak At Business Confab

How New Jersey's economy can benefit from further modernization of facilities and administrative procedures of its industries, will be described at an industrial conference to be held in Newark on June 4 under joint sponsorship of two government agencies and two private organizations.

Described as a "business-government forum on ways to meet competitive challenges in both domestic and world markets", the day-long conference is being sponsored by the Business and Defense Services Administration of the United States Department of Commerce, the New Jersey Department of Conservation and Economic Development, the Commerce and Industry Association of Newark and the New Jersey State Chamber of Commerce.

TERCENTENARY TALES by John T. Cunningham

Grant Took Richmond But He Also Won Over Long Branch

Julia Dent Grant guessed correctly in the late spring of 1869 that Long Branch and her husband, President Ulysses S. Grant, would get along famously. The Grants arrived at the Jersey Shore on July 19, 1869, for their first stay—and they came back often for the next 15 years.

Grant hoped for peace and relaxation at Long Branch although he had been President only four months, the cares and intrigues of Washington distressed him deeply. Long Branch, in turn, hoped that the President might relax, but that never happened. The stream of admirers and job-seekers that flowed to the resort.

The Grants, their three sons and daughter Nellie stayed the first summer in the Stetson House. They enjoyed it, particularly the carefree hours in the rolling surf, but old friends felt that the Civil War hero looked PRESIDENT GRANT and his family enjoy surf at Long Branch.

Grant recognized that words of enemies rolled on as incessantly as the Atlantic Ocean, but he winced when he heard opponents accuse him of spending too much time away from the White House, of having too much to do with old cronies, of accepting valuable gifts, of catering to a faction that the New York "World" called "the clique of money changers."

Fearing defeat at the Republican nominating convention in the summer of 1872, Grant stayed at Long Branch. "My judgment is that it will be better that I should not attend any convention or political meeting," the President said.

Nominated and re-elected, Grant continued to visit Long Branch. He liked the informality of the seaside resort, it definitely was not Newport—but then Ulysses S. Grant was not a Newport type.

Rather, he liked simple pleasures. His morning rides took him out into the countryside and gave him a chance to talk with people who liked him for himself and not for what he could do for them as President of the United States. He swapped yarns with Lord Van Dyke, the special policeman at his cottage, and hero already touched with the cancer that would take his life July 23, 1885—Coulter-balancing the onslaught of illness that summer was Grant's start on his monumental two-volume memoirs.

President Grant died on July 23 in the Adirondack Mountains. Long Branch went with the world—but their tears were not muddied in the White House by associates who took advantage of his honesty and trust. The shocking failure of the Wall Street brokerage firm of Grant and Ward in 1864 was a final blow. The President used all of his personal fortune trying to aid those who lost money in the failure of the firm.

That last summer saw the old

One of a series of reports by this newspaper and the Print Advertising Association on the advantages of print media.

HELP STAMP OUT SKINNY NYLON CARPETS

Don't you read before you buy?

Most people do. They count on advertising in print to give them the information they want on products that interest them—information on features... designs... and prices, for example.

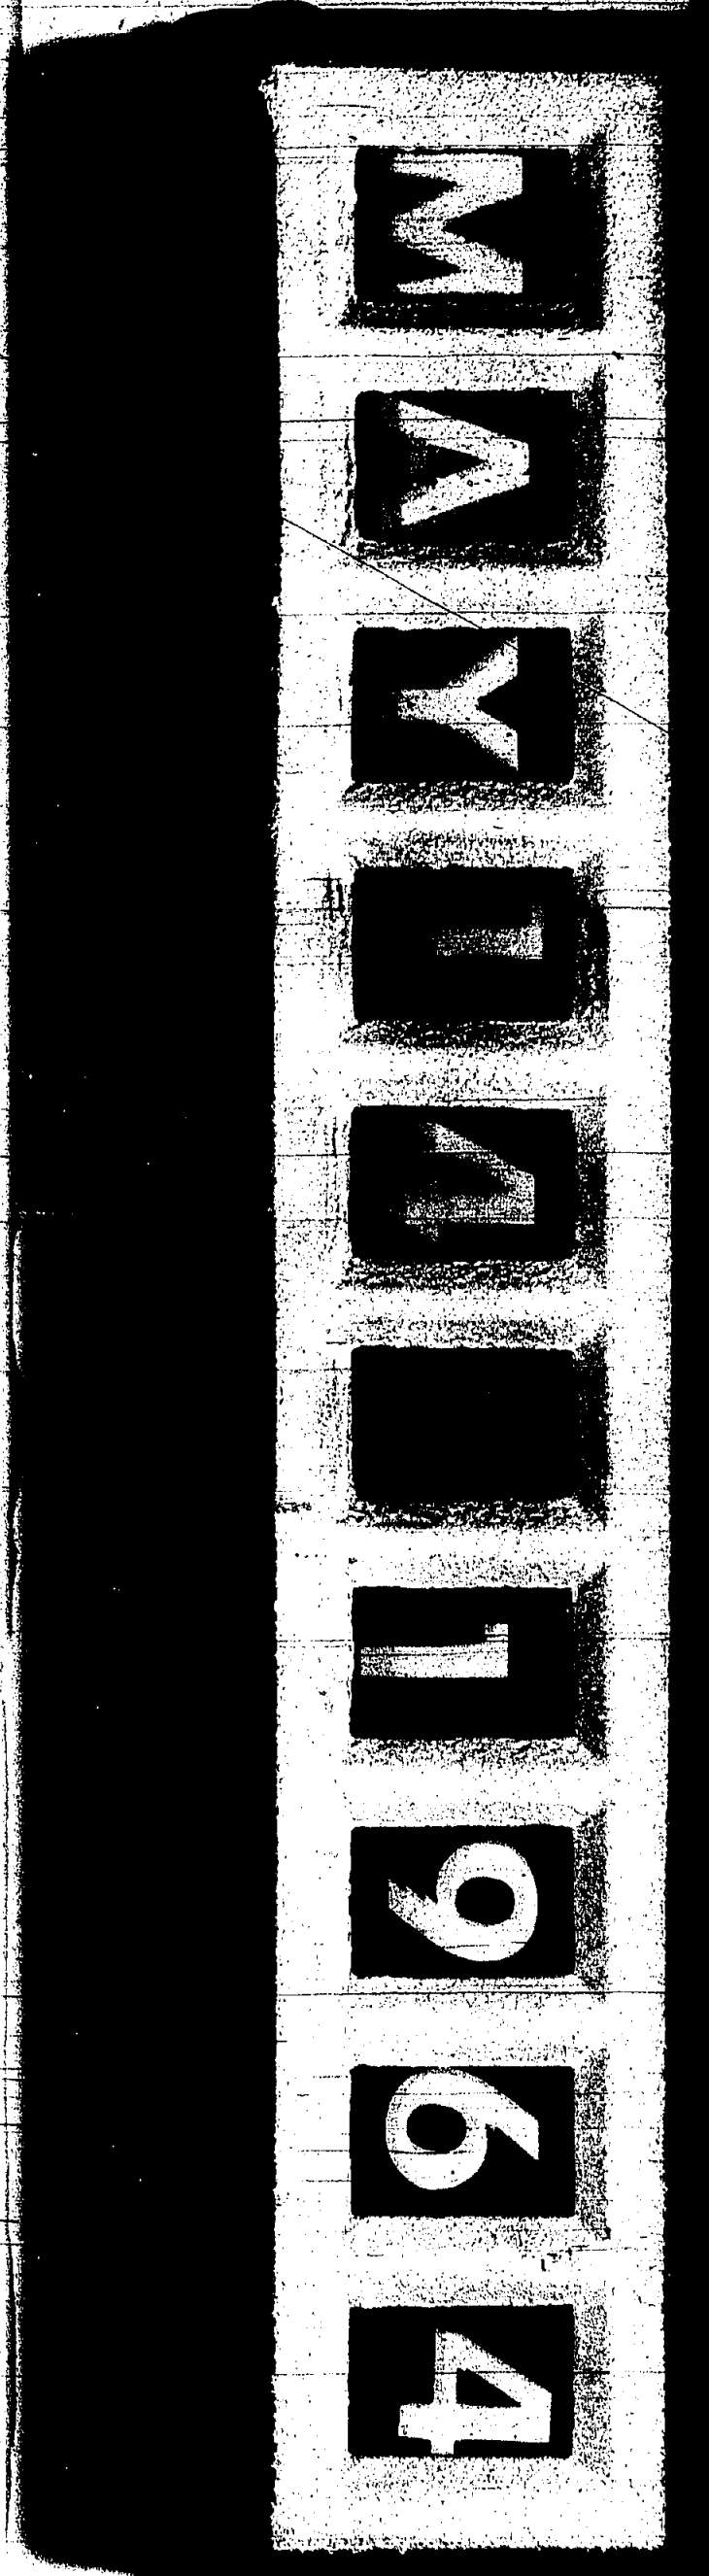

People not only read about products and services, they show ads to their family and friends; they clip coupons for information and samples; they tear out ads to take along when they go shopping.

When you add it all up, print advertising—the kind you read in the pages of this newspaper—makes sense. And because it assures you to the buying habits of most consumers, print makes sense. Most people read—and then buy. Don't you?

Basic Rules Of Safety Suggested To Avoid Injuries On Fairway

"A small, resilient ball," is the way Webster's dictionary defines what millions of Americans drive every week for fun and relaxation. Yet that same "small, resilient ball," the Allstate Safety Crusade reminds golfers, can seriously injure or even kill a player or when it's traveling at the speed attained on long shots. To avoid hitting another golfer or being hit, the safety experts urge golfers to observe the following safety rules:

Dayton Faces Westfield; Monticello Red Hot At Bat

Dayton Regional High School's baseball team plays host to Westfield tomorrow afternoon and on Monday they play home to a strong Scotch Plains team. They travel to Elizabeth Wednesday to take on Tech.

It was Monticello's last inning in the third and Union pounced on him for four runs. But Lyons relieved Freedman and allowed only one run in three innings. Bittle was the loser.

Dayton made their hit count in the fifth on a single and a base error by Linden's center fielder. Linden's single rolled through the legs of the outfielder and Anderson scooted home.

Dayton Track Team To Face Blue Devils

Dayton's track team which triumphed over Rahway Tuesday, travels to rival Westfield tomorrow, bent on upsetting the highly favored Blue Devils.

Dayton's poor showing in the jumping events kept them from beating the Arthur Johnson Regional High School track team last Thursday. The boys from Springfield lost 67-50.

Dayton led by some powerful slugging by Frank Monticello, whipped Arthur Johnson Regional High School Friday, 14 to 4. Monticello, who also was the starting pitcher for the Bulldogs, collected three hits in four times at bat; smashed two home runs and knocked in six runs.
