Rt. 22 Motel Held Up, $399 In Cash Taken

The Dunes Motel on Rt. 22 in Springfield was held up Sunday afternoon by an intruder who was described as "portly" and who got away with $399 in cash and $200 in travelers' checks, Springfield police reported.
 Mrs. Lynn Profita, who was on duty at the time, told police the man entered the motel office carrying a bowling bag. He told her politely that the only thing he wanted was money, and that she wouldn't get hurt.
 He ordered the woman into a side room and told her to remain there for 10 minutes. She told police it seemed like a very long time that he remained in the office, but that she stayed in the next room for the full 10 minutes as directed. Then she phoned police. She was unsure if he was armed.
 Mrs. Profita described the man as being in his early thirties, white about five-foot-six-inches tall, thin and weighing about 140 pounds.
 Police are searching for the intruder.

Plans are being made by the Board of Realtors of the Orange and Maplewood townships to participate in the nationwide observance of Realtor Week, May 24-30, Millburn. Realtor Henry H. Roman, president of the board, announced this week. He said Realtor Week is designed to let the public know how realtors can help them in buying or selling a house and in many other ways.

Paul Roman has been named chairman of the committee in charge of arrangements. A Springfield resident, he has been a real estate proprietor in Millburn for three years. He had previously been associated with Henry L. Peio, realtor in Clifton. Roman was graduated from Pace College and before entering the real estate field was an accountant with Electric Bond and Share Corporation in New York City.
 Roman is an associate member of the North Jersey Chapter of the Society of Real Estate Appraisers. He is also a director of the Kiwanis Club of Millburn-Springfield, a member of the Holy Name Society of St. Rose of Lima Church in Short Hills and a past member of the Optimist Club of Passaic County. Man Who Terrorized Family
 Taken To N.J. State Hospital

A young West Orange man who held a Springfield family captive in their own home for an hour early Monday, has been sent to the State Hospital at Marlboro for observation.
 The man, Joseph F. Lariccia, 28, was brought before Magistrate Max Sherman Monday night. He was given copies of two complaints filed against him and advised of his rights, but he appeared too confused to understand what was going on, a court official said.

The complaints — one for malicious damage to property and another for terrorizing — were filed by Azeglio T. "Jim" Pancani of 3 Briar Hills circle, where events took place. Medical reports in the district court were submitted to the court. Three doctors and hospital confinement was recommended for 30 days.

Police said Lariccia was fleeing from police when he entered the home of Pancani, a Newark architect and a member of the Springfield Planning Board. The husband, his wife, Matilda, and 13-year-old daughter were frightened but unharmed during the ordeal.

Mrs. Pancani told the Leader that the intruder was "dripping with blood" after he smashed three windows with his fist to gain entry. She said she felt sorry for him, and that he just looked like "a frightened boy."

The West Orange man was at first spotted by Springfield Lieut. George Parsell speeding on Rt. 22. The officer chased him at 100 miles per hour but lost him. Later he found the car, after it

Caldwell School
 Contracts Given

Contracts were awarded by the Board of Education Tuesday night for the renovations in Caldwell School. The work is being undertaken to provide a kindergarten compound and rearrangement of offices.

General contracting was awarded to Mainland Construction Co., Inc., of Newark for $1,111; heating and ventilating, to the conditioning Co., Newark, $27,700; plumbing, Albert H. Hirsch Co., Newark, $10,400; electric, Weinberg Electrical Contractors, Linden, $8,725; and the fire sprinkler system, Grinnell Co., Roselle, $2,875.

The Board noted that all contracts were awarded to the lowest bidder.

Four-Foot High Safe Blown Open

Thieves got away with about $3,000 in cash from the Warranty Paving Co. on Orchard st. in Springfield last Thursday night after blowing open a safe, police reported.

Detective Thomas Kennedy said that entry into the building, located at the Houdaille Construction Materials Co. quarry off of Shunpike rd., was gained by breaking a latch on a side window. The door of the four-foot high floor safe was blown off, probably with gun powder or nitro-glycerine, Kennedy said.

The burglary was discovered at 6:45 a.m. the next day by company President Frank Capozzello, who arrived to start work for the day. The last person in the office and equipment headquarters of the firm left Thursday at 5 p.m.

The explosion caused no structural damage to the building, but papers and documents were strewn about the office.

Regional School Board Plans To Acquire Nike Site In June

The Regional School District is expected to be in possession of the abandoned Nike site in the Wachung Reservation within the next two weeks.

The Regional Board has been seeking the land since September. Formal application was made to the Department of Health, Education and Welfare in November.

Dr. Davis has pointed out that the area and height of the land makes the site ideal for such transmission. He also said the existing buildings on the tract would be used for physical education and athletic purposes.

Dr. Davis said that before the application for acquisition of the land was made a study of the existing buildings on the tract was conducted by Board architect Frederick Elgasser and Charles Lybke of the State Department of Education.

It was stressed by Dr. Davis that no matter what plans evolve in the future, the land could be put to immediate use for physical education and athletic purposes.

LEADER PROFILE

"Springfield's Planning Board is dealing with the evolution of a town as old as the country," Donald S. Rotwein, Planning Board chairman, said in his Union office one day last week.

He is an architect with the firm of Rotwein and Blake, which maintains offices at 1018 Stuyvesant ave.

"The intersection of Morris ave. with Mountain ave. and Main st. makes it a crossing point for traffic from other areas," he said. "A farm community a mere two decades ago, our town has a location which connotes an urban environment and makes it accessible to population increases."

"Springfield is part of a large metropolitan area," he said. "It cannot be otherwise, because we cannot eliminate the arteries that cut through our borders."

"The concern of the Planning Board," he said, "is to regulate its growth. It is going to grow. Industrial growth leads to an increase in population, and this in demand for things and don't let anybody tell you there is no vacant land in Springfield," he said. "There is vacant land in Springfield. He mentioned Baturstol Top, South Springfield ave. and Mountain ave. as examples.

The master plan, under development by consultants Candeb, Fleisig and Associates of Newark, will present no radical changes from the land use plan which forms the basis of Springfield's zoning ordinance, Rotwein said.

PUBLIC HEARINGS on it will be held before the end of this year, Rotwein explained. As many hearings as are needed could be held on the plan, he added, saying that probably only one would be needed.

The master plan will project land use, traffic flow and the location of community facilities for the next 10 years. It will plan the redevelopment of land use and traffic flow in the area affected by the extension of Rt. 78 and provide against the potential deterioration of the north side Morris ave. business area.

"It is necessary that this area, like any other, should grow," he emphasized. "It is not enough to sustain an area, because that which does not grow deteriorates."

He said that possession by a municipality of a master plan is the first step in acquisition of urban renewal funds, adding that it does not follow that a request for urban renewal is necessarily forthcoming.

He said that funds for the study were obtained by 1954 federal aid legislation which provided for allocation of a two-thirds grant to a municipality for master planning upon evidence of "community initiative" for the project.

A HIGHLIGHT of the plan is sure to be its provision for a shopping mall on north side Morris ave. business property, now under study by the Business Area Study Committee, which is pondering traffic, accessibility and expansion problems faced by merchants in this area.

Rotwein said that if vacant land behind the present buildings were utilized there would be room for additional services to the community. He said that he envisioned a department store and an office building complex as possible additions to the area.

"The area cannot continue as a neighborhood shopping center," he said. "Rotwein lives at 25 Sycamore ter. with his wife, the former Beverly Morachnick of Newark, and their two daughters, Cindy, 9, and Randy, 7.

He was born in Newark in 1928, one of three children. His father was a dress manufacturer.

At Weequahic High School he was a fairly good student and a varsity football quarterback and basketball left fielder. Although he was not getting quite the straight A average he later maintained in college, he showed an early ability to visualize in three dimensions and for attention to detail.

HIS MECHANICAL DRAWING teacher told him that his aptitude in these areas as well as a general interest in things mechanical and an ability to dream suggested a career in architecture.

After a post-war stint with the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers, Rotwein enrolled in the University of Michigan College of Architecture. There followed a period of "hectic pressures," he said, for the attention he was determined to give to his studies left no time for extra-curricular leisure. Although he took advantage of the G.I. Bill to finance his studies, additional income was necessary, and here

N.J. Teachers Initiate School Study Of Culturally 'Disadvantaged' Children

A special committee of New Jersey teachers has been formed to study the problems schools face in educating children from "disadvantaged" homes.

Named by the New Jersey Education Association, the Committee on the Disadvantaged has set these goals:

1. To identify the skills and traits that successful teachers in disadvantaged areas find most useful in teaching children who come to school without desire to learn and without the cultural background provided in most other American homes.

2. To recommend college programs for training such teachers.

3. To find if any foundation or federal funds are available for continuing programs for disadvantaged children in New Jersey schools.

4. To promote awareness that teaching in disadvantaged areas is important to the welfare of the nation, and perhaps even to its security.

REGIONAL PLAN GROUP'S REPORT

Despite Building Boom, Roads Congested

Despite the construction boom in expressways over the past decade, the New York Metropolitan Region's expressway network still has major gaps and many highways remain congested, the Regional Plan Association reported in a survey of limited-access highways in the area, released this week.

"The limited-access highway was invented in this Region, and we have more miles of expressways and parkways than any metropolitan in the country, including Los Angeles," C. McKim Norton, Regional Plan President, said. "Furthermore, much of the network was built according to a plan, the 1928 Plan of New York and Its Environs. Nevertheless, many gaps remain in the Region's Core and large parts of the newly-developing areas remain unserved by expressways.

"The gaps are becoming more noticeable every year as a commerce and population spread out from the center of the Region, where nearly everything used to happen. An increasing number of trucks and cars are crossing Manhattan from New Jersey to Long Island and back and crossing the Bronx and Westchester between New Jersey and Connecticut," according to Norton.

Short Gaps "As travel among the suburbs and edges of the Region increases, even short gaps, like the missing Lower-Manhattan Expressway, cause large-scale inefficiency. Some 11,000 trucks a day spend 30 minutes crossing a two-mile route across Lower Manhattan, for example. They could do this in three minutes on the expressway," Norton explained. "Clearing this congestion would improve industrial job prospects in and around Lower Manhattan.

"In the outer areas, we will need far more expressways to fit the pattern of development that is now being built there. Homes and jobs and facilities are spreading so far apart, almost everyone must drive long distances to reach them," Norton added.

Congestion, according to the report, occurs primarily during trip-to-work hours and almost solely on highways leading to the Region's Core—New York City (except State Island), Hudson County and Newark. The Core can be served with public transportation because jobs there are sufficiently concentrated and bus, train and subway systems are established. On the other hand, the report shows, new highways in the Core are extremely expensive and disruptive. "The answer to present congestion enroute to the Core seems more likely to lie with increased use of public transportation than increased highway capacity," Norton said.

To increase the use of public transportation, the report suggests, people will have to be brought closer to their destinations faster and more comfortably, and they will have to find easier parking where they get the bus, train or subway. "But these improvements are almost certain to be much cheaper in most cases than providing the highway capacity to allow people to drive to the Core," Norton stated. "Even such apparently 'painless' proposals as doubling the Long Island Expressway would be far from painless. It would blight, like every in-the-air highway. It would require considerable bulldozing for access roads, and it would eliminate part of the present Expressway capacity while it is being built."

Resistance Grows Regional Plan's report notes a growing resistance of neighboring areas to expressway cutting through and increasing indifference, even opposition" by others who are not convinced that expressways benefit metropolitan areas in the net. In some states, particularly New Jersey but also, to some degree, in New York, highway construction has been slowed by insufficient appropriations.

"The answer," Norton feels, "is not to stop building needed expressways but to make sure that the benefit is greater than the full cost. We should make sure there is no public transportation alternative that does the job as well or better at less cost, and we should take care to disrupt neighborhoods as little as possible and to design the expressways to fit visually so they do not blight the Region."

While today's highway congestion occurs mainly before and after work, "we must prepare for increasing highway travel during recreation time, too," the report states. Already, the peak use of the George Washington Bridge during recent periods, and many of the Region's highways beyond the suburbs are crowded on summer evenings. "More work, more leisure, more people and more cars will add up to a journey-to-play traffic problem that must be met, too," Norton warned.

The Tri-State Transportation Committee—a public planning agency established by the three governors of the Region and assisted by the federal government—and Regional Plan Association are now studying highway requirements and possibilities for the Region's next 30 years, Norton added.

Report From Trenton

by State Senator Nelson F. Stamler (R-Un.)

One of the things that always worries those of us in public life is the lack of liaison between the various governmental agencies. There are a great number of bills that pass the legislature which receive public attention, but they are some that are lost in what appears to be a lack of interest on the part of the public generally.

I think one of the best examples of this is something that happened recently in our county. On May 7th the Union County Board of Freeholders passed a resolution suggesting that the legislature set up a commission to examine the election laws of our state. This was obviously for the purpose of making a clear list of the duties and rights of not only the election boards but of what is commonly known as Title 19 (Election Laws) of our Revised Statutes.

The resolution was sent to me by mail May 8 with a request that I prepare legislation to do just that. A long time before, that resolution was offered and passed. As a matter of fact, on Jan. 27 the majority leader of the Assembly, Assemblywoman Marian Higgins (R-Bergen), introduced exactly the same bill setting up a bipartisan election law revision commission on the ability of a child to learn after he enters school.

The right school environment must be found to let these children catch up to age-mates who come to school with more exposure to academic and group experiences," says Mrs. Thomy Joyner—a committee member who teaches at Newark.

At present, many disadvantaged children never catch up, but fall farther and farther behind. In their teens, they become dropouts. In later life, they become social problems and chronically unemployed. They marry and may produce a new generation of disadvantaged youngsters.

NJEA plans to invite authorities from the state and national level to address the committee, as well as teachers, parents and school officials in disadvantaged areas. If the study is completed in time, the committee may report its findings at NJEA's annual teachers' convention, Nov. 12-14 in Atlantic City.

Other members of the committee are Mrs. Mary Moore, a teacher at Leon Siskin School in New Brunswick, and Anne Impomeni, a teacher at Edison School in Union City.

Mayor Sees Evidence Of Progress In Handling Rt. 22 Traffic Problem

While no date has been formed for the next meeting of the Essex-Union-Somerset Traffic Control Council, Springfield Mayor Lewis Fredericks said this week that he is pleased by what he has seen of the work being done by State Police.

Hardgrove said that he had noted more careful driving on Rt. 22 and attributed it to the awareness by motorists of the new State Police "black force" patrolling the highway.

At last Wednesday's meeting of the Tri-county group, members of the council passed a resolution urging state officials to require trucks to stay in the right lane of the highway.

Meeting in Newark Police Headquarters, the heads of the municipalities that line Rt. 22 also urged state officials to get in contact with Pennsylvania authorities and urge that signs be posted in the Harrisburg area in an attempt to divert World's Fair traffic onto the N. J. Turnpike, rather than on to the "already overburdened" Rt. 22.

Fredericks, who has been administrative assistant to Regional District School Superintendent Dr. Warren M. Davis, will also continue in that post. His appointment was made by the Regional Board last week.

A former Springfield resident, Fredericks joined the Regional system in 1964 as an industrial arts teacher at Jonathan Dayton High School. He also taught at Arthur L. Johnson High School, Clark, for two years and was named department head and then industrial arts coordinator for the system.

Fredericks took over the post of administrative assistant in 1960.

A graduate of Newark State College, the new Board secretary gained his master's degree from Montclair State College. A resident of Clark Township, he is married and the father of two children, Robert Lewis, 6, and Ellen, 3.

Dayton Has Slice Of Kilmer 'Tree'

A slice of wood from the historic tree which was the subject of Joyce Kilmer's poem, "Trees," is now on display in the library of Jonathan Dayton Regional High School. Mounted with the plaque is a framed copy of the poem.

Faculty members Mrs. Lillian Friedlander, Stanley Crossman, Edward Metz and Mary Ann Ullrich were in charge of arrangements. The two items were first shown on Arbor Day in the home management display case.

ASPARAGUS IS A SURE WINNER

Do you like to pick a winner? Here is a tip on a sure thing — good for the next month. No long shot either. It has been a springtime favorite for many years. It always pays off handsomely, too. The winner is fresh local asparagus.

This string of wins goes back as far as the Romans. They thought so highly of it that as early as 200 B. C., they had detailed planting and gardening instructions. Incidentally, most of these instructions would be considered good today.

It seems to have been so well accepted by the English (who called it sparrowsgrass, sporage, sparagras, or just grass) that it even won a comment when it entered the race to the New World. As usual, it was a springtime winner, though.

Asparagus is a slow starter but once the spears stick their nose through the ground, they grow faster than the proverbial weed. A growth of 6-8 inches in one day is common. Asparagus is a good stayer, too. Beds often stay in the running for 15 years, or more.

Asparagus has good reason for being a heavy favorite. Such attributes as delicate flavor, tenderness and wholesomeness belong to asparagus. Yes, it does have one fault. Its season is short. And possibly another — fresh asparagus must be handled with care and it does best when cooked properly, too.

The New Jersey season opened the last week in April in the Swedesboro area. By mid May, we can expect the peak harvest period with a normal amount of warm weather. And New Jersey will be harvesting 600 more acres of asparagus this year than last. New Jersey produces the greatest volume of asparagus of any state in the east and is second only to California in National production.

This succulent vegetable is perishable; after harvesting, it should be kept cool with the butts in water until cooked. Cooking as soon as possible retards the development of fiber. Placing butts in water reduces shrinkage. Cook and serve as soon as possible for best eating quality. Avoid overcooking. Cook spears with same butt diameters together to avoid uneven cooking. For a while fresh asparagus is enjoyed most without any embellishments, but asparagus sandwich rolls will always be popular on a fancy sandwich tray. Later some combination dishes will provide special enjoyment. Fresh Asparagus on Deviled Ham Toast is elegant for Sunday night supper, and Asparagus Party Mole is beautiful to look at as well as delightful to taste.

Fresh Asparagus On Deviled Ham Toast
1 1/2 pounds cooked asparagus
6 slices toast
4 ounce can deviled ham
1 1/2 cups cheese sauce
fresh parsley for garnish
Spread toast with deviled ham. Top each toast slice with cooked asparagus and cheese sauce. Garnish with fresh parsley. Makes 6 servings.

Cheese sauce: Make 1 1/2 cups medium white sauce and stir in 1/2 cup grated sharp American cheese.
Asparagus Party Salad
2 cups small cottage cheese
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon cayenne pepper
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1/2 teaspoon dried dill or other herb
1 tablespoon minced onion or chives
1 cup diced cooked carrots (reserve a few pieces for garnish)
1 cup diced cucumber
2 cups cooked asparagus cuts and tips (reserve a few for garnish)
2 envelopes unflavored gelatin
1 cup water
3 tablespoons mayonnaise
3/4 cup heavy cream, whipped
Either whip cottage cheese or "bit-through" a fine strainer or sieve to make smooth. Combine cottage cheese, salt, cayenne, lemon juice, dill, onion, carrots, cucumber and cut asparagus. Soften gelatin in the water and dissolve over hot water. Add to cheese mixture with mayonnaise and mix well. Chill until mixture begins to set, and then fold in whipped cream. Arrange pattern of asparagus tips and carrot slices in the bottom of an 8-cup mold or a standard loaf pan. Pour salad mixture into mold or pan and chill until firm. When ready to serve, turn salad out on crisp salad greens and garnish with additional asparagus tips, if desired. Makes 8 servings.

"Night For Bill"

William Wernick, a former Irvingtonian who successfully underwent open-heart surgery last month, will be the guest of honor, along with his wife and two children, at an affair being sponsored by friends Saturday night in Irvington Moose Hall.

Chairman Pell Glance said the "Night for Bill Wernick" will include dinner and dancing with two bands providing continuous Latin and American music. The public is invited with tickets available through Glance at ES 2-0404.

Among entertainers at the affair will be 13-year-old singer Marie LaDonna of Union, who sings in four languages, and has performed throughout the country at ten hops, on television and radio, at Olympic Park and Atlantic City's Steel Pier.

Wernick, who moved to Edison from 21st st. two years ago after some 35 years residence, underwent the surgery in Philadelphia. The group of friends holding the affair were among blood-donors.

A LOOK AT THE UN with Trudina Howard

South Africa: It Still Brews

The government of South Africa has frequently been asked by the United Nations and various countries to abandon its policy of apartheid (separating white and black) but it consistently maintains its right to continue it. A program of economic sanctions, boycotts, and other measures of restraint have been considered by many nations to ameliorate the matter, but no unanimous decisions have been reached and no resolutions have been passed yet.

As of May 12 the action at the UN revolved chiefly around the 34th meeting of the Special Committee on the Policies of Apartheid of the Government of the Republic of South Africa and the report submitted late in April of the group of experts, set up by the UN Secretary-General U Thant, to examine methods of resolving the present situation in South Africa "through the full application of human rights and freedoms."

According to the weekly news summary at the UN, this Expert Group, as it is getting to be known, "recommends the formation of a National Convention fully representative of all the people of South Africa to consider the views and proposals of all those participating and set a new course for the future. This recommendation, it states, should be endorsed by the Security Council."

Know Your Government

From N. J. Taxpayers Association

"SEMONOCE" spelled backward.

That's "economics" spelled backward.

And that seems to be the direction "economy" efforts have taken at Washington.

Annual appropriations bills moving through the 1964 Congress reflect little inclination to cut budget requests, the New Jersey Taxpayers Association noted. Although the $89 billion budget recommended to Congress in January for the fiscal year beginning July 1 was described as an "economy" program, it still fails to bring spending under control, contemplates deficit spending, more national debt, and leaves the budget unbalanced in the nation's most prosperous years.

Federal expenditures have exceeded revenues in 26 of the past 32 years despite the greatest dollar outpouring from taxpayers in all history. Annual Federal spending has jumped from $69 billion in 1947 to nearly $100 billion this year. But this financing since 1960 will have added more than $30 billion to the tremendous national debt by June 1965.

In any other business, the Taxpayers Association observed, this dismal financial picture would lead to prompt corrective action or bankruptcy. In Washington, reported but unsuccessful efforts have been made by veteran legislators to establish means of bringing the nation's spending under control, or at least to determine ways of accomplishing this objective.

One such proposal is contained in new bills that would set up a bipartisan Commission on Federal Expenditure Policy. Among other things, the Commission would study and recommend ways to improve congressional procedures in regard to budgeting and appropriating funds. It would also set up guidelines for a sorely needed system of priorities in Federal expenditures and would review Federal functions to determine which might be done better at the state-local level.

In the absence of direct Congressional action in this area and avoid unnecessary programs, the bipartisan commission approach to expenditure control deserves a try," the Association said, noting that "a great deal of improvement in government came about through the recommendations of the two bipartisan Hoover Commissions on Government Organization."

Ask Amy
BY AMY ADAMS

Dear Amy: Now that her bachelor son died, my husband's mother wants to come live with us. All I have are 3 bedrooms and they are all taken. I have two boys and a girl. Besides we live upstairs and the climbing would be too much for her since she must go to the doctor every day.

She has a daughter who just built a new 3 bedroom house and has no children; her oldest daughter is a widow with two grown-up girls. One son has a nice new home and the other son is still a bachelor. So why pick on us? We are only renting.

If she goes to a home, we will all have to pay for her support and we will have to get expenses on our taxes. Why should we pay for her? Why should she use her property to pay part of her bill? Hoping you can answer this in your column soon.

Dear Anny: Why does your mother-in-law have to pick on you? Obviously "beats" her "other" children connected excuses why she can't live with them (just as you have). I think she should go to a home. Living with any of you would be anything but pleasant. Her property might be sufficient to take care of the nylons, dress material, babushkas and just about everything else. He even asks for things for his in-laws. The packages cost so much to send that I could buy myself a good pair of shoes with the postage.

When my husband's parents died, my husband sent his share of the inheritance (which amounted to $2000) to his son. Now to top it all, the last letter he asked my husband for money to buy an automobile. (We don't even have one!) He wrote he wants to be a sport and he wants to show his friends that he has a car. That is if my husband will send him the money.

Do you think I'm wrong in refusing to send this money and also the packages? The things they ask for I don't even have myself because we can't afford it. My husband thinks we ought to send him some money towards the car anyway.

Dear Mrs. K. E.: Your husband's son is demanding, unappreciative and spoiled. But since your husband is responsible for spoiling him, don't expect things to change now. If he is really in need of these packages, continue to send them. As for financing his "sporting ventures": do not.

Address all letters to: AMY ADAMS c/o THIS NEWSPAPER For a personal reply enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

What do you do when your boyfriend loses his job? My boyfriend has been out of work for 3 months now and I am always afraid of him not having any money when we go out some place. I know that jobs are hard to find, but I don't think it is a good time to be going steady, do you? Should I date other guys from school without telling him or should I tell him that I just don't think we should go steady any more? Please let me know what I should do.

Dear Confused: And you are! If you really cared for this boy, his lack of money wouldn't alter your feelings. Tell him the truth (it's the least you can do) and until you learn to be more than a "fair weather friend" don't distinguish another boy by becoming his steady!

Dear Amy: My husband has a son in Europe from a former marriage. He hasn't seen his boy since he was six weeks old. He is now 35, married and the father of 2 children, and for the last 10 years, my husband has been sending him sizable packages. He asks for

KEEPING YOUR CHILD SAFE AT HOME
Home may be where the heart is, but definitely home is where accident hazards lurk.

Home accidents kill or injure more children and adults than any other type, and most home accidents result from carelessness. Every home that harbors children should be regularly checked to eliminate the following threats to children's safety:

Unguarded stair-heads, worn stair-treads, slippery floor surfaces, scattered toys, sharp-edged or pointed toys or instruments, insecure cribs or cots, open electrical sockets, open windows poorly secured screens or doors, matches, open flames or unventilated heaters.

Horror On The Delaware In 1856--61 Die In Ferryboat Fire

Great ice fires had been Saturday afternoon of March 15, floating past Camden all the 1856, smashing resoundingly against docks and piling high on the river banks. Spring was late, the breaking of the ice on the Delaware gave promise of open water, and soon the "New Jersey" was running again. Yet winter's chill edged the wind after the sun went down. Nearly 100 passengers aboard the steamboat ferry "New Jersey" gratefully watched deck hands throw off the ropes holding the boat to the Philadelphia dock. Soon they would be snugly home in Camden.

The "New Jersey" moved over the black river on a line for the gas-lit streets of Camden. Captain William S. Corson of Camden glanced at his watch: a bit after 8:30 p.m. Ahead he saw the usual Camden channel was blocked with ice, so he turned the ferry upstream to seek another way.

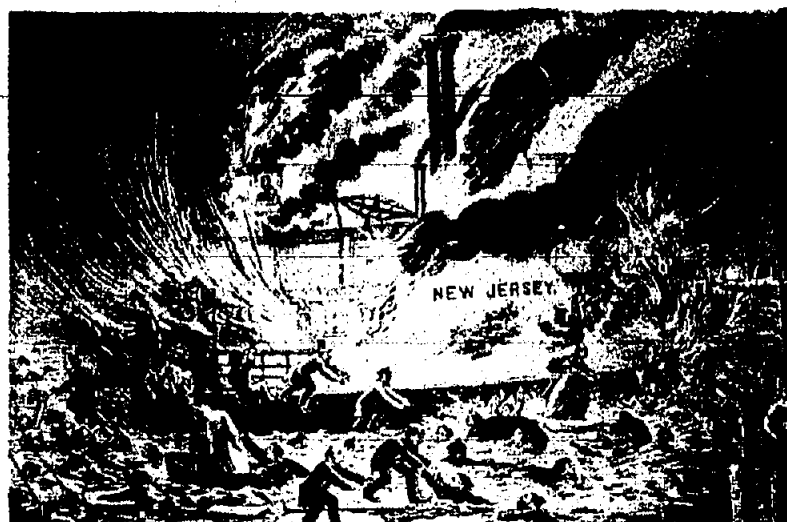

Captain Corson turned the wheel over to an aide, left the pilot house and walked along the deck to adjust the rudder. He returned, passing the "New Jersey's" smoke stack on the way. He saw nothing unusual and he comforted a few fretful passengers with assurances that they would soon be around Smith's Island and into Camden.

SECONDS AFTER he returned to the pilot house, shouts from the deck caused the captain to look down. A thin wisp of smoke curled up at the spot where the smoke stack passed through the deck, at a spot where the captain had passed only minutes before.

Passengers rushed to grab buckets from the walls, dipping them overboard for water and passing them forward to volunteer firefighters. The smoke gave way to open flames; obviously the "New Jersey" was in serious trouble.

Captain Corson spun the ferry boat around for a desperate race back in the Arch at dock in Philadelphia, hopeful that he might either reach the dock before the flames were beyond control or that a passing craft might help. He looked for help on the river; miraculously, a tug was approaching.

Flames aboard the "New

Lithographer's representation of March 15, 1856, disaster when steam ferry "New Jersey" burned of Camden.

"New Jersey" were clearly visible. Passengers screamed to the tug-boat skipper for help and Captain Corson blew his whistle. The tug captain grimly kept his course, proof that so-called "apathy" is not a matter of the 20th century alone.

Confident that he could make Arch st., Captain Corson held his course, proof that so-called upper deck, forcing passengers to cower to the windward side of the boat, making her list badly.

The "New Jersey" came within 25 feet of the Arch st. dock, close enough for Captain Corson to grab a rope thrown from shore. Suddenly the pilot house collapsed in flames, and the boat sheered off out of control. The captain felt the lifeline jerk loose; the night of horror was upon him.

Looking briefly back over the flaming ship, Captain Corson saw a sight that he could never forget. More than a score of women were trying vainly to beat flames from their long dresses. Male passengers frantically tore benches and chairs loose to help support those who jumped overboard. A horse stomped wildly, while a family—father, mother and several children—luddled in a wagon.

Watches on shore realized that the "New Jersey" had no lifeboats and no life preservers, for an Act of Congress requiring such equipment on steam-powered vessels had generally exempted the ferry boat interests—on the ground that short ferry trips could never seriously place passengers in danger. Congress and the steam boat lobby had agreed, that help would always be nearby.

HELP THERE WAS at Philadelphia. Rescuers launched small boats. Captains of other ferries changed course to aid the "New Jersey." Several men dove into the icy Delaware River to pull stricken passengers to shore.

No one knew for sure the number who had perished. Captain Corson estimated that "about 100" were aboard, but he couldn't be certain. Later, police and other investigators announced that 81 had died and only 30 had been saved.

That night the streets of Camden glowed with light, as families awaited the return of people who were—or might have been—aboard the doomed ferry. Shrieks of joy greeted loved ones who arrived on later ferries. But joy served only to intensify the agony when word began to come of positive identification of the dead.

Most of those on the "New Jersey" had been coming home. One Philadelphia editor summed up Camden's feelings by writing:

"Never within the memory of man has an event occurred which so completely overwhelmed our sister city of Camden with distress and mourning. Not a family resides there that has not lost a friend or acquaintance."

NSC To Start Work On New Auditorium

Ground work for the new auditorium at Newark State College will start on Monday, May 25, when the National Student Council (NSC) begins work on the new building.

The structure, estimated to cost $1,000,000, will be built on the site of the old building, which was destroyed by fire in 1955. The new building will be a two-story structure, 100 feet long and 40 feet wide. It will have a seating capacity of 1,500 and will be used for the college's main auditorium.

James D. Eugene, NSC president, said the new building will be a landmark for the college. It will be a modern structure, built with the latest materials and techniques. The building will be a credit to the college and to the city of Newark.

The NSC is a student organization that has been active in the college since 1945. It has been instrumental in the development of the college's campus and in the improvement of the college's facilities.

The new building will be a major addition to the college's campus. It will provide a place for the college's students to gather and for the college's faculty to teach. The building will be a place where the college's future is being built.

Laff Of The Week

"This may come as a bit of a shock, but I'm afraid we're going to have to remove a little of your original equipment."

TB Association Hears Expert On Research Project

Dr. Stephen M. Ayres, of Westfield, spoke at the annual meeting of the New Jersey Tuberculosis and Health Association recently, on progress being made in a research program on tuberculosis, a chronic respiratory disease.

"Tuberculosis and many of the respiratory diseases," Dr. Ayres explained, "are problems of obstruction of airflow into the lungs. When irritants enter the lungs, either from smoking, air pollution, or bacterial or viral disease, the mucus systems react. But some people have a predisposition to react strongly because of a genetic factor or previous illness."

Dr. Ayres showed slides of some of the laboratory tests available to identify those persons with a high susceptibility to respiratory ailments.

As director of the Cardio-Pulmonary Laboratory, St. Vincent's Hospital, New York City, Dr. Ayres is the recipient of a research grant made from the S. J. Medical Research and Teaching Fund administered by the N. J. Tuberculosis and Health Association. The Union County League joins other interested organizations in the state in making an annual voluntary contribution to this fund.

The delegation from the county league unit included Warren W. Halsey of Springfield, a board member.

Summit Y Continues Camp Registration

Registration is still being accepted for the Summit YWCA's day camp for young children. Since the size of each of the three camping groups is limited, registration should be made as soon as possible, according to the Y.

The YWCA's day camp program, now going into its 10th year, is available to three groups of youngsters. Boys and girls aged five and six, and girls aged seven and eight will have planned activities from July 29 through July 31, from 9 a.m. to 12 noon on Mondays through Fridays. A third group, for girls aged nine through 11, will run for three weeks, from June 29 through July 17, from 9 a.m. to 12 noon on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays, and from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. on Tuesdays and Thursdays.

Activities to be enjoyed by the two younger groups of children include music, crafts, games, stories, nature study, and dramatics. Meals and cookies are served daily. The five and six-year olds will have swimming in portable pools when weather permits, while the seven and eight-year olds may register for swimming instruction, which will be held at the YMCA pool. One bus trip to a place of interest to young children has been scheduled for each of these groups.

Emphasis in the three-week camping session for nine through 11-year-old girls is on the outdoors and will include nature walks, cookouts, overnight camping, as well as drama, music, crafts and sports. Swimming instruction is also available to this group of youngsters.

Further information about the Summit YWCA's day camp may be had by calling Mary Ida Gardner at the YWCA, CR 3-4242.

A Springfield girl was injured Sunday night, when the car in which she was riding was struck at Vauxhall rd. and Oakland ave. by an unidentified car that left the accident scene, Union police reported.

The girl, Janice Feig, 18, of 44 Queens ave., Springfield, suffered injuries to her neck and left hand, police said. She was a passenger in a car driven by Alan K. Newirth, 30, of 237 W. Seventh ave., Roselle. Marvin Newirth, 28, of the same address in Springfield, also was a passenger in the car.

The driver gave police the license number of the car that struck his. He said that he was traveling west on Vauxhall rd. and stopped for a light. The other car struck his in the rear. The "hit-and-run" driver then turned right onto Oakland ave. and drove away, Newirth said.

Holy Cross Ladies Guild Has Many Projects

(Second in a series on Springfield women's organizations.)

Members of the Ladies Guild of Holy Cross Lutheran Church divide the work of their group into local projects and projects of further-reaching concern.

They belong to the Atlantic District of the Lutheran Church's Missionary League, which convenes annually in Atlantic City to select mission projects and study topics for the year.

This year Mrs. Katherine

Scheerer of 184 Hawthorne ave. will be delegate to the June convention, and Mrs. Herbert Keller, 20 Homer ave., president of the local group, is alternate.

The Lutheran Women's Missionary League is the women's organization of the Missionary Lutheran Church and is international in scope. Funds for its work are derived solely through "mite box" contributions, banks used by individual members. Right now the league is contributing to a development program for Negro congregations in rural Alabama, maintenance of the St. Louis mission house for persons returning from overseas, and a fund for the purchase of a church history book, sewing kit, jackets, slippers and other articles for patients at Cross-Town State Hospital in Middletown and helping with church office tasks.

THE WORLD FRIENDSHIP Circle meets the third Thursday evening to package supplies for Clara Mages Memorial Hospital and to the packages for world relief.

All of the women collect trading stamps, and coupons for the Bethesda Home in Waverlin, canceled stamps for the Lutheran "Stamps for Missions" project, jewelry for the Kings Park Hospital in New York and good used clothing for Lutheran World Service assignments. Wadsworth Hospital in India and a foreign mission chapel fund.

The Altar Circle meets the third Wednesday afternoon of each month and is responsible for care of linens and Communion vessels, church vestments and chancel flowers.

The Parish Workers' Circle meets at 10 a.m. the second and fourth Wednesdays for Bible study, lunch and mission work. Members have been Besides Mrs. Keller, other officers of the guild are Mrs. William Wenzel, vice-president; Mrs. Henry Fiedler, recording secretary; Mrs. Sigurd Holme, treasurer; and Mrs. Robert Braun, corresponding secretary. Mrs. Lester Landecker of Chatham is secretary to the pastor.

Replying to a comment that Holy Cross women keep themselves busy with their church projects, Mrs. Landecker said they are even busier than their numerous jobs would indicate. "They are official hostesses for all church affairs and receptions," she said.

Greek Orthodox Congregation In Newark Plans Expansion

John Vlahakis of 336 Willow Union, has been appointed funding chairman for a $500,000 expansion and renovation project at St. Nicholas Greek Orthodox Community in Newark.

The program for the entire church project, which is located at 555 High St. in Newark, has been designed by William G. Chorgos, architect from Springfield.

The expansion program will be made possible through the acquisition of two acres of land, which is being donated by the Newark Housing Authority under its Urban Renewal Program, with the cooperation and approval of NHA Director Louis Danzig and Mayor Hugh Addonizio.

The project calls for the erection of an administration, church hall, weekday and Sunday school building adjacent to the church to meet the needs and facilities of the expanding community. This building will be used for youth and adult education, community activities and social affairs.

On-site parking accommodations will be made available for 250 cars, and it is expected that a swimming pool and other recreational activities will be in complete operation by next year.

The second phase of his program will be the complete interior refurbishing, exterior renovation and expansion of the existing church building, which was erected in 1924.

The congregation was formed in 1904—the tenth Greek Orthodox Church organized in the United States and the first in New Jersey.

Tentative plans for a groundbreaking ceremony in September to coincide with the 10th Anniversary of the pastorate of the Rev. James A. Atoupis.

Inter-Faith Confab On Religion, Race Slated On June 10 At UJC

The auditorium of Union Junior College will be the scene of an important inter-faith conference on religion and race at 10 a.m. June 10.

Plans announced by the steering committee, which is composed of 20 Union county religious leaders, indicate that the morning session will be centered around "position papers" presented by high-level representatives of the Jewish, Protestant and Roman Catholic faiths. The moral issues of the present racial struggle will be delineated. The afternoon session, beginning at 1 p.m., will be in the nature of workshops. Each workshop with a panel of three experts serving as resource leaders will center attention in such fields related to this issue as economics, government, education and housing.

The evening session, beginning at 8 p.m., will be highlighted by the address of the Rev. Wyatt T. Walker, executive assistant to Dr. Martin Luther King of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference. Following his address, a distinguished panel of leaders from the three faiths will "react" and seek to apply his thoughts to the needs of Union County.

Area Esso Dealers Visit World's Fair

Area Esso dealers visited the N.Y. World's Fair to obtain firsthand information with which to answer the travel queries of motorists, according to an announcement.

They were: Emil Lang, Roselle Park; Ronald Walsh, Sieve Cores; Herbert Faget and George Rouman, Union; and Frank Franzinger and Fred Jacobus, Kenilworth.

This marks another instance in which churches and synagogues are taking leadership in the struggle for racial justice," Rev. James Whitaker, associate pastor of the First Methodist Church in Westfield and general chairman of the committee, stated, adding:

"A great deal has been done behind the scenes in the past, but such conferences as this one bring moral issues out in the open. One of the great experiences which we have shared in planning for this occasion has been the sense of oneness and kinship among men of faith. It is our expectation that the response will be great, and that hundreds of concerned persons in Union County will lend their strength to this cause by their presence at the conference."

Members of the steering committee from this area include the Rev. Dwight E. Faust of the Townley Presbyterian Church in Union, Rabbi Israel Dresner of Temple Sharey Shaalom of Springfield, Mrs. Philip Ames of Springfield and James S. Wilson of Roselle.

Lecturer Finds Soviet Shift Away From Socialism

Soviet Russia is not really becoming more like the United States; it actually is moving from socialism to true communism, according to a Rutgers University professor in a lecture Monday at Newark College of Education.

"It would be erroneous and dangerous to assume that the new liberalism in the U.S.S.R. indicates the gradual development of a free society in Russia," said Dr. Alexander Balinsky, Rutgers professor of economics.

"Khrushchev's emphasis on persuasion as against the old Stalinist coercion reflects the growing acceptance by the Russian masses of the communist society that the Bolshevik Party desires to build," he stated.

Dr. Balinsky spoke to 20 Union High School teachers enrolled in "Contemporary Economic Systems," a graduate workshop course at Newark State. The teachers are supported by a $1,600 scholarship grant from the First State Bank of Union.

The changes associated with "Khrushchevian liberalization" are not isolated elements, but are related to a central and underlying force which is reshaping Soviet society, Dr. Balinsky emphasized. That force, he said, is the gradual shift in the U.S.S.R. from socialism to communism.

WEEDER'S DIGEST

By Your Rutgers Garden Reporter

By YOUR RUTGERS GARDEN REPORTER
No Smoking in Garden
Don't smoke in your garden.

Or sniff snuff, either, for that matter. This friendly warning, which may sound strange to you, comes from Dr. Spencer H. Davis, Jr., a plant disease specialist at Rutgers.

It sounds strange if you've never heard of a virus disease of plants called tobacco mosaic. Common on many tobacco plants, the disease may live through processing and spread to plants other than tobacco that are susceptible.

Deformed-Leafes
Tobacco mosaic virus won't hurt you, but it can deform leaves and reduce fruit formation on a number of garden plants. It can cause crinkling or streaking of tomato leaves. The tobacco mosaic virus by itself may not harm your tomatoes much, but if another virus disease should hit, too, the combination could wipe out your crop.

You can carry tobacco mosaic virus on your hands and spread it from plant to plant even when you're not actively puffing, according to Dr. Davis. So he recommends the grub-up. Take a break out of the garden when you want to smoke, and then wash your hands thoroughly before you go back to your plants.

Lilac Smokers
A gardener asks about the shrub that grows each year from the roots of her lilac. The answer: If you don't want more lilac bushes, just nip them off below the ground.

NIKING TOYS

"Jackie's so selfish! I just don't know what to do to make him share his toys," says a concerned mother. Often parents worry about their child's "selfishness." But little children never want to share toys. It's much more likely that they will want to keep the other child's toys and their own, too. This is natural behavior. Every little child has to learn to share. This is one of the steps of development and comes only as the child grows older.

Parents can't expect children to share toys until the youngster has some things that are all his own. If he is forced to share, he feels the joy of "yours" not "his." It's much easier for a child to accept the fact that some things belong to other people when he has some things that belong to him. Youngsters usually have favorite toys. Often they really protect their property. A child who takes good care of his toys shouldn't be forced to let a careless youngster play with his things. The child doesn't think it's fair and he resents his parents allowing

WORST RECORD

Youthful drivers in 1963 had the worst record of any age group in the United States. Young men and women under age 25 represent only about 15 per cent of the nation's licensed drivers, yet they were involved in more than 29 per cent of all fatal accidents and in more than 26 per cent of all non-fatal accidents.

Knowing Fair Layout Can Cut Down Foot Soreness

Whether your trip to the New York World's Fair is a foregone conclusion or still in the wish-and-dream stage, you may benefit by knowing the attractions and the layout of the fair's five major areas, which main avenues go where, and what transportation is available at the Fairgrounds.

Adjacent to the chartered bus terminal is the Transportation Area, with its main thoroughfare, the Avenue of Transportation, arching downward across it. In this 69-acre section are some high-powered transit matters.

Ford's Magic Skyway autorip and General Motors Futurama ride offer excursions into time as well as space. Those who like audience participation shows can test their driving skills in a driving game; participants ride in the pavilion's simulated driver's seats and operate steering wheel, accelerator and brake to show how they would have handled actual driving situations shown in a film of the famous Mobil Economy Run. Their performances are judged by a referee that books no argument: a data processing machine.

If you would rather leave the driving to someone else, you can witness an auto thrill show staged in a 7,500-seat stadium with a banked figure-eight track that encourages dare-devil maneuvers.

DIRECTLY ABOVE THE Transportation Area, and north of the Grand Central Parkway, is the Federal and States Area, cutting across it the Avenue of the States. In the state pavilions clustered along the Avenue, you can see such varied sights as polar bears (Alaska) and a porpoise pool (Florida) — a movie set (California) and a cool million dollars in gold nuggets (Montana). New York City's pavilion, smack in the middle of the Avenue of the States, devotes half of its footage to a remarkable scale model of the city — including all of New York's 840,000 structures!

On the left, in the big Federal Circle, is the 517 million United States pavilion, with its theme "Challenge to Greatness." A specially designed ride conveys 3,000 fairgoers an hour through Cinemascope's combination film and 2-D exhibit illustrating the pioneer spirit of America's past, present and future.

The famous Unisphere, which has come to symbolize the Fair, is situated right between the Federal and States Area and the International Area, where the treasures of many nations are on dazzling display. Jordan's Dead Sea Scrolls, paintings by Spanish masters such as Goya and Velasquez, Chinese jades and a Swiss atomic clock are just a few examples. National talents are also on view; you can see Tahitian pearl diving or Korean drum dancing, get a suit made to order at the Hong Kong pavilion, or be charmed by the graciousness of Japanese kishas.

The horseshoe-shaped Avenue of the United Nations is the main street to look for in this section; it's intersected by the Avenue of the Americas on one side and the Avenue of Africa on the other.

THE LARGEST OF THE Fair's five major divisions — the Industrial Area — sprawls northward from the International Area. The Pond of Industry is at its hub, surrounded by a promenade and the Court of the Universe. Another horseshoe-shaped thoroughfare, the Avenue of Progress, has a Lunar Fountain at one end, a Solar Fountain at the other. Widest thoroughfare in the area is the Avenue of Commerce, which sweeps across the north section of the Fairgrounds from the Long Island Railroad eastward to the Court of the Five Boroughs.

Here in the International Area you can see an atomic fusion demonstration (General Electric), attend an International Bazaar (General Clear), obtain the name and address of a foreign pen pal with the help of a Univac computer (Parker Pen), visit far off places on a Walt Disney-designed water ride (Peppsi Cola) — and view fascinating exhibits in more than thirty other buildings.

What's next? If you're a little foot-sore by this time, you might stop by the Simmons Beautyrest Center; here you can rent a private rest alcove — and take a half-hour nap!

A quick glance at your World's Fair map in the Northeast Mobil Travel Guide shows that the fifth section of the Fair — the Lake Amusement Area — is located far to the east, separated from the rest of the Fairgrounds by the Long Island Expressway. This six-lane highway is spanned by the Meadow Lake

Bridge and several "footpath" bridges.

If you saw the Meadow Lake Amphitheater at the 1939-40 World's Fair, you'll hardly recognize it this year. A roof has been added, the seating capacity has been increased to 11,000, and it's a "face-lifting job" here you and your whole family will thrill to "Wonderworld," the $2 million stage, water and air musical extravaganza with a cast of 250.

A rapid transit service between 35 Fair "stations" employs air conditioned buses which run on regular schedules. Other facilities include 60-passenger, three-coach tractor trains running on rubber tires — and the "Escorte," a gasoline-powered taxi which seats up to four passengers in the front with no obstruction.

Sound like a "tricky" high project, this New York World's Fair? It is! Total construction costs are estimated at $300 million.

ACROSS THE WAY is the new YORK WORLD'S FAIR Music Hall, where the 176-foot stage boasts 19 turntables. The 90-minute musical review highlights a century of American musical comedy. Elsewhere in the Lake Amusement Area you can "shoot the rapids" in the mighty rivers of the Pacific Northwest — see a Circus parade and watch the show under the big top... board an exact replica of Columbus' flagship, the Santa Maria... view more than 30 life-size tableaux in the International Wax Museum... ride the AMP Monorail 40 feet above the ground... see a Dams Beautyrest Center; here you can rent a private rest alcove — and take a half-hour nap!

Bulldog Nine Will Take On Gov. Livingston Today

Saturday Game Also Scheduled

Dayton Regional High School's baseball team, sporting an 8-3 record, takes on Gov. Livingston Regional High School today. On Saturday, they play Elizabeth's Edison Tech. Monday is open for a possible state tournament or county tournament contest.

Last Monday, the Bulldogs played host to Scotch Plains and clobbered them, 7-4.

The boys from the western part of the county drew first blood, scoring two runs in the second inning on a home run by Scotch Plains' shortstop Terry Morton. The blast came off Dayton starter Frank Monticello. But Frank gave up only one earned run in his three inning stint, because the man Morton drove in, got on an error.

Dayton struck back in the third inning. Ted Levitt broke the ice with a single (it was Dayton's first hit of the game). Then singles by Steve Berger and Carl Yaras and walks to Frank Monticello and Jeff Anderson produced four runs for the Bulldogs. Two of them were knocked in by Yaras. After that, Dayton stayed ahead throughout the game.

The boys from Springfield made it 6-2 in the fourth. John Kulaga, who relieved Monticello on the mound, opened up the inning with his first hit of the season—a lusty triple down the left field line. Walks to Berger and Monticello loaded up the bases. And Yaras came through again. He knocked in two more runs with a single.

Kulaga was knocked out of the box in the fifth when Scotch Plains pushed across two more runs. Billy Kretzer was called in to put out the fire. And he did it just that and was credited for the third victory of the season.

Dayton scored an insurance run in the sixth on a triple by Richie Bittle and a sacrifice fly by Frank Monticello.

The run Monticello drove in was his 21st of the season.

Hitting, Pitching Defeats Rahway In Tourney Game

Frank Monticello's big bat and Billy Kretzer's strong arm led Dayton to a 1-0 victory over Rahway in a Union County tournament quarterfinal game last Thursday.

A double by Monticello in the eighth inning with two Springfield batters broke up a brilliantly pitched duel between Billy Kretzer and Rahway's Jack Jordan.

Dayton won the game in the eighth when centerfielder Bob Rahnenfuehr walked and a single by Richie Bittle put men on first and second. Up stepped Frank Monticello, Dayton's leading slugger and he blasted a ringing double to left field, knocking in the winning run and only run of the game.

But Kretzer didn't have an easy time in the eighth either. Rahway threatened. With one out, Rahway's Dave Holland and Dan Nolan each singled, but then Kretzer bore down and got the next two batters out.

DAYTON GOLFERS EDGE ELIZABETH IN CLOSE MATCH
Dayton's golf team edged Elizabeth's Thomas Jefferson's linksmen Monday, 9-8-8. But the star of the contest wasn't a Springfield boy, Jefferson's Dave Nazarkin, who competed against Dayton's Bruce Silverman shot a one under par, 35 and collected two birdies. The Joser, Silverman, who shot a 41, also collected a birdie.

Springfield's winners were Jimmy Belliveau, 42; Mike Zdonik, 42; Bob Belliveau, 42 and Bob Shubert, 37.

Cresmont Tops Youth Major In Springfield Play

One-Hitter Hurdled By Bob Jaunkowicz

Cresmont protected its Youth Major League lead in Springfield with a 2-0 win over American Legion last week in a brilliantly pitched game at Washington Field. Bob Jaunkowicz pitched a one-hitter for the winners. Evan Wasserman pitched well for the losing Legionaires. The winning run was driven in by George Akerblom.

On the strength of two wins, Rotary took undisputed possession of second place, half a game behind Cresmont. On Tuesday, Rotary beat P. B. A., 4-2, behind the steady pitching of Rick Williams, Bruce Zabelski, and Paul Pettinichio, who shared the pitching for P. B. A., benefited from the sparkling defensive play of Fred Gold at second base. Bill Keller and Mike Greenhouse each drove in two runs for Rotary.

On Friday, Rotary downed the Lions 7-3 behind "Don D'Andrea's strong pitching. Jim Sarokin for the Lions, and Frank Bueci, Dan D'Andrea, and Rick Williams for Rotary were the leading hitters.

Jaune tied one game and won one and thus moved into third place. At Washington Field, Wednesday, they played a 3-3 tie with the Lions. Bill Scabaw pitched for the Lions while Gordon Mario and Bob Jackson split the chore for the Truickers.

On Friday, Jaune returned to Washington Field where they won a tight one from American Legion, 4-3. Mike Burns, the winning pitcher, had a bases loaded triple. Randy Hunton showed pitching strength even though his team was the loser.

The Youth Major League All-Star Game has been scheduled for 2 p.m. Saturday at Washington Field. Five players will be selected from each of the clubs. He's presently batting .280. Though Joe plays second for the j.v., he can play third base, too.

Track, Field Meet At Johnson Regional

The Watching Conference track championships, which opens today, won't be held at Dayton Regional High School, despite the fact it is the host school. Track repairs at Meisel Field forced a change in the meet field. It is being held at Johnson Regional High School.

Tomorrow, Dayton's trackmen journey to Hillside to compete against Piracy School. On Tuesday, they travel to Scotch Plains to race against that high school powerhouse.

Last Saturday, Coach Bob Lummer took shot-putter Charles Roll and javelin thrower Gary Wood to the North Arlington Tournament and both boys placed.

Charles Roll came in first in the shot-put with a heave of 56 feet and 11 inches and Gary Wood's 160 foot toss of the javelin was good enough for fourth place in the tournament in which 15 schools were represented.

And both Roll and Wood were the only Dayton crackmen that placed in the Union County tournament last Thursday. Roll broke the county's shot-put record with a heave of 59 feet and three inches.

Collegian Named By Honor Society

Bruce W. Evans Jr. of Springfield has been named in membership in the Leigh University Chapter of Omicron Delta Kappa, national leadership honor society. Evans was one of 21 Lehigh undergraduates to be honored, along with the university president and two faculty members.

He was elected vice-president of the chapter for the coming year, which will be his senior year at Lehigh. Evans is also an officer of Alpha Tau Omega social fraternity. He is the son of the Rev. and Mrs. Bruce W. Evans of 4 Tower dr. His father is minister of the Springfield Presbyterian Church.

Improper Turn - Americo Marchese, 18, of East Orange was fined $50 by Magistrate Max Sherman in Springfield Municipal Court Monday night for making an improper turn with a car.

Leader Sports

Dayton's Varsity Prospects Bright On Ball Diamond

The three brightest varsity prospects on this year's Dayton Regional Junior varsity baseball team are pitcher Bob Lester, catcher Lefty Mathis and second baseman Joe Jupa, according to j.v. coach Joe Mills.

Lester's record so far this year is 5-1 in the county tourney against Scotch Plains. He was beaten 4-2. Coach Mills said Lester had an off-day; that his control was erratic. Bob Lester has had some great days this season. Against Johnson Regional on May 8, he pitched a no-hitter, striking out 11 batters in a seven inning contest.

Lester's best-pitches are his fast ball and curve. Mills said. "When he perfects a change-up, he'll be tough."

Lefty Mathis is one of the leading sluggers on the team and is an agile and versatile back stop. He's batting .340.

Joe Jupa is the leading hitter on the club. He's presently batting .280. Though Joe plays second for the j.v., he can play third base, too.

Library

(Continued from Page 1) replacement for Mrs. Miller. The town has suffered a great loss," Mrs. Polly Hohn and Mrs. Antonette Simmons performed reference services for the library until last December, when the Board decided the job should be held by a single individual.

"PROJECTS TO COMPLETE" Mrs. Miller said there are three projects to complete. A resident of Maplewood, she has a B. S. degree in education and library science from Kutztown, Pa., and has done graduate work at Pennsylvania State University and Montclair State College.

"Fear over weak zoning laws in Springfield caused the formation of the Homeowner's Association," he said. "Protection of the rights of homeowners and the retention of the residential character of the community are the major aims of the organization."

"This is a shock to me," said Mrs. Winifred Yuckman, Board member. "We are losing two valuable people in the school."

Raymond Thibond, 19, of Maplewood was fined $10 by Magistrate Max Sherman in Springfield Municipal Court Monday night for a stop sign violation.

He explained that a resignation on his staff at Hoekensius Printing and Wallpaper Co. where he is president, has suddenly increased his work load. "I am unable to devote the time necessary to the (library) position in the handling of administrative and personnel problems in addition to the time required in the study of future library requirements," Hetzel's letter read.

"As a result of my years of service on the Library Board, I am convinced that no other civic task can be regarded as worthier than mine," Hetzel said. "May I wish the Board and staff good luck in future library expansion. I am sorry I will not be able to participate with them in achieving this goal, but I know that it will be reached."

Homeowner Unit To Meet Monday

An "emergency mass-meeting" of the newly organized Springfield Homeowner's Association will be held Monday at 8 p.m. at Temple Beth Ahm, 60 Baltusrol way, according to Milton Marcus, temporary chairman.

"Fear over weak zoning laws in Springfield caused the formation of the Homeowner's Association," he said. "Protection of the rights of homeowners and the retention of the residential character of the community are the major aims of the organization."

"This is a shock to me," said Mrs. Winifred Yuckman, Board member. "We are losing two valuable people in the school."
