Land available in Springfield for construction of new homes has, virtually disappeared, except for tracts in the Ballast Top area, and even up on the mountain the supply is not inexhaustible.

Below the Top, says Building Inspector Otto Fessler, "I could count on my fingers the number of individual lots suitable for homes."

Wilbert J. Layng, secretary to the Board of Assessors, says there are still several small

Mobile Classrooms Seen As No Answer

The use of mobile classrooms to alleviate overcrowding at the Florence Gaudineer School in the fall of 1965, before the new addition there is completed, appeared unlikely this week following a report by John O. Bezwick Jr., superintendent of schools, to the Board of Education Tuesday evening.

Bezwick reported on the use of mobile units, trailers placed on various types of foundations, in Montclair, East Orange, Teaneck, Tenafly and Cheshire. Discussion ended when he

51 Rooms Slated With Parking Set For 52 Vehicles Will Adjoin Eatery; Features To Include Town's 1st Elevator

A new landmark for the Springfield business district came substantially closer to reality Tuesday night when the Board of Adjustment recommended to the local Planning Board that a special exception be granted to Sip and Sup Realty Corp. for a motel at 174 Morris ave., adjoining the present Sip and Sup Restaurant at the corner of Morris and Springfield aves.

The board also approved an application for a side yard variance requested by Ralph A. Mercluet of 158 S. Maple ave. to add a back porch to his house. The application by Celliani Corp. for an apartment house variance was reported favorably back to the Township Committee, with several changes. The motel permit was sought by former Justice Henry McMullen, representing John A. Bullock, president of Sip and Sup. The projected building would be a four-story structure, with 51-rooms for guests, a small meeting hall and parking at ground level and in the basement.

First Elevator

When it finally opens, the motel will feature what many observers believe will be the first elevator in the township. The elevator will run from below-ground parking garage to the fourth floor.

When the thought was suggested, informed sources at Town Hall could not recall the existence of any other elevator in the entire township.

Aug. 6 Set For Bids On Morris Ave. Job

TRENTON The New Jersey State Highway Department last week announced bids will be received Aug. 6 for improvement of a portion of Rt. 21 in Union and Essex Counties.

Rt. 21 runs along Morris Ave. in Springfield and passes through a heavily traveled residential and commercial area. Trolley tracks presently occupy the center of the roadway. One lane of traffic is carried in each direction, eastbound and westbound, on reinforced concrete pavement.

The project is expected to be completed by Nov. 20, so that there will be no interference or delay to traffic in this commercial area during the holiday shopping season at the end of the year.

The roadway will be widened and resurfaced over a distance of 1.1 miles from the vicinity of Farley pl. Millburn eastward to Springfield ave. in Springfield.

Five feet will be added to the width of the roadway along each side, extending the total width from the present 40 feet to a total of 50 feet. White concrete vertical curbing will border the widened roadway.

The entire surface between curbs will be paved with a three-inch thickness of bituminous concrete. Two lanes of traffic will be carried in each direction.

The existing masonry arch culvert at Van Winkle Brook will be removed and a new concrete culvert will be built at the same location, near Center st. in Springfield.

Costs of the project will be paid entirely by the State Highway Department. All bids will be reviewed before a contract is awarded.

Masterwork Unit Spends 3 Weeks On Single 'Missa'

David Randolph, music director of the Masterwork Foundation, announced that for the next three weeks the musical subject of the Masterwork summer series will be Beethoven's "Missa Solemnis." These summer series are held at 8 p.m. every Wednesday through Sept. 2 in the downstairs choir room of St. Peter's Episcopal Church on South st. in Morristown.

The sings are conducted by Randolph, and are musical in several ways. Instead of reading through a different work every week, as is customary, Randolph is spending two or even three weeks exploring one work, in order to give the participants a chance to become really acquainted with the music. Randolph, who is a well-known lecturer and musicologist as well as an eminent conductor, also offers a certain amount of informal analysis of the music in the course of the reading.

These Masterwork summer series are open to anyone without audition or further obligation. There is a nominal charge, and a person may attend one or all of the sessions. Music is furnished. Further information if desired may be obtained through the office of the Masterwork Foundation in Morristown by calling Jefferson 8-1800.

Motel
 crossed tables to Springfield. Ait To Residents
 He added that many travelling businessmen bring their wives, who often spend time shopping in nearby stores. Billock also said that the in-town motel would be an aid to residents who often must find rooms for large numbers of friends and relatives attending weddings, funerals and other functions.

Peter Duke of Summit, architect for the motel, said that the four stories would have a total height of 30 feet. Most of the ground level would be open space for parking, with a small entrance building.

He added that guests could also check in in the basement parking garage and take the elevator directly to their rooms. With 51 rooms, there would be space for 27 beds at street level and 24 more in the basement.

Residents of the area were invited to attend a meeting for employees and service personnel to park in the adjoining Sip and Sun restaurant parking lot.

The architect stated the motel would be of modern design, with back facing to residential that of the present restaurant, and that it would "set a trend for the future development of the central area of Springfield."

Avery Simoff, East Orange traffic and parking consultant, testified in favor of all aspects of the proposed motel. He stressed that it would have "less impact" on traffic conditions than most other permitted commercial uses.

Alton W. Van Horn, a real estate appraiser, said that the motel was in line with a trend from past residential to present and future commercial use of the neighborhood. The motel, he declared, would not have an adverse effect on the character of the neighborhood, but would rather have a favorable effect.

McMillan also introduced testimony and letters in favor of the motel from several individuals and from the Springfield Chamber of Commerce.

Democrat Stresses Civic Center Value

A statement praising the men who prepared the preliminary plan for a Springfield civic and recreation center, which was presented to the Township Committee last week, has been issued by Jay Bloom, Democratic candidate for the Township Committee.

He particularly stresses the "pressing need for a full, well-coordinated recreational and cultural program" for the township.

Bloom added, however, that he thought it was "premature to discuss the merits of the one plan proposed, particularly since it is, as indicated, very tentative in its conception and subject to substantial change in every aspect."

The text of his statement follows:

"The members of the Citizens Committee, who were appointed last week to investigate the feasibility of a Civic Center in Springfield deserve praise and commendation both individually and collectively for the interest and activity they have demonstrated in the welfare of the inhabitants of our town, in not only in this instance but on many prior occasions.

"They deserve our gratitude for past accomplishments and for focusing attention on a very substantial need in Springfield, the pressing need for a full, well-coordinated recreational and cultural program.

"Provide Impetus

"They have presented the germ of a plan which they believe will provide impetus to substantial expansion and development of the town's recreational program. This suggestion should be accepted by the leadership of the town, who bear of course, direct responsibility for our recreational program as one of many possibilities along with all of the suggestions that may actually be made by other civic minded individuals.

"I think it premature to discuss the merits of the one plan proposed, particularly since it is, as indicated, very tentative in its conception and subject to substantial change in every aspect, including the method and nature of its financing, the construction of the building, the facilities the building shall contain, and even its location.

"It is particularly futile to appropriate this plan when we have not as yet heard any other proposals which may be forthcoming from residents of the town other than the five public spirited men who have set forth the

Local Sociologist Joins Prudential In Research Post

Dr. Theodore R. Wilson, of 95D Troy, dr., Springfield, has joined the Prudential Insurance Company's planning and research division as a senior research analyst.

Dr. Wilson had been a program associate in the cooperative research branch of the U. S. Office of Education in Washington, D.C. Earlier, he was assistant professor of sociology at Colgate College. In 1954, he studied at the University of Paris under a Fulbright fellowship and, in 1952, he was a post-doctorate fellow at George Washington University's Center for Behavioral Sciences.

He is a member of the American Historical Association, the American Sociological Association, the American Academy of Political and Social Sciences, and the English-Speaking Union. Dr. Wilson is married to the former Bjorg Opdahl of Baltimore, Md.

Grabarz

(Continued from Page 1) since half of them did not vote. As a result, the Township Committee members now feel so strong that they can not only run rough-shod over the citizens of the town, they can also ignore, if they choose, their own county committee members.

"At the same time, Wright indicates his dissatisfaction with the regular Republican candidates," the Grabarz statement continues. "He suggests that my own acceptance of the Democratic invitation to run as a candidate, even though I have long been known in Springfield as a Republican, will be viewed as an improper action and will not be voted on. To this, I can only say, 'non-sense.'

"The issue is not which party will dominate, but which men believe that the office of Township Committeeman carries with it the obligation to be responsive to the needs and wishes of the people of the town—which men should be truly for the people, believe that the government as well as of and by the people.

"I am convinced that Doug Mattee and Jay Bloom hold these convictions just as do, and I, therefore, feel no conflict in having accepted their invitation to run with them for Township Committee.

"Wright forgets that Springfield citizens are not precinct workers who pull levers as dictated by the party. They are formed and independent thinkers who examine issues and candidates and vote for what is best for the community—not what is best for some political group.

"We wish Wright 'Good Luck' but must remind him that we are running for office as citizens of Springfield. He states that his main concern regarding running is that it be in the interests of building the party of my choice. We think the interests of the people are more important than those of the party, every time."

KITCHEN WORKER AT STEAK HOUSE FACING CHARGES

A kitchen man at the Springfield Steak House on Rt. 22 in Springfield was arrested Saturday night after an alleged fight and faces charges of disorderly conduct and possession of marijuana.

Arrested Monday night before Magistrate Max Sherman, the defendant, Luis Rodriguez Garcia, 28 of Newark, was held in $500 bail on the disorderly conduct charge and $2,000 bail on the narcotics charge.

Police arrested the Newark man on complaint of the management of the restaurant. Afterwards they allegedly discovered the marijuana. Detective Thomas Kennedy filed the complaint.

Gargalowitz Fund Response: 'Unbelievable, Heartwarming'

"The number of people who have offered help is unbelievable and heartwarming."

This statement was made by Frank Kenny, of Union, chairman of the Theresa Gargalowitz fund which is nearing the $900 mark this week.

The fund drive to aid the parents of the Union college girl who has been in a coma for more than three months since her car skidded on Morris ave. in Springfield, is being bolstered by checks coming from East Orange, Newark, and other areas, as well as from Union and Springfield.

According to the girl's mother, Mrs. Alexander P. Gargalowitz, of 2530 Hawthorne ave., Union, "there hasn't been too much improvement. It will be a long, long time."

Kenny said that Phillip Portnoy, secretary-treasurer of the fund, has been in contact with State Senator Nelson Siamler, in an effort to transfer Theresa to the John E. Runnels Hospital for the Chronically Ill in Berkeley Heights, "to alleviate the financial burden on her parents."

Hospital care for the Fairleigh Dickinson University coed is costing some $70 a day.

"While there is great hope for her eventual recovery," Kenny said, "her doctors have been unable to forecast any specific time when this may happen. Complete nursing care may be necessary for a number of years," Kenny said.

Several fund raising efforts have been started in Union. The VFW Teener League is attempting to arrange a baseball game against the Babe Ruth League, with all receipts to go toward the fund, according to Kenny.

Several girls in the Larchmont area of Union, Kenny said, are working every afternoon, making and selling handmade pot holders. The girls, ranking in age from eight to 12 include: Cindy Rubin, Leslie Miller, Judi and Terry Goodman, Robin Falk, Wendy Dixon, and Janet and Debbie Berlin.

They are working in the driveway of the home of Mrs. Irwin Berlin, of 2765 Larchmont rd., with a sign pointing out that all proceeds go to the Theresa Gargalowitz Fund.

CPA Elected

Richard G. Kammerer of Springfield, has been elected a member of the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants. Kammerer is associated with the New York office of the accounting firm of Price Waterhouse and Co.

Also, according to Kenny, 10-year-old Gary Kerzner who lives on Kensington ter., is selling soda to aid the fund.

"All the individual activities and offers of help give us great hope that there will be a continuing effort to help the family of Theresa Gargalowitz until the day she is recovered," Portnoy said.

Contributions can be mailed to Post Office Box 4, Union, N.J. Miss Gargalowitz was critically injured when her small foreign car skidded on the Morris ave. trolley tracks and crashed.

Wet Faces Symbolize 1st Triumph For Small Fry In Swimming School

By REA SMITH. Two hundred fifty assorted children aged seven to 11 paddled gingerly on bare feet to the center pool at Springfield Municipal Pool last Wednesday at noon.

"Will every one please sit down" echoed the voice of Stein, and the small fry plopped down cross-legged, wide-eyed with anticipation.

Groups of children raised themselves and waited to the side of the pool where their instructor waited them.

one, tugging, pinching, pulling, and following. The little ones were instructed to the water, which came up to their waists.

They began to judge each other, boasting of their accomplishments — so far Stein puffed on a shell whistle, which hung loosely around his neck.

The little ones were delighted. They began to judge each other, boasting of their accomplishments — so far Stein puffed on a shell whistle, which hung loosely around his neck.

Steen took those who learned quickly and were ready for advanced lessons, and the other two groups were directed to the other side of the pool for review instructions.

When he was tested to lower himself in the water to find a multi-colored glass ball, he got his chin down, reached below and picked up the ball.

204 N.J. Firms Gave $272,490 To College Fund Association

The 1962-63 annual campaign of the New Jersey College Fund Association realized $272,490.86 from 204 corporations doing business in New Jersey during the past fiscal year which closed June 30, Garrett J. Connolly, Executive Director of the Association, announced this week.

This represents a gain of $6,533.90 over last year, when $265,956.96 was contributed by 210 New Jersey corporations.

"Our twelve independent non-tax-supported colleges and universities in the association are greatly encouraged by this continuing financial support from New Jersey business and industry," said Connolly.

"All gifts made through the fund are distributed each year in full to the member colleges and universities and are an important factor in helping New Jersey's private colleges continue to provide opportunity for a higher education to more qualified young men and women and to improve the quality of higher education provided at the member colleges and universities."

The association was organized in 1953 and conducted its first annual campaign in 1954. It is one of 40 state and regional associations representing

Dear Amy:
When my husband and I are invited to a friend's home for dinner, we usually bring a box of candy as an expression of thanks. Should I follow the same procedure when friends invite us to their house for a cookout?

Dear Bev:
A cookout is very informal. Instead of a box of candy, ask your friend if you can add to the "bill of fare" by bringing a homemade specialty. This would be enjoyed by all and is a tastier way of saying, "Thank you."

Dear Amy:
My husband's mother, very firmly and repeatedly, makes sly innuendos regarding some of our intentions or situations (some of which are quite personal and she has no business knowing these facts to begin with). These comments have a definite influence upon my husband (who is easily swayed) and has a direct unfavorable influence upon our already swaying marriage. I have approached my hubby on this matter, but he denies that such a problem even exists and claims, "If anything is said, it's your own fault because you're nothing but big-mouthed trouble-maker!" Be assured, Amy, I am not overly sensitive and so am not just imagining that these sly innuendoes are my own conclusion. Inasmuch as my husband denies this fact exists, I must ask help from some sound source so possibly some salvation can come of this discord.

Dear Mrs. R.:
Arguing with your husband about what his mother says will do you no good. Hereafter (if you are responsible for her remarks), keep your personal affairs under your hat. Set your marriage straight by getting to the actual cause of the "snags" and leave Mama out of it!

Dear Perplexed:
A baby shower is given by friends rather than relatives. Showers should be limited to the first baby in the family. In my opinion, it's an outright imposition upon others for a mother to expect a shower for each subsequent child.

Anyone who wants to send a baby gift doesn't need an invitation to do so!

Dear Amy:
An argument has arisen which I hope you can clarify. Is it proper for the immediate family to give a shower for an expectant mother?

Also, is it ethical to give a shower for a mother who is expecting her fifth child?

Perplexed

WATER SAFETY
Summer is the time for swimming, and it's lots of fun for youngsters and adults, too. Cooling, refreshing and delightful, is a dip in cool water on a warm day. However, the importance of learning to swim cannot be overemphasized. Youngsters love water. Any parent knows this from watching the young child dawdle and play with the soapuds when he should have been ready for lunch 15 minutes before. It's foolish for parents to tell their youngster not to go near the water in the summertime. He's bound to go swimming no matter what he's told. There is a certain danger to water, as there are many other dangers in everyday living. The best way to cope with this danger is to make sure youngsters learn to swim at an early age. Perhaps parents can teach their children this skill, or there are swimming classes the youngster could join. However it is managed, the important thing is that the child learns to swim. Backyard pools are springing up rapidly in the suburbs. Sometimes there are inadequate safety precautions—no adults around, no life-guards or anyone else to assist someone in trouble. There are many pre-

Tips for TODAY'S HOMEMAKER
From MARY ARMSTRONG, County Home Agent

- PUNCHES FOR PARTIES
The right punch can help make the party, whatever the occasion. In warm weather the drink of choice is a punch. It is sure to add to the pleasure of guests or family. And almost endless variety is possible. The right choice depends almost as much on the kind of party as on the taste preference of the hostess. The response for the party need not necessarily determine the choice. There could be either informal punch parties or a formal reception to honor graduates. There could be a very large garden party for an anniversary reception, or there could be a small select but elegant gathering with the same reason. And there could be an occasion when neither cost nor preparation were an object, although modern convenience and economy are important factors. The following five suggestions each will meet a definite need. Most of them have several qualities to commend them. At this season of the year, a gala appearance for the punch bowl is particularly desirable. The Frozen Fruit Ring is suggested particularly for the Gala Punch recipe below, but may be used also with others.
- FROZEN FRUIT RING
Strawberries (sliced, if desired)
Pineapple cubes
Orange sections
Mint leaves
Water
Arrange fruit and mint in a 1 1/2 quart ring mold or in three small ring molds. Carefully add water and chill until entirely frozen. Unmold and garnish with fresh fruit.
- PUNCH FOR THE CROWD
3 cups sugar
3 cups water
2 dozen lemons
1 dozen oranges
4 cups pineapple juice
1/2 teaspoon salt
2 qts. fruit juice, grape, cherry, strawberry, raspberry, etc.
5 cups water
1 quart gingerale or carbonated beverage
Boil the sugar and water together, then add the lemons and oranges, squeeze out the juices, then cover the fruit skins with water. Let stand in water an hour and drain well. Add this water to the fruit juices, syrup, pineapple juice, and salt. Just before serving, add chopped ice and gingerale or carbonated water. Serves 50.
- BON VOYAGE PUNCH
1 qt. pineapple juice, chilled
- GALA PUNCH
3 cans lemon-strawberry frozen concentrate
1 can frozen orange concentrate
1 can frozen pineapple concentrate
1 quart gingerale
2 quarts water
1 quart crushed ice or Frozen Fruit Ring
Combine concentrates and water, just before serving, add chopped ice and gingerale, or float Frozen Fruit Ring on top. 50 servings.
- CHILDREN'S PUNCH
2 bottles (1/2 liter) cranberry juice cocktail
1 can (6 oz.) frozen orange juice concentrate
1 can (6 oz.) frozen lemonade concentrate
1 can (6 oz.) pineapple juice
Mix juices, and pour over block of ice in a punch bowl. At serving time, add enough ginger ale to suit your taste. To make punch a little more festive, add marshmallow cherries and chunks of canned pineapple. Serve with lead alphabet cookies and cupcakes. Makes 15 to 20 servings.
- CALYPSO PUNCH
3 cinnamon sticks
1/2 cup sugar
2 cups water
2 cups pineapple juice
1 cup orange juice
1/4 cup lemon juice
4 7-ounce bottles lemon-lime carbonated beverage
Simmer cinnamon sticks and sugar in water for 10 minutes. Cool and discard cinnamon sticks. Combine fruit juices with the cinnamon syrup in a large punch bowl. Slowly pour in the lemon-lime carbonated beverage. Garnish the bowl with lemon and orange slices, if you like. Yield 18 4-ounce punch cups.

Extension Conducts Neighbor-To-Neighbor Program Throughout County

By RITA ZEISS
The Union County Home Economics Extension Service is a rather long and formal title for an organization that operates, as this one does, in a woman-to-woman, neighbor-to-neighbor fashion. Staffed by three professionals, headed by Mrs. Mary W. Armstrong, County Home Agent, the Service, assisted by its 42-member council and its 128 volunteer leaders, bring to women throughout the county a full range program of interest to the homemaker and the family.

A job methods training course, cooking and nutrition classes, lectures on "buyman-ship," sewing lessons, human relations discussions which center around family problems, classes on furniture refinishing—all these and many other sessions are included in the program which is offered at no charge to all county residents.

In describing the work of the Extension Service, which is financed by county, state and federal funds as an off-campus educational activity of Rutgers, the State University, Mrs. Armstrong points out that the Service aims at providing a "cradle to the grave" program designed to help county residents find a fuller life, a more complete understanding of their own problems and a deeper awareness of the "richness of life."

Her description of the program gets enthusiastic endorsement from the Council members who represent their communities on the lay advisory board.

Mrs. Michael Permon of 1735 Stuyvesant ave., Union, currently serving on the human relations committee, has lavish praise for all the program and in particular for the work of her committee which brings reassurance to young parents, worried about their offspring, aids parental understanding of the child of school age level, provides guide lines for direction on the adolescent workshops on "total family" life and guidance and encouragement for the mature individual.

Mrs. Permon, like Mrs. Frank Pitt of Forest dr., Union, and Mrs. William G. Stanke of 1600 Fox-trail, Mountainside, Mrs. Robert Coulter of 460 East Clay ave., Roselle Park, and Mrs. Michael Tallas of 1147 Busnell st., Union, all became interested in the Extension Council through their work with the local PTA's.

Mrs. Stanke, who taught for 15 years in Connecticut Farms School, Union, has been on the Council for two years and served on the foods committee this past year. She was introduced to the Council's work over 25 years ago by Mrs. Frank Coulter, formerly of Union and Roselle Park, and finds the program "fascinating." She joined a tour last fall of houses where kitchens had been remodeled in accordance with work simplification tips supplied by Mrs. Armstrong.

She is equally enthusiastic about the sewing classes, conducted by Mrs. Carolyn Yukaus, Associate-Home Agent. The sewing course is, she says, better than any commercial course offered and she should know. She went the full course from beginners to the course on making slipcovers and draperies.

Mrs. Bernard J. Doneski of 418 Park pl., Roselle Park, who was introduced to Extension through her work with the CIO Club, is also delighted with the sewing classes. She has made most of her own clothes for many years but when her granddaughters were born she suddenly realized that she did not know how to sew for little girls. The Extension's courses on sewing for children gave her that "know-how."

Mrs. Doneski, who is currently serving as Council treasurer, finds that the county program helps her keep abreast of advancements in home making and thinks it a "shame that more residents don't take advantage of the excellent services offered."

The "broad scope" of the program is what impresses Mrs. Coulter, a member-at-large on the Council. The wide range of interests, the exposure to new ideas are, in addition to the approaches, "most beneficial," she feels. She cites in particular an Extension-sponsored tour of the Lincoln Center in New York City last spring, the planned week's trip to Washington, D.C., next fall when Extension members and other interested county residents will spend a week in the nation's capital at rates to suit the most budget-minded.

"Little did I know," says Mrs. Michael Tallas, now Council secretary, "when I became active in the Extension program 15 years ago that it would help me in so many areas. Why I've had an education from it."

Enthusiastic Mrs. Tallas feels that she is a good example of the many ways the Extension program can enrich the life of an individual. She originally took leader training courses to help her in her PTA work. Always interested in cooking, she later enrolled in those classes, and became so proficient that several years ago she was invited to conduct "party sandwich-making" classes in the Union Adult School.

The leader training course and the teen-age cooking classes she later taught for Extension, she insists, gave her the aplomb to stand confidently before her adult students and conduct the classes with ease and efficiency. She later conducted gourmet cooking classes in the Millburn and Cranford Adult Schools.

"There was so much I absorbed without even realizing it," she says, "so very very much that I learned and am still learning."

Members of the Extension Council—serve—a two-way mission. They try through clubs, service-and-church groups and informal meetings, to spread the knowledge they have gained in the program but, even more important, they serve as the "ears" of the Service, bringing back to the professionals at the county office the needs of the communities which they serve.

At conferences held three times each year at the Extension Office at 7 Bridge st., Elizabeth, they bring to Mrs. Armstrong, Mrs. Yukaus and Miss Anne L. Sheelen, Assistant Home Agent, the opinions expressed by their friends, their neighbors, their fellow club members. Sifting this information, they help plan a yearly program geared to the interests and the needs of their communities.

The 128 volunteer leaders carry the program directly into the community, reaching in one way or another, Mrs. Armstrong estimates, at least one in every 10 of the families in the county. They relay their sewing knowledge to small groups of neighbors and friends, they give demonstrations on furniture refinishing, lead discussions on some phase of the human relations program. They publicize by word of mouth the workings of the Extension Service, they urge their neighbors to attend the instruction sessions which are usually held at the Home Economics Auditorium in Elizabeth.

The volunteers are trained by one of the home agents, all of whom are faculty members of Rutgers University, in order to prepare them to conduct local meetings. Although most of the meetings are held in the daytime, occasionally meetings are scheduled in the evening to accommodate working women or mothers of young children who cannot get away during the day.

"Spotlight on the Family," a talk to newcomers, will open the extension's program next fall. One meeting on this topic is scheduled September 9 in Cranford; duplicate sessions will be set up in other communities if requested.

The spotlight will continue to focus on the family at sessions scheduled in the fall on a variety of subjects including "Meeting Individual Needs" (within the family), "Meeting Family Crises," "Parental Understanding—Five Year Olds At School," "Framework of Authority—Whose Responsibility?", "Food for the School Age Child," "Pressures on Youth," and "Decision Making in the Family." Many of the family life programs will be conducted in cooperation with the PTA's in the communities.

Volunteer leaders will exhibit their handwork at an exhibit scheduled Sept. 14. Food will get attention at a "What's For Dinner?" session scheduled Sept. 15 in Plainfield and a series of "Let's Go Food Shopping" workshops in September and October.

A leaders training course in furniture refinishing will start Sept. 17 in the South Side Fire House in Scotch Plains. A series of leaders training sessions in sewing will also open in September and a work simplification program for local leaders will also be conducted in the fall.

Mrs. Armstrong points out that although the leaders training courses are principally aimed at instructing the volunteer leaders so they can extend their knowledge into the community many of those programs are also open to county residents who are interested in gaining the information without assuming the responsibility of sharing the information with others.

Anyone interested in becoming a volunteer leader or in attending any of the fall sessions is invited to contact the County Extension Office or one of the community representatives.

Others serving on the Council from this area are Mrs. Lewis Hunter of 222 Sheridan ave., Roselle, Mrs. C. W. Gutkunst of 29 Brassier lane, Kentworth, Mrs. James R. Power of 145 E. Lincoln ave., Roselle Park, and Mrs. Joseph P. Browlie of 98 Kew dr., Springfield.

The value of the five-pronged Extension program—work simplification, sewing and clothing construction, cooking, and food marketing, furniture refinishing, and human relations—cannot be overestimated, the Council president, Mrs. Sigmund Kell of 608 N. Wood ave., Linden, claims. However Mrs. Kell, who before her marriage was a social worker in her hometown in New England, admits a special interest in the human relations program which, she feels, not only helps parents to understand their children but "extends their own horizons, helps develop their own talents and releases their untapped potential."

Mrs. Kell emphasizes the fact that the practical aspects of the Extension's other programs are extremely valuable to the community. That the neighborhood sessions in cooking, sewing, marketing, etc., conducted by Extension-trained leaders bring "untold benefits" to residents.

But the intangible benefits of the human relations sessions, she feels, are even greater. The "increased insight" adults gain from these sessions, the former social worker claims, aids them in understanding their own family problems—and as a result bring "strength and security" to the entire family.

Addict Rehabilitation Program Proving Encouraging: Rinaldo

First reports on the initial three months of the narcotics addict rehabilitation program conducted in the Union County jail have been "encouraging," according to Union Township Freeholder Matthew J. Rinaldo, who spearheaded the adoption of such a program.

In his recent report, the freeholder said that Dr. Alfonso Me-

The Union County Parklands Rediscovered

avenues, in Rahway, is a reclaimed area of 30 acres donated to the Union County Park Commission in 1936 by the City of Rahway after many local residents had donated land for the development of a public park. AMATEUR GROUP NOT AMATEUR

They Build UJC Observatory Telescopes

Amateur Astronomers, Inc., who will build the two major instruments for the William Miller Sperry Memorial Observatory on the Union Junior College campus in Cranford, are not really amateurs. The organization, which was founded in 1949 and now has about 115 members, is comprised of many persons new to the field of astronomy like housewives, college students, milkmen, teachers, chemists, clerks, writers, bankers and accountants. The membership also includes three lecturers from the Hayden Planetarium in New York City, 17 engineers, five machinists, and several toolmakers. Club members have built and own more than 40 telescopes.

Many of the engineers and technicians will play a major role in designing, constructing and installing the 24-inch Newtonian-Cassegrain reflecting telescope and accessories and the 10-inch, 150-inch focal length refractor telescope and accessories. They estimate the two telescopes will take three to five years to build, a college spokesman said.

Roselle Park can claim credit as the birthplace of Amateur Astronomers. The organization came into existence on March 24, 1949, when three Mayor Bernard H. Dreifuss and Richard H. Lummis gathered together a small group of people interested in astronomy.

The group took the name "The Amateur Astronomical Society of Union County" and Lummis of Roselle Park was elected president. The other officers were Mark H. C.

Spiers of Spring Lake Heights, formerly of Cranford, vice president, Mrs. Rosalie H. Bochaw of Union, secretary, and Edward Wilke of Plainfield, treasurer. The trustees were Carl Bochaw and Stanley W. Brower of Westfield.

During its early days, the group met at the Roselle Park Borough Hall, the Roselle Park Public Library, the Elizabeth YMCA, Linden Reformed Church, and the Union Municipal Building.

Shirley I. Gale of Plainfield and James S. Pickering of Millburn, members of the lecture staff of Hayden Planetarium, were members of the society from its inception, and Lewis C. Thomas of North Plainfield, also a staff lecturer at Hayden Planetarium joined the society at a later date.

Meetings were shifted to the Girl Scout House in Cranford and by 1954 the membership had grown to 51. It was here that courses were begun in elementary astronomy and in mirror grinding and telescope making.

But the Girl Scout House proved to be too small, so the astronomers moved to the Plainfield YWCA in 1956 and to Jonathan Dayton Regional High School, Springfield, in 1957 where the group sponsored a lecture by Willy Ley on rockets and space travel, which attracted more than 800 persons.

During the same period, the group incorporated as a non-profit scientific and educational organization. Membership rose to 74. The new name, Amateur Astronomers, Inc., became effective Nov. 30, 1956.

It was back to Roselle Park in 1957—this time at the Aldene School. A major step was the formation of a club library and the purchase of appropriate books.

Later in 1957 the group moved its headquarters to Stillman School, Plainfield, and remained there until 1962 when the Union Junior College campus became what society and college officials hope will be a permanent home.

Through the years, the society has offered lectures on astronomy and related subjects such as spectroscopy, celestial navigation, time and calendars, weather, radio astronomy, optics, astrophotography, biological aspects of space exploration, telescope making, man-made satellites, earthquakes, international geophysical year and space communication.

Amateur Astronomers anticipates a period of increased membership and an expanded program with the opening later this year of the William Miller Sperry Memorial Observatory on the Union Junior College campus, which they will operate in conjunction with the college, the spokesman added.

Help Given To Persons Suffering Nerve Deafness

CHICAGO, Ill., July 23—Until today, little has been written about nerve deafness, the nation's No. 1 cause of hearing distress. Now, however, an exciting booklet about the condition is being offered to the public free.

Beltone Hearing Service at 8 So. Broad St., Elizabeth, has a supply of these booklets on hand and is making them available free of charge to anyone wishing a copy. Simply write to Beltone or telephone EL 3-3000.

The booklet explains the facts about nerve deafness—the painless, invisible condition that handicaps and isolates millions of persons of all ages.

How does nerve deafness interfere with hearing? What symptoms first warn you of this condition? Will surgery help, will a hearing aid help? Will anything help?

The booklet offered now to the public free of charge by Beltone Hearing Service explains why persons may hear and yet don't understand. Can this condition be corrected? Is there any help available for nerve deafness?

"The Inside Story of Nerve Deafness," Beltone's remarkable free booklet, tells you what you can do to combat nerve deafness.

If you are in the neighborhood of 8 So. Broad St., Elizabeth, come in for your free copy. Or write to Beltone Hearing Service, Phone EL 3-7668.

diros, the psychiatrist retained to head the program, had been working with 20 jailed addicts. Each has had an individual counseling session, and eight of them have been taking part in weekly group meetings. Another six began group therapy sessions last week, Rinaldo said.

Rinaldo pointed out that "the work done in the jail is only the first step on the road to complete rehabilitation. The critical period is yet to come in the lives of these narcotics addicts."

The freeholder added that some of the patients in the pilot program are scheduled for release in the near future.

At that time, Rinaldo said, it will be necessary to retain a case worker to carry out phase two of the rehabilitation program. He added:

"Getting the addicts to stop taking narcotics presents a little problem, since incarceration cuts off their source of supply. The counseling sessions with Dr. Medeloro help show them the way.

"The crucial time of decision for the addicts will come when they are returned to the environment that spawned their habit. It will be the case worker's responsibility to see that they gain acceptance by society and remain free of the habit," he said.

Rinaldo said the cooperation of Sheriff Ralph Grisicello, and his staff has helped immeasurably in making phase one of the rehabilitation program a success.

In response to Rinaldo's suggestion last winter, the Board of Freeholders appropriated $9,000 for a pilot program. The money is being used to pay the salary of Dr. Medeloro and the case worker, who is expected to be hired in the near future, according to Rinaldo.

Customer-Retailer Relations Is A Two-Way Street

By CAROLYN F. YUKNUS
 Associate Editor
 What is your attitude as a customer? Are you convinced that the "customer is always right" regardless of the situation? Can you readily accept the fact that you could be at fault, too, in certain customer-retailer situations?

Certainly, there are plenty of both good and poor customers as well as good and poor retailers. When it comes to settling claims for inferior services, or lost and damaged goods, many department and specialty stores feel that the customer today are unreasonable in their demands for new merchandise to replace used merchandise. While many customers feel that most retailers are trying to "rip" them when it comes to the adjustment of a complaint on goods or services.

For example, some stores will refund the full price of a garment even after it has been worn if poor performance is claimed. Perhaps this poor performance is due to not following the directions for care of the garment on the part of the customer.

 AIR SERVICES

Alice Springs, a small, isolated town in the middle of the "outback" in the middle of nowhere, is unique among small, isolated towns. It is the headquarters of the famous Flying Doctor Service and the home of the flourishing School of the Air. No other small, isolated town can say the same. As study in the "big city" of hope and happiness to thousands of people who are strewn through the vast and lonely outback.

The outback consists of almost all of inland Australia, and Australia is the same place as the U. S. It is a vast, flat, big city and green hills and productive farmland only on the coast and borders of the U. S. with a great, dry center stretching almost from coast to coast and from north to south, you have a fairly good idea of how Australia is built. This great, flat, dry center is not only a desolate, and so large that there are generally no telephones, no electricity, no schools, no hospitals, no close neighbors. If you are in it, you are alone.

To offer help to these isolated people, the Flying Doctor Service, a ministry of the Australian Government, was established in 1927. Today it is called the Royal Flying Doctor Service of Australia and has 12 bases linked by radio to more than 1,600 outposts. It is administered by the Australian Inland Mission and financed by federal and state government grants.

In this service, doctors fly out from bases situated in various sections of the outback to help miners or sheep herders or any others who have suffered illness or accident, and are far from a hospital. The doctors are called by means of two-way radios. At first these radios were pedal wireless sets which had to be pedaled like a bicycle to generate enough current to send messages. In some areas they are used even now, but in most cases, the battery-powered radios have taken over.

When the doctor is called, the illness is described, and sometimes the doctor will dictate treatment over the radio. Other times he will fly out to the home to examine and treat the patient first hand. Still other times, the patient will be put aboard the plane and flown to the nearest hospital. At any rate, help is there when it is needed.

At Alice Springs a church has been built in memory of Fred Flynn and the dedication tablet concludes with these words: "He spread a Mantle of Safety over Inland Australia." Which is just what he did. Many lives have been saved and much pain alleviated by the doctor who has flown in, the radio, and, inadvertently, a marvelous side-effect was achieved too.

In order to call the Flying Doctor, the people in this region had to get radio sets and now, besides calling the doctor, news and gossip are exchanged by means of their radio sets. Social life is enriched and loneliness diminished, but even more than this, it is the means of bringing school lessons to the many children in this area who are too far out to get to school. Many a young neighbor is 600 or 800 or maybe "only" 100 miles away, it isn't so easy to have a neighbor.

"SCHOOL OF THE AIR" at Alice Springs is the first of six schools to operate anywhere in world and owes its existence to a former inspector of schools in the South Australian Education Department. Miss Adelaide Melville, visited Alice Springs in 1949 and journeyed to several stations (manches) in central Australia where she saw the radio sets of the Flying Doctor Service in the homes. She felt these could be used to help the children of the outback by bringing them education over the air. Why not use the sets to teach school to children who couldn't get to a school?

She took her idea to the head teacher of the Alice Springs School and together with the cooperation of the director of the Flying Doctor base at Alice Springs, the scheme was launched.

In September, 1950 the teachers of the Alice Springs School volunteered their services and a broadcast team of teachers was formed and three lessons were given over the air each week to see if the idea would work in practice. It was successful beyond expectations, and in June of 1951 the "School of the Air" was officially opened and the lessons were increased to five a week. By 1953 they had reached 13 and at the present time there are about 31 given a week. There are also several other schools of the air, a radio school and a correspondence school scattered throughout the area of the Education Department of South Australia.

The Alice Springs School of the Air operates from a studio in the town's high school, with Mrs. Nance L. Barrett, currently in charge. The first lesson starts at 9:45 a.m. and the last at 3:35 p.m. Monday through Friday. There are about eight lessons a day covering grades one to seven and they include such subjects as reading, phonics, spelling, number work, arithmetic, story, drama, social studies, language, history, geography, singing and bible study.

MRS. BARRETT has been connected with the school since 1950 and has been in charge since 1958. She has been released from other teaching duties in order to teach the School of the Air, and you can see why. Besides broadcasting the lessons each day there are also such extra-curricular activities as the Welfare Club, a mother's organization, the Annual Picnic, a party and sports day held during the Get-Together each year, and a Break-Up party each December which marks the opening of summer vacation time. There are also long hard trips into the outback to personally visit some of the children of the school.

Mrs. Barrett started this idea in 1950 when she took her own car and went into the outback west of Alice Springs, to see some students. Broadcasts were carried on from the homes visited and a half day was spent at each home discussing problems with the parents and checking the work being done.

The trip was such a success that such trips have become an integral part of the work of the school and a government Land Rover has been made available, so that even the roughest terrain can be covered. A relieving teacher has also been appointed so that lessons can be broadcast from the studio while Mrs. Barrett is away and more time can be spent with the individual children.

All in all, Mrs. Barrett has a very full time job. I would say, the Flying Doctor does too. For that matter, and both these services give central Australians a much better life than they ever had before. All in all!

Fearful NAACP Begins Mobilizing To Combat Goldwater At The Polls

The political action committee of the Union-Springfield-Summit NAACP is planning a major get-out-the-vote drive this fall in an effort to combat the candidacy of Arizona Sen. Barry Goldwater, GOP nominee for the presidency.

Preliminary plans were revealed this week by the Rev. Elmer Williams of Union, president of the Tri-City NAACP.

Calling Goldwater's nomination "a tragedy," Mr. Williams said that Goldwater would be an "unthinkable choice" even if the civil rights issue weren't involved.

He expressed fear "because there are so many people who are satisfied to just sit back, resting on the belief that Goldwater can't possibly win in November."

"There were those who thought he couldn't win in San Francisco, too. They did nothing, and the forces of right wing extremism took over their party."

The Union civil rights leader called Goldwater "the wrong man for this age, the GOP nominee."

He is operating on principles better suited to 1888.

Mr. Williams said that the Tri-City NAACP has issued a call for volunteers to help work on the get-out-the-vote drive this fall. "Our first objective will be to get as many people registered to vote as possible."

The registration drive will be concentrated in September, during the month preceding the deadline. Plans have not yet been formulated, he said, "but it is hoped to have some central point to answer phone queries about registration and voting and to set up transportation and baby-sitting for those who need it."

"The NAACP president said that his group will work with other groups also planning voter drives."

Mr. Williams invited prospective volunteers to phone him at MU 6-7314 or MU 7-3414 for more information.

Last Thursday the president of the statewide NAACP said that the group will oppose any Republican candidate in the state who does not disavow Sen. Barry Goldwater. Augustus B. Harrison, N. J. president of the NAACP, said:

"We have been given no choice but to take a negative approach toward anyone who runs with Goldwater. He accused Goldwater of 'surrounding himself with advisors who say that they can ignore the Negro vote.'"
